NAZI COLLAPSE IN WHITE RUSSIA COMPLETE

LOBOES TRIED HARD AGAINST TOUGHER BUCS

In a one-sided football game at Chesley Field Thursday afternoon the heavy Breckenridge Buckeyes smothered the lighter, outclassed Loboes by the top-heavy score of 53 to 0. While making some fast downs and spectacular runs around ends, and with nicely-timed passes being completed for short gains, the Loboes never had a chance at substantial gains through the Breckenridge line. It was apparently a slaughter, with one big, well-trained group against a weaker, outclassed team that was conceded hopeless from the beginning. However, our boys are to be commended for doing their best and taking it on the chin like true sportsmen.

Breckenridge made 10 first downs to Cisco's five, and was penalized 60 yards while Cisco drew penalties aggregating 20 yards.

Presentation of a bouquet of gold chrysanthemums tied with black ribbon to Billie Jean Hall, band sweetheart, while the band played "Let Me Call You Sweetheart," and making a heart figure on the field, was a colorful event of the ball.

Other local color was the presence of John Potter, third class petty officer from overseas and Lobo captain of 1941, together with Pvt. Marion Smith, lineman of 1941, who came from Florida.

The Cisco lineup included Armstrong, back; Tompkins, back; Tipton, back; Hays, center; M. Johnson, back; Cleveland, back; E. Ramsower, guard; W. Baum, tackle; Rope, tackle; Harrelson, end; Philpott, center; Reese, back; Pusey, end; Farley, back; Fry, back; V. Ramsower, guard; Fry, Jim, guard; Trevino, back; Poyner, guard; Johnson, Don, back; Saults, back; Haynie, back; Davis, end; Baum, J., tackle; Barnes, guard; Christie, tackle; Paschall, guard; Williams, back; Davis, B., end; Noble, M., tackle; Callahan, J., end.

SNOW FALLING AT AMARILLO AND DALHART

FT. WORTH, Nov. 26.—Near-freezing temperatures were forecast for this city today as snow swirled down over the Texas Panhandle and light rains covered much of West Texas.

Cloudy skies and colder weather is due tonight with the mercury near freezing early tomorrow. Snow was falling this morning at Amarillo, Dalhart, Pampa, Panhandle and Lubbock. It was raining at Big Spring and Clarendon. Dalhart was the coldest spot in the state, with the mercury at 26 degrees early today. Amarillo had 27, Pampa 28.

FORMER CISCO WOMAN BURIED IN LOUISIANA

Mrs. A. J. Muller, Sr., 74, died at 11 o'clock Monday morning in a hospital at Goose Creek, Tex., where she had been ill for a month. The funeral was held this morning at the Church of the Immaculate Conception, Washington, La., with burial there.

Deceased, a native of Louisiana, was the widow of the late A. J. Muller, who died in Cisco about seven years ago, the couple having resided here for several years. Their old home, however, was Washington, La., where he had served as mayor for several terms, also taking a prominent part in Louisiana state affairs. Mrs. Muller was a most devout Christian woman and was active in Washington church and parish activities in her earlier years. She had made her home with her children since leaving Cisco.

She is survived by a host of friends and ten children, as follows: E. H. Muller, Cisco; Mrs. Arthur Cunningham, Monroe City, Tex.; A. J. Muller, Odessa; Claude Muller, Port Arthur; Ira Q. Muller, Houston; Sidney Muller, Tomball; Eugene Muller, Baytown; Walter Muller, Franklin, La.; Mrs. Gant Nicholson and Lawrence Muller, Washington, La. There are also several grandchildren.

FOUR BRECKENRIDGE MEN IN NAZI HANDS

BRECKENRIDGE, Nov. 26.—Four soldiers from Stephens county, reported missing Sept. 9 in the battle for Salerno, and another reported seriously wounded, are listed now as prisoners of Germany.

Capt. Newton Lantorn of Breckenridge, who was reported wounded in action during the invasion of Sicily, was taken prisoner "while being evacuated," according to a telegram to Mrs. Lantorn, who now resides at Borger.

Staff Sgt. James Peacock, Sgt. D. H. Livingston, Sgt. Orby Ledbetter, Jr., and Sgt. Sidney W. Harris, all of Breckenridge, were captured.

MOSLEY IN FLORIDA.

Pfc Paul Mosley of the Marines has been transferred from California to a training center at Jacksonville, Fla. He informs his parents, Mr. and Mrs. C. P. Mosley. The young man was 17 years of age in June and joined the colors in August. He is an aviation radioman and will be in school at Jacksonville five months.

BOB KEASLER IS EXPECTED HOME TONIGHT

Robert Morris (Bob) Keasler, 22, son of Mr. and Mrs. M. L. Keasler of Eastland, received his commission as ensign in the navy Wednesday night, when he finished the prescribed course at Columbia University, New York.

Keasler, who has a three-week leave, is expected home tonight for a visit with his parents. He was delayed on the trip because of unusually heavy snow storms in New York. After his visit home he will report to Yorktown, Va., for assignment to foreign duty.

Ensign Keasler is a graduate of Eastland high school and Texas Tech and is well known and popular in Cisco. His father is the local Gulf Oil company consignee.

UNION THANKSGIVING SERVICE EXCELLENT

The people of Cisco, following the custom of several years standing, gathered yesterday morning at 7:30 for the annual Thanksgiving service, filling the sanctuary of First Presbyterian church to capacity.

Rev. J. R. Wright, selected by the Ministers' association as speaker for the occasion, used as his text the 14th verse of the 50th Psalm, "Offer unto God thanksgiving, and pay thy vows unto the most High." In the sermon he gave emphasis to three major freedoms enjoyed in the land of America—freedom of government, freedom of worship, freedom of education—stating that out of these all other elements of our vaunted liberties were derived.

The massed choir under the direction of S. E. Hittson led the congregation in singing several appropriate hymns. Mrs. S. E. Hittson playing the organ. A male quartet composed of Mr. Hittson, George Boyd, W. Frank Walker and M. F. Underwood gave a selected number.

Rev. Cooper Waters, president of the Ministers' association, presided at the meeting. Rev. Seba Kirkpatrick offered the prayer of thanksgiving. The benediction was given by Rev. L. H. Clegg.

The excellent attendance, as well as the warm atmosphere of reverent worship, gave evidence that this annual gathering of Cisco people has come to hold a very vital place in the community. Many expressions of hearty appreciation were heard after the service closed.

BERLIN REALIZES FURY OF ADOLPH'S WAR

BERN, Nov. 26.—Thousands of bombed-out Berliners, their scanty possessions strapped to their backs, defied Nazi threats of punishment to continue the mass exodus from the chaotic and still burning capital city, German frontier dispatches said.

A dispatch from Basel, on the Swiss-German frontier, to the newspaper La Suisse at Geneva said that all reports from the German capital painted the same picture of terror and destruction, with firemen in many instances compelled to resort to dynamite in an attempt to check the spreading flames.

Thousands of persons are still trapped beneath the debris, with little chance of their being dug out alive, the dispatch continued. The Basel dispatch said that Berlin authorities faced an almost impossible task in attempting to find shelter for the homeless.

Thousands, taking out possessions on their backs or in small carts, risked the danger of being wounded without ration cards, and local visas in order to flee the stricken city, the account went on.

A traveler, who left Berlin after Monday's attack, said the Gestapo had arrested 3,000 persons, including 2,000 women and children, who were insane from shock. He declared the hopelessly wounded and insane were killed.

US. SUBS AC-COUNT FOR 505 JAP VESSELS

WASHINGTON, Nov. 26.—American submarines, hitting hard at Japanese supply lines in the Pacific, have sunk nine more enemy ships, bringing to 505 the number of Japanese vessels sunk, probably sunk or damaged by U. S. undersea craft.

Seven medium freighters, one medium tanker and one medium-sized airplane transport vessel were listed as sunk at undisclosed points. The new sinkings boosted to 745 the number of Japanese vessels sunk by all types of American weapons since the war started.

FIRST WELL OF KIND BLOWN IN AT FRANKLIN

FRANKLIN, Pa., Nov. 26.—The nation's first horizontal-shafted oil well was blown in late yesterday with a blast of more than 1,200 pounds of explosives in a pioneering project by the Venango Development Corporation two miles north of Franklin.

The scene is 20 miles south of the first oil well drilled by Edwin L. Drake more than 80 years ago. Leo Ranney, formerly of Fort Worth, designer of the new type of recovering oil, said the longest line of shots ever used was exploded. They had a combined length of 3,800 feet. He hopes to drain from the Venango first sand through which the sideways shafts extend, the oil that would be obtained by 200 vertical wells.

PRISONER OF GERMANS.

EASTLAND, Nov. 26.—Mrs. Oma Lyerla has received information through the Red Cross that her husband, Billy Ray Lyerla, reported missing on September 9, last following action by the American 36th division in Italy, had been found to be a prisoner of the Germans. Lyerla enlisted in the army in 1941. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. O. E. Lyerla of Flatwoods.

HEAVY AIR RAID IS MADE ON FRANKFURT AND MOSQUITOES AGAIN STROKE BERLIN FIRES

Soviet tanks and infantry burst through the shattered German defenses in White Russia and the British 8th Army ripped deep into the Adriatic flank of the Nazis' Italian line today, as Allied bombing fleets rocked Hitler's European fortress again from France to Berlin.

Mosquitoes again stoked the fires of Berlin, while the RAF made a heavy four-motored raid on Frankfurt.

The entire southern end of the German line in White Russia collapsed suddenly as the Nazis abandoned their fortress city of Gomel and fled to the northwest over a narrowing escape route, pounded all the way by raking Soviet shell-fire.

Berlin acknowledged the evacuation of Gomel after Moscow disclosed that a new offensive 70 miles north of the city had smashed a big hole in the German line and brought the Red Army to the upper reaches of the Dnieper river on a broad front.

The Russian spearhead surged forward as much as 27 miles, engulfing 180 towns and villages and cutting across the Sozh and Pronya rivers and the main Gomel-Mogilev highway.

With the collapse of their Gomel anchor and the new Russian breakthrough to the north, the Germans were expected to make a determined stand on the west bank of the upper Dnieper, guarding the approaches to Poland. Fifteen miles beyond the tip of the new Russian spearhead lay the only north-south railroad left to the Nazis in White Russia, and it was believed they would make an all-out fight to hold it.

In the Zhitomir salient below Gomel, German Marshal Fritz Erich von Manstein continued to hurl waves of tanks and assault troops against the Russian line in a so-far vain effort to win back Kiev. Moscow reported that all German counter-attacks against the salient at Korosten, Cherniakhov and Brusilov were repulsed with heavy losses to the Germans.

Other Soviet troops extended their advance across the lower Dnieper south of Kremenchug and seized the German stronghold of Kruikov.

New disaster also threatened the German High Command in Italy, where the Eighth Army poured troops and guns through its newly-won bridgehead across the Sangro river in a push toward Pescara, eastern terminus of a major lateral road to Rome.

The Nazis threw waves of infantry and planes into repeated counter-attacks against the Sangro river bridgehead, but Gen. Bernard L. Montgomery's veterans flung them back and consolidated their foothold on the north bank of the stream.

The Anglo-American Fifth Army on the western flank of the Italian line reported no new progress across the rain-bound battlefield, but its artillery pounded the enemy positions heavily.

Allied warplanes streamed across the English Channel early today into occupied Europe and it was announced that U. S. Eighth Air Force heavy bombers pounded targets in northwest Germany.

Thirteen RAF planes were lost in the Frankfurt and Berlin raids and in subsidiary mine-laying operations.

SYNTHETIC RUBBER AND AMERICAN INITIATIVE.

Announcement of the approaching completion of a single plant at Fort Neches, Texas, capable of making enough butadiene to produce one-seventh of the entire wartime program of synthetic rubber is good news because it indicates that synthetic rubber production will be stepped up materially. But the story behind this announcement is also good news because it is an interesting example of American ingenuity and unselfish accomplishment. It is the story of how a great industry turned all its resources and "know how" to a war project with no thought of compensation or profit in return.

When the Japs cut off the supply of natural rubber from the Far East, the United States faced the necessity of building a synthetic rubber industry almost from scratch and of doing it before our stockpile of natural rubber was depleted.

The principal ingredient of synthetic rubber is butadiene which can be made either from alcohol or petroleum. But, while the process of making butadiene was not new, it had been produced only in small quantities in the United States and, overnight, there was a demand for enough to produce more rubber annually than the country had ever used before.

The government moved immediately to build a number of plants, some of them to produce butadiene from alcohol and some from petroleum. A representative of the oil industry suggested that a plant be built at Port Neches, in the heart of the Texas Gulf Coast oil region, and that it be supplied by nearby refineries of five companies. The companies agreed not only to supervise construction and operation of the plant, but to make available the services of management, advisory, technical and legal personnel and to pay their expenses. Furthermore other companies in the industry agreed to exchange technical information, trade secrets and "know how."

As a result of this co-operation, petroleum engineers developed a new process for making butadiene—one that yields twice as much from a barrel of petroleum as had ever been obtained before and that leaves the remaining refinery gases available for the production of high-octane gasoline and other products. They built a small-scale laboratory model, tested it, and found their theories would work.

Then they, in cooperation with government agencies, went ahead with the building of the largest plant in the world for the production of butadiene from petroleum. Meanwhile smaller production units, using the new process, have been placed in operation at other points.

The Port Neches plant, which will begin partial operation in December, will have a capacity of 100,000 tons of butadiene a year, sufficient to make 110,000 long tons of synthetic rubber. Adjacent plants, operated by rubber companies, will combine the butadiene with styrene to make synthetic rubber.

This is just one example of the unselfish service of American industry in the war effort. It should be interesting to the men in the service overseas who have been hearing so much about strikes and threats of strikes.

Coming as a crowning joy to their victorious game of the day, was the splendid turkey dinner given by the Cresset Club for the Cisco High school football boys. The dinner was given at the home of G. A. Tucker with Miss Mabel Tucker acting as hostess. The Cresset Club is composed of twenty-one charming girls, who proved themselves excellent entertainers on this occasion. Long tables were beautifully arranged with black and gold streamers, the High school colors, and baskets of chrysanthemums. A Kewpie doll dressed in football togs made a clever central decoration. The place cards were parts of football suits and paraphernalia. Long black and gold streamers hung from the chandeliers to the corners of the rooms. Miss Lillian Smith, president of the club, acted as toastmistress. Jan McMurray, coach, gave a complete summary of the entire season. Frank Turner, captain, expressed the appreciation of the team. Lillian Smith gave a toast to the boys of this year and the boys to come. Kite was completely embarrassed by being asked to explain how he made his touch-down. Those who served the delicious three-course turkey dinner were Mabel Tucker, Helen Keough, Elizabeth Hughes, Minnie Eleanor Pettit, Thelma Fairless, Dorothy Gregory, and May Stevens. After the dinner the rooms were cleared and the young people danced. Extra couples came in for the dancing.

Places were laid for Mr. and Mrs. G. W. Wells, the girls of the Cresset Club, and the following boys: Frank Turner, Arvel Pass, Marshall McCrea, Odwin Cate, Forrest Herndon, Paul McCarty, Edwin Mancill, John Aaron Robinson, J. P. Parish, Floyd Tomlinson, James Moore, Charles Hale, Newton Cogburn, Ernest Wilson, Rex Carothers, Glenn Tucker, Sam Fowlkes cheer leader, and Cecil McCord.

A very delightful affair was the dinner given by Mrs. Dick Starr and Mrs. Leon Maner. Outurn leaves and chrysanthemums and open fires remained one of the beauties of autumn. The dinner was served at the little tables decorated with chrysanthemums. The dinner consisted of three courses, turkey and all the accessories. The tables were cleared and 500 and 42 were played. A dainty guest favor was given Mrs. J. S. Coggin of Brownwood, who with her husband were honor guests. The high score in the 500 game was won by F. A. Blankenbeckler. Places were says PAUL S. WILLIS, President, Grocery Manufacturers of America

"YOUR GROCER THANKS YOU!"

A recent survey of a cross-section of American homes reveals that almost two-thirds of the nation's housewives consider the service grocers are now giving as good as before the war.

Considering the increasing hardships imposed by food and manpower shortages, this is a fine tribute to the job being done by the food retailers of America.

Your grocer thanks you — and he asks that you continue to help him protect the food arsenal of America by cheerful and considerate cooperation.

PAUL S. WILLIS, President, Grocery Manufacturers of America.

Dental Care At Camp Bowie

Personal service is the theme of dental care at Camp Bowie. Top left, Lt. Col. H. W. Keller, director of Clinic I-A in the New Area, former Iowan, examines the teeth of T-4 Earl Binnebose, field artilleryman and fellow Iowan. The attendant is Miss Lora Berry of Goldthwaite. Top right, Pvt. Willis Collins of Bay City, Mich., grins over the tooth which Lt. I. Gattuccio of San Jose, Cal., has just pulled. Miss Leona Williams of Brownwood is the attendant. Below is a small section of the main clinic. In chair No. 1, S-Sgt. Robert Orme of Indianapolis, Ind., is attended by Lt. Maurice Kitrowsky, facing camera, of Chicago, Ill., and T-Sgt. W. R. Stults of Oklahoma City, Okla. In Chair No. 2 the patient is Pfc. A. J. Fulbright of Mt. Vernon, Tex.

A man with sore feet makes a poor soldier—and the same holds true about aching teeth—only more so.

GI patients who take troublesome teeth to one of the three dental clinics at Camp Bowie are apt to be pleasantly surprised. A waiting room at one of them looks like the waiting room at any other clinic, but beyond there the resemblance stops.

Dental Clinic I-A in the new area, under command of Lt. Col. H. W. Keller, is representative. Its 25-chair installation of dental equipment is the best that money can buy. Each unit has cost the Army approximately $1,200 and the price to civilian dentists would have been nearly twice that.

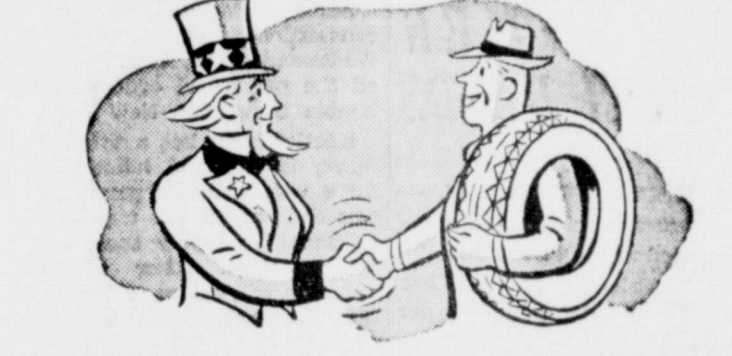

Each consists of an adjustable chair upholstered in leather, a stand supporting drills and a variety of instruments, and an equipment cabinet, all finished in gleaming cream and black enamel. The gleam is the responsibility of the enlisted men who assist the dental officers.

When the patient opens his mouth in the examining room, the oral ailment which caused his referral to the clinic is checked personally by Colonel Keller. As each tooth is checked, a nurse records the report on a survey form, which is signed by the examining officer. X-rays, when required, can be made quickly. Modern methods of sterilization are employed.

Patients who gained confidence from the personal interest taken by civilian dentists welcome the "personal responsibility" system in use at this clinic. When the patient takes his report to the proper section of the clinic he is seated in the chair of a dental officer, where his oral condition becomes the responsibility of that officer. If several extractions and fillings are required, the officer can do part of the work and direct the soldier to return another day for the remainder. When the work is completed, the inspection officer again examines the patient's dental restorations. His inspection and official approval of the dental work is necessary before this patient's work is considered completed.

Strangely enough, the patient who arrives at the dental clinic with a defective gold filling is likely to lose it unless the gold filling can be replaced. The old filling will travel through channels to the office of the Surgeon General and eventually into the United States Treasury. The soldier will come away from the clinic with a replacement filling of synthetic enamel or silver alloy which will function better than the original gold filling.

And incidentally—to get into the Army a fellow must have at least 12 of his scheduled 32 teeth, or suitable dentures. Army dentists have decreed that 12 teeth are needed to chew GI food properly. Half of them can be front teeth, three above and three below and half must be posterior masticating and both sets must occlude—to the layman that means they must mesh for grinding purposes.

Flying Dutchmen

PILOTS OF THE ROYAL DUTCH NAVAL AIR SERVICE, attached to the British air arm, bring one of their fighter planes to the flight deck of a carrier, as they prepare for action off the English coast. Most of the men are veteran bomber pilots from the Netherlands East Indies who traveled halfway around the world to continue their fight against the Axis. They have already accounted for more than 115,000 tons of enemy shipping.

We Built the Barrel BIG

EARLY in the war the electric industry received this challenge from the War Production Board, Production Division:

"You'll have to produce fantastic quantities of electric power to keep the nation's war production going up and up. It'll be tough—because the copper and turbines and machinery you need won't be easy to get. YOU'LL BE ASKED TO SCRAPE THE BOTTOM OF THE BARREL TO HAUL OUT MORE KILOWATTS!"

Fortunately, we had built the barrel big... Big enough to keep production lines roaring! Big enough to meet all the power needs of factories and training camps—and still supply your home without rationing—at bargain prices!

Today, America is producing five times more electric power than it did in the last war—outproducing all of the Axis countries combined!

Was it luck that we built the barrel big? No, the electric companies under business management—which supply over 80% of the nation's power—have developed the habit of planning ahead. That private enterprise habit has helped us to give you friendly dependable service—and it has enabled us to meet the challenge of America-at-war!
