PATTON HEADS FOR GERMANY

Texas CIO Unions Organize to Battle for Roosevelt

DALLAS, Sept. 1.—Representatives of CIO unions from over the state organized a state political action committee yesterday at Hotel Adolphus and opened fire on the Veterans Political Action Committee formed at Fort Worth Sunday to oppose candidates backed by the CIO "or any other subversive organization."

A resolution which avowed the CIO the champion of the armed forces and in particular condemned Virgil E. Goodman of Fort Worth, state representative and defeated congressional candidate, who heads the Veterans Political Action Committee, was passed.

The resolution said Goodman was promoting his committee among members of the American Legion, but the CIO would cooperate with the legion or any other organization in protecting the rights of veterans.

L. A. Stewart, commander of the Fifth District of the legion, when informed of the CIO action, declared he knew nothing of the VPAC movement or Goodman and that the legion was "not in politics."

The CIO organization accused Goodman of "exploiting the rights of veterans and of workers for his personal gains" and said that during the recent Democratic primary in Fort Worth, Goodman requested CIO financial and active support but was refused it.

Tim Flynn, Texas CIO president, who presided at the meeting, said the CIO is only giving its active support to Roosevelt and his running mate, Truman, hence assumed Goodman's organization was fighting Roosevelt.

To further the chances of Roosevelt in the November election through immediate fund raising and campaigning, some 150,000 CIO members in the state will be brought into the political scene through political action committee organization that will stem from a twelve-member group named on Wednesday.

The state PAC, which met Wednesday afternoon at Hotel Adolphus, following the CIO conference, divided the state into seven geographical districts, where committees will be set up to work with local committees in areas where the unions are active.

TOM MORRISON RECOVERING FROM WOUNDS

Mr. and Mrs. Roy Morrison have received a letter from their son, Sgt. Thomas L. Morrison, which stated that he is in a hospital on an island in the Pacific, recovering from wounds sustained July 24 in a battle with the Japs on Tinian island.

Sergeant Morrison, a Marine, participated in the Saipan invasion, and has been awarded the Purple Heart. He told his parents that he was anxious to get back into active service. Morrison also stated that he lost the kit containing tooth brush, paste, soap, razor blades and other valuables while in battle, but that the Red Cross was on the job and supplied him with all the articles he had lost.

REED FUNERAL SATURDAY.

Funeral services for Mrs. J. E. Reed, who died yesterday at the home of her daughter on east Fourteenth street, will be held at Cisco Church of Christ Saturday afternoon at 2 o'clock, with burial in Oakwood cemetery.

CHARLES HORN DIED AT 9:20 LAST NIGHT

C. U. (Charles) Horn, well known resident of the Dan Horn community, died at a local hospital at 9:20 Thursday night. He had been at the hospital for treatment two days and congestive heart failure was the cause of death.

Mr. Horn was born in the Dan Horn community and was 75 years of age. Until a few years ago he had been employed with an oil company, but gave up that work on the advice of his physician and returned to the place of his birth.

Deceased leaves a large family but a list of the immediate survivors was not available to the Daily Press today, nor the funeral and burial arrangements, except that the funeral will be held at 2 o'clock Sunday afternoon at Thomas funeral chapel, Cisco.

UNEMPLOYMENT STAFF TO ASSIST VETERANS

AUSTIN, Sept. 1.—Twelve district supervisors of the Texas Unemployment Compensation Commission have returned to their stations after conferences here on handling the payment of readjustment allowances to discharged war veterans.

The conferences were held after Chairman Claude A. Williams and Commissioners Robert M. McKinley and Harry Benze Crozier signed an agreement with the Administrator of Veterans Affairs to handle the so-called GI Act in Texas.

The act is effective Sept. 4, and commission employees in all parts of the state will be prepared to accept applications on that date.

Although Sept. 4 falls on Monday Labor Day, offices will be kept open to begin accepting claims. Claims may be filed with commission representatives at twenty-three offices and 137 itinerant points in Texas.

The supervisors currently are holding classes of instruction to prepare commission employees to answer any questions that may be put by discharged veterans of World War II.

DEATH OF CHILD.

Sarah Gleghorn, 3-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. T. J. Gleghorn, 505 west Nineteenth street, Cisco, died at 3 o'clock this morning in a Dallas hospital, following an illness of two months. The funeral will be held at 4 o'clock Saturday afternoon at Thomas funeral home, with Rev. Evan Holmes officiating. Burial will be in the cemetery at Baird. Survivors include the parents, two brothers and a sister.

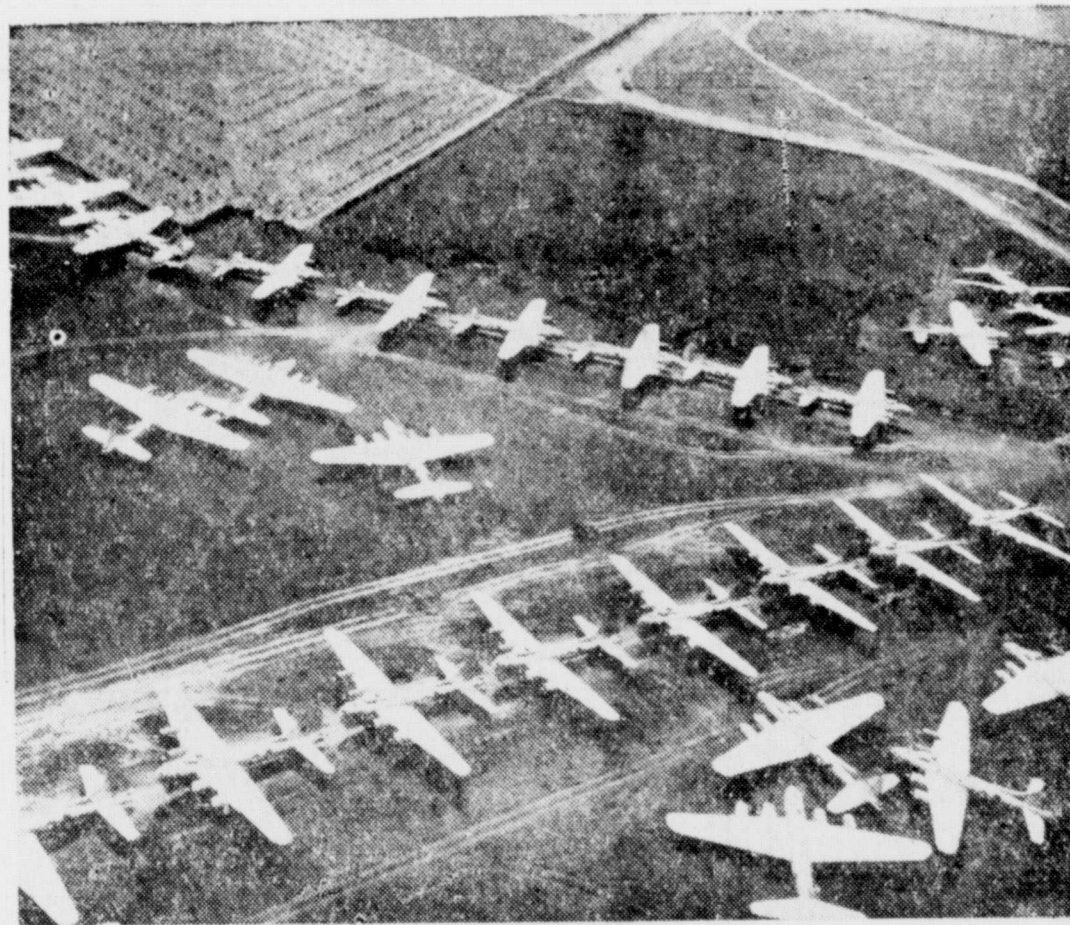

Mrs. Ethel Cameron and children have returned from California where they spent the summer with relatives at Sacramento and Richmond. She has received word that her son Corp. Billy D. Cameron has arrived safely in New Guinea.

Mrs. M. M. Griffin of Amarillo is a guest of her sister and brother-in-law Mr. and Mrs. V. H. Bosworth.

Mrs. Paul Poe is visiting her sister and family at Levelland.

BLALOCK GETTING MORE BELLIGERENT

AUSTIN, Sept. 1.—Still casting about for peace and harmony within party ranks, National Democratic Committeeman Myron G. Blalock, here yesterday, came out unequivocally for action at the Sept. 12 Dallas state convention to compel Democratic electors to vote for Democratic candidates and obey the will of the people at the polls on Nov. 7.

Blalock spent some time conferring with Gov. Coke Stevenson, discussing the general situation, but neither would make a statement as to what transpired.

Before the conference, Blalock said the situation in Texas could be composed to meet the will of the great majority "if some strong arm were to reach out and swing the delegates into action to force Democratic electors to vote for the nominees or be replaced by others who would respond to the will of the people."

It is suspected that Blalock meant Stevenson and that he would have the Governor assume the role of leading Texas Democrats out of their wilderness of despair and dispute, but it is not believed the committeeman dissuaded the Governor from his course of neutrality.

Those who most ardently hope for a controlling influence at Dallas would have Stevenson boldly come out for instructing the electors or displacing them, but the governor thus far has refused to become a party to the fight.

"It is common knowledge that sentiment is growing daily to have Democratic electors vote for Democratic nominees," asserted Blalock, "and by the time the Dallas convention convenes it should be so powerful as to cause the convention to make substitutions for every elector who does not respond and who thereby would disfranchise thousands of Texas voters who will support the Democratic ticket of Franklin D. Roosevelt and Harry S. Truman. This is an intolerable situation in a democracy where the majority rules, regardless of what any minority might think. The very foundation of our government is that the majority rules, and so it is within our parties."

According to Blalock, there are some electors who never will obey the will of the people and the overwhelming sentiment of their party to force the Dallas convention to displace them.

"There will be approximately 100,000 Texas soldiers vote in the November general election and the federal war ballot will be headed by candidates, not electors; the Democrats by Roosevelt and Truman and the Republicans by Dewey and Bricker," Blalock explained, "and would any person dare say that a set of Texas electors should rob them of their suffrage when they have plainly voted for the candidates of their choice? These men in uniform voting for Roosevelt and Truman would be deprived of their ballots, absolutely ignored in choosing their president, if some of the Texas electors have their way and every citizen and convention delegate should be aroused to see that this deplorable plan is not carried into execution."

"My understanding is that the Democrats who believe that every vote should be counted will control the Dallas convention by having approximately 700 votes," commented Blalock, "and they undoubtedly will see to it that Democratic electors vote for Democratic nominees."

Blalock was more belligerent than in any of his previous visits in peacemaking tours, apparently girding himself for the inevitable fight at Dallas to make the electors vote for the party candidates. Judge J. M. Combs of Beaumont, nominated to Congress to succeed Martin Dies, conferred privately with Stevenson Wednesday. Purpose of the meeting was not revealed.

THIRD YANK ARMY IN RECORD-SHATTERING ADVANCE OF 65 MI. IN 24 HRS., TAKE VERDUN

SUPREME HEADQUARTERS, AEF, Sept. 1.—Lt. Gen. George S. Patton's American 3rd Army, in a record-shattering 65-mile advance in less than 24 hours, raced through the Argonne Forest, forced the Meuse river, captured the World War I citadel of Verdun and sped on to the east within 43 miles or less of Germany today.

(A London broadcast reported by NBC said American forces in the Verdun sector had driven to within 25 miles of the German border. A German communique acknowledged the fall of Verdun.)

Commercy, 29 miles southeast of Verdun and 145 miles east of Paris, also fell to Patton's armored columns, while the American 1st Army threatened Sedan and Charleville in a companion drive that already may have carried into the Ardennes Forest and across the Belgian border.

The battle of France appeared to be over except for mopping up and the battles of Germany and Belgium were about to begin. The German retreat had become a rout, with disorganized, demoralized enemy forces throwing away their equipment in a frantic dash to reach their own frontiers.

Only occasionally were the Germans attempting even a show at rear guard resistance, and then it was smashed quickly.

On the French Channel coast, British and Canadian forces rapidly were rolling up the rocket coast and already have overrun at least 120 launching platforms for the flying torpedoes that have been raining death and destruction on London.

One British column smashed 14 miles across the Somme river to Mailly after capturing Amiens, so-called "capital" of the robot bomb coast, in a 40-mile advance in the previous 24 hours.

Gen. Heinrich Hans Eberbach, who succeeded Gen. Paul Hauser as commander of the German 7th Army when the latter was wounded, was revealed to have been captured in the British-Canadian sector while he was eating breakfast yesterday. His army already had been destroyed south of the Seine.

Patton's 3rd Army scored yesterday's biggest victory with its 65-mile advance from Reims to Verdun in less than 24 hours — an accomplishment that took the Allies four years in World War I and cost them hundreds of thousands of lives.

Patton's men lost only a few tanks and suffered "amazingly light casualties" in their push. United Press Correspondent Robert Miller reported from the front in disclosing that the Americans now were within 410 miles of Berlin.

MOSCOW — Soviet tanks and mechanized cavalry swept 35 miles beyond Bucharest, liberated capital of Romania, to the Danube river border of Bulgaria today in relentless pursuit of Germany's fleeing Balkan legions.

Other elements of Marshal Malinovsky's 2nd Ukrainian Army to the north already had swung west through the Transylvanian and Carpathian Alps toward Hungary and a junction with Marshal Tito's Partisan Army in Yugoslavia. Front dispatches disclosed that a Russian armored column had reached the Danube and the Bulgarian border in the neighborhood of the inland port of Giurgiu, terminus of a pipe line from the Ploesti oil fields now in Soviet hands.

The Soviet thrust pocketed thousands, perhaps tens of thousands, of Germans against the Bulgarian border. Whether the Russians cross into Bulgaria in pursuit of the enemy appeared largely to hinge on whether Bulgaria disarms and interns the Germans in line with her declaration of neutrality earlier this week.

Though Russia has rejected the neutrality declaration on grounds that Bulgaria still was aiding the Axis, a Bulgarian armistice commission now was in Cairo and may sign American and British peace terms today or tomorrow. Bulgaria is not at war with Russia.

The roaring fires started by the Germans when they put the torch to the Ploesti oil fields can be extinguished within a few hours, and production can be restored within a few weeks, an internationally famous oil fire-fighter, who once battled a blazing well at Morena, just outside Ploesti, asserted today.

Myron M. Kinley of Houston, ridiculed the German method of destroying the fields by fire. The only damage caused by firing a well, he said, is destruction of the equipment above the ground.

Texas Railroad Commissioner Ernest O. Thompson, a veteran oil man of Austin, said the task of extinguishing the fires was a simple one. A charge of nitroglycerine or dynamite dropped into a well will snuff out the flames almost immediately, he said.

TESTS OF FREEDOM.

"There are one or two simple practical tests by which freedom can be known in the modern world in peace conditions," said Winston Churchill the other day. He was telling Italy what it must do to become a member of the family of nations which is fighting a war for freedom now and will build a peace including freedom later. He expanded the tests as follows:

1. Is there a right to free expressions of opinion and of opposition and criticism of the government of the day?
 2. Have the people the right to turn out a government of which they disapprove, and are constitutional means provided by which they can make their will apparent?
 3. Are there courts of justice free from interference by the executive, free from all threats of mob violence and all associations with any particular political parties? Will all these courts administer open and well-established laws which are associated in the human mind with broad principles of decency and justice?
 4. Will there be fair play for the poor as well as the rich; the private person as well as the government officials? Will the rights of the individual, subject to his duties to the state, be maintained and asserted and exalted?
 5. Is the ordinary peasant or workman earning his living by his daily toil, and striving to bring up his family, free from fear that some grim police organization under control of a single party, like the Gestapo, started by Nazi and Fascist parties, will tap him on the shoulder and pick him off without fair or open trial to bondage or ill treatment?
- "These are some of the title deeds," said Churchill, "on which a new Italy could be founded."
- They are also tests by which any nation may well judge itself. The Constitution of the United States guarantees these rights — and some others — to every citizen of the United States. The Canadians have such rights — and hang on to them. Most of the Middle and South American countries have such constitutional guarantees also, but in several of them, notably Argentina, the Constitution is a dead letter.

NAZI PRETENSE.

The hollowness of the Nazi pretense of defending Europe from Communism is pointed out by Ilya Ehrenburg, the Russian war correspondent, in his new book, "The Tempering of Russia."

"The Nazis say," writes Ehrenburg, "that they are against the Soviet order. That is a lie. It makes no difference to them what kind of government we have. They want to rob us. France was a republic. The Nazis were against the republic. Yugoslavia was a monarchy. The Nazis were against monarchy. Poland had a Rightist government, Norway a Leftist government. The Nazis were against the Right and against the Leftists."

In fact, they believe in only one thing, and that is Number One.

ROMANIAN LEADER.

Romania's friends will be glad not only that she has at last joined the right side, but that the new cabinet includes Iuliu Maniu.

Maniu, president of the National Peasants Party, represents the democratic and anti-Axis Romanians, and no longer ago than last year was jailed for his convictions. Only his great popularity saved him from worse.

Romania for years has been ruled by big landowners and financiers, combined with GRAFTING POLITICIANS. The mass of the people had had little to say about their government. With Maniu in power a better day is drawing for all Romanians.

OTHER EDITORS

The Nation's Heart.

Dallas News: Last Sunday in Washington the National Capitol was thrown open to visitors for the first time since September, 1893. The throng, estimated at 30,000, is said to have been the largest in that noble building's 144-year history. Maury Maverick, Texas, who was a chief advocate of Sunday openings of the Capitol, was quoted in what the Washington Post termed a "blow-by-blow" report on the crowd, of which servicemen and women constituted 75 per cent.

Mr. Maverick, as always, was enthusiastic and outspoken. "Let's do the whole job now," he urged. Estimating that as many as four million servicemen and women will pass through Washington from this time to the completion of demobilization, he would have things fixed so that on a Sunday in the city these millions can get "a real picture of what this country stands for and what they have been fighting for."

There are thousands in the army-

ed services today who have no such picture, who have only a hazy idea of what they are fighting for. Nothing could have more educational value, could afford more satisfying adventure, or more definitely confirm returning soldiers in loyalty to America and Americanism than a Sunday spent in the Capitol, with a sight afforded of the immortal documents on which our liberties are founded.

Mr. Maverick would have the Declaration of Independence and the Constitution brought out of storage and put on display. That would add much to the exhibit, but if this should be done there must be careful handling of these historic treasures that will protect them against such damage as the Declaration suffered years ago.

Thinking Back

By R. W. MANCILL.

Sixty-three years ago today—Sept. 1, 1881—Dr. W. E. Mancill loaded up his two wagons with all household goods and family, consisting of wife, four sons, Willie, Robert, Waddy and Johnie, and pulled out for Cisco to make it our home.

We reached Spring Hill, about seven miles from Cisco on the Breckenridge road by noon, where we had lunch and fed our horses, as there was a wonderful spring of water at this place. Today, after 63 years, I drank out of this same spring and it was level with the ground, as it was then. It has never been dry and is now walled.

We arrived at our new home about sunset, and it was on the same spot where Miss Effie Moore and sister now live. This home was built on a piece of land of about 40 acres, and surrounded with a stake and ridged rail fence. I think this land was owned by a man named Turknett, or Stephens, I am not sure.

Pa bought these lots out there so he could keep us kids off the streets, as this place was a tough one, with about 800 people, and more than that at night. Pa would sometimes let us go to town with him, provided we held his hand or coat-tails.

You see he wanted to raise some good boys, and be close to the school house, which was located on the ground where the south ward school house now stands.

The school building was a long plank building and air conditioned—the air would come in both winter and summer, at the same place.

I will now go back to Stephens county, we moved to Stephens county in 1878, 5 miles west of Double Mountain, near Esplan. We all went to work to build brush fences, as there was no such thing as barbed wire in these parts. Our principal meat for the first two years was brush rabbits, and we did not pass up mule-eared rabbits, either. When it was almost time for dinner, Ma would call and tell us if we wanted meat for dinner we had better go kill some rabbits. So Joe McBeth and I would pull out to some of the hollow trees, where we had cut a hole for them to go in, and we would soon be back with meat for dinner. No trouble to get meat, for we had cut a hole in every tree a mile around and the rabbits knew where to go, and we did, too.

Later on we got to getting better meat. About eight families in the neighborhood organized a club, and it was handled this way: We met near the center of where the club people lived and organized. They all agreed that they needed a change in the way of meat, so they decided to kill a big fat beef, one to be killed this coming Friday, and one on each Friday for the following seven weeks. So the man under the big tree said: "Well, who will furnish a fat beef for next Friday?" Sandy McBeth said, "I will," so that settled that, till the following Friday.

The beef was cut into eight parts, as best they could, and then they would blindfold one of the eight and then made him stand behind the big tree, where the beef was skinned, and one of the men would say, "who gets this piece?" and so on till it was all gone.

It was real fun, and the OPA did not interfere. And that milk gravy made from fried steak was so much better.

Our beeves were not quite as fat as the ones we have today, as we had to trail our beeves to the "slaughter tree," and the ones we kill today ride in an automobile to the slaughter pen.

I wish that good old milk cow that we trailed to Cisco could come back, at least for just a moment, and see what she missed, when she sees the cows go by riding in automobiles.

I often think of my long walk from the Col. Maples farm, in Bosque county to five miles west of Double Mountain, Stephens county. The reason I walked was we had been tied up for 14 days in one camp, on account of snow, and I knew there were a lot of wagons loaded ahead of us, for West Texas; so when I would see a little smoke by the side of the road, I would go to the camp (people gone), and look for pocket knives. I found eight pocket knives. Today I don't have a pocket knife with a whole blade, but am in good health. Good bye for now.

ROBERT W. MANCILL.

P. S. We would have suffered had there been any rabbit fever in those days.

SEPTEMBER!

September is an outstanding month. It is the birthdate of the Star Spangled Banner anthem, Labor Day, Constitution Day and Lafayette Day. It also seems likely to be a great month with the Allies in Europe as they will probably be romping through France, Romania, Bulgaria, Hungary, Belgium and the Netherlands.

In the Pacific ocean we will probably be dealing the Japs much misery.

ADMIRATION WILL PLEASE YOU!

Aroma? The robust, magnificent aroma of Admission isn't just an accident. It is scientifically blended into every pound by the use of choice, expensive coffees.

Richness? The rich, winy mellowness which delights you with every sip has its origin in the same fine coffees that impart Admission's aroma. You can't get this with cheap, inferior coffees.

Flavor? As for flavor—well, Admission's is best described as an experience all its own. It simply does something to you, this unique flavor. You can recognize it at the first whiff, whether in a hotel, cafe, or drifting in from the kitchen.

A Superb Blend of CHOICE COFFEES

In these days of corner-cutting, "saving" on ceiling prices, and so on, we cannot emphasize too much the choice, expensive coffees which are exclusively used in the Admission blend. They are the secret of its delightful, inviting flavor. They make it stand apart from every other brand in America. They make it stand apart today in particular, when so many people are complaining that some established brands have suddenly gone flat or acid-tasting. Admission never has and never will vary in aroma, richness and flavor, even from package to package. You can rely on that.
