SUNSET P. T. A. TO PRESENT "BASHFUL MR. BOB" DEC. 9

"Bashful Mr. Bob" is Play to Be Presented at Sunset School, Night of December 9th

"Bashful Mr. Bob," a comedy-drama in three acts, depicting the life and escapades of "Bashful Mr. Bob," will be presented by the Sunset P. T. A., Friday night, December 9th. You will miss the heartiest laugh of the year if you miss this play—a play brim full of action, comedy and pathos. We are expecting a record breaking attendance. Be among those there. Proceeds will go for the benefit of school equipment.

Mr. and Mrs. Clyde Cummings returned Monday from McKinney, Texas, where they were called Friday of last week, on account of the death of their nephew, Daff Melton who was killed when run over by a wagon.

New Ford Cars Will Be Shown

Lockney Auto Company Will Explain New Creation in Ford Automobile Friday

Mr. Arthur Barker owner of the Lockney Auto Company spent the latter part of last week in Dallas where all the Ford Agency managers of this section assembled to get final instructions on the new cars being manufactured by the Ford Motor Co.

Upon his return Mr. Barker stated to the editor that the new Ford cars far beyond his expectations, and that he had expected the new cars to be far ahead of anything in their former class, that after seeing and inspecting the new car he considered that it was in a class with the cars that are now selling on the market for $1,000 to $1,200. The new Ford is different in nearly every respect from the former Model "T" and can really and truly be called the Baby Lincoln as many of its parts are taken from the principal upon which the Lincoln is built, only being smaller and more compact. The engine has undergone many changes, and has a double oiling system, which oils it by both splash and vacuum systems, the piston arms are longer, giving the piston a longer stroke and making the engine stronger and giving it more speed. The ignition system has also been changed and is along the line of the bigger and more expensive cars. The body and chassis of the car has undergone a complete change, is stronger than ever before, the shape is different and the car has a more metropolitan shape and look than the old cars.

Below we print some excerpts taken from the literature being sent out by the Ford Motor Company.

After six months of "saying nothing but seeing wood," Henry Ford today announced the specifications of the new Ford car which succeeds his famous Model T. A bare listing of these specifications presents a picture of an automobile that in performance appearance and mechanical features has heretofore been associated with a considerably high price class.

Unusual speed and acceleration are among the outstanding features of the new car. It was announced as being able to make 55 to 60 miles an hour, with ease. In recent tests it has made even more without difficulty. What is more important, it is stated that when traveling at such speeds, it holds the road easily, and with comfort to the driver and passengers. It is also stated with equal positiveness, however, that it performs in an equally spectacular manner on bad roads. In its design, Mr. Ford has held to his original idea of a car which can meet all conditions and types of roads.

Appreciating the constantly increasing importance of acceleration, the Ford Motor Company has given a great deal of study to this feature of the new car. In high gear tests with two passengers in a Tudor Sedan it has shown an acceleration of from 5 to 25 miles an hour in 8 1-2 seconds.

The new Ford car also introduces a new type of four wheel brakes. An exclusive Ford development, they are of the mechanical, shoe-expanding type, and are self centering. The brake pedal and hand brake each operates all four brakes. It is stated that this is the most reliable and simplest type of four-wheel brakes, and also the easiest to adjust, all adjustments being made from the outside without removing any parts.

An engine that is practically vibrationless develops 40 horsepower at 2,200 revolutions per minute. This low revolution speed in ratio to the high horsepower is illustrative of the unusual efficiency of the engine. Also, it means longer life, the lower engine speed insuring less wear on parts. The low revolution speed is also a substantial factor in lessening vibration. The bore is 3 7-8 inches, stroke 4 1-4 inches. The unusually large crankshaft, which is both statically and dynamically balanced weighs 28 pounds. This balancing, combined with the lightness of the aluminum alloy pistons, further combine to reduce vibration and increase riding and driving comfort and safety.

In addition to freedom from vibration, it is announced that the car is unusually quiet, a great deal of attention having been paid to this feature by the Ford engineers. In the engine the timing gears are made of bakelized fabric, which is much quieter than metal. The cams on the cam shaft have been so designed as to prevent valve clicking.

The coachwork of the car is as distinctive as the as its performance. There is a noticeable European touch in line and contour. It is not only

Fire Boys Move Into New Fire Station

Donate Your Old Books, Pennants, and Pictures You Do Not Care To Keep to Fire Boys

The Lockney Fire Department consisting of fifteen members, have moved into their new home at the pump station, which has been fitted up by the city as a fire station. All fire fighting apparatus will be moved to the building as soon as the concrete and brick work on the new addition to the building is complete. The hall is modern living quarters in every detail, with beds, clothes cabinets, mirrors, tables, chairs, and many other items. When finally completed Lockney will have one of the best equipped volunteer fire departments according to population in this section. A telephone and fire gong is being installed at the station, and some one will be on duty at all times.

You are asked to co-operate in every way possible with the fire department especially when turning in fire alarms. Report the location to Central, who will turn in the alarm, and when reporting the fire and location be sure and give location as near as possible, because here the streets are not as yet marked and named and at times it is very hard to locate a fire when no one on the department knows the location of the house, or whatever might be burning. A moment's thinking might save your house. Do not call central and say, "Jones' house is afire. Remember there is more than one Jones in the world. A move is on foot to mark all streets and number houses. When this is done it will be only necessary for you to give house number and street. Please co-operate with the fire department in every possible way as they are for your fire protection, and to get yours turn in your alarm as correctly as possible.

Donate Your Old Books To Fire Boys

Everyone who has books they have read and do not care to keep please leave them with Marvin Gilbert at the Lockney Drug Co., or H. B. Mann, at Stewart Drug Co., or see Cecil Cope and we will call for them. Anything you have in the way of books, pennants or pictures and would like for the fire boys to have, just see or call one of the above named three and they will be called for.

Anyone wishing to inspect the new fire station, just ask a member and they will gladly show you through.

Misses Thelma Steele and Mollie Newman spent the week end visiting their parents in Goodnight and Hedley, Texas.

Mr. and Mrs. Estes Woodburn of this city visited old time friends and relatives in Hereford Thanksgiving Day.

Beacon will published letters from them on the date of Thursday, December 15th.

All children desiring to tell Santa Claus of the things they want him to bring them on Christmas will please write their letters, mail or bring them to the Beacon and we will see that Santa Claus gets the letters.

We will issue a special Christmas edition on December 15th and all merchants caring to advertise their Christmas goods in this issue will please arrange for advertising space as early as possible.

Frank Taylor Accidentally Shot

Boy Shoots off Two Toes While Hunting With Shot Gun Northeast of Lockney

Frank Taylor, fourteen year old son of Mr. and Mrs. F. M. Taylor, who lives near Alamo, northeast of Lockney, happened to an accident last Saturday afternoon, which cost him two toes. While out hunting with another boy, he placed the muzzle of the gun on his left toe, and in so doing the gun was discharged badly mangleing the second and third toes on his left foot. The boy crawled a distance of about two miles, to a field where a farmer was plowing, the farmer bringing him to the of the toes were amputated.

Dr. H. P. Ashby in Lockney where the boy was getting along fine at the last reports.

PREMIUMS WILL BE GIVEN AT POULTRY SHOW

Some poultry raiser of Floyd county will win a model poultry house valued at $75 at the Floyd county Poultry Show to be held in Floydada December 15, 16 and 17. To the person living in Floyd county and exhibiting the best twenty birds of any variety at the annual show this house will be awarded, it was decided this week by the officials of the Floyd County Poultry Association.

Besides the model poultry house a $50 premium loving cup is being offered to the person exhibiting the best cock, cockerel, hen and pullet at the show. This cup will be awarded by the First National Bank of Lockney but must be won two consecutive years before it becomes the property of any person. It is now in the possession of H. P. Coleman of Lockney.

As an inducement to the raising of capons the Lockney Hatchery has offered a free hatching of one tray of eggs and one gallon of L. H. Spray to the person exhibiting the best and largest capon at the show.

Catalogues, containing a complete list of the premiums and awards are being mailed out this week by the secretary. Inquiries from other sections lead officials to believe that the coming show will exhibit a larger and better number of fowls than have ever been on exhibit before at a Floyd County Show.

YOUR CHILD

Is there a child in your home?

What would you take for it? You would consider it a great insult for some one to even offer to buy that child. We are sometimes made to wonder if people do not sell their children—their present and their future. Many of you are spending six to eight dollars per month on your child for music, expression or some other special training. No doubt you are spending at least fifteen dollars per month to send them to school. That is very commendable. "This ye ought to have done, but not to have left the other undone."

How much are you spending for your child's spiritual development? How much money? How much personal interest? How much self denial? Are you putting First Things in the Life of your Child? Jesus said, "Seek ye first the Kingdom of God and His righteousness." Do you think Jesus told the truth when he said that? If Jesus told the truth don't you think you ought to seek first for your child the very thing He told the child to put first? It would break your heart to see your child physically a dwarf, or mentally an idiot, but I want to ask you candidly if that child of yours is not more pitiable when it is an invalid spiritually? If it were affected bodily or mentally you would immediately seek a physician, but your child's greatest need today is for the Great Physician.

You hear much said today about the Young People's problem. Many of us are convinced that the Young People's problem begins with their parents. If parents will give Jesus Christ first place in their hearts seven days a week, and have real worship each day in their home the young people's problem will then be more than half solved. No generation of young people have ever had better surroundings than are the young people of today. Don't you tremble when you think what you might have been, if you had lived under such conditions as prevail today? Does your example in Sunday school attendance commend itself to your child? What example does your child have at home to attend the training services of the church? We usually get just what we pay for. What are you willing to pay in personal interest and self-denial that your child may have the best in spiritual training? You may have to drown your prejudice and kill your love for worldly pleasure but that child is worth all that and a thousand times more. What would it profit a parent if he gained the whole world, but in gaining lost his own child? God's best gift to the world was Jesus. Won't you see that your child is encouraged to receive more of that wonderful gift day by day?

Young People, the greatest book in the world is the Bible. You ought to study it earnestly. It will be a lamp unto your feet and a light unto your path. Hide your heart and keep it away from sin. The greatest God of all ages is the God of the Bible. Let Him be your God and He will let you be His child. The greatest character that ever walked among men was Jesus. Let Him have possession of your heart and He will make you great. He will make you great in thought, word, and deed. He will make you great in purpose, spirit, and achievement. He will provide for you an "inheritance incorruptible, and un-

Lee Stegall Murdered Near Flomot Monday

Four Men Arrested and Placed in Lubbock Jail by Ed Russell, Ex-Sheriff of Motley County

Lee Stegall, age 40 years, constable of the Flomot precinct in Motley county, was waylaid and murdered near a bridge, just west of the town, early Monday night. Mr. Stegall was shot in the head, near the temple, and investigations show that he was probably shot with his own gun. Evidence of a fight in which the murderers took Stegall's gun from him, and then used the gun to kill him were very noticeable, according to the men who visited the scene.

Four men have been arrested and placed in the Lubbock jail for investigation concerning the murder. They are Paul Landry, Scott Knight, W. E. Allen and Harmon Mosby. It is said that the men were tracked from the scene of the murder by the car tracks of their automobile, to a barber shop in Flomot, where they arrived immediately after the killing. E. Sheriff Ed Russell of Flomot arrested the suspects, so we are informed, in the absence of the Motley county officers.

We are informed that lawlessness in the way of bootlegging in the Flomot section has been very bad the past few months, and that upon petition of some of the good, law abiding citizens of that community, Lee Stegall had been appointed constable of that precinct by the Commissioners Court of Motley county, and that in the enforcement of the law he had encountered some opposition from the bootleggers, which probably was the cause of his being waylaid and murdered.

Mr. Stegall was a brother of P. G. Stegall, sheriff of this county, and Sheriff Stegall went to the scene of the murder immediately after the incident occurred Monday night, and was instrumental in the arrest of the men now being held for investigation.

Lee Stegall was buried at Flomot Tuesday afternoon, many friends from Floydada and Lockney attending the services.

Gutter Gossip

(Gathered from Foreign and Home Gutters)

Maurander Awakes Fire Dept

It was at the ghostly hour of twelve. Nothing could be heard but those intelligent snores of Choc—Choc the mek-in-ick. Suddenly disturbances could be heard hither and yon over said hall. Screams, cries of pain, cries of distress, bellers for help, aid crawling beds could be seen. Suddenly "Jake Orland" awoke. "Ah," quoth Jake, "villians are among us." "Up and at 'em, fellers" gasped Choc. Immediately the force was up and at 'em. Sticks, clubs, axes, shoes, and fists were brought in action. It looked at the first of the battle that the villians would have the upper hand but suddenly the fire department rallied to their colors and routed the villians.

But what was it asked an outsider? Nobody knows but Choc, and he was seen the morning after at the Crager Hardware buying a beartrap, and was heard to remark that he would catch that dad-burn Chinch if it was his last act on earth. Choc says the one he is after, is heap big like a tarrapin, and that he keeps dragging his pillow off every night. "Fight them Chinchies, men," is the watch word.

"Fight them Chinchies," should be the watch word, because if there is anything that knocks on a town's standing and progressiveness it is a "Chinchy Fire Department," is Deep's sentiments.

More will possibly be heard next week, of the trails and tribulations of "Choc and the Chinch," if the attacks are not stopped.

Denny has pulled nothing this week that has come to our ears. Possibly a clam before the storm.

It is understood that Miss Lizzie Ford will be among the notables here next Friday. It is rumored that she is far ahead of the times in body lines, and speed.

If Lizzie Ford has a speed of from sixty-five to seventy miles an hour, all we have to say is that Father Henry is liable to have a flock of wrecked daughters before many moons

Home Demonstration Club News

Blanco Home Demonstration Club.

The Blanco Home Demonstration Club met at the home of Mrs. Geo. R. Smith, at 2:30 o'clock, Thursday, November 17th. The subject for discussion was "Cake Baking."

Roll call was answered by each member telling her favorite cake receipt.

Leader—Mrs. McPeak. Classification of cakes—Mrs. Wheeler.

Selection of ingredients—Mrs. Snell. Utensils needed for cake baking—Mrs. Farley.

Methods of mixing, baking and care after baking were discussed in a round table discussion.

Seven members were present. Each member was asked to bring her report of the November and October home work so that the secretary can prepare her work for the close of the year.

The next meeting will be held, Thursday, December 1st, with Mrs. Tinnin as hostess.

Subject—"Painted novelties and Christmas suggestions."

Roll call will be answered by giving suggestions for Christmas entertainment.

Leader—Mrs. Henderson. The Spirit of Christmas—Mrs. Snell. Suggestions for inexpensive gifts—Mrs. Badgett.

Miss Bass will give a candy demonstration if the weather is cold enough if not will have the demonstration on painting Christmas novelties and the making of toys. We are glad to have visitors and new members at any and all of our meetings.

McCoy 4-H Girls Club

The 4-H girls club of McCoy community met in the club room at the school building on Thursday, November 17th. The subject of the meeting was "Plans for the year work." Work assigned to the girls was to have first articles of first, second and third year girls completed by next meeting. Miss Bass gave a demonstration to the first and second year girls on their first articles.

The secretary of the club was re-elected at this meeting.

The next meeting will be held on Thursday, December 1st and the subject will be "Sewing." Everybody are urged to be on time with their work.

A BIRTHDAY CELEBRATION

At the home of Mr. and Mrs. Dudley Wofford, Sunday, November 27, a group of relatives and friends met at a birthday dinner given in honor of Mr. and Mrs. C. A. Wofford.

The tables were arranged in two rooms and the five oldest grand daughters acted as waitresses. The girls were becoming pink and white sweet-heart aprons. At the center of the table of honor was the two deck birthday cake, beautifully decorated and bearing a ribbon with the Birthday Greetings for the couple. Mrs. Wofford was 69 on November 22nd and Mr. Wofford was 71 December 1st.

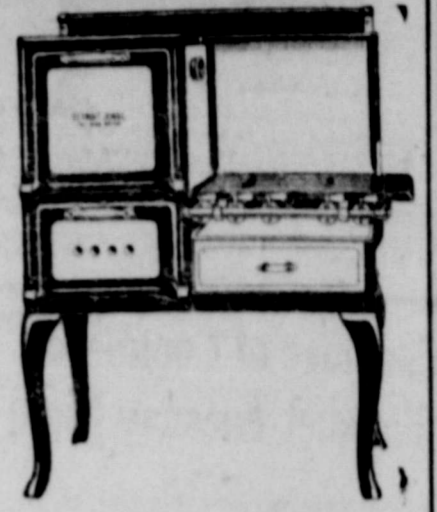

Mr. and Mrs. Wofford received many beautiful and useful gifts. All the children and grandchildren of Mr. and Mrs. Wofford were present

WHAT'S DOING IN WEST TEXAS

Blackwell—A new modern ice plant is under construction here. A high line from Bronte has been connected up just recently, giving the town 24 hours service, and various other improvements are underway.

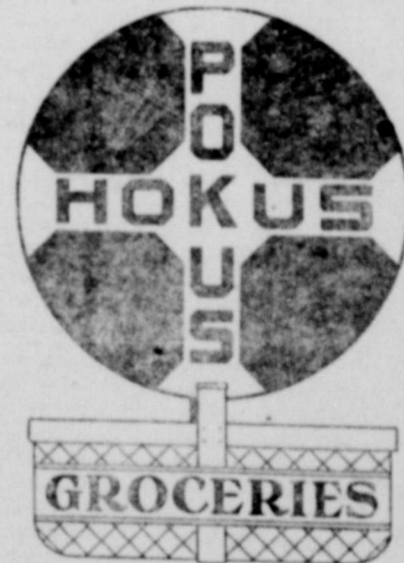

Lueders—Quality production in poultry and dairying movements of West Texas has been set as a major aim of the new Poultry and Dairy Bureau of the West Texas Chamber of Commerce which held its second meeting November 22 at the river home of its chairman, Col. R. L. Penick. In line with the adoption of this action, a general conference of the railway agricultural representatives, county agents, officials of Texas Technological college, feed manufacturers, dairymen and poultry raisers, and allied interests will be called early in the new year.

Stamford—From Florida to Wisconsin, from Old Mexico to Maine, from many points and many places come requests for information about West Texas and about the function and activities of the West Texas Chamber of Commerce. A flood of inquiries are received weekly at the headquarters office here of the region al organization, asking for descriptive literature and for explanation of the function and duties of the West Texas Chamber of Commerce. The annual Motorcade and traffic service activities are among matters about which information is wanted.

Roby—Roby poultry raisers have been organized by the poultry and dairy committee of the West Texas Chamber of Commerce and much enthusiasm is being manifest in this territory.

Lesson for December 4

LESSON TEXT—Isa. 5:1-23.
GOLDEN TEXT—Pure religion and undefiled before God and the Father is this, to visit the fatherless and widows in their affliction and to keep himself unspotted from the world.

PRIMARY TOPIC—How to Please God.
JUNIOR TOPIC—A Life That Pleases God.

INTERMEDIATE AND SENIOR TOPIC—A Life That Pleases God.
YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULT TOPIC—The Elements of Right Living.

1. Israel, the Favored Nation (vv. 1-7).

Their unique relation to God is presented under the figure of a vineyard. Observe:

1. God's peculiar favor (vv. 1, 2). God did for this nation what He did for no other nation in the history of the world. He evidenced it when He assigned the boundaries of Israel's inheritance (see Num. 34:1-13).

He gathered out the stones when the Canaanites were exterminated. The choicest vine which was planted therein was the Israelitish nation which had gone through the disciplinary process in Egyptian bondage. He built a tower in it when under David Jerusalem was made its capital city.

2. The obligation of the nation (v. 2).

The purpose of a vineyard is to bear fruit. The object of the husbandman in planting a vineyard and nurturing it is that it might bear fruit. The purpose of God in the selection and the blessing of the Israelitish nation was that it might bring forth fruit to His glory.

3. It bore only wild grapes (v. 4).

4. The desolation of the vineyard (vv. 5-7).

Since all efforts had been wasted, the owner of the vineyard now resolves to abandon it to the wild beasts of the forest.

II. The Sins Which Brought Ruin to the Nation (vv. 8-23).

The causes of this destruction are presented under six woes, each was pronounced against a particular sin.

1. Monopoly and oppression of the poor (vv. 8-10).

The crime against which the first woe was denounced is that of the avaricious grasping after property which leads to the accumulation of wealth in the hands of the few. "Joining house to house" and "laying field to field" means the sin of the greedy monopolist who in the agricultural district takes the form of the land grabber, in the commercial centers, the form of the big man crushing out the small ones.

2. Dissipation (vv. 11-17).

The sin here denounced is drunkenness. Several features are connected with this one sin.

(1) Drinking made life business of some (v. 11).

(2) They got up early and continue until late at night, until their whole being is inflamed.

(3) The effort to give their hellish business a show of refinement (v. 12). This is why pleasing music is heard pouring forth from the dens of infamy over our land.

(4) Blindness to God's warnings and judgments (v. 12).

Their drinking and dissipation rendered them insensitive to the dealings of Providence.

(5) God's judgments for such sins (vv. 13-17).

They went into captivity. The immediate cause assigned is ignorance, but it is a willful ignorance for which they are held responsible. They not only go into captivity, but there is great mortality among those who drink (v. 14). The records everywhere show a much higher death rate among drinking men. Drinking degrades all classes (v. 15). The country itself was made a waste (v. 18, 19). So daring do they become that they defy the judgments of the Almighty (v. 19).

3. Moral confusion (v. 20).

This woe is pronounced against those who try to adjust moral conditions to suit their sensual appetites.

4. Conceit (v. 21).

The fifth woe is pronounced against the sin of self-conceit. Many today have become so affected by sin that they are unable to make moral discriminations. Having a false estimate of their own wisdom they plan and act without reference to God.

5. Perversion of justice (vv. 22, 23).

The sixth woe is denounced against those who are in places of justice as judges. Because of their lack of moral discrimination, and because of desire for temporal gain they cause justice to miscarry.

Treatment of Sin
Use sin as it will use you. Spare it not for it will not spare you. It is your murderer, and the murderer of the world. Use it, therefore as a murderer should be used.—Richard Baxter.

Fear of Mistakes
Some of us know what it is to be miserably afraid of making mistakes in our work. How graciously He meets this with "I will direct their work in truth."—Frances Ridley Havergal.

LIVE STOCK NEWS

WINTER CARE OF FLOCK OF SHEEP

A great deal of the success with the lambs in the spring depends on the feed and care given the ewes during the winter.

If ewes are to develop good lambs they must have good feed and plenty of exercise. This does not mean that they should be fat. The aim should be to keep them in good thrifty condition. If plenty of roughage is available, the ewes, as a rule, will not need grain feed until about six weeks before lambing. Alfalfa hay is one of the best feeds for breeding ewes, writes Turner Wright in the Dakota Farmer. The clover hays are also good and should be used when alfalfa is not available or they can be mixed with the alfalfa to very good advantage. The run of a stalk field in the fall and early winter, and the use of corn stover or sorghum and similar fodders will help to lower the cost of winter keep, but as these feeds supply only a small amount of growth materials, the ewes should not be forced to subsist on them alone, as weak lambs will likely be the result. Used in connection with alfalfa or one of the clover hays, however, they make a very good winter ration.

Watch the flock closely and if any of the ewes begin to get thin in flesh, start feeding those ewes a small amount of grain each day. All the ewes in the flock ought to be put on a light grain feed about six weeks before lambing. About a half a pound a day of a mixture of about two-thirds oats and one-third corn or barley for each ewe is very good for the ration. If one is fortunate enough to have a good wheat or rye pasture available, the ewes should have access to it at all times when weather conditions will permit. No other winter feed gives quite such good results.

A supply of good water at all times is an important consideration. If the water can be heated in very cold weather just enough to remove the chill, it will be better for the ewes.

Many sheepmen make the mistake of housing their flock too closely in tight barns during the winter. A mature sheep does not need much protection from cold as its fleece will keep it warm enough. A good shed, open to the south, will serve the purpose of winter shelter very well. If this shed, or the yard surrounding it, opens into a large pasture, the run on this pasture every day will add to the health and thrift of the flock.

Find Soy Beans Useful in Fattening All Stock

Soy beans, which have taken a prominent role the last few years, not only for feeding of cattle, but also for hogs, sheep and poultry, have shown their merits again in the annual winter steer feeding trials at Purdue university agricultural experiment station. This home-grown protein supplement will take the place of cottonseed meal in a ration of silage, shelled corn and clover hay in fattening two-year-old steers for market. The soy beans not only will take the place of the cottonseed, but also will do it more effectively and will mean a greater profit, judging from the tests.

The lot of steers receiving soy beans in their ration showed an average daily gain of 2.42 pounds against the lot receiving cottonseed which gained 2.18 pounds a day. Ten steers were in each lot. Because of the faster, cheaper and higher rate of gain and also the higher finish, these steers were valued in the lots at $10.25 a hundred against $9.85 for the cottonseed meal lot. The profit per steer including pork produced by hogs following steers for the soy bean lot was $28.05 and only $16.47 for the cottonseed meal lot. The average profit over the last five years has been $5.99 per steer in favor of the soy bean feed group for the same reasons as mentioned.

Sudan Grass Good for Idle Horses in Winter

The sudan grass will make a quality of hay that can be fed very successfully as roughage to idle horses in winter. If fed with a good grain ration, horses at work do fairly well on it, but it is not the best quality of hay for work horses. A good quality of oat hay made by cutting the oats green or a good timothy and clover mixed would make a more suitable kind of hay for horses at work.

Sudan grass is not very satisfactory for pasture as it makes a very soft, rank growth during the growing season, and there would be danger of severe scouring and some danger of bloating in animals pastured on the sudan grass.

Prevent Hog Cholera

The surest method for preventing hog cholera is the vaccination of the pigs shortly after weaning. Experience has shown that the vaccination of the pig before that time may not produce immunity. With pigs the cost of vaccination is not large. Where this has not been done the only safe thing is to watch the herd very closely and at the first sign of trouble consult a veterinarian. If the disease is in the neighborhood vaccinate as soon as possible.

Cow Losing Her Cud

There really is no such thing as a cow losing her cud. Animals such as the cow and sheep swallow their food in a very coarse condition while eating and later this food is brought back into the mouth for further mastication and then passes back into the true stomach and from there into the rumen in small amounts at a time and swallowed. Hence if a cow should lose the cud which she was chewing another would be available in a short time.

DAIRY

ORGANIZATION IS NEED OF DAIRYING

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)
Effective organization in the production and distribution of dairy products, and the development of new markets, are necessary if the American dairy industry is to maintain a satisfactory economic position, Lloyd S. Tenny, chief of the bureau of agricultural economics, United States Department of Agriculture, told members of the Co-operative Pure Milk Association at Cincinnati, Ohio.

Mr. Tenny outlined the marked expansion in dairy production and marketing in leading foreign dairy countries in recent years. There is a tendency, he said, for foreign production to increase more rapidly than demand, as a result of which producers in the United States are facing increased foreign competition and importation of greater quantities of dairy products. On the other hand, with the exception of concentrated milk, the United States is not producing dairy products sufficient for domestic needs, and present tendencies in this country are for demand to increase as rapidly, if not more rapidly, than production.

Reviewing the world dairy situation, Mr. Tenny declared "the most important of the war developments has been the great expansion of production in new countries of the southern hemisphere. This expansion has continued since the war, and is being maintained in the face of falling prices. Since the seasonal production of these countries places the largest volume of their annual output on the winter markets of the northern hemisphere, this development in the southern hemisphere is equivalent to a great shift to winter dairying by producers of the northern hemisphere.

"This tends to take the peak from our winter market prices, thus reducing the profits of winter dairying. A second outstanding development in production is the rapid recovery and continued expansion in old country production, including the Netherlands, Denmark and other Baltic states."

Exports of butter and cheese from the United States have gradually disappeared since the early '80s, Mr. Tenny said. The export of the surplus of cheese, and then of butter, has given way to a net importation. The exportable surplus of concentrated milk also is being rapidly reduced. The disappearance of our export surplus of cheese is attributed in part to the rapid expansion of the demand for butter and silk in the United States, as the elimination of the export surplus of butter is due in part to the expansion in the domestic demand for milk.

Sanitation Important in Managing Dairies

One of the reasons for the high quality of butter that is manufactured by the Iowa brand creameries is due to the care which farmers take of their milk and cream in those communities, according to R. G. Clark, chief of the dairy and food division of the Iowa department of agriculture, in discussing the progress that has been made along dairy lines in Iowa.

"Sanitation is the backbone of higher quality in dairy products," said Mr. Clark. "Most of the increased prices which Iowa brand creameries are able to pay over other creameries is due to the improvement of quality. The creameries and their patrons are true examples of co-operation as they work together to secure the highest net return out of the farmer's product. Cleanliness, plus proper cooling of the milk and cream, are the biggest essentials in delivering a high quality product to the creameries. Unless the butter-maker has the best quality cream, he cannot manufacture the best quality butter. It is the quality butter that brings the premium on the market."

Occasionally an Entire Herd Is Unprofitable

Only very occasionally do testers find an entire herd of cows unprofitable. In the records now available, a case is rarely found where the best cows in the poorest herds are less productive than the poorest cows of the best herds. These records do show, in a very high percentage of cases, a wide margin of difference between the high and low producing animals in any herd. Through careful selection, the use of a good sire, properly balanced feeds, and intelligent care, it is altogether possible to develop the best animal on the majority of our ordinary farms into paying herds.

Cow Losing Her Cud

There really is no such thing as a cow losing her cud. Animals such as the cow and sheep swallow their food in a very coarse condition while eating and later this food is brought back into the mouth for further mastication and then passes back into the true stomach and from there into the rumen in small amounts at a time and swallowed. Hence if a cow should lose the cud which she was chewing another would be available in a short time.

POULTRY

CUT OUT DRAFTS FOR MOST EGGS

An important requirement for successful winter egg production in flock of pullets is a house that is free from drafts. Colds, chickenpox, and roup, says the New Jersey State College of Agriculture, often can be traced to the birds' becoming chilled because of a drafty house.

To insure oneself against this undesirable condition, it is necessary to have the house airtight on three sides. This is often difficult to do, but any cracks near the floor or directly around the roosts particularly are to be avoided. Cracks around the entrance door are a very common occurrence and one may often find the birds cuddled up in a far corner in an effort to keep warm. By putting weather strips on the doors the poultry men easily eliminate this problem.

After the three sides are tightened up, the front may be kept reasonably open. As a rule, however, it is best to have about equal proportions of glass and muslin in front, and the two combined may take up about one-half of the front surface of the house. The spaces between the rafters above the plate may also be kept open. The muslin curtains should be closed at night and never opened on stormy days or even in the early morning or late evening. The house should always feel comfortable when one enters it. Many poultrymen have found that the glass substitute products have been very satisfactory. They admit much more light than the muslin, and also keep the house warmer. Ventilation through the rafter spaces at the eaves is usually sufficient to keep the birds in good health.

With the sides and front well taken care of, the only possible cause for drafts would be a long house without partitions. To overcome the tendency for the wind to sweep in one end of such a house and out the other, it is well to build partitions every 40 feet. These should extend to the roof and come up to within three feet of the front of the house, or if desired, a door may be fitted into this three-foot space, making the partition solid. Partitions in the roosting quarters only should be built every 20 feet.

Forcing Maturity of Pullets Is Mistake

It is a mistake to force the maturity of pullets with large amounts of milk or meat, warns O. C. Eloff, agricultural specialist, Colorado Agricultural college. "A pullet should have a good body growth before she starts laying. An undersized pullet seldom makes a profitable hen. Small amounts of milk or meat should be used to produce normal growth, but it should not be overdone. Feed plenty of grain, part of it ground along with milk or meat."

"Once pullets have begun to lay," Mr. Eloff continues, "the milk or meat should be gradually increased, as it is part of the ration necessary to produce eggs. If there is a deficiency of animal protein in the ration, production will gradually decline and fall molt result. Gradually allow the birds all the milk they will drink, or if milk is not available bring the amount of meat scrap up to 20 per cent of the ground feed used."

Sees Hatchability and Feeding Value of Eggs

One of the important points brought out by Prof. J. G. Halpin of the University of Wisconsin at the Ohio poultry day at Wooster, Ohio, is that the hatchability and food value of eggs may be changed with the type of feed given. Professor Halpin asserted that the time will come when people will demand that eggs for their children shall not come from hens with rickets. It is, as he said, generally agreed that children are benefited by cod liver oil, especially during the winter months. But it is unnecessary to compel the children to take cod liver oil when it might as well be fed to the chickens in the first place, and the quality of the eggs improved to overcome the deficiency.

Hopper Space

Standing in line for their feed is objectionable to hens, and, furthermore, they will not do their best when forced to do this, says H. H. Alp, poultry extension specialist of the college of agriculture, University of Illinois. Hence the value of a good egg mash often is limited by the hopper in which it is fed, he said. Feeding space for all hens at all times is the rule that should be kept in mind in building a poultry feed hopper, he recommended.

Dry Skimmed Milk

Feed dealers and feed mixers are recognizing the increasing demand for dry skimmed milk, which is now being manufactured in sufficient quantities to supply the growing poultry needs. Milk by-products, semi-solid and dry, supply the poultryman a superior quality of protein and lime and certain vitamins; but apparently of equal or more importance is the milk sugar which in the intestinal tract seems to perform a service not supplied by any other feed on the list.

National Grades Eggs and Poultry

Standardized Products of Known Quality Are Market Essential.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)

A national poultry and egg standardization program involving the use of national grades in the purchase of eggs and poultry, the marketing of these products on the basis of such grades, and the ultimate sale of the products by retailers on the basis of established retail grades, was outlined by Roy C. Potts, chief marketing specialist, bureau of agricultural economics, United States Department of Agriculture, addressing the National Poultry, Butter and Egg association at Louisville, Ky.

"Standardized, graded poultry products of known quality are essential for efficient marketing," Mr. Potts declared. "National programs for economic production or for efficient marketing, to be of greatest value to the poultry industry, must be nationwide in scope and provide a co-ordinated program for industry improvement. This improvement, if it is to be of greatest benefit, should extend from the producer to the consumer. It should serve to stimulate an increased demand for a more uniformly graded, higher quality product. It should carry the benefits which accrue to the consumer and for which he pays back to the producer, there to serve as an incentive to produce a better or higher quality product."

Both Sides Benefit.
"The agencies between the producer and consumer also should be benefited because a healthier, more stable, more orderly situation would result. The risks and losses of the middle man would be minimized and thereby better results could be obtained by them. Such a national program of poultry and egg standardization in its ultimate or complete stage of development would require:

"1. The use of national grades as a basis for the purchase of eggs and poultry from the producer and the payment of prices—a proper price differential between the different grades.

"2. The marketing of eggs and poultry through the various wholesale channels of trade on the basis of established national grades.

"3. The ultimate sale of eggs and poultry to retailers and by retailers to consumers on the basis of established retail grades."

Laws Regulating Sales.

Mr. Potts pointed out that California and New York already have passed legislation which makes mandatory the retailing of eggs in accordance with established retail grades. Similar legislation is expected in other states, such legislation possibly extending to wholesale transactions and even to buying from producers at country points.

"The practical question for the poultry industry to consider," he declared, "is how can the various branches of the industry help in shaping the program and in making it of greatest benefit to the industry. For a number of years this association has from one angle or another been considering the question. The mercantile and produce exchanges have been considering it. It seems that the time is ripe for some definite concerted action by the industry."

New Variety of Fiber Flax Been Developed

Experimental work begun 17 years ago by the office of fiber investigations of the United States Department of Agriculture has resulted in the development of a variety of fiber flax adapted to conditions in the United States, where the climate is generally warmer and drier than in the flax growing regions of northern Europe, from which seed is generally obtained. The new variety known as "Saginaw" was grown on 1,000 acres in Michigan last year and produced approximately 8,000 bushels of seed.

The few growers who have been growing Saginaw say it is the first fiber flax that has ever grown that does not "run out," a characteristic of the imported seed which makes it necessary to import fresh supplies of seed.

Dogs Are Valuable in Ridding Farm of Pests

Dogs of the right sort and plenty, of help are the most valuable aids in getting rid of the rodents. Exhaust from automobiles driven into the holes and runs frequented by the rats and mice will also drive many from cover so that they can be killed. Calcium cyanide, placed in the burrows in small quantities, is also a good remedy to use where it is impracticable to dig the burrows open or drive the rodents out. Care should be taken in using calcium cyanide, however, to place it far enough down in the burrows to prevent any domestic animals from reaching it before it has all disappeared.

Plan to Eliminate Smut Entirely From Fields

It is possible to eliminate smutting smut entirely from wheat fields by observing the following recommendations: (1) Treat all wheat from infected fields with copper carbonate. (2) Be careful about purchasing seed from unreliable sources. The safest policy is to treat all seed when there is any doubt about smutting smut being present. (3) Early infected fields where winter wheat is grown should be planted to corn or oats for a year.

"Dockage" at Market Has Value at Home

Increased Quantity of Weed Seeds Found in Wheat.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)

The quantity of weed seeds in spring wheat shipped to market has been increasing so rapidly the last few years that the United States Department of Agriculture is trying to reduce wheat growers to eliminate the losses that result. In the case of flax the proportion of weed seeds, or "dockage," is even larger. The primary and principal loss is, of course, in the fields where weeds cause a loss of wheat due to crowding and to the plant food and moisture the weeds take in competition with the crop.

But the losses do not stop with the growing crop. It costs as much or more to harvest and thresh weeds as grain. The common practice is to send the weeds to market with the wheat. Hauling it to market is expensive and directly or indirectly the farmers also pay the freight on weeds as well as wheat. At the terminal market the wheat is likely to be graded lower if it is full of weed seed, and in any event the dockage is deducted before the wheat is paid for. The seller is paid only for the wheat. Dockage is not suitable for milling, but it does make a very fair feed for animals. The value of "screenings," as the dockage is called when it is sold, compares favorably with oats.

Agricultural advisers suggest that it would be profitable either to clean the wheat on the farm or at the country elevator, in this way retaining the feed value of the screenings. Seed wheat, in particular, should be cleaned carefully so that weed seeds will not be planted with the wheat. The annual farm feed value of the dockage produced in North Dakota alone is estimated at more than $5,000,000.

Morgan Mare Owned by Government Wins Race

Covering 80 miles of mountainous roads in the remarkable time of 8 hours and 56½ minutes, the registered Morgan mare, Jana, won first place among eight contestants in the endurance ride held this year at Brandon, Vt.

Jana is a five-year-old chestnut mare owned by the United States Morgan horse farm, Middlebury, Vt., having been previously used in farm work and trained only a short time for this ride. She was ridden by one of the boys on the farm and finished in excellent condition. The distance was covered in two consecutive days, 40 miles out one day and the same distance back on the next.

This contest was held in place of the 300-mile endurance ride which had been an annual horse event of prominence held at Brandon, Vt. Owing to the death of Chauncey C. Stillman, the principal sponsor of the event, no funds were available for the extensive five-day contest of 300 miles. New England horse enthusiasts were not to be denied the thrill of an endurance contest, however, and locally sponsored the shorter ride for this year.

The 80-mile ride, over rough and mountainous roads was considered a worthwhile event to test the speed and endurance of weight-carrying saddle horses, and the time made constitutes a record for an event of this kind.

Agricultural Hints

Lime and legumes are friends.

The lime content of the soil is most important in growing alfalfa.

The farmer who rotates doesn't run around in circles—he gets somewhere.

Every silo user, every agricultural college, every experiment station, advises the use of the silo.

Pop corn that has become too dry can be aided somewhat by putting a few drops of water on it before putting into the popper.

One of the greatest advantages of fall preparation of ground is that seeding can go on seasonably early in the spring.

If your mow is full of good quality hay of good leaf and color, well cured and palatable, it means that the biggest single protective source of natural food supply is on hand for the herd this winter.

COUNTY BRIEFS

STARKEY

Starkey, Nov. 28.—Mr. and Mrs. Frank Tye of White Deer spent the Thanksgiving holidays with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Howard.

Mr. Rufus Kelly returned from a trip to California recently.

Miss Bessie Moore of Wayland college spent the Thanksgiving holidays in the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Moore.

The musical entertainment given in the home of Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Howard Friday night was enjoyed by a large crowd.

Miss Sallie Rattan returned from Matador last Saturday to be here in readiness to begin her school work Monday.

The party in the home of Miss Katy Belle Clay Saturday night, was enjoyed by all present.

Several of the neighbor ladies visited Mrs. Geo. Attaway last week. Mrs. Attaway has been ill for some time and we are sorry to report that she is no better.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry Assiter and daughters of Cone took Thanksgiving dinner with his sister, Mrs. J. M. Moore.

Sunday school and church were well attended Sunday morning. Rev. Attaway filled his regular appointment.

Rev. Humphries will preach here next Sunday morning. Everyone is invited.

Miss Mary Lee Jonas visited Miss Willie Mae Atkinson Sunday.

Miss Letha Elmore spent Saturday night with Miss Maude Kroppe.

Mrs. J. W. Moore has been quite sick for several days.

Mr. and Mrs. R. L. Kropp attended church at Cone Sunday morning.

The singing in the home of Mr. and Mrs. E. A. Grigsby, Sunday night was enjoyed by all present.

PRAIRIE CHAPEL

Prairie Chapel, Nov. 28.—Bro. Joe Kelly of Abilene held revival services at the Prairie Chapel church of Christ during the latter part of last week. A full house heard an excellent sermon on the "Two Ways of Life" at the closing service Sunday night.

Tollie Corder will preach at the Prairie Chapel church the third Sunday in December.

The stork has been busy at Prairie Chapel lately, bringing a little daughter to gladden the home of Mr. and Mrs. Will McClendon and a new daughter in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Milford Carthel.

Our basket ball boys lost to Lockney by a score of 31-27. They won the game played with Sand Hill but we failed to get the score.

Frank Copeland, father of Mrs. John Carthel of this community will take a class of singers to Dallas, December 16, to give a program over W. F. A. A. Miss Opal Carthel, also singer and daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Roy Carthel, is a member of the class. All the Prairie Chapel radio fans will want to tune in on Dallas Friday, December 16, and hear Opal sing.

This column does not suit the writer or readers either. What we would like to see at the head would be something like this: "Four inch rain, makes wheat crop almost a certainty" or "Biggest snow in Years covers wheat of entire Panhandle, and also blocks roads."

LAKEVIEW

Lakeview, Nov. 28.—The remains of the eight year old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Warren of the McAdoo community were interred in the Lakeview cemetery on the afternoon of Thanksgiving. Many of the friends and relatives were present. Utmost sympathy is extended to the bereaved.

Mr. and Mrs. George Gilpin visited in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Wright Sunday.

A number of our citizens and their families enjoyed the rodeo held in the suburbs of Floydada. The round-up was so common on the Great Plains is now a rare occurrence.

The faculty of the Lakeview school served guests at a six o'clock dinner Thanksgiving in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Wright of Floydada. It was pleasant to note that the entire family of Mr. and Mrs. Wright were present on this day.

Those interested in singing will be pleased to hear of the recent order for books in the singing and church services. There is to be community singing at the Lakeview school house next Sunday. All are invited to attend. Baptist preaching Saturday night and Sunday. It is hoped a large crowd will be present.

ANTELOPE

Antelope, Nov. 28.—Mr. J. E. Jackson, owner of the Jackson Gins of Spur was visiting in this community last Sunday.

Mr. Bill Brown and Homer Farmer while coming home Sunday from Floydada ran into a car and injured both of the boys. They were having trouble with their lights, and finally their lights went out and they could not see the car in front of them.

Miss Edna Edwards who has been attending school in Floydada spent the week end with her parents here.

Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Jones and family spent Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. Lench at Mayview.

Miss Elsie Cooper has been ill the past week.

Mr. Arthur Cooper who has been working near Abilene, is visiting his parents here.

A thanksgiving program given by the Antelope school children was enjoyed by the many attending it.

Mr. H. C. Aston and E. C. Edmonds of Spur spent Sunday and Monday with Mr. and Mrs. John Aston.

Miss Laura Belle White spent Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. W. W. Wisdom.

Miss Sarah Frances Smith spent Sunday with Miss Frances Wisdom.

Mr. and Mrs. G. W. Crump of Crosbyton and daughter, Norma June spent Thanksgiving with Mr. and Mrs.

John Aston.

PLEASANT HILL

Pleasant Hill, Nov. 28.—Mr. and Mrs. R. M. Morgan and children attended the singing at McAdoo Sunday afternoon. They reported a good singing.

Mr. and Mrs. L. Y. Woolsey visited near Rails Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Neil of Floydada visited Mrs. Evers Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. W. B. Jones of the Baker community visited their daughter, Mrs. T. J. Cardinal Sunday.

There was a good crowd out at singing Saturday night. We appreciate our visiting friends and want them to come back again.

Fifty-eight friends, neighbors and children of Mr. and Mrs. R. Cardinal gathered at the Cardinal home Friday night. The surprise party was given in honor of Mr. R. Cardinal's eighty-third birthday. Forty-two was played by the older people while the young folks played various games. Delicious refreshments consisting of sandwiches, pie, cake and hot chocolate were served to the tired and happy players.

Jack Thompson, a nephew of Mr. W. B. Jones died at the home of his cousin, Mrs. T. J. Cardinal.

HARMONY

Harmony, Nov. 28.—The students of the Harmony school are especially proud this week because of their move to the new school building. Harmony's new $10,000 brick school house would be a credit to any rural community, and bespeaks the hope and appreciation of the patrons for the rising generation.

The pupils of the school were entertained on Thanksgiving Day by a party and spread dinner prepared by all and supervised by their teachers, Miss Blanche Scott and Mrs. Chas. B. Smith.

A number of people from this neighborhood attended the Rodeo and filming of the "Coming of Dan Noble" conducted by Jack Armstrong at Floydada last week.

Miss Vesta Hacker of Quitaque visited Miss Blanche Scott last Sunday.

A number of Harmony people attended the singing at Blanco last Sunday afternoon. All reported an enjoyable time and a splendid service of songs.

Misses Thelma and Pearl Heard of Lubbock and Miss Marie Parkey of Plainview visited home folks during the Thanksgiving holidays.

E. L. AYRES' SALE

THE REASON FOR THIS SALE—The reasons for this Sale are many and adequate. Due to conditions prevailing our stocks are out of proportion and size and if we are to continue our policy of keeping abreast of the times and seasons these stocks must be reduced—must be sacrificed. We have a large stock bought at the lowest point of the market. Now folks with merchandise advancing every day we have forgotten the cost—then cut and slashed prices as we have never done before. This stock will be reduced if cutting the heart out of Prices will do it.

Mrs. Noland is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. L. Spence and Mr. Noland is the son of Mr. and Mrs. T. M. Noland, both families living in the Center community.

The bride wore a beautiful brown satin dress with accessories to match. The immediate families of both the bride and the groom with the officiating minister and a few most intimate friends were entertained at a dinner Sunday at the home of the bride's parents, and Monday the parents of the groom entertained some 73 friends and relatives to a most sumptuous spread at high-noon.

Many useful and beautiful presents were received by the young couple, who will make their home in this community. We wish for them all the good things in life and that their journey may be a happy one.

Oh for a Good Top!

Have your curtain and auto top work done before the really cold weather. Do not wait until the cold wintry blast hits you. "Do not put off until tomorrow what you can have done today." Remember when the weather gets colder we will be rushed with work. Avoid that rush by having it done now.

And those old shoes—those with holes in the soles, and the tops torn, can be made into a pair of new shoes by us, at a low cost to you.

STORY FROM THE START

Handsome, fastidious and wealthy—young St. Croix Creighton waits his sweetheart at their trysting place. She is late, this ordinary little Pennsylvania Dutch girl, Meely Schwenckon. Despite her seeming innocence and ignorance, she succeeds in keeping him at a distance, to his chagrin. Meely, in the Schwenckon home, where she is boarding, is altogether unlike the girl who meets St. Croix clandestinely. She is the teacher in the neighborhood school, of which Marvin Creighton, St. Croix's brother, is superintendent. Meely learns that Marvin was to take Marvin's place and marry the English lady, but, believing she was attracted by the Creighton wealth, had refused the alliance. It is the rumor that St. Croix is to take Marvin's place and marry the English girl. St. Croix's jealousy is aroused by Meely's report of an aged suitor for her hand.

"I'll hide 'em good away," she said slyly. "I'd like to leave 'em all taste 'em, at home, but it would look suspicious!"

"I want a reward!" he said.

She drew back a bit; but he suddenly snatched her face firmly between his two hands and brought his lips to hers—almost. With a wrench of her head she averted the contact, and his touch, as usual, met only her cool cheek instead of her rosy mouth.

"You always kiss me so unexpected!" she said breathlessly, looking flushed and almost frightened. "I wish you wouldn't always get me so unexpected!"

"Meely!" He took hold of her shoulders and turned her right about face. "You're going to hold perfectly still and let me kiss you right—on your—lips!"

She tried to pull herself free, but he held her in a relentless grip. "Hold still!"

"I won't," she snapped, holding her face averted. "Le' me be! Please le' me be, Mr. Creighton!"

"Meely! Why don't you ever let me kiss you on the mouth?"

She hung her head and answered shyly. "My lips is for the man I marry!"

"But, Meely, my girl, you must know," he said in a low voice in which his suppressed passion quivered, "that I want much more than your lips! Or why, my dear, would I be spending so much time with you?"

"Ach!" She raised a radiant, sparkling face to his. "Do you want to marry me, Mr. Creighton?"

His hands fell from her shoulders; he turned from her and bent his eyes to the ground.

"Ach," she apologized humbly, "but time I guess I went too far! But, Mr. Creighton, what is it, then, you want?"

He turned again and looked at her. "Meely! I'm d-d if I know whether you're as innocent and ignorant as an angel or as deep as hell."

"You and I both know, my dear little girl, that we're not spending all these hours together, week after week, for the pleasure of each other's conversation!"

She shook her head hopelessly. "It's always wondered me why you want to set 'round talkin' to a dumb thing like me, so oneducated as what I am, and ignorant like you say angels is—"

"Why do you pretend not to know why it is?" His voice was a little thick and husky; his hand hot which clasped her cool one lying in her lap.

The innocence of a new-born babe was in the eyes she raised to his. "Deedn't I don't. Why do you?" But before the burning hunger of his eyes she recoiled; and drawing her hand from his clasp, she rose hastily and walked away.

"Meely!" he called.

Slowly she turned and came back to him; and with a childishly obvious effort to divert his attention from herself, she spoke to him ingratiatingly of what she felt sure would have that effect. "Ach, Mr. Creighton, did you know your brother is livin' right on our farm, with our hard man and his wife?"

"With your hired man?" St. Croix exclaimed, an angry flush covering his face and neck. "Living with him! He would!" he added bitterly. "That's the sort of society he seems to prefer—farm hands and miners!"

"And you, too," said Meely, with her ingratiating smile, "like low-down company—ain't? It must run in your family."

"If you're referring to yourself as 'low-down,' kindly don't do it again—it's insulting to my taste!" He drew her roughly to him and she nestled into his embrace.

"Please tell me," she coaxed, "about your brother. He ain't the swell gentleman you are, is he?"

"He doesn't know you, does he?"

"Not yet."

"But," said St. Croix anxiously, "he's bound to meet you, of course?"

"I guess meebly."

"Don't give us away—our meeting up here!"

"Ach, no, for my Pop would kill me if he knowed—have knew. But it does wonder me, Mr. Creighton, that your brother would board at Absalom Puntz, as common as what they are yet! My land's sakes alive! Why does he do it? Why don't he live at his own home with yours?"

"None of your business, my dear!"

She pouted. "I'll get it out of Absalom's missus, then. Or I'll meet up with your brother hisself at Absalom's and get it out of him."

"Oh, no, you won't ask him!" St. Croix shrugged. "People don't ask my brother Marvin impertinent questions!"

"Is he so proud, too, like you?"

"His pride," St. Croix sneered, "takes another form than that of the rest of the family! His 'pride' won't let him live, he says, on the 'charity of miners'—won't let him take more than six per cent interest on our invested capital!—insisting that all the rest should be turned over to the miners and to the upkeep and safeguarding of the industry! Talks d-d rot like that! Bolshevism! That's what it is! D-d Bolshevism!"

"Is it? Why, I didn't know Bolshevism was so nice and kind and generous like that! I thought they was a lot of cut-throats, them Bolshevists."

"So they are! The poor cutting the throats of the rich to make themselves rich!"

"But your brother ain't poor."

"He and all of us would be if we ran the mines as he thinks they should be run! If he ever does come management of the mines and the way the miners' families have been housed and paid. And at times of strikes he'd howl 'round at sight of the women and children looking starved. And just recently, when a miner who'd worked for us for twenty years was killed and his widow and children had to vacate their cottage, Marvin raised h—! Wanted her pensioned; wanted Father to give her the house she'd lived in for twenty years; wanted him to educate her children—all sorts of things that would have established the worst sort of precedent." St. Croix paused, realizing he was using words beyond her range.

But she answered, "Do you call the Golden Rule in business the worst sort of—"

She, in her turn, stopped short—and hastily changed the subject. "But I guess your brother'll soon have to find another boarding place, for Absalom's soon moving to town. So, then, when Absalom moves, meebly the new farm hand Pop pars won't take your brother to board. And meebly," said Meely suddenly, "my Pop might take him! Say, wouldn't that be a scream, Mr. Creighton?"

St. Croix privately decided that in the face of such a contingency his only prudent course would be to put an end to these sweet secret meetings with Meely; for the Creighton family had learned to their cost that Marvin's eccentric conscience was a thing to be reckoned with.

But even as he came to this decision he realized that it could not be done. He could not give up this girl. At whatever cost short of marrying her (that, of course, an impossibility) he would have her; and the cost, in view of his present delicate position in relation to his English cousin, might prove high indeed! But he would pay it rather than give her up!

His self was not used to giving up things. His self-control was flabby from lack of exercise.

It never occurred to him that when he was quite ready to take the girl she would not readily come to him. Had he all along supposed her to be a "virtuous" maiden, he would not, at this moment, be here in this spot with her. But although he was not a despoiler of virtue, a man without heart or conscience, he certainly was not above accepting such gifts of life as the gods vouchsafed to him.

St. Croix's conscience, though not troubled as to his relation with Meely, was by no means at peace when he thought of the cousin whom he hoped to marry. He sentimentally felt that to go to his bride straight from a love affair with a "common" girl like Meely would be to wrong her (not Meely, but the bride) and the struggle that went on in his soul between his ideal of what the bridegroom of a high-born and immaculate lady should be and his compelling infatuation for the farm girl was at times bitter and devastating.

But there was never any real doubt in his mind as to which side in that struggle would win.

She Hung Her Head and Answered Shyly, "My Lips Is for the Man I Marry!"

CHAPTER IV

Meely knew just enough about the profession of teaching to know that she knew shockingly little about it; and her dread, therefore, of the county superintendent's impending visit to her school was a sword over her head.

"If I only knew what he expects (or hopes) to find me doing when he comes, I'd be doing it or making a bluff at doing it!"

She knew that to a professional teacher her methods must seem grotesquely unprofessional, being based on the same principle as that by which she lived most of her life—or tried to; that principle being the imperative need to extract all the entertainment possible from any situation in which you found yourself. So she worked really very hard to make her days in her schoolroom yield entertainment, first to herself, and secondly to forty rather bucolic children of all ages and sects (Amish, New and Old Mononites, Dunkards) who filled her school. A few vigorous and tireless hours were devoted to drilling in geography, multiplication tables, grammar, spelling (she suspected that the way she did that drilling would have made any real pedagogue shudder) and the rest of the time was delightfully spent in teaching what she, not the school trustees, thought children ought to know—fairy stories, poems, plays.

into his share of the mines he'll ruin the whole business, his share and mine, too, d-d him! Oh, don't let's talk of him! My father and I see red at the sound of his name!"

"And your mother, too?"

"He's breaking her heart!" St. Croix said with sincere feeling. "Disgracing the family by living with common laborers! Turning school-teacher! Making us the talk of the whole state! It's almost killing my mother!"

"But," Meely protested, puzzled, "I can't see he's doin' anything bad! It's just that he wants to act kinder to other ones than any of you wants to."

"It's his quarreling with my father and leaving home that hurts my mother so, and makes her suffer!"

"Why's he so different to what yous all are? Why ain't he greedy, too, to hog all for hisself?" she sweetly asked.

"We're not 'hogging' all for ourselves! Do you know what we pay annually to the people who work for us?" He named a hugely impressive sum. "And you talk about our 'hogging' all for ourselves!"

"But why does your brother talk that way, then, if it ain't? What makes him different to yous?" she persisted.

"Oh, from the time he was a kid he's argued with my father about the

Early Cradle Formed From Hollowed Log

Cradles, in their earliest form, were merely logs, scooped out to form more or less comfortable resting places for babies. They were without rockers, since the natural shape of the logs made their use unnecessary. Cradles have varied with different modes of living and reflect in their diversity of form and adornment the progress of the cabinetmaker's art. The Romans are said to have used cradles of considerable refinement, but after the decline of the empire, accompanied as it was with the decay of living, the cradle, with other furniture forms, assumed a crude and humble aspect. One of the early forms of the cradle was the oaken chest without a lid. Baskets of osiers were sometimes used, in which the child, wrapped in swaddling clothes, was pinned. The American cradle of oak in the Metropolitan museum in New York dates from the early Seventeenth century.

Fabulous wealth and the skill of the greatest craftsmen have been lavished on the cradles of royal children throughout history. These important beds have been gilded and carved, intricately inlaid with gold and gems upholstered in the choicest silks and fitted with the most sumptuous coverings of velvet and fur.—Dorothy Bent, in Art and Decoration.

Appropriated Motto

"Ich dien" is a German phrase, meaning literally "I serve." It was originally the motto of John, the blind king of Bohemia, who served in the army of the king of France and was slain in the battle of Crecy, 1346. The victorious English army was led by Edward the Black Prince, who appropriated the motto, which since that time has been the motto of the prince of Wales.

India Kept Poor by Hidden Gold

Billions of Dollars' Worth Secretly Hoarded or Used for Ornaments.

Washington.—Five billion dollars' worth of gold and silver treasure is sequestered in India in temple decorations, jeweled ornaments and bars of bullion, together with the bangles, anklets, necklaces and American "eagles," with which millions of women array themselves, according to a new study of the legendary "wealth of the Indies" submitted to the United States Department of Commerce.

"Frozen wealth," the government economists call this treasure, for it is distributed and used in such forms that it yields not a penny of return to its owners nor a dollar of credit to carry on the world's commerce.

With a lofty indifference to international money markets and the needs of trade, India sprinkles gold dust over the food served at extravagant banquets. Immense quantities of gold and silver are used to array brides for their marriage ceremonies, and in a multitude of other forms of decoration.

Gold is believed, moreover, to have an occult power of healing the sick. "It is a popular remedy in the native pharmacopoeia," says the government study, "and medicines containing gold are favored for many diseases."

The World's Gold Supply.

All this has more than a picturesque interest. It involves the problem of altering the distribution of the world's gold supply—a problem that took on new importance when executives of the British, French and German Central Reserve banks and the American Federal Reserve system recently foregathered in New York and Washington, and with the adjustment of Federal Reserve rediscount rates below the European level.

As the world recovered from the financial chaos of the war most nations have struggled back to, or toward, a gold standard for their currencies. To establish and maintain such standards they must have gold reserves. The currents of international trade and other influences have brought to America's coffers about half of the world's monetary stock of gold. But in the last quarter of a century India has been quietly absorbing immense quantities of the yellow metal. With a store now estimated at about $2,500,000,000, she draws to herself a large part of the new gold produced from year to year.

Meanwhile, the world's gold production has declined sharply from the maximum for this century, reached between 1910 and 1915. Although there has been a recovery in part since 1922, this increase has been vitiated, so far as monetary gold for the world is concerned, by the increase of Indian absorption.

Why Gold is Hoarded.

The wealth is scattered among millions of unorganized holders, and even the silver coins which constitute the metallic currency are snatched into private hoards by the ryots or peasant farmers. This problem of hoarding, Bliss' report shows, is at the root of the pathetic plight of millions of these farmers. Hereditary custom, social organization, seasonal harvests and the still primitive financial system all influence them to assemble any wealth they have in a readily portable form and often to hide it.

In old days of tyranny and oppression, manifest prosperity was an invitation to be stripped of one's possessions. Hostile invasions also forced great southward migrations of people who, to save their wealth, had to collect it in a highly concentrated form. These conditions have left their influence to this very day.

Other Causes of Saving.

The Hindu family, moreover, ordinarily holds all real property and household goods in common. The individual wishing to save for his own use can segregate his savings only in the form of gold and silver. Millions of the native population, too, have an access to banks. In time of stress they must draw on accumulated reserves or resort to the money lender—at 75 per cent interest.

"Consequently," Mr. Bliss writes, "there is a strong tendency in times of prosperity to purchase small quantities of silver and gold in the form

Weight Reduces Mind Efficiency, Doctor Says

New York.—If you are fifty years old and weigh within a few pounds of the average person of your age, you are between 20 and 40 pounds too heavy to reach the maximum mental and physical efficiency. Dr. Louis L. Dublin, statistician for the Metropolitan Life Insurance company, told the United Press.

Doctor Dublin's statement was made in conjunction with his indorsement of a book called "Your Weight and How to Control It," which has just been published. This is the first volume regarding weight control that has ever had the complete indorsement of the American Medical association.

"The amount below average weight," Doctor Dublin said, "should increase as people grow older. An excess of 10 pounds, for example, is associated with the most favorable conditions among people between the ages of twenty and twenty-five." At the age of thirty a level is said to be reached, after which underweight is more to be desired than overweight.

TWO U. S. MARINES FIGHT TO DEATH WITH 30 REBELS

Heroism and Unflinching Courage Marked Last Stand of Aviators in Nicaragua

Managua, Nicaragua.—Heroism and unflinching courage against overwhelming odds marked the last stand of Second Lieut. E. A. Thomas and Sergt. Frank Dowdell, American marine aviators. It was revealed in advices from the interior stating definitely that the missing flyers were killed by outlaws a month ago. The report came from Nicaraguans in Ocotal.

After their plane crashed both men escaped from the machine, which subsequently caught fire and was destroyed, the report says. The men, who were unharmed, were able to secure the machine gun from the plane and then to escape down into a deep valley, eluding the rebel General Sandino's followers.

Soon after the flyers went into the valley, they encountered two men whom they made prisoners.

Marching toward Jicaral, one of the prisoners wheeled suddenly and slashed at one of the marines—which one is not stated—with a machete inflicting a severe wound on his neck and shoulder. The other marine whipped out his revolver and killed the assailant, but during the melee the other prisoner escaped.

The unwounded marine dragged and carried his comrade to a cave.

Meanwhile the prisoner who had escaped reached Sandino and related what had happened, whereupon the outlaw leader sent a force of 30 or 40 men, who found no difficulty in trailing the marines, by blood spots, Sandino's men took up an ambush near the cave and began firing on the American flyers as they left the cave.

A desperate fight followed, the marine drew his pistol, as did his com-

One Firm to Build 1,200 Flying Machines

New York.—One airplane manufacturer will build 1,200 flying machines next year, which is more than the entire aircraft industry produced in 1926, according to William P. MacCracken, Jr., assistant secretary of commerce for aeronautics, who spoke at a dinner given here for Sir Philip A. G. D. Saxon, under-secretary for air of Great Britain.

Rapid progress in aviation, due to the great increase in private ownership of airplanes, was indicated by Mr. MacCracken and by Grover Loening, designer of amphibian aircraft, who made a plea for the application of the methods of volume production to the building of airplanes. Sir Philip will probably be the first man to possess one of the new Ford automobiles, he revealed at the dinner.

of coins, bullion or ornaments as a reserve against want.

"Millions of people, particularly in south India and east India, never have a sufficient margin to do even this, as they have no savings whatever; this is evidenced by the necessity for famine relief measures in many sections as soon as there is a crop failure."

German Railways Adopt Unique Time System

Berlin.—A unique time computation of 0:00 has resulted from the adoption by the German railways of the 24-hour time table. Theoretically, of course, the new system of reckoning time calls for a computation of from 0 to 24, whereby the arrival of trains at midnight is to be designated with 24.

But though no one ever thought of 0:30 as a time specification for any train on wheels, this vacuous numeral has, notwithstanding, become an accepted official item of the German time table in which the slow passenger train for Leipzig is scheduled as leaving the Anhalter Bahnhof in Berlin at 0:00.

COME TO OUR SHOW ROOMS Tomorrow for Full Information on the NEW FORD CAR

December 2nd is the day the whole world will see THE WONDERFUL NEW FORD

The Ford Car has always been known as a car that will take you there and bring you back. The New Ford will not only do that, but it will do it in good style. You will be proud of the New Ford. Henry Ford says:

"No other automobile can duplicate the new Ford car at the Ford price because no other manufacturer does business the way we do."

"We make our own steel—we make our own glass—we mine our own coal—we make virtually every part used in the Ford car. But we do not charge a profit on any of these items or from these operations. We would not be playing fair with the public if we did so. Our only business is the automobile business."

Plainview—Three Hale county meetings have been held recently to discuss plans for he erection of a co-operative creamery to cost more than $20,000. Abernathy, Hale Center and Plainview are taking the lead in the matter.

NEW FORD CARS WILL BE SHOWN

Continued from First Page designed for exterior beauty, but has as well the interior roominess, convenience and luxurious appointments to be found in much higher priced automobiles. On an instrument board of satin-finished nickel are mounted the speedometer, gasoline gauge, ammeter and ignition lock, with a dash light in the center. The new military type sun visor, with crown roof and round corners, are features of the closed models. Unusually narrow pillars and very wide doors and windows give maximum vision. Nickered radiator shell and head lamps further accentuate the exterior attractiveness, while choice of four colors in pyroxylin finish are offered.

Simplicity in design has also been carried to the ignition. There is only one coil, in a waterproof case. There are no vibrators to adjust, or no exposed cables to work loose or short circuit from water. The distributor is located in a readily accessible position on top of the engine.

Centrifugal water pump, large radiator and airplane propeller type fan provide a cooling system that makes bevel gear drive are interesting feature without enough oil, or dry radiator. From 20 to 30 miles to a gallon of gasoline, depending upon driving speed, is the gasoline consumption announced. Feed to carburetor is by gravity.

The oiling system, also a distinctive Ford Design, is a combination of pump splash and gravity feed. The new transmission is of the selective sliding gear type, with standard shift, three speeds forward and one reverse. The main shaft runs on ball-bearings, the counter shaft on roller bearings, and the reverse idler on bronze bearings, a power saving design unusual on light cars. Shifting gears is noiselessly accomplished, at the pressure of a finger.

Multiple dry-die clutch, rear axle of three-quarter floating type housed in electrically welded steel, and spiral the car very difficult to overheat, ex-tures. The axle shafts carry none of the weight of the car, the wheels running on roller bearings in the housing. Newly developed springs of the transverse semi-elliptic type and hydraulic shock absorbers prevent excessive up-and-down movement and remove side-sway.

Irreversible steering gear, which prevents shocks from being transmitted back to the hands of the driver, makes handling exceptionally easy. Maximum steering safety is further provided by a gear housing of welded steel gorgings, and a steel tube steering column welded into the housing, making a sturdy and exceptionally safe one-piece unit.

Ford-designed steel spoke wheels completely welded into a one-piece assembly, are provided.

There are six models of the new car. They are the phaeton, roadster, sport coupe, coupe, Tudor sedan and Fordor sedan.

Local dealers are preparing for a reception next Friday, when the models of the new lines will be shown in photographs and charts.

Lockney will get its first description of the new line of Ford automobiles tomorrow.

A public reception to be held by the local dealers is part of the national introduction of the new Ford models. In thousands of communities over the United States tomorrow this new line of moderate priced light automobiles will be introduced to millions of people.

The doors of the showrooms are to be opened promptly at eight o'clock and attendants will be on hand thru out the day to explain the new and interesting features of the car which is expected to make a new chapter in automotive history.

The new Ford cars are said to be the product of several years of study and planning by Henry Ford and his engineers in the great Ford laboratories at Dearborn. Mr. Ford has himself announced that there is nothing quite like the new Ford car and has stated that it will prove just as great a pioneer in the present field of low priced cars of quality as the famous Model T was a pioneer in its field for more than nineteen years. Among the many visitors to the reception will be many prominent officials executive men, civic and professional organizations and other leaders in the life of the community, who have been especially invited.

The performance of these new cars, it is said, will be startling when viewed in the light of automobile performance of the past.

Local dealers have been notified by Ford officials at Detroit that the factories throughout the country are now preparing to produce the new cars in numbers exceeding even the tremendous production records achieved in the manufacture of the Model T line.

Company officials at Detroit also repeated their early announcement that production of the new Ford line will not make the Model T obsolete. The manufacture of new parts for Model T replacements will continue to be an important factor of the Ford plant as long as any of the Model T cars are still in operation, the local dealers were advised. Because of this policy, present owners of Model T cars will be able to keep their cars in perfect order as long as those cars remain in commission.
