Senator Says Antistrike Bill Plays Into Hands of Communist-Minded

WASHINGTON, June 23.—Senator Lee O'Daniel of Texas yesterday took the floor in the Senate to condemn in strong language labor racketeers and the subversive policy of the national government in dealing with labor organizations and also to condemn the policies of the Office of Price Administration, which, he charged, is resulting in a shortage of food.

POP GARRETT M'CREA CHILD TOLD LIONS IS IN DANGEROUS CONDITION ABOUT SCHOOL

Lion C. M. Nevill had charge of the program at the Lions luncheon today, presenting Major H. R. Garrett in a talk on the Riverside Military Academy at Gagesville, Ga., which he is representing in Texas as being in danger during the summer vacation period.

ARMY FARMERS—Farm land lying within confines of Scott Field, Ill., will not be idle this season. It's being turned into 15-acre Victory Garden by soldiers in Army Air Forces radio school, who have volunteered to work it in leisure time. They are assured of fresh vegetables now.

LEWIS ISSUED ORDER LAST NIGHT AND ALL OF 530,000 STRIKERS EXPECTED TO RETURN AT ONCE

WASHINGTON, June 23. — Striking bituminous and anthracite miners began returning to the pits today to work until Oct. 31, under government control.

The back-to-work order came from the United Mine Workers Policy Committee. It met with UMW President John L. Lewis last night and instructed the 530,000 striking miners to call off their two-day strike.

The order was effective immediately, but reports from the coal fields indicated the mines could not be returned to full production for two or three days.

The miners were instructed to work until Oct. 31 under the direction of Solid Fuels Administrator Harold L. Ickes, custodian of the mines since they were seized by the government May 1. No explanation was given for the Oct. 31 limit. The miners will work under the terms of the 1941-43 coal wage contract as modified by the war labor board to give the miners wage gains totaling about 20 cents daily.

Union officials were authorized to continue pressing claims for underground travel pay, the major issue in the dispute in which the miners, the coal operators and the WLB have been involved for three months.

The only apparent hitch to general acceptance of Lewis' terms lay in the effectiveness of protests that the miners should not be permitted to insist that the government operate the mines. The union's refusal to accept last week's WLB order represented continued defiance of the board.

There was also speculation on what effect the agreement to end the strike may have on presidential action on the Connally-Harness-Smith anti-strike bill. It becomes law automatically at 12:01 a. m. Saturday unless the President vetoes or signs it before then.

Administration officials are known to be urging a veto on the theory that it legalizes strikes.

Although the order to end the coal strike—the third in two months—came too late to prevent some cuts in steel production, it forestalled threats of serious curtailment. Only a few hours before it was issued, War Production Board Chairman Donald M. Nelson warned that curtailed steel production would have a "disastrous effect" on the armament program and essential civilian economy.

The union action came shortly after the War Labor Board had referred the strike to the President and urged him to use his full powers to enforce compliance with the WLB wage order, which was rejected by the union as a "yellow dog" contract.

Lewis, announcing the policy committee action after he had conferred for two days with Ickes, said the move was based on the union's decision Sunday when it spurned the WLB order but offered to work for the government.

Very much concerned about the future of this country, the congress of the United States is willing to assume its responsibility in correcting some very fundamental evils which have grown up as a part of the labor policy of the present national administration. O'Daniel said.

It is true that a few days ago we got around to the point of passing some milk-and-egg legislation providing that when the labor condition in a war industry became so bad that nothing could be done about it, the president would do what he has already been doing before the passage of the law, and that is he could take over industries and operate them. I can think of nothing more pleasing to Communists, labor leaders than for the government to take over and operate industries. That is exactly what they want to see happen in this country. This law does not take over and operate industries, but it places in the hands of labor the club by which they can force the industries to be taken over by the government. If labor votes to strike, the government does not penalize labor but, instead, penalizes the owners of the property by seizing their property. In other words, the law provides punishment for the hold-up victim instead of the bandit.

Following this program, Cecil Kirk was initiated into the club and presented with his membership pin by Past President O. L. Stoney. Lion Kirk spoke his appreciation of being a member of the organization and invited the members to visit him at his work as an instructor at the women's ordnance training center.

Major Garrett (better known to Cisconians as Pop Garrett), told something of the location of his school, which is in the foothills of the Smoky Mountain region of north Georgia, well away from the malaria districts, in a section famous for the raising of poultry.

The speaker told of the curriculum and of the work being done beginning with boys of the age of 14 years and above.

The course is a busy one, but fits the young man for a practical life, either in business or military occupation. The course stresses the military side, since the future safety of American liberties depends in a great measure upon the preparation of a nation to defend itself, and leaders are recognizing this fact now as never before, said the speaker.

The school is sponsored by the war department and is operated from the standpoint of military discipline, with the thought in mind that the students are still boys rather than men. The merit and demerit system is practiced, said Major Garrett and each year the student has an opportunity to wipe out former records and begin the year anew.

President N. C. Huston thanked Lion Nevill for his program, while the speaker was congratulated upon his connection with the school. President Huston also announced that the installation of new officers would be held next week.

ROBBINS' AIRPORT LEASE IS TERMINATED

A number of matters of a routine nature were discussed by the city commission at its regular meeting last night, among which were the tentative sale of some city-owned lots and recommendations having to do with some water accounts.

On investigation of records it was learned that a number of water meters had been disconnected, but that 14 more meters had been connected than had been disconnected during the period beginning May 15, showing that Cisco had gained that many new families.

Reg Robbins, who has had the city airport under lease, asked the city commission last night to terminate his lease since the government had taken all his private planes, making it impossible for him to operate the airport for any purpose.

JOE LEA MOORE IS HOME FROM NORFOLK, V. A.

Joe Lea Moore, pharmacist mate, first class, U. S. naval hospital, Norfolk, Va., is back at home for a few days' visit with his mother, Mrs. W. W. Moore, and his brother, Wightman Moore.

The naval officer says his principal duties of late have been driving an ambulance and that the carrying in of wounded soldiers is a common routine in his daily rounds.

Mr. Moore says he likes his work—it is not too demanding and is more or less interesting. He said he inquired of a higher officer about asking for sea duty, but the officer told him he would get plenty of that later, so he is biding his time.

MULHEIM BOMBED.

LONDON, June 23.—Hundreds of big British bombers turned vital war factories at Mulheim in western Germany last night into a blazing mass visible for 100 miles as the intensified Anglo-American aerial assault on Europe moved forward in high gear. Approximately 1000 tons of bombs were dropped on Mulheim, a Ruhr valley steel center.

CLARITY.

Roars of rage about subsidies, furious howls about OWI and WLB gnawing about the time spent purchasing by postpaid papers about paper, waste—wherever one turns there are roars and rages. They signify something, or right about what they really mean? What is the meaning all about?

SENSIBLE.

Now the bugs are going to reduce their weight. Experts in the department of agriculture are being farmers, acting as the "first friends" of their people's charges to hold their weight to 200 pounds instead of feeding them up to 230 pounds or more.

It will improve the age's streamlines and may also improve the quality of their meat. Pigs have usually been crated as far as possible and fed on a diet of all-rash as he used to be and he thought OWI was established to take care of these things and how people say it's not some more thingy program.

WARSAW.

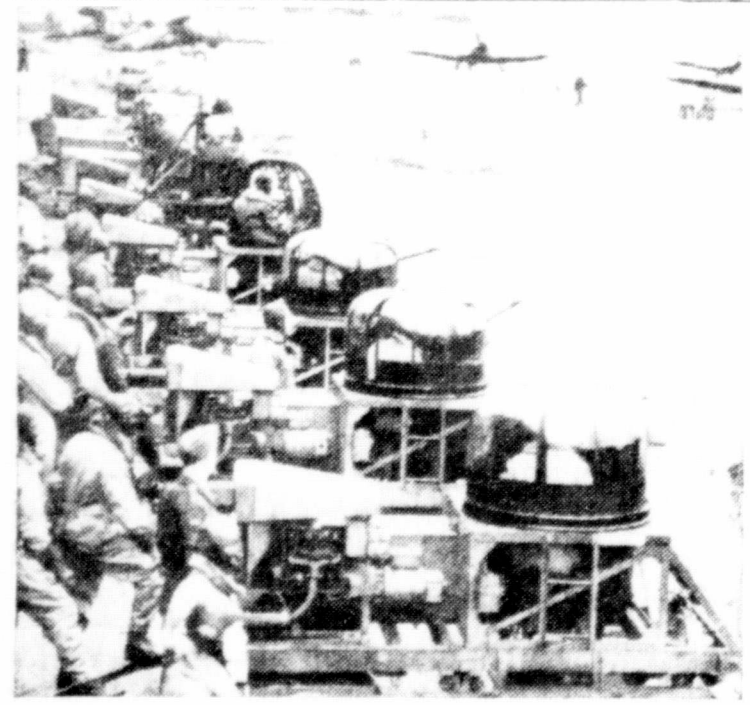

In both H-bombs received a group of foreign correspondents at the Warsaw airport. "Gentlemen," he said, "you have seen the ruins of Warsaw. Let that be a warning to those statesmen in London and Paris who still think of continuing this war."

SMELL.

It is well that Secretary Knox promptly answered by a cabinet contract with the State and the U. S. penitentiary at McNeil Island, Wash. They have had a long fight to get the United States Army. They were good soldiers and they were good citizens. They were good citizens and they were good soldiers. They were good citizens and they were good soldiers. They were good citizens and they were good soldiers.

PRISONERS.

When you get down to basic facts, you realize that the average human in most parts of the world is a little less sweeten a bad process. And that the average intelligence and technical aptitude of the majority of them are fundamentally it was legal.

LEARN TO DISH IT OUT—RAF cadets in training as air gunners practice quick turning and aiming of airplane power turrets, as plane in background flies past. Scene is at a school somewhere in Britain. This is one of first steps for young Brits in becoming expert air fighters.

Those who live by the sword shall perish by the sword.

A stormy night is pleasant to those who have known poverty. They are happy to have shelter.

NOT BEHEADED—Jean Crane, left, and Jo Carol Dennison, 20th Century girls, have not beheaded Monty Woolley, stage and screen actor. They're recording his famous whiskers in concrete in front of the Chinese theater in Hollywood.

"COME AND GET ME!"—That was what this Jap yelled at Yankees, as they advanced on Holtz Bay, Island of Attu. So they did. He neither will yell nor fight anymore. Yankees fought way over rough ground to capture Nip Island base.

Senator Says Antistrike Bill Plays Into Hands of Communistic-Minded

WASHINGTON, June 23.—Senator Lee O'Daniel of Texas yesterday took the floor in the Senate to condemn in strong language labor racketeers and the subversive policy of the national government in dealing with labor organizations and also to condemn the ideas of the Office of Price Administration, which, he charged, resulting in a shortage of food.

In the course of his speech he introduced the anti-strike bill, sponsored by Senator Tom Connally of Texas, and amended in the Senate by the addition of provisions from the bill by Representative Owen Smith of Virginia, as a legislative amendment.

The Texas senator also condemned activities of the office of price administration in strong language and declared, in effect, that Congress would curb the labor racketeers and abolish the office of price administration, the latter could be saved for demerit.

"I am very much concerned about the future of this country," he said, "and I am calling to assume its responsibility in correcting some of the fundamental evils which have grown up as a part of the labor movement."

The speaker told of the curriculum and of the work being done beginning with boys of the age of 14 years and above.

The course is a busy one, but fits the young man for a practical life, either in business or military occupation. The course stresses the military side, since the future safety of American liberties depends in a great measure upon the preparation of a nation to defend itself, and leaders are recognizing this fact now as never before, said the speaker.

"It is true that a few days ago we did get around to the point of passing some milk-and-eggs legislation providing that when the labor condition in a war industry became so bad that nothing could be done about it, the government would do what has already been done before the passage of the law, and that is he could take over industries and operate them. I can think of nothing more pleasing to Communist labor leaders than for Congress to pass a law providing for the government to take over and operate industries. That is exactly what they want to see done in this country. This law not only provides for the government to take over and operate industries, but it places in the hands of labor the club by which they can force the industries to be taken over by the government. If labor refuses to strike, the government does not penalize labor but, instead, penalizes the owners of the property by seizing their property. In other words, the law provides punishment for the hold-up victim instead of the bandit."

STATED MEET CISCO MASONS FRIDAY NIGHT

The regular stated meeting of Cisco Lodge No. 556, A. F. & A. M., will not be held Thursday night, the regular monthly meeting, as that date is St. John's Day, a festival date in Masonry. Hence the regular stated meeting has been postponed until Friday night, 8 o'clock, June 25.

At this meeting the officers-elect will be installed, says Secretary L. D. Wilson.

POP GARRETT M'CREA CHILD TOLD LIONS IS IN DANGER—ABOUT SCHOOLHOUSE CONDITION

Lion C. M. Nevill had charge of the program at the Lions luncheon today, presenting Maj. H. R. Garrett in a talk on the Riverside Military Academy at Gamesville, Ga., which he is representing in Texas as field train during the summer vacation period.

Following the program Cecil Kirk was invited into the club and presented with his membership pin by Past President O. L. Stamey. Lion Kirk spoke his appreciation of being a member of the organization and invited the members to visit him at his work as an instructor at the women's ordnance training center.

Major Garrett (better known to Ciscoans as Pop Garrett), told something of the location of his school, which is in the foothills of the Smoky Mountain range of north Georgia, well away from the malaria districts, in a section famous for the raising of poultry.

The speaker told of the curriculum and of the work being done beginning with boys of the age of 14 years and above.

The course is a busy one, but fits the young man for a practical life, either in business or military occupation. The course stresses the military side, since the future safety of American liberties depends in a great measure upon the preparation of a nation to defend itself, and leaders are recognizing this fact now as never before, said the speaker.

The school is sponsored by the war department and is operated from the standpoint of military discipline, with the thought in mind that the students are still boys rather than men. The merit and demerit system is practiced, said Major Garrett and each year the student has an opportunity to wipe out former records and begin the year anew.

President N. C. Huston thanked Lion Nevill for his program, while the speaker was congratulated upon his connection with the school. President Huston also announced that the installation of new officers would be held next week.

Word from a Ft. Worth hospital at noon today held out hope for the recovery of Lewellen McCrea, 7-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Yancey McCrea. At an earlier hour there had been little hope for the lad, but Dr. E. L. Graham arrived later and gave hope that the boy might recover and at the same time retain his arm, which the earlier report indicated might have to be amputated.

Lewellen, who celebrated his seventh birthday June 16, fell from a gate at the McCrea ranch north of Cisco, Friday afternoon, fracturing the bones of the lower right arm so badly that it was decided to take him to a specialist at Ft. Worth. The arm could not be set until Saturday morning and it was then placed in a cast and the child accompanied his parents back to Cisco. The arm began paining him so severely yesterday that the cast was removed and it was found that gangrene had set in and he was returned to the Ft. Worth hospital.

Last night his father, whose blood corresponds to his, gave him a transfusion and Dr. Graham, who had just returned from New York, arrived on the scene and gave the family hope that both the arm and life of the patient might be saved.

CANNED VEGETABLES FOR THE ORPHANS

Supt. N. R. Hawkins of the Presbyterian orphan home at Itasca will be at the Presbyterian camp here Saturday and Sunday, preaching at the First Presbyterian church Sunday morning.

Superintendent and Mrs. Hawkins will accompany a group of students here to attend the senior conference which convenes at Lake Cisco next week. The pioneers, who are here from the home this week, will accompany Mr. and Mrs. Hawkins back to Itasca.

It has been the custom of Presbyterians and friends of the denomination to donate canned fruits and vegetables to the home each year and members of the Presbyterian auxiliary are asked to contribute at least two jars each of fruit or vegetables, according to Mrs. J. E. Caffrey.

Dr. Gary L. Smith, pastor of the church, has announced that if these canned goods are delivered to the church not later than Sunday afternoon, Superintendent Hawkins will take them back to the home with him when he returns Monday morning.

ROBBINS' AIRPORT LEASE IS TERMINATED

A number of matters of a routine nature were discussed by the city commission at its regular meeting last night, among which were the tentative sale of some city-owned lots and recommendations having to do with some water accounts.

On investigation of records it was learned that a number of water meters had been discontinued, but that 14 more meters had been disconnected during the period beginning May 15, showing that Cisco had gained that many new families.

Reg Robbins, who has had the city airport under lease, asked the city commission last night to terminate his lease since the government had taken all his private planes, making it impossible for him to operate the airport for any purpose.

JOE LEA MOORE IS HOME FROM NORFOLK, V.A.

Joe Lea Moore, pharmacist mate, first class, U. S. naval hospital, Norfolk, Va., is back at home for a few days' visit with his mother, Mrs. W. W. Moore, and his brother, Wightman Moore.

The naval officer says his principal duties of late have been driving an ambulance and that the carrying in of wounded soldiers is a common routine in his daily rounds.

Mr. Moore says he likes his work—it is not too demanding and is more or less interesting. He said he inquired of a higher officer about asking for sea duties, but the officer told him he would get plenty of that later, so he is biding his time.

MULHEIM BOMBED.

LONDON, June 23.—Hundreds of big British bombers turned vital war factories at Mulheim in western Germany last night into a blazing mass visible for 100 miles as the intensified Anglo-American aerial assault on Europe moved forward in high gear. Approximately 1000 tons of bombs were dropped on Mulheim, a Ruhr valley steel center.

LEWIS ISSUED ORDER LAST NIGHT AND ALL OF 530,000 STRIKERS EXPECTED TO RETURN AT ONCE

WASHINGTON, June 23.—Striking bituminous and anthracite miners began returning to the pits today to work until Oct. 31 under government control.

The back-to-work order came from the United Mine Workers Policy Committee. It met with UMW President John L. Lewis last night and instructed the 530,000 striking miners to call off their two-day strike.

The order was effective immediately, but reports from the coal fields indicated the mines could not be returned to full production for two or three days.

The miners were instructed to work until Oct. 31 under the direction of Solid Fuels Administrator Harold L. Ickes, custodian of the mines since they were seized by the government May 1. No explanation was given for the Oct. 31 limit. The miners will work under the terms of the 1941-43 coal wage contract as modified by the war labor board to give the miners wage gains totaling about 20 cents daily.

Union officials were authorized to continue pressing claims for underground travel pay, the major issue in the dispute in which the miners, the coal operators and the WLB have been involved for three months.

The only apparent hitch to general acceptance of Lewis' terms lay in the effectiveness of protests that the miners should not be permitted to insist that the government operate the mines. The union's refusal to accept last week's WLB order represented continued defiance of the board.

There was also speculation on what effect the agreement to end the strike may have on presidential action on the Connally-Harness-Smith anti-strike bill. It becomes law automatically at 12:01 a. m. Saturday unless the President vetoes or signs it before then.

Administration officials are known to be urging a veto on the theory that it legalizes strikes.

Although the order to end the coal strike—the third in two months—came too late to prevent some cuts in steel production, it forestalled threats of serious curtailment. Only a few hours before it was issued, War Production Board Chairman Donald M. Nelson warned that curtailed steel production would have a "disastrous effect" on the armament program and essential civilian economy.

The union action came shortly after the War Labor Board had referred the strike to the President and urged him to use his full powers to enforce compliance with the WLB wage order, which was rejected by the union as a "yellow dog" contract.

Lewis, announcing the policy committee action after he had conferred for two days with Ickes, said the move was based on the union's decision Sunday when it spurned the WLB order but offered to work for the government.

By agreeing to continue on the 1941-43 wage scale, plus War Labor Board increases, Lewis accepted the WLB wage stipulations without bowing formally to the board. And he attached the condition that the agreement will remain in force only if the government retains control of the mines.

... and I says to the Top Sarg...
"Listen, Sarg, you'd think this Tommy gun was the same as that light-cylinder motor in my dad's car, the way you want her oiled up every day!" And the Sarg says, "You listen! I ran a filling station before I joined up and I know a lot of things about oil. I sold that Conoco No. 1 oil. It oil-plates and protects the engine's insides on the order of chrome-plating protecting your bumpers." I've got a lot of respect for the Top Sarg, so Dad, if I inherit that light-cylinder job when I get back for the love of Mike, take her over and have her oil-plated with Conoco No. 1.
