AXIS FRIENDS SEIZE ARGENTINE GOVERNMENT

AT POINT OF GUN, PRESIDENT RAMIREZ FORCED TO QUIT IN FAVOR OF VICE PRESIDENT

MONTEVIDEO, Uruguay, Feb. 25.—An ultra-nationalistic clique of army officers who had opposed breaking relations with the Axis took over the Argentine government in a bloodless coup d'etat today after forcing President Pedro Pablo Ramirez to resign at gun point.

Gen. Edelmir Farrel, vice president, was designated to succeed Ramirez by a revolutionary junta of six generals of which Farrel was a member. Adm. Leon Scasso, a notorious pro-Nazi but apparently not a member of the junta was named vice president.

Ramirez's resignation, taken from him at his residence in the Buenos Aires suburb of Olivos at gun point, read: "To the people of the Argentine nation:

"Tired by the intense duties of government, which force me to take rest on this date, I delegate my power to the vice president of the nation, Gen. Edelmir J. Farrel."

Gen. Luis Perlinger, interior minister in the Ramirez cabinet, led the revolt to prevent the president from making a radio address last night in which it was reported, he would have announced the formation of a new, liberal government.

A large number of troops from the Campo de Mayo army garrison, under the command of Col. Eduardo Avalos, pro-Nazi officer supporting Perlinger, were placed along the outskirts of Buenos Aires last night but no fighting had been reported early today although it was understood that some units of the army still were loyal to Ramirez.

Ramirez, who succeeded Gen. Arturo Rawson as president of the republic, 60 hours after the revolution of last June 4 in which President Ramon S. Castillo was ousted, signed the resignation, with the space for his successor's name left blank, at his home in Olivos, a suburb of Buenos Aires.

The first version of the resignation said it was made "due to the imposition of circumstances" but the leaders of the coup demanded that wording be changed and a second resignation was written declaring that Ramirez was leaving the presidency because of "ill health."

(There was no elaboration of the Montevideo report that the president signed "at gun point" but Buenos Aires reported that the resignation was first demanded by a group of army officers who called at his home and that after he signed, the presidential residence was surrounded by troops and police.)

Diplomatic quarters interpreted the coup as a last effort by the Axis to keep a base in the western hemisphere for espionage operations against the Allies. It was believed that by designating Farrel president, the junta hoped to support an allegation that it was a normal constitutional succession, thereby retaining the diplomatic recognition of the other American republics.

HITLER'S ROGACHEV LINE IS SMASHED

LONDON, Feb. 25.—Germany's transoceanic news agency broadcast today that Nazi troops have evacuated the great White Russian stronghold of Vitebsk, to fall back toward the old Polish frontier 70 miles to the west.

The German high command's communique, broadcast later, did not mention Vitebsk but confirmed an earlier Berlin announcement—also made by Moscow—that Russian troops had taken Rogachev, a center 150 miles south of Vitebsk.

Moscow army authorities declared that Hitler's Rogachev-Vitebsk line, one of the strongest on the Russian front, is smashed. Red Army men streamed across the ice of the Dnieper river, which forms a large part of the line, dispatches said.

SERIOUSLY ILL.

Paul Poe was informed today of the serious illness of Mrs. E. L. Springer, former Ciscoan and widow of the late Rev. E. L. Springer, widely known Baptist minister. Mrs. Springer is in a Brownwood hospital and the information came from her daughter, Mrs. Bob Key. Mr. Poe said that all of Mrs. Springer's children are now at her bedside.

DYESS MAY ENTER CONGRESS RACE

The Daily Press is informed that a delegation of Eastland county citizens visited Judge Richard Dyess at his home in Albany early this week and offered their hearty support if he would consent to enter the race for congress from the 17th congressional district.

Judge Dyess, educator, former county judge and long recognized Democratic stalwart of the Shackelford county area, is the father of the late Lieut.-Col. Wm. E. Dyess, who escaped from a Jap prison in the Philippines after a year's confinement and was later killed when his plane crashed at Burbank, Calif.

Judge Dyess is said to have greeted his Eastland county guests most cordially and during a friendly chat the group went into the proposal and the congressional situation generally at some length.

In substance Judge Dyess' later statement to the delegation was summed up as follows:

"I have had similar solicitations from many parts of the district, but have not reached a decision. I deeply appreciate the honor you are paying me and promise you a positive answer at an early date."

One member of the Eastland county delegation said he was very hopeful of an affirmative answer if a sufficient number of his friends from over the district—and all those who think his services are needed at this time—would let Judge Dyess know how they feel about it.

BISMARCK JAPS MUST QUIT OR BE WIPED OUT

American forces were revealed today to have dealt new and smashing blows on Japanese Pacific bases, centering their attacks on the Bismarck archipelago, where Japanese troops, encircled by an ever-tightening Allied blockade, faced death or surrender.

U. S. naval forces spearheaded the thrusts, sinking an enemy troop-laden ship, a cargo vessel, nine barges and a Japanese destroyer in a sweep through the Bismarck Sea and the waters around the Solomons.

ALLIES MOW DOWN NAZIS NEAR APRILIA

NAPLES, Feb. 25.—Bitter patrol fighting and increasingly violent artillery duels raged all along the Anzio front today as Allied spokesmen indicated that the Germans have built up their striking force to possibly 100,000 men for a third major onslaught on the 5th Army beachhead.

Picked Nazi troops, attacking in waves of 200 men, struck twice at the Allied lines south and southwest of Aprilia in an attempt to open a breach through which German armor could break out onto the main highway to Anzio. American and British infantrymen stood their ground and moved down the advancing Germans, smashing both attacks before they were well under way.

SNOWPLOW SHORTAGE—Milwaukee came up with answer to problem of what to do when mechanical snow removal equipment is scarce. They dug up some old horse-drawn snowplows and put them to work, also eliminating worries about gasoline and tires.

TEXAS IN FINE BATTING FORM.

The outstanding job that Texas is doing in the prosecution of the war is but a harbinger of what Texas will do industrially in the post war years.

This viewpoint of Senator Tom Connally was brought to the attention of the nation in a radio address by the senator. "Texas is performing handsomely in the field of industry. In aircraft factories, in shipbuilding plants, in synthetic rubber plants, in high-octane gasoline production, in general petroleum production, in the production of clothing and tents and mattresses for the comfort of our armed services, it is performing magnificently," the senator said.

Tribute also was paid by Senator Connally to the brilliant part that Texas boys are playing in fighting the present war "in defense of all of the things that we love."

"Texas offers alluring and compelling inducements to industrial development," Senator Connally told the nation. "Her natural resources, the mildness of her climate, and the variety of her products all join in extending a beckoning hand toward those seeking the largest and most promising opportunities," he said.

Occasion for the senator's proud summation was the formal dedication in Waco of a new industry, a glass container factory of the Owens-Illinois Glass company. The opening of this plant, Senator Connally said, is "a propitious omen of industry in our great commonwealth." The senator was introduced by J. P. Lewis, president of Owens-Illinois.

Having operated 50 days prior to the dedication ceremonies, the plant produced 15 million bottles for medicines, chemicals and food. Many of the products to be packaged in these bottles will be Texas products and producers from the Southwest, the senator pointed out.

of the superior service it will be able to grant its customers. In addition to a great variety of shoes, women's accessories such as purses, costume jewelry, casual hats and similar items are now in stock. Mr. Ferguson mentioned that these items are high class in material and workmanship.

The building has been remodelled with modern windows and front. Mr. Ferguson has used a color scheme of tan and brown in all his fixtures, giving the place a swanky atmosphere. Women will find it delightful to shop there, he said.

Homer Ferguson came to Cisco in 1935 and since then had conducted his shoe store in connection with the Altman Style Shop.

SENATE HITS VETO HARDER THAN HOUSE

WASHINGTON, Feb. 25.—By a five to one vote, the senate today overrode President Roosevelt's veto of the two billion dollar tax bill.

The total vote was 79 to 17, or a five to one majority. The house vote of yesterday was 299 to 95, or a three to one.

HAIL STRUCK PARTS OF CO. LAST NIGHT

Hail hit portions of Eastland county early last night and inflicted considerable damage in widely separated areas. No hail fell in Cisco proper, but there was a heavy fall of unusually large stones in the vicinity of Lake Cisco. Lakeview club reported some damage to the roof.

The roof of the Nute Hart home four miles northeast of Cisco, was practically destroyed by wind and hail and there was other damage to Mr. Hart's property.

There was no detail information from the Gunsight community except that that area was hard hit.

March 21 is generally considered the first day of spring in the Cisco Country, but the weather man is away ahead of schedule if judged by the balmy, springlike weather that prevailed in Cisco throughout today.

DR. PERRY F. WEBB (above) will be the speaker on the Baptist Hour program over WBAP at 7:30 Sunday morning. Dr. Webb is pastor of the First Baptist church of San Antonio, one of the largest churches of the south. He is magnetic, logical and recently observed his seventh anniversary as pastor of the Alamo City church.

MRS. PERKINS' TALK PLEASED CISCO ROTARY

Mrs. Joseph Perkins of Eastland, county Red Cross chairman, was the speaker at Cisco Rotary luncheon and brought a message teeming with inspiration and information regarding her work. Present with her was Mrs. George P. Fee, local chapter chairman. Other guests were A. W. Pettigrew, Austin; P. W. Campbell and T. J. McCarty, Abilene. Jess Proctor was introduced as a new member of the club.

President Lonnie Shockley announced Ernest Hittson, Burl Williams and Cooper Waters as his committee to meet with one from the Lions club to arrange for the annual football banquet. Shockley and J. E. Hays made announcements concerning the proposed service men's waiting station, which was voted as an activity at last week's meeting. Together with W. W. Fewell, these men brought out that A. G. Motor company had offered use of its used-car office for that purpose. The offer was accepted and the company thanked for its cooperation. A vote of thanks was also given McCannies brothers for their offer of a front position on the grounds at their rubber vending plant. It was understood that the A. G. Motor building would be moved and located on the McCannies property at once. It was estimated the project would cost about $120, since the city had agreed to furnish the water and Ciseo Gas Corporation had offered to donate necessary gas.

W. W. Fewell, editor of the Red Cross, made announcements concerning compliments being received from over the district and from the international office and the re-publication of clippings from the local club paper. The club urged that Editor Fewell, Publisher F. E. Shepard, President Shockley and Secretary Pete Tance attend the district convention at Midland in March.

General Program Chairman J. W. Slaughter then presented O. J. Russell, chairman for the day, who in turn introduced Mrs. Perkins in her talk on Red Cross work and the drive for funds which is to start March 1.

Mrs. Perkins said that one always held one's breath to see whether Ranger or Cisco topped the county in their drives, and of course it would be up to Eastland to see if she might in turn top the winner. She then went on to speak of the stickers and pins to be used in the national drive for $200,000,000 and the blood donations which are to come.

While this is a large sum of money, the speaker showed that the work was worth the price by telling of certain instances of loans and grants to mothers of soldiers who were in the service. She then spoke of the food kits, comfort bags and warm clothing that were given by the Red Cross to captured soldiers on entering internment camps.

Mrs. Perkins said an official of the Red Cross organization stated last year that every one in this county seemed to be organized except the hen houses; but she said these were evidently organized this year, since a woman recently brought in some eggs as her donation to the organization.

The message was enthusiastically received by Rotarians and many crowded forward to congratulate Mrs. Perkins for her splendid talk and the fine manner in which she had delivered it.

SERIES OF LECTURES.

Mr. Stover will give a series of lectures including discussions on persecutions, economic conditions and many other subjects relative to mission work in that country. Services will begin each evening at 7:45, excepting Sunday evening, when the hour will be 7:30. The public is cordially invited to hear each one of these lectures, said Rev. Cooper Waters, pastor.

HOME REPAIRS.

According to Abner H. Ferguson of the Federal Housing Administration, one of the most pressing jobs to undertake when the war ends is home repair and maintenance. Only the most pressing repairs have been made since Pearl Harbor, and properties are running down.

Evidence of this deterioration is beginning to appear on all sides. But why wait for the end of the war to do something about it? What has become of the "handy man" who used to be found in almost every community, carrying a kit of tools and ready to tackle almost any small job? Still more important, perhaps—what has become of the handy boy who could mend a broken window or do a small job of painting or carpentry and take pride in such service?

There is said to be a good deal of "manual training" in the schools. Is that merely "academic"? If so, this is a good time to put such learning to practical use on the home front.

Furthermore: Constructive work of this sort by boys might eventually earn the wholesome definition of "recreational."

STRANGE INVITATION.

Bill Jack of that strange midwestern business institution, the Jack and Heinz company, has gone a step further in his get-together dinners for Jahco employees. This time he has invited all members of congress to dine with him in Washington. Nothing like this invitation has ever before been issued. Many senators and congressmen are at a loss as to proper procedure. Should they accept? If so, will they be under some obligation to their hosts, making discussions of renegotiation embarrassing?

Some lawmakers look at it differently. These believe that, inasmuch as they are part of the government, supposed to represent the people, anything enabling them to know more about what Americans think and want will help them do their job better. Some will accept out of sheer curiosity as to what it's all about. Some timid legislators will be afraid to face anything new.

Comment as to the invitation itself is also varied. The Cleveland Plain Dealer regards the affair as "bad taste, at least." Others think, if a citizen wants to tell congress, he has a right to invite its members to dinner and tell them all at once. They think it's better to be open and forthright than to work through noisy blocs or undercover paid persuaders.

The affair will be interesting from any point of view, and most Americans whether inclined, at first, to praise or blame, await its issue with curiosity.

AMERICAN STRENGTH.

Uncle Sam has regained his stride. The weakness and confusion that came with the Pearl Harbor attack has vanished. Rearmed and confident, this nation is now fighting two great wars and winning on every front. Peace and complete victory may still be far ahead, but we know where we are going and are well on our way. Our strength rises as German and Japanese strength sinks.

Wendell Willkie used to tell us, in his campaign speeches, "It is inconceivable how strong this nation is." Many of us smiled tolerantly, but he was right. And only now are we beginning to realize our strength. We need fear nobody and no combination, if we are true to ourselves, our ancestors and our principles.

It is grand to be so strong and confident. But it is well not to brag. Strength and humility should go together, in this war and after it. The Kipling formula that he addressed to his own country in its imperial days may well be applied to ourselves now, as we go from victory to victory.

"The tumult and the shouting dies,
The captains and the kings depart.
Still stands thine ancient sacrifice—
A humble and a contrite heart."

Religious faith and acknowledgment are no less important than patriotic confidence. Military victories should be occasions for humble thanksgiving.

Alex Spears, cashier of the First Guaranty State bank, has returned from Ft. Worth, where he attended the annual convention of the Texas Bankers' association and, asked by a representative of The American for the keynote thought and purpose which animated the deliberations of the body, said: "There was a decidedly more optimistic tone to the greetings, remarks, addresses and conferences of the bankers at the convention this year than last year. This time last year all of us seemed to have been forced into an attitude and feeling that we had been to a funeral, and for that matter we had, as we were just putting the last clods of dirt upon the spectre of extravagance, speculation and inflation which had carried almost everybody into its vortex. In the meeting this year we knew for a fact that the nation's business is resumed; that we're on a firm foundation now and the scenes ahead are bright with the promise of greater prosperity. And over and above all, the banks of the country are working soberly, understandingly, with constructive service to meet the new demands. It means in a word that the industries of peace are meeting rapid adjustment. I am confident the association initiated policies and plans which will have a marked influence in the constructive program of the state; as for example the attention paid to the matter of preventing overflows of Texas streams and the impounding of flood waters for purposes of reclamation and irrigation of otherwise unprofitable lands. The association will work with the governor in perfecting some plan of action along the lines of development of our resources through this agency. I feel that this matter is of more importance to West Texas than any other portion of the state. The entertainment features provided for the convention were absolutely unsurpassed. There was a continual round of absorbing amusement and entertainment for every banker and his wife." Mrs. Spears accompanied her husband on the trip and was delighted with the special features of entertainment which was provided for the visiting ladies.

Cisco's delegation of thirty representatives returned Wednesday from Plainview where they attended the annual convention of the West Texas chamber of commerce which opened sessions Monday. The returning delegates speak in the highest terms of the hospitality of the convention city. The convention goes to San Angelo next year, and A. B. Spencer of Crosbyton, was elected president of the organization. Headed by A. A. Webster, president, and G. C. Richardson, secretary of the local chamber of commerce, the following composed the booster party: A. A. Webster, president; G. C. Richardson, secretary; R. A. St. John, Elbert Blease, M. H. Fleming, L. V. Carroll, B. S. Huey, P. W. Campbell, J. M. Williamson, A. L. Mayhew, M. Polsky, R. W. Mancill, Chas. G. Gray, M. D. Odum, J. E. Spencer, R. L. Bettis, E. T. Gunther, C. D. Now let's pull together in the same organized way to build Cisco in every way possible. Let's decide what we want and then organize a systematic drive for the goal.
