TEXAS SEPTEMBER BOND QUOTA $420,000,000

COUNTY'S QUOTA $597,300 AND IS TO BE SUBSCRIBED BY PEOPLE, NOT BY BANKS

TREASURY DEPARTMENT
Defense Savings Staff
Eastland, Texas, August 24, 1943.

Cisco Daily Press
Cisco, Texas.

The Third War Loan Drive starts September 9. Our quota is to be subscribed and participated in by every one in the county except the commercial banks. The drive will be concluded with the last day of September. However, all bonds and stamps purchased beginning with September 1, nine days before the big push opens, will be credited on the county's quota.

The National quota is Fifteen Billion Dollars. Texas' quota is Four Hundred Twenty Million Dollars and Eastland county's quota is $597,300.

Your county chairman, your local chairman and their committees, the banks of the county and all of our newspapers had looked for a larger quota. The goal, as set, we believe to be fair and we have no doubt but that the county can and will reach it. It absorbs our regular September quota, so that the total amount to be sold during the month of September will be $597,300.

The slogan for the drive is "Back the Attack." We all know of the meeting during last week and this of Prime Minister Churchill, President Roosevelt and their military and naval advisers at Quebec. We all know of the smashing attacks and break-through by Russia at Orel, Krush and during this week at Kharkov and the smashing advances now being made by the Red Army along a thousand-mile front. We are also familiar with the cleanup of Tunisia, the conquest of Sicily and the advance into Southern Italy now in progress, the smashing unprecedented aerial assaults upon Germany and Italy and the roll-back of the Japs in the Pacific. All of these add up to this: The Allies are advancing on all fronts. We have the men, the war materials and it now becomes our duty as citizens to back the attack on all fronts with our money. Let's move forward to a quick cleanup of our September quota as our fighters are doing in the air, on the land and on land and on the water.

Seven different types of bonds will be sold during the campaign, including the Series E Bonds so popular and so familiar with all. Literature will be distributed describing each, but if you have any doubt about the type of bond you wish to purchase, see your committeeman, your banker or your postmaster and they will gladly explain.

If you want to be in style, you must own some war bonds and if you want to go along with your neighbors and friends and with the boys on the fighting fronts, it will be necessary to purchase bonds during September until it actually hurts. Ten per cent won't be sufficient. Everyone should try to put in at least fifteen per cent or more. Many will invest as much as fifty percent.

There can be no better investment. Every bond you now buy becomes a soft cushion for your needs after the war, and in the meantime its purchase will draw money from the market and prevent inflation and will make it possible for the necessities of life to be kept at such a price that everyone can buy them.

Are these bonds safe? Yes. As safe as your government and they are being sealed with the blood of our fine young men and, in some instances, with that of our girls on the fighting fronts. The solvency of every bank, your insurance policies, trust funds and almost all capital investment is now cushioned and will be cushioned by government Bonds. Of course they are SOUND.

LET'S MOVE FORWARD WITHOUT DELAY!
Very kindly yours,
CYRUS B. FROST,
Eastland County Chairman War Finance Committee.

ARMY GENERAL MAY JAIL FEDERAL JUDGE

HONOLULU, Aug. 26.—Lieut. Gen. Robert Richardson, Jr., commander of the Hawaiian Military Department, threatened today to jail Federal Judge Delbert E. Metzger if he tries to make him pay a $5000 contempt fine. Metzger's only comment was: "The Stars and Stripes will fly overhead and the Constitution will be there when the dawn breaks." Richardson prohibited all habeas corpus suits in the territory and specifically ordered Metzger's court to halt proceedings against himself for refusing to produce two Americans of German extraction in court.

The penalty for violation of the order would be a $5000 fine or five years imprisonment, or both.

PETROLEUM STOCKS.

AUSTIN, Aug. 26.—Texas stocks of petroleum and products as of Aug. 22 totaled 118,624,439 barrels, the railroad commission reported today. Stocks included 74,608,661 barrels of crude oil, an increase of 2,500,000 barrels in a week, and 11,852,607 barrels of gasoline, a slight increase.

It takes only good will, absence of fear and love of peace to avoid war. Look at Canada and the United States.

LARMOUR MADE A GREAT TALK TO ROTARIANS

The visit of District Governor M. W. (Pie) Larmour of Graham was the feature of today's Rotary program. His talk was enlightening and inspiring, saying as he did that the principles of Rotary International if practiced literally would greatly aid in solving the gigantic problems that confront America and other nations of the post-war world.

High Wagoner of Odessa was a visitor to the club, as was Dr. Paul M. Woods, former Rotarian, a guest of E. P. Crawford.

Before introducing the distinguished speaker, President Lonnie Shockley announced that today was a 100 percent meeting and that last week there was only one absentee.

In beginning his talk Governor Larmour said he wished to congratulate the Cisco club for many reasons. It had a good meeting place and with unusually good meals. It had a good song leader and a good pianist, also a good violin player which added to the good singing of club members. And to add to all of this, the Cisco club had a splendid attendance record.

The subject of the discourse was "Rotary." The speaker began by defining Rotary, saying its results were "seen" and "unseen." They were seen in the activities that it espoused and carried through to make the town a better place in which to live and do business, and the unseen results were the workings in the hearts and minds of its members as they gradually imbibed the principles of service and good fellowship as taught by its code.

He said Rotary is not a meeting of members — not a glorified luncheon, but a principle lived in the hearts of its members and growing within, fruiting to cast its influence throughout the community and affecting all men in the community, whether they belonged to the club or not.

He said Rotarians were the highest possible type of men in the community. They were selected — hand-picked — chosen from the leading men in each successful type of business — banded together through club meetings to get the greatest influence possible from the ethics of Rotary membership. That is why attendance is so important, he said. Men must keep their influence working for good. There must be no let-up.

In that connection the governor mentioned that this was his 791st week of attendance since he became a member. Continuing, the speaker asked, where is Rotary going? Not just to lunch, but to a meeting place where principles are in service would be talked and practiced for the good of themselves and for the good of those with whom they came in contact. The club is a place for relaxation from business duties, but a place in which activities may be discussed leading to still more service to the community. Rotary is too big to explain in one program, the speaker said. It requires much study to know all its aims. One must do much thinking to extend its service as it should be extended.

Rotary teaches the principles of freedom, and these are in danger, many people think. We must protect them, the speaker exclaimed. We must see to it that private enterprises prevail after the war — not too much combination. Private business must be allowed to compete in the matter of survival of service, else democracy will fail.

Answering the question, what can we do, he said we must talk constantly with our representatives in Washington, telling them of our needs, remembering that the wheel that squeaks will get the most grease and the highest kicks get the most salaries.

Our problems of today must be solved by ourselves. Employment problems will come in the post-war period. We must see to it that our men who return to Amer-

Carroll and Wayne Barnhill of Famous USS. Enterprise, Home From Sea

Just to talk with Carroll Barnhill, 21, and Wayne Barnhill, 19, sons of Mr. and Mrs. S. O. Barnhill, about their experiences aboard the aircraft carrier Enterprise since Pearl Harbor, is to get thrills and entertainment to the fullest.

These young men, now at home on 30-day leaves, which end Sept. 26, have had glorious experiences which will give them food for thought throughout their lives. Few men their age have lived so fully the two or three years during which they have been in the navy.

The achievements of the invincible Enterprise, on which they have been and are aviation ordnance men, stands out in the firmament of glorious activities as few ships of today shine.

This ship, which was within 150 miles of Pearl Harbor when the dastardly stab of the Japs came, narrowly missed the first action, but arrived on the morning of December 8, 1941, and helped drive the treacherous yellow devils away.

On the morning of December 9 the Enterprise had slipped out of the harbor and disappeared. It was called the Galloping Ghost, because it appeared out of nowhere to fight the enemy and then, when the action was over, it vanished again.

During the first year this ship traveled 20,000 miles, sank 21 ships while alone, brought down 185 airplanes and sank 32 ships with the task force. It was the first ship to take the offensive in the Gilbert Islands area. It was bombed once and the Cisco boys admit they were scared.

Asked when they were the most scared, they said the worst time was always just before the action began — when notified that Jap planes were approaching and orders were given to stand by their guns to repel them. The battle of Santa Cruz, October 26, 1942, was one of those memorable times.

Men do not get mad during the battle. There is a creepy, sinking feeling with you all during the battle, not knowing when your time will come to be stretched out on the deck dead, as some of your companions are. But at the battle you really do become angry at the enemy that has caused all of this.

The Enterprise carried about 85 planes and enough men for a small city. In time of action, men are on duty 24 hours each day, and one gets his sleep or meals whenever he has an opportunity. The little messes are enclosed in a sheet cover, and this is called a sack. The sack is carried to the deck and spread down on a grass mat which sailors obtain from natives of these islands, and a little sleep is snatched between action. When forced to sleep in the bunks it — sometimes steaming hot and nets must be used to protect one from flies and mosquitoes which always abound in that part of the world.

Owing to the achievements of the Enterprise, promotion came rapidly to the captains, and hence they changed many times, the boys said.

Asked about the country and natives, they said the people were bushy-haired negroes. Some were small while others were large, big-footed men. The women were usually small, shriveled creatures, always carrying heavy loads of coconuts or other native products.

The charm of the south sea islands exists mostly in story and motion pictures. The only pretty women they saw anywhere in the south seas were some French nurses they saw in the New Caledonia Islands, which are in possession of the French people.

The natives live on fish and fresh fruits, such as coconuts, oranges, bananas and other tropical fruits, some of which they did not know the names. These all seem to grow wild among the rank trees and flowers which are everywhere. It rains almost every day and summer is like winter as far as the temperature is concerned.

Asked about how they would like to live in some of those tropical islands, the Barnhill boys said just give them the good old U. S. A. There was no charm there so far as they could see. If a person wanted to live alone in the world and just exist, that might be a good place, but they did not see any business opportunities anywhere in the South Pacific.

They did not find any soft drinks in that area except some beer which had been brewed in Frisco and shipped to the islands before it was fully ripened. They did not want any of that. They also ate some ice cream made from coconut milk, but they didn't like it. It was sickening in taste.

The natives do not care for money; they will shake their head when a $5.00 bill is shown them as they flock around a ship, but when old clothes, trinkets, old shoes or other wearing apparel was displayed, they immediately began to send up their bananas or whatever they had to trade. They have no idea of cities, skyscrapers or street cars, never having seen any.

The climate is just as bad as the people, these young men say. Sailors are fed salt pills to replace the salt sweated out by their bodies by the moist, hot weather.

Flies and mosquitos abound and must be fought constantly. Plenty of malaria results from these pests and the rainy climate.

2 SETS TWINS BORN IN CISCO AREA, AUGUST

Two sets of twins have been born to Eastland county parents of the Cisco area so far this month.

On August 12 Mrs. H. C. Ables of the Carbon community presented her husband with twin boys, who have been christened A. G. and R. G. Ables. They now have five boys. Mr. Ables is an employe of the A-G Motor company.

On August 24 Sgt. and Mrs. Roy Hughes became the parents of twin girls—Marilyn Annette and Carolyn Jannette. Mrs. Hughes is making her home with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. L. E. Fleming, near Nimrod, while her husband is with the armed forces. She was formerly Mrs. Ethel Fleming and grew up in Cisco before her parents moved to the Nimrod area. Grandfather L. E. Fleming is an employe of the West Texas Utilities company ice plant.

FUGITIVE? — Mrs. Emmy Goering, above, wife of Reich Marshal Hermann Goering, No. 2 Nazi and head of the Nazi air force, has taken a home in Basel, Switzerland, to escape Allied bombing, according to Swiss reports. She is reported under heavy German guard.

MOSQUITOES BUZZ OVER BERLIN AGAIN, AS LIGHTNINGS STRIKE ITALY'S MAINLAND

LONDON, Aug. 26.—Smoldering Berlin rocked under the impact of British bombs for the third night in a row last night as twin-engined Mosquito bombers heaped new destruction on the capital in the developing "Hamburg" offensive.

Once again the swift plywood Mosquitos darted in through clouds of smoke rising from fires that have burned for more than 48 hours to loose their cargoes of explosive and incendiary bombs on Adolf Hitler's capital. Only one was lost.

Inclement weather was believed to have grounded the Royal Air Force's big four-engined bombers, so the Mosquitos took over the assault for the second straight night, scattering their bombs over a wide area of Berlin and giving the inhabitants another sleepless night.

Crew members back from the latest attack said they saw fires still glowing in areas swept by flames after Monday's bombardment.

Nervous German ground defenses, they said, acted as if the Mosquito raid was an attack in force, throwing up a heavy anti-aircraft barrage and turning hundreds of searchlights on the bombers during the half-hour raid.

The night-after-night pounding of Berlin, opening with its heaviest bombardment of the war Monday night, was taken as an indication that the Allied High Command intends to devastate the city just as it all but blasted Hamburg off the map with nine straight raids three weeks ago.

Only clearing skies are needed, air experts believed, for a resumption of raids by four-engined bombers on the scale of the 1700-ton raid Monday night.

A Daily Mail dispatch from Madrid said unrest in the heavily-bombed workers' suburbs already had reached a pitch where reinforcements of Elite storm troops had to be summoned to restore order.

"According to reports from Vichy," the dispatch said, "Berlin is stunned by the force of the attack and Nazi authorities are not yet able to measure the extent of the havoc."

A Daily Herald dispatch quoted Stockholm reports that hundreds of fires still were smoldering yesterday.

No section of Berlin escaped, another Stockholm dispatch said.

Other aircraft of the Bomber Command laid mines in enemy waters.

Last evening American Marauders attacked an enemy airfield in Tricqueville, northern France, and a power station near Rouen, while British and American Mitchells joined in an attack on the St. Martin airfield at Bernay, 40 miles south of Le Havre.

Boston bombers simultaneously attacked the Beaumont-Le-Roget airfield. All Allied planes returned safely.

Squadron Commander Maj. Frederick E. Fair of Chicago said he saw bombs bursting across the Tricqueville dispersal area "like mushrooms composed of pieces of buildings, pieces of aircraft and dirt."

Lightnings Hit Italy.

NORTH AFRICA, Aug. 26.— Three Allied air fleets smashed the air bases and railway yards at Foggia, 80 miles northeast of Naples, yesterday in a mighty two-way offensive rounding out a week of unparalleled raids on southern Italy, it was announced today.

Scores of wrecked aircraft and blazing hangars, railway cars and locomotives were strewn in the wake of the huge formations of Lockheed Lightning fighter-bombers and Flying Fortresses from the Northwest African Air Forces and American Liberators from the Middle-Eastern Command.

The raid stirred up strong enemy fighter opposition, but 26 of the intercepting aircraft were sent crashing to earth. Fifteen Allied aircraft were lost in all operations.

Wellington bombers from the Northwest African Air Forces topped off the day's attacks with a night raid on railway yards at the southern Italy naval base town of Taranto, while RAF Halifaxes and Liberators from the Middle East, bombed the railway yards at Crotone, also on the south coast, the previous night.

JAP ATTACKS FAIL.

SOUTHWEST PACIFIC, Aug. 26.— Desperate Jap counter-attacks along the Francisco river have been smashed by Allied troops closing down on the Salamaua, New Guinea, airbase, it was announced today. MacArthur's spokesman said the enemy troops tried to stem the Allied drive from the coast to inland river crossings, but failed, and Allied positions remained unchanged.

MUTTON GOES UP.

SALT LAKE CITY, Aug. 26.— Purebred mutton brought $11 per pound on the hoof today. A yearling Suffolk ram, weighing approximately 300 pounds, was sold for $3,300, highest price paid at the annual ram auction of the National Wool Growers association since 1918.

Rationing of food items has not been so bad except as we have made it so by trying to buy up all that is for sale. If we will just go quietly along there will be plenty of food for all.

Let's be sensible, cool, calm — not panicky. Buy as you need it. If you fail to find some item you wish, there will be something else that will do just as well. America will not starve.
