WIDE ALLIED GAINS IN FRANCE

GARRET'S FRIENDS OPTIMISTIC

AMERICANS NOW WITHIN FORTY MILES OF THE TWO IMPORTANT PORTS OF NANTES, ST. NAZAIRE

AEF HEADQUARTERS, Aug. 4.—American armor and infantry, spreading in a widening and lengthening tide over Brittany, raced to within 40 miles of the two big ports of Nantes and St. Nazaire on the Loire today and cut off most of the peninsula.

While bursting through country 20 miles south of Rennes, the American forces also spread 27 miles west of that rail and highway hub in the center of Brittany coming within 108 miles east of Brest.

Yet other forces advanced to within two miles of Evran, seven miles south of captured Dinan on the north side of Brittany, and jumped off to attack the German-held north coast city St. Malo, which had been bypassed in the strike to Dinan.

Fighting raged in Rennes, along streets leading to the heart of the town, where an encircled but fanatic enemy garrison was holding out. The Nazi position was said to be hopeless.

The Americans struck due south close to Bain-de-Bretagne, 17 miles south of Rennes and 40 miles from Nantes, a port city of 195,000 population up the Loire river.

They also were within five miles of Pipriac, 20 miles southwest of Rennes and 43 miles from St. Nazaire, the U-boat base and U. S. troop port in World War I.

In the 24 hours up to Thursday afternoon, American troops took 8,000 more prisoners, bringing their total since D-day to around 70,000. The British have captured an estimated 30,000, making the prisoner total 100,000. The Americans have buried 10,000 German dead, and the Germans themselves have buried at least that many of their own dead.

MOSCOW.—Panic-stricken German civilians have begun evacuating East Prussia as the Red Army massed at the frontier for the first thrust onto Reich soil, Izvestia reported today as other Soviet forces swung northward beyond the Vistula in a grand scale flanking drive against Warsaw.

Gen. Cherniakhovskiy's army was poised on a broad front for a drive into East Prussia, but semi-official sources stated categorically that the border crossing had not yet been made.

The government organ Izvestia said the roads of East Prussia were jammed with nondescript transport carrying civilians and property westward from the Soviet-menaced region of the fatherland, while fierce air battles raged overhead.

While Marshal Rokossovskiy's vanguard stormed the Praga outposts of Warsaw, his left wing veered up toward the city from the Vistula crossings which had driven a wedge within less than 100 miles of German Silesia to reduce the capital's defenses from the south if the frontal onslaught were held up.

(A Polish underground communique said more than 25,000 Polish patriots battling the Germans in the streets of Warsaw had seized many strong points scattered throughout the city, and "the initiative is ours, but the fight is bitter.")

SOUTHEAST ASIA HEADQUARTERS, KANDY, Ceylon.—American, British and Chinese forces today captured Myitkyina, Japanese stronghold in northern Burma and last major obstacle to the reopening of an overland supply route into China from India, after killing the garrison of more than 3,000 to the last man.

The fall of the city ended a siege which began on June 3 when British and Indian air borne troops, landed far behind Japanese lines, crossed the monsoon-swollen Irrawaddy river and sealed off the garrison's last escape route.

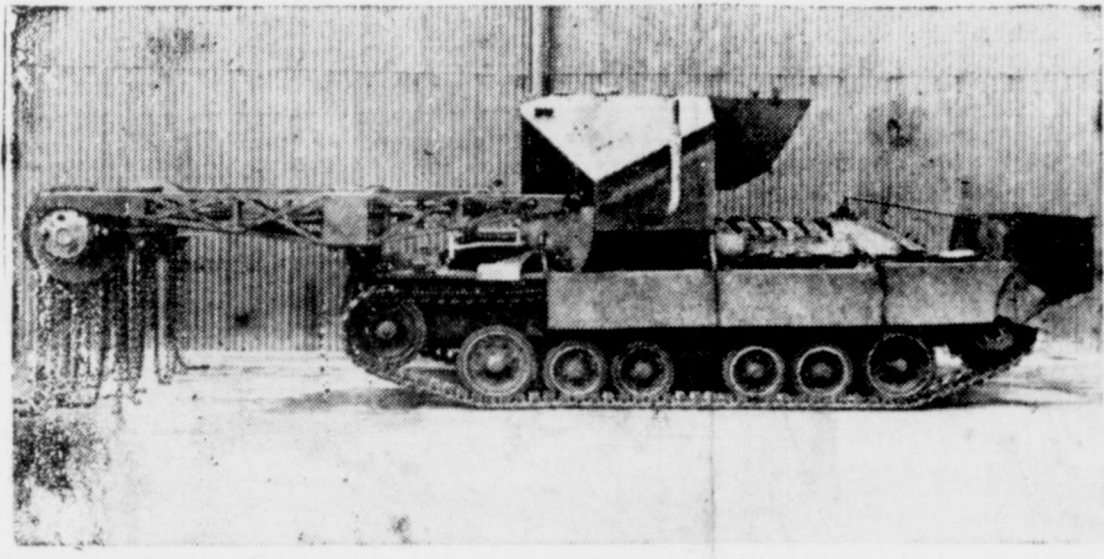

LONDON.—British airmen battled droves of German flying bombs under the light of a bright moon, from midnight to dawn today, and won one of the most spectacular defensive battles of the war.

Using newest-type Tempest and Spitfire fighters, the defenders streaked under the stars against the sputtering bombs and decimated the waves of death aimed at London and Southern England.

"Fighter planes knocked the robots down like ten one battle witness said.

With fighters and robots shadowing the shepherds of Channel in a mad surrealist pattern, the flying bombs exploded in blinding air flashes or plummeted crippled to the sea or open land spaces.

One of the flying bombs leveled off and traveled a ball of fire for miles before finally crashing near a

WMC CIRCLE THREE WITH MRS. MASON. Mrs. O. L. Mason was hostess Tuesday afternoon when circle three of First Baptist women's missionary union met in her home. Mrs. L. A. Mrs. Burkett reminded members of the importance of the "Bible in the home."

MISS A. HOSTESS. Group churching in Bacon, presiding with Mrs. M. War Price and Rationing Boards an interare under orders, as of August 1, to refuse ALL gasoline rations to holders of B and C cards who use their cars for home-to-work driving. Shockley and cannot show that they belong to a car pool and are regularly carrying a full carload.

Call may furnished the Daily Press by the Eastland county office of price administration.

The only exception to the rule are those persons who use their cars during the day for business purposes, such as a physician, or those who can show that they have made every effort to secure a car pool.

Growing concern over the breakdown of motor transportation as well as the scarcity of gasoline is the reason for the stringent action, the county chairman reported.

"Today, we have less than 23,000,000 cars on the road and about 4,000 of these leave the roads every day. When we get down to 20,000,000, a serious breakdown in essential transportation is inevitable. Enforced car sharing is the only answer," the OPA spokesman declared.

"If a car owner doesn't belong to a car pool, he will get only 20 gallons of gasoline for thirty days of home-to-work driving, instead of the usual three months' rations he has been receiving. And he won't get his supplemental rations until he can prove to the board that he has obtained sufficient passengers to fill his car. In view of the critical situation with regard to cars, parts, gasoline and tires, there are just too many cars going back and forth to work daily, half filled," the speaker concluded.

WHITE STRIKERS REFUSE TO WORK WITH NEGROES. PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 4.—Partial service resumed today in Philadelphia's rapid transit system with a few trains operating on the Market Street elevated, the Broad Street subway, and several surface trolley and motor bus lines. The service, resumed under Army control, came despite a statement by strike leaders that the paralyzing walkout would not end until the Army had given a written guarantee no Negroes would be trained or used as operators. Even as the Army took over, new clashes between whites and Negroes—with one shooting—were reported.

Boss Glove Factory Leads Way to Make Cisco Industrial

Officials of the Boss Glove Manufacturing company are more and more sure of themselves and satisfied with their adventure of establishing plant No. 13 in Cisco, which fact is proving what they have always contended, namely that it didn't take a Yankee to be an industrial worker, but that it could be done just as well by Southerners once they had gotten the hang of doing things with their fingers.

The Cisco plant will turn out about 2,350 dozen pairs of gloves this week, an increase over the output of last week. Girls and women are becoming more and more proficient at their tasks and are getting the knack of turning out their work in a volume that will mean more and more earnings when they reach the peak of payment by pieces finished, rather than just by the hour.

Much has been done by the management to make the building and working conditions comfortable. The great, airy building is made more cool by a system of giant fans that constantly change the air, so that a fairly constant circulation is kept. A first-aid room with expert attendant and necessary medicines is furnished, with sufficient lockers and toilet rooms for the workers. A heat circulation system keeps the building at uniform temperature during winter months.

Great stacks of cloth—canton flannel—is stacked ready for use. This is carried by conveyor to the cutting machine, where 40 thicknesses of cloth are cut into 320 pairs of gloves—at one stroke of the cutter.

The cloth used at present is 10-oz. material, out of which the only two types of gloves manufactured here are made. These are "Xtra Heavy" and "Wallopers."

The different parts of the gloves are carried to the sewers in bundles of about 20 dozen. The electric machines are arranged in rows, with all in a particular row doing the same kind of work. The second row includes the second step, and so on through the rows of workers. Each worker does only one particular line of work, thus becoming expert by doing the same thing many thousands of times. When the gloves have been finished they are inspected and any faultily-sewed gloves are returned to the worker who made the error. This is easily known by the tag numbers which accompany the glove on its trip down the rows to completion. The inspector signs the tag and the gloves are packed for shipment, knowing that they are of a quality that will keep their reputation intact as the "Famous Boss Gloves."

The Boss factory began in 1889 by making corn-husking aids, of which they have manufactured about 400 types embodying every likable feature endorsed by huskers. This is one of the secrets of success of the Boss company.

They have also ascertained preferable glove features, as expressed by varying types of workers all over America, and have embodied these ideas in their over 800 styles of gloves manufactured. During the present war-rationing period they have compressed the best features into about 61 different styles.

The cooling system mentioned above is mainly a home-made affair. The manager took a big windmill wheel and placed it between a frame remodeled from an iron platform once used at the swimming pool, and arranged it so that air would be drawn from the workroom. The giant wheel is located at one end of the building and other smaller fans are located at various points in the sides of the workroom so as to draw fresh air in. Thus the big workshop is always supplied with fresh air.

Window displays of the Boss line have been arranged in the Cisco Gas Corporation office window, while a display of the Husker line is shown at First National Bank.

OPA TIGHTENS GAS RATIONING

War Price and Rationing Boards are under orders, as of August 1, to refuse ALL gasoline rations to holders of B and C cards who use their cars for home-to-work driving and cannot show that they belong to a car pool and are regularly carrying a full carload.

The above information was furnished the Daily Press by the Eastland county office of price administration.

The only exception to the rule are those persons who use their car during the day for business purposes, such as a physician, or those who can show that they have made every effort to secure riders.

Growing concern over the breakdown of motor transportation as well as the scarcity of gasoline is the reason for the stringent action, the county chairman reported.

"Today, we have less than 23,000,000 cars on the road and about 4,000 of these leave the roads every day. When we get down to 20,000,000, a serious breakdown in essential transportation is inevitable. Enforced car sharing is the only answer," the OPA spokesman declared.

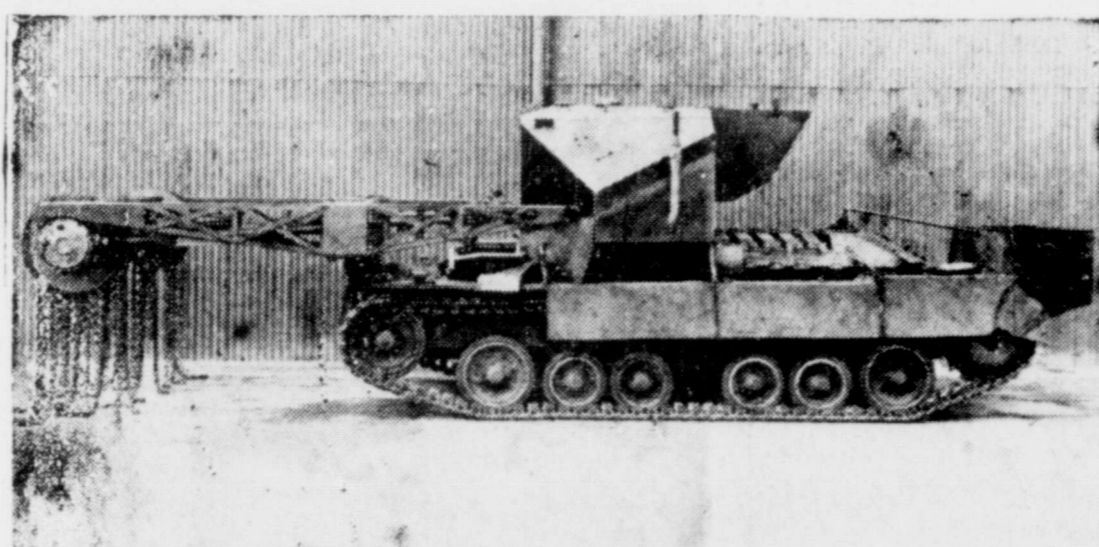

"If a car owner doesn't belong to a car pool, he will get only enough gasoline rations for thirty days of home-to-work driving, instead of the usual three months' rations he has been receiving. And he won't get his supplemental rations until he can prove to the board that he has obtained sufficient passengers to fill his car. In view of the critical situation with regard to cars, parts, gasoline and tires, there are just too many cars going back and forth to work daily, half filled," the speaker concluded.

The service, resumed under Army control, came despite a statement by strike leaders that the paralyzing walkout would not end until the Army had given a written guarantee no Negroes would be trained or used as operators.

GARRET'S FRIENDS OPTIMISTIC

Former Congressman Clyde Garrett of Eastland, candidate for congress, 17th district, today expressed great satisfaction over the progress of his campaign and feels highly confident of emerging victorious in the coming August 26 run-off primary.

Garrett, a member of congress from 1937 through 1940 and later engaged in vital wartime public relations work in the office of Jesse Jones, secretary of commerce, opposes Rep. Sam M. Russell of Stephenville, incumbent, who is seeking his third term. Two other congressional aspirants, Joe E. Fitzgerald of Stephenville and R. M. (Bob) Wagstaff of Abilene, were eliminated in the first primary of July 22.

"I am deeply grateful for the fine support which my home folks are giving me in my campaign," Garrett told The Daily Press here today, "and I feel especially inspired by the hundreds of telegrams, telephone calls and letters which have reached me from friends and supporters over the twelve counties of the district."

Garrett expressed regret over tactics of the opposition, charging that "such scurrilous campaign methods being employed are far below the dignity of such a high and trusted office."

"I am proud of the fact," he declared, "that I have never—in this or in any other campaign—indulged in personalities nor petty personal issues and I may many friends and supporters are well aware of that fact."

"Malicious charges which are absolutely false and without foundation have been and are being circulated about the district in this campaign. Many of my friends already have heard these statements and, knowing me, they know they are absurdities of the most reckless and ridiculous nature. Those good friends of mine who have heard this malicious propaganda, apparently being spread as a smoke-screen by the desperate opposition, not only wholly disbelieve it, but are continually refuting it."

Garrett, the only candidate in the contest who advocates decentralization of veterans' hospitals and locating smaller units over the country in order that service men receiving treatment may be nearer their loved ones, is planning an intensive campaign during the days between now and the approaching second primary.

"I am relying heavily upon my friends," he told the Daily Press, "to continue their enthusiastic support." Then he added: "Knowing them, I know they will. Their confidence in me makes me certain of victory in the run-off."

WAR ONE ANNIVERSARY.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 4.—Today marks the 30th anniversary of Germany's violation of Belgium and the completion of the lineups of the great European powers for World War I. On Aug. 4, 1914, German troops crossed into Belgium and Britain declared war against Germany at midnight. Germany had declared war on France Aug. 3 and Germany and Russia had been at war since Aug. 1. Italy declared her neutrality, but entered the war the next spring on the side of the Allies.

AMERICANS NOW WITHIN FORTY MILES OF THE TWO IMPORTANT PORTS OF NANTES, ST. NAZAIRE

AEF HEADQUARTERS, Aug. 4.—American armor and infantry, spreading in a widening and lengthening tide over Brittany, raced to within 40 miles of the two big ports of Nantes and St. Nazaire on the Loire today and cut off most of the peninsula.

While bursting through country 20 miles south of Rennes, the American forces also spread 27 miles west of that rail and highway hub in the center of Brittany coming within 108 miles east of Brest.

Yet other forces advanced to within two miles of Evran, seven miles south of captured Dinan on the north side of Brittany, and jumped off to attack the German-held north coast city St. Malo, which had been bypassed in the strike to Dinan.

Fighting raged in Rennes, along streets leading to the heart of the town, where an encircled but fanatic enemy garrison was holding out. The Nazi position was said to be hopeless.

The Americans struck due south close to Bain-de-Bretagne, 17 miles south of Rennes and 40 miles from Nantes, a port city of 195,000 population up the Loire river.

They also were within five miles of Pipriac, 20 miles southwest of Rennes and 43 miles from St. Nazaire, the U-boat base and U. S. troop port in World War I.

In the 24 hours up to Thursday afternoon, American troops took 8,000 more prisoners, bringing their total since D-day to around 70,000. The British have captured an estimated 30,000, making the prisoner total 100,000. The American have buried 10,000 German dead, and the Germans themselves have buried at least that many of their own dead.

MOSCOW.—Panic-stricken German civilians have begun evacuating East Prussia as the Red Army massed at the frontier for the first thrust onto Reich soil. Izvestia reported today as other Soviet forces swung northwestward beyond the Vistula in a grand scale flanking drive against Warsaw.

Gen. Cherniakhovsky's army was poised on a broad front for a drive into East Prussia, but semi-official sources stated categorically that the border crossing had not yet been made.

The government organ Izvestia said the roads of East Prussia were jammed with nondescript transport carrying civilians and property westward from the Soviet-menaced region of the fatherland, while fierce air battles raged overhead.

While Marshal Rokossovsky's vanguard stormed the Praga outposts of Warsaw, his left wing veered up toward the city from the Vistula crossings which had driven a wedge within less than 100 miles of German Silesia to reduce the capital's defenses from the south if the frontal onslaught were held up.

(A Polish underground communique said more than 25,000 Polish patriots battling the Germans in the streets of Warsaw had seized many strong points scattered throughout the city, and "the initiative is ours, but the fight is bitter.")

SOUTHEAST ASIA HEADQUARTERS, KANDY, Ceylon.—American, British and Chinese forces today captured Myitkyina, Japanese stronghold in northern Burma and last major obstacle to the reopening of an overland supply route into China from India, after killing the garrison of more than 3,000 to the last man.

The fall of the city ended a siege which began on June 3 when British and Indian air borne troops, landed far behind Japanese lines, crossed the monsoon-swollen Irrawaddy river and sealed off the garrison's last escape route.

LONDON.—British airmen battled droves of German flying bombs under the light of a bright moon, from midnight to dawn today, and won one of the most spectacular defensive battles of the war.

Using newest-type Tempest and Spitfire fighters, the defenders streaked under the stars against the sputtering robot bombs and decimated the waves of death aimed at London and Southern England.

"Fighter planes knocked the robots down like ten-pins," one battle witness said.

With fighters and robots shadowing the sheen of the Channel in a mad surrealist pattern, the flying bombs were exploded in blinding air flashes or plummetered crippled into the sea or open land spaces.

One of the flying bombs leveled off and traveled as a ball of fire for miles before finally crashing near the coast.

INFLATION RESISTED.

Inflation is being resisted more successfully than in World War I. Then there was no government control of food prices.

Some ration boards as well as grocers have been displaying the food products which $15 bought in the first world war, compared with what the same amount will purchase today. The last war's exhibit was short and sweet: 50 pounds of sugar, and nothing else.

Today $15 will procure 50 pounds of sugar, and 23 additional grocery items. This is the list:

One pound of coffee, a box of breakfast cereal, one pound each of rice and crackers, two nine-ounce packages of macaroni, a quart can of peanut butter, one package of tea, a bag of salt, two cans of corn, three cans of tomatoes, two cans of peas, one bottle of catsup, one can of baking powder, one can of peaches, one pint mayonnaise, one can kitchen cleanser, three cans of milk, three packages tissue, two five-pound packages cornmeal, one large package of soap flakes, two pounds of beans, four cakes of soap, and 25 pounds of flour.

Evidently the OPA has achieved something. Troublesome and fussy as it is, much as every manjack—and jill—of us dislikes to wrestle with ration points and to fill out forms, the fact remains that it has made a real contribution to the cause of spreading necessities around equitably. It is beginning to appear that after the war—because of our inborn greed and lack of consideration for others—these controls cannot all be stopped at once, but must be tapered off gradually, in order to avoid a runaway of prices. Some are already loosened a bit, and others will gradually fade away, as the needs of war are met and civilian production begins to take hold.

NEW PLANS FOR HOUSES.

A new home is a very important thing for any family. It calls for study and careful plan. Most people want some of the new things in their houses. They want, to quote an architect, "a downstairs lavatory, small halls, no dining room or a very small one, and a large living room. No 'spare room' for the casual guest, but an all-purpose room, which can be library, extra sitting room, or sewing room, with provision for the short-time guest."

Architects would like to see faster progress towards new comfort. But banks and other lending agencies want to make haste slowly. They do not like to lend money on experiment. They want to be sure the improvements will outlast the mortgage—will not, in their turn, go out of style too soon. They are justified, of course, in this attitude. Building codes are apt to be anticipated—demand basements where they are no longer needed, for example. But as fast as the new things can be incorporated in homes, they should be tried out. Without trying, how can builders and home-owners find out whether they really like them or not?

Doing without the dining room, for instance, seldom works very well. But a dining room can well serve a double purpose—a desk and books never hurt one. Children can do homework at the dining table. The first-floor laundry and utility room, on the other hand, grows in favor. Air-conditioning, also.

NEW BLOOD BETTER.

Senator Ellison D. Smith, "Cotton Ed," of South Carolina, long a Roosevelt opponent, has been defeated for re-nomination by Gov. Olin D. Johnston, administration supporter. Senator Smith, missing a seventh term, loses a chance to hang up a record for senatorial length of service that might never be beaten. Still, if he lives to the end of this term, he will have served a few weeks short of 35 years, and will have surpassed the record made some 15 years ago by Senator Francis E. Warren of Wyoming, Gen. Pershing's father-in-law.

Previously William B. Allison of Iowa, along with Aldrich of Rhode Island, established a 35-year record, which lasted till it was surpassed by Warren.

To serve more than 30 years in the Senate means winning six elections in a row. Reed Smoot of Utah, the high-tariff lawmaker, and the widely admired George W. Norris of Nebraska, both defeated after 30 years service, will testify how hard that is. However, the country needs senatorial records based on accomplishment rather than records of long tenure in office.

OPEN FORUM

The November Election.

Cisco Daily Press: The present betting odds on the election are: Roosevelt to win. These should be taken with a hughend of salt. Clever politicians start campaigns with bets to influence the "band-wagon voters." The game is to play them for suckers by taking the long end of propaganda bets which can be secretly "covered" later if the going gets tough. With so many uncertainties, only a fool would undertake the prophet's role so far in advance. But the New Dealer who can look was also the candidate of the American Labor party, whose 417,418 votes put him over—and, of course, under great obligations to them.

Roosevelt got a grand total of 27,244,526 votes, and a majority of 4,539,332 in 1940. This seems like a soft cushion, but it isn't so comfortable when the figures show that a change of only 596,000 votes out of 26,676,000 cast in these 11 states would have defeated him.

Another way of looking at it is that in the 25 states in which the Republicans got over 45 per cent of the votes, Roosevelt had a majority of 3,157,500 in 1932, of 5,942,453 in 1936, and of only 864,054 in 1940.

The Republicans now have governors in 26 states, which together have 342 electoral votes, or 76 more than enough.

In the 38 states outside the "Solid (?) South," the GOP controls 79 per cent of the counties, the Democrats and/or New Dealers 21 per cent. This is less imposing than it seems, for some 15 counties (out of 3,000 in the United States) gave Mr. Roosevelt a plurality of 2,067,000, or more than half of his total margin of victory. However, these huge city majorities are largely thrown away so far as congress is concerned. The fact that 79 per cent of the counties are in Republican hands indicates a Republican majority in congress, and gains in the senate, whatever happens to the presidency.

Comparing 1944 with 1940, the following are additional anti-New Deal factors: Bricker an infinitely stronger candidate than McNary; the New Deal grown old; the women's vote; the support of Browder and Hillman; the revolt in the South very much stronger; a loss of the youth vote now in uniform, relatively few of whom will vote; the migration of munition workers and loss of their voting residence; dissatisfaction among the Negroes over army treatment and jobs; dissatisfaction over the treatment of Poland; millions still unemployed in 1940, whereas now the same people have war bonds, savings, insurance, in short, something to conserve; the 20 per cent withholding tax; Catholics apprehensive about the spread of Communism and immorality; and finally, a large loss among the A. F. of L., United Railroad Brotherhoods, and United Mine Workers who don't want the C. I. O. to have a mortgage on the next administration.

—SAMUEL B. PETTINGILL.

ROTARY HUMOR.

Doc Savage: Bill, I'm preparing a sermon and want to use the word "triangle" in a sentence, but can't work it out like I want it. Could you give me a sentence with the word "triangle" in it? Bill Fawcett: Sure. If the fish won't bite minnows, try angle worms.

R. L. Ponsler is dictating a letter to Doris Jamison the other day. He stopped talking and Doris waited as he pondered over the use of a certain phrase. Finally he said to Doris: "Do you refer to a loan?" "No," replied Doris, "I sleep with mama."

The other day a boy applied to Lonnie Shockley for a part-time job in the market. "How much will you give me?" the boy asked. "Three dollars a week; but what can you do to make yourself useful around a market?" "Anything." "Well, be specific. Can you dress a chicken?" "Not on three dollars a week." —CISCO RO-TA-TOR.

Hard Roads Ahead

Although it seems to be a race between the Russians and invading Allies as to who will reach Berlin first, it still doesn't mean that it will be soft sailing.

The re-adjustment period may hit us hard. The news says sugar rationing may be harder next year; gasoline may get very scarce, while other products may be scarce and higher.

It's not time to relax yet.
