YANKS SWEEP INTO GERMANY

WACS NOT APPRECIATED BY ALL SOLDIERS

Louis heard Pfc. Joyce Rainbolt, local Wac at home on leave, in a talk on her work and some musical numbers on the accordion. Other visitors introduced were Leon Landon, Abilene; T. B. Hubert, Terrell; Corp. Harold Dierens, visiting his parents, and O. L. Stenroth, Cisco.

Jay Garrett, head of the scrap paper drive, made a report on his committee's activities, after which President Carlos J. Turner commended the Cisco Daily Press for permitting the scrap drive display advertisement on its front page. Secretary Geo. W. Downie read the signed agreement between the school board and the athletic committee of the Lions club regarding the sale of lighting equipment for the football field. The committee on nominations for first vice-president vacancy asked for more time.

Mrs. Rainbolt described her work and said the WACS are growing to soldiers and the world that these young women asked for the job of relieving men for the front and are willing and able to take its hardships. She spoke especially of her work at the hospital where she is in medical supplies and entertainment programs. In addition to watching over these supplies at the hospital, she helps arrange entertainment for sick and wounded.

The speaker told of the purpose of the organization—to perform work heretofore done by men, who are thus released for duty in the front battle lines. She said the men reacted differently. Some appeared glad for a chance to go to the front, while others did not seem to relish substitution of women in the jobs they were holding.

NAVY WANTS SKILLED MECHANICS, NOW

Keeping the navy at the highest possible level and battle-damaged ships in repair is not alone the responsibility of naval officers and the men who man the ship. The navy must also rely upon thousands of civilian workers to repair ships damaged in action.

Men with experience in the skilled crafts, who are not engaged in essential work at the present time are especially needed for the Puget Sound Navy Yard, Bremerton, Wash.; Mare Island Navy Yard, Vallejo, Calif.; Hunters Point Naval Drydocks, San Francisco; Terminal Island Naval Drydocks, San Pedro, Calif.

Electricians, machinists, copper-smiths, sheetmetal workers, pipefitters, painters, radio mechanics, riggers, riveters, boilermakers and automotive mechanics, as well as helpers are urgently needed by these naval establishments.

Government red-tape has been cut and appointments may be authorized immediately upon application. Applicants are guaranteed adequate, modern and inexpensive housing and transportation is furnished.

Persons not engaged in war work of equal skill should apply to T. N. Rathbun, civil service representative at postoffice, Eastland, Sept. 14, 15, 16.

Our beloved army and navy toughnecks are showing the Axis just how tough an American citizen can be when sufficiently riled.

LOBOES PLAY COWTOWN PARROTS TONIGHT

Coach Linden Bimon took his 22 men to Fort Worth today to play the strong Pully Parrots tonight in the opening game of the season for the Loboes of 1944. Cisco's second game will be at Big Spring next week.

The Parrots outweigh the Loboes by about 21 or 22 pounds to the man, but the doughty Loboes say they will bring back the tailfeathers of the old talking bird if daring and what skill they have will do it. They mean to put all they have into the first efforts, hoping that a dashing start may mean victories all the way through the season.

The team is as follows:
Backs—Elbert Tipton, 145 lbs.; Homer Tompkins, 156; Mitford Johnson, 146; Mac Harrison, 154; Melvin Noble, 165; Gerald Smith, 140; Flournoy, 135.

STEAK ON THE HOOF—Maybe this herd knows its fate as cattle bow heads through march down streets of Paris. Livestock en route to slaughter house will be butchered to help relieve food shortage in French capital.

WELCOME TO BELGIAN—Pouring drinks for American soldiers, smiling villagers of Forge Philippe offer hospitality to Yanks passing through Belgian. Similar scenes prevail throughout country in celebration of Allies crossing border from France beating back broken Nazis.

PRIZE WINNER—Serious figure at typewriter is Sgt. David K. Dempsey, whose one-act play, "It Ain't Brooklyn," won first prize of $500 in John Golden contest for enlisted Navy personnel. Play will be broadcast by a national network and will be short-waved to all vessels and naval stations throughout world. Purpose of contest was encouragement of servicemen to create own entertainment.

J. L. BLACK TO BUILD MODERN HOME IN CISCO

J. L. Black of Gordon, who recently purchased the old south ward school building and a block of land from the Cisco school board, was a business caller at the Daily Press office this morning.

The visitor brought an advertisement that will appear in six issues of the paper, but his most interesting pronouncement was a statement that he hopes to move his family to Cisco for permanent residence within the next sixty days.

Black is a building contractor, a native Texan and has resided at Gordon for a number of years. He has a wife and four children, two of the latter being of school age. It is Mr. Black's purpose to immediately build an 8-room brick residence on the land he has just bought.

In conversation with his friend Tom B. Stark, who invited him to become an associate member of the chamber of commerce, Black accepted the invitation and promised to also become a working member of the chamber as soon as he can get located.

VELMA MORRISON FINISHES FLIER COURSE

The public relations office at Avenger Field, Sweetwater, informs the Daily Press that Wasp Velma M. Saunders, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Roy Morrison of Cisco, and wife of G. B. Saunders of Brownsville, has completed an intensive course in instrument flying at that field, the AAF Training Command's unique school for the women's air force service pilots.

Graduates of the advanced instrument course are all full-fledged WASPs who won their wings at Avenger with earlier classes. They returned for post-graduate studies after serving on a variety of flying assignments with the army air forces. Many have flown speedy combat-type planes regularly on ferrying runs and low target missions within the U. S., releasing army flying officers for higher grades of duty.

CISCO SAILOR ASSIGNED TO USS. EASTLAND TO BE PRESENT AT THE KILL

Danny G. Love, seaman second class, who was recently home for a visit with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. O. O. Love, writes from Seattle that he has been assigned to the USS Eastland, which was named for Eastland county.

An excerpt from his letter says: "I finally caught a ship. It isn't the one I was originally assigned to, because they had a full crew when I got here. These ships are named after different counties of the states and, by some twist of fate, I caught the Eastland. When the crew was first formed we had a talk with the skipper, and he asked if anyone was from Eastland county, so I stood up.

He asked, "Is it a good county?" and I told him I thought it was the best. Then he asked me if it was going to be a good ship and of course I told him it would be the best."

Seaman Love, 20 years of age, lived in Cisco several years and attended grade school here. He has been in the navy two and a half years and served one year in the South Pacific area on the flagship Blue Ridge.

FIRST ARMY TANK AND INFANTRY DIVISIONS ENTERED NAZILAND ON 85-MILE FRONT

SUPREME HEADQUARTERS, AEF, Sept. 14.—American 1st Army tank and infantry divisions swept into Germany on an 85-mile front today, overrunning the outer works of the Siegfried Line at a number of points.

Headquarters sources indicated the Nazis may be pulling out of their West Wall to a new fortified belt, on the Rhine 35 to 70 miles inside the frontier.

Several small towns inside the Reich were captured as the Americans broke across the border and struck into the Siegfried fortifications.

The invasion of Germany was on in force everywhere along the 1st Army front from the Aachen sector in the north to the Moselle Line below Trier where Lt. Gen. George S. Patton's 3rd Army poured tanks, guns and men across the river to join in the assault on the Nazi homeland.

The First Army spearheads, reinforced steadily by long columns of men and armor moving in from the west, met surprisingly little opposition in their initial advance into the Reich and headquarters spokesmen intimated a general withdrawal from the Siegfried Line might be under way.

The Germans also were pulling out of their formidable defenses along the Albert Canal in Northern Belgium in the face of a powerful British 2nd Army offensive that broke into Holland at a number of points.

Only at the northern end of the American line were the 1st Army invaders meeting determined resistance. UP correspondent Jack Frankish reported that a famous infantry division fought its way up through the Aachen State Forest from the south to within four miles or less of Aachen last night.

Strong German infantry units put up a fierce fight in the Aachen forest, but Frankish said the Americans were moving ahead steadily. Aachen also was menaced by a second Allied force that headquarters said had driven across the Belgian border into Holland near Maastricht, 17 miles northwest of Aachen, threatening to outflank the city.

VICTORS BY 29 VOTES, ROOSEVELT FORCES SNUFF OUT MOST OF FORMER PARTY LEADERS

DALLAS, Sept. 14.—Texans waited today to see which side will make the first move to test legality of rival sets of Democratic presidential electors.

The State Democratic convention which ended last night made an almost complete sweep of the old State Democratic organization, and named 16 new electors. Fifteen of them replace electors named last May who have announced they will not vote for Roosevelt and Truman, and the other replaces an elector ineligible because of membership in the state legislature.

After a full day's deliberation on methods the pro-Roosevelt forces who had captured convention control by 29 votes margin in an opening day battle, worked out a system they believe they can defend in court.

They revoked instructions given electors at a May convention under which they were to vote for Democrats other than the party nominees because of treatment of the Texas delegation by the National Democratic convention.

These instructions were without previous notice and if carried out would work a fraud on the voters of the state, violate party principles and public policy, the new convention declared by resolution.

Particularly, the resolution said, it would deprive soldiers of effective use of the service ballot. The 15 anti-Roosevelt electors were declared to have forfeited and vacated their offices and were declared removed. New electors for these 15 places then were named and their names ordered certified for a place on the general election ballot.

As explained to a convention committee, the anticipated court contest will be a mandamus in the State Supreme Court directing the Secretary of State Sidney Latham which set of electors to place on the general ballot. It was presumed Latham would announce selection of one or the other immediately to facilitate a test. Ballots must be sent to counties in 15 days.

The party reorganization installed Harry L. Seay, as state chairman to replace George Butler of Houston and Mrs. Fannie Campbell Wommack of Palestine, as co-chairman to replace Mrs. Frank Martin of Waxahachie. William Kittrell, Jr., of Dallas (formerly of Cisco), who tore down an anti-Roosevelt placard at the opening day of the convention, was named secretary of the executive committee in place of Charles E. Simons of Austin.

PROGRESS OF FREEDOM.

The rights of the common man have risen far since Lord Tennyson, the humanitarian English poet, wrote of Britain as—

"A land of settled government,
A land of just and old renown,
With freedom broadening slowly down
From precedent to precedent."

It has happened in both England and America. And probably former Senator George William Norris has had as much to do with it as anybody in this country. He had the good fortune to see many of the liberal policies that he advocated realized in the long span of his public life. And though many of such policies seemed drastic, and even destructive or revolutionary, when first presented, time has usually softened them or made them at least endurable to conservatives.

Perhaps it is inevitable that the old order should change. All that conservatives can reasonably ask is that the changes should not come faster than they can be assimilated. If too fast, they are almost certain to bring a dangerous revolution.

REVOLUTIONS.

There are old fables of dead bones rising literally from the earth to save their countries in time of peril. It seems almost as if something like that were happening in Europe now. Not merely leaders, but whole nations, rise en masse to abolish oppression and punish their enemies.

The time is ripe for it, and the spirit of the long-suppressed peoples is ready and eager. The tyranny with which Hitler and his brutal gangs have infested so large a part of the civilized world is disappearing in nation after nation. The rapid progress of Allied armies in Europe is visible evidence of what is taking place in people's minds and hearts.

This process reminds many of the historic French Revolution which liberated the enslaved French people from their own masters a century and a half ago, but it is much greater in scope. It frees many nations together from the Nazi tyrants who sought to re-establish ancient tyrannies under new names.

This is an inspiring procedure. But there are dangers in it. The old French Revolution and the related changes of that period committed serious excesses and was long in establishing its goal. The new revolutions of this era, with clearer patterns, should be able to work out their plans more quickly and rationally.

Clean and pleasant surroundings — bring the whole family along — everybody can participate in this healthful, inexpensive game.

A GOOD KICK-OFF OFTEN MEANS VICTORY

Good kicks in a football game often spell the difference in victory and defeat. It's one of the fine points that some times wins a hard contested game.

There are many ways Cisco may advance the ball in her fight for more and better payrols. Every citizen should do what he or she can to advance the economic ball.

CHRISTMAS PACKAGES FOR G.I. JOE

Let's Get Them Off Early!

REDDY KILOWATT
Your Electric Servant

Army and Navy rules for shipping unsolicited Christmas packages overseas are the same as for last year—but correct addressing is more important than ever.

The package must be mailed between September 15 and October 15. They cannot weigh more than 5 pounds, be more than 15 inches in length, nor more than 36 inches in length and girth combined. Perishables are not allowed and fragile things will be strongly discouraged.

Remember that incorrect addressing can delay delivery for 90 days or more. One reason this is true: Just among the Navy's enlisted men there are 16,000 Smiths, 300 of them with identical first names and middle initials.

PASS THE BALL FOR GAINS

This is the football season when red-blooded men feel the urge for outdoor activities and if they do not participate themselves, rejoice in seeing the battle between others.

Cisco is again trying for a winning team. The old blood of Big Dam Lobo days still flows through our veins and the urge to win gridiron victories still slumbers not too soundly beneath the outer skin.

There are certain things that must be done to win victories on the football field, just like there are things that must be done to have a winning town from the economical standpoint. We must have an outstanding coach or leader who has led other teams to success and knows plays that will advance the ball. In the town, leadership must be sound and must be followed loyally. The leader calls the plays and the team of citizens must follow up and advance the ball to the required goal.

First there must be sound organization or team planning, the plays must be outlined and then the citizen team must follow through.

If Cisco can do this it may win games on the football field and on the field of town building.
