LIFE-LINE OF CHINA—Twisting through jungle, mountains, and rivers, the Stilwell Road, (left) now open for traffic, is the life-giving artery that will carry vital supplies from India through Burma to China. Opening of the important link ends the two and one-half year blockade by the Japanese of the old Burma-Ledo Highway. New road is named in honor of Gen. Joseph W. Stilwell, who planned the 620-mile highway and saw it almost to completion before being recalled from China. U.S. Army engineers and American and Chinese troops battled with nature as well as Japs to clear area. ## Nazis Say Allied Attack on West Front Near LONDON, Feb. 6.—The Berlin radio, in a broadcast to German forces in the field, declared today that Gen. Eisenhower has completed his preparations for a new offensive from the Roer river line and that the capture of Cologne appears to be his first major objective.

The broadcast warned that the zero hour for an all-out Allied attack in the West is near.

Berlin indicated the main blow was expected in the Linnich-Duren area, but reported increasing artillery activity on the British Second front to the north. Nazi commentators speculated that increasing pressure by American forces east of Monschau was designed to pin down German troops and prevent reinforcements from being thrown into the line further north to meet a push there.

GEORGIA BABE KILLED.

BRUNSWICK, Ga., Feb. 6.—A search for Betty Lou Frazier, 2½-year-old Brunswick child missing since Saturday, ended Tuesday as the body of the infant was found in a swamp a mile from her home. Glynn County Coroner J. D. Baldwin said the little girl had been slain.

BIG THREE IN SESSION.

LONDON, Feb. 6.—Sir Walter Sitrine, British trade union leader, announced today that Prime Minister Churchill was meeting with President Roosevelt and Premier Marshal Stalin "at this very moment." It was the first concrete disclosure from Allied quarters that they were in session. Citrine made the statement at the opening session of the British Trades Union congress.

Cisco's Fighting Lindleys Scattered About World

AN AIR SERVICE COMMAND DEPUTY, England.—The fighting Lindleys of Cisco can go into the guidebook business after the war is over.

Serving around the world, the six brothers are probably flooding the home of their parents, Mr. and Mrs. L. M. Lindley, route three, with souvenirs of every size and shape.

Corporal Carl, a specialist in life raft maintenance, is helping save thousands of Allied lives in the air battle of Germany. He's in the air service command in England, and just celebrated a world's record which he and his buddies set here when they overhauled a total of 10,000 life rafts during 1944.

Three of the brothers are in various parts of the South Pacific: Staff Sergeant John, with the signal corps, and Staff Sergeant Elbert and Corporal Charles, with the air corps.

Corporal Benson is with the Second armored division in Germany, and Private First Class Theodore, lucky man, is with the air corps "somewhere in Texas."

JOHN LAUX HONORED.

Twelfth Armored Division, Seventh Army, in France.—Pfc. John F. Laux, husband of Mrs. Estas S. Laux, route one, Cisco, Texas, was among the first in the 12th armored division to receive presidential recognition for the division's arrival overseas. He is a member of the 134th Ordnance Maintenance Battalion which, by direction of the President, has been awarded the Meritorious Service Plaque for the period from January 1, 1944 to November 30, 1944. The battalion won recognition through "a superior performance of duty in performance of exceptionally difficult tasks" and "achievement and maintenance of a high standard of discipline . . ."

1,350 U. S. AND ALLIED PRISONERS FREED IN FINAL CLEANUP OF MANILA; ON TO TOKYO IS CRY

MANILA, Feb. 6.—Three American divisions encircled fanatically resisting Japanese remnants in Manila today, virtually completing the liberation of the Philippines and setting the stage for the next phase of the march "On to Tokyo!"

General MacArthur officially proclaimed the fall of Manila, capital of the Philippines and largest city yet liberated in the Pacific war, and said the motto of his command now was: "On to Tokyo!"

He said the "complete destruction" of the doomed enemy garrison of Manila was imminent and revealed that another 1350 American and Allied war prisoners and civilian internees had been freed yesterday with the capture of ancient Bilibid prison.

Other American forces avenging the bitter defeats of 1942 sealed off Bataan Peninsula and were believed preparing for an early assault on Fort Corregidor in Manila Bay.

"The fall of Manila marks the end of one great phase of the Pacific struggle and set the stage for another," MacArthur said in a statement accompanying his daily report.

"With Australia safe, the Philippines liberated, and the ultimate redemption of the East Indies and Malaya thereby made a certainty, our motto becomes, 'On to Tokyo!'"

(Writing off the eventual loss of Manila, Japanese propagandists heard by the FCC said that the coming of the Americans to Manila was "exactly what our side waited for, and our bleeding tactics will now enter the positive stage."

The Japanese blew up the Quezon and Ayala bridges across the broad Pasig as they fell back into the southern half of Manila for a last stand. Two other bridges remained intact, however, and may have been captured by the Americans.

Japanese demolition squads continued their destructive work in southern Manila, working feverishly against their own imminent destruction. Numerous fires cast a heavy pall of smoke over the city and explosions shook the ground at frequent intervals.

With the 11th Airborne Division's thrust into southern Manila, however, the enemy garrison could be considered "hopelessly trapped," MacArthur said.

The 37th Infantry Division captured Bilibid prison in the northern half of Manila yesterday, releasing more than 800 war prisoners and about 550 additional civilian internees, including women and children.

That brought to more than 3500 the number of allied prisoners rescued in the past week, including those at the Santo Tomas University concentration camp in Manila and the Cabanatuan prison camp in central Luzon.

Bataan peninsula, where the Americans made a bloody stand in 1942 before retiring to Corregidor, was sealed off by a junction of the Eighth Army's 11th Corps and the Sixth Army's 14th Corps at Dinalupihan, 37 miles northwest of Manila.

With American forces in control of all roads, leading into Bataan, the way was blocked for any prolonged Japanese stand on the peninsula.

Continuing to prepare the way for an attack on Corregidor, the largest force yet of Liberators struck the island fort in two raids Saturday. Corregidor must be captured before Manila Bay can be opened to American shipping.

Reds Constantly Edging Closer to Nazi Capital

LONDON, Feb. 6.—The Berlin radio declared today Russian troops had thrown three bridgeheads over the Oder river east of Berlin, and the Nazi high command announced loss of Steinau, 140 miles southeast of the capital, to Soviet troops lashing out in a new offensive in Silesia.

An afternoon broadcast from Berlin said Marshal Zhukov's men had established two more bridgeheads south of Frankfurt in the frontal assault on Berlin. A crossing 35 miles northeast of Berlin in the area northwest of Kustrin was announced earlier.

Berlin said one of the latest crossings was at Furstenberg, on the Oder's west bank 14 miles southeast of Frankfurt and 47 miles southeast of Berlin.

Capt. M'Kissick Former Ciscoan Leaves Bilibid

Mrs. James T. McKissick of Odessa telephoned Mrs. Randolph Lee Clark today that her husband, Capt. James T. McKissick, had cabled her that he was one of the many liberated from Bilibid penitentiary, Manila, and that he was in good health.

Captain McKissick, a dental surgeon in private life, will be remembered by many Ciscoans as having practiced his profession here a number of years ago, soon after he came out of dental school. He was connected with Dr. Charles C. Jones for a time and later practiced in San Angelo and then in Abilene.

His father, Rev. J. T. McKissick, a member of Randolph College faculty here for several years, now resides in Abilene.

WAR WORKERS.

The last weeks have seen a rising tide of argument concerning the advisability of a national service act. The air is full of statements, accusations and counter-accusations. Shipyards X needs 3,000 men; Shipyards Z has two men to every tool; there are too many male waiters left, but the restaurants haven't help enough to feed war-workers, and so on. Across the writer of talk, this week, comes a short dispatch from London which begins:

"The steadily rising power of American fighters, coupled with declining German Air Force reaction to daylight aerial attacks, has enabled the United States Eighth Air Force to reduce the crews of heavy bombers from ten to nine men."

The article goes on to explain that, with not quite so much work for a gunner to do as there used to be, the navigator can take over one waist gun position. The men released, over 2,000 of them, will go to other duties.

Such shifts are not voluntary. But the men know that if the Army says it needs the tenth man more somewhere else, after consideration of all possible angles of risk to lives and equipment, then it's right.

Need of a national service act might not appear now if each industry had considered the needs of the country, the risk to everyone of uneven distribution of labor, and had hired as many as it needed, no more; and if individuals had gone where their skills were most needed, not merely seeking the largest pay check.

OVERDUE VINDICATION.

Yes, 250 years is a long time to wait for a vindication. But perhaps better late than never. In 1692 Ann Greenslade Pudeator and 19 other residents of Salem, Mass., were convicted of witchcraft and hanged. This was in days which historians now call "the period of the witchcraft delusion," when any friendless old woman who offended a neighbor ran the risk of being called a witch and condemned to death. Though widespread abroad, the crusade against witchcraft in America was generally associated with Salem. The town lived to repent its activity, and many of those who took part made public repentance later.

Now steps are being taken to wipe out the legal conviction of Ann Pudeator. H. Vance Greenslit of New Orleans, a descendant, has filed a petition with the Massachusetts legislature to absolve her formally of the crime. The senator who introduced the bill has added five other names, and all who were executed may eventually be included.

It would be proper for Massachusetts, even at this late date, to acknowledge its error. At the same time, writers referring to the Salem witchcraft mania should note that, contrary to the popular notion, the witches were not burned, but hanged. The episode is striking enough without adding picturesque untruths.

OUTSIDE THE PALE.

The Japanese give an imitation of being a first-class power, but there is a good deal of hocus in their performance. They have never been really civilized in the American and European sense of the term, except for a comparatively small group at the top who are not truly representative. Even that group seems, in the present war, to have been at least temporarily submerged again in backward and rather medieval standards.

The war has revealed in them a savagery with which most Americans have not been acquainted before. Obvious examples are to be found only too frequently in American war reports telling of Japanese breaches of the military code which they, like ourselves, are pledged to obey. They have long professed obedience to a code of chivalry roughly comparable to the practure of civilized Europe from the Middle Ages onward. But there seems to be little of that saving quality in the present war, and Americans are led to doubt it ever really existed on a large scale.

The sum of the matter is that at last a misunderstood nation has revealed its real character and with it we can have little in common.

April, 1925 (Files of Cisco Daily News)

Leaving tomorrow morning Rev. and Mrs. A. Arndt will locate in Harlingen, where Mr. Arndt has accepted the pastorate of the Lutheran church. They will go via Waco, where they will visit for some time, and also stop in Houston enroute. Coming here fresh from college, Mr. Arndt bulid well in his ministry of Grace Lutheran church, which is now a flourishing mission. After a residence here of about a year, he was married, and to the parsonage came a mistress who has been an able assistant to her husband in his pastoral duties. Many friends, both in and out of his congregation, regret to see this minister and his estimable wife leave Cisco, but they carry the best wishes of all with them to their new home.

Mrs. Carl Patton was hostess to the Wednesday Bridge club Wednesday afternoon. An unusual feature of the party was the placing of a large grab-box holding a variety of small gifts, in the center of the table. Those who made a grand or little slam in the game of bridge were allowed to draw their prizes from this. Refreshments were served to Messrs. Frank Harrell, L. A. Harrison, H. S. Drumwright, Alex Spears, Guy Dabney, Fleet Shepard, E. L. Graham, Oscar Cliett, Minter Womack, Homer McDonald, Ray Vaughan, R. H. Hope of Fort Worth and J. H. Brice.

The heirs of Quinton Booth were located in Eastland county through a story in the Daily News of March 10. March 9 there was a notice of the marriage of E. E. Booth of Bluff Branch and Mrs. Edith Richardson of Cisco. The next day a story was published in the News from a party in Georgia wanting information of the heirs of Quinton Booth, who came to Eastland county soon after the civil war and settled near Rising Star. This story came to the attention of the newly married man, who is a son of Quinton Booth. He got in communication with the persons in Georgia and later with other relatives. The result of this correspondence is that heirs are wanted for an undivided estate, the exact financial value of which has not been determined. However, according to the information given the Daily News, two uncles of E. E. Booth have recently died in California, leaving no direct issue, but an estate of some value. The Bluff Branch heir is now investigating the matter, with hopes of a nice little inheritance coming his way.

High School Gusher: Cisco Hi is usually considered a place of good will and happy atmosphere—except, of course, for a few lickings and some hard lessons; but last Friday, the air seemed a bit gloomy, because of a funeral. The funeral procession started about 11 o'clock, with Edward Lee, Buster Mitchell, Ed Browne and James Shepherd as pallbearers. Following these, came the long procession which marched slowly out through the back door with pick, shovel, and bowed heads, weeping the while for their deceased friend. After preparing an abode for the departed soul, the ceremony was opened with the appropriate song "Farewell to Thee." The coffin was then lowered amid much lamentation and tears. The grave was then filled with the dust that the ruined body would some day become a part of. Offerings of beautiful crushed rocks, bright, shiny tin cans, leaves, glass of various colors, and little flowers were placed upon the grave, while the mourners carried on their duty well. After some discussion as to which was head and which was foot, the tombstones were erected in memory of him who had passed. Some were so true to this friend that they had to be torn from the grave; after which, encouraged by the voice of Principal George Wells, they marched slowly and tearfully into the house. All will miss the happy smile and joyful attitude toward life that was found in the little cat that the biology class killed, operated upon and then buried.

It took a week of Father's wages

But it wasn't so extravagant as it seemed. Hats were bigger then—and also fewer. Mother's hand-made mauve velour was good for several seasons.

Today, Mother's hat bills may total as much or more than the price of that quaint old velour. But she gets many more hats for her money.

It's much the same with electric bills. If yours seem about the same as they did years ago, it's because you are enjoying so many more electric conveniences now. And you're getting far more electricity for your money than you ever did before—about twice as much today as you did 15 years ago.

Not only has the price of electricity come down steadily through the years, but it has stayed down while war sent other costs climbing.

Hard work and good business management by your friends in this company will continue to make electricity dependable, cheap—one of the big bargains of all time.
