DENNIS KING CISCO FLIER IS MISSING

Mr. and Mrs. D. P. King, 408 West Tenth street, received official notice yesterday that their son, Staff Sgt. Dennis D. King, has been missing since April 2 in the North Africa area.

Sergeant King was aerial-gunner engineer in a bombing plane and had completed nine missions prior to the day he was reported missing. The last letter received from him by his family was written March 31, just two days before his last mission.

King, 22, entered the service September 30, 1942, at Abilene, where he had been stationed variously at the following places: Randolph Field, Lubbock army flying school, Sheppard Field, Waco, Texas; and Tuscon, where he was made an engineer-gunner on a B-24 Liberator bomber. Later he was at Alamogordo in training for combat duty, then at Charleston, S. C., for a few months. Finally he spent one month at Mitchell Field in New York from which place he was sent overseas, Feb. 6, 1944, and has since been actively engaged in the Italian campaign as a member of the 15th air force which has made a number of spectacular raids over German holdings in the Balkans.

B. W. PATTERSON PRESIDED DALLAS TRIAL

DALLAS, April 19.—Charles Caldwell, 17-year-old Negro, was found guilty by a jury in criminal district court on a charge of robbing J. A. Thompson with a deadly weapon and sentenced to nine-to-thirteen years in the state penitentiary.

The trial was conducted by visiting Judge B. W. Patterson of Garland, and the jury deliberated an hour and fifty minutes after warning Jimmie MacNicoll demand the death penalty for Caldwell.

"I'm going to warn you, gentlemen of the jury, that MacNicoll will blow the roof off this courthouse," declared Attorney Harvey Ford, representing the Negro, in his argument just before MacNicoll closed for the state.

Then the assistant district attorney took the floor. There is an edge around the Criminal Courts building that it he stamps his foot fifteen times during his argument he's hot after the supreme penalty.

Yesterday he hit the floor sixty-two times in thirty-five minutes.

"This Negro might be young in years but the manner in which he committed the crime shows he's not inexperienced by any means," MacNicoll said. "Can you recall in the recesses of your memory as distantly a case as this—this crime which was so diabolical, so unmentionable."

Caldwell was being tried for robbing a Dallas man on the night of Sept. 29 on Elm street, forcing him into a near-by alley, robbing him of $2 while he held a long-bladed knife at his neck and then forcing him to physical abuse while the white man was partially undressed. The case was one of a couple of dozen in which Caldwell was apparently involved.

MacNicoll called the defendant a guilty bound that ought to go to the electric chair and said that the law and facts cry out for that penalty.

Thompson, who testified Monday, pointed out Caldwell as the Negro he said committed the crime.

POLITICAL OUTLOOK OK SAYS SAM RUSSELL

Cong. Sam Russell paid Cisco a brief visit yesterday and while here called at the Daily Press office. He was enroute to Stephen, Tex. to see his mother before returning to Washington.

Looking fit as a fiddle, Mr. Russell said he had covered much of the territory of the congressional district and would return to the national capital feeling thoroughly satisfied with his chances for re-nomination at the July primaries.

His official announcement will be made to the newspapers of the 17th district soon after his arrival in Washington, he stated.

METHODISTS TO KANSAS CITY NEXT WEEK

The quadrennial general conference of the Methodist church will convene in Kansas City April 26.

The general conference is the supreme lawmaking body of the church.

However, pre-conference reports indicate that the delegates will not concern themselves primarily with legislative matters for two reasons. One is, that they do not wish to "mink" with the present legislative machinery inasmuch as it was set up only four years ago when the three branches of Methodism united and many feel this is not sufficient time in which to evaluate thoroughly the plan of union adopted at that time. The other is that many of the delegates feel that "the supreme and sobering task" with which the general conference should deal is not legislative but spiritual.

In this latter connection, the church's Commission on Evangelism has issued a call for all Methodists to observe April 23 as a day of fasting and prayer, during which ministers are asked to preach on some phase of "Methodist responsibility for the world after the war" and members are urged to do without their Sunday dinners and engage in earnest prayer.

On the evening before the conference begins, every Methodist prayer meeting is asked to make the general conference the subject of its specific prayers.

Delegates will attend from all over the world except from those countries prevented from sending delegates because of the war. The delegates who attend will represent approximately 41,059 churches with a membership of approximately 8,000,000.

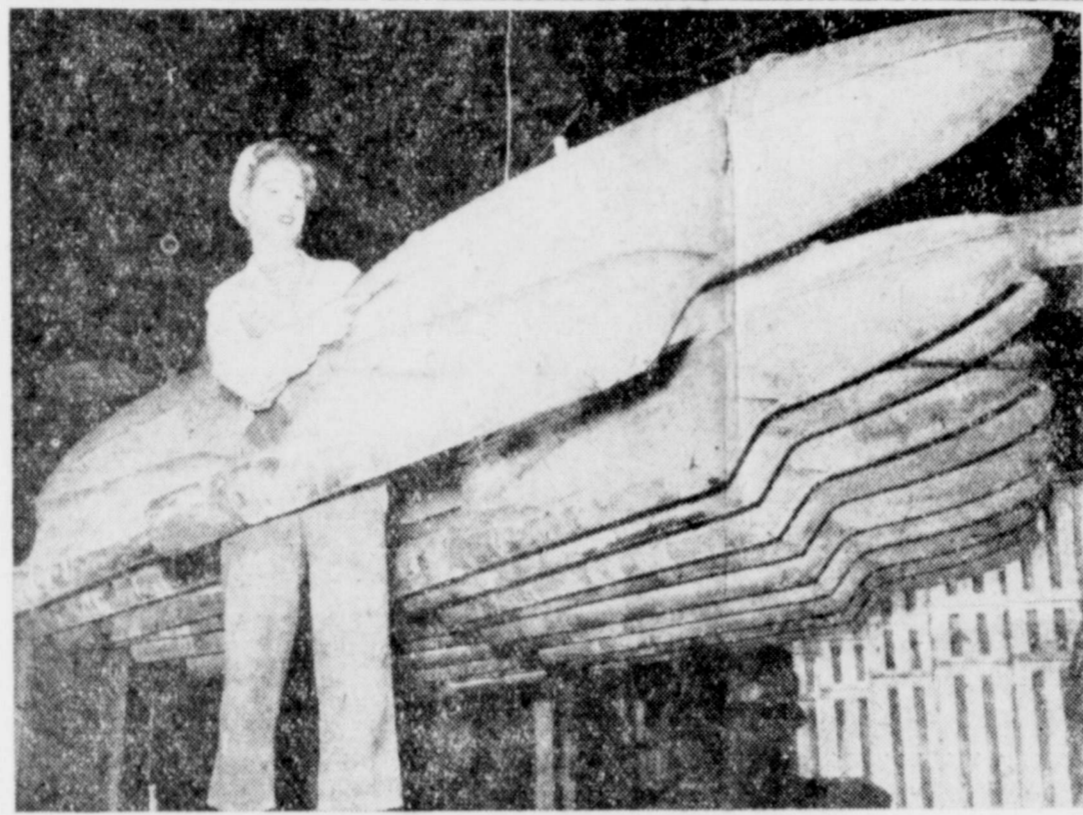

The general conference of the new Methodist church no longer elects its bishops as was done prior to union of northern and southern churches in 1939.

These bishops are now elected in "jurisdictional conferences," which, according to the law of the church, will meet within 30 days after the adjournment of the general conference.

Texas is in the South Central jurisdiction — the meeting of which will be held in Tulsa, June 13-16.

GERMANS BEATEN BACK.
NAPLES, April 19.—German shock troops attacked the west flank of the Anzio beachhead, but were beaten back with heavy losses in a series of assaults on a narrow sector of the Allied front. The Germans were apparently trying to force a breakthrough to the Aprilia-Anzio highway.

MEXICO HELPS.
KANSAS CITY, Mo., April 19.—Mexico has sent 100,000 men, vitally needed in its own agriculture, to work on the railroads of the United States, said the Mexican minister to this country last night.

SMOKE SCREEN—Just released, photo reveals reason for paratroopers' success in air-borne invasions. These M-10 smoke tanks manufactured by Empire Stove Co., of Bellville, Ill., are carried beneath wings of small bombers and fighters. They release protecting smoke screen clouds.

MISS VITAL TARGET—Aiming for column of supply trucks in Italy, enemy fighter bombers drop anti-personnel bombs on smoke generator containing oil. Steady flow of supplies streams into Anzio-Nettuno beachhead, despite Nazi attempts to halt it.

CISCO HAS SLEPT MUCH TOO LONG

Post-war road building, progress of the new home for vocational workers' tools and equipment and plans for the establishment here of a wool warehouse and purchasing agencies for all products of ranch and farm were discussed at last night's meeting of chamber of commerce directors.

Speakers emphasized that Cisco, for some reason or other, had been derelict through the years in not finding a way to make this city the outstanding market of this area for wool, cotton, peanuts, poultry and other valuable products, and that something should be done about it.

It was stated that all of the various products of ranch and farm mentioned above are steadily increasing in volume in what is known as the Cisco Country, and that the practical thing to do is to establish commodious, well-financed and well-managed headquarters here—if the city is to stand out and render the service it should render to farmers and ranchers.

It was the unanimous opinion of the meeting that surveys of this area should be made to ascertain the volume of wool now being produced, with complete study and investigation of the correct manner of procedure to secure the desired ends.

Present at the meeting were J. D. Lauderdale, N. D. Gallagher, J. R. Deen, W. J. Armstrong, A. E. McNeely, Nick Miller, E. P. Crawford, R. N. Cluck, A. B. O'Flaherty, N. C. Houston, M. D. Fox and P. R. Warwick.

CHURCH CUSTODIAN GETS YEAR IN JAIL

FORT WORTH, April 19.—Swift retribution in the form of a one-year jail sentence was meted out to William K. Osborne, 63-year-old janitor of an east side church, who pleaded guilty to making improper advances to four little girls of the neighborhood. Osborne, who has lived in the church basement since last December, was arrested Monday night on complaints of mothers of the girls.

Twenty minutes after he had signed a statement Osborne was taken before Judge Dave McGee to plead guilty to a charge of aggravated assault upon one of the girls.

In a husky voice, the white-haired church custodian said he had "lost control of himself" in the cases.

"This is more than just a question of lapse of control," Judge McGee replied. "You've signed a confession, admitting repeated offenses on those little children. What we are interested in is that when you are out of this trouble you are going to be around little children, for they are everywhere."

Assistant District Attorney Wardlow recommended a sentence of six months in jail.

"I'm not inclined to accept that recommendation," McGee said, "This is striking at the very roots of our future. We must protect our children against this sort of thing. I'm going to send you to jail for one year."

2,000 YANKEE PLANES SENT PRE-INVASION OFFENSIVE TO SMASH AXIS INTO SECOND DAY

LONDON, April 19.—A 2,000-plane American air fleet sent the pre-invasion offensive to smash the Luftwaffe into its second straight day today with a six-pronged attack on central Germany after 1000 RAF bombers hit Europe from the French coast to burning Berlin in possibly the heaviest assault of the war last night.

Up to 1000 American Flying Fortresses and Liberators, escorted by an equal number of fighters, battled their way through a screen of intercepting German planes at mid-morning to drop their block-busters and fire bombs on fighter plane factories at Kassel and five aircraft parks to the southeast and northwest.

Hardly had the formations of American heavyweights returned to their bases, than swarms of American Marauder medium bombers crossed the fog-bound Dover Straits and attacked military objectives along the French invasion coast. American, British, New Zealand and Allied fighters escorted and covered the Marauders.

Still other formations of Allied aircraft crossed the southeast coast early this afternoon, bringing the triple-edged offensive designed to cripple German air power, snarl railway communications and wreck coastal defenses in advance of the opening of a western front to its highest pitch of intensity.

An American communique summarizing the 8th Air Force's morning offensive said Fortresses and Liberators in "very great strength" hit enemy aircraft parks at Eschwege, southeast of Kassel, Paderborn, Gutersloh, Lippstadt and Werl, the last four all east of Hamm, in addition to fighter factories at Kassel itself.

At the aircraft parks, the big bombers presumably caught hundreds of German fighters which the Nazi command had been hoarding to counter the impending Allied invasion.

The first escorting fighters to return from the Kassel area reported German planes attacked the American bombers as they went in for their bomb runs over the targets. Some 75 to 100 fighters swept through the American formations with cannons and machine-guns firing, then dived for safety before escorting Mustangs could engage them.

Lt. Shelton W. Monroe of Waycross, Ga., a Mustang pilot, said three or four big groups of enemy planes "went through our bombers like sparrows diving through trees," while Capt. Winslow M. Sobanski of New York City reported he saw more German fighters in one bunch than ever before.

The bulk of the RAF armada concentrated its fire bombs and block-busters ranging up to six tons each on French railway bottlenecks on lines supplying Germany's anti-invasion defenses on the channel coast.

NEW YORKER DEFIANT.
WASHINGTON, April 19.—Edward James Smythe of New York, accused seditious who was arrested near the Canadian border after jumping his $1000 bond, arrived here in custody of Federal agents to go on trial with 29 others charged with conspiracy in a Nazi plot against the United States. Asked for a statement as he stepped off a train at union station with his escort of five FBI agents, Smythe replied: "To hell with Roosevelt, the Communists and the New Deal. Wait and hear what I have to say at the trial."

END IS NEAR.
MOSCOW, April 19.—Two Red armies today Sevastopol from three sides today after smashing the last enemy resistance outside the historic naval base, now an inferno created by Russian siege guns and dive bombers. Military advisers said Sevastopol was the last Crimean town in German hands.

INVASION BOUND—LSTs with bow doors open (right back, ground) stand ready to receive elements of first U. S. Cavalry Division leaving New Guinea port of embarkation. With packs and guns strapped to backs, they head for invasion of Los Negros in the Admiralty Islands.

VISITORS HERE FOR SUNDAY SCHOOL MEET

Representatives from several churches in this district were present at the Sunday school meeting of Cisco Baptist association last night at First Baptist church.

Gerald C. Nelson, educational director from a Breckenridge church, was in charge and directed the program, while Rev. L. L. Trott of Rotan was the principal speaker. Mr. Trott told of the benefits accruing from a daily vacation Bible school. The guest speaker was assisted by Rev. Cooper Waters, pastor, and a group of helpers, who gave a demonstration of the opening exercises of such schools. Mr. Waters concluded with a story of Moses' infancy, which was illustrated with pictures as he related special events in the life of the hero. The story made it clear that attention of students can be held and a truth presented in a new way.

A special musical number was given by a Breckenridge quartet. The next meeting will be held in Cisco, May 16, it was announced.

ENLIGHTENMENT.

"Everywhere I go," says Governor John W. Bricker of Ohio, "I find people are hungry for frank discussion of the important issues confronting the country. Our American system depends upon the information of an enlightened public opinion. People must be kept informed about all questions of public policy, with full opportunity to express their will."

It is easy to overlook or underestimate such basic principles of our American system in war time, when people are so greatly occupied with the outward measures of public defense. The inner defenses of our American system are no less important.

Cromwell's famous "Ironsides" carried their Bibles with them into battle. It would be equally good for our American fighters to have both the Bible and the Constitution with them in the trenches.

LITTLE MOTHERS.

"Little Women" has been a famous and popular story ever since Louisa May Alcott wrote the books for girls so popular in the last century. They are not read quite so much nowadays. But there are more of those faithful, intelligent little women in this country right now than there ever were before. Sometimes they have mothers and sometimes they haven't, but even perfectly good mothers engaged in war work have to leave responsibility to the children. And where there is no mother, and the father is necessarily at work, the elder children have their hands full.

One such case turned up the other day, in another city, that entailed special responsibility, and the job was obviously done with special intelligence and self-sacrifice. Caroline, 10 years old, had to drop school work and take care of a helpless mother and a young sister, and keep house for her father. The latter, too, was sick for some time. Then the mother died. Little Caroline had to take care of everybody, and still keep house for her father and sister, but is going back to school again. There must be thousands of such cases, especially in these times, where the little mothers never get half of the credit they deserve.

Looking Ahead

By GEORGE S. BENSON
President Harding College
Searcy, Arkansas

Rich Uncle.

A young 4-F of my acquaintance works at a government-operated chemical laboratory in a distant state. He came home on leave a few months ago and scratched around considerably on his father's big farm collecting rocks. When he went back, he took the rocks with him, also notes on elevations and thicknesses of strata. He said he had always believed those shale glades might have value. Now he would find out!

More recently he was home again with a business-like glint in his eye mysteriously silent on the subject of his mineral samples. After his first home-cooked breakfast he went horny and saddled a nag. Not pleasure; it was a business trip. He cantered directly to the home of his mother's uncle, the richest retired capitalist thereabouts. When he took to horse again, he was a sadder but wiser young man of affairs.

Had Bad News.

Apparently the young man's home acres are full of a good grade of valuable ore, near the surface and not costly to recover. He had visions of incorporating a new, local industry soon after the war, offering jobs to the whole county's discharged service men and unemployed war workers. All he needed was capital — that's what he thought. He even checked markets, demands, prices for years back and drew probable production and profit curves for his prospect.

"Uncle Jeff knows his business," the lad said woefully. "He said he had $100,000 to put in such a venture if he could figure a way to come out whole. I showed him how we could gross $100,000 easily the first year, but he got out tax sheets and showed me that $100,000 return on an investment the same size is no good to him. The most he would be allowed to keep, along with his other income, is less than $3,000."

This young man went to a lot of trouble to learn what economists have been shouting for two years. From his great uncle's point of view, a profit of $100,000 a year was only 2.8 per cent return on a $3,600,000 investment, thus:
Net Profit $100,000
Normal Profit $8,000
Excess Profit $92,000
E. P. Tax 85 pct. 78,200
Total Taxes $ 81,400
Net Profit After Taxes $ 18,600
Personal income tax 85 pct. 15,810
Income remaining $ 2,790

come is $60 a week, good pay for a stenographer or a truck driver, but that means salary; no investment and no risk of financial loss. When a man puts up the tenth part of a million dollars, or when ten men go together and invest a million, it is seldom in a sure thing. There are always risks.

Money Plays Safe. Investors expect their money to work for them. For men of much wealth, $100,000 earns only a small "salary." They are very careful therefore to put it in a safe place with little or no danger of loss — like municipal bonds, for example. That's the gravest prospect facing the United States at the close of the war: Danger of having service men come marching back victorious over various armies of various dictators, to find no work at home. The American people need a lot of items, and will buy them. Manufacturers know how to make them, good enough for anybody at popular prices. Making these things can provide good jobs for millions of men, but will it happen? Well — there is one sure way to spoil the prospect, namely, keep the taxing system exactly like it is, so people who invest in industry can't benefit from it. Investments are essential to making jobs.

The American army will never have any more faith in "sunny Italy."

If you have suffered (and who hasn't?) from terrible service in restaurants due to green help, you may be comforted to know someone's doing something about it. Under the title "Tips Toward Better Tips" one of the big distillers has put out an engaging little booklet of do's and don'ts intended to improve the technique of neophyte waiters. Some of them are sketched above. Others include "Don't argue with customers—they are always right." (Oh, yeah?); "Don't tell the chef how to carve a turkey"; "As meal progresses, remove empty liquor glasses. Patron may order another drink, a bigger check brings a bigger tip."
