RUSSIA AND AMERICA.

With the Soviet government lately showing an unprecedented spirit of good will and cooperation toward Britain and America, it is very important for our government and people to meet the Russians at least half way. We are in the same boat together, in a great war for freedom and survival of the democracies as well as the Communists.

They happen to have very little interest, ideologically, in our democracy, and we have just as little in their communism. But that is no reason why, in the presence of a great, common peril, the two nations should not join their courage and common sense in crushing their common enemy. There will be time enough for both of us to resume our political and economic arguments, if we feel like it, when our rights to our own ways of life are safely won.

But as a matter of fact, politically and ideologically, the two nations are by no means so far apart as is commonly assumed. The Russians now have swung over a good deal farther toward our own "free economy" than we have toward their state socialism or communism, which are literally one and the same thing. Recent comments by Raymond Gram Swing and other students of American democracy have made that clear.

If both sides will refrain from foolish propaganda against each other—which should be easy enough in a time of common peril and need—the cooperative war effort should continue to work very well.

PROSPECTS IN CHINA.

Here are some interesting comments from the Chinese, who are as good friends as we Americans have in the world, and with whom we shall doubtless be much more closely associated hereafter. Dr. Wang Shih-chieh, after a visit to the United States and England, reports as follows:

"I found the people of the United States perfectly friendly toward China. Even those who criticize us do so in a friendly spirit. But it is overlaid with a spirit of anxiety. Many people are concerned as to whether China can hold out to the end of the war without economic collapse.

"I have told them that after seven years of war, during which the Chinese have been completely blockaded by land and sea, it is to be expected that our economic situation is grave. Fifty to sixty millions of our people have been driven from their homes by enemy action.

"We have had five or six good crops during wartime, and expect a good harvest in most areas this year. If the harvest failed, the situation in China would be extremely serious. I believe either the land or sea blockade, or both will be broken by the end of this year, or at the latest early next year. Together with a good harvest, that will save us from economic collapse."

JAP FAILURES.

There is a sort of tradition in this country—amounting almost to a national fear complex—that in any horse-trading with foreign countries we are likely to lose our shirts. On the other hand, foreigners have just as strong a tradition that they can't dicker with us Yanks without losing their pants—including whatever valuables happen to be in them.

Perhaps there is a good deal to be said on both sides of this classic argument. But it grows more evident every day that our sneak-foes the Japs are losing their kimonos and running around in their bare feet.

TIRES AND IDLE BOYS.

One of the alarming signs of these war times, with their moral confusion, is the spread of violence and destructiveness among young people, especially hoodlums apparently with nothing to do but get into mischief. An especially disturbing form of vandalism, in some cities, is an outbreak of tire-wrecking. The tires are slashed or punctured while standing at the curb, or on parking lots.

This means damage of a very troublesome character because tires today are so scarce and valuable, and it is so difficult to get replacements. Any such offense deserves heavy punishment, instead of the usual lecturing. But the real problem is to save the boys along with the tires. What is needed, apparently, is constructive work for them to do. So-called "recreation" for 15 to 18-year-olds is being over-emphasized.

Editor Gives Advice.

Baird Star: John Lee Smith is again running for lieutenant-governor of Texas, according to a long statement he sent The Star. We hope, if he is re-elected, he will not do as he has during his first term as lieutenant governor—confuse the duties of his office with the prerogatives of the governor of Texas. May we add this: This going beyond one's official duty and projecting his personal acts into other official spheres is doing more to damn democracy than any other thing today—unless it be the citizens' failure to vote.

Supreme Court Decision.

Dallas News: "Now the Supreme Court, largely appointed by a Democratic president and holding primarily to the political and social theories of this president, has ruled to force down bars of the southern Democratic party to the Negro voters. Some southern leaders are quoted as thinking that the southern Democratic party can disengage itself from the position in which it finds itself by retreating to the old convention system. This might be well. There is much in the record to show that we had better statesmanship in public office under the old system than we have under the new. One other thing the South must certainly do for its protection. It must declare its political independence by throwing off the one-party collar. It requires little thinking to see that a two-party system would have averted the present Supreme Court decision. A two-party system would make the prevailing southern sentiment more effective in national affairs. Today the Harlem district of New York is more harkened to by official Washington than is any southern state."

Beaumont Enterprise: What has been sometimes called a "New Deal" supreme court by a verdict of 8 to 1 overruled a unanimous decision of a previous court for no other reason, apparently, than that the existing court thinks it is wiser than its predecessor. The conditions under which the court unanimously upheld in 1935 the right of the Democratic party of Texas to exclude Negroes from its state primaries have not changed, although there is a technical difference between the decision of 1935 and the decision of 1944.

POLITICAL.

The Cisco Daily Press is authorized to announce the following candidates for the offices under which their names appear, subject to the action of Democratic voters at the primaries to be held Saturday, July 22:

- COUNTY CLERK: W. V. (Virgil) Love.
COMMISSIONER PRECINCT 4: Arch Bint (re-election)
COUNTY JUDGE: C. H. (Harl) O'Brien
DISTRICT CLERK: John White (re-election), L. T. (Lois) Everton.
ASSESSOR-COLLECTOR: Clyde S. Karkalita (re-election)
STATE LEGISLATURE, EASTLAND COUNTY: R. (Bob) N. Grisham of Eastland.

- FLOTORIAL REPRESENTATIVE (Eastland and Callahan Counties): J. J. Callaway, W. B. Starr
SHERIFF: John Hart (re-election)

The principle involved is identical. San Antonio Express: Sen. W. Lee O'Daniel, in a statement released through his publicity agent in Dallas said the majority decision was "nothing more than a purely political decision dictated by the political dynasty in Washington responsible for their (the court's) appointment." "The decision," the statement added, "is the logical result of keeping one man in the president's office long enough to allow him to pack the court with his obedient slaves."

Electric Power!
Fighting Power!

When our soldiers go in to battle they carry with them little packages of food—each one a square meal. Those packages contain very special foods—dehydrated and concentrated—calories and vitamins carefully counted, but complete from soup to coffee. It gives fighting men reserve power they need to keep going when other supplies are cut off.

Electric Power Companies, such as the West Texas Utilities Company. The reserves are more than enough to meet every essential need. Because of carefully planned inter-connected systems large quantities of electric power are available almost anywhere.

Electric power is able to do its job promptly, efficiently, and economically. Electric power is the reserve power that keeps our fighting power going.

Reserve power is just as vital in war production as it is in military operations. Tank factories, plane plants, and ordnance works are eating up more and more electricity every day, and the "reserve rations" to keep them going have been ready. Why? Because those reserves were built up in advance by the trained men who manage America's
