ALLIES ENTER SICILY TO BATTLE FOR EUROPE

REDS FIGHT MANFULLY FOR THE HOMELAND

MOSCOW, July 10.—The Red Army, seizing the initiative after halting German panzer spearheads in a gigantic tank battle, has wiped out Nazi wedges in its lines near Belgorod and driven the enemy back to his initial positions, front dispatches said today.

The Soviet counter-attacks were buttressed by reserves rushed to the threatened Belgorod sector as the battle of the Southern front entered its sixth day on a note of rising fury.

Every attempt of the Germans to exploit their wedges near Belgorod was frustrated by the fierceness of the Soviet defense and the launching of the Russian counter-attacks sent the battle into a new phase.

77 GIRLS TO FINISH COURSE

Students attending the Cisco Ordnance Training Center, assigned to the 7 a. m. to 3 p. m. shift, are scheduled to complete their course July 23. There are approximately seventy-seven of these girls who will return to their official posts, ready to go to work, following this graduation.

On June 30 the school received 83 new trainees from Georgia, South Carolina, Mississippi, Alabama, Louisiana, Arkansas and points in Texas. These trainees are assigned to the 3 p. m. to 11 p. m. shift.

The director of the school, J. R. Crawford, has been informed that three or four more army trucks are being sent from Camp Nemoyle. These trucks will be used for instructional purposes.

Present plans are to have open house at the Ordnance Center in the very near future, it was announced Saturday. On that occasion the public will be invited to see the students at actual work. Director Crawford said the school appreciated the cooperation shown by citizens of Cisco, and they want the people to see the school as it appears each day in study and instruction.

NEW WELL DRILLING AT LEERAY

The beginning of a new oil well on the site of the old oil boom town of Leeray revives memories of that period of the development of Stephens county to the north of Cisco, when material had to be hauled from Cisco or Ranger to build the numerous homes and business houses that graced the town for a short period.

The Premier Oil & Refining company of Longview, with local headquarters at Ranger, is drilling the well, which is located on the Thorpe land on which the town was built. The company is using a modern heavy duty rotary machine and expects to go a depth of 4,000 feet or less. They expect to pick up the Caddo lime for pay, but will go deeper if necessary.

The townsite of Leeray was laid out and lots sold at an auction held early in 1920 by the late R. Q. Lee and J. W. Ray, builders of the C & N E. railroad. Mr. Lee was president of the road and died several years later while serving this district as congressman at Washington. Mr. Ray is living at San Ysidro, Calif.

After a few years the wells quit producing probably from improper handling, and the town died—all buildings being finally moved or allowed to crumble in decay, the land reverting to the Thorpe estate.

O. G. Lawson of Cisco, experienced oil driller, who is familiar with the situation at Leeray, is hopeful that the field will be rejuvenated through the use of modern drilling methods.

BIG GUNS OF WARSHIPS START CHAIN OF FLAMES AND SMOKE EXTENDING TEN MILES INLAND

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS, North Africa, July 10.—The United Nations opened the battle of Europe today by sending powerful invasion forces swarming onto the beaches of Sicily, and the first eye-witness reports said a bombardment by Allied warships had "started a chain of smoke and flames" stretching 10 miles into the island.

A mighty aerial umbrella aided the Allied invasion forces which were made up of American, British and Canadian troops. Meager and unofficial reports said the invasion aided by heavy naval support was "proceeding according to plan."

Indications were that the Axis defenders were putting up a stiff fight.

The Allied amphibious operations under command of Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower began after two weeks of mounting aerial onslaught that was continued by hundreds of airplanes up to Friday, when U. S. Liberators from the Middle East smashed Comiso and Taormina, 30 miles south of Messina, causing heavy damage.

A furious naval barrage that illuminated sections of the Sicilian coast opened the invasion operations in darkness as the Allied fleet—including battleships—threw through the enemy mine field and put assault troops ashore in tank-carrying barges. There was no immediate indication that Mussolini's scattered and battered Italian fleet accepted the challenge to fight the invasion.

The first phase of the attack on Sicily, regarded popularly as the opening move in establishment of a second front, was designed to establish bridgeheads and strong Axis opposition was anticipated in the air and on the ground.

(London reports describing the greatest Allied offensive of the war suggested that parachute and air-borne troops were used by the Allies to crash through the strong Sicilian defenses, manned by an estimated 300,000 Italians and Germans. Radio Morocco reported the landings were "being consolidated" on the west coast of Sicily, but it was believed many landings had been made around the shores of the island, with the ports of Catania, Palermo and Trapani as well as Comiso and Gerbini Airdromes as the main objective.)

(The reported landing at the western tip of Sicily indicated that the first Allied objectives included the important Axis air bases of Trapani, Marsala, Mazzaro, Milo and Castelvetrano, all on the western end of the island linked by a network of good roads with the big port of Palermo.)

The Allied invasion forces specially trained in American-built landing barges for many weeks, were reported meeting "strong resistance" in the first phase of fighting on European soil just two months after the last Axis forces were driven from Africa.

Eisenhower, following issuance of a communique announcing the landings, broadcast a message to occupied France in which he described the invasion of Sicily as "the first stage in the liberation of the European Continent" and told the French people to remain calm until they were called upon to act, which he hinted might be soon.

The special communique at 5:10 a. m. from Allied Headquarters said:

"Allied forces under command of General Eisenhower began landing operations on Sicily early this morning. The landings were preceded by Allied air attack. Allied naval forces escorted the assault forces and bombarded the coast defenses during the assault."

The crossing of the 90-mile "moat" from Tunisia to the rugged island of Sicily, which once had 4,000,000 population, was made in all types of naval craft including special landing barges brought under their own power from the United States to strike at Italy just three years and one month after Mussolini stabbed France in the back.

For two weeks huge Allied air fleets based in Northwest Africa and the Middle East had hammered at Sicily with thousands of tons of bombs seeking to knock out Axis air power, demolish air bases, destroy railroad facilities and ports and isolate the island from the Italian mainland. For the last seven days the air attack had been almost continuous, day and night.

Then the converted freighters, the big battleships, the fast destroyers, the heavily armed cruisers and the new type landing barges—heavily armed and heavily protected—were assembled by the hundreds and put out in darkness from the African coast. Crouching in the barges and jammed aboard the transports were American troops that had been practicing invasion assaults for weeks and were toughened and ready for the hardest battle of their lives.

There were Canadian troops, too—the rough-and-ready soldiers who had been waiting (presumably until recently in England) for the chance to avenge their comrades who fell at Dieppe and had long been promised the honor of spearheading the invasion of Hitler's European fortress.

The British forces, which chased Nazi Marshal Erwin Rommel across Africa and into the sea, were the third part of the Allied team which struck at Sicily in an operation that found land, sea and air forces co-operating magnificently under Eisenhower's command.

GRIM YANKS HIT MUNDA IN ALL-OUT

SOUTHWEST PACIFIC, July 10.—American jungle forces deployed east and north of Munda, main Japanese base in the central Solomons, today for an all-out assault following a massive naval plane and artillery bombardment that pulverized its defenses.

U. S. warships laid down the initial barrage under cover of darkness just before dawn and more than 100 Avengers and Dauntless bombers, with an escort of Wildcats, took over the offensive in the first light of day.

The arrival of the armada, largest ever mustered for a single operation in the South Pacific theater, dropped more than 70 tons of bombs ranging up to one-ton block-busters on Japanese bunkers, supply dumps and anti-aircraft positions between Munda Point and Lambeti.

SECOND UNION SERVICE 8:30 THIS EVENING

Rev. Fred Hamner, superintendent of the San Angelo district of the Methodist church, will preach at First Methodist church this morning at 10:30 and again this evening on the lawn at 8:30. He has preached each evening during the past week, the general theme of his sermons having been "The Church."

The two services today will bring to a close the week's meetings which, according to the pastor, Rev. Leslie Seymour, has been very valuable in the matter of giving emphasis to some of the fundamental doctrines of the Christian faith.

The evening service is the second in the Union meetings sponsored for the summer by the Presbyterian, the Christian and the Methodist churches.

BUY A WAR STAMP AT THE PALACE

One of the U. S. treasury's goals for July is for every American to purchase $1 in war stamps out of their extra change.

This flood of extra money from the hands of 131,669,275 Americans will be more than enough to build and equip a mighty Mystery Aircraft Carrier, Shangri-La, to bomb Tokyo again.

This is a movement in which every man, woman and child in Cisco should participate. Buy one for the babe in arms—he'll be proud to know some day that he had a part in the maintenance of world freedom.

War stamps can be obtained at many Cisco business establishments, including the Palace theater. Ask for them.

BILL ST. JOHN OF THE OPA IS CISCO VISITOR

Will F. St. John, who moved to Texarkana about two years ago to become assistant attorney in the rentals department of the OPA, and who was later transferred to Dallas in the same capacity, arrived in Cisco Friday night on a short business trip and to see his many local friends.

Mr. St. John stated that his son, Capt. John St. John, who was born here, played on the Lobo football team and graduated from Cisco high school, is now with the armed forces in North Africa. He arrived in that country a short while before the Allied forces captured Tunisia. The captain's last letter said he was in hospital, a victim of mumps.

Another Ciscoan, W. H. Kittrell, Jr., is also in Africa, Mr. St. John stated. He had a letter from Kittrell recently and he was in good shape and actually enjoying the novel experience. Kittrell is not a member of the armed forces, although there is a representative of this government.

Rev. Hadley A. Hall of Amarillo, district president of Nazarene Young People's Society, will be in charge of young people's meetings. Rev. L. H. Clegg, Cisco pastor, is in charge of arrangements.

LT. WILLIAMS BE STATIONED SAN ANTONIO

Mr. and Mrs. T. C. Williams are in receipt of notice from the army that their son, Lt. Thomas Coleman Williams, Jr., is being graduated and commissioned in a maintenance engineers' class from the technical school army air force's command at Yale University, New Haven, Conn. The Cisco boy had already been chosen cadet captain of his class.

Entrance requirements for this training is that one be a graduate of a college of the first class. Lieutenant Williams was a graduate of the engineering department of Texas Tech and had been employed by the railroad commission as petroleum engineer for the past two years. He resigned to volunteer into the service.

Williams is 26 years of age and was born in Haskell, just before the parents came to Cisco in 1918. He attended the public schools of Cisco before entering the college at Lubbock.

Lieutenant Williams was married to Miss Margaret Looman of Borger about two years ago. They will be in Cisco July 15, enroute to his station, the San Antonio Air Service command.

MR. AND MRS. GRIMES LIKE CISCO MARKET

Mr. and Mrs. George Grimes of near Cross Plains were in Cisco Friday, selling melons and chickens. Melons brought nice prices and were of good quality.

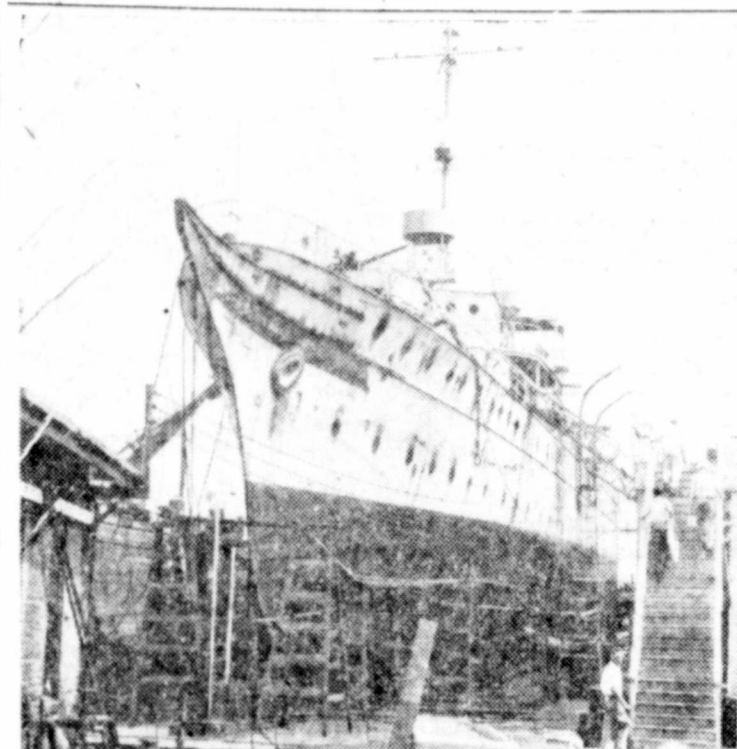

They peddled their chickens and each fryer brought an average of 85 cents. They found a ready market for them and will be back with more pretty soon.

Mrs. Grimes said they decided this year that they would try intensive farming and poultry raising. Eggs brought good prices all spring and so their 100 hens have paid them fair returns. They have not gathered less than 60 eggs any day thus far, they said. This has been an average of about $1.65 per day. They think they

Texas during the summer of 1943 will become the largest single factor in the nation's synthetic rubber program, with plants with an aggregate production capacity of 255,000 tons coming into being.
