The Story of Jap Torture of U. S. Soldiers Must Never Be Forgotten

WASHINGTON, Jan. 28.—A story scarcely paralleled in the annals of modern war—how the Japanese starved, tortured and in some cases wantonly murdered the gallant defenders of Bataan—was told by the army and navy last night.

Documents by sworn statements of officers who escaped from Bataan camps, the joint announcement described a cold-blooded campaign of savagery carried out by the 36,000 Americans and Filipinos on Bataan and Corregidor who were overwhelmed by superior numbers.

Lesser brutalities, indignities and humiliations were innumerable. The Japs gave three chickens and 50 eggs to 500 men, on broadcast to the world that the prisoners were fed on chickens and eggs.

From reports made by a naval officer and two army officers who escaped from the Philippines at least a year ago as prisoners, the departments assembled the story, including the report that several times as many American prisoners in the hands of the Japanese have died—mostly of starvation, forced hard labor and general brutality—as the Japanese have ever reported.

"At one prison camp, Camp O'Donnell, about 2,200 American prisoners died in April and May, 1942," said the report. "In the camp at Cabanatuan, about 3,900 Americans had died up to the end of October, 1942. Still heavier mortality occurred among Filipino prisoners of war at Camp O'Donnell."

The calculated campaign of brutality began against the battle-weary American and Filipino soldiers on Bataan as they surrendered to the Japanese survivors later called "The March of Death," said the report.

The report was assembled from statements made by Comm. Melvin H. McCoy, U. S. N., of Indianapolis; Lt. Col. S. M. Melnick, Coast Artillery of Dunmore, Pa.; and Lt. Col. William E. Dyess, Air Corps of Albany, Texas.

Dyess was killed in a crash of his fighter plane at Burbank, Cal., recently while he was preparing to return to combat against the Japanese. Melnick is now with General MacArthur's command in the Southwest Pacific, and McCoy is on duty in the United States.

While the report was based exclusively on the records of these three officers, the joint statement said other Americans known to have escaped from Japanese prison camps in the Philippines include three officers and one enlisted man of the Marine Corps—Maj. Michael Dobervitch of Ironton, Minn.; Maj. Austin C. Shaffer of Shelbyville, Tenn.; Maj. Jack Hawkins of Roston, Texas; and Corp. Reid Carlos Chamberlain of El Cajone, Cal.

Dyess told the Army that "though beaten, hungry and tired from the terrible last days of combat on Bataan, though further resistance was hopeless, our American soldiers and their Filipino comrades in arms would not have surrendered had they known the fate in store for them."

The "March of Death," Dyess said, began when thousands of prisoners were herded together at Mariveles Airfield on Bataan at daylight on April 16, 1942, after their surrender.

Some of them had food, he said, but the guards would not permit any of them to eat; they were searched, their personal belongings taken, those with Japanese tokens or money were beheaded, and then—in groups of 500 to 1,000 men—the prisoners were marched along the national road off Bataan toward San Fernando in Pampanga Province.

Those who still had personal belongings were stripped of them, and the Japanese slapped and beat them with sticks as they marched without food or water on a hot day, the report said.

Dyess, describing the "March of Death," said that a Japanese soldier took his canteen, gave the water to a horse, and threw the canteen away; men recently killed were lying along the roadside, many run over and flattened by Japanese trucks; patients bombed out of a hospital, dazed, wandering in pajamas and slippers, were herded into the marching column; the prisoners marched the second day without food, but at noon were permitted to drink dirty water from a stream beside the road; no one was allowed to help prisoners who collapsed and fell; on the third day, the prisoners got their first taste of "sun treatment," forced to sit in the boiling sun all day without cover.

The calculated campaign of brutality began against the battle-weary American and Filipino soldiers on Bataan as they surrendered to the Japanese survivors later called "The March of Death," said the report.

INFANTILE PARALYSIS FUND AT A LOW EBB

E. T. Thomas, Cisco chairman of the 1944 infantile paralysis drive, requests that all those who wish to contribute to this worthy fund will please contact him at his place of business, by phone or otherwise.

Owing to the steadily increasing shortage of manpower, it seems impossible to secure commitments to make a personal canvass of the city, but the chairman is trying to see as many as he can.

Very little money was raised in Cisco last year for infantile paralysis needs, hence the fund is at a low ebb and must be built up again.

The annual President's Ball at Laguna Hotel tonight is expected to help considerably, but cooperation by the citizenship in general will be necessary, Mr. Thomas said.

Mrs. Laila Smart, chairman in Cisco for the Woman's Army Corps, popularly known as WACs, calls attention to a picture that will be shown for the last time at Palace theater tonight.

Title of the picture is "Women in War" and it depicts the progress and experience of the volunteer from the time she enters the recruiting office until she arrives behind the battle line and really begins her patriotic duties.

The local chairman suggests that all Cisco women make an effort to see this movie feature tonight, since actual understanding of the part women are taking in the great struggle to retain our present civilization should be helpful to all, in that wider realization of the crying need for additional WAC volunteers may result in further bolstering the armed forces of the country we love and hope to perpetuate.

The calculated campaign of brutality began against the battle-weary American and Filipino soldiers on Bataan as they surrendered to the Japanese survivors later called "The March of Death," said the report.

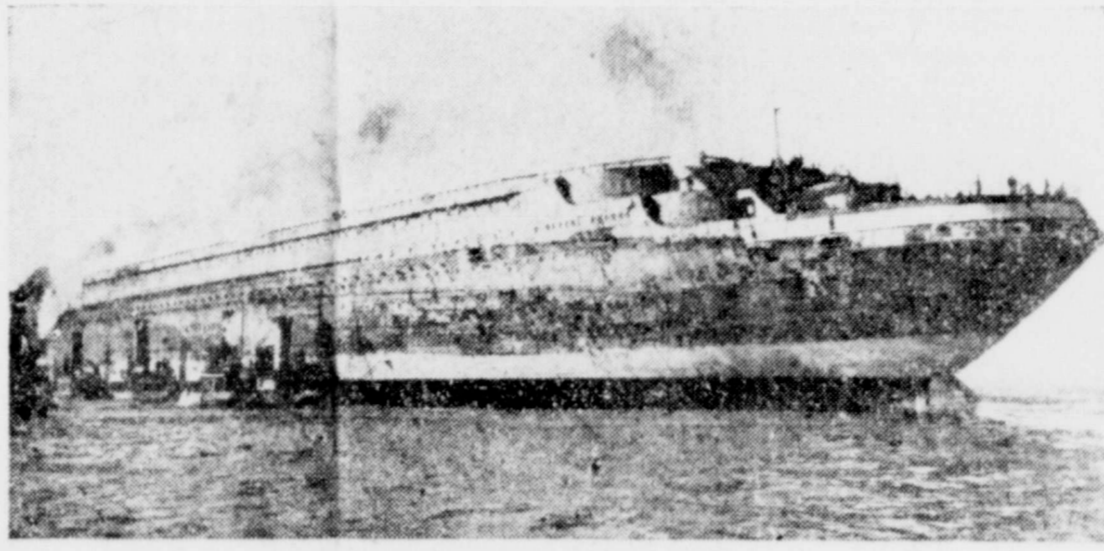

While the report was based exclusively on the records of these three officers, the joint statement said other Americans known to have escaped from Japanese pris-

Dyess told the Army that "though beaten, hungry and tired from the terrible last days of combat on Bataan, though further resistance was hopeless, our American soldiers and their Filipino comrades in arms would not have surrendered had they known the fate in store for them."

The "March of Death," Dyess said, began when thousands of prisoners were herded together at Mariveles Airfield on Bataan at daylight on April 16, 1942, after their surrender.

About 75 young people were present and singing was directed by Bonnie Wayne Cameron, Clarence Gene Weatherby, Bobbie Mae Weatherby, Patsy Anderson, Lora Mae Crowder, Lona Anderson, Melba Rose Crowder and Dorothy Faye Weatherby, Mr. Crowder said.

ENTITLED TO PAYMENT.

AUSTIN, Jan. 28.—Within the meaning of industrial accident law, a chiropractor is a physician entitled to payment for first-aid services to an injured employee, Atty. Gen. Grover Sellers says. The opinion addressed to the Industrial Accident Board was written by Asst. Atty. Gen. Ocie Speer. It cited the law that an insurance association is liable to any physician who gives first aid to an injured employee. "Under every definition, even the most restricted, one who practices medicine is a physician," said the opinion. It pointed out that chiropractors now are authorized to practice in Texas.

LAND LOANS REPAYED.

SAN ANTONIO, Jan. 28.—More than 15,000 loans made to farmers by the Federal Land Bank in Texas were repaid in full last year, it was reported at the annual conference of regional officials of the National Farm Loan Association here. Loans last year totaled $12,000,000, making a total of $180,000,000 outstanding for the state.

TEXAS STATE BANKS.

AUSTIN, Jan. 28.—Assets and liabilities of 391 Texas state banks increased $156,924,841 to $547,462,508 last year, the state banking department reported. Deposits were up 40 per cent to $536,326,800.

DISORDER OF NAZI TROOPS IN RUSSIA GROWS AS REDS SURGE ON TO ESTONIA AND LATVIA

Allied invasion troops have expanded their beachhead below Rome to a general depth of six miles and smashed a German armored counter-attack.

In Russia, thousands of disorganized German troops were reported fleeing before Soviet armies converging toward Estonia and Latvia.

The German counter-attack south of Rome was launched by elements of the 29th Panzer Grenadiers some 10 miles north of the Anzio beachhead sector and was thrown back by British troops who destroyed three enemy tanks and took 100 prisoners.

The Allied beachhead was being expanded steadily, a communiqué disclosed, and United Press Correspondent Reynolds Packard reported its area totaled 70 square miles. An American attack carried forward several miles in an undisclosed sector yesterday, Packard reported.

The Cairo Radio said the Allied vanguard had penetrated the Cisterna area on the Appian Way 13 miles north-east of Nettuno. In Rome itself, street fighting was reported to have broken out between German soldiers and anti-Fascist Italians, according to dispatches reaching Madrid. A number of explosions were heard in the city and the Germans were dispersing all gatherings of more than two persons, Madrid reports said.

U. S. planes covering the invasion forces and pounding enemy installations shot down 50 German aircraft yesterday for one of their biggest day's bags.

On the main Fifth Army front some 60 miles to the southeast, American troops were reported to have scaled several strategic heights and captured at least one west of the Rapido river against strong German resistance.

In the Cassino area to the north of the American positions, French units drove forward through difficult mountain terrain despite determined German counter-attacks.

In northern Russia, German forces were reported retreating in disorder from their collapsing bulge below Leningrad, where constant thaws had converted open terrain into bogs and made highways impassable. Dazed enemy troops were said to be abandoning large quantities of arms and ammunition in frantic efforts to escape converging Russian columns which were threatening all their major lifelines.

One Red Army spearhead, racing along the northern fringe of the enemy salient westward from captured Krasnogvardeisk, already had cut the Leningrad-Tallinn escape railroad with the capture of the junction town of Volosovo, only 39 miles from the Estonian border.

Eighty miles to the south, other Russian forces had driven 30 miles west from Novgorod to seize Kositskoe, within striking distance of the only two other lines out of the pocket—the Leningrad-Vitebsk and the Leningrad-Pskov railroads running southwest from the old capital.

In the north central portion of the enemy bulge, Soviet forces battered down the defenses of the important rail junction and fortress town of Tosno, where the German garrison "to a large extent was exterminated," the Soviet High Command said, before the survivors surrendered.

CIO UNITED AGAINST LABOR DRAFT

WASHINGTON, Jan. 28.—The CIO presented a united front against enactment of national service legislation today when so-called left wing units withdrew their support of President Roosevelt's proposal.

An all-day session of the CIO executive council in Washington resulted in adoption by voice of a motion reaffirming the stand taken by the organization's Philadelphia convention last fall in opposition to "compulsory labor." CIO officials said the action was unanimous, that it carried the approval of Harry Bridges, head of the West Coast longshoremen; Joseph Curran of the Maritime Union, and Albert Fitzgerald, electrical workers. They previously ously endorsed Roosevelt's stand, spokesmen said.

DRIFTING, WHITHER?

The declaration of Democrats at their Jackson Day dinner, for a fourth term for the president, is a matter for political argument, and also for calm analysis. The latter procedure is not less interesting than the former.
 A powerful American tradition of long standing has been power. Mr. Roosevelt is elected for a third term on the basis of a national emergency. For the purpose of this theoretical discussion the reason would matter little—the basic fact was a break from American practice. Now the party in power, in a greater emergency, finds it still easier to propose a fourth term. And it is questioned whether the counting of four-year terms for the supreme office will be regarded as very important hereafter.
 The big fact seems to be this—that the American people may be already started on a policy amounting to independence. Broadly speaking, the British system, in which there is merely a vote taken at intervals to determine whether the prime minister, equivalent to our president, may remain in office. But a safeguard of the British system is that the prime minister and his cabinet can be fired, at any time, by a vote of "lack of confidence" in the house of commons.
 In a world seemingly given over to crime and the punishment for crime, it is hard to find decent things to write about in these days. Perhaps never since the Dark Ages, when Europe suffered a blackout of civilization that lasted for almost a thousand years, has the general situation outside the United States been so evil.
 This human throwback on the part of the Germans and Japanese, developing simultaneously on opposite sides of the earth, burst upon a world supposedly highly civilized in all but a few unimportant areas. It developed such impetus and power that the really civilized groups were almost overwhelmed by the modern cave men—barbarians in the garb of civilization. From now on it will be important for all decent people to keep their eyes and ears open, ready to detect and prevent such eruptions of the Beast that is not yet eliminated from human nature.
 The highly developed science of psychology is capable of detecting and modifying criminal tendencies, but so far it has been applied only to individuals, not nations. It might be a good idea to develop research institutions to study the collective psychology of national and racial groups, doing whatever is possible to educate, humanize or harness those liable to dangerous crime waves.

SUPREME WARSHIP.

Americans, cradled in traditions of the sea, and still loyal to them though mostly inlanders now, can still thrill at the sight of a great ship. There is surely reason for this in the U. S. S. Missouri, the great battleship just launched in the Brooklyn Navy Yard. Fittingly enough the greatest shipyard in the world is producing the world's most formidable battleship.
 The Missouri, when equipped and laden, will displace 32,600 tons. Apparently she will not be bigger technically than her sister ships, the Iowa and New Jersey. But her size and power will make her a juggernaut of the sea, with unquelled fighting power and presumably with enough defensive armor to make her as nearly invulnerable as a warship can be. She will cost $100,000,000. There will certainly be something doing at sea when she is in commission, and he can take it.

There Is No Substitute for Safety—

It is not always wise to take the short cut. At first thought it may appear convenient and cheaper to do so, but that depends on the risk involved. For example, it is both dangerous and costly to take the short cut and purchase lands and town properties without knowing something about the title. Play safe. Pin-up picture for the man who "can't afford" to buy an extra war bond...

YOU'VE HEARD people say: "I can't afford to buy an extra War Bond." Perhaps you've said it yourself... without realizing what a ridiculous thing it is to say to men who are dying.

Yet it is ridiculous, when you think about it. Because today, with national income at an all-time record high... with people making more money than ever before... with less and less of things to spend money for... practically every one of us has extra dollars in his pocket.

The very least that you can do is to buy an extra $100 War Bond...

above and beyond the Bonds you are now buying or had planned to buy. In fact, if you take stock of your resources and check your expenditures, you will probably find that you can buy an extra $200... or $300... or even $500 worth of War Bonds.

Sounds like more than you "can afford"? Well, young soldiers can't afford to die, either... yet they do it when called upon. So is it too much to ask of us that we invest more of our money in War Bonds... the best investment in the world today? Is that too much to ask?
