ALLIES REACH NAZI WINTER LINES IN ITALY

RUSSIANS 45 MI. W. OF KIEV

CAPTURE OF TORINO PUT THE EIGHTH PAST HALFWAY MARK FROM TERMOLI TO PESCARA

ALGIERS, Nov. 9.—Allied armies have reached the approaches of what German prisoners described as the Nazi "winter line" protecting Rome, with the British pounding ahead on a 25-mile front to capture towns overlooking the Sangro river.

Official advices quoted German prisoners as reporting the line had been laid in depth behind the Sangro on the east, through the central Italy Apennines and above the Garigliano on the west before the Anglo-American Fifth Army.

The Allied armies had reached the approaches to the new German defenses at practically all points, the Eighth Army on the west hacking forward four miles near the Adriatic in the greatest push.

(A broadcast of the United Nations radio at Algiers, heard in London, said that one-third of all Italy now has been cleared of Germans.)

The gains were made despite demolitions before Gen. Bernard L. Montgomery's Eighth Army troops, who were within 25 miles of the important Adriatic port of Pescara, and torrential rains on the Anglo-American Fifth Army front.

Capture of Torino put the Eighth past the half-way mark in its push from Termoli to Pescara, whence major lateral highways lead toward the Italian capital.

Reports to headquarters indicated the Nazi High Command was determined to hold the Allies somewhere south of Rome by all possible means, as much for propaganda purposes as for military considerations.

On the Fifth Army front, the Americans and British met stiffer resistance, including an attempted counter-attack west of the town of Galuccio, which was crushed by artillery and mortar fire before it could get under way.

The front of better than 100 miles across the Italian shank still stood some 80 miles south of Rome but the Fifth pushed new patrols across the Garigliano to probe the enemy's positions in the mountainous terrain below Gaeta, major port nine miles from the present Allied line.

(A Madrid dispatch quoted Vichy reports as saying the Germans had begun evacuating Gaeta, bolstering Allied reports that indicated the enemy had begun blowing up that harbor to prevent its use by the Allies.)

Allied troops captured Fornelli, five miles west-northwest of Isernia in the center of the front, clamping a firm control on the lateral road network between Isernia and Venafro. The capture represented a three-mile gain.

SOLDIER VOTE NEXT YEAR IS UNDER DEBATE

WASHINGTON, Nov. 9.—A free-swinging row promises to develop in congress in the next fortnight over how to vote the 8,000,000 to 10,000,000 men in the armed forces, many of them half around the world, in next year's presidential election.

Interest in pending soldier vote legislation is great because last week's election returns apparently portend a close presidential election in 1944, and it is recognized that the soldier vote would determine the outcome.

The question also involves states' rights, the poll tax and other issues, and while all profess favor for letting soldiers vote, methods are disputed.

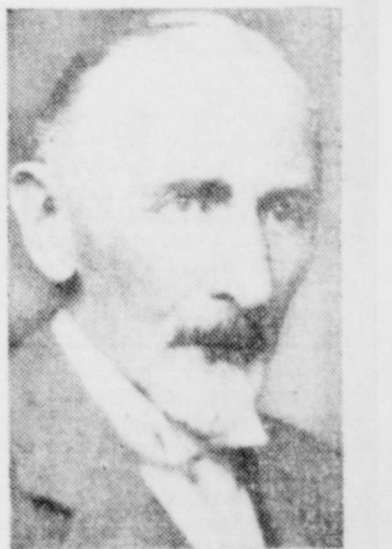

RUSSIAN OBLIGATIONS TO BE PAID IN FULL

NEW YORK, Nov. 9.—Premier Josef Stalin has given the United States his word that any obligation undertaken by Russia "will be repaid in full—and not by token payments." War Production Board Chairman Donald M. Nelson said last night.

Speaking at a Madison Square Garden mass meeting of 20,000 persons, celebrating the 10th anniversary of U.S.-Soviet relations, Nelson said Mr. Stalin's pledge, given to him on his recent trip to Moscow, "is unquestionably the Russian position."

KILLER'S SECOND TRIAL.
BRECKENRIDGE, Nov. 9.—Larry Farmer, 26, former sailor from Fort Worth, must stand trial here Jan. 10 for the first time since the trial of Jan. 10, 1941. A jury which heard the first trial last month disagreed.

SEABEE'S TRIAL.
FT. WORTH, Nov. 9.—Lacking only one juror for the trial of Jack Fields, 36, Seabee charged with criminal assault on a 12-year-old girl, state and defense attorneys were permitted by Judge McGregor to question members of the regular panel today.

HONORED — Dr. Frederick L. Hoffman, retired and living in San Diego, Cal., presented in absentia in New York City the Clement Cleveland award for 1943, for "outstanding work in the campaign to control cancer." Dr. Hoffman's ideas in 1913 led to founding of American Society for Control of Cancer, that has gone far in efforts to conquer dread malady.

ONCE-BEAUTIFUL CITY—Naples, once-beautiful city of Italy, lies in ruins after Allied bombs and shells began and Nazis finished demolition, during battle there. Now Allied Engineers are starting to clean it up with huge machinery.

US. RAZES TURIN MOTOR WORKS

ALGIERS, Nov. 9.—Flying Fortresses destroyed or damaged severely every building at the Fiat ball bearing works at Turin, third most important in enemy Europe, and photographs revealed that the plant was knocked "completely out of business for a considerable period," it was announced today.

The Fiat aircraft engine works and motor car plant and railway repair shops adjacent to the ball bearing works also were damaged. Smoke mushrooming up from the bombed northern Italy industrial center could be seen for 80 miles, the U. S. air forces announced.

All Fortresses and Lightnings returned safely from the raid, the first made against Turin from Mediterranean bases.

The American formations met no enemy fighters and only a few bursts of anti-aircraft fire.

JAP SUPPLY LINES ARE WIPED OUT

SOUTHWEST PACIFIC, Nov. 9.—Allied aircraft in widespread week-end attacks destroyed 63 and probably 79 more Japanese planes, including 35 in a continuation of raids on Rabaul, and sank or damaged two enemy destroyers, a corvette, five small cargo ships and 34 barges.

Most of the surface vessels were hit around Bougainville in what George Jones, United Press correspondent, described in a dispatch from an advanced South Pacific base as attacks to smash enemy hopes of reinforcing the invaded Solomons stronghold. Jones quoted a spokesman as saying the heavy concentration of troop-carrying ships indicated the invasion of Bougainville by U. S. Marines would be resisted powerfully.

Thousands of American troops landed on Bougainville eight days ago consolidated their three-mile beachhead, Jones said, and patrols established defense positions 3000 yards inland between the Koromokina and Torokina rivers near Enipress Augusta Bay. They were operating in heavy rainstorms.

VITAMINS TO WAR—Approximately 1,800 boats manned by French-Canadian fishermen of Gaspé Peninsula, Quebec, put out daily to search for cod, first commercial source of vitamins. About 36,000 gallons of cod-liver oil go to Allied forces. Here are two youngsters with 50-pounder.

COAST GUARDSMAN NOW — Al Barlick, right, National League umpire, is sworn into U. S. Coast Guard by Lt. Comdr. A. C. Stewart, in Chicago. Barlick goes on active duty Nov. 11. Now he'll call 'em safe for Uncle Sam.

ANCIENT FOES MEET THURSDAY

Cisco Lobos will play their fifth conference game at Chesley Field at 2 o'clock Thursday afternoon, when the Ranger Bulldogs come here for the annual gridiron contest.

The yearly meeting between Cisco and Ranger has always been a spirited one—more or less of a grudge battle—and this year's affair will be very similar to those of past years, except that both teams are in the underdog class these days and Thursday's meeting will probably decide which of the two will finish in fifth place.

Monroe Sweeney, now Lobo coach, recalls the Cisco-Ranger game of 1924, which he refereed. It was staged in Cisco and before an enthusiastic crowd of 10,000 people; rooters, like the two teams, put everything they had into the game, notwithstanding the heaviest sandstorm in the history of this area.

The final score was 3 to 0 in favor of Ranger, the visitors acquiring their three points through a place kick by the great Buster Mills, in the last few minutes of play. The game was for the district championship.

The Cisco squad is composed of the following 15 players and those with an "x" indicate the probable starting lineup:

LAW ENFORCEMENT.

After the great glow comes reaction. Can all this good news of the first week of November be too good to be true? The battle news from the South Pacific is splendid—that from southern Russia is equally so. That from Italy is good. The coal mines are under Uncle Sam once more, and the miners will work for him if not otherwise.

As for the Moscow agreements, so satisfactorily concluded by the four great nations—the American sunk in war, talking of peace a little off the top of his mind, but prepared in his deeper self for more and more trouble, more tightening of the belt, for the idea that perhaps the loss of these thousands of lives may be only a prelude to losses of future wars—the American rubs his eyes. Is he awake or dreaming? Can this be true? Will there be strong and lasting peace through the establishment of strong police forces to suppress deviancy and maintain law and order?

It is not too good to be true if the peoples of the world want it to be true.

But it takes more than agreements to make permanent peace. The new world must be worked for, humbly, prayerfully, persistently, intelligently and hard.

It is more difficult to be humble, persistent and intelligent than it is to be prayerful and hard-working. But the American can be all of these if he will. He has had practice in the processes of democracy. He knows they work.

SINGED WINGS.

The people of the United States have been flying so close to the lightning bolts that some of them have had their wings badly scorched. They have been scorched with the idea that they could get something for nothing by having the government furnish it. As a result, they are loaded with taxes to pay for "gifts" and government debts.

As yet they are awakening to the fact that repaying private industry a more beneficial to the nation than tax-exempt government projects which must be paid for by taxes taken from the people. In speeches, newspaper editorials, radio talks and advertising copy of many industries there is a widespread sentiment that the nation must go forward on the solid foundation of private initiative and enterprise which built it.

Recognizing the singed wings warning, Eric A. Johnston of Spokane, recently said: "There is some danger of America becoming totalitarian. Of course it would come under a firm direction that we understand it now. Unless that danger is averted, the peace of the world is endangered. The much power should never be placed in the hands of government. We should tell the whole world that we will not preside at the liquidation of the American way of life."

OPA PROGRESS BACKWARD.

"A blurb recently emitted by the OPA with intent to shame complainers about rationing," says the Portland Oregonian, "tells us that our forefathers did without sugar until the thirteenth century, without buttered bread until the fifteenth, without potatoes until the sixteenth, without coffee, tea and coal until the seventeenth, without gas, matches and electricity until the nineteenth. A common comment on this record is that our forefathers also did without the OPA."

Our forefathers also did without false teeth, safety razors, patent toilets, and thousands of articles too numerous to mention. They didn't have department stores, chain stores, milk in bottles, canned food or bath tubs.

Eddie Rickenbacker and his companions starved on a raft for nearly a month and still lived to tell the tale. But is that any parallel we should seek to follow? If our national economy has created shortages, at a time when surpluses are needed, we can do without as our fathers did if necessary.

Our planning and energies, however, should be directed toward increased production and progress, the constant aim of our forefathers.

City Attorney R. E. Graham was instructed at a meeting of the city commission Tuesday night to prepare a resolution requesting the state and county to delinquent city taxes as of Wednesday, November 14, and City Sen. J. E. Cate was instructed to accept payment of such taxes without penalty. The action was taken by the commission in line with the Texas legislature's recent act authorizing remission of such penalties and interest at the option of citizens, subdivisions. This act because it did not receive the necessary two-thirds majority is not yet effective and will not become operative until early in March. Part has bills in the state department total slightly more than $10,000, the commission was informed. Sgt. G. R. Knaptrak was ordered to put on a full force of police and to investigate conditions of delinquents, and require them to either pay, work, or get out of town in cases found worthy.

Club, was hostess Monday at a 4 o'clock luncheon at her home in Eastland. During the afternoon program, opened by the reading of the Thanksgiving Prayer by Mrs. Philip Pettit, regent, the guests were entertained by a piano solo and vocal selection by Mrs. Lee Clark, and two local soloists by Mrs. H. V. House. A talk on Thanksgiving was made by Mrs. C. R. Webb. Present were Mesdames C. R. West, A. Spear, Philip Pettit, Lee Clark, Nancy McCrea, John Chevey, Lee Owen, hostess, and guests Mesdames W. B. Collins of Eastland and H. V. House, Cisco.

Mrs. Eliza Hale was hostess Monday to members of the Thursday Club at 4 o'clock. High scores during the afternoon was won by Mrs. G. R. Kelly. Assisted by Miss Ester Hale and Mrs. Arlington McClellan, Mrs. Hale served a salad and dessert course. W. L. Jones.

WELL IF IT ISN'T MUSS!—Hitler, left, and Mussolini do their best to impress cameramen with presumed happiness of their meeting, after Nazis hurried former Duce out of Italy. Scene at Hitler's headquarters in Germany.

IT'S OFF SCHEDULE—This train won't ever be on time—or ever late again, for that matter. It's in one of marshalling yards at Foggia, Italy, after Allied bombers had turned yards into mass of wreckage. Foggia, important air base on east coast of Italy, fell to advancing British 8th Army on Sept. 28.

BUT IT GOT BACK—P-47 Thunderbolt flown by Lieut. Justus Foster, Junction City, Ky., was singled out for attack by Nazi fighters over France. Five 20 mm. shells crashed into right wing, as above. Attackers left plane to fall to earth, but Foster flew it back to England under cloud cover and made crash landing.

HARD ROAD TO ROME—Allied Armies are learning that roads to Rome are slow and difficult, as Germans strive to push them back. Chief highways of attack are the ancient Appian Way, which General Clark's 5th Army is taking, and road across Apennines from Pescara, where General Montgomery's Army progresses slowly.

If people don't read the old name down, they are waiting until they can "go in style."
