NAZIS FIRE, SACK NAPLES BEFORE FLEEING

FROZEN FOODS LOCKER

H. H. Tompkins appeared before the Cisco chamber of commerce last night and explained that it is his purpose to organize a frozen foods locker in this city—if 300 patrons are signed up. Tompkins proposes a plant accommodating not more than 300 lockers can be built. The locker case, a suitable brick building and installations would cost about $20,000, he said.

It is a big undertaking, Tompkins said, but the plant would furnish a service to Cisco and surrounding area that is badly needed since the nearest frozen food lockers are at Abilene and Houston. Estimated cost to build 300 lockers would be $12,300, $400 per year.

Large parties have already expressed interest in the proposed plant and have signified their desire to sign up at the first opportunity. Rising Star, 23 miles east of Cisco, is also within the number that could be served to advantage in the preservation of meats, fruits and vegetables for both farmers and city householders.

Mr. Tompkins stated that a meat curing department is a necessary adjunct to frozen food lockers with a butcher in charge, and all meats may be duly processed.

It was the unanimous opinion of the chamber of commerce directors that the project should be encouraged. Mr. Tompkins was given a letter to the effect that the plant is highly desirable and should be able to service the Cisco area in an advantageous manner.

The directors voted to contribute $500 to Cisco fire department and in paying expenses incident to the women's convention to be held in Cisco on October 8. Eight girls are expected to participate.

MEAT PLENTIFUL.

CHICAGO, Sept. 22.—Production of meat in federally inspected plants during the last week increased 15 per cent, the War Meat Board reports.

RECORD POULTRY CROP.

CHICAGO, Sept. 22.—Impact of the largest poultry crop in history was felt in Chicago today as prices fell as much as 5 cents a pound under OPA ceilings. This year's poultry production is exceeding by 21 per cent, the records set in 1942.

TOUGH JOB—Representative Robert L. Doughton of North Carolina, chairman of the House Ways and Means Committee, and most important tax man in Congress, who hopes to simplify income tax laws possibly by Jan. 1.

ALEX SPEARS GETS UNUSUAL BOND LETTER

Alex Spears of the First National Bank received a most unusual letter Monday, in which the writer asked that Mr. Spears purchase a $500 Series E War Bond for him.

There is nothing unusual of course in the purchase of a $500 War Bond by the ordinary citizen. But (as in this instance) when an inmate of the Huntsville penitentiary brushes aside his personal troubles to the extent of going his limit when his country calls for financial aid, it is decidedly unusual.

The incident contains much food for thought just now.

Wonder how many of us—free citizens in every respect—have already GONE OUR LIMIT in the most glorious of all lands as has this man located tight within the gray walls of Huntsville who even while paying a stiff debt to society, also had the will and found the way to help finance American fighting men?

SPOON FUNERAL AND BURIAL HELD TODAY

The funeral of M. H. Spoon, who died suddenly yesterday at his home here, will be held at Twelfth-st. Methodist church at 4 o'clock this afternoon. The body is in charge of Thomas funeral home and the officiating ministers will be Rev. W. H. Cole and Rev. Sosa Kirkpatrick. Burial will be in Oakwood, beside the site of deceased.

Burialbearers will be Edgar Strickland, Clyde Hale, Kent Wood, Omar Fenley, Billy Bacon and M. L. Perdue.

W. C. Spoon, a son, arrived from Houston this morning to attend the last rites for his father.

SKY IS THE LIMIT.

FT. WORTH, Sept. 22.—With a smashing victory in the Third War Loan drive already behind them, Fort Worth and Tarrant county war bond officials today set their sights for an even greater victory and voluntarily adopted a new quota which is $5,634,000 above that set by the treasury department—$21,806,000.

PLENTY OF CASH.

NEW YORK, Sept. 22.—The estate of Max D. Steyer, nationally famous lawyer who died Aug. 21, 1940, amounted to $5,925,301 of 1940, amounted to $5,925,301 of which $3,978,048 was cash in banks, according to a petition filed in surrogate's court by his executors for a final settlement.

WHAT TO DO—Pvt. Harry A. Barany of Detroit showed up at Fort Custer with his two daughters, Jean, 4, left, and Joan, 6. He said draft board had not given him time to find home for them. At least score of persons offered home to girls. Barany's wife left him two years ago.

SNIPING AT SNIPERS—Yanks are shooting it out with snipers in street skirmish in Aigiens. Circle indicates one of enemy snipers on window ledge. Although picture was taken nearly year ago, it has just been released by censors.

THEIR ALL—American fighters mopping up on last day of Buna Gona battle in New Guinea, last January, ran into Japs hiding in barge with rifles and grenades. Japs got them and their bodies are sprawled on beach. But Japs were made to pay as dearly as the toll they took. Other Yanks got them in turn. Picture just released by War Department.

HAS MAC BEEN SHELVED?

SOUTHWEST PACIFIC, Sept. 22.—Gen. Douglas MacArthur implied today in a carefully worded statement that his command and his strategy of direct strokes against Japan have been shoved into the background of the Pacific war in favor of an "island hopping" campaign involving "extravagant losses and slow progress."

The tenor of the statement left no doubt MacArthur felt he had been given a secondary place in the war against Japan.

"However subordinate may be my role," he said, "I hope to play it manfully. . . I have no personal ambitious whatsoever, and am perfectly content in such a role as may be prescribed for me."

Observers regarded MacArthur's statement as meaning:

1. He had been informed that the Southeast Asia Command, decided upon by President Roosevelt and Prime Minister Churchill at Quebec and headed by Lord Louis Mountbatten, would get first call for a drive into Burma.
2. His repeated requests for men and materials and his plans to strike with "massive" strength for his avowed goal—the Philippines—and move swiftly against Japan, had been rejected.

Informal military sources close to MacArthur said the supreme commander of the Southwest Pacific believes Australia is the only Pacific base capable of mounting large-scale offensive operations against Japan, because of lack of industrial and farm resources in China, Burma, the South Pacific, Attu or Hawaii.

RUSSIA GETS HOTTER DAILY FOR GERMANS

MOSCOW, Sept. 22.—Red armies that already have liberated more than half the Soviet territory overrun by Germany had Smolensk, once Adolf Hitler's headquarters; Kiev, capital of the Ukraine, and Melitopol, key to the Crimea; almost within their grasp today.

Melitopol, astride the main escape route for tens of thousands of German troops in the Crimea, was expected to fall momentarily and Smolensk and Kiev probably will not be able to hold out long against the onrushing Soviets, front dispatches said.

A Berlin dispatch published in the Madrid newspaper Ya said the Germans already have evacuated army administrative services from Kiev.

ITALY'S GREATEST PORT IS DESCRIBED AS CITY OF HORROR AS CIVILIANS MURDERED

NORTH AFRICA, Sept. 22.—The Allied Fifth and Eighth Armies captured five more towns, including the inland railway and highway hub of Potenza, along a 55-mile front in southern Italy and pushed on today toward Naples, already sacked and set afire by the Germans in apparent preparation for flight.

One dispatch said refugees called Naples, Italy's greatest port a "City of Horror" with German troops killing thousands of Italian civilians.

An Italian captain who slipped through German lines in civilian clothes said the Nazi command was mining the Naples area in expectation of an Allied attack.

The battle of the Salerno bridgehead is over and the battle for Naples is approaching. The battlefield southeast of Salerno, where the Germans sought unsuccessfully to drive the Anglo-American troops back into the sea, is littered with destroyed enemy tanks, guns and equipment.

The Allies inflicted heavy losses on the Germans, both in killed and captured material, a spokesman reported. Non-Germans are among the enemy combat prisoners now being captured, he said, but he did not specify their nationality.

A French report said French commandos and Corsican patriots had liberated half of French Corsica and were hemming the Germans back against the east coast after eight days of fighting that included the repulse of at least one Nazi counter-attack.

In the air American four-engined Liberators swept 160 miles north of Rome and bombed the harbor at German-held Leghorn, Italy's third largest commercial port and the site of an important gasoline refinery.

Nazi broadcasts from France said that Allied planes flew over Sofia Monday night, drawing anti-aircraft fire. Though the broadcast did not mention their target, Sofia lies on the air route from Egypt and Libya to the Ploesti oil fields in Rumania.

A strong force of the giant bombers blasted shipping, harbor facilities and industrial installations at Leghorn in the face of heavy anti-aircraft fire. Returning crews reported direct hits on a number of factories. Only two German planes were encountered.

Lieut. Gen. Mark W. Clark's Fifth Army, swinging east and north in a broad arc from its Salerno-Agropoli bridgehead, captured Campagna, 20 miles east of Salerno, Montecorvino and Rovella, 12 miles east, and San Cipriano, seven miles northeast, in advances of up to four miles yesterday.

The Fifth Army was fighting its way onto the highest peaks of the mountains around Salerno, which rise in places to 5000 feet. Front dispatches described the terrain as worse for military operations than either Tunisia or Sicily. Most guns and equipment have to be moved by hand or by animal, since motor vehicles cannot negotiate the mountain trails.

American troops were credited with the capture of Montecorvino, Rovella and Campagna, while the British took San Cipriano.

"The Fifth Army continues to re-group and move forward," a ground forces communique said.

Potenza, a communications center of nearly 14,000 population, 55 miles east of Salerno, fell to the British Eighth Army after a British patrol stowed away in a railroad train and rode almost to the outskirts to obtain information about enemy dispositions.

The capture of Potenza brought the center of the Allied line across the Italian ankle almost to a level with Salerno on the west coast and British-held Bari on the east coast. From Potenza railroads radiate to Salerno, Taranto and Foggia.

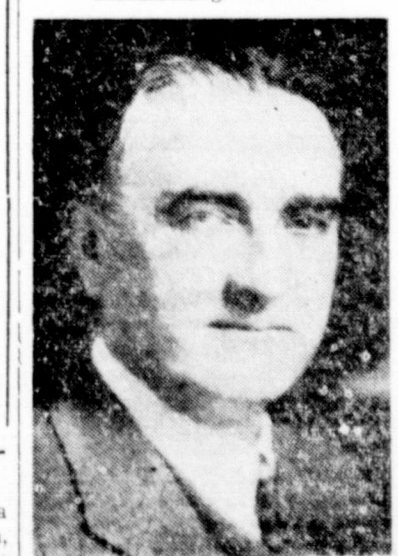

The Eighth Army was meeting only light resistance from German rear guard units, principally in the form of demolitions and mines. One sharp slash between light British and German forces in the Taranto area resulted in 50 Nazis being killed and three of their armored cars being destroyed.

Though the Fifth Army still is 20 to 25 miles south of Naples, field dispatches said a great pall of smoke could be seen over the city, and Italians filtering through the Allied lines reported that the Germans were looting, burning and destroying it.

Flying Fortresses, medium, light and fighter-bombers and fighters continued to give around-the-clock support to the Fifth Army, bombing and strafing enemy troop concentrations and transport in the Naples area.

A French message said the whole western half of Corsica was now in French hands, including five additional towns, Saint Florent, the eastern section of Corte, Zonza, Levie and Sartenne.

The Germans at most held only a 19-mile strip along the east coast, with their main strength concentrated around Porto Vecchio and Bonifacio, in the southeast, to which they evacuated their Sardinian garrison.

"I'm Not Dreamin' of a Utopia!"

"Indeed, I'm not," the soldier said, as he lifted his head high and looked into the future.

"I'm dreaming of something much more real and much more American than that! I'm dreamin' of an OPPORTUNITY," he continued, "of the chance to make a living the American way—working till I'm tired, but very happy, the way my Dad always has.

"That's what all of us soldiers are dreaming about. Honest, we don't want dole or charity. We just want to be back in our own home towns in the little yellow houses on Main Street making a living down at Joe's garage, while we're saving money to buy out of our own.

"This American way of living, this system of free enterprise, has certainly done a wonderful thing for the war—take the electric industry for example—90% of all the electric power supplying the munitions is being produced by companies like the one in my home town. That same company serves lots of home towns, and it's doing a big job for all of us soldiers by perpetuating freedom of enterprise.

"That's the opportunity we soldiers are dreaming about. It's bred into the very soul of American life. It means that any man or woman is free to create a business that fills a particular need in my town or any other community, just so long as they give the best possible service at the lowest possible cost to the most people.

"That's what I'm fighting for!
"That's what I'm dreamin' about!"

NORTH AFRICA, Sept. 22.—The Allied Fifth and Eighth Armies captured five more towns, including the inland railway and highway hub of Potenza, along a 55-mile front in southern Italy and pushed on today toward Naples, already sacked and set afire by the Germans in apparent preparation for flight.

One dispatch said refugees called Naples, Italy's greatest port, a "City of Horror" with German troops killing thousands of Italian civilians.

An Italian captain who slipped through German lines in civilian clothes said the Nazi command was mining the Naples area in expectation of an Allied attack.

The battle of the Salerno bridgehead is over and the battle for Naples is approaching. The battlefield southeast of Salerno, where the Germans sought unsuccessfully to drive the Anglo-American troops back into the sea, is littered with destroyed enemy tanks, guns and equipment.

The Allies inflicted heavy losses on the Germans, both in killed and captured material, a spokesman reported. Non-Germans are among the enemy combat prisoners now being captured, he said, but he did not specify their nationality.

A French report said French commandos and Corsican patriots had liberated half of French Corsica and were hemming the Germans back against the east coast after eight days of fighting that included the repulse of at least one Nazi counter-attack.

In the air American four-engined Liberators swept 160 miles north of Rome and bombed the harbor at German-held Leghorn, Italy's third largest commercial port and the site of an important gasoline refinery.

Nazi broadcasts from France said that Allied planes flew over Sofia Monday night, drawing anti-aircraft fire. Though the broadcast did not mention their target, Sofia lies on the air route from Egypt and Libya to the Ploesti oil fields in Rumania.

A strong force of the giant bombers blasted shipping, harbor facilities and industrial installations at Leghorn in the face of heavy anti-aircraft fire. Returning crews reported direct hits on a number of factories. Only two German planes were encountered.

Lieut. Gen. Mark W. Clark's Fifth Army, swinging east and north in a broad arc from its Salerno-Agropoli bridgehead, captured Campagna, 20 miles east of Salerno, Montecorvino and Rovella, 12 miles east, and San Cipriano, seven miles northeast, in advances of up to four miles yesterday.

The Fifth Army was fighting its way onto the highest peaks of the mountains around Salerno, which rise in places to 5000 feet. Front dispatches described the terrain as worse for military operations than either Tunisia or Sicily. Most guns and equipment have to be moved by hand or by animal, since motor vehicles cannot negotiate the mountain trails.

American troops were credited with the capture of Montecorvino, Rovella and Campagna, while the British took San Cipriano.

"The Fifth Army continues to re-group and move forward," a ground forces communique said.

Potenza, a communications center of nearly 14,000 population, 55 miles east of Salerno, fell to the British Eighth Army after a British patrol stowed away in a railroad train and rode almost to the outskirts to obtain information about enemy dispositions.

The capture of Potenza brought the center of the Allied line across the Italian ankle almost to a level with Salerno on the west coast and British-held Bari on the east coast. From Potenza railroads radiate to Salerno, Taranto and Foggia.

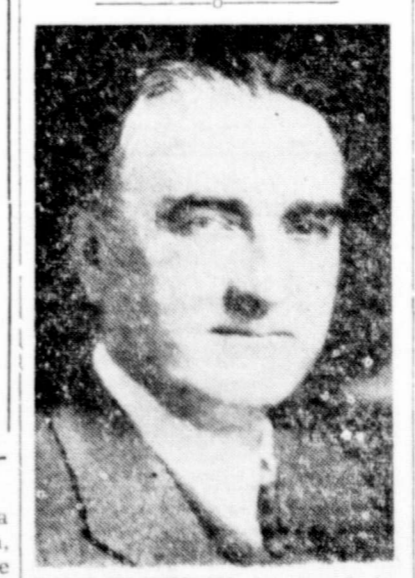

The Eighth Army was meeting only light resistance from German rear guard units, principally in the form of demolitions and mines. One sharp slash between light British and German forces in the Taranto area resulted in 50 Nazis being killed and three of their armored cars being destroyed.

Though the Fifth Army still is 20 to 25 miles south of Naples, field dispatches said a great pall of smoke could be seen over the city, and Italians filtering through the Allied lines reported that the Germans were looting, burning and destroying it.

Flying Fortresses, medium, light and fighter-bombers and fighters continued to give around-the-clock support to the Fifth Army, bombing and strafing enemy troop concentrations and transport in the Naples area.

A French message said the whole western half of Corsica was now in French hands, including five additional towns, Saint Florent, the eastern section of Corte, Zonza, Levie and Sartenne.

The Germans at most held only a 19-mile strip along the east coast, with their main strength concentrated around Porto Vecchio and Bonifacio, in the southeast, to which they evacuated their Sardinian garrison.

AN UGLY PICTURE.

Climax to the bulldozing given the government by labor leaders in the coal mine controversy, came recently when Coal Administrator Ickes requested the army to release ex-miners to help boost coal production. Mr. Ickes' request was based not on evidence of a manpower shortage, or of an undue depletion of mine labor by the army, but on "present difficult circumstances arising out of the lack of a work contract between operators and mine workers, with consequent bitterness and confusion throughout the mining industry."

In the words of the Louisville, Kentucky, Courier Journal: "That such a request should be made at all shows a fundamental misunderstanding of the relative importance of workers and soldiers in total war. Mr. Ickes will not speak sharply to sullen miners, and he will not permit any other governmental agency to speak sharply to their leader. In order to avoid a clear showdown in an issue which only a showdown can settle, he is willing to ask even the army to subordinate its needs to the discontent of miners."

The rights of the coal mine owners were long ago wiped out to appease the demands of labor leaders. Now a move is underway to penalize the army, because labor leaders would rather wrangle over wage contracts than get out coal.

ELECTRIC EYE.

One of life's burdens is about to be relieved. Parking a fifteen foot, two inch car in a fifteen foot, four inch space has always been trying to the temper and damaging to the fenders. Now comes John Ray Teney of Los Angeles with an Electric Eye that fastens to front and rear fenders, sends off a warning signal when the backing car gets too near the curb or the car behind.

It seems rather cruel irony that such an invention would be made just as shortage of gas and tires is making parking a problem of the past. But there will be a good time coming after the war. Then if Mr. Teney's device lives up to its advertising it may be generally used. And life will be much happier.

U. S. JAILS.

The state of Illinois reports that the population of its three major prisons has dropped to its lowest level in 13 years. The chief reasons are given as war and more work—the two reasons were analyzed by experts. The crimes of today are not engendered by unemployment and forced idleness. Every able-bodied man who wants a job can get one and pay well for it.

There are always a certain number of crimes springing from abnormalities in human nature and human living. Heredity and environment both have a share in developing criminals — environment playing it a believed, the major role. For environment includes the home training of any child after it is born, and the child of bad heredity is apt to have also a bad home start. Something can be done to lessen such crimes, both in numbers and in seriousness, but there will doubtless always be an irreducible minimum which must be provided against.

Bad housing plays a serious part in developing gangs of hoodlums, some of whom develop into criminals. Unemployment of parents contributes to this. "Drink and the devil" do their part. The drug traffic is always menacing. War has a few good points, employment being one. All of its good points, however, are possible to attain in peace, if intelligence be applied to using them.

LIMA BEANS.

The lima bean seems to have been chiefly known as the partner of corn off the cob in that famous fall dish called succotash. It is also eaten cooked alone, with butter or butter and milk, when fresh and green in late summer and early autumn. In the winter it is found in cans—which are also a great stand-by of the camper, giving him, with bacon, a meal without KP on potatoes. In the winter many are the devotees of the dried lima bean, fixed up with various sauces.

But lima bean history has been sadly neglected. Now W. W.

HIKE MILK OR STABILIZE FEED

on record as demanding that OPA act at once to correct the serious dairy situation in Texas.

At its luncheon today the delegation discussed the problem facing Texas dairymen and members unanimously demanded that the powers that be either hike the price of milk or that it stabilize the price of feed for dairy cattle

NAZIS ARREST ITALIAN CARDINALS, SAID

LONDON, Sept. 22.—The Germans have placed a number of Italian cardinals under house arrest and refused their permission to visit the Vatican without consent of the Nazi military command, a Madrid dispatch said today.

Though the cardinals were not named, the dispatch said they were known for their anti-Mussolini sympathies. The action coincided with a bitter attack by the Nazi-sponsored National Republican Fascist government of Italy over the Berlin radio on the Vatican for its "pacifism and anti-German sentiments."

CAPTURE JAP BASE.

SOUTHWEST PACIFIC, Sept. 22.—Airborne Australian troops, in a surprise attack, seized the Japanese base and airfield at Kaiaput, extending Allied New Guinea positions 60 miles inland from Lae, a message announced today.

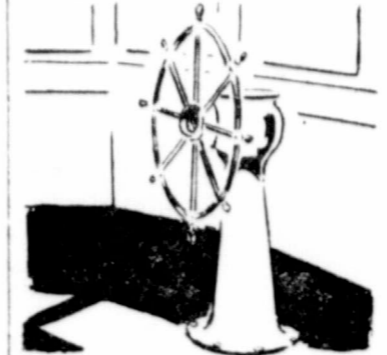

Freedom is doomed when people fold their hands and say: "Why doesn't the government do it?"

There is something rotten in a man's profession if he doesn't get fighting mad when called a liar.

War is torturing little things—lying hidden, sweaty, itchy, bitten by insects, not daring to move.

Of course, I haven't forgotten that trip we planned that was interrupted when you joined up. I dream about it and plan it down to the last detail. Of course, we'll have to go to our present car, as we probably can't get a new one as soon as you get back. So, like a hen with a chick, I'm mothering it no end. I'll Epee every week to your old friend Mileage Merchant Jim, and he'll tell you he's keeping the engine oiled and for you not to worry. It'll be in fine shape for our trip — says he'll practically guarantee it!
