He blamed the National Labor Relations Act for causing most of the labor trouble he bitterly complained of and climaxed his remarks by introducing a bill repealing the act. The Labor Relations Board he charged with partisanship for the unions and against the employers.

Senator and Mrs. O'Daniel planned to leave Thursday by automobile for Texas, where he will make a tour of the state to report to the people on what he terms the skullduggery going on in Washington.

O'Daniel complained that although he has advocated legislation ever since he became a member that would be fair to laboring people, employers and the public, to constructive action has been taken.

He said he has never seen labor relations in worse shape and that organized gangster leaders of labor seem to have no longer ally fear of the federal government's power itself; that they seem to feel they are more powerful than the government and therefore are proceeding along the most radical lines.

> He stated he believed the war with Japan will be over at least by the time the recess ends Oct. 8 or soon after that.

He sees conflict coming over seniority rights between working men who went to war and those who remained home and said unless congress takes a strong, deiinite and prompt action to settle this explosive labor question of seniority versus service, it will explode with dangerous results. He told how returning veterans will react to what they find occurred while they were away.

theze days, it is easy to think vita-mins are the most important food value. They are of very great value, it is true, but good nutrition rests on a four - square foundation - of calories or energy value, protein or tissue builders, minerals for both bones and tissues, and vitamins. You and your baby need all four of these values. Milk supplies practically all of the four fundamentals in adequate amounts for the first few weeks. The first addition is cod liver oil or other form of Vitamin D. The second is orange juice for its Vita-min C. Both of these are started before the end of the first month, usually at two weeks of age. The next supplement is a special baby cereal. These cereals furnish energy and are fortified or enriched with the vitamin's of the B-group and with iron. Milk is not rich enough in thèse two nutritive values to be satisfactory for longer than three or four months, so a tables and fruits are added gradually during the first year, partly because they supply needed vita-mins and minerals but also partly for the experience they give the baby in learning to eat foods other than liquids.
