Four Suckling Calves Brought $86 Each Monday At Cisco Auction

Sales at the Eastland County Livestock Commission totaled $16,733.41 at Monday's auction, some outstanding features of which were the sale of four suckling calves weighing an average of 602 1/2 pounds, bringing $14.25 per cwt. for a total of $344.63 or $86 per calf. The calves were sold by T. L. Cooper.

Indicative of the widespread patronage of the Cisco auction was the attendance of D. Nichols, Sweetwater, and representatives of the Vernon Packing company, which is filling government contracts for meat. This company bought 19 mighty good cows for slaughter, J. A. Trigg, owner of the barns, said. Nichols bought 24 cattle.

UNDIPLOMATIC BLAST WON'T HELP MATTERS SURLES IS NOW A MAJOR

WASHINGTON, March 9.—Barring quick and unequivocal repudiation by President Roosevelt, Ambassador William H. Standley's sensational complaint against Russia concealment of American war aid apparently must be accepted as a direct Washington rebuke to Premier Joseph Stalin.

Standley's Moscow press conference last night centered world attention on two press conferences here today. Acting Secretary of State Sumner Welles meets the press at noon. Mr. Roosevelt has a press conference scheduled at 4 p. m. One of them unquestionably will discuss the ambassador's statement.

Standley, a salty diplomat who formerly was chief of naval operations, charged that Americans were being misled into giving millions to aid the Russian people whereas the Russian people were not even aware they were being helped.

He hinted of Russian refusal to exchange military data with her Allies—a policy generally acknowledged and regretted by military men here. Standley went further to warn that, under the circumstances, congress might balk at further lend-lease aid.

BARRY HOLTON BE HERE FOR LOBO BANQUET

Coach Monroe Sweeney says the program for the annual Rotary-Lions football banquet to be held at Laguna hotel, Friday night, March 12, will be very interesting, and adds that the speaker is an unusually good one, being a noted player himself, a former coach and official for games in this section during the past decade.

The speaker, Lt. Commander J. Barry Holton, is a commanding officer in the U. S. naval cadet selection board, stationed in Dallas. He was a graduate of Notre Dame University under Knute Rockne.

Donald Surles, 25 years of age and a brother of Mrs. Charles Clark of this city, has been promoted from captain to major in the army air corps.

The son of Mr. and Mrs. C. S. Surles, former Ciscoans, but now living at Rock Island, Ill., the young man was reared in Cisco and during a recent brief visit here was speaker at a meeting of the Cisco Rotary club.

In addition to attaining the rank of major, the Ciscoan, who served in the southwest Pacific, has been the recipient of numerous honors in the way of citations and medals. Among these are the distinguished flying cross, which corresponds to a congressional medal, and a special citation for gallantry.

On February 12, what is termed the 19th group met at Pyote, Tex., for a celebration and to confer decorations on men of this group from four squadrons, including the 45th, most of these men having served one year or more overseas.

About 1,000 men were present and it was at this gathering that Captain Surles was advanced to the rank of major.

At present Major Surles is stationed at Colorado Springs, Colo.

WEAVER RE-NAMED HEAD OF OIL BODY

Joseph M. Weaver of Eastland has been re-elected president of the West Central Oil and Gas association. All other officers were re-elected, with two vice presidents and 11 new directors added.

Vice president re-elected were J. E. Whiteside, Brownwood; William Rhodes, Breckenridge; and C. W. Huffman, Eastland, while A. H. Furse, Eastland, again was named secretary-treasurer. Harold G. Neely, Fort Worth, and Charles J. Kleiner, Cisco, were vice presidents added.

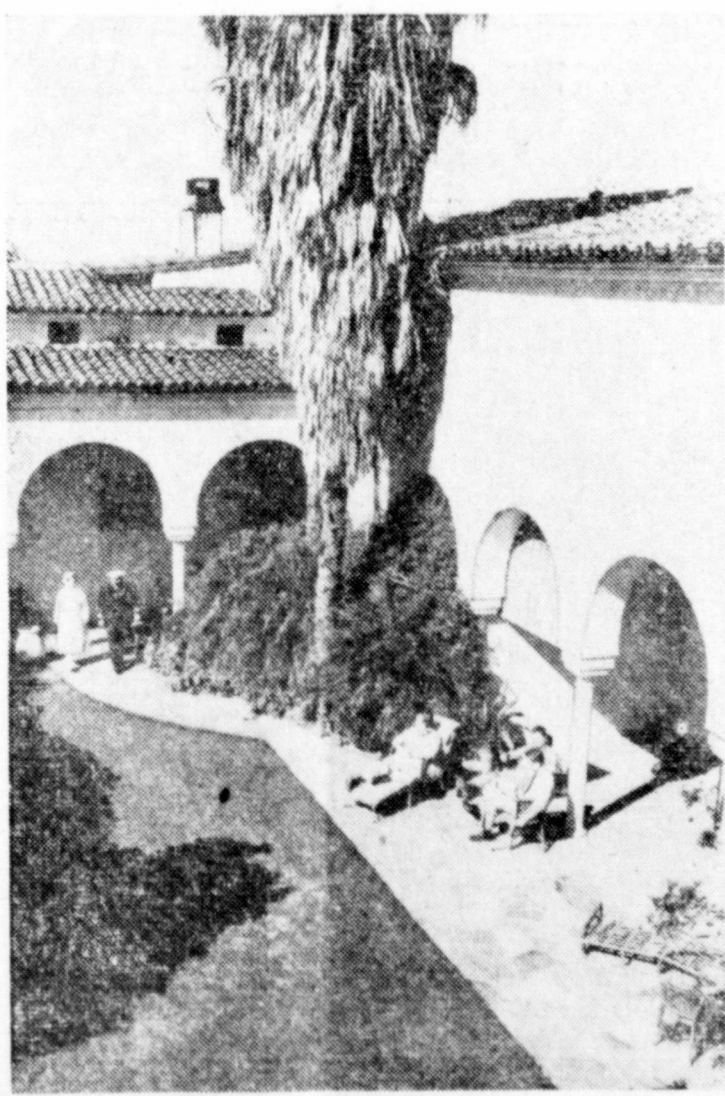

New directors named were Sol Sanders, Stamford; Homer Stasney, Albany; John Kleiner, Cisco; R. V. Tidwell, Graham; E. L. Wilson, Dallas; Hall Walker, Ranger; Paul Dean, Fort Worth; Carl Augustadt, Eastland; L. R. Pearson, Ranger; George D. Morgan, San Angelo, and Cyrus Frost, Eastland.

AH, THAT'S THE STUFF!—Fruit cake from home, received by Sergeant Leo O. Lemke of Minneapolis, left, tastes grand to these Yank soldiers somewhere in North Africa. They immediately lost interest in distribution of rest of mail.

FOR VAST POWER—Stator core for water-wheel-driven generator at Bonneville Dam nears completion. It is 41 feet in diameter, believed largest in world. Generator, the 10th duplicates seven others. Scene in General Electric plant.

HERE THEY REST—Navy and Marine officers wounded in war are sent to Burnham home in San Diego, Cal., for rest and recuperation. Home, accommodating 45 patients, was recently acquired for Naval hospital.

LOCAL FIRM IS THOROUGHLY EQUIPPED

With the installing of new rubber welding equipment in the building at the corner of D avenue and Eighth street, recently purchased from Ed Huestis, McCann's brothers, Jess, Shep and Ed, are now helping to keep the wheels rolling with their rubber welding and tire recapping.

Jess McCann's returned last week with a truck load of equipment which he had purchased in Denver, Colo. He has added this to that already owned by the brothers and they are now busy turning out recapped tires.

START WITH ABILENE.

The Cisco Lobo football team will open its official 1943 season on Friday, September 17 at Abilene against the Abilene Eagles. This is the first game these ancient and logical rivals have played in a number of years. Needless to say it will draw much interest, Coach Monroe Sweeney said today.

IN BATTLE ROYAL, AXIS LOST 19 FIGHTERS AND THE YANKS NONE; ROMMEL STILL RUNNING

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS, North Africa, March 9.—Marshal Erwin Rommel is continuing his retreat after abandoning 50 tanks to the British Eighth Army, and American pilots have won a big air battle over the Mediterranean in which the Axis lost 19 planes against none for the United States forces.

The pressure of the Eighth Army's veterans at mobile warfare in the desert was pushing Rommel relentlessly back toward his Mareth Line positions. Over the weekend he sallied out and attempted to throw the forthcoming offensive of the Eighth Army off balance by quick thrusts—six on Saturday alone—at their lines.

Flying Fortresses and P-38 Lightnings ran into the air battle yesterday during a sea sweep between Tunis and Tripoli. Fifty Axis planes challenged the Americans and in the brisk battle that followed 17 enemy planes were shot down. The Axis' total loss in the engagement rose to 19 when two of their own planes collided during the fighting and crashed.

The Allies appeared to be winning mastery of the air all along the Tunisian front. A total of 21 enemy planes were destroyed yesterday against an Allied loss of only two.

In the battle over the Mediterranean, the Flying Fortresses accounted for 10 of the enemy planes shot down and the Lightnings got seven.

On the northern front, the Axis made a jab yesterday at the Allied line near Tamera, seven miles west of Sed Jenane, but the assault was repulsed and as the Germans retreated they left 200 prisoners in Allied hands.

The German-controlled Radio Vichy said Axis forces occupied Cape Serrat in the north yesterday and, continuing their advance, seized an important chain of hills which control strategic roads.

French forces, moving along the northwestern edge of Chott Djerid (Salt Lake) in South-Central Tunisia, captured the town of Tozeur.

Rommel's strategy now appeared to be to try to get his army into the high ground around Hallouf at the southwest end of the Mareth line before he loses any more of his dwindling armor to the Eighth Army.

Among the 50 tanks seized by the British were eight new Mark III types carrying .75-mm. guns. The other tanks were three Mark IIs, two Mark IIIs of the old type, 19 Mark III specials and 18 Mark IV specials.

OPA MAKES IT EASIER TO GET GARDEN SEED

The OPA has lifted its rule on buying dried beans, peas and lentils for planting. The ruling was lifted Monday, J. L. Thornton says.

Now, all one has to do to get these items, if they are to be used for seed and not eaten, is to go to a seed store, lay down the money and get seeds.

During the past week, it was necessary to get a certificate from county rationing board before buying even a small packet of seed.

After consulting with the agriculture department, which is trying to encourage the planting of victory gardens and the growing of more food by farmers, the OPA announced that neither certificates nor point rationing coupons will be needed in the future to buy these seeds, provided they are plainly marked as seed and the purchaser agrees to plant them, said Mr. Thornton.

THE SLACKERS.

The greatest handicap in the American war effort, as Radio Man Baukhage sees it, is absenteeism in essential war effort.

Business men and women are working hard—when they have any business left to work for. Farmers and their wives work as usual, even while they indulge in complaints and demands which some other groups think unjustified. Professional men do their best. There is no reason to complain of the men who are doing the fighting or being trained for it.

At Washington, congress is probably doing as well as might be expected, even though it does drop an unnecessary amount of emery just and monkey wrenches into the machinery.

But there are too many workers—both men and women—in critical war industries who refuse to stay on the job and produce all the war stuff they can, but waste time and tear at team work.

If a worker is not well, or for any reason is unable to do a full day's work for an adequate number of days a week, of course allowance should be made for it. But these are days when every hand is needed, to do the biggest job this nation ever tackled, and it is fair to insist that all able-bodied men should either work or fight.

NOW WE REVALESC.

Mrs. Chang has gone and done it again, "obstinate" this comparatively illiterate nation with another choice specimen of race but timely speech. If the lady keeps on, she may shame us all into speechlessness.

This time it is "revaling" a word that hardly anybody except old Noah Webster has ever used. An old-fashioned student who knows his Latin might guess the meaning of this word, but it isn't in the ordinary newspaper office dictionaries, and Madame must have done a bit of highbrow leering to find it anywhere. We learn, after some research, that "revalisce" is to begin to grin well or get better. From now on, there will probably be a lot of revaliscing in this country, and it won't do us any harm if, in the midst of our polyglot and lexicographical adventures, we keep an humble and a contrite heart.

Anyone who wants to cultivate a block-buster style may go far by spending his evenings reading the works of Sir Thomas Browne. But the example isn't recommended. Life is too short—get a good wild west story and revalisce.

SAVING FARMS.

When the American public really becomes aroused about any problem, something usually happens. Some of the selective service boards in farm communities are not waiting for some big overall law, but are using such sense as the Lord endowed them with to save the farms themselves. These boards are doing it simply by using their good judgment about individual cases. One chairman says:

"If a boy who comes up for reclassification has lived on a farm and not sought an outside job just for the wages in it, we are deterring him. Some, we find, have been trying to work in war production jobs and keep up their farms at the same time. They can't do justice to both. We believe their proper place is on the farm and we tell them so."

"When a farmer's case comes up, we tell him if he will raise 10 to 15 per cent more than he did last year, we will grant him a six months deferment. The response has been splendid."

That is as it should be. It doesn't raise great questions of cutting down the army, a shortening of production or forcing men to work for private employers. The boards simply talk to each man as he comes up and try to keep good farmers on farms. It's a democratic method, and it works.

GARDEN NEWS.

The rush to buy seeds these days is hardly exceeded by that to buy clothes. Men buy coats and children, too, as well as the women who are doing the freezing garment purchasing. Vegetable seed sales, it is said in some big New York department stores, are five or six times those of last year.

Buyers, it seems, are choosing seeds of many varieties in small quantities. In other words, they are amateurs, preparing to experiment, hoping that some, at least, of their efforts will be rewarded. Onions, spinach, lettuce, peppers, Swiss chard, radishes and cabbage seeds are high in present favor.

People in congested districts, who live in apartments without any of those famous American back yards, are getting ready to plant in flower boxes at their windows, and to make gardens on their roofs. The early Quebec French, who kept a few tomato plants growing in their cellars and other places in the cold months, and got an early start with their lettuce and radishes that way in the spring, had nothing on modern Americans for industry in gardening.

The edge of growing tomato plants coming into your window on the evening breeze may not be so delightful as that of the petunias they displace, but it means a claim for winter and the power of determination over war.

RUTHLESS TERROR.

Herrich Hamer has ordered his men to suppress ruthlessly even the slightest resistance in the occupied countries even if mass executions of saboteurs are necessary. "Only by terror shall we be able to keep these slave nations in submission," he wrote in the order.

Pretty stupid administration, isn't it? Any ordinary, run-of-the-mill American parent, teacher or corner cop knows better than that. Few never works as a permanent tool of government. After the first moment of submission it engenders antagonism and rebellion. No wonder the Germans are having such trouble with their New Order. Americans sometimes say their cops, but in general they obey cheerfully the laws of the policeman's hand, after he has a cigar and goes on from there. Hollanders throw Nazi cops into canals after dark. Americans know their cops are saving their lives against their own folly. Democracy really does work.

UNWARRANTED HOPES.

The headlines read "Yank Planes Pound Rome!" or "U. S. Guns Batter Japs." To anyone knowing the terrific destructive force of "block-busters" bomb or heavy artillery, these headlines conjure up a picture of ruinous havoc wrought upon our enemies. The inescapable inference is that it would not take a great deal of this sort of thing to wipe out completely the forces thus belabored.

Actually, as any degree of afterthought will show, it is far from being as simple as that. In bombing a city, even one presenting as big a target as London, a vast amount of explosives is utterly wasted, falling on streets, vacant lots, streams or empty buildings. Even when troops are the target they find ways of taking cover. Enough shells were fired in the first world war to wipe completely out of existence the entire fighting force on both sides two and three times over, had they hit. There lies the catch. So many did not hit their mark, and that is why millions on both sides remained in the field until the armistice. Marksmanship is better in the present war, but the better bombsights, but there is a great waste at best.

WAR EFFORT OF THE PRESS.

If one wishes to test the truth of what Congressman Halleck said about newspapers being "essential and vital factors in the winning of the war," one has only to think back over the last few months and ask what the country would have done without newspapers. How much scrap metal, rubber, fats and other waste materials would have been collected? How well would the government bond-selling have gone over? Just where would the country have been in its slow awakening to its precarious position in a world torn by the efforts of international gangsters to establish global domination? Estimates might vary but certainly none of them could fall below the appraisal of essential.

The first essential of a democracy, especially one going through a war or any other great crisis, is a wide-open medium of information. If the newspaper press of this country does not serve that purpose, what does? Of course, the press may not always serve as efficiently, as faithfully or even as patriotically as it should. The press is about the most human institution in our national make-up. And so it errs. But it errs on all sides of all questions. As long as it does, it is a safe press—a press for democratic people.

Government is human, too—and makes errors. Because public office is a public trust, government officials are inclined to be very resentful of criticism. It is the history of government that, the more power it acquires (which means greater public trust), the more resentful it grows toward criticism. And, being human, it suppresses criticism if it has the opportunity. When this happens, the drift toward autocracy really gains momentum.

The press itself needs criticism to hold it in restraint, to keep it from abusing privileges, which it sometimes does. The newspaper press does not complain of that. But cutting down the paper supply of the newspaper press far below any conceivable war need is not criticism. It is control of a sort, and it could come to be control of the worst sort.—Dallas News.

HE CAN "PICK 'EM" OUT OF THE AIR—Resting comfortably under the outstretched arms of Pvt. George Carlson are Sgt. Albert Ogassian (right) and Pvt. Henry Robins of the Anti-aircraft Training Center at Camp Davis, North Carolina. In training on the 90-millimeter gun, Carlson puts his enormous height to good advantage in holding down the "gunner's" position.

"SOMETHING FOR THE BOYS"—The Broadway musical hit as presented by the lovely Barnes Twins is correct, both literally and figuratively. Here's "Speed" Enders in the groove for a V shave.

STYLES "IN THE SWIM"—(a) Alluring Ann Savage wears a burgundy colored swim suit and a great big beautiful smile. (b) Perched on a spring-board, Susan Hayward "shows-off" her zipzoot, a different idea in swim suits. (c) Actress Shirley Patterson wears an eye-filling candy striped bathing suit made of celanese wool and lastex. (d) Here Shirley is clad in a figure-flatterer swim suit made with a rigid bengaline front and woven back.

Miss Weslee Wootton, of New York City, tells Platoon Sergeant Riley Aikman what she thinks of Marines in general and him in particular. She is dressed in a New York creation of aqua blue jersey. This youthful dinner dress is trimmed with glittering silver nailhead sequins around the round neckline and down the bodice to the self material belt.

HOUSE OF MORGAN—Claudia is the daughter of Ralph and niece of Frank, and therefore comes by her acting ability honestly. One of her more important radio roles is that of Nora Charles in "The Adventures of the Thin Man," heard over a CBS network every Friday evening.

PASSING THE SCHEDULE, NOT THE BUCK—Ruth St. Denis, famous dancer now 64 years old, is shown working on the graveyard shift, assigned to production control, at an aircraft plant at Santa Monica, California.

FROZEN PEAS 4 SERVINGS—10 POINTS
CANNED PEAS 4 SERVINGS—16 POINTS
12 OZ PEAS + 8 OZ LIQUID

HOW TO GET MORE SERVINGS FROM YOUR RATION POINTS—Although the Government table on food coupon values gives lower point values per serving to quick-frozen over canned foods, due to greater proportionate availability, surveys indicate that the average housewife thought the official tables made the coupon cost of frozen foods higher in comparison with canned products. The picture above illustrates a typical example of comparative point values on a per serving basis. The reason for the point advantage for quick-frozen foods at the present time is due to the fact that in proportion to the normal consumption of quick-frozen and canned foods, more quick-frozen foods are available than canned foods; and ration values are based on availability.
