CISCOAN IN ITALY LOVES TO FLY B-24

A letter from O. C. Barnhill to his parents, Mr. and Mrs. S. O. Barnhill, says he is well but homesick, is having plenty of excitement and won't be home until it's over there.

The Ciscoan is in Italy and the letter was written January 26. One paragraph said: "Daddy, I'm still flying the big ones, B-24s. I love the B-24. When you write my big brother, tell him to keep on building 'em and I'll keep flying 'em."

Other excerpts from the letter are as follows: "Dearest Mother and Dad—At last I've heard from you. Thanks for the long, sweet letter. Sorry you were sick Christmas, but so glad you are up now.

"Well, I've been overseas the last two Christmases, but feel sure I'll spend the next one at home. Here's hoping and praying. My brother Wayne spent Christmas in Los Angeles. So much better than the two he spent in southwest Pacific. I suppose brother Carroll has spent his last three Xmas there. I was in Italy Christmas. We are widely separated, but it is something to be thankful for that we are all well.

"I am very happy to learn that Wilford Boatman is not dead, although it is bad to be a prisoner of the Japs. Glad to know that Yvonne Daniel is well. He's one of the finest fellows I've ever known. Would like to have his address. I went to a banquet last night and had a nice meal.

"Oh, yes. I ran into another good old Cisco boy yesterday—Pete Bailey. He sure is tall, large and handsome.

"Dad, I wish you would send me a year's subscription to Cisco Daily Press. It might be a long time coming, but I would be able to keep up with the home-town news. We get good radio reports—heard Fibber McGee last night. Lots of love and write often. Your son, O. C. BARNHILL."

CANTEEN OPENING WAS PERFECT SUCCESS

About 200 Cisco high school and Junior College students of teen age attended the formal opening Friday night of the Teen-Age Canteen, which is being sponsored and supervised by Lions and Rotarians that these boys and girls may have a place to congregate, dance, play games and indulge in other social pastimes.

"Behavior was perfect," said Austin Flint, chairman of the organization and one of the leaders in the project. "There was no need for corrections of any kind." Mr. Flint added, "which shows that the young folks appreciate the effort to afford them a nicely furnished hall for a gathering place each Friday night."

A 10-cent cover charge and proceeds from hamburgers and soft drinks is expected to take care of all Canteen expense.

CISCO GAS AND CONOCOS THE WINNERS

In the contest Friday night between teams of the Cisco Bowling league, Cisco Gas Corporation keggers romped on the West Texas Utilities team for three straight games, while Smitty's Conocos took two out of three from Palace Theater.

TRUSTWORTHY CUSTOMER—Hampered by manpower shortage, parking lot owner in Seattle, Wash., is now running business on honor system. The message that greets customers is: "If you need the money bad enough to cheat me, let your conscience be your guide." Motorist Rae McCool, an honest customer deposits fee in cigar box provided.

ANZIO HARBOR—The camera catches this view of Anzio harbor at sunset, just after Allied forces made their landing. However, the serenity proved to be only a lull before the storm.

GOOD CITIZENS SHOULD KEEP FAITH

GRAHAM, Feb. 12.—Governor Stevenson said here Friday night that those service men who do not return shall not have made the sacrifice in vain if we continue to carry on and preserve the Constitution and the freedoms guaranteed under it.

Speaking at the annual chamber of commerce banquet, the governor said men in the Armed Forces wish to return to a country which respects law and the Constitution and preserves what he called the cornerstones of our foundation—the home, the church, the school and the professions, which support the other three.

PLANE TRIPS TODAY.

Fleming Waters of Dallas, son of Mr. and Mrs. D. E. Waters of Cisco, will spend Sunday here with his parents. The trip from Dallas will be made in a plane and from 10 o'clock this morning until nightfall the pilot will be at Cisco airport and will carry sightseers aloft for a nominal fee. The plane is a four-seater.

QUAKE-RUINED CITY.

SAN JUAN, Argentina, Feb. 12.—Three new tremors shook this quake-ruined city Friday night, injuring 30 persons who had returned to take up residence in the remains of their homes. An earthquake virtually leveled the city January 15.

Campaigner

Sen. Joseph C. O'Mahoney, above, of Wyoming, has been appointed chairman of the Democratic senatorial campaign committee, succeeding Sen. Joseph F. Guffey of Pennsylvania.

RIVER HOLDS BODIES.

MEMPHIS, Feb. 12.—Muddy waters of the Mississippi river Saturday still held the bodies of 24 persons killed in the crash of an American Airlines transcontinental plane but yielded bit-by-bit pieces of the wreckage. Veteran rivermen, reckoning with the swift waters and the possibility that the bodies were mangled in the crash, feared many would never be recovered. Parts of the ship were found 10 miles below the crash scene.

BACK ON THE JOB.

PEARL HARBOR, T. H., Feb. 12.—The U. S. battleship Oklahoma, 26 months ago a capsized hulk on the bottom of Pearl Harbor, rode proudly at anchor today, preparing to make the Japanese pay double.

MORAL DECADENCE THREAT TO AMERICA

DALLAS, Feb. 12.—Arizona author-politician, Clarence Budington Kelland, says Republican strategy in the forthcoming presidential campaign will be to concentrate on large voting areas of the north, east and west and upon "doubtful areas," such as Texas, Oklahoma, Tennessee, Virginia, North Carolina and Kentucky.

Kelland said God must be substituted for Frank Sinatra in the minds of young people and that the "Nation must pull itself out of moral decadence in a renaissance of good taste before juvenile delinquency can be checked."

HID IN CLOUDS.

LONDON, Feb. 12.—A single-handed attack by an American Thunderbolt pilot against 20 to 30 German fighters in the course of Friday's Fortress assault on Frankfurt was reported Saturday. The pilot, Lt. Harold T. Barnaby of Waco, Texas, destroyed two Nazi craft and damaged a third. Then he hid in the clouds for 13 minutes while five interceptors undertook a futile hunt for him.

LABOR FROM BAHAMAS.

NASSAU, Bahamas, Feb. 12.—The government will recruit 2,000 more laborers next week for work on United States farms. Last year the government recruited 4,697 of whom 1,697 have since returned to the Bahamas.

CIO IN POLITICS UP TO ITS NECK

WASHINGTON, Feb. 12.—"Red-hot" report from the Martin Dies committee uncovering big-time and big-money plans of CIO political action organization, headed by notorious Sidney Hillman, is coming in 10 days or so. Big CIO money is backing fourth term, the report will say, and Hillman, once at loggerheads with left-wing faction of American Labor Party in New York City, now is doing business with them. ALP will back FDR, just as Communist Comrade Browder is telling his party-liners to do. All this will be discussed in report.

Political department: In his two-day visit here Governor John W. Bricker of Ohio helped himself with Washington newspaper correspondents, among whom his stock had been low. He erased previous impressions of a vague candidate, instead spoke out plainly in two appearances, indicating he plans to speak up henceforth. His staunch conservative philosophy found dissenters, but he got credit for candor and clear thinking. Chances for the nomination, although on the rise, are still rated slim among newsmen.

Willkie's "double-or-nothing" tax talk divorced one of his longtime backers, Henry W. Marshall, Indiana's "grand old man" of the GOP, wrote a scathing denunciation of Willkie and put it on page 1 of his daily at LaFayette, Ind.

Men informed about the new Arabian pipeline project say that if we hadn't moved into that area the British might have gobbled up even more Persian Gulf oil. Protest in commons—with Anthony Eden saying the British ought to be consulted—is proof that our project touched them in tender spot. Senate is expected to approve the proposal for a super-committee to consider oil policy problems, but committee will find itself faced with fait accompli, for the Arabian deal is a thing accomplished. Chances are neither senate nor house will stop the deal, though they might succeed in changing it in some detail. In forthcoming foreign oil report, Senate's Truman committee probably will recommend that British repay us in kind for oil we lend-lease them.

JAPS LOSE 20 PLANES AND 12 SHIPS, PACIFIC

WASHINGTON, Feb. 13.—Allied planes in new blows against Japan's Southwest Pacific bases dropped 358 tons of bombs and shot down or damaged at least 27 more enemy planes.

The report, which disclosed the raids on Rabaul, New Britain, and Wewak and Madang, on New Guinea's northern coast, also reported that 1200 enemy troops died in the closing phase of the Allied drive which won complete control of New Guinea's Huon peninsula.

American submarines have been sinking Japanese ships at the rate of better than one a day for the past quarter year, it was learned today following Navy Secretary Frank Knox's disclosure that 12 more enemy ships had been sunk by U. S. subs.

BRITISH WARSHIPS GIVE NEEDED AID; FRONT LINES RELATIVELY SAME DURING PAST 3 DAYS

ALGIERS, Feb. 12.—The big German drive against the rain-drenched Allied beachhead below Rome bogged down today after American troops in a stone wall stand near Cisterna hurled back wave after wave of Nazis charging head-long over the bodies of their fallen comrades.

German and Allied armies alike were immobilized by pouring rains after five days of bitter fighting brought on by the Nazis' full dress effort to crack the perimeter of the Anglo-American beachhead and shove its defenders into the sea.

Deprived of badly needed air support by the stormy weather, the Allies nevertheless stood fast all around the rim of the Anzio pocket. Their position remained serious but not hopeless.

The worst weather since Christmas grounded all Allied planes yesterday, depriving the hard-pressed ground forces of urgently needed support. Clearing weather was in prospect, however, and it seemed likely that the air assault on the Nazis might be resumed and the building and strengthening of the beachhead continued.

In lieu of aerial backing, the hard-fighting troops got a hand from a number of British warships which steamed in close to the German positions above the British left flank sector and poured shells into the enemy ranks.

(A German communique said a violent Allied attack against new German lines near Aprilia "broke down"—apparently a tacit acknowledgement that the Allies had regained at least a limited initiative in that particular sector 10 miles north of Anzio.)

It was emphasized that while the weight of the German attack appeared to have eased to some degree in the last 24 hours, the Nazis still were attacking and still were pouring in reinforcements in evident preparation for stepping up the assault.

The slackening of activity on the beachhead perimeter undoubtedly was due in considerable measure to the heavy rains, squalls, and sleet which turned the battlefields into bogs and kept the soldiers on both sides huddling in water-filled slit trenches.

The battle of the beachhead had a direct bearing on the battle for Cassino, where the Americans were slowly but surely winning despite the heavy cost.

Official accounts said the Americans were knocking out German fortress-buildings one by one and making slow but steady progress in Cassino itself.

MOSCOW — Red armies battled their way across the approaches to Korsun, last German stronghold in the encircled pocket below Cherkasi, today and the official organ Red Star said the annihilation of 10 trapped enemy divisions was "reaching its logical end."

The last battered survivors of an original 100,000 troops were reported making their final stand along the hills and ravines immediately outside Korsun under a literal hail of Soviet shells.

The advancing First and Second Ukrainian Armies counted more than 3000 enemy dead in the past 24 hours as they pushed to within less than two miles of beleaguered Korsun, mercilessly tightening their ring of encirclement.

Additional thousands were known to have perished in one of the heaviest and most concentrated artillery barrages ever laid down on the southern front. Red Star said the Soviet guns and mortars now were covering every meter of the pocket with steel and explosives.

Two German battalions were cut off and exterminated in one night alone.

HOPE IS STILL HELD OUT FOR WAR CAPTIVES

WASHINGTON, Feb. 12.—Despite evidence that the Japanese may be following a deliberate policy of torture and death toward American prisoners, hope is still held out that supplies may be distributed and the general situation improved.

A state department note to Tokio, released Friday, demanded "immediate steps" by the Japanese government to stop abuses. The belief that Japan may be persuaded into adopting a civil-ed attitude toward American civilians and war prisoners ties in with Secretary Hull's recent statement that this government has never given up hope of alleviating their plight.

The Russian government has allowed the United Nations to stockpile relief materials on its territory on the chance that Japan may agree to accept them. But so far Tokio has ignored or sidestepped American demands.

DE MOLAY ORGANIZER.

KANSAS CITY, Feb. 12.—Arthur S. Metzger, 50, lawyer and a member of the Grand Council of De Molay, died Friday night. He was one of the original organizers of the national Order of De Molay in 1919.

LINCOLN AND LEE.

Sometimes, in the great admiration which the whole country rightly bears for Lincoln, one factor in his situation is at intervals lost sight of. The character of his great antagonist, Robert E. Lee, was one of the contributing forces to Lincoln's place in history. Had Lee been a mere swash-buckler, a man anxious for personal power, had there been a hint of anything less than honest conviction in his attitude for his cause, a lesser man than Lincoln could have defeated him.

It is true that in this comparison the soldier is set alongside the statesman, but history seems to show that it was in Lee, the general, rather than in any civilian statesman, that the admiration and hope of the south were centered.

The war between the states was based on difference of opinion as to rights. Lincoln's firmest insistence was that the union must be preserved. He loved the whole nation—loved the south enough to know that it must stay within the union whether it thought so at the time or not—loved the whole family of states so much that he must make it stay together even at the expense of parts of it.

The present war moves its scene from the family to the world. The antagonists are not worthy of our steel—they are fought because of their unsavory value. But when the nation pauses for an instant to look back upon the contests of its earlier years it draws strength from its great men of the past. It goes on with greater purity of motive because of its Lincoln; with greater forthrightness and gallantry in action because of its Lee.

THE CURZON LINE.

In the current Russian-Polish boundary dispute mention is often made of the Curzon line, without stating what it is. As a reasonably fair demarcation between the two peoples in a region devoid of natural boundaries, it deserves to be better known.

After the last war there was the same difficulty in determining Poland's legitimate eastern boundary. The allies, headed by Lord Curzon, the British foreign secretary, drew a line corresponding in the main to the racial line of division, and assigned everything west of it to Poland. Territory east of the Curzon line was not necessarily denied to the Poles; they were supposed to argue their claims directly with the Russians. In 1920, in the Polish-Russian war, the allies urged the Russians not to cross the Curzon line. They disregarded this plea, and were eventually defeated by the Poles in the battle of Warsaw.

Now Russia offers the Curzon line as an acceptable compromise between her own extreme claims, and those which the Poles think justifiable. Americans, who naturally tend to regard compromise as good ways of settling disputes, will be apt to favor the Curzon line as a satisfactory settlement.

GET THE TAX DODGERS.

A special session of the legislature has been called in California to consider various subjects, including a measure to permit state taxation of Federal property.

When the Federal government confined its activities to the function of governing rather than entering into business competition with private citizens, its property used for governmental purposes was granted tax freedom.

Today, however, with the government going into commercial activity, a serious problem faces the states. Tax-exempt government business prevents the development of highly-taxed private enterprise. It enjoys the privilege of using all public facilities such as roads, schools, police service, fire protection, etc., without bearing any of their cost.

When government goes into business in competition with its own citizens, the products it manufactures and the property it utilizes for producing the same, should bear the same tax burden as does other business.

It is to be hoped that California works out a plan for taxing government business activities the same as it does industries that maintain government.

EASTLAND—Judge W. H. Ely of Baird convened the Ninety-First district court today. He exchanged with Judge Davenport, who was disqualified in the tax suit brought by Chastain, Judkins & Chastain, to invalidate Eastland county road bonds. When the case was called Judge Ely certified his own disqualification. He being a taxpayer in Eastland county and therefore an interested party in the suit. This was the same ground on which Judge

Davenport was disqualified. Judge Ely stated that he owned city property in Cisco. The suit of Senator Joe Burckett against County Treasurer Ed Pritchard was heard by Judge Ely. Burckett asked the court to order Pritchard to pay his firm, Burckett & Orr, $850 for legal services to the county. After hearing the evidence Judge Ely refused to issue a mandamus. Senator Burckett gave notice of an appeal.

First Methodist. This is Sunday. It is a day long recognized in America as of peculiar significance among the other six days of the week. Of course, rest has long been associated with the day and quite validly so. But if that is the only unique feature of this day it is rapidly being lost in the modern scheme of living. But it does have another and perhaps even more significant claim to being a day set apart. By long established custom it has been considered a day of worship, a day when people go to church, a time for taking stock or getting our bearings or lifting our vision. Many people have lost this feature of the day along with the rest from labor. All could lose it. Many are not willing for it to be thus discarded. Many are finding a cherished time of new light, new inspiration. If you have about lost the day it is not yet too late to begin again. Go to church today, somewhere. You will be welcome at our Sunday school at 9:45 and again at the services in the sanctuary at 10:50 in the morning and 7:30 in the evening. After the evening worship the entire congregation will retire to the basement for an hour of fellowship. The ladies of circle one of the woman's society will serve

The bride was given in marriage by her brother, Martin Reich. She was attended by her sister, Miss Bertha Reich and Miss LaVerne Reich, a cousin. Groomsmen were Corp. Walthier Wahl, friend of the bridegroom and Carl Reich, brother of the bride.

The bridal party entered to the strains of Mendelssohn's wedding march, played by the organist, Miss Dora Wendt. The bride was beautifully dressed in white crepe with finger-tip length veil which fell from an attractive coronet of lace. She carried a white Bible, a gift of the groom, on which was a lovely spray of white carnations and sweet peas.

Miss Bertha Reich wore a dress of apricot satin with overskirt of net. She carried a bouquet of pink carnations. After the ceremony a reception was held in the home of the bride's mother, Mrs. Oscar Reich.

A large group of relatives and friends attended. Wedding gifts were opened by the couple and displayed in the presence of the group. Mr. and Mrs. Paulsen will make their home in Abilene.

I Built This For Hitler!

You bet your boots I did! I knew nothing would please "The Fuhrer" more than to have me let my farm machinery and equipment deteriorate so I could stop helping win this war! Those farm machines are my fighting machines and have got to be in tip-top shape! I don't mind long hours of work when I've got the support of smooth running equipment. That's why I built this Machine Shed. It protects those "fighting arms" from the sabotage of weather and rust. It helps keep a steady flow of food to the home and fighting fronts. It has improved the efficiency of my farm... and the appearance. It sure was a good investment! It's sturdily built and practical in design so that I can keep right on using it after the war. Yep, Mr. Hitler, you'd better watch out!

Yes, the farmer takes care of his farm machinery. Then we should all take care of the things we have so that our extra dollars may be turned into war bonds. While it's true that Cisco has already far exceeded her quota, many places perhaps not as fortunate as Cisco have not been able to reach their quotas, so it is necessary that some communities make up for the shortage of those places.

Let's keep Cisco on top.
