course I'm learning a lot about airplanes that won't do me much good after the war except in an indirect manner. But I'm learning a hell of a lot about handling men; with one or two exceptions I (at 24) am the oldest guy in my section of 110 men. A great deal of the men came in right out of high school and have never before had to work for a living. There are lots of things about this airplane maintenance that seem senseless unless you really think about it. That is where the main difficulty comes, in trying to get the men to see why they have to do certain things so that they will be sure and do them. You have a peculiar situation in that maintenance personnel is at a premium and everybody knows it. You can't fire a man in the army. You can bust him, but rank doesn't mean much overseas. Therefore you have to be doubly careful in handling the men because they are just as likely to say, "to hell with you," and although they will still work they become careless and that is something that can't be tolerated in aircraft maintenance. A lot of guys might get a kick out of seeing how well they can handle men, but to me it is a pain in the neck, although I try not to show it. Would much rather not have a man under me and be doing something like pure airplane troubleshooting, but such is not the case and I'm trying to do the best I can. But I'll be glad when the war is over and I can go back to my geology. I'm glad Gail is getting along so well. After he gets in advance-ed he will really have to "screw up" to get washed out. I'm glad he likes fighters because over here the fighter casualties have been much less than bomber casualties.

I hope you are feeling ok and the rheumatism lays off of you for awhile. Love.

What is A Penny Worth ELECTRICALLY?

Three dozen pieces of toast—a delicious full course meal—many hours of radio entertainment—light when you want it—hot water when you need it—clean, ironed clothes—a penny is worth all these and many more, electrically speaking. Yes, the biggest bargain today is electric power. Actually costing less today than it did ten years ago, electric power has stayed down while all other living prices have gone sky high.

Are you a part of the Gasoline BLACK MARKET?

BLACK MARKETS just don't happen. They are made by customers of the market... by people who want more than their share of the nation's desperately needed gasoline.

Maybe you—a good, patriotic and conscientious American citizen—are a part of the black market and don't realize it.

If you have ever bought or accepted more coupons or gasoline than your ration board allowed you, you are, wittingly or unwittingly, a part of the black market.

It's true that America is producing and refining more crude oil than ever before. The oil industry has expanded its operations and facilities tremendously. But the war machines we've been building since Pearl Harbor—thousands of planes and tanks and trucks and ships—are up at the front and on the attack throughout the world.

These machines must not run out of gas. Essential civilian needs on the home front must be supplied. There simply isn't enough gasoline to do both jobs without limit... Certainly there's not enough to support a black market that is siphoning off more than 2,500,000 gallons a day from our available supply.

Your patriotism is on trial

The gasoline situation is serious. Every drop you use is precious. Less than three-fourths as much gasoline can be spared for the home front as in 1942. Rationing must cover essential needs first—farms, trucks, buses, industry, your doctor's car—and these are imperative; they cannot be reduced.

We Americans cannot tolerate the black market—certainly we, as individuals, cannot have a part in it.
