WAR HEROES THANK TEXANS — During a visit to Austin, Lt. Ernest Childers and T-Sgt. Charles "Commando" Kelly, who recently received the nation's highest honors for heroism in Italy, expressed appreciation of fighting men for the $5,000,000 given by Texans to the National War Fund during the past year. Hero Sergeant Kelly greets Wayland D. Towner, general manager of the United War Chest of Texas, while Lieutenant Childers and Brig. Gen. Frank A. Keating smile approval.

BIG JAP AIR PORT ON BIAK IS CAPTURED

SAN FRANCISCO, June 8.—Allied troops have occupied Aradua Spur, strategic mountain height south of Kohima, in India, and captured Mokmer airdrome on Biak Island, 900 miles south of the Philippines.

ALLIES DRIVE SOUTHEAST FROM BAYEUX TO NIP OFF PENINSULA FORTY MILES BELOW CHERBOURG

SUPREME ALLIED HEADQUARTERS, LONDON, June 8.—Steadily-growing Allied invasion forces today fanned out from the communications hub of Bayeux, first liberated town in France, and battled through the streets of Caen, 17 miles to the southeast, in a developing drive to nip off the Cherbourg peninsula.

THIRTY WOMEN HELPED RED CROSS

There was a considerable pickup in attendance at the Red Cross surgical dressings work room Wednesday afternoon, when thirty women completed 1,650 2x25 and 384 4x8s.

RED CROSS WAS READY FOR D DAY

"The American Red Cross, like the American army it serves, was ready for invasion," said Mrs. Joseph M. Perkins, chairman of the Eastland county Red Cross chapter, today.

INVASION MAP (Sound photo) Invasion moves as depicted on the map above were planned to isolate German troops in fortified zones according to forecasts by military experts. How close those forecasts came to being right is now indicated by the actual invasion.

COLLEGE CANDIDATES.

Between now and next November many colleges will be holding mock conventions and elections. There may be less color and costume this year, but there may be deeper interest in the outcome. Oberlin College always attracts attention to its political ceremonies because it started its custom in 1864. A young newspaper man wrote his home-town paper about its recent convention:

"It was a good imitation of the real thing, with nominating speeches, eight candidates, interest groups, delegates and ballyhoo. Wilkie, after trailing President Roosevelt and Lt. Commander Harold E. Stassen on the first ballot, edged into second place on the second and won hands down on the third."

"It is a natural thing to dismiss the convention and its candidates as the unrealistic, sentimental dream of untested college blood. But can college blood be dismissed? Not much of it votes. It is confessedly inexperienced. But it exists. It dreams. It represents a potential interest group of compelling proportions. It wants something."

"It is not always clear about what it wants, but at Oberlin it was. It clearly and emphatically wanted what it believed Wendell Wilkie stood for to the people of America—an ideal, a faith, an unselfish purpose."

A goal of statesmanship was set by George Washington when he spoke of "raising a standard to which the wise and honest can repair." The groping, emerging college undergraduate, whichever candidate he chooses, seeks to raise that standard. The elders would do well to realize that youth cares more for the ideals of Washington than for the bargains of bosses.

FINANCIAL POWER.

Surely most of the present worry about anticipated post-war hardships is unnecessary. People are making more money than ever before, and putting an unprecedented share of it in the banks, or buying war bonds and homes with it. The bank deposits are said to be rising at the rate of $200,000,000 a week, and financial authorities say there are $110,000,000,000 in the banks and $20,000,000,000 more in pockets and bureau drawers. The war bonds saved down so far are well on their way to a total of $80,000,000,000.

The war naturally is costing an immense amount of money. It is expected to reach $250,000,000,000. But even so, from present indications people will be so well-heeled that, if they wanted to, they could pay off that whole debt from their savings.

Of course they won't do anything like that. They will let the debt ride along, and reduce it gradually. But it is well to keep in mind the fact that this nation's financial power is no less than its military power.

PUBLIC OPINION

To Control Industry.

By Samuel B. Pettengill. Shall labor unions take over the management of industry? This was the question behind the foreman's strike in Michigan. The issue has been shelved for the moment, but it is being underneath strike-ridden Detroit, where men have stopped making pencils, the wonder drug that saves wounded men from death.

JUST HUMANS

By GENE CARR

"Why Don't You Stop His Crying?"
"Aw, That's th' Only Way He Gets His Face Washed!"

ly has been dissolved in order to show its entire strength to the fourth term under the leadership of Comrade Browder. But to get the background of the foreman's strike, we must go back to the Communist platform of a few years ago and to the workers' demands two years ago by Walter Reuther and others, for a constantly increasing union participation in management.

Probably only a small minority of the Detroit foremen think in these terms. With them it was largely a matter of more pay, security and the struggle for fat jobs in the union hierarchy. Some of the foremen had legitimate grievances. They felt they were the forgotten men. Many would honestly deny any motivation from Communist dogma.

The logic of events, however, is more important than motives. Behind honest men you always find cunning men with revolution in their hearts. There is dynamite beneath Detroit.

For example, with the foremen off duty and the workers without supervision, a labor paper said

NIBBLING RAMS—Completely oblivious of curious audience, these rams nibble away at Farm-in-the-Zoo, Bronx Zoo, N. Y. Farm was visited three years ago for zoo's livestock. Rams, who are new additions, seem perfectly content with their home.

TO PW COMPOUNDS—Prisoner of war compounds are next stop for these Nazi prisoners captured during drive against Gustav Line in Italy by Allied 8th and 9th Armies. Here they have chance to rest beside road while Allied armored vehicles pass in swift race to reinforce front line troops.

conditions in the plant were bleak—"no bosses anywhere."

It is bad enough to have vital war production held up and General Arnold pleading with the strikers to go back to making fighter planes for fighting men. It is tragic that the foreman's leader said that General Arnold's plea left him cold but that they were going back to work only because they thought the War Labor Board would be friendly to their cause. But the war will end some day. Patriotism will then speak with muted voice. If the CIO political action committee succeeds in taking over the Democratic party and becomes dominant in the next administration, what will the pay-off be?

With the unions beginning to take over management, with their demands that the government continue ownership of its huge war plants, with wages going up and dividends going down, with business taxes maintained at vindictive levels, where is the money coming from to reconvert industry to peace and buy the new tools to provide the new jobs in postwar America?

Will private investors risk their savings in such a cold climate? Or will they again seek the cyclone cellar of government bonds or the long green in the mattress?

If the latter, then the government becomes the sole banker of industry. More bonds, more debt, more greenbacks, more inflation. You can't invade Europe or play big-time baseball without management. For this reason, neither the Army, Navy, War Labor Board, National Labor Relations Board, Congress nor industry can afford to concede the principle involved in the foreman's strike to unionize. Legitimate grievances, if any, must be adjusted, but that line must be held. For on it depends the successful management of business, and on business success depend jobs and pay envelopes.

It is impossible that millions of patriotic working men are not beginning to see where radical, if

GRATITUDE

D-Day was the most critical day of our generation. We are deeply indebted to the press, radio and newsreels which, since the beginning of the invasion, have kept us fully informed as to the movements of the Allied forces.

This, the greatest achievement in the gathering and dissemination of information ever recorded, makes us realize what our men faced when they landed, and more fully understand the depth of our obligation as individuals and organizations in backing up our armed forces.

Our prayers are with all who are participating in the liberation of Europe, and our sympathy goes out to the families of those who have made the supreme sacrifice.
