WASHINGTON.—Lessing J... Rosenwald, conservation director of WPB, urged women assembled here in "Salvage School" to put the scrap salvage program on a personal, rather than an impersonal basis.

"We've all heard about how many bullets can be made from a flatiron and how many tanks are in a baby carriage," Rosenwald said. "But from the viewpoint of my two sons who are in the armed services, I see the scrap salvage program as a very personal thing."

"One-half of the steel your sons and my sons need in every phase of warfare comes from scrap, and if there's anything I can do to help him get that steel, I am going to do it. Our boys need all the protection you can possibly give them, the latest and most complete equipment for offensive and defensive action."

THIS IS EQUAL TO ONE-THIRD OF THE PRESENT NATIONAL INCOME; LEGISLATION PENDING

WASHINGTON, Oct. 6.—Chairman George of Georgia of the finance committee told the senate today the American people would pay taxes totaling $36,537,000,000, or one-third of the national income, during the coming year under pending legislation.

George took the floor to explain the gigantic new revenue bill after a proposal by Secretary of the Treasury Morgenthau for $6,000,000,000 in new levies, over and above those in the pending measure, had aroused cloakroom demands for a sales tax.

Previously the finance committee had laid before the senate its formal report on the bill, in which it criticized house-approved rates on corporation profits and defended its action in reducing potential taxation on business as desirable in order to encourage efficient corporation management in war-time.

George's estimate on over-all taxation included $26,337,000,000 in federal levies and $10,200,000,000 in state and local imposts. He estimated national income at $110,000,000,000.

Since March 3, the house ways and means committee, the house itself and then the senate finance committee have been working on the tax legislation.

Opening debate on the latest version of the measure, Senator George attributed the length of time consumed in its preparation "to a sincere effort to prevent the drastic increases from causing severe inequities and unduly interfering with our economy."

"In framing our tax bill," he said in a prepared statement, "we had to exercise considerable care in not imposing such a severe rate on corporations as to disrupt the national economy of our country."

Estimating that $22,054,600,000 will be collected from corporate and individual income and excess profits taxes, he said $10,790,300,000 would come from corporations and $11,264,300,000 from individuals.

"In deciding that the total normal and surtax rate should not exceed 40 per cent, we gave careful consideration to the effect of such a rate upon our economy and also considered the effect of the rates levied by other countries," George said.

In some instances, at least, the tax rate is higher than that of Great Britain, the Senator's figures showed.

"If we look at the first bracket of individual income tax rates under this bill," he said, "we will find that the total normal and surtax rate amounts to 19 per cent. In addition, the 5 per cent victory tax raises this total to 24 per cent. If we add to this the 40 per cent imposed upon corporations, we will have a total rate of 64 per cent on individual incomes as compared with the British rate of 50 per cent. Moreover, in Great Britain, no state or local taxes are imposed."

DON'T BE FOOLED BY A FULL JUNK YARD!

Don't listen to people who say—"They can't need scrap very badly. Look at that junk yard, or the auto graveyards—they've got plenty of scrap. And remember the last time we had a drive the stuff sat around for weeks." Tell such people these true facts...

Of course the junk yards are full. They are "factories" that turn out finished scrap—sorted, broken up, and banded... ready for the mills of America. The scrap has to go through these yards, and it keeps going through fast. The auto graveyards too, are busy. They specialize in used car parts, but produce plenty of scrap as well. In June alone, these parts moved $50,000 worth—for they are required a junk within 90 days as many cars as they buy. As for Salvage Depots—communities all over the country are staging drives. All this scrap can't be taken away at once. The junkies can't handle it and the mills can't store it. But every pound is needed and will be used. We've got to pile it up ready for instant use at any time. The day when all junk yards are empty, when the auto graveyards are cleared out, when all the local scrap stockpiles are gone—that is the day instead. It's a day to avoid at all costs. So remember—steel is needed to fight the war, and millions of lives depend on it. This steel is made of 50% scrap—and the mills have not enough scrap to last even 90 days longer. Don't fail to do your part in this emergency. Get your scrap ready for the drive NOW on! Watch this paper for details of the big scrap drive and what you must do to help NEWSPAPERS' UNITED SCRAP METAL DRIVE This space contributed by name of paper.

CISCO GARDEN CLUB IN WEDDINGTON HOME

The Cisco Garden club convened in the first meeting of the fall season at 3 o'clock Monday afternoon in the home of Mrs. Theresa Weddington, 610 W. Sixth street. Mrs. Elizabeth McCracken, Mrs. C. H. Fee and Mrs. Eugene Lankford were co-hostesses for the occasion. The house was festive with attractive decorations of seasonal flowers. Mrs. McCracken assumed her duties as president, since the resignation of Mrs. Lee Clark, and presided over the business period, setting forth the aims and plans of the club for the coming year. The importance of victory gardens will be especially stressed by the club. Other worthy objectives are planned.

During the program following, Mrs. Philip Pettit discussed October gardening in a most interesting manner. Yancey McCrea and Patsy Lois McCrea were presented in several splendid numbers. The club enjoyed two readings, "The Honor Roll" by Edgar A. Guest, and "The Price of Old Glory" given by Mrs. Theresa Weddington. The latter was written by Mrs. Weddington and her former pupil, Bevington Reed. A round table discussion on fall planting followed.

The guests were then invited into the dining room for refreshments. The dining table, covered with a beautiful lace cloth, was centered with an antique loop-crystal stand, filled with fruit and bordered by a scarlet wreath. On each side of the centerpiece were "V's" (victory) formed of pint jars of tempting fruits and vegetables canned from the Weddington victory garden. Tall, lighted tapers in silver holders graced each table end and were also placed on the buffet. Tea was poured by Mrs. Elizabeth McCracken, and cookies and mints were passed by the hostesses.

Those present were Mrs. Paul Poe, Mrs. C. H. Fee, Mrs. Yancey McCrea, Mrs. Charles J. Kleiner, Mrs. Bill Childers, Mrs. Philip Pettit, Mrs. George D. Fee, Mrs. A. B. Byrd, Mrs. Elizabeth McCracken, Mrs. R. M. Pentecost, Mrs. Eugene Lankford, Mrs. A. J. Watson, Miss Alice Bacon, Mrs. A. E. Jamison, Mrs. P. R. Warwick, Mrs. Ray Judia, Mrs. John Sledge, Mrs. W. R. Winston, Mrs. R. F. Weddington, Mrs. T. H. Weddington, Patsy Lois and Yancey McCrea, Jr.

DEMONSTRATION CLUB MET WITH MRS. HALL

Word home demonstration club met Thursday in the home of Mrs. J. D. Hall, with Miss Willie Word presiding. Seasonal cut flowers adorned the living room and the dining room was very attractive with unique decorations of fruits and vegetables which the hostess had canned. Centering the dining table was a large glass bowl filled with home-grown lima beans.

Mrs. Billie Bacon, recreation director, asked each member to answer roll call with "My Achievements," which proved quite interesting. Reports on home food supplies, interior home improvement and yard improvement were given by members.

Mrs. Rudolph Schaefer has canned 355 containers of meats, vegetables and fruits. The club was 100 per cent in saving seed, 98 per cent of which were garden seed and 2 per cent flower seed. Mrs. Billie Bacon reported saving 15 different varieties of seed; Miss Willie Word reported 11 varieties saved.

New officers were elected as follows: President, Mrs. M. P. Farnsworth; vice-president, Mrs. Billie Bacon; secretary-treasurer, Mrs. Paul Booth; council delegate, Mrs. Clint Britain; recreation director, Miss Willie Word; reporter, Mrs. Ernest Schaefer.

Miss Gladys Martin, county home demonstrator, made a talk on the use of peanuts as food and gave a bulletin on the subject, with many good recipes. She gave an interesting demonstration for making peanut butter.

Mrs. Clint Britain reported the last meeting of the council and praised reports made by delegates at the state convention in Fort Worth during August. Refreshments were passed to the following: Miss Gladys Martin, Mrs. M. P. Farnsworth, Mrs. Lee Roy Lewis, Mrs. Cora Plumlee, Miss Willie Word, Mrs. Frank Zehr, Mrs. Ray Judia, Mrs. Paul Poe, Mrs. Clint Britain, Mrs. Paul Booth, Miss Alice Bacon, Mrs. W. C. Clements, Mrs. Billie Bacon, Mrs. Bob Walker, Mrs. A. B. Cloud, Mrs. Ernest Schaefer and Mrs. Hall.

Following the meeting members visited Mrs. Hall's beautiful flower yard and inspected the new henhouse. They also investigated Miss Word's fruit dryer and drove to the Paul Poe home and viewed the yard improvements. They also visited the Red Cross and also visited the Bob Walker home. The club voted to meet October 13 to donate two complete soldiers and noted many improvements in Red Cross rooms, to send kits to the local Red Cross.

What's Cookin' in Uncle Sam's kitchen?

Plants! He's fixin' to serve a powerful menu to Adolf Hitler and Benito. And he's cookin' with Power, Electric power. Pll stand up with an appetizer of Anti-Aircraft guns to hit POM POM. Following will be Moron Soap Exports Eight Million Tons 1942. Then comes a tasty entree of Tanks, S-pome, light, heavy, medium. And for a main dish will be a concoction of what you call Four Motor Roadster Soap, give a La U. S. A. * And helping to cook up this fine menu for Adolf, Hitler and Benito are America's electric companies, companies like the West Texas Utilities... which have made this the most powerfull nation in the world today. Yes Uncle Sam is cookin' with power... ELECTRIC power. And the men and women who run the West Texas Utilities are mighty glad they can have a hand in delivering power to help with the cookin'. The folks who manage this company have looked ahead, planned ahead. * Foresight and good business methods have enabled them to fill West Texas' every need, give Uncle Sam's wartime needs. A network of transmission lines, linking 165 towns and communities, makes it possible for each to offer Uncle Sam an abundant supply of electric power for flying schools, training camps, or war industries. There is plenty of power to help keep America FREE!

LIFE, AFTER DARK, IN A TYPICAL ARMY TRAINING CENTER

SENTRY KEEPS VIGIL AFTER DARK ON BLANDING'S "BROADWAY."

Nightfall in an Army camp doesn't mean that training ceases, that soldiers crawl into bunks and go to sleep or go to town, that activity comes to a halt. Far from it. The only change, for the most part, is that night has supplanted day. For instance, at Camp Blanding, Fla., a typical training post for Uncle Sam's warriors, many outfits wait for dark to undergo their particular type of training. Sentries pound their posts, supply units carry on without a let-up through the night and doctors and nurses make their endless rounds through dimly lit and oftentimes lonely corridors of the post hospital.

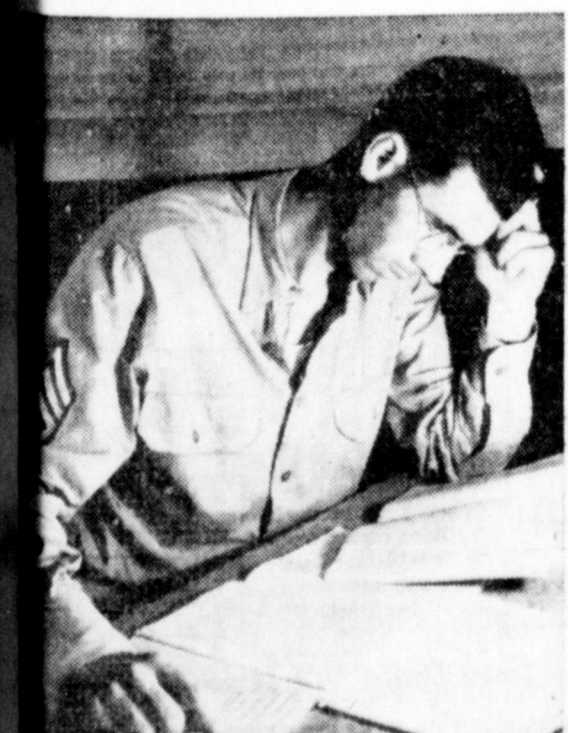

Foremost in the night training at this post, are assault-landing maneuvers, in which the men march off into the night, clamber aboard boats, mass off-shore, then return in practice "Commando" attacks without other members of the post taking up defensive positions.

FINE PICTURE HIGH SCHOOL FRIDAY NIGHT

Jack Lamb, famous sportsman and outdoor photographer, is coming to Cisco high school Friday night with his sensational technical color movies of Alaskan big game hunting and trout fishing.

But, if you ask Jack Lamb when he is going back to Alaska, he will look daggers at you, because he vows that he will never go back. His pictures are beautiful and breath-taking, and have created a sensation wherever shown, but all you have to do to know definitely that you don't want to go to Alaska is to listen to Lamb relate some of his experiences on the 1,200-mile journey which his party made on foot and horseback through the toughest country on earth.

The worst enemy is cold. Several months out of each year Alaska has cold weather such as we never dreamed of. I mean cold that will freeze your feet or hands or ears off, if exposed to it only a short time. I mean cold that will freeze your lungs inside your body and topple you over as if a bullet had hit you. When it goes to 60 degrees below zero, people can die easily—and it stays that temperature quite a lot in Alaska.

Even in summer the ground is frozen 100 to 200 feet deep, and a tired hunter cannot sit down to rest without the frost coming up from the ground within a few minutes to cake his clothes with ice.

The rivers are tricky, too. You see, the ice fields melt in the long summer days and send roaring torrents of water down the canyons. But these ice fields freeze up every night and shut off this supply of water. In the mornings most of these rivers are as dry as a powderhouse, but as the sun shines and the day progresses, the stream swells, and by noon it is a raging torrent. It usually takes them all night to run down.

Another thing which the layman would not know about is the danger from bears. Alaska is a land of bears, and thousands of these giant brutes roam unmolested all over the country. Many men have lost their lives by coming in contact with bears, and it is literally suicide for anyone to venture into the wilds day or night without guides or companions. The Alaskan native seldom shoots a bear because it is said on good authority, nine-tenths of the men who injure bears are either badly hurt or killed by the bears after they are shot.

"No ordinary gun will stop them. I have seen men shoot the giant bears from nine to fifteen times and still not stop them. Once I saw a man firing point-blank at a Kodiak bear coming at him, and he shot this bear five times; still it came on. I could see holes in its side as big as a teacup, but it came on for more. Finally a guide shot it in the face with a sawed-off shotgun when the bear was only 30 feet away. But, do you think all of these bullets killed it? Not on your life! The bear turned and ran out of sight. So, any hunter in Alaska always has the bears to contend with, and I'll guarantee that after you stay there a few months, sleeping in the wilds, you would not venture out of your tent at night for any reason whatsoever.

"Oh, yes; and among the other hardships of Alaska, I want to mention the tundra, or what the Alaskans call 'muskeg,' which is a sort of mushroom growth, which looks a lot like sauerkraut, and this is all beautiful to behold. But, when you have to walk through it—oh, me!

"You see, this stuff is spongy and sinks about a foot under your feet at every step you have ever walked on. To walk through it, one must have his feet at every step, like the man goosestep, and that means every step for days and weeks. And about that time, the frost comes up out of the ground and plaster him with ice and, that, he starts mumbling to himself in an unknown tongue.

"Well, I could go on and on, but these are just a few of the things that will make you that you can see Alaska from comfort of a theater seat, instead of seeing it the way we did, you ever see another picture of I will not be the man who is it."
