If you have listened to the self-styled, "Old Scotchman", Gordon McLendon, in any of his numerous television appearances, you have no doubt heard him refer to Senator Yarborough on many occasions as "Smiling Ralph." McLendon, no doubt, is trying to convey the idea to his listeners that the Senator is some sort of an idiot when in fact all that he is doing is exposing the shallow mentality of a vocal screwball. It is a fact that the Senator has a ready smile, and if given the opportunity he has a hearty handclasp for a friend or stranger regardless of their political persuasion. The Senior Senator from Texas is not only possessed of the admirable quality of being able to be friendly as evidenced by his pleasant smile, but he also demonstrated another human emotion, which is probably foreign to McLendon's nature, as evidenced by his compassion when he unashamedly shed tears when President Kennedy was assassinated. It will be a sad day for our nation if the time ever comes when the Congress is composed of men devoid of the emotions that are evidenced by smiles and tears. Senator Yarborough has another fine quality, a quality that has gained the respect of his enemies as well as his friends, and that is courage to bounce back from defeat to fight again and with a smile on his face. He has known both defeat and victory and in either case has accepted the will of the majority with the dignity of a gentleman. Senator Yarborough has all of the attributes of a gentleman and a scholar. He has represented Texas well in the United States Senate and should be given a second full elective term by an overwhelming vote by those whom he is want to address as "Fellow Texans."

The following salute to Senator Ralph Yarborough was penned by a state historian and Texas' First Man of Letters, J. Frank Dobie: "I salute Ralph Yarborough not as a liberal nor as a Conservative. It is not enough that the elected representative of liberal-voting citizens be liberal; it is not enough that the representatives of conservative-citizens be conservative. "While the great Edmund Burke was in a race to be elected from Bristol to the House of Commons, he said, in effect, to the voters: My opponent promises that if elected he will vote according to your will, as you choose. I can only promise to inform myself on issues and to vote as an informed conscience directs." A thoroughly informed conscience is a rarity. "I have known Ralph Yarborough as friend and man for many years. He is perhaps the best read man that Texas has ever sent to Washington. His cultivated and disciplined mind is always seeking information on subjects that government must act upon. Like other individuals, he travels in a certain direction, but his mind is not closed to facts and conditions warranting a change of mind. The power of intellect to weigh knowledge and to judge justly is his. "We are all for gain. I myself should not always promise and vote as Senator Ralph Yarborough has promised and voted, but mark this: The only gain he has ever sought, consistently or inconsistently, has been public gain. He does not try to milk the public for private profit. He seeks the good of people. Not his consideration of humanity provincial minded. "Every man and every woman is judged by his or her sense of values. Whenever the majority of others in any democracy have a high sense of values that country will have become a Utopia. When values of life—values beyond money, values that express civilization enlightenment and justice for the human race come up, we can count on Senator Ralph Yarborough to stand up for those values. "I salute him for his sense of civilized values, for his sense of justice, for his enlightened intellect, for his decency as a human being, and for his integrity."

Dimmitt Elementary P-TA Requests Contributions For School Audiometer

Dimmitt Elementary P-TA met Tuesday in the Junior High auditorium with a concert program presented by the 5th and 6th grade bands.

Parents gave the concert an overwhelming applause, and the music enjoyed by all according to reports.

Following a short business meeting, Mrs. Glenn White, president of P-TA introduced Mrs. Edd McLeroy who has done a tremendous job this year in using the Audiometer for hearing tests in grades one thru six.

Mrs. McLeroy told the group that in Texas about 7 to 8 percent of the people have a hearing loss. This low per cent is credited to our very low humidity.

In the test given to the first six grades in Dimmitt about 960 children were tested. Of this group only 104 children will be rechecked, this is about 10 per cent. This recheck does not necessarily mean there is that much loss of hearing for possibly some of these 104 students were nervous, had a cold or failed to understand what the test concerned. These students will be rechecked again and approximately half of the 104 will receive a note to the parents recommending their child see a doctor declared Mrs. McLeroy.

"The hearing test is conducted on three frequencies, a low, medium and high at 20 decibels," said Mrs. McLeroy. Normal hearing is 2,000 frequency at 20 decibels. Mrs. McLeroy pointed out to the group, "We have found that a few band students that were not doing well in band can be helped. At high frequency they could not hear. After taking this hearing test, the students have been recommended to play a percussion instrument where they can hear all the tones."

A volunteer from the audience was given the hearing test using the Audiometer.

Mrs. McLeroy told the group, "The Audiometer has been valuable to us this year." The testing machine cost the Dimmitt P-TA $300. At the present time, the P-T needs $100 to finish paying for the Audiometer.

The Rev. M. A. Smith, Jr., pastor was in charge of the services. Assisting was Rev. Marvin Tucker of House, N.M. Bur was in Castro Memorial Gardens under direction of Dennis Funeral Home.

Mrs. Gollehon passed away at 8:20 p.m. Thursday, April 16 in Coon's Memorial Home at Dalhart. She was taken to Dalhart following an accident in which she suffered a broken hip.

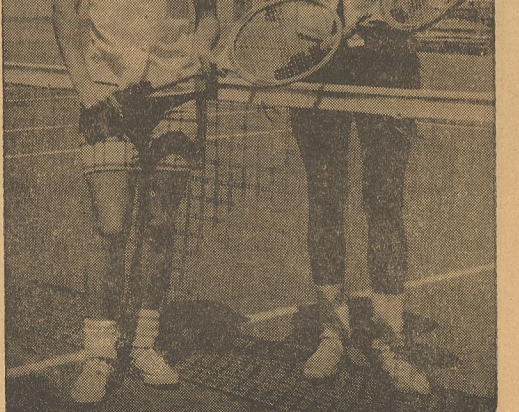

Mrs. Gollehon was born March 5, 1878 in Wise County, Texas. She married Joseph Robert Gollehon May 28, 1899 in Comanche, Oklahoma.

In 1900 they came by covered wagon, driving their herd of cattle, to file on land in Castro County which remained their homestead until 1956 when they moved to Dimmitt.

Mrs. Gollehon joined the Baptist Church soon after their arrival in Texas. The Gollehons were great lovers of music and were very active in all the musical events of the pioneer country.

Mr. Gollehon preceded her in death on May 5, 1958.

Survivors include two sons, Joe of House, N.M. and Noel of Dimmitt; a daughter, Mrs. Ted Wood of Salida, Colorado; six grandchildren and thirteen great grandchildren.

AMMO NOTES

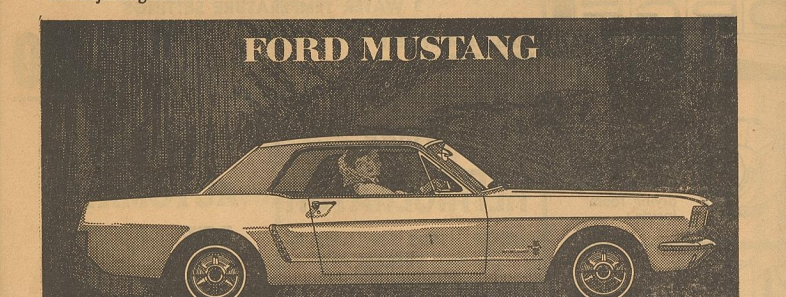

Wm. F. (Bill) Bennett, Agronomist, Western Ammonia Corporation. STILL LOTS TO BE DONE Wheat is jointing. Sugar beets are up. Beds are being watered. A few farmers have started planting grain sorghum and cotton. Soil temperature is pushing 65 degrees. And there is still a lot of fertilizing to be done. I estimate that 70 percent of the fertilizer has already been applied in Castro County. In the Olton area, about 50 per cent of the nitrogen has been applied and a large number still plan to apply phosphorus. About 50 percent of the fertilizer is still to be applied in the Clovis, Friona, Bovina and Hereford areas. Sidedressing of nitrogen will soon be in full swing. Ammonia or any of the sources of nitrogen can be sidedressed in the middle of the furrow or placed to within 4 to 6 inches of the plant. Care should be taken not to get too close to the plants to avoid pruning roots. Since nitrogen will move after it changes to the nitrate form, sidedressing nitrogen in the middles or slightly offset from the middles will do just as much good as placing it close to the plant. Take the usual precaution of covering the chisel mark to be assured of a good application job. Application of phosphorus can still be made. To do the most good, phosphorus should be applied preplant or should be sidedressed when the plant is still young, preferably by the four leaf stage. Phosphorus should be banded as close to the plant as can be done without disturbing the plant or the root system. The usual dual application system on 20 inch centers in the side of the bed can be used to apply phosphorus at this time. Some have sidedressed phosphorus when grain sorghum is knee-high and when cotton begins to square and it has done some good. However, better results will be obtained from phosphorus when it is applied preplant or sidedressed very early. A plant will take up about 40 per cent of the total phosphorus it needs within the first 30 days of growth. Phosphorus is important in developing a good root system.

Youth Drowns In 15 Ft. Water

Ernest Williams, 17 year-old Negro youth, was drowned about 10:30 a.m. Sunday in a sump hole, a pit used to catch run off irrigation water.

Charles Scott, Jr., uncle of the deceased and Alfred Williams, 19, brother of deceased were at the scene of the accident. All the boys were farm labor hands at the Paul Armstrong farm, four miles west and two miles south of Hart.

According to Alfred, his brother Ernest pitched an intertube on the water and a strong wind blew it out of his reach. Ernest jumped into the water trying to retrieve the intertube but failed to grab it and went under. Alfred, standing on the bank, turned quickly and pitched his brother another intertube but Ernest failed to grab hold and kept going under.

The body was recovered from the 15 ft. water about 2:30 p.m. Sunday afternoon.

Bridges pulled out of the station heading south and failed to grant the right-of-way to an approaching car driven by Brown with Golden Spread Homes, Tulia.

HIGHLIGHTS AND SIDELIGHTS FROM STATE CAPITOL

Legislative Council to Study Redistricting

Texas will have ample opportunity to give their views on how the state should be divided into 23 congressional districts of equal population.

A seven-member study group of Texas Legislative Council (research arm of the Legislature) plans to begin extensive hearings over the state soon after the May 2 primaries.

Congressmen and party officers already have been invited to make suggestions as to how districts should be drawn with approximately 416,000 population each.

U. S. Supreme Court has supported a Houston federal court ruling that the districts must be formed to provide "Equal representation for equal numbers of people" as nearly as possible. The Houston court on April 1 agreed that the Legislature should have a chance to do the job in regular session of 1965.

Sen. George Moffett of Chillicothe, senior member of the Legislature in point of service, heads the study committee which will conduct the hearings. Other members are Sen. Abraham Kazen Jr. of Laredo, and Reps. Paul Floyd of Houston, Tommy Shannon of Fort Worth, Wayne Gibbens of Breckenridge, Richard C. Slack of Pecos, and G. F. Mutscher of Brenham.

Gov. John Connally praised Atty. Gen. Waggoner Carr for his representation of the state during the redistricting case. He said work of Carr and his assistants made it possible for the state to "hold our 1964 congressional elections without the requirement of a special session or at-large (Statewide congressional) races."

COURT REFORMS—
U. S. Supreme Court Justice Tom Clark came to Austin for the Texas Conference on Judicial Selection, Tenure and Administration, sponsored by the State Bar of Texas.

Two hundred and fifty lawyers, judges, and laymen talked about how to improve the Texas judicial system.

Court organization and administration, and judicial selection, tenure, retirement, discipline and removal were discussed. Lawyers and judges from a dozen other states where court reforms have been enacted participated.

AGING—
Governor Connally revealed that 1,400 of the 3,500 senile patients in state mental hospitals have been moved to private nursing homes in the last year.

He told his Committee on Aging that this is one method being used to better the lot of older, ill persons. Many have been sent to mental hospitals because there was no place else for them to go. But under the new Federal-state program of paying nursing home cost of the ailing aged, those not really mentally ill can be taken out of the state hospitals.

He urged the committee, headed by Sen. Walter Richter of Gonzales, to find further ways of bettering the lot of older Texans.

HIGHER EDUCATION—
Texas Commission on Higher Education allocated $3,980,000 in appropriations to meet student enrollment increases in the 20 state-supported senior colleges for the coming school year.

At the same time, the Commission took a step toward higher standards in the state colleges when it moved to abolish state financial support for "Questionable" or "frill" college courses, including:

1. Courses not counted toward graduation requirements;
2. Tour or travel courses;
3. Certain "work experience" courses;
4. Dramatic and forensic activities not in regularly organized classes;
5. Courses devoted exclusively to learning operation of one or two simple business machines;
6. Social or self-improvement courses;
7. Remedial courses on the high school level not carrying college credit;
8. Orientation courses aimed at counseling or guidance of freshmen students.

Commission approved recommendations to strengthen graduate and research programs in the North Texas area and authorized new third and fourth-year courses for Angelo State College, San Angelo.

COURTS SPEAK—

Fifty-third District Judge Herman Jones granted the first injunction sought by the state to enforce the new small loan act.

Action was against E. L. Parker, operator of an Austin liquor store, whom Regulatory Loan Commissioner Frank Miskell alleged was lending money at rates in excess of 10 per cent without obtaining the required state license.

State Supreme Court knocked out a state law granting a landowner, whose property is surrounded by another's, right of way across the neighbor's land. Its decision, overturning lower courts, denied Baylor County rancher Wilmer Cleghorn authority to a road through the W. T. Waggoner Ranch.

An El Paso army sergeant convicted the Supreme Court is should hear arguments on April 22 in his suit for Texas voting rights. Many servicemen have complained about state regulation which permit them to vote only in the county where they resided on entering service.

Texas Court of Criminal Appeals rejected the third appeal of Billie Sol Estes from an eight-year prison sentence for swindling. However, the court made technical corrections in its earlier opinion which enables Estes to file another motion for rehearing.

Court of Criminal Appeals ordered a new trial for a Bandera County man convicted of sheep theft. He was sentenced to life imprisonment for the theft of one sheep after the jury learned he had two prior convictions for passing bad checks.

GAL 2—HIGHLIGHTS
Court ruled that state's attorneys had failed to prove the man's guilt, since the sheep-theft charge was filed by one rancher but testimony centered around "suspicious activities" of the convicted man in the pasture of another rancher who had not filed charges.

APPOINTMENTS—
John P. Thompson and R. L. Thornton Jr., both of Dallas, were named by Governor Connally to Texas Turnpike Authority.

Thornton succeeds his late father for a term expiring February 15, 1967. Thompson succeeds the late Bert Fields for a term expiring February 15, 1969.

Charles H. King Jr., also of Dallas, was sworn in on April 15, 1967. Thompson succeeds the late Bert Fields for a term expiring February 15, 1969.

Charles H. King Jr., also of Dallas, was sworn in on April 15 as Commissioner of the Bureau of Labor Statistics.

WATER—
Oil operators in the New and Old Batson and Sour Lake Fields of Hardin County were given a warning by Texas Railroad Commission to dispose of their salt water "in satisfactory manner". However, the commission decided not to issue an order banning the use of open disposal pits. Lower Neches Valley Authority asked for hearings on the ground that oilfield salt water was polluting streams from which Beaumont and its industries get water.

VETERANS LAND SALE SET—
Twenty-two forfeited veterans land tracts in seven counties will be offered for sale on May 12, Land Commissioner Jerry Sadler has announced.

Bids on the tracts in Guadalupe, Hidalgo, Maverick, Uvalde, Wilson, Zavala and Culberson Counties must be received at Sadler's office by 10 a.m. on date of sale.

OIL ALLOWABLE SET—
Texas Railroad Commission set May oil production allowable at 2,800,000 barrels daily for prorated wells, based on production at 28.5 percent of potential. That's a decrease from the 29 per cent formula of the last three months and 2,900,000 barrels daily for April. Figure still is the highest for May in the last five years.

OPINIONS—
The attorney general held in opinions:

That the new Ector County detention facilities for juveniles and adult women do not properly separate the boys from the girls and juveniles from grownups;

New Forage Testing Will Aid Cattlemen

Forage testing pays big dividends. Texas cattlemen now have such a service available to them through the local Extension Service office, according to county Charles Hottel. The Texas A & M University Forage Testing Service operation has just been initiated, says Hottel.

Beef cattle producers, feeders and dairymen can take advantage of the new service and they should. Research shows there are vast differences in the nutritive value and quality of forages used in feeding programs throughout the state. A ration cannot be properly balanced when the nutritive value of a forage is not known. If the forage is not properly utilized and supplemented according to its feeding value, this will be quickly reflected in beef and milk production - and ultimate profits.

The Texas A & M Forage Testing Service is available to anyone who desires to have dry forage or silage tested. Tests cannot be made of other types of feed such as grain or concentrates.

Tests will be made for protein content only if the producer prefers. Protein test charges are $2 per hay sample and $3 per silage sample. When more complete information is desired, the charge is $6 for each hay and pelleted or wafered forage sample. Each silage sample analysis will cost $7. The more complete analysis will consist of determining crude protein and crude fiber, calculation of digestible protein, total digestible nutrients and net energy. Moisture in silage will also be determined.

As an added benefit - with the more complete analysis - balanced feeding program suggestions will be given those requesting it. Suggested feeding programs will be offered for three types of operations - for beef breeding cattle, fattening beef cattle and dairy cattle feeding.

As with the present Extension Soil Testing Service, all forms, mailing bags, instructions and other information are available from the county agents office.

Seventh Grader Writes History About Cemetery

(Dimmitt 7th grade students have written and compiled the following historical essays about Dimmitt and Castro County. These essays will be run each week for the next several issues of the News.

HISTORY OF DIMMITT cemetery

by Tommy Tittle
A penciled inscription on a wooden board read "Joe Franks-died 1890". He was buried close to the place where his horse dragged him to death. Later that same year an orphan, who worked for J. W. Carter died and a second wooden marker was put up with the name Paskil Brokefield on it. In 1894 William Johnson, a brother of the late Mack and Tom Johnson died. A third marker was added. The fourth man to be buried in Dimmitt's first cemetery was a shepherd who froze to death. Wind, rain and snow soon erased the penciled name on his marker. Had not the people of Dimmitt placed cement markers on the other graves the names on them would have been erased and forgotten.

Somewhere in the cemetery is a small unmarked grave. It is the grave of a five year old boy who was run over by a wagon. He was in a wagon trainbound for New Mexico, he fell off one of the wagons and a wheel ran over him. His mother came back once a year for seven years to visit his grave. In 1912 a shack house on the Gilbreaths place burned. A family named Morgan lived in the house. Mrs. Morgan said her husband was trapped in the house and burned to death. The people later searched the ashes and found some bones which a doctor said, was the bones of a human being. The bones were placed in a baby casket. Mr. Morgan was given a masonic funeral. Several days later it was learned that the bones of Mr. Morgan were actually the bones of a calf. The bones were dug up. Mr. Morgan was found and admitted he did it to collect two insurance policies. The calf-bones were buried in the south west part of the Cemetery. There has been some talk lately of putting up a statue of a white face calf on the spot where the grave was. In the early days there were no undertakers in Dimmitt. The caskets were hand made and the deceased were dressed for burial by friends. The casket was taken to the cemetery in a horse drawn wagon. J. W. Alexander purchased the five acre plot in 1903 for use as a cemetery. In 1931 an additional half acre was purchased from the W. A. Murphys. In 1945 another five acres was purchased from H.

T. Bartlett. In 1954 the original Dimmitt cemetery and the Bartlett addition incorporated. The first board of directors were Bob McLean, Wes Anthony, Noel Gollehon, Allen Web, Jim Elder, G. L. Willis Jr., and Swain Burkett. From a list of suggested names, the name "Castro Memorial Gardens" was chosen. The name was suggested by Mrs. R. C. Lay. The first memorial services for the war dead was held May 30, 1958. The service was held on the east side of the cemetery near a flag pole that was put up by Percy Estes and Bob Estes. Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Kirkpatrick gave the flag used in the Memorial service in memory of Joe Bailes who was killed in the Korean war. The memorial services are conducted by the Greer Estes post of the American Legion.

Walter Rogers' WASHINGTON NEWSLETTER

WATER CHALLENGES MUST BE MET

We Americans now use more than 300 billion gallons of water each day—about one-third of the average daily stream flow in the United States, exclusive of Alaska and Hawaii. Our water requirements are expected to double by 1980, to triple by the year 2,000. As population increases and industrial demands grow, water problems—which exist in some form in every part of the United States—are becoming more acute, and the challenges posed by these problems must be met.

We of the Texas Panhandle are as "water conscious" as any regional populace in the Nation. Rain, or its absence, has a dramatic way of affecting our lives and our fortunes. And certainly the citizens of some 10,000 American cities who each summer experience "waterless" days, when reservoirs or ground supplies run dry, are well aware of our water problem. But many of our fellow citizens do not as yet realize the extent of the problem; many city dwellers assume that water is as freely available as is the air they breathe.

The problem we face in the United States is to make the best possible use of the "manageable" water supply available to us. If the

Mrs. Leland Smith, Mr. Wilson came for the visitors on Friday.

Mr. and Mrs. James Bradford and children and O.R. Hughes visited the Carl Bruegels and Fred Bruegels Jr. on Sunday afternoon.

Mrs. James Welch and children visited Mr. and Mrs. E. R. Laubon at Lazbuddie, Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Wes Anthony and Mr. and Mrs. Vern Lust were dinner guests of Mr. and Mrs. Earl Lust on Sunday. Mr. and Mrs. Vern Lust visited Mr. and Mrs. Glenn Stiles at Big Square Sunday afternoon.

Mr. and Mrs. Donald Gilreath and daughters were in Littlefield Sunday to visit Mrs. Gilreath's parents, Mr. and Mrs. I. D. Onstead.

Mr. and Mrs. Gene Phillips and children of Clovis, New Mexico visited Thursday afternoon in home of Mrs. Phillips, Mrs. James Welch.

Mrs. Houston Lust, Joe, Ann and Flo were in Amarillo Saturday on business and visited Mrs. Lust's sister and family, the Bill Avants.

total quantity of rain and snow that falls on the United States in an average year were spread evenly over the country, it would stand 30 inches deep. But of that 30 inches 21 inches return to the atmosphere. Our "manageable" supply consists of the 9 inches that drains from the land or seeps into the ground. From this supply, we now withdraw about 3 inches of water—of which, after use, one inch returns to the atmosphere and 2 inches return to the stream network. Of that 3 inches we use from the supply available, we obtain about 80 percent from lakes and streams and the other 20 per cent from wells. Clearly if we are to provide for the needs of the future, we must find ways to increase our ability to take larger amounts from the 9-inch total potentially available.

Obviously, national averages such as cited above are misleading. As we of the Texas Panhandle know too well, some areas of the country receive more precipitation than others. The problems, thus, differ from one area to another. In one part of the United States, the Main problem may be supply. In another, distribution of an abundant available supply may be the difficulty crying for a solution. Other major problems are variability in the amount of the supply, chemical and sediment control, pollution control, and floods. In some areas, particularly in the Western United States, a combination of these problems heightens the challenge.

In some areas, as most Westerners would quickly recognize, the total problem could consist of these factors: short supply, variability in the supply, distribution of the water available and control of chemical and sediment deposits.

To meet the demands of the future, Federal, State, and private water resource development programs concentrate on five specific kinds of activity: regulating stream flow through the construction of surface reservoirs and through watershed management; more adequate pollution abatement programs; making better use of underground storage; eliminating wasteful practices to make more efficient use of the supply; increasing the natural water yield by desalting, weather modification, and other artificial means.

With all the competing uses for our limited natural water supplies, we must learn to conserve, use, and re-use with utmost efficiency, and find ways to increase our supplies. We must increase our understanding of the role of water in its many uses and to explore new and better ways of conserving precious water supplies and using them to the best advantage. Research, like that conducted at the University of

Texas Attorneys Endorse Pope

Judge Jack Pope is currently serving as an associate justice of the Court of Civil Appeals in San Antonio, with 18 years experience in the trial courts and the appellate courts of our state—the only Supreme Court candidate with his needed experience.

Pope is a graduate of Abilene Christian College and The University of Texas Law School. He started his general law practice in Corpus Christi in 1937.

Appointed to the judgeship of the 94th District Court in 1945, Judge Pope was elected to a full term. In 1950, he was elected, without a runoff, over three opponents to the Court of Civil Appeals in San Antonio, to which he has twice been reelected without opposition.

Pope brings 18 years of judicial experience to the race for Supreme Court. He was 33 when he began serving as a judge; his present court served more than two million Texans with one of the heaviest dockets in the state. The report of the Civil Judicial Council shows that this court was the most economically operated appellate court in the state.

Judge Pope's reputation among the legal profession is particularly outstanding. In addition to the 18 years of judicial experience, Judge Pope has personally written more than 500 opinions which are found in 134 volumes of the law reports.

Texas, is most important.

Increasing demands placed upon our limited water supplies have brought about conflicts in planning between the Federal and State agencies involved in water development activities and a competition for funds. The primary need at the present time is for some better means of orderly planning, coordinated effort, and a sensible division of responsibilities. The development of a water program for Texas, which is shifting from a dominantly rural economy to a dominantly urban and industrial economy, involves water for humans, cities, industry, agriculture, the control of floods, generation of hydro-electric power, providing for navigation needs, providing water-recreation opportunities. In the planning of proper development of such a program, and in carrying it out, coordination and cooperation are absolutely essential between the Federal, State, local and private agencies and groups concerned with finding proper solutions.

Conflict over water resource development is a luxury the United States cannot afford.

He has served as a member of the Domestic Relations Committee for the Judicial Section in 1953, then later as the Legislative Chairman of that Section which is credited with the enactment of many of the laws which currently protect children. Such work for the State Bar of Texas has also been marked by his service as president of the Nueces County Bar Association in 1946 and 1947, and as Chairman of the American Citizenship Committee in 1953. A past Chairman of the State Bar Committee on Rules and Statutes, he also helped write the booklet "The Right of Trial by Jury" which has been placed in the hands of thousands of jurors and was nationally by the American Bar Association.

Judge Pope has been cited six times for his service as a member of the State Bar Institute Committee and is on the advisory board of the Southwestern Law Journal. The Judicial Section, composed of all the trial and appellate judges of Texas honored Judge Pope in 1962 by choosing him as their president.

An inquiry of the members was made of the Castro County Bar Association. It was their opinion that Judge Pope is a man of outstanding legal ability.

Local Agronomist Serves On Soil Fertility Committee

Bill Bennett, agronomist, is serving as second vice-president of the Soil Fertility Committee, an organization of fertilizer dealers, manufacturers, farmers and others to provide the nucleus for free interchange of ideas and suggestions for research that is needed for area wide problems in fertilizer use. Financial and technical support of a strong research and educational program is also, an aim of the committee.

Other officers include Buck Fredricksen, president; August Balzer, first vice-president; Rip Elms, third vice-president; and Bill Wad-de secretary. Members serving on the Research committee include Bill Bennett, Clyde Haynes, Hal Gooding, Alex Pope and Arnold Neuman.

Financial committee is composed of August Balzer, Neil McAlister, Jack Bristol, Ken Priddy, Pete Stutz, P. A. Coleman, Bob Mote and Walter O'Neal.

Some of the members of the advisory committee include: Supt. of the South Plains Research and Experiment Station, Texas Agricultural Extension Service District Agent, Head of the Agronomy Department at Texas Tech, Director of the High Plains Research Foundation at Halfway, Area Conservationist and others.

Results of the Soil Fertility Committee working with its associated group include; the finest soil testing and research lab in the State and perhaps the nation; use of off-station tests to obtain knowledge of fertilizer use on major area crops; a well-trained research staff; and the confidence of the farmers in the recommendation of his fertilizer dealer has reached a very high peak.

The object of the Committee as stated in its by-laws is: develop more effective and profitable fertilizer and water use on the Plains. Membership, according to the by-laws, consists of any person or firm interested in the objectives and willing to participate and aid in the promotion of the objectives. The Committee is a vital part of the continued prosperity of agriculture in the High Plains area, whose work is insured by the contributions of the fertilizer dealers and others interested in soil fertility of this area.

What Is American Heritage?

Our Heritage is a land, a new land, a land away from kings and emperors, a land away from religious intolerance and bigotry; from slave camps and fear, and from the secret police.

American Heritage is Columbus standing on the deck of the Santa Maria spying a light ashore, a light that was destined to be the dividing light of millions of troubled and oppressed who came with a new hope.

It is the Pilgrims as they prolonged their stay aboard the ship long enough to draw up the Mayflower Compact pledging their sacred honor to "convenant and combine ourselves into a civil body politic for our better order and preservation."

It is Hernando DeSoto searching the wilderness of the Father of Waters for El Dorado which he wanted to believe existed, a water that was to become his grave. It is Coronado a few years later who took up the fruitless search through the desert, seeking the seven cities of Cibola which were always further on. It is Ponce De Leon as he searched in vain for the Land of Beginning Again. And Balboa as he stood at the Isthmus of Panama looking westward over the vast expanse of a mighty ocean here-to-fore unknown to the white man. It is Pocahontas, and Powhatan, and John Smith. It is the Pilgrims at Plymouth who had braved the perils of the treacherous Atlantic for precious religious freedom, which they themselves denied to others, only to lose half their number within a year. It is they again as they planted corn over the graves of their dead, disguising their depleted numbers to unfriendly people.

It is the slave ships plying their cargoes of black gold, a condition which was to write a chapter of shame on the pages of our history. It is the witch hunts at Salem in which the Court of Sir William Phips condemned and executed more than a score of men and women for conspiring with the devil to bewitch their neighbors.

American Heritage is George Washington at Valley Forge. It is Lincoln saying, "—with malice toward none and with charity for all..." It is a small band of "Indians" who tossed the tea overboard defying the authority of a tyrant to tax a people who would be free. It is Patrick Henry, when the English men-of-war were tied up in the harbor a few miles away making secure his place in American history and setting an example of bravery, courage, and eloquence as he said, "Give me liberty or give me Death." It is Benjamin Franklin as he said in days of extreme peril, "We must all hang together, or most assuredly we shall all hang separately."

What is American Heritage? It is Thomas Jefferson as he penned those immortal lines which were forever to dissociate us as a part of the British Commonwealth of Nations: Lines which give to us all, the dignity that mankind deserves, lines which need to be emblazoned on every heart in every nation: "We hold these truths to be self evident, that all men are created equal, that they are endowed with certain unalienable Rights, that among them are Life, Liberty, and the Pursuit of Happiness." It is the embattled farmer who "Fired the shot heard round the world."

It is Sacajawea standing at the three forks of mighty Missouri pointing toward the Northwest as the way Lewis and Clark must go in their trek which opened to the white man the great Oregon Territory, a land that was destined within one hundred fifty years to harbor a city of over one half million people and be the gateway to trade with the Orient and to our forty-ninth and fiftieth states.

Our American Heritage is the fatal fifteen minutes on the Plains of Abraham where General Wolfe paid a soldier's debt in dispelling forever the French claim to what is now the territory of the United States. Also, a part of our Heritage is the boulder at Halesite, New York, marking the spot where Nathan Hale was captured while bringing to General Washington such information as would help him prosecute the war for independence, a stone bearing the inscription that will be remembered as long as patriots are honored and heroes are worshiped, "I only regret that I have but one life to lose for my country." Other examples of greatness which when looking to in retrospect give us inspiration are those words by Daniel Webster speaking before the United States Senate in 1830 in reply to Haynes, he said, "Liberty and Union, now and forever; one and inseparable." Webster again spoke words which are probably destined to outlive the stone where they are written when he said, "If we work upon marble, it will perish; if we work upon brass, time will efface it; if we rear temples, they will crumble into dust; but if we work upon immortal souls, if we imbue them with the fear of God and the love of fellowman, we engrave on those tablets something which brightens all eternity." Then also we have the inspiration of those lines by William Tyler Page in which he says, "I believe in the United States of America as a government of the people, by the people, and for the people; whose just powers are derived from the consent of the governed. I therefore believe it is my duty to my country to love it, to support its Constitution, to obey its laws, to respect its flag, and to defend it against all enemies."

We have also as a part of our Heritage the courage and perseverance of men like John Dickinson who taught us the lesson that if a man will not be defeated he cannot be defeated. It was Dickinson who headed the convention of the Continental Congress which on July 12, 1776, reported the draft of the "Articles of Confederation." They were not formally adopted for more than a year later, were not signed for almost another year, and were not ratified by all the states until 1781, but through his courageous spirit and unwillingness to accept defeat, the Articles were ratified eventually; and this document became a long, first step toward a true union.

We remember with pride and with a lump in our throats the words which inspired Francis Scott Key, standing on the deck of a British cartel boat watching as the shells exploded on Fort William Henry, lighting up the surroundings and the flag that was, "still there." This sight and the extreme love of country inspired him to write the poem which was destined to become our National Anthem.

As a part of our literary Heritage, we have in addition to those already mentioned, by Daniel Webster and others, some famous gems of literature unsurpassed in any language: "Rip Van Winkle," "Evangeline," "The Raven," "Chambered Nautilus," "The Vision of Sir Launfal," the plays of Eugene O'Neill, and the short pithy literary gems of Emily Dickenson. We have the works of Emerson, and Hawthorne, and Melville; we have the pathos and terror inspired by Poe; we have the Negro spirituals in which the Negro poured forth his troubles of this world and the hope of the next, singing "Deep River," "Swing Low, and singing to Jesus, "Nobody knows the trouble I see..."

Not all of our heroes come from the realms of real life; some of our most inspirational passages come from the pages of fiction. Edward Everett Hale's Phillip Nolan from "The Man Without a Country" may as well have lived for the impact he made on the lives of those who follow literature and history. And Phillip Nolan has become a part of our Heritage from the lesson he gives us in his love of country when he laughed as he heard the words of the judge saying, "Prisoner, hear the sentence of the Court! The Court decides, subject to the approval of the President, that you shall never hear the name of the United States again."

We hear him again from more than a half a century later, an old and broken man who had spent fifty-five years of his life regretting and paying for a wrong decision and some foolish words said impulsively. He continued, "...no matter what happens to you, no matter who flatters or abuses you, never let a night pass by but you pray God to bless that flag. Remember, Boy, that behind all those men that you have to do with, behind the officers, and government and people, even there is the country Herself, Your Country, and that you belong to Her as you belong to your own mother. Stand by her, Boy, as you would your own mother."

A portion of our American Heritage is music given us by those who have contributed to our musical world and in many cases have passed on. We have the brief but fruitful life of Stephen C. Foster, who during a short span of year's produced some lyrics and music that have a definite place on our way of life. His "Oh! Susanna," "Jeanie with the Light Brown Hair, and "Beautiful Dreamer" are of the Ages.

Of no less importance are the operettas of Victor Herbert, Gilbert and Sullivan, Romberg and others. From the opera we have Ger-shwin's Porgy and Bess and his symphonic poem: Rhapsody in Blue.

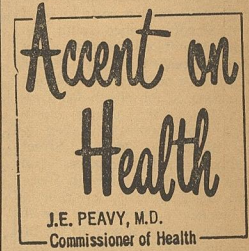

Then, of course, we have the jazz, popular and hillbilly. Parts of our Heritage did not originate in America, but in England instead. The great Magna Charta, which is the basis for our American law was signed by King John under duress from the nobles in 1215. Some of the basic freedoms granted first by King John have, with a few minor changes in the words, been written into our Constitution. This Magna Charta marks the first time that the power of a king had been limited. Of the sixty-three terms granted by the Magna Charta, one reads, "To no one will we sell nor to no one will we refuse or delay justice." He also agreed to collect his taxes only by legal means. Although King John was never able to do so, he tried several times to repudiate this document.

Another bit of American Heritage coming, not from America but from England, is the plea and speeches made for tolerance and conciliation by Edmund Burke in these words: "You have, indeed, winged ministers of vengeance, who carry your bolts in their pounces to the remotest verge of the sea. But there a power steps in, that limits the arrogance of raging passions and furious elements and says, "So far shalt thou go and no farther"... "magnanimity in politics is not seldom the truest wisdom; and a great empire and little minds go ill together."

Another aspect of our Heritage is Bronson Alcott, sowing transcendentalism, around Boston and

A weekly public service feature from the Texas State Department of Health

Can you get food poisoning from frozen food? If frozen food thaws out, should it be destroyed? Can you refreeze meat that has thawed out?

These questions persist although frozen foods have become an integral part of modern living. But properly stored, handled and prepared, frozen foods will serve you and your family well.

Food poisoning, originating from frozen foods, is a rarity. Processors are careful to prepare and freeze their products at the peak of freshness, insuring that bacteria are at a minimum. The very act of freezing the food suppresses the ability of the bacteria to multiply. Not until food temperatures rise and conditions become favorable to growth of the bacteria do they begin multiplying.

And what about frozen foods that have thawed out—must they be destroyed? Not necessarily. After all, they must be thawed before they can be cooked and eaten. If foods have been thawed only for a short time, they may be safely eaten. The important question is how long have they been thawed out and how high the temperature has been. If the temperature went no higher than 45 degrees, the foods may be maintained at this level safely for several days but should not be refrozen.

Is it ever safe to refreeze meat that has thawed out? Refreezing meat is permissible if the meat was fresh at the original freezing and if it was thawed for only a short period. There may, however, be some degrading of flavor and quality with the second freezing. The risk in refreezing cured or smoked meats is greater. These meats may be slightly spoiled even though there is no discoloration, off odor or other signs of spoilage.

Can you tell about the quality of frozen food simply by looking at it? Loss of quality resulting from improper handling or extended storage - is usually indicated by loss of flavor and color. (This is particularly true of vegetables.) Orange juice, as it deteriorates, tends to separate and "settle out" rapidly when reconstituted. Cream sauces appear curdled and the liquid begins to separate.

To preserve the quality of frozen foods, store them at the lowest possible temperature, and when you transport them from the store to your freezer, do so as quickly as possible. Rising temperatures cause chemical changes which influence the food's flavor and quality.

Harvard, Massachusetts. It was an experiment in communal living by Alcott, Thoreau, Emerson, Hawthorne, Channing and others at Brooke Farm. Although it antedated Karl Marx a quarter of a century, this noble experiment died—a-borning because there were too many chiefs and too few Indians.

It is the farsighted William Seward fighting for a territory which made him the laughing stock of his colleagues—a territory that has yielded several times its cost per year for almost a century, and now we realize that the surface has barely been scratched.

It is Bowie, and Crockett at the Alamo and W. B. Travis who signed his own death warrant and that of 186 others by saying, "I shall never surrender nor retreat!" It is the gold at Cripple Creek and at Alder Gulch and Helena; the smoke of the smelters at Bessemer and Pittsburg; the stench of the packing plants at Ft. Worth, and Chicago and Omaha.

It is the pioneer women sacrificing home and friends and loved ones to move with their men across the Great Plains, and the Rockies to make a new home, and a new life in a new land.

It is the resignation and the pathos in the voice of Chief Joseph saying through an interpreter one of the most eloquent and pathetic passages of American literature: "My people ask me for food, and I have none to give. It is cold and we have no blankets, no wood. My people are starving to death. Where is my little daughter? I do not know. Perhaps even now she is freezing to death. Hear me, my chiefs, I have fought; but from where the sun now stands, Joseph will fight no more, forever!"

This speech marks the end of an era. Later there was taken resistance by Geronimo and a few others, but the resistance of the Indian in the West had ceased.

Along with, and largely responsible for, the breakdown of the Indian resistance in the West was the depletion of the buffalo herds by the hide-hunters who were followed a few years later by the bone-pickers.

It is the beaver trappers along the Yellowstone who flourished or failed as fashion decreed that men should or should not wear beaver hats and coats. It is the hope which came into the hearts of immigrants looking for the first time at the Statue of Liberty, and seeing the light symbolizing the Light of Freedom.

It is brother against brother at Gettysburg.

It is John Wilkes Booth, and Lee Harvey Oswald; the defectors and the March of Death at Corrigidor; and the Berlin Wall.

It is the coal of Pennsylvania and West Virginia and the oil of Texas and Oklahoma, the forests of Idaho and the fertile deltas of the Mississippi. It is the frugality of Benjamin Franklin and the extravagance of the New Deal. It is our land, our beloved country—to have and hold, to love and enjoy in life, and in death to mingle in its dust. It is America the Beautiful; God Bless America!

Grain Sorghum Chat

by Wes Anthony
Last week the G.S.P.A. were hosts to ten men from Japan who were interested in buying grain sorghum from the United States.

While here they toured some of the most modern grain handling facilities. However, these men are very smart traders and they are going to get very best quality feed at the lowest possible prices and if they cannot compete with other nations, we will lose a lot of business. However, they seemed very well impressed and pleased at what they saw.

I am merely saying that we will have to stay on our toes and keep up the good work that the G.S.P.A. is doing.

The U.S. exported three-fourths billion dollars of agriculture products last year and the prospects for this year look to be much greater.

When the G.S.P.A. started really working for higher price supports, grain was $1.40 per cwt. and about 90 per cent of the grain went into C.C.C. Last year, the price was $2 per cwt. and only 6 per cent of grain went through C.C.C.

Isn't this what we all are working for?
