Krug, Lewis Negotiating Federal-Union Contract

CISCO PLANS ALL-SUMMER CLEAN-UP

WAGE WISDOM

Wages rose and prices fell during the ten years just before World War II when working men were able, through collective bargaining, to influence the operations of private enterprise without political interference. Workers earned more dollars per working day and each dollar took on more buying power as time went on. It was a two-way improvement.

"The actual buying power of one hour's work (straight time) rose at the rate of more than 4 per cent each year, or over 40 per cent for the entire ten-year period," says Labor's Monthly Survey, issued in May by the American Federation of Labor. "This was possible because production per man-hour increased steadily, creating the wealth to pay higher wages."

War Changed Things

So long as men, money and machinery were busy making things to eat, wear and use for better living, it turned out as planned; but when labor and tools, by necessity, had to swing into the manufacture of munitions and instruments of destruction, better living ceased. Wages increased, to be sure. So did profits. But what could we buy?

Once more let the AFL survey answer: "Every hard-won nickle of wage gain was offset by a price rise which cancelled it and workers' actual buying power per hour of work, as measured by real wage rates, did not increase at all." These statements are supported by government figures made available through the department of Labor. Moreover the AFL analyst's logic is perfectly sound.

Holding Prices Down

The labor bulletin contained no carping against government, nor against the artificial restraints it set up to keep a fictitious economy from getting out of control. On the other hand it says plainly that under wholesome business conditions "wage increases are paid for by rising productivity." Thus with mass production and volume sales "the wage rises are all clear gain."

"Our first task is to increase production of consumer goods so that supply will be enough to meet demand, and competition again will keep prices down; that increasing productivity will create the income to pay further wage increases." Anything I might say about that doctrine would be simply gilding the lily. It is the plain truth and a credit to any philosophy.

Cur Restraints

At the present, conditions are far from wholesome. The government's new artificial wage controls, born of political expedience, create higher wages with one hand and snatch them away with the other in the form of higher prices. In a government-fouled economy, it is small wonder that farmers and business men alike, line up for help at the door of Uncle Sam's "fix-it" department.

The Office of Price Administration is getting as much criticism as it deserves now perhaps. My comments are brief: Private enterprise needs freedom if it is to operate by the law of supply and demand, and in some fields, supply will meet demand much sooner if regulations are lifted. The OPA has done some good work and well deserves a dignified funeral, SOON.

By United Press

The federal government took last-minute steps today to avert a crippling rail strike and to provide a contract that would bring back to their jobs thousands of coal miners who stayed home after the United States seized the mines.

Interior Secretary J. A. King, boss of the mines under government seizure, and John L. Lewis, boss of the United Mine Workers AFL, opened negotiations on a government-union soft coal contract.

The note of urgency was present here also, for a two weeks truce in the coal strike expires Saturday.

While the rail workers were at their jobs, reports from major coal fields showed an increasing number of miners absent from theirs. The Krug-Lewis negotiations considered among other things a welfare fund for the miners, a cardinal point in Lewis' demands.

Confers With President

President Truman today called in railroad union and management representatives in another attempt to settle their disputes before the five-day strike truce expires at 3 p. m. tomorrow.

He arranged three separate conferences. The first was scheduled at 3:30 p. m. CST with leaders of the trainmen and engineers, the two brotherhoods that threaten to strike tomorrow.

Then he will see representatives of the other three operating brotherhoods and spokesmen for 15 non-operating brotherhoods. And, finally, he will meet separately with management representatives.

White House Press Secretary Charles G. Ross said the president called the conference "to bring them together and effect a settlement if possible."

Ross was asked whether Mr. Truman would submit any settlement proposal or suggested formula. He declined comment, saying he did not know.

Earlier, a high union source had said he expected Mr. Truman to make a final wage proposal today in an effort to avert tomorrow's strike.

Russ Paper Says U. S. is Bombing Chinese Reds

MOSCOW, May 22. — Pravda Communist organ said today in a dispatch from Vladivostok that American airmen tying American planes were fighting in Manchuria on the side of the Kuomintang (Central Government) troop. The dispatch said 7 American planes had been shot down after bombing the Chinese Communist army.

"There has been no indication, recently from China or any American-piloted planes operating over Manchuria except as transports for American observers or peace teams of American Chinese government and Communist members. U. S. Army and Marine generals in China have denied repeatedly that American pilots were flying anything but peaceful missions."

The Pravda dispatch, dated May 18, was headlined "American Bombers and Fliers in Personnel of Kuomintang Army."

PUBLIC LOOKS TO CONGRESS.

Perhaps the most charitable thing that head-headed citizens can say about the railroads and coal mine strikes is that they are crazy. They don't make sense in any language or logic. They injure the great American public and maintain it without interrupting the way to start reconstruction and determination, and find the intelligent way to start reconstruction.

There is nothing of a legitimate nature that the strikers cannot try to solve either labor or management, with its acrobatic, in addition to the boys from the Junior College who rode in it were I. J. Lombard. Al Coats and Mr. W. Harris of Hasting Star and the silver Fairchild is owned by W. W. Harris of Hasting Star and was being piloted Sunday by W. C. Hogue for his first ride. In addition to the people from Cisco we recognized some from Mr. Frazier.

It demands little imagination to honor the history that has ever before in its long and probably come nearer anarchy in these last days our nation has by which nations live. Force by a fascist government, to such a situation would be lawful to continue or resumption of right to do the only answer of No man or group of men has a right to give it steadfast support. No man or group of men has a right to give it steadfast support. No man or group of men has a right to give it steadfast support.

CISCO PLANS ALL-SUMMER CLEAN-UP

Cisco chamber of commerce directors voted last night — in order to improve local health conditions and the general appearance of the city — to join with the city government and the Junior chamber of commerce in a city-wide health and cleanup program.

Purpose of the movement, general plans for which will be completed within a few days, is to forestall and remove all possible causes for epidemics of any nature during the summer.

Mayor Edward Lee was present and reported that the city has received new street-cleaning equipment and also that the city can secure additional trucks to move all waste material out during what is planned to be an all-summer cleanup.

Particular attention, it is stated, will be devoted to eliminating sparrows and insects.

All citizens are requested and will be expected to join in this necessary health movement.

Plant Fiery Cross on Campus of California University

WAGE WISDOM

Wages rose and prices fell during the ten years just before World War II when working men were able, through collective bargaining, to influence the operations of private enterprise without political interference. Workers earned more dollars per working day and each dollar took on more buying power as time went on. It was a two-way improvement.

"The actual buying power of one hour's work (straight time) rose at the rate of more than 4 per cent each year, or over 40 per cent for the entire ten-year period," says Labor's Monthly Survey, issued in May by the American Federation of Labor. "This was possible because production per man-hour increased steadily, creating the wealth to pay higher wages."

War: Changed Things

So long as men, money and machinery were busy making things to eat, wear and use for better living, it turned out as planned; better living resulted. But when capital, labor and tools, by necessity, had to swing into the manufacture of munitions and instruments of destruction, better living ceased. Wages increased, to be sure. So did profits. But what could we buy?

Once more let the AFL survey answer: "Every hard-won nickle of wage gain was offset by a price rise which cancelled it and workers' actual buying power per hour of work, as measured by real wage rates, did not increase at all." These statements are supported by government figures made available through the department of Labor. Moreover the AFL analyst's logic is perfectly sound.

Holding Prices Down

The labor bulletin contained no carping against government, nor against the artificial restraints it set up to keep a fictitious economy from getting out of control. On the other hand it says plainly that under wholesome business conditions "wage increases are paid for by rising productivity." Thus with mass production and volume sales "the wage rises are all clear gain."

"Our first task is to increase production of consumer goods so that supply will be enough to meet demand, and competition again will keep prices down, so that increasing productivity will create the income to pay further wage increases." Anything I might say about that doctrine would be simply gilding the lily. It is the plain truth and a credit to any philosophy.

Cur Restraints

At the present, conditions are far from wholesome. The government's new artificial wage controls, born of political expedience, create higher wages with one hand and snatch them away with the other in the form of higher prices. In a government-fouled economy, it is small wonder that farmers and business men alike, line up for help at the door of Uncle Sam's "fix-it" department. The Office of Price Administration is getting as much criticism as it deserves now perhaps. My comments are brief: Private enterprise needs freedom if it is to operate by the law of supply and demand, and in some fields, supply will meet demand much sooner if regulations are lifted. The OPA has done some good work and well deserves a dignified funeral, SOON.

By United Press

The federal government took last-minute steps today to avert a crippling rail strike and to provide a contract that would bring back to their jobs thousands of coal miners who stayed home after the United States seized the mines.

Interior Secretary J. A. King, boss of the mines under government seizure, and John L. Lewis, boss of the United Mine Workers AFL, opened negotiations on a government-union soft coal contract.

The note of urgency was present here also, for a two weeks truce in the coal strike expires Saturday.

While the rail workers were at their jobs, reports from major coal fields showed an increasing number of miners absent from their. The Krug-Lewis negotiations considered among other things a welfare fund for the miners, a cardinal point in Lewis' demands.

Confer With President

President Truman today called in railroad union and management representatives in another attempt to settle their disputes before the five-day strike truce expires at 4 p. m. tomorrow.

He arranged three separate conferences. The first was scheduled at 3:30 p. m. CST with leaders of the trainmen and engineers, the two brotherhoods that threaten to strike tomorrow.

Then he will see representatives of the other three operating brotherhoods and spokesmen for 15 non-operating brotherhoods. And, finally, he will meet separately with management representatives.

White House Press Secretary Charles G. Ross said the president called the conference "to bring them together and effect a settlement if possible."

Ross was asked whether Mr. Truman would submit any settlement proposal or suggested formula. He declined comment, saying he did not know.

Earlier, a high union source had said he expected Mr. Truman to make a final wage proposal today in an effort to avert tomorrow's strike.

Polio Spreads; No Graduation Exercises at Santone

SAN ANTONIO, May 22 (AP)—San Antonio area schools will remain closed and there will be no graduation exercises, it was announced today as two new positive polio cases were reported in this disease-smitten city.

Previously listed as suspects, the new patients are a five-year-old boy living near Fort Sam Houston and a seven-year-old girl living on San Antonio's west side.

As the number of cases of polio and encephalitis mounted to more than one-a-day this month — 20 since May 1 — San Antonio's health board chairman, Dr. P. I. Nixon, warned that the present warm, sticky weather is ideal for insect breeding.

Russ Paper Says U. S. is Bombing Chinese Reds

MOSCOW, May 22.—Pravda Communist organ said today in a dispatch from Vladivostok that American airmen flying American planes were fighting in Manchuria on the side of the Kuomintang (Central Government) troops. The dispatch said 7 American planes had been shot down after bombing the Chinese Communist army.

(There has been no indication recently from China of any American-piloted planes operating over Manchuria except as transports for American observers or peace teams of American Chinese government and Communist members. U. S. Army and Marine generals in China have denied repeatedly that American pilots were flying anything but peaceful missions.)

The Pravda dispatch, dated May 18, was headlined "American Bombers and Flyers in Personnel of Kuomintang Army."

Pravda reported that after the Red withdrawal by May 3 from Manchuria, fierce fighting broke out between the Kuomintang army and the Chinese Reds.
