STAFFORD WAS LION GUEST TODAY NOON

Lion S. H. Nance had charge of the program at the Lions luncheon today, presenting Staff Sgt. J. L. Stafford in a sort of answer-to-questions program.

Other guests at the club were R. N. Cluck, Haywood Cabanes, Tom Stark and George Jensen. Mr. Jensen, a representative of the Lone Star Gas company, was the guest of C. M. Nevill.

President R. W. McCauley announced the standing committee for the year, giving each chairman an outline of his duties.

Sergeant Stafford said he did not know just what Lions would want him to say, therefore he thought it best to simply answer questions that they might ask.

As a preliminary, the speaker passed around a fragment of a German shell that came up through the bottom of his plane and lodged in his parachute.

He then told a number of humorous incidents that came in his experience while serving with England as a base, one of which was the story of the sweetheart at home that he named his gun Annie in honor of her, and carried her picture in a locket that he always wore as a good-luck charm.

Forgotten one day, he said he knew he would be killed, but after the action came and bullet holes were all over everybody, he said he was glad that he had left Annie at home because it was surely no place for a lady. One thing that added humor to this story was that Stafford could stutter like the soldier.

Asked about the height of his plane while bombing he said that he never bombed at lower heights than 20,000 feet for fear of anti-aircraft guns, and his highest mark was 30,000 feet. He said he didn't know how much higher the air went, but there was plenty of it at that height, and plenty cold.

He reiterated that he was always scared when he went on those raids, but he was possibly worse scared when called upon to make a radio talk home. Then again when he was sent home he came on a ship and he thought that "here I have been on 25 trips and received no wounds, but now I will possibly be sunk with this ship." He said that he returned from one trip when the plane had 270 holes in it and some of them were big enough for a man to crawl through. He said he fully expected to be grounded and have to walk home from France.

Speaking of daylight and night bombing, he said that day bombing was always the most effective and was usually used to destroy military objectives where precision was needed. Night bombing was used to destroy towns where small targets were not needed. Of course, daylight bombing is also the more dangerous.

The sergeant said he never saw any pretty girls in England, and gave the climate as much to blame. The English lack color—men and women.

ALEXANDER WOUNDED IN AFRICA

Corp. Conrad Alexander, 29, with the signal battalion of the army air corps, North Africa, has been wounded in action and is now recovering in a hospital in that country. This information was received here Monday by his sister, Mrs. Paul M. Culp, and also by the young man's pastor, Rev. Leslie Seymour of the First Methodist church, the latter receiving a nice letter from Capt. William F. Shearin, U. S. army chaplain. The letter was dated July 20.

The Cisco young man received a broken leg and arm, burns on the other arm and shoulder and face wounds. Nevertheless, the message said he was going fairly well, was in good spirits and expected to be up as soon as the leg has healed.

Corporal Alexander is a son of W. J. Alexander of Nacogdoches, Tex., and located in Cisco in 1940 as an employee of the Western Auto-Associate Stores. He was an active member of the First Methodist church of this city and has been in the service a little more than a year and a half. He has been in North Africa since last October.

SEAMAN CLAY 17, IS HOME FROM NAVY

Elzie Lee Clay, seaman of the first class and son of Mrs. Bill Scabourne, is at home on a 30-day sick leave. The Cisco boy, who will be 17 years of age August 21, joined the navy February 22, 1942, and served ten months in the South Pacific area.

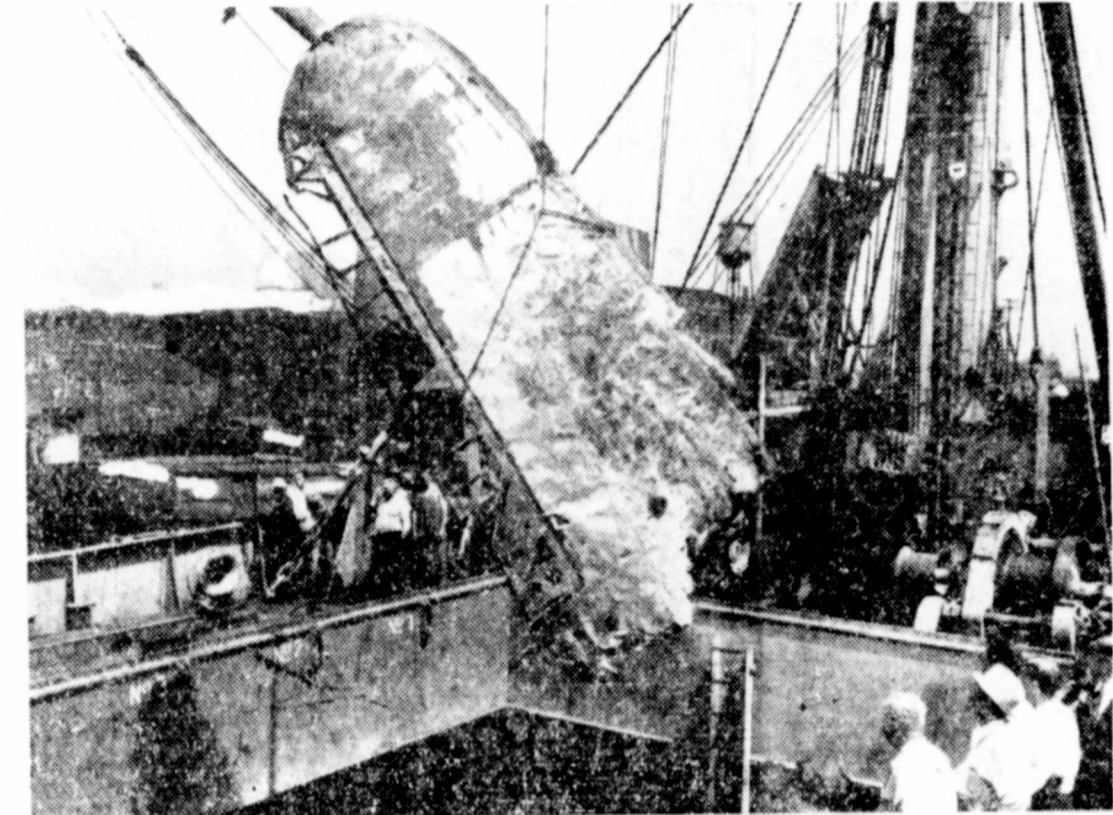

He was seriously wounded on December 16 and has been in Oak Knool hospital, Oakland, Calif., since February of this year. He participated in four major battles and has many interesting things to tell.

At present Seaman Clay, in company with his uncle, A. L. Theford, is visiting friends and relatives in Gatesville and Fort Worth. The young man has lived in Cisco all his life and attended Cisco schools before entering the service of his country.

CROPS IN ALAMEDA AREA ARE LAID BY

Mrs. John Love of the Alameda community reports to Floyd Lynch, county agent, that the farm labor problem in her community has been handled to date by all families swapping work. Six people have hired out and fifty school children laborers are being used. Average daily wage paid in this community was $2.25. Mrs. Love also announced that practically all crops have been laid by. Lynch says all community leaders have been sent forms for weekly reports on the labor situation in their respective areas.

Each community leader has been designated labor coordinator within his sector, and those desiring help or willing to help others should report to their leaders or coordinators, Lynch added.

AXIS JUNK—Thousands of tons of Axis tanks, trucks and planes wrecked in North African battles have been salvaged by Army and brought to Atlantic seaboard. Ten Liberty ships and freighters brought over first load. Above, battered wing of a warplane hoisted from hold of ship.

FLAMING CRASH—Six firemen on a ladder truck and the driver of a moving van were caught in a flaming torrent of gasoline, when this collision occurred in Washington, D. C. Three other cars were caught in smash. Firemen saved van driver.

HOTTEST WEATHER OF RECORD

Maximum temperature in Cisco today was 100 when the mercury reached that figure at 2:30 this afternoon. Maximum for Tuesday at this hour was 104, accompanied by hot winds.

Overshadowing the 105 degrees in Fort Worth Tuesday, though that mark tied an all-time record, were such readings as Vernon, 119; Electra, 118; Seymour, 116; Coleman, 114; Wichita Falls, 112; Abilene, 111; San Angelo, 111, for a 20-year record; Lubbock, 110; Throckmorton, 112; Quanah, 116; Snyder, 111, and Big Spring, 107.

Weather bureaus were searching records to try and find a higher mark than the official 119 degrees at Vernon, but the United States Weather Reporting Station attendant there said he had found none.

While no heat prostrations were reported at Vernon, he said he heard that some chickens dropped dead.

NAZIS BACK-STEP FAST TO DODGE TRAP

MOSCOW, Aug. 4.—Some 250,000 Germans began a general retreat from the Orel bulge today in a frantic effort to escape encirclement by converging Soviet armies that had narrowed the Axis corridor of withdrawal to less than 13 miles.

German defenses were crumbling all around the semi-circular Orel front and dispatches said the pace of the Russian advances from the north, south and east was so rapid the enemy was abandoning heavy equipment in his haste to avert another "Stalingrad" trap.

COAST GUARD MAGAZINE EDITOR PREDICTS

ANNAPOLIS, Aug. 4.—The semi-official U. S. Coast Guard magazine celebrated the organization's one hundred and fifty-third birthday in its own way today by predicting Japan would fall before December, 1944, and Germany soon thereafter.

"Japan will attack Russia, American armed forces will move into Siberia in great numbers; and Japan will be bombed into submission quickly. Though the American navy will suffer some severe losses in several gigantic sea engagements, it will completely over-power the Japanese battle fleet."

BRITAIN'S QUEEN 43.

LONDON, Aug. 4.—The bells of St. Paul's cathedral pealed a salute to Queen Elizabeth today as she celebrated her forty-third birthday quietly in the country with King George and the two princesses.

MANY PRISONERS.

SYDNEY, Australia, Aug. 4.—Japanese military authorities have reported to the International Red Cross at Geneva that they hold 10,166 Australian soldiers, including 898 officers, as prisoners of war, Francis Forde, Australian army minister, announced Tuesday.

ALLIED FORCES MAY LAND ON MAINLAND BEFORE THE MOPUP OF SICILY FINISHED

LONDON, Aug. 4.—The Badoglio government has clamped an 8 p. m. curfew on peace-clainging northern Italy. European reports said today, as hopes for Italy's early capitulation faded and the London Express predicted an Allied invasion of the Italian mainland "at any time."

A New York dispatch to the Express quoted "authoritative American quarters" as saying Anglo-American forces may land on the Italian mainland before the mopping-up of Sicily is completed. Authoritative quarters here declined to comment.

(Radio Rome, recorded by CBS, said the Badoglio government would hold a special meeting on Thursday to make an important decision. A train filled with German civilians from Milan left for Como, enroute to Germany, the British radio said. Radio Algiers said that Italian troops were moving from Dalmatia northwards toward the Fiume sector of Italy, where the Germans had been reported concentrating. The Italian radio propaganda continued to attack the Allies).

The new curfew regulation was reported to affect Milan, scene of some of the biggest peace demonstrations, Parma, Piacenza, Cremona, Brescia and a number of other cities and towns in northern Italy.

Rigid censorship obscured the situation inside Italy, but news filtering into Switzerland indicated that peace manifestations were continuing throughout the country, though apparently on a declining scale as it became clear that the Badoglio government has no intention of accepting unconditional surrender at this time.

Rome Radio asserted that while the Italian people desire peace, they do not want it at "any price." The Badoglio government was described as "a regime of liberty, but not of peace."

Rome's Giornale D'Italia was quoted by the broadcast as asserting that Italy's plight could not be solved "either in one day or in one month."

"The war is incumbent and continues," the Giornale said. Reports reaching Madrid from France said bankers and industrialists in Milan and Turin, largest industrial centers in northern Italy, have brought pressure to bear on the new government to make peace to save Italy from "complete bankruptcy."

British Foreign Secretary Anthony Eden last night in Commons again made a friendly gesture toward Italy, asserting that he was "only too ready . . . to aid her" provided the Allies can get bases on the Italian mainland from which to attack Germany.

The clandestine Leghorn radio was heard broadcasting that Italian crews "by an unmistakable show of force" frustrated three German attempts to take over Italian warships at Bourdeaux on the French Atlantic coast. There have been no previous reports that any Italian warships, except possibly submarines, have been in French Atlantic ports.

BOYS OF 18 LARGE CLASS GIVEN VOTE FINISHES AT BY GEORGIANS BOMB'R SCHOOL

ATLANTA, Ga., Aug. 4.—Georgia today apparently became the first state in the nation to grant voting privileges to 18-year-olds. Returns from yesterday's balloting gave almost certain approval of a measure to lower the voting age, and 27 other constitutional amendments sponsored by Gov. Ellis Rnall, to "complete my campaign promises to the people of Georgia."

State officials estimated, on the basis of selective service figures, that more than 160,000 names would be added to registration lists. The figures, however, included Negroes, who do not vote in Georgia Democratic primaries, whose nominations are tantamount to election.

Today's class, the ninth to graduate from the AAF Pilot School here, has been thoroughly schooled in every phase of maintaining and flying the 28-ton giant bomber.

GOOD RIDDANCE.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 4.—Leo T. Crowley, director of the office of economic warfare has dismissed John Bovington from his $5,800 post as an economic analyst in the OEI. Representative Dyes of Texas and other legislators had criticized Bovington's appointment on the ground that he was a former ballet dancer and had Communist leanings.

FT. WORTH, Aug. 4.—Lack of covered garbage cans was described as Fort Worth's principal sanitation defect by a state sanitation expert, as the one hundred and twenty-third case of infantile paralysis was admitted to a Fort Worth hospital and three other suspected cases remained under observation.

MONEY NEEDED TO FIGHT POLIO IN TEXAS

AUSTIN, Aug. 3.—An appeal for special funds to help combat infantile paralysis in Texas has been made by Gov. Coke Stevenson and Royall R. Watkins of Dallas, member of the state board of education.

Stevenson sent a telegram to the United States children's bureau urging that it supply additional money for the crippled children's division of the state department of education. The crippled children's division pays for treatment of poliomyelitis victims whose relatives are unable to do so.

Meanwhile Watkins sent an air mail appeal to Basil O'Connor, president of the national foundation for infantile paralysis, urging that everything possible be done to aid in combating the disease in Texas.

Infantile paralysis victims reported during July to the Texas state health department numbered 473, with 105 reported during the final week, Dr. George Cox, state health officer, announced. Total for the year was 649.

DEATH TRAP CLOSING.

SOUTHWEST PACIFIC, Aug. 4.—Japanese resistance at Munda has stiffened as American troops hammer at the enemy's last defenses, Gen Douglas MacArthur's report said today, but a continued advance is closing a death trap on that New Georgia base.

WORRIED—Downfall of Mussolini has repercussions in Bulgaria, where King Boris III, above, clashes over nation's role in war with Premier Bogdan Filoff. Filoff is Axis-minded.

GOOD PROGRESS.

The equalization board—K. H. Pittard and W. J. Foxworth—reports satisfactory progress in adjusting tax valuations of Cisco property, having about completed the interviewing phase of their duties. However, it is not possible yet to determine whether totals will show an increase or decrease in local values, George W. Downie, city secretary, says.

CLUES MISSING.

ALBANY, Ore., Aug. 4.—Police admitted today they had few clues to follow after 24 hours' investigation in the kidnaping of 3-day-old Judith Gurney, daughter of an AFL union official.

After the parade, refreshments will be served to all those who take part, it is stated.

HOLD BACK.

Too many people still do not know what inflation can mean. Here is a pertinent paragraph from an editorial in the current Women's Home Companion which goes far to point out its dangers and how to escape them.

"Twenty years ago inflation hit the defeated peoples of Central Europe, and there came a time when the price of a pound of bread in Berlin was a hundred million marks. Everybody suffered except a few speculators. You may remember the story of the retired professor whose life-endowment policy happened to mature. With the proceeds representing the savings of a lifetime he bought a postage stamp."

"That can't happen here." We move in that direction daily, with every wage rise and every price rise bringing nearer just such a terrible day.

"We plain people" says the Companion, "have a grave responsibility in combating inflation—the paramount duty of every good citizen today is to hold back. He must hold back from buying beyond his absolutely essential needs, this will relieve pressure on the market. He must hold back from demanding higher prices from the commodity he has to sell, whether goods, labor or services, this will help to keep down costs."

NAZI FEARS.

An example of the effect of Nazi propaganda is the fear of German prisoners, being transferred westward overseas, that they can not possibly reach these shores alive. "We'll never make it," they say. They have been told so much of the success of the U-boat campaign that apparently they do not believe any ship can safely negotiate the perilous passage. It is interesting that they seem to take it for granted that Nazi submarines would make no effort to spare hundreds of their own countrymen. And how do they suppose men and supplies reached Africa?

Stories keep coming which indicate that German prisoners of war who reach Canada or the United States are finding life in a land of the free, even under prison conditions, a very strange and illuminating experience.

TEACHING.

Teaching the Chinese how to fight may sound a little like teaching one's grandmother how to crack eggs. But new weapons call for new methods, and the most competent Chinese soldiers need to learn the modern ways of using these modern tools. So Gen. Joseph W. Stilwell, U. S. Commander for India, China and Burma, has opened two schools, one for infantry and one for artillery, to train Chinese officers, who, in turn, can train their men.

Gen. Thomas Armes, commander of the infantry school, says it works on the "belt line system," turning out a class every week. The troops have six weeks of infantry training, three weeks of weapon training and three weeks of tactics. "We don't have time to make them experts, but we do have time to make them better instructors," was the way he spoke of it.

The next time the Allies attempt to take Burma and clean out the Burma road, there will be much more and better equipment on hand, and plenty of Chinese troops who know how to use it to good effect.

FOOD.

Maybe what will win this war is not arms, ammunition and numbers so much as food.

Europe, at least, seems to be coming rapidly to a show-down in which the big question is, when do we eat? And how much, and what? Our American armies overseas recognize this fact clearly when they make a point of feeding starving populations, even while they fight. It is evident in Italy that food has become a major weapon, and even Germany, which has looted all her neighbors of their food supplies, is settling down to slim rations.

In this connection there is a danger which Americans generally have not fully grasped. Food has been so easily produced in this country that it is taken for granted, and lavish promises of food supply have been made to foreign neighbors, some of which may not be fulfilled. There seems to be considerably less food in sight this year than the general situation demands. The largest possible crops must be raised, and as much as possible must be reserved for foreign need, on the satisfaction of which so much of our industrial success depends.

ITALY'S JOB.

Having got rid of Mussolini, the Italian people are still in a heap of trouble. Hitler, the enemy-in-chief, still has his foot in the Italian door, and may not leave till it is chopped off with an ax. His attacking Germans are still planted all the way from Switzerland down to the toe of the Italian boot.

The Nazis are expected to withdraw from southern Italy in order to hold their grip more firmly on the Italian Alps and on the fertile plains of Tuscany. If driven from the latter region, they may cling all the more tightly to the Alpine bar of states capping the top of the peninsula—Triest, Lombardy and Venezia. The Italians lately stapes and waves of Hitler are tired of fighting, but they cannot stop until the Germans are kicked out of Italy. That is a job in which the British and Americans will help, but the Italians must do their full share. They must fight for their redemption. If they fight bravely to the end of that chapter, they might redeem themselves and emerge worthy to enter with the Allies into a free world.

of old firms that have long since changed their lines.

There was a long period when Republicans were people who believed in big business, sound money—meaning gold; high import taxes to protect profits, and their own divine right to manage the country. Colored voters were Republicans because Abe set them free.

Democrats were people who opposed everything the Republicans favored. They feared and hated Wall Street. They believed in a better deal for farmers of the West and South, and for little people everywhere. As a general rule, they were the have-nots; but they were also the dreamers and reformers and believers in change. In the South, voters were tied to the word "Democrat" regardless of their beliefs. The word "Republican" meant carpetbaggers and the terrible years of Reconstruction.

Now the colored voters are for Roosevelt. And though he has control of the party name and organization, conservative Democrats of the South regard him as a Socialist.

You will find Republicans and Democrats who agree, yet scarcely find two members of either party who agree on everything. In both parties there are conservatives, liberals, radicals. In both are people who believe in centralized government and others who believe in local self-government. In short, the party names are meaningless, for people with all shades of opinion concerning every domestic and global problem are to be found in either party.

An English statesman once said that every male child is born a Conservative or a Liberal. And each of us, by reason of birth, personality, environment, training and degree of solvency, favors the traditional conservative way or the traditional liberal way. One favors "the rule of the best" and another favors rule by the people. One favors Big Business and one fears it. One favors a fenced-in country and another would cooperate with the world. One favors money and one favors man. One favors the boss and one favors the worker. One favors dividends and one favors wages. Find names that fit the two types and we can divide the world.

THE FEMINE TOUCH is going into many of the new synthetic rubber tires, as Akron tire manufacturers recruit women for tire building, one of the toughest jobs in the business. And veteran tire makers admit the girls are doing fine. Here pretty Artie Genet, worker in an Akron tire plant of Seiberling Rubber Co., demonstrates a step in the building of a synthetic passenger tire.

YES, ADOLF, AND A MILLION AND A HALF EVERY MONTH. That is the production of high explosives in Canada every month. Production of shells comprises 28 types of 15 different calibers. A great variety and quantity of shell components are also made. More than 50,000 persons are employed in Canadian explosives and chemical plants. Creation of this industry has involved capital expenditures of $140,000,000. Great new plants have been built; chemicals new to Canadian industry are being manufactured and an entirely new industry has been created to fill shells with explosives.

Canada has now over 190,000 men overseas with over 250,000 on active service in the North American area. HERE IS THE BIRTHPLACE OF A MOSQUITO BOMBER. Canadian lumberjacks are striving to cut 200,000,000 feet of spruce log this year from Queen Charlotte Islands, just fifty miles from the Alaska border. This Sitka spruce is a source of veneers, thin layers glued together with adhesives, shaped, trimmed and cut with razor-edged tools, to make Mosquito plane fuselages. Lumbermen work ten hours a day at muscle-building toil, sawing and chopping seven-foot thick, 300-year-old trees.

Checking Aluminum "Blades of War"

Careful inspection guarantees the quality of Chevrolet-produced war goods. Here a skilled metal worker makes the final inspection of aluminum propeller blade forgings, produced in a Michigan forge plant whose output, added to that of other Chevrolet aluminum forge units, makes this General Motors division one of the nation's major suppliers of aluminum aircraft forgings. This workman determines dead center in each blade, and measures to be certain that sufficient stock is included to allow for all machining operations.
