ISOLATIONISTS MISINTERPRET WASHINGTON

Avent O Gunn of Wichita Falls, young nephew of Rev. Cooper Bates, was a visitor at Rotary luncheon today, when Rotarian J. L. Callaway read a transcript of the April 6 radio talk of Cedric Belfrage.

President Lonnie Shockley announced that the Cisco club had an attendance of 96.25 percent for June, standing second in the district thus maintaining its place in the upper-ten bracket which it has held for many months past. President Shockley also announced that Secretary Pete Nance was in the hospital, following an appendectomy yesterday. Dr. E. L. Gibson said Rotarian Nance was getting along as well as could be expected, but could not have visitors for a few days.

Rotarian Callaway, in beginning his program said he liked the Belfrage address so well which he had it he wrote for a copy, and then proceeded to read it as his luncheon program.

The subject of the address was the message that George Washington sent to congress, which has been taken as a text for isolationists through the years, pointing out that this message warned against the young nation to avoid entangling foreign alliances.

The speaker gave the text of the message which has been so often quoted as preaching a message that wrecked the policy of President Woodrow Wilson, and that of a premature grave with a broken heart, but denied that meant what it has been so often quoted to mean, and telling what it really said and meant.

The message emphasized that the young nation, being young in all of its affairs, should court favor with all nations, cultivating trade and friendly relations, to the end that it might have peace and thus gain time for its industries to grow.

What it did mean, the speaker said, was that we should avoid making a treaty of alliances with any nation regarding quarrels with other nations of Europe—quarrels about petty quarrels and differences that were no concern of ours, but which would only make enemies of nations which our ally would be fighting.

Mr. Callaway handled his paper in a clear manner, making his point very obvious to all Rotary members. He received hearty congratulations for the timely message which he brought, and which should be vital to every American who would help solve the after-war problems that will inevitably confront us as one of the powerful nations of the post-war-time union.

BRECKENRIDGE BOY WAS IN IT

Capt. Edwin Sayre Breckenridge boy and son of Mr. and Mrs. A. N. Sayre of that city, who led 35 parachute troops in the night at Hill 41, in Sicily, was highly praised in press dispatches describing the historic encounter between Americans and the Axis forces. The story is very interesting and is as follows:

The men of the second battalion, who went through the hell of Hill 41, marched into Nassim today.

They had fought and won an outstanding victory in the Sicilian invasion. With a single anti-tank gun, they refused to yield before a mass attack by 20 German tanks and used pistols on the enemy armor when they had nothing else. They even staged a counter-attack.

I found their headquarters on a side street in this sun-baked village. Officers of the American infantry battalion, their eyes glazed from lack of sleep, told me of their 48-hour fight.

"I swear I never saw anything like it," said Capt. Robert Irvine of Framingham, Mass. "You're supposed to have anti-tank guns against tanks and not supposed to fight them with your hands. But that's almost what we had to do."

"I saw tanks knocked out by mortars. I saw men stand up in their slit trenches and shoot pistols and grenades at them. One man even threw an anti-tank rifle grenade at a tank from close range and he set it afire."

At the height of the battle there were only 45 men and nine officers on Hill 41, and they couldn't be knocked off. Later they were joined by 35 parachute troops under Capt. Edwin Sayre of Breckenridge, Texas, and those men were "the best troops I ever saw," Capt. Fred Hall of Hudson, N. H., said.

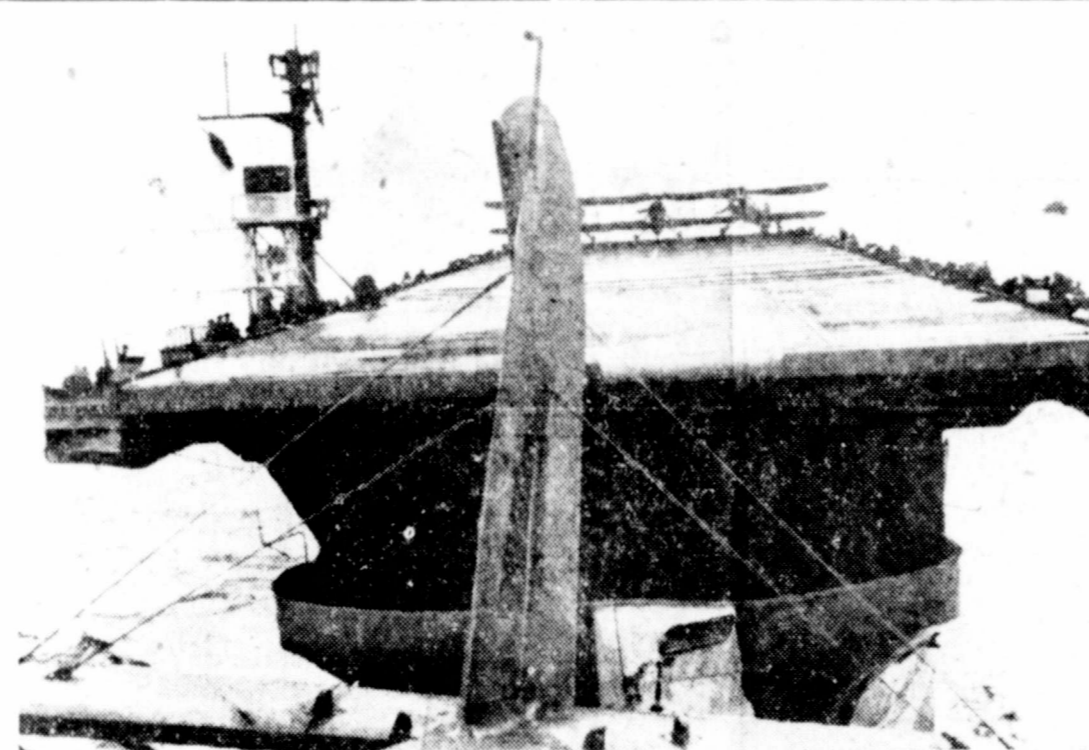

"Who was out-leading in the night?" Irvine was asked. "That's hard to say. It was sort of a family affair."

A tank went over everybody's foxhole at least once and Capt. Edwin F. Wozenski of Terryville, Conn., who especially was praised by his comrades. He had eight tanks approach within 25 yards of him once.

"Some of the men ran off when the tanks came on," Wozenski said. "I wanted to take off too but my men were looking at me, and I couldn't run. In fact, I didn't know what to do. I stayed."

SO THEY BOUGHT ORANGES—U. S. Army nurses on vacation from duties in the South Pacific start out to see Sydney, Australia. Here they meet a fruit vendor with his red and green cart heaped with oranges, which they buy. Junior answers "Ta," when they give him sixpence. Girls put up at American Red Cross nurses' club.

YOIKS! A SUB!—Pilot from British airplane carrier Archer sounds hunting horn over radio when he spots sub, whereupon mates aboard ship go out a-hunting. Archer is a converted merchant ship protecting Allied convoys on Atlantic. Men from carrier have accounted for one U-boat, also one "possible" and two "probables."

BULLET STOPPED BY BIBLE

Mrs. E. P. Whitaker, 603 E. Sixth street, has a copy of the Weatherford Democrat of July 8 in which is carried a letter from Don Thomas, a Parker county young man and friend of the Whitaker family, who is with the U. S. forces abroad. Thomas, writing to his sister, tells of his miraculous escape from death when a bullet entered the Bible he was carrying in his breast pocket. The writer's own words follow:

"Thinking I was dead, my pal jumped for me, grabbed my carbine as well as his own and stood astride my body, blasting away with both guns. He was shot to his knees with three bullets, but when he finished there was not one of the attacking party left."

"He was amazed when I rolled over and tried to get up. The force of the bullet had stunned me. Dazedly I pulled that little Bible out of my pocket and looked at the ugly hole in the cover. It had ripped through Genesis, Exodus, Leviticus, Numbers and on through the other books."

"Where do you think it stopped? In the middle of Psalm 91, pointing like a finger at these verses: 'A thousand shall fall at thy side and ten thousand at thy right hand; but it shall not come nigh thee. Only with thine eyes shalt thou behold and see the reward of the wicked.'"

"Six, when I read that verse it raised me three feet off the ground. I did not know there was such a verse in the Bible. I'd been reading mostly in the New Testament. I read the rest of the chapter and, in utter humiliation, said: 'Thank you, precious God,' and felt like a little boy that had escaped the mouth of an enemy of prey."

"When I got my buddy back to the post he said: 'I've had enough. This convinces me. I want to get right with God, starting now.' He wouldn't let them tend his wounds. He said nothing matters now but this. He stayed on his knees, his body became numb, he couldn't move, but he wouldn't get up. When the Lord finally came in, he moved. That soldier went crazy for God."

IN CENTRAL AND WESTERN SICILY YANKS AND CANUCKS TAKE OVER 18 MORE TOWNS

NORTH AFRICA, July 22.—Axis defenses collapsed rapidly in central and western Sicily today as American and Canadian armies captured 18 more towns and slashed through Castelvetro to within 22 miles of the western-most tip of the island while other columns pushed swiftly toward the north coast.

The British Eighth Army still was locked in furious battle at Catania, but the rest of the Allied line surged forward at the rate of a mile an hour in some sectors with the Americans driving nearer to Termini and Palermo on the north coast. Large enemy elements were believed isolated in the western part of Sicily. The Americans were last reported 15 miles from the north coast.

The swiftest advance was made by the Americans, who covered 35 miles in 36 hours as they swept from Agrigento through Sciacca and Menfi on the south coast and captured the important town and base of Castelvetro, only 22 miles from Marsala at the western end of the island.

Field dispatches indicated that the northernmost point reached by the Americans in the western part of the island was about 15 miles south of Palermo. The capture of Palermo or Termini, both on the north coast, would break the last Axis communication lines in the north and split the island in two.

The fall of Castelvetro gave the Allies one of the most important air fields in Sicily, which had been used by the Axis for air patrol over the Sicilian Straits.

Eisenhower's communique said Axis troops, almost all of them Germans, were strongly contesting every inch of ground around Catania and field reports told of ferocious counter-attacks.

The crack Hermann Goering Division, the 15th German Panzer Division and paratroop elements were reported taking full advantage of the natural defenses offered by three large rivers and innumerable rushing streams in a so-far futile effort to stem the slow, but steady British Eighth Army advance.

The battlefield was littered with German bodies and fighting was so intense that neither side paused to bury its dead.

An Algiers broadcast said the fall of Catania could be expected hourly with the situation of defending troops becoming desperate at all points.

Official sources reported that the enemy still was pouring reinforcements into Sicily from the Hermann Goering Division, especially paratroopers. German forces previously stationed in central and western Sicily also have been transferred to the Catanian front.

Canadian troops were hammering forward in the central sector, between the American and British flanks, against what the communique called "determined resistance."

American forces which captured Caltanissetta, west of Enna, Sunday found civil and military and large stores intact despite orders from the Italian command that they be destroyed.

GUY PARKER ACTIVE V. P. EASTLAND B'NK

At a meeting of the board of directors of the Eastland National Bank, Saturday, Guy Parker of Eastland was named active vice-president and cashier. He was also elected to the board of directors. Mr. Parker succeeds Albert Taylor, retired, as active vice-president. W. C. Campbell continues as president of the bank. Parker's promotion follows others he has had since going with the Eastland National. When the bank was organized in 1934 he became assistant cashier. Later he was promoted to cashier and in April this year was named cashier-manager. Parker, who is 45, has been a resident of Eastland since 1912. For the past 20 or more years he has been engaged in the banking business, two years of which time he served with the state banking department at Austin in the capacity of liquidating agent. He also served two years as Eastland city manager.

THINKS ROME SHOULD NOT BE BOMBED

WASHINGTON, July 22.—Pope Pius XII has appealed to the Allies to refrain from further bombings of Rome and warned that future generations will pass severe judgment upon those who destroy what ought to be zealously protected as the riches and pride of all humanity and of the progress of peoples.

The Pope revealed that in the heavy United States raid in Rome Monday the Roman Basilica of St. Peter was almost completely destroyed.

"The sorrowful experience of these acts," he said, "proves once again that despite the precautions that may be taken it is almost impossible to avoid, on this sacred soil of Rome, the destruction of venerated edifices."

MAMIE TIEMAN OF ROUTE TWO JOINS WACS

The U. S. army induction office, Dallas, informs the Daily Press that Mamie B. Tieman, route two, Cisco, has been ordered to report at that office on July 23 for active duty in the woman's army reserve corps.

Upon completion of processing, she will proceed to Fort Oglethorpe, Ga., and will report to the commanding officer for basic training. This training lasts five weeks, when she will be eligible for entrance into one of the corps' six specialist schools—administrative, motor transport, cooks and bakers, radio and television, photographic and music, and for appointment to officer training school.

Bureau of Public Relations U. S. War Department
AWARDED SILVER STAR—Maj. Gen. Stafford LeRoy Irwin, native of Fort Monroe, Virginia, was awarded the Silver Star for gallantry in action on the Tunisian front in February, 1943. He had command of artillery in an important sector, and the citation reads, "he established his observation post in front of all support and refused to quit his post even after 12 hours of terrific artillery shelling. He accomplished his mission and his coolness, ability and conspicuous leadership contributed toward the success of the battle."

EQUALIZATION BOARD NAMED BY COMMISSION

The city commission met in called session last night and named an equalization board composed of K. H. Pittard, W. J. Foxworth and J. E. Burnam. The board held its first session this morning. In this connection it is stated that those who have not rendered their property may call now and have their names placed on the rendered roll.

Because of the dry weather, the commission extended for one month the 5,000-gallon free water concession to city patrons.

Present: Edward Lee, mayor; J. J. Collins, C. J. Kleiner, A. D. Anderson, George Boyd, commissioners; George W. Downie, city secretary.

FORT WORTH POLIO CASES STAND AT 79

FT. WORTH, July 22.—Four new Fort Worth polio cases, all at Methodist Hospital, today brought the total number of patients under treatment in the city and county to 79.

Gov. Coke R. Stevenson said today he will confer with Dr. George Cox, state health officer, on polio conditions in Texas. The announcement was made after receiving a letter from Neville G. Penrose, Fort Worth oil operator, asking that the governor declare a state emergency in Texas and request the aid of the U. S. army in cleaning up unsanitary conditions.

Penrose had proposed a statewide clean-up, suggesting that army camps be scattered over Texas and have sanitation equipment and personnel that could be used in a health drive.

FAT HEN IS NO LONGER SAFE IN EAST

WASHINGTON, July 22.—The army, seeking poultry which it has been unable to buy at price ceilings, and the OPA, striving to break up black market operations in the Delmarva area, the East's largest producer, watched the highways today ready to requisition any supplies that showed up.

The first requisition was made Wednesday near Dover, Del., where state police, accompanied by OPA inspectors, stopped poultry trucks. The army, which made the actual requisition, received its authority from the war food administration, acting under the second war powers act.

Requisitioning followed a six-month investigation by OPA inspectors in the Delmarva area, which includes parts of Delaware, Maryland and Virginia, and which resulted in 40 indictments alleging black market operations.

his own world's record for financing war. Starting Sept. 9, the nation's third war loan drive will seek to raise $15,000,000,000—and if previous records are any criterion, the response will go far beyond that goal.

RELENTLESS ADVANCE

MOSCOW, July 22.—The battle for Orel neared the decisive stage today as Red Armies smashed to within seven and a half miles of the German bastion from the north and 11 miles from the east and narrowed the escape corridor to the west to less than 30 miles. Russian forces north and east of Orel were fighting inside the city's main defenses, front dispatches said, and were beating off furious enemy counter-attacks in relentless advances on the stronghold held by the Germans since 1941.

LET'S ALL HELP

Our soldiers seem to be traveling fast, but using lots of ammunition and supplies. If as some military commander said, an army travels on its stomach, then our boys at the front certainly need full stomachs. Let's not complain if Uncle Sam saves the best back for them and leaves what remains for us.

A patriotic home-front helps the morale for our fighters, and some how or other, they find out what is going on at home.

KEEP COOL

Mister!

This is indeed a time for men and women to keep cool in their thinking and in their actions — politically and in their every-day relations with each other.

In this time of the world when it is the part of the government to spread propaganda of intense partisanship as regards patriotic ideals and hate for enemies of civil liberties in foreign countries, we are prone to lose our coolness and sense of balance mentally and become hasty in decisions that affect our relations, one with another.

While perhaps a nation must don a spirit of hate for an enemy in time of war, and the people of that nation must become necessarily of that same fighting mind, yet we must think of things in a cool manner when they are not of a military character, for in becoming wrought up against our country's enemies, we may become too wrought up regarding other matters.

It behooves us as citizens of a country to whom the world looks for guidance, to keep cool in our relations and reaction toward that world of nations. We must plan for them, most especially for that period when we shall have ousted despots from seats of government and it becomes necessary to supplant them with proper rulers according to our tested ideas of free government.

And in dealing with our own problems at home, made more complex by a state of war in this nation, we must think carefully, and be just in the criticisms, which are a part of our liberties. Sentiment makes principles of government, whether they are good or bad. Strong propaganda becomes party platforms, sooner or later. Keep cool.
