THINK OR DIE.

We Americans are good fighters all right. By winning a war we have proven that we can fight our way out of a difficulty. But now, with the atom bomb and other marvels of science, we are confronted with another and even greater difficulty: how to prevent another war which, if and when it comes, will probably blow most of us to kingdom come.

We can't fight our way out of this difficulty; we have to THINK OUR WAY OUT, and the next few years will show whether we are as good thinkers as we are fighters. A group of eminent citizens recently met in New Hampshire and issued a declaration that the only way out is world government — a world government with the power to make laws and force obedience to them by everyone everywhere.

The ideas advanced SOUNDED FAIRLY GOOD, but most Americans are unwilling to admit the necessity of such a world government. First, because we are quite nationally attached emotionally to our own national sovereign state above all others. Second, because to THINK ourselves into the idea of a world government represents probably the most difficult mental advance the human race has ever been asked to make.

It is no belittlement of the heroes of the battlefields to say that in a way it is harder to think than it is to fight. Most of them would understand that and agree to it. They had to fight or die. Now all of us, the heroes included, must either think or die.

The title that only gives the owner possession rights may be sufficient if he never expects to sell or encumber, but a good record title is much better and protects against future costs and possible frauds. ## THANKSGIVING

Again we come with grateful hearts to that day of the year dedicated by Americans as a time of thanksgiving for the blessings received in the past year.

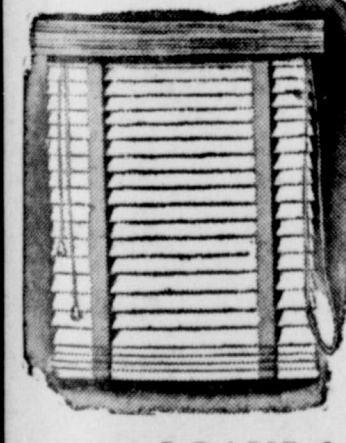

But today Thanksgiving calls upon us to do more than offer our prayers of gratitude!

In giving thanks for the plentitude of our land, we are called upon to resolve anew to cherish our freedom. We must continually guard the security of our nation.

It also calls upon us to share of our material blessings with the less fortunate human beings across the seas, in so far as possible.

Let us show our faith in America and our thanks for her abundance of blessings by buying more Victory Bonds and by our contributions to the Community War Chest Fund.
