U.S. FORCE LANDS AT PALAU

DONOHUE AND MRS. NOBLE POTTER TOLD DIED AT 8 OF SEA LIFE A. M. TODAY

A program furnished by two former Cisco boys, now sailors from the battle front, was given Rotarians yesterday when several Rotarians from other towns were present to make up attendance. Some reports and business preliminaries were heard and noted. Secretary Pete Nance introduced the visitors and J. E. Hays acted for repairs for a window and a rope lever, both of which President J. W. Slaughter said he would supply. Edward Lee reported on the progress of the lighting for the football field, saying that the holes were dug after some blasting and that more reflectors were being gathered up. He added that the work had just about reached a stage that would require some actual cash. E. P. Crawford, program chairman, then introduced L. J. Donohue who he said would tell about the sinking of the ship on which his group were searching for submarines, finding them and then being his ship torpedoed out from under him. All but about two of the crew escaped death, with a number wounded. The sailor boy told of finding the submarine by means of the detector and finally by sighting its smoke and shape. He then told in detail of his and another ship attacking the submarine, which proved to be two instead of one, and of his ship receiving its death blow. Continuing the Cisco youth described the hours spent in the water which became colder as time went on and how they were saved by clinging to rafts until their other ship rescued them. He told in detail of the treatment they received on boarding the ship, grasping the Red Cross for its service in supplying the survivors' kit which contained warm clothing and other articles for the comfort. He emphasized the luxury of the warm bath that was so vitalizing after their long stay in the cold water. He further praised the Red Cross for its work in collecting blood plasma for treatment of desperately wounded soldiers and sailors. Mr. Crawford then introduced another Cisco sailor boy, John Potter, who was also a guest and who agreed to tell something about the French coast invasion from England, where he had been with American soldiers. Potter told of the Liberty planes that he had given to England and compared their handling of them in an unfavorable manner with the skill shown by Americans. He also said that the gunnery exhibited by the English soldiers was greatly inferior to that of our own fighters. Other visitors present were J. W. Gilliam, Lynn Waldrip, Ernest Harber, Charley Floyd and Dan Parah, all of Abilene, and C. C. Fairchild of Fort Worth.

BILLY COLLINS NOW AIRPLANE COMMANDER

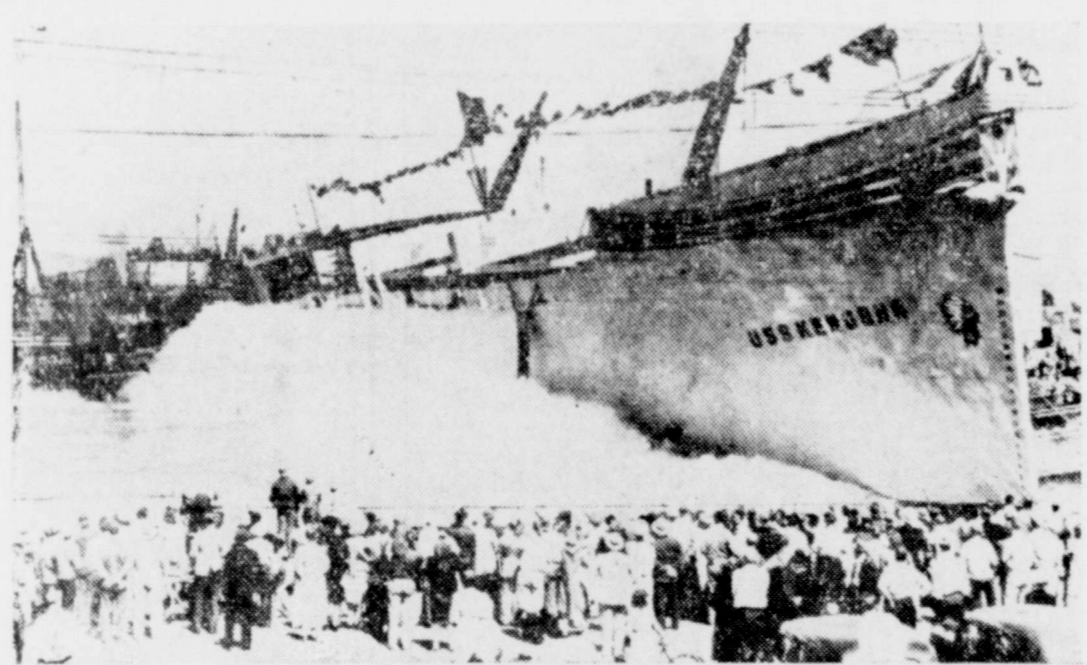

Flight Officer Billy C. Collins, son of Mrs. A. J. Warren of Cisco and husband of the former Frances Louise Hill of Cisco, has completed fifteen weeks of intensive four-engine bomber pilot training at Liberal (Kansas) army air field and is now rated an "airplane commander" qualified to command the crew of a giant Liberator. The young pilot was a student at North Texas Agricultural College when he received an appointment in August, 1943, as an aviation cadet in the Army Air Forces air crew training program. Chosen for pilot training Collins successfully completed the course and graduated last May 23, receiving his wings and appointment as flight officer in a graduation ceremony at Blackland Field, Waco, Texas. Flight Officer Collins was especially selected upon graduation for four-engine bomber pilot training at this southwest Kansas "postgraduate" school of the army air forces training command. A late photo of the Cisco flier accompanied the above communication from the public relations office at Liberal, Kansas.

LOBOES MADE GREAT FIGHT AT FT. WORTH

It was simply a case of being outclassed in everything but fight at Farrington Field, Fort Worth, last night. But the Cisco Loboes, losing their first game of the season to the Polytechnic Parrots, have no reason to be ashamed of that. Something of a spirit that brightens the pages of a proud past flamed there. It made the scoreboard's cold arithmetic a poor record of what actually happened. About 4,000 people saw a thin line of gold and black submerged by the brown and experience of a team rated among the best in North Texas. But the crowd stayed in their seats until the final whistle, although all knew there was not the slightest chance for the Loboes to head off a lead that was 34 to 0 when the end came. Ramsower at center was one of the standouts in the line. His passbacks never bobbed, and his defensive play was good. The entire line, lacking weight and experience, played with a promise of better days to come. Starting for Cisco were Collins, le; Penn, R; Noble, lg; Ramsower, c; Farley, rg; Hill, rt; Williams, q; Smith, q; Johnson, lb; Harrelson, rh; Tompkins, full. Subs were Rufe, G. Smith, Paschall, Field, Baum and Cleveland.

TEXAS COURT WILL SETTLE PARTY SCRAP

AUSTIN, Sept. 15.—In the coming legal battle over filing the names of a second or pro-Roosevelt set of Democratic electors, Secretary of State Sidney Latham has made his position clear as to two points but refused to commit himself in advance as to what action he will take in the all-important issue as to whether he will accept or reject the list of electors to supersede those of the Austin May 23 regular convention. He will have no decision as to the last until he sees the form of certificate. Latham said his dead line for certifying the Nov. 7 general election ballot will be Sept. 25, unless a court orders him to do differently, and that he will take prompt action once the new filings are submitted to afford the complaining party its maximum time to appeal to the courts and obtain a decision before his certification date, which is but twelve days away. He said to be dilatory would be inexcusable. Latham's action will determine who will be the court complainant. If he files the newest set of electors, the regular or anti-Roosevelt group will be the court plaintiffs seeking an injunction to prevent the certification of the Dallas nominations as the Democratic electors of Texas. If he refuses to file them, then the Roosevelt or Dallas group will seek a mandamus to compel him to certify them. Both actions would originate in the Supreme Court, the tribunal of last resort in civil matters, in order that a final decision would be had before time for certifying the names of electors. Court action in this controversy will be sure to attract one of the largest and ablest arrays of legal talent ever assembled in Texas, with both sides represented by the very best lawyers in the state. Fundamentally, Latham said that there could not be two sets of Democratic electors and that his discretion is limited by statutes.

This could be construed into an inclination of believing that he has no legal power to cancel any filing of electors, once made. If that is correct, the legal burden is placed on the Dallas group to bring mandamus to compel him to substitute its electors as the Democratic listing in place of the May 23 electors, fifteen of whom reportedly said they will not vote for Roosevelt and Truman as candidates of the Democratic party for president and vice president. CIO COMES OUT OPENLY FOR 4TH TERM NOMINEES

DALLAS, Sept. 15.—If the state Democratic organization wants and solicits its help in the campaign to carry Texas for Roosevelt and Truman, the state CIO Political Action Committee will co-operate to the fullest extent, Carl McPeak, regional director of the PAC, said today. The state PAC will work for the national ticket, concentrating on CIO members, regardless of whether the Democratic party seeks its aid, McPeak said. He made it plain that it will depend on the party organization how closely PAC works with it. "We are interested only in the presidential campaign in this state," said McPeak. "We are taking no part in any congressional races." Money is beginning to come in in small quantities from the drive to have every CIO member give $1 to a campaign for Roosevelt and Truman, McPeak said. The contributions are being made through local PAC committees in each CIO local union. If all Texas CIO members contribute $150,000 will be raised in the state, McPeak said.

MACARTHUR AND NIMITZ IN TWIN ATTACK CLEAR THE ROAD BACK TO BATAAN AND CORREGIDOR

PEARL HARBOR, Sept. 15.—A big American invasion armada poured fighting men ashore on the Japanese island base of Palau, 560 miles east of Philippines, today as Gen. Douglas MacArthur's troops stormed up into the Halmahera islands from the south in a twin offensive to clear the road back to Bataan and Corregidor. Exploding their greatest combined offensive of the Pacific war, MacArthur and Admiral Chester W. Nimitz, commander-in-chief of the U. S. Pacific Fleet, breached coastal defenses of the two island bastions under cover of shattering bombardments from sea and sky. MacArthur led his troops ashore early Friday on Morotai Island, northernmost of the Halmaheras and only 250 miles south of the Philippines, at almost the same moment Nimitz' Marines and Army assault units were battling across the beaches of Palau. The twin invasion threatened to break the chain of sprawling island bases established by the Japanese around the Philippines and the western and southern approaches to the Chinese mainland, and first reports from Palau said the enemy was fighting back furiously from long-prepared defenses. American battleships, cruisers and supporting warships of the Pacific fleet stood offshore bombarding the Japanese shore installations at short range while carrier-based aircraft dive-bombed and strafed the enemy in close support of the advancing ground troops. MacArthur's men on Morotai also went in under a powerful warship and aircraft screen, but their landing met only feeble Japanese opposition and casualties in the initial assault were described officially as "very light."

The bulk of the Japanese garrison in the Halmaheras were revealed to have been concentrated in the southern part of the island group, in the belief that MacArthur would strike there. Instead, they were by-passed, cut off from their own direct sources of supply, and left to surrender or die. A brief Navy communique said reinforcements were being put ashore from a host of transports guarded by the guns and planes of Admiral William F. Halsey's Third Fleet, and that the landings were "continuing against stiff ground opposition."

American occupation of the Palau will close a watery trap around 75,000 to 100,000 Japanese troops now by-passed in the Western Carolines, including the once-formidable naval base at Truk. In addition it will remove the last island barrier astride the Central Pacific route to the Philippines and enable Nimitz to throw full weight of his land, sea and air forces against the Japanese-occupied islands.

SUPREME HEADQUARTERS, AEF, Sept. 15.—American 1st Army forces closed an assault are around three sides of Aachen today, breached the outer forts of the Siegfried Line in great strength, and plunged head-on into a blazing tank and artillery battle in the heart of the Nazi West Wall. At the same time, other 1st Army units to the northwest burst across the Albert Canal and Meuse River barriers and advanced deep into the narrow neck of Holland jutting down between Belgium and Germany. "Enemy resistance in Holland is sporadic," a United Press dispatch from 1st Army headquarters said in disclosing the new American break-through. The Yanks apparently crossed the border around the Dutch city of Maastricht, which Berlin said was "lost" to strong American armored forces.

LONDON, Sept. 15.—The German DNB News Agency reported today that 40 Soviet infantry divisions, supported by tanks and planes, had started a large-scale offensive in Latvia east and south of Riga. DNB said Soviet troops struck northwest of Madona, 75 miles east of Riga, near Bauska, 35 miles south of the Latvian border, and on both sides of the Walka River, on the Latvian-Estonian border. Red Army forces also bombed the Polish capital of Warsaw from the air and ground today as Soviet troops prepared to cross the Vistula in what appeared to be the start for Germany. Observers believe that with the elimination of Warsaw, the Red Army would bring up all its reserves for a momentous all-out campaign to crush the German armies before they could retreat to their own frontiers.

A LAZY FUTURE.

Surely any forward-looking American, with an eye to the future development of our civilization, should not rejoice very greatly over the prospect of a general 40-hour working week. That would be equivalent to eight hours of work five days in the week. Or expressed in another way, it would mean working, in any given week, about one-fourth of the time available.

Nobody, of course, wants to return to the twelve-hour day which once prevailed in this country. But to most people—and farmers especially—the apparent ideal of so many workers and theorists at present seems rather absurd.

A little thinking should serve to remind the extreme short-hour advocates that the shorter time they work per day or week, the less they are destined to get for their labor by any reasonable accounting in the long run. Things even out, and when workers in general shorten their hours unduly, they are limiting production, and thereby keeping up the prices of the things they have to buy.

Workers can get ahead more effectively by producing all they can without hurting themselves, thus creating plenty of everything and getting their share in lower prices.

It is the government's job to insure fair play—for folks in general as well as for the unionists. And on this principle, Americans generally might soon be "living like princes."

YE SHALL KNOW THE TRUTH.

Congressman Fulbright "has something" when he says that the other nations in general need to be treated to a free flow of news, along with their bread and butter and meat and vegetables. For news is a large and growing part of civilized life, and its widespread influence is necessary to make the nations free and keep them free.

This is especially true in war time. Righteous wars are waged with truth as much as material weapons. And a world press which uniformly told and upheld the truth would soon create a free world. It is with lies, spread by a slave press and radio, that the Hitler gang has built up its weird, criminal system of life.

There is reason to fear now that it will be harder to combat those Nazi lies than to lick the enemy. But eventually the truth will penetrate German heads, and the ideal expressed by Sumner Welles may prevail. "When this war is over," he says, "the peoples of the earth must never again permit a situation to arise where any people shall be deprived of their inherent right to know the truth."

HO HUM—Month-old Juliet Colman is hardly camera shy as she gives a big yawn for her first photograph with parents. Perhaps daughter of actor and actress Ronald Colman and Benita Hume believes that blase policy is best way of following in footsteps of mama and papa.

CLUCKS GIVE NEW TEACHERS WARM WELCOME

Sept. 15 and Mrs. Cluck entertained the teachers and their families, members of the school board and their families, and a few guests at a watermelon feast on the high school lawn Monday night. About 75 persons were in attendance.

In a few well chosen words Mr. Cluck made them welcome, explaining that he wanted to do something to show his appreciation to both old and new members of the faculty and to encourage social contact among teachers and board members, and that he could think of no better way than by having them meet each other over some nice, cold melons such as only Eastland county could grow.

Benches were arranged as tables and the great pile of melons were sliced by faculty members and passed out to the seated guests. Meanwhile the group introduced themselves to each other and the new teachers were formally presented.

The gathering was very informal and while the children played, the grown-ups chatted together. When all had eaten entirely too much for their health's sake, while still leaving melons uncut, the group dispersed feeling that the time was well spent, and declaring that Mr. and Mrs. Cluck had proven themselves very charming hosts.
