AAF Headquarters Tells of Exploits of Ciscoan and His Flying Crew

NOTE—Capt. Jim Berry, who was reared in Cisco, is a son of Mr. and Mrs. P. G. Berry, now residents of El Paso.

On February 14, by direction of the president, the air medal and the Oak Leaf Cluster were presented to Captain Berry by Lt. General Millard F. Harmon, commanding U. S. army forces in the South Pacific area.

Headquarters, 13th AAF, South Pacific—Of all the Liberator B-24 crews in the 13th AAF which has been hammering the Japs over Rabaul, one of the most remarkable is that headed by Jim Berry of Cisco, Texas.

Just recently Captain Berry's men completed their 34th mission in the South Pacific theater, a mission which was described as "probably the best" ever thrown against Rabaul. Their formation had scored 37 bulls-eyes on the Lakunai runway while punneling the strategic strip and areas with over 176 tons of bombs.

When Captain Berry and his men logged this 34th mission, they added to a record of steady work that surely will be challenged by few combat crews. For before they started these 34 missions in this theater, they had completed 22 search operations in the Central Pacific.

Another unusual situation is the fact that this unit was organized back in the states 14 months ago, drew its original Liberator, flew it to Hawaii, operated there for a number of months, came on to the South Pacific and flew one successful mission after another. The grand old ship was called the "Cisco Kid."

"Five missions back 'Cisco Kid,' whom the crew members speak of with affection that borders on reverence, was retired. It had done its job. It has been replaced with 'Cisco Kid II,' and there is every indication that the name will be preserved with honor.

The "Cisco Kid" had its first personnel change in 14 months and a total of 36 missions, when the co-pilot, Lieutenant Colonel, L. C. Martin of Au Sable Forks, N. Y., was checked out as first pilot and stepped on up to command his own plane. His place was taken by Lieutenant Robert R. Hall of Los Angeles.

CARD OF THANKS.
We desire to express our heartfelt thanks to all who remembered us and sought to lighten our burden and sorrow following the death of Lt. Ernest Clyde Cleveland. You will always be remembered.

PARENTS and FAMILY.

He Wanted to Fly.
He wanted to fly—
Up, up through God's blue;
Up, until man's eye
Could not follow him through
Lacy clouds that seemed To beckon him on.
A shape, a speck, on then—
He was gone.

He wanted to fly.
It meant more than life,
And if he had to die
And leave this storm and strife,
He went the way he chose—
Proudly, humbly... what more?
To join the heroes—those
Who had gone before.

Yes, he wanted to fly.
To plumb the unknown sea,
To make the Heavens safe
For earthlings—you and me,
Now, he sails the sky above us,
To his Lord he clings.
God has taken the engine
And left him only the wings.
By a Buddy, E. R. SMITH,
Decatur, Georgia.

(The above poem was presented to Mr. and Mrs. Grover Cleveland and family by Lieut. J. J. Browning of the naval air forces, classmate and close friend of Lieut. Ernest Clyde Cleveland.)

Kid" lineage are: Lieutenant J. F. Hayes, bombardier, Cincinnati, O.; Lieutenant Jethro W. Mook, navigator, Greensboro, N. C.; Technical Sergeant William Kelums, engineer, Osco, Ill.; Technical Sergeant John Gill, radio operator, Newport, Ky.; Staff Sergeant Walter Raleigh, assistant engineer, Fort Wayne, Ind.; Staff Sergeant Willis Butler, ordnance engineer, Modesto, Calif.; Staff Sergeant Alvin Stanley, nose gunner, Tampa, Fla.; Staff Sergeant Aldon Campbell, tail gunner, Augusta, Me.

The "Cisco Kid" crew members show no sign of cracking under the so-called strain of fighting their portion of the air war. They go about it methodically, efficiently and without emotion. For instance, they were asked if ever they worried, at night, about the next day's mission.

"Not any more," they replied. Then the cautious question was voiced:

"Would you sleep better if you weren't told until shortly before take-off time the nature of your mission?" To this they replied that it is better to know the details the night before so that they have time to "think about" the job at hand and to make any preparation necessary for this particular task.

Suppose we go through a day with Captain Berry and his nine Liberator companions.

The night before one of the big strikes over Rabaul, the crew members started logging their "sack time" (sleep) about 10 o'clock. The officers and enlisted men have tents in the same general area, both sleep on cots with G. K. blankets, some have propped mattresses or reasonable facsimiles.

Some three hours before dawn Jap bombers came over and started to work on the airfield. Everybody jumped out of bed and dived in the favorite foxhole while fragments of anti-aircraft fire, coming from both sides, splattered about the area.

The fireworks continued for an hour, during which time the air men remained huddled in the dank, mud and closeness of their foxholes. Finally came the "all clear," but they'd hardly fallen asleep when it was time to get up—4:45 a. m.

Breakfast at 5:15, on this particular day was something extra special. They had eggs. Then it was back to the tents, laying out all the special equipment including revolvers, canteens, parachutes, Mae Wests, oxygen masks and jungle kits. At 6:30 they piled on the trucks, headed for the airfield. There they checked machine guns, engines, fuel, more personal equipment and made ready for the take-off.

"Cisco Kid II" took its place in the formation without incident, fighter escort appeared at the designated time and place and they moved into the heavily defended Rabaul area. The plane was hit only once, a fragment which struck the leading edge of the wing and caromed off the tire, but the sound was furious and throughout the run they were flying through thick puffs.

Lieutenant Hayes dropped his bombs squarely on the runway then Captain Berry, still flying it nice and tight, took them home. "Cisco's" wheels hit the ground at home base at 2 o'clock flat, trucks returned them to the squadron headquarters where they waited their turn to talk with the intelligence officers who interrogated concerning every incident during the flight.

Then, a bath in the open-air shower, "chow" (not so hot this time—Vienna sausages), writing letters, shooting the breeze and back in the sack.

For tomorrow was something special and the "Cisco Kid" crew was to go right back for mission No. 35.

WORK TO START ON LOCKER

Clyde L. Murph of the Murph & Taylor construction firm, Wichita Falls, in company with H. H. Tompkins, called at the Daily Press office this morning and announced that actual work on Cisco's frozen foods locker will start next Monday.

The building will be erected on the 50 x 115 foot lot at the corner of Ninth and E avenue, known as the Norvell-Miller property. It will face north and will be a load-bearing hollow tile structure, 34 x 78 feet. The vaults will be of California redwood, Mr. Murph stated.

Some sixty days will be required for construction of the building, the contractor stated.

Mr. Tompkins, sponsor of the project, deserves much praise for his tireless efforts in overcoming the various obstacles that stood in the way of the project, which consisted mainly of complying with priority regulations imposed by the federal government. The plant will be a decided acquisition to Cisco and this area and has long been needed.

FOOD FOR THOUGHT—Any soldier could tell them, but these senators prefer to find out for themselves how Army field rations taste. Living on a day's rations are, from left: Senators Weeks of Mass., Johnson of Col., Maybank of S. C., Gurney of S. D., and Bridges of N. H. They sample B, D and S rations.

FIRST AID—As third battle for Anzio beachhead rages, medical corpsmen of the Allied Fifth Army treat two badly wounded British fighters on the quayside, before sending them to Naples hospital where they can get complete medical attention.

MARINE ON HORSEBACK—Not far from the "Halls of Montezuma," U. S. Marine Pfc. John R. Shaner of May's Landing, N. J., helps fight his country's battles as member of mounted patrol guarding vital Navy base in the Caribbean.

MOORE IS NOW WITH DESTROYER ESCORT

Joe Lea Moore, pharmacist mate of the first class, U. S. navy, is now attached to a destroyer escort, according to word received by his mother, Mrs. W. W. Moore. The Cisco boy has not made any long ocean trips as yet, but likes his new connection. He was at home on leave in January, returning to Mare Island, Calif., where he helped commission his ship, February 5.

A younger brother, Lt. Carl Tom Moore of the air forces, is stationed at Evansville, Ind., where he is test-hopping P-47s.

LONNIE SMITH CISCO'S ONLY LEAPYEAR BABE

Lonnie Edward Smith, son of Mr. and Mrs. Marion Edward Smith, 300 west Ninth street, Cisco, is a very unusual youngster, in that he must wait until he is four years of age before he has a birthday.

Born February 29, at 12 m., at the family home here, he is in the best of health, says Dr. F. E. Clark, who ushered him into the world. He is the only leap year child born locally in many years.

JAPS FORCED BACK.

SAN FRANCISCO, March 7.—Renewed ground fighting was reported today in the Allies' Pacific offensive, with troops of the United Nations beating back the Japanese in engagements that ranged from the Admiralty Islands to the Asiatic continent. At the same time, American airmen continued their trip-hammer blows on enemy bases throughout the Central and Southwest Pacific.

SOLDIER RUNS AMUCK.

RIVERSIDE, Cal., March 7.—Second Lt. Beaufort G. Swancutt, 31, La Crosse, Wis., whose wild shooting orgy Sunday night resulted in the death of two girl companions and a Riverside police officer, will be tried for murder by a court martial, if he recovers from his wounds, Camp Anza officials said today. Swancutt, who has a wife and two children at La Crosse, was in love with one of the women.

YANK PLANES CARRIED 690 MEN AND COST OVER 17 BILLION DOLLARS IT IS ESTIMATED

LONDON, March 7.—American four-engine bombers and their escort shot down 176 Nazi fighters—equal to half of Germany's entire monthly output—in a terrific aerial battle during yesterday's shattering 2000-ton daylight assault on Berlin.

The 8th and 9th U. S. air forces suffered their heaviest losses of the war in this raid on the German capital—63 bombers and 10 fighters costing $17,250,000 and carrying 690 men—but it is figured that this was more than offset by the destruction of the 176 intercepting German fighters and the unusual devastation wrought in the six target areas.

While the German capital still smoldered from its first mass daylight raid, a strong force of British heavy bombers last night blasted railway targets without loss at Trappes, 15 miles southwest of Paris on the main line to Nantes and St. Nazaire on the Bay of Biscay.

First reports indicated the bombing was accurate and well concentrated, the Air Ministry announced. Twin-engine British Mosquitoes rounded out the night offensive with attacks, also without loss, on objectives in northwest Germany.

Radio Frankfurt was heard broadcasting that the west German industrial center also was under attack last night, but this was not confirmed.

The Flying Fortresses and Liberators alone were credited with shooting down 93 enemy planes, while the remaining 83, a new record, fell before the guns of escorting and supporting fighters. In addition to the 10 American fighters lost, one Allied fighter was reported missing.

Conservative sources estimated that the 176 German planes destroyed represented about half the number of fighters Nazi industry can produce monthly after the crippling blows inflicted by American bombers in the offensive against German aircraft centers a fortnight ago.

The full effects of the blitz against the fighter factories probably will not be felt for several weeks because of Germany's backlog of planes and the possibility of transferring still more squadrons from other fronts, but in the long run the incessant Allied raids can be expected to drive the Luftwaffe from the skies.

(Dispatches from Stockholm said four American heavy bombers made forced landings in Sweden yesterday. German dispatches claimed 140 American planes were shot down in the attack, including 118 four-engine bombers.)

At least two divisions—a total of 864 bombers—of Flying Fortresses and Liberators, escorted by a like number of fighters, participated in the record attack on factories, airfields and military installations.

Alone, unarmed reconnaissance plane piloted by Maj. Walton L. Weitzer of Yonkers, N. Y., that sped over Berlin taking photographs after the raid found numerous fires and devastation in the six target areas, a U. S. Army announcement said.

NEGROES NOT EXPECTED TO VOTE IN JULY

WASHINGTON, March 7.—The July primaries of the Democratic party in Texas are fast approaching—but the state won't know until the U. S. Supreme Court speaks whether Negroes will be permitted to vote in those elections.

The court still has under advisement the challenge of the state's "lily white" primary, and there has been no indication, of course, as to when it will hand down its decision.

Court attaches and newspaper reporters have been expecting the court to hand down its decision on the last three decision days—but their expectations were not fulfilled.

NEARER RUMANIA.

MOSCOW, March 7.—Russian armored troops drove southward on a broad front less than 60 miles from Rumania today after all but halting the movement of German supplies and reinforcements into the southern Ukraine with the capture of a 20-mile stretch of the Odessa-Warsaw railway.

BAPTIST ENDOWMENTS.

DALLAS, March 7.—Texas Baptists, meeting here yesterday pledged support to a $3,000,000 campaign this year for endowment of Baptist schools and hospitals in Texas, and learned that $850,000 of the amount already had been obtained.

BLAST KILLS BRIDE.

WASHINGTON, March 7.—Mrs. Lorraine B. Chandler, 21, a navy bride of eight months, died at a hospital today after being hurled through a second story window by an explosion at the Bureau of Standards.

IN COURT—Asked to explain sidewalk fight she had with Sarah MacLean, her mother-in-law, over custody of 4-year-old son Clifford Heinz, heir to $7 varieties fortune, Mrs. Elizabeth Heinz appeared in Los Angeles court.

FREE ELECTIONS.

Elections, free and honest, are basic in a democracy. If, as all Americans believe, "government derives its just powers from the consent of the governed," the will of the people must be freely and frequently expressed.

This is not a controversial matter of fourth terms or which opponent faces which in the finals of 1944. It is the rock on which is built the freedom of our national life. Rome's national greatness came to an end when it lost its free elections. Argentina is a sad modern instance of flouted law and stuffed ballot boxes. When Hitler's gang burned the Reichstag and abolished the last semblance of representative government in Germany, the troubles of the whole world soon came to a head in this present war.

It is a hard thing that a presidential campaign has to be fought, with all its name-calling and personal bitterness, at a time when the very life of the nation is at stake. But even if we were to "lose the peace" because our internal disunity made it impossible to agree with our Allies as to methods of going forward into a better-protected world; even if we were to plunge back into just such another quarter century of crazy boom, miserable depression and another war, it would still be better to face that to lose—or even to postpone—our free elections. Our freedom of expression of the will of the people is the hope of all the world.

Fortunately, there is no question of postponement. We must go through this period as best we may. If we keep our heads, we may win both war and peace.

OLD CLOTHES.

The neighbor next door is indignant. She had been invited out to dinner, and specifically instructed to wear old clothes "on account of the war." While she is as patriotic as anybody else, she doesn't see what the war has to do with not wearing a dinner gown, or why once in a while she shouldn't wear something pretty. "They say morale has to be stimulated," she says. "Well, what about my morale?"

The neighbor next door knows all about laundry problems and the difficulties of cleaning party clothes. Knowing this, she still wants to wear them while they are clean, and before they get completely out of style.

JAPANESE PATRIOTISM.

Keen observers think they see the beginning of the end of the war in Europe, but there is no such assurance in the Japanese war. We have greatly superior resources and are sure to win in the end, but the Japanese have strong powers of endurance. And there is a national, not merely a military effort.

Recent reports from Japan tell of all-out efforts for war production, of men, women and children being unified in the struggle and preparing to risk everything they have for victory. There is recognition that this is the greatest war crisis the Japanese have ever had to meet. It is pictured to them as a "holy war" in which they must either survive victoriously or perish. Thus the national effort is powered not merely by a will to win, but by a great wave of military fanaticism.

It seems unlikely that with such a situation there can be any early decision in the Pacific, in spite of American superiority. The enemy will fight to the end, from national pride and the threat of destruction.

IT HAPPENS TO EVERYONE—The way of the world is sad when in practically no time at all three of Hollywood's most popular stars can grow so old. Hiding behind the grey hairs are Bing Crosby, Dorothy Lamour and Bob Hope. The makeup man aged them to a ripe old three-score-and-ten for sequence in "Road to Utopia"

HOME EXPERT WARNS AGAINST FOOD WASTE

The reported terrific waste of food in the United States is a challenge to the American housewife, Miss Albertine Berry, home economics director of Lone Star Gas company, said in launching a food saving campaign. She declared that government reports show between 15 and 30 per cent of all food produced is wasted.

"This waste," she said, "occurs in harvesting, shipping, in stores, and above all, in the kitchen. Here's where the housewife can take hold of food conservation and actually make her kitchen fight for victory. Food is conserved through careful buying, proper preparation and cooking, serving smaller portions and use of left-overs."

Miss Berry pointed to the necessity for victory gardens, warning that "there is a greater danger of people actually suffering from food shortage this year than ever before." With the spring canning season just around the corner, Miss Berry and her staff of experts plan canning demonstrations and distribution of canning information of all kinds including booklets and bulletins. Miss Berry said frequently as much as 50 per cent of fresh vegetables purchased by housewives is wasted in the kitchen. She said beet tops, celery tops, radish tops, and the like, should be used in salads or in vegetable mixtures for soups, or as mixed greens, rather than throwing them to the garbage pail. In discarding the outside leaves of cabbage and lettuce, for instance, she said that housewives were wasting the most nutritious parts, because "The greener the leaf, the more food value."

FREE ELECTIONS.

Elections, free and honest, are basic in a democracy. If, as all Americans believe, "government derives its just powers from the consent of the governed," the will of the people must be freely and frequently expressed.

This is not a controversial matter of party terms or which opponent faces which in the finale of 1944. It is the rock on which is built the freedom of our national life. Rome's national progress came to an end when it had its free elections. Argentina's and modern Germany's freedom and stability have been destroyed. When Hitler's gang turned the Reichstag and abolished the free assembly of representative government in Germany, the freedom of the whole world soon came to a head in this present war.

It is a hard thing that a presidential campaign has to be fought, with all its name-calling and personal bitterness, at a time when the very life of the nation is at stake. But even if we were to "lose the post" because our internal dissension made it impossible to agree with our Allies as to methods of going forward into a better-organized world; even if we were to plunge back into just one another quarter century of crazy boom, miserable decline and another war, it would still be better to face this trial to lose—or even to postpone—our free elections. Our freedom of expression of the will of the people is the hope of all the world.

Fortunately, there is no question of postponement. We must go through this period as best we may. If we keep our heads, we may win this war and peace.

OLD CLOTHES.

The neighbor next door is judgment. She had been invited out to dinner, and specifically instructed to wear old clothes "on account of the war." While she is as patriotic as anybody else, she doesn't see what the war has to do with not wearing a dinner gown, or why she is to do with old clothes. "They say morale has to be stimulated," she says. "Well, what about my morale?"

The neighbor next door knows all about laundry problems and the difficulties of choosing party clothes. Knowing this, she still wants to wear them while they are clean, and before they get completely out of style.

JAPANESE PATRIOTISM.

Keen observers think they see the beginning of the end of the war in Europe, but there is no such assurance in the Japanese war. We have greatly superior resources and are sure to win in the end, but the Japanese have strong powers of endurance. And there is a national, not merely a military effort.

Recent reports from Japan tell of almost efforts for war production, of men, women and children being unified in the struggle and preparing to risk everything they have for victory. There is a recognition that this is the greatest war since the Japanese have ever had to meet. It is pictured to them as a " holy war " in which they must either survive victoriously or perish. Thus the national effort is powered not merely by a will to win, but by a great wave of military fanaticism.

It seems unlikely that with such a situation there can be any early decision in the Pacific in spite of American superiority. The enemy will fight to the end, from national pride and the threat of destruction.

IT HAPPENS TO EVERYONE.—The way of the world is sad when in practically no time at all three of Hollywood's most popular stars can grow so old. Hiding behind the grey hairs are Bing Crosby, Dorothy Lamour and Bob Hope. The makeup man aged them to a 75-year-old three-score-and-ten for sequence in "Road to Utopia."

HOME EXPERT WARNS AGAINST FOOD WASTE

The reported terrific waste of food in the United States is a challenge to the American housewife. Miss Alice Marie Berry, home economist director of Lone Star Gas company, said in launching a food saving campaign. She declared that government reports show between 25 and 30 per cent of all food produced is wasted.

"This waste," she said, "occurs in harvesting, shipping, in stores, and above all, at the kitchen, where the housewife can take hold of food conservation and actually make her kitchen fight for victory. Food is lost through careless buying, improper preparation and cooking, serving smaller portions and use of left-overs."

Miss Berry pointed to the necessity for victory gardens, warning that "there is a greater danger of people actually suffering from food shortage this year than ever before." With the spring coming season just around the corner, Miss Berry and her staff of experts are warning housewives and distributors of eating moderation of all kinds including soups and salads. Miss Berry said frequently as much as 50 per cent of fresh vegetable purchases by housewives is wasted in the kitchen. She said that eggs, which are used in salads and the like, should be used in soups or in vegetable mixtures for soups, or in mixed greens, rather than throwing them to the garbage can. In discarding the outside leaves of cabbage and lettuce, for instance, she said that housewives were wasting the most nutritious parts, because "the greater the leaf, the more food value."
