US. NAVY CALLS RED BLOODS

This month is the anniversary of the most vicious attack that a powerful enemy has ever launched against America. But today, on every ocean, the United States navy—your navy—is dishing it out to the treacherous, back-shooting Japs and Huns.

But more men are needed to man these fighting ships, to build the bases which harbor and supply these ships, and more skilled workers and career men are wanted for regular service in the U. S. naval reserve.

Three types of men are specifically needed. First, young men of 17, 18, 19 and 20 are necessary, in order to fill the existing vacancies in the navy trade schools, to help man the guns on our fighting ships, and to take their place in the regular naval service. Second, men between the ages of 20 and 50 also are needed for general service—men with experience in such trades as electrical, radio, surgical and navigation work. Third, men and boys are needed for navy construction regiments, like the Seabees, who perform most of their duties on land.

The interviewing officer of the Seabees, Ensign A. T. Gaffney of the navy's civil engineering corps, will be in Dallas Wednesday and Thursday of this week to interview and classify men interested in the navy's construction regiments.

Yeoman Carl Martin states that those who are interested should apply in person at the navy recruiting station, post office building, Eastland, by Wednesday, December 2. Martin also pointed out that men can still join the navy in naval reserve after receiving induction orders from local selective boards, provided they do so immediately.

HEAVY PRESSURE GAS KILLS G. O. HAMILTON

G. O. Hamilton, of Moran, employe of the Lone Star Gas company, died at 3 o'clock Sunday afternoon following injuries from the breaking of a 6-inch gas line one mile north of Moran.

Hamilton was endeavoring to clean the pipe with a rasp when it split for a distance of about ten feet and the full force of some 330 pounds of pressure struck him in the head, fracturing his skull and inflicting other injuries.

He was blown from the hole and his body hurled some fifteen feet by the heavy gas pressure.

The accident occurred at 9 o'clock Saturday morning. Deceased leaves a wife and three children.

METHODIST MINISTER DIES

F. W. WORTH, Dec. 1.—Rev. W. W. Barnett, 71, retired minister and father of Rev. Cecil R. Barnett and Curtis W. Barnett of Ft. Worth, died Sunday night of a stroke at his home in Phoenix, Ariz. Rev. W. W. Barnett was a Methodist minister and served in the Northern Texas conference. For several years prior to 1928 he served the Polytechnic Assembly of G. O. church.

1,000 SMALL NEWSPAPERS OF UNITED STATES RALLY TO AID VENERABLE ASSOCIATED PRESS

DECATUR, Ill., Dec. 1.—Representatives of 1,000 smaller newspapers have rallied to the defense of the Associated Press against a government monopoly suit with an assertion that they believed most of their colleagues "have no interest in the controversy between two powerful Chicago morning newspapers."

A statement in behalf of the representatives expressed fear that the Associated Press, a non-profit, co-operative news-gathering organization owned and operated by member newspapers, might be destroyed by the government's effort to obtain a forced Associated Press membership for the Chicago Sun, morning competitor of the Chicago Tribune, an Associated Press member.

"The loss to the smaller newspapers over the country, and consequently to newspaper readers as a whole, would be tragic," the statement set forth.

Formation of a committee of eleven Associated Press members from smaller cities was announced by Edward E. Lindsay, editor of the Decatur Herald and Review, who, as chairman, issued the statement in which the committee invited all Associated Press members of similar sentiments to join the committee.

"We believe there are many who do not agree with certain policies of the Chicago Tribune," Lindsay's statement said. "Nevertheless all of us are alarmed over the possibility that the government's effort to obtain a forced Associated Press membership for the Tribune's morning competitor, the Chicago Sun, may result in the destruction of the Associated Press."

The government, in its suit pending in federal court, alleged the Associated Press membership's refusal of membership to the Sun constituted discriminatory monopolistic operations. A membership for the Sun was opposed by Col. Robert R. McCormick, editor and publisher of the Tribune. McCormick filed a separate answer to the suit. The Sun's founder and owner is Marshall Field.

"Many newspapers," the statement in behalf of the smaller city papers said, "are now and for many years have operated successfully by the use of one or both of (the two competing) services and without being members of the Associated Press."

"Whatever the merits of the Chicago controversy may be, the vital issue to the rank and file of Associated Press members is the preservation of an unbiased, factual news report that is the foundation of a free press in the United States, as this phase is understood by the man in the street."

"We are standing at a fork in the road. The way we take will determine whether this nation can continue to have 2,000 lusty and independent daily newspapers or, like most of the countries of the world, will be forced to rely on the reports of large regional newspapers operating under the supervision of the national government."

Chairman Lindsay announced the employment of Robert T. Neill of San Angelo, Texas, as attorney for the smaller papers "to emphasize the threat to small newspapers of this suit and to collaborate with counsel for Associated Press in the defense."

There is good in all things, and the shortage of steel for razor blades provides a nice alibi for laziness.

GIVE THIS DOSE TO ALL

DALLAS, Dec. 1.—The stiffest penalty ever assessed in the Dallas county criminal court on a charge of drunk while driving was given by a jury to Lewis Wenzler, negro, who was ordered to pay a $250 fine and $30 costs, and to serve a year in jail.

The complaining witness was Jesse Branch, another negro, who said Wenzler drove his car into a parked one in which Branch was sitting. Branch said he followed Wenzler to his home, then called police, who arrested the latter asleep in bed. Officers testified that Wenzler was drunk when they arrested him.

Wenzler said he had not collided with any other car, and claimed he got drunk after he got home.

Newton Kennedy, assistant district attorney, asked for a long jail sentence, reminding the jury that only vigorous action can halt drunk driving.

Wenzler may work out his $250 fine and court costs at the rate of $3 a day in the county jail after he has served his sentence of a year, if he desires.

RUSS FORCES SPRING NIGHT ATTACK NAZIS

MOSCOW, Dec. 1.—Russian forces, in a sudden combined night attack by all arms of the service have sent the German line reeling backward southwest of Stalingrad for new and impressive losses, it was announced today.

While Red army troops drove ahead in Stalingrad city and northwest of it, and new German fortified villages were captured on the central front west of Moscow, the southwest-Stalingrad command sent tanks, mobile detachments, infantry and cavalry into a combined attack during the night.

First a barrage by massed Russian guns hit the enemy positions and boxed them in to prevent the arrival of reinforcements.

Led by the tanks, the infantry went to the assault, dispatches reported, while the mobile units and the cavalry harassed the enemy flanks.

The noon communique, reporting that the enemy had been "forced to reel backward southwestward," supplemented the news a few hours before that in one southwest-Stalingrad area the Russians had stormed a fortified village and sent the Germans, broken, into a mad flight in which they abandoned even their rifles and rations.

The noon communique, reporting that the enemy had been "forced to reel backward southwestward," supplemented the news a few hours before that in one southwest-Stalingrad area the Russians had stormed a fortified village and sent the Germans, broken, into a mad flight in which they abandoned even their rifles and rations.

There was only news of steady Russian advances all along the front.

In Stalingrad itself the Russians took eight more pill boxes and dugouts and Russian artillery and trench mortars destroyed 27 enemy firing points, the noon communique reported.

It was evident that the Red army, speeding the pace of its advance, was ripping through the heart of German defenses on the Stalingrad front and, in its second great offensive west of Moscow was driving through a blizzard to take town after town by frontal assault.

YANKS AND BRITISH ADVANCE RAPIDLY, GIVING NAZIS LITTLE CHANCE TO CONSOLIDATE

LONDON, Dec. 1.—Allied heavy guns moved up to bombard Tunis and the armored forces and infantry pressed on to invest the ring of old French forts around the city.

Striking swiftly and giving the Germans no time to consolidate outer positions, the Allies advanced eight miles yesterday from the railroad junction town of Djedeida and by capturing the coastal road severed the last link between Tunis, chief Axis stronghold in Tunisia, and the Bizerte naval base 40 miles to the northwest.

Along the coastal plain between Tunis and Bizerte strong forces of Lieut. Gen. Kenneth A. N. Anderson's First British Army, supported by U. S. Army mobile armored units, established a broad front and to the south their combat troops wiped out successive groups of German parachute troops who had been left to hold key positions in the field.

Three separate columns of Allied troops, with big guns and strong armored support, were reported advancing steadily on the Tunis forts which the Germans were expected to try to hold.

Between Tunis and Bizerte were tanks, motorized infantry and mobile infantry to ensure that Gen. Walther Nehring, the German commander-in-chief, could not re-establish contact with his isolated forces at Bizerte.

In both the Tunis and Bizerte areas the Germans had been pinned inside small defense perimeters, which gave them no freedom of action. It was for the Allies to say when the definitive attacks should start.

In central Tunisia, strong forces of French regulars were pressing eastward fast, to attack the Italians reported holding positions along the coastal road between Tunis and Libya. Dispatches indicated that the French forces were nearing the coast, eager to meet the Italians with the bayonet and avenge, in a fair fight, Mussolini's stab in the back at prostrate France two years ago.

A dispatch from Phil Ault, United Press war correspondent at Allied Headquarters, revealed that British paratroops had captured an important airfield in the Tunis area Sunday. The field apparently had not been occupied by the Germans, the dispatch said, but was taken so that they could not.

Ault reported that the Britons and Americans of the First Army were advancing through thickly sown mine fields and under heavy airplane attack. The Germans, he reported, had put up a well planned and skillfully executed retreating action, mining bridges and roads and defending them with machine guns, and throwing light and medium tanks into action when possible.

Two French submarines which escaped from Toulon, the 1389-ton Casabianca (Bianca) and the 974-ton Marsouin, arrived at Algiers yesterday, dispatches from Algeria reported, and a third, Le Glorieux, sister ship of the Casabianca, was reported here to have left Valencia, Spain, for Algiers.

LOOSE TONGUES HURTFUL

WASHINGTON, Dec. 1.—The Office of War Production today warned the public to distinguish between repetition of a rumor and expression of honest opinion, following analysis of more than 4500 rumors reported to various federal agencies since Pearl Harbor.

"Hate rumors" were found to be by far the most numerous in the OWI study. Those expressed prejudice of hostility for groups other than the enemy. Targets included the army administration, business, Catholics, defense workers, draft boards, the English, farmers, Jews, labor and unions, negroes, profiteers, the Red Cross blood donor service, and Russia.

Little relation was found between specific rumors and enemy propaganda appeals. Enemy short wave broadcasts reach a very small American audience and have been largely ignored by the public. They do suggest rumor "lines" to enemy agents and sympathizers in this country, however, who plant and encourage rumors to aid enemy propaganda objectives.

SANK 8 SHIPS.

PEARL HARBOR, Dec. 1.—A United States submarine that stalked its prey so close to the Japanese coastline that its crew could watch the pony races at a big city track sank eight enemy cargo ships and damaged four others.

CATTLE MARKET

Most classes of cattle and calves sold at steady rates on the Fort Worth stockyards today. However, beef steers and yearlings drew bids that were either in line with Monday's 25 to 50 cents decline or were considerably lower than the prices paid that day.

Hogs were steady to 10 cents higher than on Monday with the top of $13.50 paid by all interests. All classes of sheep and lambs were fully steady.

NEW GUINEA FIGHTING. ALLIED HEADQUARTERS IN AUSTRALIA, Dec. 1.—With only a matter of yards separating the Japanese and Allied lines in the jungle, savage fighting flamed on the left flank of the New Guinea battlefield Monday. A spokesman for Gen. Douglas MacArthur said Tuesday the fighting was "close in" and particularly heavy on the Gona end of the 20-mile strip of beach which represents the sole Japanese foothold left in Papua. Between Gona on the west and Buna on the east, Allied patrols already had driven a wedge, at least temporarily, and succeeded in reaching the beach.

BOOK REVIEW MONDAY BEGAN WEEK OF PRAYER

Beginning observance of the Lottie Moon week of prayer, First Baptist women's missionary society met Monday afternoon for a book review on prayer. The meeting opened with group singing of the hymn "Sweet Hour of Prayer," accompanied by Mrs. B. B. Hurst at the piano, after which Mrs. M. F. Underwood, society president, made announcements.

The book, "Where Two Are Agreed," written by Dr. W. O. Carver was reviewed by Mrs. J. R. Burnett. The review was interspersed with Bible readings given by Mrs. W. Frank Walker and Mrs. Roy Morrison. Prayers were offered by Mrs. Asa Skiles, Mrs. A. B. Cooper and Mrs. O. L. Mason.

Those present were Mrs. M. F. Underwood, Mrs. J. R. Burnett, Mrs. W. D. Hazel, Mrs. B. B. Hurst, Mrs. W. F. Walker, Mrs. O. G. Lawson, Mrs. Asa Skiles, Mrs. G. B. Langston, Mrs. O. L. Mason, Mrs. A. Blackstock, Mrs. Sargent and small daughter, Mrs. Kate Richardson and two visitors, Mrs. Willie Bogan Dunn and Mrs. E. J. Wendt.

MISCELLANEOUS SHOWER HONORED MRS. W. L. COX

Honoring Mrs. W. L. Cox, the former Miss Dixie Bills, the women's council of First Christian church entertained with a miscellaneous shower Saturday evening in the home of Mrs. W. R. Winston.

Decorations of autumn cut flowers were used in the reception room, and the dining room table, laid with lace cloth, held as a centerpiece a cut glass bowl, filled with chrysanthemums, placed on a reflector.

The guests were greeted informally by Miss Marie Winston and presented to Mrs. Cox and her aunt, Mrs. Howard D'Spain, after which they were directed to the dining room for refreshments.

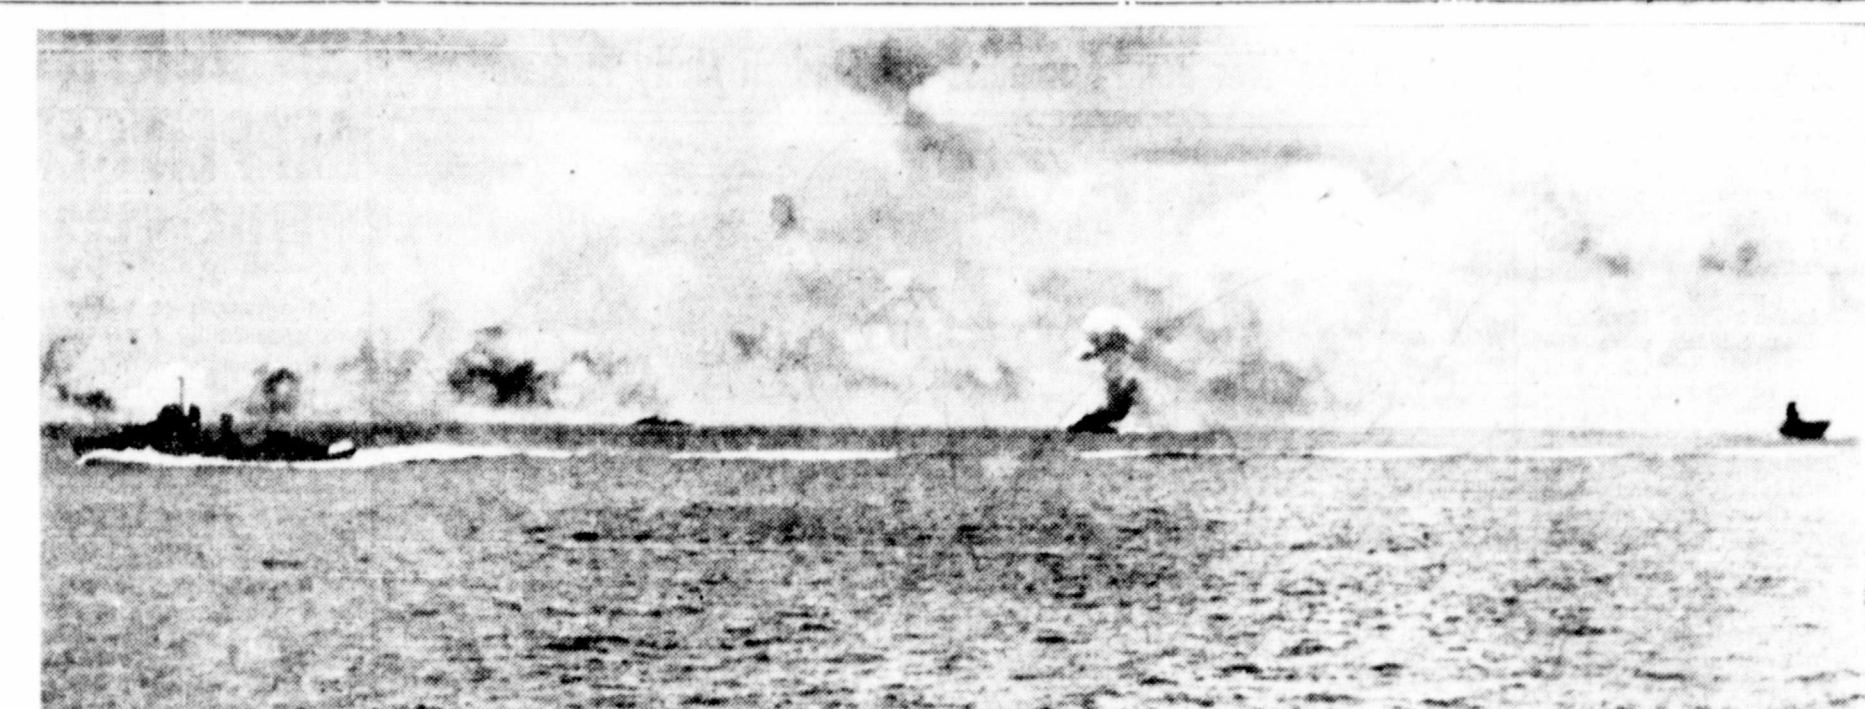

Mrs. Ruby Miller and Mrs. Sam Kimmell presided at a silver tea service at each table end. Assisting in the dining room were Mrs. D. G. Alford, Misses Mignon Clark, Olga Fay Ford, Marcia and Sue Mobley, who passed refreshments of heart- and bell-shaped sandwiches and cookies.

A number of games were played and in the game, "Truth or Consequence," the honoree was given the task of cleaning a closet as a "consequence." To her delight, she found an array of lovely gift packages which had been placed there for her. The packages were opened and passed for inspection.

The guest list included Mrs. W. L. Cox, Mrs. Howard D'Spain, Mrs. J. S. Mobley, Mrs. J. J. Collins, Mrs. Albert LeClaire, Mrs. J. D. Lauderdale, Mrs. Sam Kimmell, Mrs. Paul Yardley, Mrs. Alex Spears, Mrs. C. R. West, Mrs. J. F. Benedict, Mrs. George Atkins, Mrs. Ruby Miller, Mrs. Randolph Lee Clark, Mrs. Ida Painter, Mrs. H. H. A Versatile Actress Tells How to Have Versatile Hair

"To be successful as an actress," says pretty Mercedes McCambridge, the well-known star of the famous radio serial "Abie's Irish Rose." "By versatility I mean that an actress must be able to portray a wide number of roles and that, in addition, everything about her must be capable of infinite changes—her face, her mannerisms, her hair."

Mercedes McCambridge

Miss McCambridge finds that a radio actress must appear just as smart and well-groomed at all times as any stage actress. Hers is a varied career, dashing from one rehearsal to another, trying on costumes, making personal appearances, acting before critical studio audiences... and she must appear immaculately neat at all times, in spite of her busy life. As she says, it is particularly important for her to have hair that is manageable, hair that can be coiffed quickly and easily be brushed into place after fittings and photographs, and that looks as lustrous and lovely at the end of a busy day as it did at the beginning.

In order to have such manageable locks, Miss McCambridge adheres faithfully to a hair-beauty regime that includes plenty of brisk, daily brushing, frequent scalp massages and a weekly washing with Drene, the liquid soapless shampoo with hair conditioner added. She selects this, because such a soapless shampoo cannot deposit any dulling film of soap upon her hair to dim its lustre.

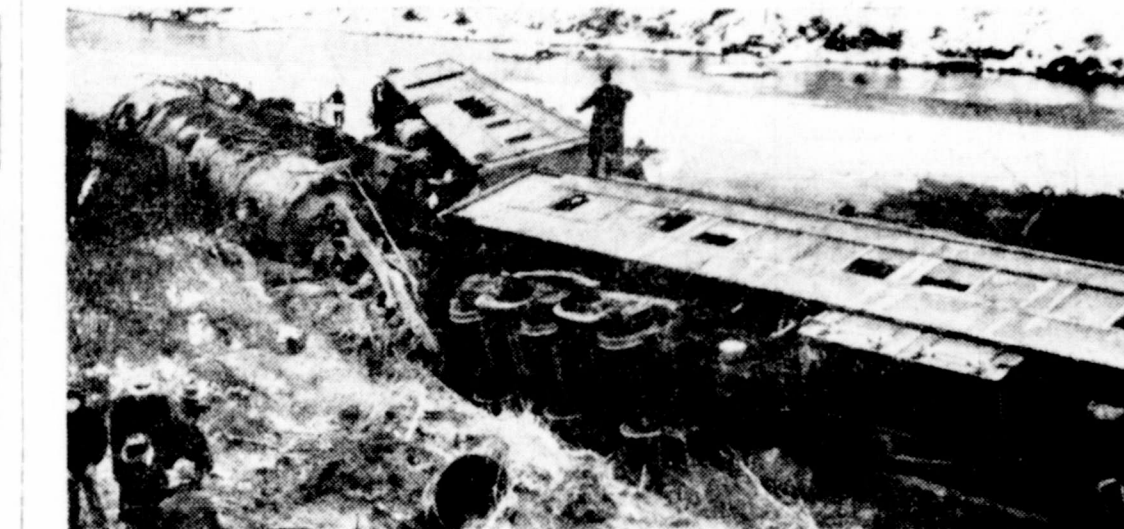

On the contrary, it enhances the hair's natural highlights and gives up to 23% extra lustre. In addition, she finds that the added hair conditioner makes for manageability after a shampoo, so that she can more easily arrange her hair into any required effect.

Miss McCambridge believes firmly that every woman can find a coiffure perfectly suited to her particular personality. Her own hair is most frequently worn in the off-the-face effect pictured. Its smooth waves and sheen accentuated by continuous brushing upwards from the hairline as well as by her lustre-giving Drene shampoos. This is a type of hair-do particularly suited to Miss McCambridge's small features and well-shaped head, but for every type of face there is a coiffure equally becoming and appropriate. The main thing is to select a hair-do equally versatile, equally well suited to your face. Then have your hair cut and shaped by an expert and keep it healthy, lustrous and lovely at all times by means of thorough brushing supplemented by really cleansing shampoos at frequent intervals.

At last we've got back to the spirit of 1776. Junior, Pa and Grandpa are marching together.

You can tell when your system is too acid. Your tone of voice gets that way, too.

JEW TO ASK DIVINE HELP FOR THE RACE

DALLAS, Dec. 1.—Jews of Dallas will answer an emergency call for prayer Wednesday when they attend a joint service to plead for divine aid against Nazism.

The united Jewish community service will be held at 5 p.m. at Shearith Israel synagogue. Park and Eakin, and the prayers will be led by Rabbi Jonathan Abramowitz, Joseph Gansberg, H. Raphael Gold, M. Labkovsky, David Leftowitz, Milton Rosen and Louis Schechter.

"Hitler is determined to exterminate the Jewish race," Dr. Gold said Monday night. "Although he has the same designs on other races, such as the Greeks and the Poles, it was against the Jews that his first war was declared."

"It is fitting that Hitler's first victims should take the lead in asking God's help in this hour of crisis."

The first black market in America meant slavery; this one only invites it.

You: No? Well, I understand that the factories which used to make washing machines now have turned to war work— Reddy: True! You: ... and so what are we going to do when our present machine wears out? Reddy: That's just the point! We're going to help keep 'em in good working condition— You: But new parts are hard to get, too! Reddy: Yes, that makes it doubly important that we take good care of the things we have. You: But suppose my machine breaks down? Reddy: Well, Lady, the point is, make repairs before it breaks down! Check up on your washing machine—and all other appliances—now before some essential part gives way. Call your electric fix-it man. Let him go over your appliances carefully. Then he should make repairs that will prevent breakdowns. You: Thank you, Reddy. But suppose I can't find a repair man—many of them are in the Army, you know. Reddy: In that case call the West Texas Utilities. Our service department has arranged to help out in emergencies!

21 INFANTILE PATIENTS AT SCOTTISH RITE

DALLAS, Dec. 1.—With admittance this week of five more cases, 21 children from all parts of Texas, stricken with infantile paralysis this fall, are now receiving the famous Sister Kenny treatment for the dread disease at Texas Scottish Rite Hospital for Crippled Children. This makes a total of 63 children now in the institution, the other 42 receiving treatment for their various infirmities, including congenital deformities, bone infections and other crippling maladies.

The children under the Kenny treatment are swathed in hot woolen packs, which must be changed every two hours, and receive special muscle exercises daily, as developed by Sister Kenny. Hospital officials are enthusiastic over the new treatment, not only for its prevention in most cases of crippling after-effects but because the hot pack treatment reduces pain suffered by the little patients during the acute stages, it was reported.

All patients in the hospital are treated without charge to their parents, their admittance being on the condition that the families are unable to finance the long and expensive treatment generally necessary to correct a crippled condition. Less than one percent of the children are from Masonic families.

Dallas hotels are helping in the hospital's use of the new Kenny therapy by contributing their old woolen blankets, which are cut into strips for the packs.
