The present population of Hereford, according to the 1920 census, is 1,896. In 1910 Hereford had a population of 1,750, a decrease of 54 people.

The Beacon is in receipt of Volume 1, Number 1, of the Wheeler County News-Review, by D. Merriman lately connected with the Floydada Hesperian. The Beacon wishes Mr. Merriman success in his newspaper undertaking.

The State Democratic Convention at Fort Worth last week ignored completely Neff's land plank. There was no mention made of it in the platform as adopted. A graduated land plank is unpopular in this State.

Governor Cox says that prohibition is a dead issue. If he had been in Texas during the recent primaries he would have concluded that it was a lively issue in the Lone Star State.

A lie is a lie and "bull" is the expansion of the truth, according to the statement of the assistant Republican campaign treasurer, Harry M. Blair. A great many people deal in bullish conversation in this country.

At Nashville, Tenn., a farmer sold a load of melons, and one special melon was for a certain person, but was sold through mistake. On failure to get the melon from the party buying the intended owner offered to buy the entire load, and the wagon and team thrown in, provided this special melon was included. On investigation by prohibition officers it was found that this special melon contained a quart of moonshine inside. All kinds of schemes are resorted to to beat the prohibition enforcement law. They usually get caught up with.

There is a forecast of another special session of the Texas Legislature. Two questions will be submitted, viz woman's suffrage and the Galveston strike situation. We believe both matters could wait till next January. There has been too many special sessions in Texas. It cost the people lots of money to convene the Legislature every time a prominent question arises. The governor has all the authority he needs to handle the Galveston situation. The people are behind him if he continues martial law in Galveston another year.

The Congressional investigation of campaign expenses and contributions in the Presidential race has taken on the nature of a scandal. It is just about proven that the Democrats themselves have resorted to questionable methods in raising its funds. Witnesses appeared from South Dakota, and testified that girls working in the Revenue collector's office were assessed $40 each for campaign expenses. Let the politician without guilt cast the first stone.

Answering the charge that Republican party is responsible for the agitation for a division of Texas. Editor Loomis of the Canadian Record, and candidate for Congress on the Republican ticket, says: "As to the Republican party having any designs on dividing Texas, this is pure buncombe. The Republican party will be the last organization in the U. S. A. to urge the division of Texas. The subject of a division came up casually in a group of congressmen in Washington, D. C., and Champ Clark of Missouri remarked that when Texas took a notion to divide itself she would have ten senators in congress instead of two. 'Uncle Joe' Cannon took up the conversation, saying: 'Yes, Champ is right about that aggregation of senators Texas can flood us with any time she pleases, but I hope that will never happen, because I know every mother's son of them will be Democrats.'"

Reports from 57 per cent of the cultivated lands of Texas planted to cotton places the cost of production at 46 cents per pound, according to figures compiled by the State Department of Agriculture. The price recommending committee, appointed by the Commissioner of Agriculture, who compiled the above figures, recommend that a price of 48 cents per pound be fixed for Texas cotton this fall, and 50 cents per pound for the better grades. The Beacon propounds this question: How in the Sam Hill is this price fixing committee or the farmers to enforce this price fixing decree? Can the farmers eat their cotton, can they feed it to their cattle and hogs, can they hold it off the market indefinitely or until their is a greater under production of cotton thereby creating a greater demand? The Beacon holds to the idea that nothing permanent in way of benefits can come to the farmer through this scheme of price fixing and holding cotton. We do not doubt but that the Department of Agriculture figures are correct, and that it has cost the farmer 46 cents per pound to raise this year's cotton crop. But our plan is to build more cotton mills. We have started at the wrong end to regulate the price of cotton.

In the November election there will be voted on a constitutional amendment removing the limit of taxation for school purposes. The constitutional limit as now fixed is 50 cents on the $100 valuation. The new amendment proposes to take this limit off, and allow independent districts to vote a tax rate as high as they may wish and their financial circumstances demand. The amendment is endorsed by the Texas Teachers Association, and a vigorous fight is being made for its adoption. The Beacon endorses the amendment. We see no reason why the limit should not be taken off. The matter of voting school tax is left to the people of the various independent districts, and if the people want to vote a greater tax than 50 cents on the $100 valuation they should be allowed to do so.

The Floydada Hesperian states that an ice factory will be put in operation in that city next winter. There has been an ice factory operating in Panhandle every winter since we have been a resident of the town, and the output has been ample for the summer's supply for this community if it had only been properly stored away.—Panhandle Herald.

The trouble, Lee, with your Panhandle ice factory it operates at the wrong season of the year. If you can change the time of its operation you can make more money in the ice business than you can in the newspaper game, or going to the Legislature. As it is it is not profitable or pleasant of being the ice man during our Panhandle winters.

David Lawrence, international political writer, is traveling in the Western States, and sizing up the Presidential situation. When he finishes in the West he will go to other sections of the country. He says that through his quiet detective work he will be able to forecast who will be president when he gets through. He is now trailing Cox through the Middle West. He will not have to do much trailing of Harding. All he will have to do will be to take a seat on his front steps. Harding makes the people come to him instead of him going to the people.

It is said that more Texans have taken their vacations in automobiles this year than in the history of motor driven conveniences. The automobile has become quite a convenience both as to pleasure and business. A trip in one's car beats a crowded train and the necessary delay of train travel.

Long life and low upkeep expense are two outstanding features of the Rumely OilPull.

Many of the first OilPulls built, over eleven years ago, are still working as satisfactorily and economically as when new. "Old Number One," the first OilPull, has cost its owner but $200 for repairs in eleven years.

The OilPull is built in four sizes—12-60, 16-30, 20-40 and 30-60 H. P.

Wonder what the West Texas people now think about their West Texas A. & M. College. The matter was up before the recent democratic convention and was defeated by strictly a partisan vote. West Texas has about as much chance to get an A. & M. College as a snow ball in hades. We are doubtful if the next Legislature will respect the wishes of the party as expressed at the Fort Worth convention in reference to redistricting. If East, Central, South Texas politicians can figure out an advantage over this section in keeping the district boundaries like they are we will not get any redistricting. Back to the original subject, the West Texas A. & M. College will never be built with the consent of the sections of Texas which is opposed to the growth and development of the West. Perhaps you will state that it was created one time. Well, sure it was, but how was this brought about. It was accomplished through trades with East Texas, who received a number of new educational institutions in return for their support of the West Texas A. & M. project. East Texas got their institutions and West Texas got what the little boy shot at. One of the first acts of Will Hobby's administration was to kill the West Texas A. & M. law, or repeal the law creating it. Was that a square deal for West Texas? Did East Texas carry out her legislative promises to West Texas. Nix, West Texas was betrayed in this transaction, like she will be in every other transaction for the good of West Texas. We have but one course left us, and that is to continue to agitate a division of Texas, and some day carve us a state of our own out of Texas. We know this division of Texas is an unpopular issue as far as State politics is concerned. Lynch Davidson defeated Lieutenant Governor Johnson because he had advocated a division of Texas. Regardless of the results let us continue to agitate a division of the State. We will never get a square deal any other way.

With the biggest roe crop the Panhandle ever experienced, and it raining almost daily to put the moisture foundation in for starting another wheat crop, we can well expect another prosperous year for the Panhandle. Panhandle land has not yet come to its true value. A common remark regarding whiskey is that it was always too cheap and always was worth $10 per quart, and so it is with Panhandle land. It has always been worth $200 per acre and is now only at about one-fourth its value.—Miami Chief.

There is no question about the abundance of rain this summer. In fact we have had too much of it. The question of future wheat acreage depends on the ability of the farmers of the Plains to prepare their land for sowing. For the past two months the continuous rains have retarded land preparation, and as a result we see very little land prepared at this season of the year. By reason of the rains we will see more late wheat put in this year than usual. There will be more wheat sowed in November and December than in October. The wheat sowing season should begin by the 10th of October, but comparative little ground will be ready by that date.

Sufferagists scored a final victory last Saturday when Secretary of State Colby announced that he will stand pat on his proclamation of August 26th, that the suffrage amendment was legally ratified and is now a part of the Constitution of the United States. In commenting on the matter, Secretary Colby says: "The Federal constitution empowers State Legislatures to act upon proposed amendments, either to approve or reject them. It does not empower a Legislature to change its mind and reverse itself after it has acted on an amendment. The Legislature cannot claim the right to make such a reversal under its own rules for the reason that its only power in dealing with an amendment is conferred by the Federal Constitution itself, which is either to accept or reject. Once it accepts, such action is irrevocable."

There is a new process, so they say whereby a hide can be tanned in twenty-four hours, but it doesn't sound so new to those of us who remember when they would tan our hide in about thirty-seven seconds.—Colorado Record

In editing our exchanges this week we read the above squib, word for word in another exchange. It is passing strange that two newspaper men should write the same comment, during the same week and one living on the T. & P. railroad and the other on the Fort Worth & Denver. Can it be possible that these two editors are using pot-metal editorials, brain jewels prepared in some far away city?

We hardly ever see as many weeds as our beautiful little town affords at present. The extremely hot summer makes them grow, and looks also as though it makes the property owners too lazy to cut them.—Miami Chief.

When you speak of weeds you hit us a jolt. We have so many weeds this summer that you can't see the town until you get right onto it. The situation at Miami and Lockney is the situation all over the Plains and Panhandle country. The weeds have taken our towns. We all need to do some shaking.

A fifty acre plot of ground on the King Ranch in the Corpus Christi country grew this year 64 bales of cotton. The coast country seems to be the only section of Texas that has profited in raising cotton this year. Excessive rain in a number of Texas counties, in fact the entire State with the exception of the Southwest Coast country, have suffered greatly as the result of too much rain.

Governor Cox says he would send the G. O. P. leaders to the penitentiary if he could dispose of Senator Harding in this manner it would beat the expense and worry of a race before the people. We have often remarked that there were men in the pen that ought to be out and men out that ought to be in. This holds good in reference to politicians.

A hearing has been called by the State Fire Insurance Commission to determine whether the insurance rates in Texas should not be reduced. The Commission claims that the insurance companies in Texas cleaned up 7 million dollars last year. It ought to be taken as a basis of their earning for the past number of years. Perhaps the risks have been reduced in Texas. A few years ago the great Paris conflagration almost put the insurance companies out of business in Texas. We do not know whether seven million dol-

George B. Terrell, the newly nominated Commissioner of Agriculture, will recommend to the next Legislature that a commission be appointed to regulate the price of cotton. Mr. Terrell does not say how he expects this commission to fix the price of cotton, or enforce its decrees. This is some more of the old theory that the price of cotton can be controlled by hoarding and holding it off the market. No efforts are being made to increase the mill demand for Texas cotton. It is impossible to regulate the price of cotton by methods of warehousing, when the law of supply and demand governs same. When we mention the law of supply and demand in connection to cotton price fixing we mean mill demand. There is an increase demand for cotton goods, but no increase mill capacity to furnish this demand. When the South gets away from this theory that it can control the price of cotton by holding same off the market and turn its attention towards milling cotton then they will have found a permanent solution for the fixing of the price of cotton. You might as well undertake to make water run up-hill as to undertake to fix the price of cotton by holding it off the market. Speculators can control the price of cotton in warehouses as easily as they can when it is stored on the farms. Cotton is one article that can not be used in the raw state. The farmer has no use for his cotton except to sell it. Not so with corn, maize, wheat and other grains. These crops can be fed to stock, cattle, hogs, etc., and sold on the hoof. Speculators can not control the price of grain like they can cotton for the above cited reasons. With cotton the farmer can not eat it nor feed it. He can't make it into cloth, and the only earthly use he has for it is to sell same to the mills. Our plan is to build more cotton mills and build them in the South. Increase the mill capacity, and thereby increase the demand. This increase demand will prove a permanent solution for the price of cotton.

Lee J. Roundtree, editor of the Bryan Eagle, shrieks in ghoulish glee over the defeat of Joseph Weldon Bailey, giving as his reason that Bailey was in favor of a West Texas A. & M. College. And of Lieutenant Governor Johnson for the reason that Johnson once introduced a bill in the legislature to divide Texas into two states.—Canadian Record.

The trouble with West Texas they won't stick together. We had an opportunity to land Thomason of El Paso governor of Texas, but West Texas voters were so divided that the El Paso man got knocked out on the first ballot. West Texas needs to vote solid as one man in all elections for governor. The other sections of Texas hate the idea of Texas being divided. In order to hide the real designs they have on West Texas they bring forward the old story of the Alamo, and let sentiment sweep people off their feet. Their true designs on West Texas is to take their tax money and give them nothing in

COURTS OF DOMESTIC RELATIONS ARE URGED

Washington, Sept. 14.—Establishment of family courts to deal with matters concerning the home was urged by Edward J. Dooley, presiding justice of the Brooklyn, N. Y., court of domestic relations, in an address today at the sixth biennial session of the National Conference of Catholic Charities.

Such a court, Judge Dooley declared, would serve as "a sheet anchor to society." The court should, he added, "protect and enforce the right of abandoned and neglected wives, children, parents and grand-parents. It should safeguard the home and execute with vigor the material, parental, moral and legal obligations imposed upon man in his relation to the family."

RUNAWAY CAR BURNS UP IN CANYON SOUTH OF TOWN

While out hunting Friday afternoon, Duke Connally left his Stutz touring car on the side hill near a

All that now remains of the artistic product of the car producer's skill is a frame and one wheel. We understand that some four thousand insurance will help to relieve the loss.—Clarendon News.

HIWAY GARAGE

W. J. and Fred Griffith

A man spent Friday and Saturday last in Floydada house-sitting. He wanted to live here and in the course of a few months establish a business. He finally gave up the job as a bad one, and left for some other point which could afford him a better reception. Another family left the county the first of the week to seek a town where a home would be available while the children within the scholastic age could attend school. Another family is being left at another town because no home is available in Floydada, while the father works in Floydada and boards. These are instances that come to mind without investigation. Perhaps some real tales could be told about the housing situation in Floydada. Six or eight new homes are going up here now but no homes are available at all, it seems, to the man who, because of the nature of his business or the lack of money, cannot move to Floydada. That is not the way cities are made of towns.—Floydada Hesperian.

The situation at Floydada is the situation in Lockney and throughout the Plains and Panhandle country. People are seeking homes, but can't find them. They come, look around and go away, thinking they will find the situation better in some other Plains town. But they will find the question of housing acute wherever they go. All of which causes us to remark: Where are all these people coming from? Perhaps it is the breaking up of North and Central Texas, and a home-seekers rush to the West. Every body wants to come West that can get here, and they are coming so fast that there is no enough land to go around, and not enough houses to hold them. This situation must be indeed distressing to newspaper men of North Texas. Some of those publishers would rather see their people sell out and move to Old Mexico than to West Texas.

LUBBOCK COUNTY HAS ONLY ONE PRISONER

For the first time in several months the Lubbock jail is almost deserted. One young man fined for a car theft in the amount of only a few dollars is spending the nights in jail and cutting weeds on an eight hour basis in the day time. The jail is also inhabited with one of Crosby county's prisoners, Sam Gates who will be held here indefinitely we presume.—Lubbock Avalanche.

About $40,000 has been subscribed to the stock of the Farmers' elevator company. The soliciting committees are optimistic, and believe the full amount will soon be raised. The company proposes to erect a large modern concrete grain elevator in Plainview. Another meeting will be held at the court house Saturday afternoon.—Plainview News.

PETERSBURG PREPARING TO GATHER LARGE CROP

Petersburg, Texas, Sept. 3.—Petersburg, a thriving little town in the east part of Hale county, is getting ready to pick and gin the big cotton crop raised here this year. Petersburg now has two gins and the prospects are that they will both be kept running night and day when the picking begins, the last part of the month. Milo maize, kafir corn and other row crops around Petersburg will make big yields, due to the heavy rains at the right time. Combined harvesters and threshers and other modern farm machinery enabled the Petersburg farmers to get most of the wheat in storage before the rains could damage it.

The Petersburg wheat and cotton farmers expect to take the lion's share of the $1200 offered in these two classes at the Northwest Texas Fair at Plainview late this month.

FEDERAL LAND BANK STRONGER

"The Federal Land Banks are financially stronger today than at any time since their organization, and their net earnings for the month of July—$257,000—were the largest for any month in their history—was the statement made by the Federal Farm Loan Board recently. This statement was prompted by the suggestion that in some quarters an effort was being made to create the impression that pending litigation, which has temporarily suspended the loaning operations.

This earning is fixed and certain regardless of new business. As the total amount of loans now in force is $344,475,700, the extent and stability of this income can readily be seen. The increase in net income for July is explained by the fact that, while the fixed gross income was substantially the same, the several land banks, because of the halting in their loan operations, have reduced their operating expenses, thus increasing the net income. Dividends have been paid and will be paid as usual. Funds are accumulating for payment of November interest, which will be paid promptly. So far as bondholders and stockholders are concerned the banks are functioning normally. Persons wishing to avail themselves of the benefit of the system must, of course, for the time being be disappointed, which is much regretted but cannot be helped. While the banks have reduced their personal and consequently their current expenses, this has not been done to a point that would interfere with the prompt resumption of their loan activities.—Southwestern Plainsman.

ed and all seemed well pleased with their purchases. The "Hustler" will go out several days ahead this time, and it is thought that more interest will be taken.

If the Neosho plan is to prove the success that it should, it is imperative that each merchant who enters it offer a real bargain. The plan will fail flat unless this policy is adhered to strictly. There must be no make-believe, and the committee that censors the ads should have no mercy on the fellow who undertakes to run something over the committee and the buyers. Also, no merchant in the organization should be permitted to cut his price for the day on the same article the other fellow offers. This too will kill the scheme and engender a feeling among the merchants that will be hard to overcome. The Golden Rule must be obeyed to the letter.

There is no reason why each merchant should not offer an article of real value and service at figures right at first cost, plus cost of errand. If the first Wednesday in each month is to be bargain day there must be real bargains. The first step to bring a large trade to Dalhart has been taken and if the plan is well guarded there isn't the least doubt that in the course of a few months buyers will look forward to the bargain sheet with more than ordinary interest.—Dalhart Texan.

KANSAS PAPER SAYS WHEAT GROWERS WILL EXHIBIT HERE

The Wichita (Kansas) Beacon in commenting upon the magnitude of the wheat show to be held at the Northwest Texas Fair in Plainview the last four days of this month and the first day of October states "already several Kansas wheat growers have signified their intention of entering the show."

The fair management has decided that with the very heavy entries which seem assured in the wheat show a special judge or judges will be secured in these classes. Special judges will also judge the cotton show which promises to be unusually large because of the heavy premiums offered.

The case in district court of last week in which John J. Ellerd is seeking a partnership with Reuben M. Ellerd, resulted in a hung jury.—Plainview Herald.

FLOYDADA NEWS BUDGET

Visitors in the Flomot country this week say that one of the biggest rains ever recorded in a twenty-four hour period fell in that section Sunday night and Monday morning. Reports indicate that fully ten inches of rain fell during the down-pour. A few hail strips are also reported, but the damage from hail is not known as yet, if any. Lakes and branches "under the bill" have more water than in a number of years. The rain extended on to the plains a considerable distance.

The lightning storm which accompanied Saturday night's rain did severe damage to the telephone company's property here, sixty-one telephones having been reported out on the local exchange to Monday afternoon. Manager Wood had linemen with him at work on the cables for two or three weeks and their work had just been completed when the storm came. As a result of the lightning the plant department of the exchange will be snowed under with work again for several days.

County Agent W. H. Darrow returned Saturday from College Station where he conferred with officials of the A. & M. Extension service, and was appointed during his visit there to a place as district agent for San Antonio District. Mr. Darrow has accepted the position. His appointment is effective September 1st but he will spend a greater part of his time for the next thirty days completing work undertaken here, which is now unfinished. The San Antonio District comprises 22 counties and has 11 agents, with whom Mr. Darrow will work. His move from county agent to district agent of one of the largest districts in the State in two years after entering the service is considered here as a big jump. He has, however, had A. & M. college training as well as practical farming experience.

"A LITTLE PAIR OF ROMPERS"

The other night we sat by idly watching a mother ironing the weekly wash. A plate of cake was at our elbow, and as we ate we talked. It is not hard to do it either when the eating is good and the company pleasant. The children were fast asleep in their little beds.

And as the mother ironed, she discussed the children. That's the way of mothers. Their love oozes out at their finger ends and all labor is sweet because of the children. Did God see it in the future and make the first mother sew fig leaves because way down the ages her children would be needing clothing? At any rate the making and washing and ironing little garments has been the chief occupation of mothers for so many years that time does not tell when the first garment was made.

How many garments does a child have in the wash each week? Ask a mother. How many little garments are sprinkling down in the clothes basket each week? And how many motions of the iron is made before the basket is empty? Piece after piece is ironed and neatly folded and put away. Some garments have to be mended. Some buttons have to be sewed on.

Dear little chaps sleeping so sweetly, how much work do you make for your mother. But, land sakes alive how very proud she is of her children! They are her life. They are her constant thought, walking or sleeping.

As the mother pulled out the ruffles and patted down the lace, she peeped now and then to where the children slept. Did you ever watch the face of a mother as she looks upon her children as they lay asleep?

God paints the face of a madonna more often than we mere mortals of earth realize.

As the mother ironed the little dresses and rompers and undies of her wee ones she noted the torn, or places, the buttons that were missing and the ever apparent fact that the kid dies wore out many garments and got all dirty and mussed up between the time they were dressed in the morning to the time they were undressed at night. And only mother to do all the washing, ironing and mending.

And the little dresses, so dainty, so short and so frilly or so plain and comfy play day; how many stitches a mother puts in each garment and how soon the child outgrows the biggest of them. And the little rompers. God bless the boy! He just wears out more rompers than his mother can keep ship shape and ready to wear.

A pair of little rompers! A pair of clean rompers how many times a day can you guess?

A little boy at play reckons not at the washing he makes for his mother. And so he is happy and gets all dirty and runs to his mother a million or so a day for kisses or petting or some finger bound up or a piece of bread and butter. And when the boy can not keep his eyes open a minute longer, he condescends to be put to bed for his nap. Bath! Sakes alive, did you ever see a boy who liked to be washed and made clean, even to his ears?

And daddy, even daddy, was a wee boy once.

A little pair of rompers and a little wee dress all folded up with care. Two little heads on a pillow. Two little ones fast asleep. And a mother ironing away, tired, happy, building air castles and wistfully smiling.

Tired and weary, the last garment ironed and folded away, the mother is glad her task is finished, but she still holds in her hand a pair of little rompers as we say goodnight.

Common place work, you say. Monotonous work, and work that keeps one at home most of the time. Yes it grows wearisome at times, and the reward is greatest thing in the world and without it, the world would be a place not pleasant to dwell in and happiness would be unknown. The love of home and her children bring forth the best from the heart of a mother. There is no love like mother's love and no face as sweet as mother's face. Into the mother's care and keeping the wee ones are given and to her they look for all things that are so necessary for their growth in body, mind and spirit. It is the mother who forms the character of her child and she holds its future in her hand. On her slender shoulders rests the burden of the home and though her weary steps may falter, her love never grows cold. All other flowers may fade but the sweetest flower of all, a mother's love is a part of heaven's beauty and can never fade and wither because it is eternal and is God's gift to man.

The home is the foundation upon which nations are builded. Upon the home depends the weal or the woe of the nation. If the mother's heart beats true to her country, all the fows that threaten may well tremble and feel afraid. As the mother gathers her little brood about her and tells them of the flag and their duty to God and native land, she molds their character and shapes the destiny of nations. As the mother bids her sons go fight for liberty and her daughters to nurse the sick and wounded, she gives her life to her country, because her children are her very soul and body. And when she has given her son on the battlefield, she has given her all and the name of mother is wafted to heaven with his spirit as it goes again to the land where love makes heaven.

Little dresses and little rompers, ironed with care and folded away to be worn by wee ones and washed and ironed all over again, you are the fabric of dreams and sweeter by far than the attar of roses. You are the price of love eternal.

The wee ones will soon outgrow the little dresses and rompers and they will be known to memory only, but what is sweeter to the child grown up

VERY DESTRUCTIVE STORM VISITS SILVERTON COUNTRY

A very destructive rain, hail and wind storm visited this section of the Plains last Sunday night, passing west and south of town, carrying destruction in its wake. In places it acted like a cyclone and the heavy hail accompanied it did terrific damage.

It wrenched G. B. Mayfield's large barn from the sills, moving one end of it several feet, notwithstanding it was in the side of a hill seven feet on one side. He had several sheds torn down and the sheds at Rock Creek school house were torn down. The storm passed on in a southeasterly course destroying many crops. Among those hit the worst we have learned of is P. A.

Jones, crops all a total loss except some on the Rountree place; Prentice Richards, crop total loss, windmill torn down, as was also the case with W. T. Roberts; J. R. Steel, heavy crop loss, one mill torn down; J. S. Lightsey heavy crop loss, R. M. Guffy, mill torn down, other losses; the Skeens had heavy crop loss, also Clarence Sheets, R. E. Brookshire, I. M. Mills, D. N. McGavock and others in that community. T. D. Wallace was one of the heaviest losers southeast of town while others there lost heavily. Many of the farmers we have not heard from as to their loss.

P. A. Jones was possibly the heaviest loser and he estimates his loss at not less than $7000. Very little of the losses in this storm was covered by insurance. Many estimate the rainfall at from 10 to 12 inches, and old timers say Rock Creek was higher than before in 30 years.—Silverton Star.
