Sheriff P. G. Stegall and Deputy E. Ray Smith, arrested "Shorty" Bloxom, at his home south of Lockney yesterday, and lodged him in jail at Floydada, on a charge of transporting intoxicating liquor.

When he drove into the lot at his home, he saw the officers coming, and began smashing the jars of liquor he had in the truck, the liquor pouring through the cracks in the truck bed to the ground, where some of it was caught in a small hole in the ground, and the officers to make sure that was whiskey, knelt down and tasted the fluid.

The three men are confined in the Nolan county jail here and have been questioned at length. One of them has offered an alibi in which he throws all blame for the slaying onto another of the men held.

Will Form Highway Association for No. 53

Will Ask Organization of All Towns Along Route from Oklahoma City to El Paso

A move was started at the Chamber of Commerce meeting in Lockney Monday at noon, which will have as its goal the organization of all the towns and communities along State Highway No. 53, which will be opened from Clarendon through Silverton, Lockney, Petersburg, Lubbock, Brownfield, and other towns to a connection with the Bankhead Highway on the T. & P. railroad at a point near El Paso. The highway which is now open along the route, except from Silverton to Lubbock, along the Denver road, is to be opened and designated as a state highway, and the purpose of the organization will be to have the road opened, widened and designated.

This road will give this section of the state direct connection with Oklahoma City, St. Louis and the North, and with points along the T. & P. railroad, El Paso, Old Mexico and California on the South and West, and will be worth as much to this section of the country as the Lee Highway.

A meeting will be called of delegates from all towns along the line to meet in Lubbock at an early date, when a permanent organization will be perfected, and will get busy on the proposition.

GEN. FELIX H. ROBERTSON, CONFEDERATE VETERAN, DIES

Waco, Texas, April 20.—General Felix H. Robertson, last of the Confederate generals, died here today. General Robertson, who was 88 years old, had been in failing health for more than a year.

The body of the distinguished veteran will lie in state at a funeral parlor here until 9:30 o'clock Sunday morning, when it will be removed to the Catholic church of the Assumption where the funeral services will be conducted by Rev. J. B. O'Leary.

General Robertson was planning to attend the Confederate reunion at Little Rock, Ark., in May, if his health permitted. He was guest of honor at the reunion last year in Florida.

Surviving him are his widow, who was Miss Lizzie Dwyer of Brenham before her marriage to the general in 1892, and four children: Judge Felix H. Robertson of Dallas, Jerome Robertson of Chicago, Mrs. Julia Chetavant of San Antonio, Mrs. Sallie Smith of North Manchester, Ind.

Youngest General

The youngest general of the Civil War in either the Southern or Northern armies, General Robertson outlived all of his contemporaries of equal rank. Until recently, he and General McCausland of West Virginia were the only surviving generals of the Southern army.

If he was the youngest general of the army, he was also one of its greatest fighters, for he was constantly in battle from the very moment the great conflict opened until the instant of its close.

The first shot at Sumpter in April 1861, found young Robertson on his way to Richmond, Va., the Confederate capital. He had just resigned from his class at West Point, two months before graduation. Arriving at Richmond, he was appointed a lieutenant of artillery by President Jefferson Davis, who was a personal friend. His first assignment was with General Beauregard's army. In a short time he became a captain of artillery and organized Robertson's battery. Sent north with General Albert Sidney Johnson's army, he faced the enemy at the battle of Shiloh and from then on was in every great battle of the Army of Tennessee.

Under Johnson, Bragg, and Hood, he rose rapidly through all grades, becoming brigadier-general in Wheeler's cavalry. When Sherman marched to the sea, one of the obstacles he encountered was Robertson and his men. General Robertson fought Sherman every foot of the way.

At the battle of Peach Tree Creek, he was chief of artillery and there performed what then was considered a miracle. He broke a Union infantry advance with artillery, using 80 guns with grape.

Wounded in Battle

A few months before the surrender he was wounded in the left arm at Buckhead Church, Ga. He surrendered to General Kilpatrick at Macon, Ga. A major general's commission was on the way to him at the time, but Federal troops captured it.

His surrender was that of a soldier defeated but not routed. When he saw that further resistance was useless, he disbanded his command, and they rode two days to find the headquarters of General Kilpatrick, the nearest Union general.

As he rode up to the Union headquarters at Macon, a group of young Northern officers stood about the entrance. They were somewhat astonished to see the figure in gray dismount and walk toward Kilpatrick's office.

Then there was a shout from the group. "By God, it's Felix," someone exclaimed, and there was a rush to greet the gray clad officer.

The Union officers were the West Point classmates Robertson had left five years before. The war was over; the bitterness of battle was at an end. Robertson had nothing left but his horse and a saddle bag of worthless Confederate money. The Federal officers made up a purse of $180 in gold and sent him on his way, a free man.

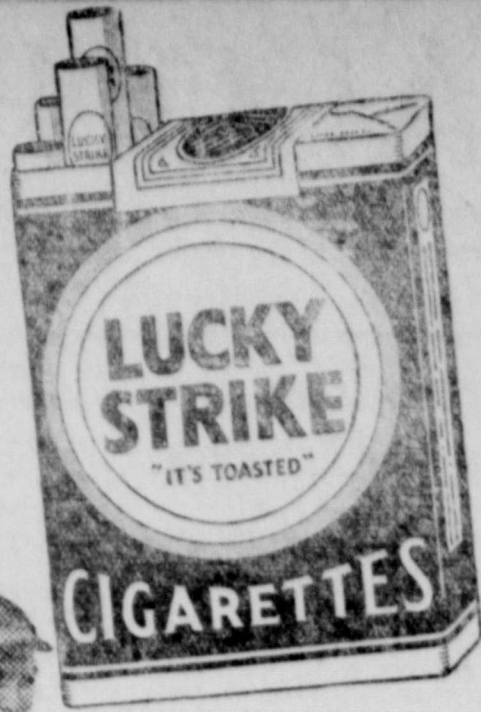

General Felix Huston Robertson was a frequent visitor to Dallas where he visited his son, Judge Felix D. Robertson. The latter, true to the spirit of his forebears, was in the Spanish-American War and was a major in the World War.

General Robertson also had two daughters, Mrs. Julia Cleveland of San Antonio, and Mrs. John E. Smith of North Manchester, Ind.

He had lived in Central Texas all of his days since the close of the Civil War, and in late years had resided quietly at Waco with his wife.

Mr. and Mrs. A. B. Brown are in Mineral Wells, Texas, for the benefit of their health.

WAS GRANT RIGHT?

We believe that it was Grant who said: "The Democratic Party can always be depended upon to act the dam fool at the proper time." And it seems that just at this time they are trying their best to live up to what the General had to say about them. We see in the daily papers, and when we say daily papers, that is just what we mean, for the weekly papers as a whole are radically against Al Smith and the Catholic-Liquor gang, that Al Smith will be the nominee of the Democratic party at the Houston convention. We don't believe that he will be the nominee, and we certainly hope that neither Smith or Walsh will receive very much consideration in that convention, but if they should we feel that Grant was absolutely right about the "Democratic party being depended upon to set the damn fool at the proper time," for we are quite certain that the solid South will be the Solid South no longer when the Democratic party offers us such trash as Al Smith as a candidate for president of the nation, and as standard bearer for the Democratic party.

We still believe that there are a few fit men in the United States that can be inducted to run for the presidency on the Democratic ticket, but from the stuff that they are trying to stick down our throats at this time, you may probably believe that the Democratic party had fell so low in the estimation of the people that there wasn't any efficient and capable men that would allow the party to offer them as an aspirant for the highest office of the nation.

We do not have any special desire to support a Republican for president this year, but we are free born, and we are not going to support a Catholic nor a man that believes in refusing to sanction the constitution of the United States, and by his action says that he is a bigger man than the government, and will tell the people to refuse to abide by the laws of our Nation. This is just what the Democratic party is threatening to do when they even consider the candidacy of a man who has refused as governor of the biggest state in population in our nation to enforce the law as laid down by the constitution, and has helped to make mockery of it among the riff-raff that composes the majority of his state, the majority of which live in New York City, and can not read and write the English language.

We cannot conceive of a God Fearing Southern supporting a nominee of any party that carry the belief of such a man as Smith, or even Walsh. We believe in freedom, and we believe that all Southerners and Texans believe in freedom, and that there is few intelligent people in the Nation that would want for one minute to have the Catholic yoke thrown around their neck. We further believe that the decent people of the state and nation would resent the placing of intoxicant liquors where the rising generation, who at this time care very little about, or know nothing of, the saloon and its vices, would be tempted and sent to their ruin by the damnable stuff that caused many of our fathers and fore-fathers to fill a drunkards grave, to become murderers and various kind of criminals, and have sent many a poor girl to a house of ill-fame. Men that will preach the return of liquor are either crazy or criminally unbalanced, for we cannot conceive of any intelligent man wanting to bring such a curse on the heads of his own loved ones.

We believe that such men as Smith will soon be eliminated when the convention meets at Houston, but it behooves every precinct to send an instructed delegation against Smith to the county convention, when the precinct convention is held on May 5th. Then that the county send an instructed delegation against Smith to the district convention, in turn the district convention send an instructed delegation against Smith to the state convention, and the state convention send an instructed delegation against Smith to the National convention. We must exterminate the desire of the Catholics and whiskey men to control our nation at all costs, and if the Democratic party, desires to league with them, and sanction their control, then and in that case exterminate the Democratic party.

WITH OUR EXCHANGES

Now comes Alvin Owsley with a declaration for Al Smith for Democratic nominee for the presidency. Certainly Mr. Owsley has the American citizen's right to choose his man for the nomination at Houston, but we might observe that in so doing Mr. Owsley has barred himself from being the choice of thousands of Texas Democrats for the U. S. senate. More than that he has lost to himself the very practical value of being second choice, and in a year when second choice may mean a lot to any senatorial candidate. Exit Mr. Owsley.—Clarendon News.

We think it is pretty tough to strap a fellow in an electric chair and shoot the electricity to him till he is dead, but after all is it worse than for him to shoot some fellow full of bullet holes just because he was performing his official duty, or just because the murderer took a notion he would like to get a lot of sensational headlines in the newspapers. We think it is the proper thing to know that you are right, then go ahead, but be sure you know you are right fellows, and then there can be no question about the punishment being just.—Lubbock Avalanche.

Nice little tribute to a newspaper Chief: "The announcement came couple by R. B. Haynes in the Miami from the Hutchinson County Herald, Stinnett, in last weeks issue that Mr. and Mrs. Ben F. Smith were severing their connection with the paper and moving back to Lubbock their former home. The Smith's are A-1 newspaper folks and it is with regret that we see them leave this immediate section of the Panhandle. The Stinnett paper is owned by the Nunn-Warren company, operators of a string of newspapers in West Texas."

The time is coming in this country when the president will be elected as all other officials are elected—by direct vote of the people and that is what should come about. Because the popular choice for president can easily be defeated by our present methods.—Lubbock Avalanche.

It seems to the Dallas News that a wet plank is rather slippery for politicians to stand on.—Amarillo News.

BRAIN LEAKS

The reason we older people think the youngsters don't know their own minds is because we have at last found out that we don't know ours.

Sometimes we think we will quit trying to run with the best people. It keeps us broke and they don't pay much attention to us anyway.

Getting along in this world is not such a hard business if one is willing to do what comes to hand, and do it as well as he can, without waiting to be told.

We think that about the only fear that the republicans have at this time is that the democrats will not be as big fools as they expect them to be.

It is hard to understand why some women married the men they did, unless they just wanted to be sure they would never be jealous.

"So long as men are dumb and women are beautiful, there will be marrying and giving in marriage," says W. J. Wade in the Groom News.

Fitting in is a very important part of progress from the common laborer to the men who is starting on his way up to the top.

Of course a poor man can tell who his real friends are. They are the fellows who get up and praise him in their speeches just before an election.

There is a sadness about finally getting something paid out. It seems that so terribly much of your life has gone by.

If a woman is a good cook she would rather her husband would be mean to her than to have a poor appetite.

This is the season when dad begins trying to put off until next year the trip he planned to take the family on next Summer.

The "solid south" will have more than oil to talk about in the coming campaign.

I was reading some statistics which stated that only one out of every three adult people don't like the taste of milk, which proved to me that it might be well for some of these chewing gum and cigarette manufacturers to consult the lowly cow regarding the secret of the selection of flavors that "satisfy and last."

There's a heap of folks that miss the best in life by taking themselves too seriously.

I've been noticing lately the woman sensibly dressed only gets the once over, once.

Just how should this ad be interpreted: "Barber wanted for white trade, must be good lady barber—booze fighter need not apply."

PEOPLE'S FORUM

WHISKEY PRESCRIPTIONS

If the editor will grant me a little space I will make clear my attitude on the above subject. The law permits doctors to prescribe whiskey for sick people. It also permits druggists to fill such prescriptions. I am not discussing whether this is a wise law or not. If a doctor honestly believes a person will be benefited by the use of whiskey I have no criticism to make if he gives a prescription to that person. Neither have I any criticism to make of a druggist that fills such prescriptions.

The thing I am concerned about is where people get whiskey not because they need it, but because they want it. If a doctor, a druggist, or any body else, helps people to secure liquor just to satisfy their appetites then that person is no better than a bootlegger. The bootlegger sells liquor for the profit he makes. If any other man prescribes or sells whiskey just for the profit, then he is as low down as the bootlegger. The bootlegger violates the law every time he makes a sale. So does a doctor that prescribes whiskey for beverage purposes, for there is no law giving a doctor the right to sell or prescribe whiskey for such purposes. Any person that willfully violates the law of the land is a criminal. All criminals are undesirable citizens.

The person who buys liquor from a bootlegger is just as sorry as the bootlegger. The same is true of the person who buys it unlawfully with prescriptions. It would be impossible to have a bootlegger if there were no buyers of his stuff. No person can be either a good citizen or an honorable man and continually violate the laws of his country.

The Scriptures distinctly state that no drunkard shall enter the kingdom of heaven. The man who helps make men drunkards is helping to send men to hell. A righteous God is not going to hold a person guiltless who thus trifles with the souls of men. Liquor is a curse to all who continually use it. It never makes a man a better husband. It often makes him more of a beast. It never makes him a better father, or a more loyal citizen. It will prevent any one from living a Christlike life. It often casts down to shame and disgrace. The man who sells that which destroys men's souls can not effectually pray for the unsaved. Right hurts no man, wrong injures all.

The statements above may seem harsh, but they are not made with any desire to hurt or injure. They are made so plain that no one can misunderstand. My prayer is that God will use them to awaken the consciences of our citizenship. The one afflicted with an appetite for liquor has my deepest sympathy and my sincere pity. Let me point such a one to Jesus Christ who is able to save from sin and able to give power to overcome a depraved appetite. I am one of those unfortunate creatures with an appetite for liquor. The only reason I am not today doomed for a drunkard's hell is because God's Grace was bestowed upon me through Jesus Christ. This weakness makes me even more sympathetic toward those with a similar affliction. Instead of developing a greater appetite in such men, let's put liquor as far as possible from them! I assure you that I bear malice toward none, but I do earnestly pray that God's will may be done in every one of our lives.—C. J. McCarty.

For a number of years a certain automobile manufacturer producing a good car tried to make the public appreciate a new design of the hood. But unfortunately the design was such that seeing it once you could never forget how it looked. This always a mark of ugliness. You would not want anything like that in your home.

A GOOD ONE ON THE HIGHWAY COMMISSION

We are told, that one day a couple of weeks ago, when Judge Ely and Mr. Sterling, members of the State Highway Commission, were making a tour over West Texas and the Plains country, in a big Lincoln car, they came in contact with one of the new Ford cars, down in the vicinity of Turkey, Texas, and they decided to enter to step on the gas, and see how fast that speed there was in the little car, so they instructed their driver near the new Ford could keep up with them.

In response to the demand the driver reached a speed above 70 miles per hour, which the Commissioners thought would be sufficient to dispel any fear as to the new Ford keeping pace with them, when all at once a continuous blowing of the Ford horn began, and before they could hardly realize what was happening, the little car went by their Lincoln, and they were following it for a few hundred yards in a haze of dust, after which they were hailed by the car, which had stopped a distance up the road, and the driver of the Ford inquired of those in the Lincoln to find out if any one in the car "knew how to change the New Ford from Second to High," as he had been running in second gear ever since he started the thing.

In the early days of the World War the officer in charge of a British post, deep in the heart of Africa, received a wireless message from his chief: "War declared. Arrest all enemy aliens in your district."

A few days later the chief received this communication:

"Have arrested seven Germans, three Belgians, four Spaniards, five Frenchmen, a couple of Swedes, an Argentinian, and an American. Please inform me whom we are at war with."—Watchman-Examiner.

This is General Motors Proving Ground

A birdseye view of the 1245-acre Proving Ground maintained by General Motors to assure the quality and value of its cars and trucks.

1. Entrance to the Proving Ground. The group of buildings includes complete experimental and service shops, engineering offices and comfortable living quarters for resident and visiting engineers and for the driving crews. The Proving Ground personnel numbers more than 200 men.

2. The 4-mile high-speed loop. The largest in America, made of concrete, with turns banked to permit continuous high-speed operation. In addition, the Proving Ground has two concrete straight-aways 1 1/2 miles long, as level as a billiard table, and miles of brick, tar, gravel and dirt roads which reproduce every driving and weather condition.

3. The hill-test road. Test hill grades at the Proving Ground range from 7.26 per cent to 24 per cent. The grades on public highways seldom exceed 7 per cent.

4. The "bath-tub." A depressed concrete roadway which is filled with water at varying depths to reproduce flooded roadway conditions.

Here each General Motors car must prove its value

ON a 1245-acre tract near Milford, Michigan, convenient to all its car and truck divisions, General Motors has the first and largest proving ground for automobiles.

Here tests are made and facts determined to a degree impossible when cars and trucks are tested on the public highways. Here each new model of General Motors must prove itself, point by point, before it is produced for sale to the public.

More than 135 different tests are applied to each car tested at the Proving Ground.

They involve every phase of construction and performance: power, speed, endurance, acceleration, braking, steering, handling, riding comfort, fuel economy and so on. In three months a car or truck covers more miles than you would drive it in three years.

The Proving Ground is another example of how General Motors is serving the public. It is also your assurance that when you buy a General Motors product you are getting all possible quality and value at its price and the advantages of a policy of continuous improvement.

Look at these values—then clip the coupon

The current models of General Motors cars are briefly described below. Never before in the history of the automobile industry have such performance, such quality, such comfort and such beauty been offered in their respective price classes. They have been proved at the Proving Ground!

See which car or cars interest you most, then check and mail the coupon below. You will receive complete, illustrated information, together with two interesting little books telling all about General Motors Proving Ground and just what General Motors policies are.

MOTION PICTURE TRANSMITTED BY TELEPHOTOGRAPHY

New York—Another achievement in science was successfully completed when motion pictures were transmitted over telephone wires for the first time. Ten feet of motion picture film showing in close-up the face of Vilma Banky, smiling, talking with clearly marked movements of the lips—were flashed 1,000 miles from Chicago to New York by the telephotograph process and in less than five hours after the Chicago telephotograph machine began sending the film an accurate duplicate was available for showing to a New York audience at the Embassy Theatre.

WOMAN SAYS FLOYD COUNTY OLD ENOUGH TO FEED SELF

"Floyd county is old enough to feed herself". Such is the statement made and proven by Mrs. W. E. Miller, farm lady, who has recently been gaining recognition for the production of canned home products. To prove her statement, Mrs. Miller furnished all the food used to serve a four-course luncheon to more than 100 Floydada men and their wives who gathered at the Floydada high school recently and feasted on pressed chicken on toast, blackeyed peas, corn, lettuce, salad and nut prune pudding with whipped cream. Each of the above named products were raised and prepared by Mrs. Miller on a Floyd county farm.

That fruits, meats and vegetables of almost every variety can be raised and sold profitably in this county has been proven by Mrs. Miller since she began producing and canning those products for Floyd county people 3 years ago. Since her first efforts this lady has canned more than 6,300 containers and today is realizing a neat profit from her work and such a demand has been created for the foods that she has decided to make it business of raising and canning Floyd county products for the world.

Recognition of the value of Mrs. Miller's products was received recently when she was requested to furnish the meat for two banquets to be served at the biennial convention at San Antonio. Orders have also been received from prominent officials of A. & M. college and a part of the food sent to President Coolidge last Christmas was from Mrs. Miller's one-quarter acre garden.

KILLER WHO DUG GRAVE AS VICTIM LOOKED ON, DENIED NEW TRIAL

Austin, April 18.—The final chapter in the mysterious disappearance of N. V. Dixon in Ward county in 1920 was written here Wednesday when A. B. Martin, judge of the Commission of Appeals, gave an opinion affirming the death penalty assessed against P. W. Howard, who had appealed from El Paso county. The Court of Criminal Appeals concurred in the Martin opinion.

The record of evidence shows that Howard, accompanied by W. S. Ham, a soldier of the World War, worked in various oil field towns of West Texas before going to El Paso, where, in the fall of 1920, they engaged Nixon to drive them eastward to investigate oil territory. Nixon owned the car and had a large sum of money on his person. Saw Own Grave Dug Shortly after leaving Pecos, the court records disclose in a confession by Ham, Nixon was ordered to stop the car in the sand dunes.

Howard, on the plea of prospecting for oil sand, got out and using a shovel dug a deep hole 300 yards away, in plain sight of Nixon, who did not realize he was watching the defendant dig his grave. His body, long afterward, was found in this hole.

Ham testified that Howard shot Nixon twice, then beat him over the head with the shovel after he had called Nixon to examine the hole, having cried out that he had discovered some valuable soil.

Struck With Shovel
 "Nixon, after he was shot, fell upon his hands and knees and cried out, 'Lord, let me live,' Ham declared. 'After which Howard went up to him and struck him heavily with the shovel. I closed my eyes. Howard then told me to pick up the shovel and get into the car.'

Ham had been indicted jointly with Howard for the homicide, but later turned State's evidence and told of the roving of the pair over West Texas after the killing. The Nixon car was sold.

A unique plea was set up by the defense in its appeal, it alleging that the body found in the sand dune grave had not been identified as that of Nixon or that of a man, broadly hinting that it might have been a woman's body. Martin's opinion declares the body was undisputedly that of a man. Papers on Nixon's body, including his passport, were identified.

Second Case Affirmed
 A second West Texas death penalty case was affirmed by the Appellate Court Wednesday when it approved the verdict of the District Court in the case of Robert F. Blake, who appealed from Swisher county. Blake was charged with the murder of J. Fred Conner in July of 1925.

According to Blake's own testimony as shown in the records here, he begged Conner for a ride in his automobile. He was out of money and his craving for narcotics had become so acute that he planned to hold up Conner, he admitted. When he covered the driver with a pistol and ordered him to throw up his hands, Conner, instead of obeying, laughed at him. Commanded the second time, he grappled with Blake and in the struggle the defendant shot him twice.

His body was left in the road between Tulla and Plainview. Blake driving the car on to Lubbock, where, he testified, he purchased liquor, wiped blood stains from the car, then went on to El Paso.

His counsel based their appeal on alleged insanity of Blake, declaring that use of narcotics had unbalanced his mind. The opinion affirming the death sentences was by Judge W. C. Morrow, presiding judge of the Court of Criminal Appeals. Blake took $20 from Conner's body, the records reveal.

WAYLAND COLLEGE NEWS

Plainview, April 26.—A meeting of the board of trustees of Wayland Baptist College held in Plainview last week met with heretofore response. The members present assembled with the student body at the chapel hour and Dr. Nunn of Amarillo gave the main address stressing an enlargement and improvement campaign. He stated that this is a year of jubilee for Wayland as this is the first time in the history of the institution that it has been free from debt.

In launching the improvement campaign Dr. Nunn said that Nunn Library in the college and that near $1,000 would be used in making this room more attractive. He made an urgent plea that other individuals or organizations do likewise in decorating one or more rooms. Plans are for the entire interior of the demonstration building to be renovated before school opens next fall.

G. W. McDonald was again elected president and Z. T. Huff, dean of the college with Frank Day of Plainview re-elected as president of the board of trustees. At this meeting the teachers for the coming year were elected with one new teacher added. All the teachers employed this year are returning and Mrs. B. H. Warren of Lubbock will be the new member of the faculty. The matter of placing a fieldman in the territory was discussed and a committee appointed to employ a suitable man.

The endowment fund is being enlarged at this meeting. Trustee J. P. Collier of Andrian transferred a section of land given to the dormitory fund to the endowment fund. The land is valued at $13,000. Others are planning substantial gifts and the goal of $200,000 is the ultimate aim. Wayland is entering upon a new era and the faithful board of trustees has inspired a deeper spirit in the student body and the students are going out this year to prove to the world that Wayland is worth something by the fruit it bears.

SAM JOHNSON WANTS MORE "CAVALRY FARMERS"

You have heard about the darky Methodist revival where all the church members got to shouting and calling on the others to join the army of the Lord and one darky got himself excused because he had joined the navy of the Lord—he was a Baptist.

We smiled our assent and Sam Johnson proceeded—

"Well, sir! I'm not going to get mixed up in any proselyting between the army of the Lord and the navy. I've got too much sense for that, because I'm with the army and Sally's with the navy. But I tell you one thing I do want to do some proselyting about: I want to help and I want you to help change a lot of infantry farmers into cavalry farmers—that's what I want to do. Dingled if I don't."

"Meaning, no doubt, that you want to get a whole lot of Southern farmers to quit walking slowly behind one horse or two horses, and start riding behind three or four horses?" "Exactly," answer Sam with emphasis. "Exactly. That's what I mean by changing infantry farmers into cavalry farmers. And since I have done my time in both infantry and cavalry, I ought to know what I'm talking about. I used to walk twenty miles in cultivating one acre of corn. Now I ride ten miles or less and do better work—lots better."

"How do you arrive at such definite figures?" "I don't have to arrive. I'm already there."

"Well, go on, I'm listening." "It's this way: Ten years ago I planted forty-two rows to the acre, same as I do now. When the corn was full of weeds I'd make four trips to the row (sometimes five or six) with a little dinky contraption called a 'corn plow.' Then the second time I'd make three trips to the row, two trips the third time, and four trips the fourth time when I laid by. This makes twelve trips to the row. An acre is seventy yards or 210 feet long. I had to follow that Noah's-ark cultivator 105,840 feet, or 35,280 yards a little more than 20 miles I walked every time I cultivated an acre. That's up and down rows to make an acre of corn. And the mule walked further'n I did."

"How do you make that, Sam?" "Why, don't you see that every time we turned round, the mule had to walk about ten feet farther than I did, to get turned?"

"How many times did you turn round in cultivating an acre?"

"Well, it was twelve times to the row and forty-two rows to the acre. What's twelve times forty-two?"

"It is even 504, Sam."

"So in cultivating one acre of corn the old way, me and my mule turned round 504 times and traveled on foot more than twenty miles!"

"How much corn did you say that made then?"

"Eleven bushels of nubbins to the acre."

"Then you and your mule traveled nearly two miles to make one bushel of corn, not counting breaking the land, planting and harvesting! How far do you travel now to cultivate an acre of corn and to make a bushel?"

"Well, let's see. You put 'em down and add 'em up. I'm like the old darky who said he could add naughts all right but other figures bothered him. The first time I cultivate, I run over the field with a section harrow, taking two rows at a time. The second cultivation is the same. That makes one trip to the row. Then I cultivate three times with a one-row cultivator that makes three trips to the row. Then I lay by with a cultivator having a planter attachment. That makes how many trips to the row?"

"That makes five trips and you travel 44,100 feet or 8.35 miles in cultivating one acre of corn. That's lots better than twenty miles."

"Well, I'll say it is," Sam ejaculated, rising to go. "And while rieber land has helped bring my old yield from eleven bushels to forty, good cultivation has helped a sight, too. If I've got any place in the army of agricultural progress, it's as a recruiting officer for the cavalry. I want to see more farmers quit running their farms with one horsepower and change to three or four horsepower. I want to see tired walkers changed into happy riders. I want to see infantry farmers changed into cavalry farmers. Hurrah for the cavalry!"

"HOME" PAPERS READ BY BIG BUSINESS MEN

Boys from Small Towns Said to Make Biggest Success In All Lines

Chicago, April 20.—You'd be surprised to discover how many of Chicago's big business executives are really small-town boys at heart, are still faithful to Main street, and read religiously their home-town papers." Warren Wright, president of the Calumet Baking Powder Company, told the members of the Benjamin Franklin club here.

"On hundreds of glass-topped desks in offices marked 'Private,' a little tightly-rolled bundle with a yellow sticker is laid carefully on top of the boss's mail every morning.

"The wrapper is removed, and business is laid aside for the perusal of the home-town news. Private secretaries have their instructions to notify callers that the boss is in conference while this little ceremony is going on.

"For a while at least, the man of many cares is led back over the road to yesterday as he reads of the comings and goings of his boyhood friends or of their children; reads of the bean supper at the Methodist church, of the strawberry festival on the judge's lawn, or the marriage of the popular postmaster's pretty daughter.

"In fancy he sees again the Palace hotel bus, the city drummers on the hotel veranda—Main street with its general store and its I. O. O. F. building—The tiny park with its shade trees and hand stand—the front porch screened with honeysuckle, where on one long-ago moonlight night in June

"It is perhaps best that he retains the picture as it was. If he should go back to his home town, he would find the 'opry house' replaced by a garish movie palace, the hotel bus transformed into a motor coach.

"City life and modern business methods have by no means killed sentiment, and in my opinion, our most successful executives are those who hail from the small town, ad who still keep up an interest in small town doings."

TEXAS WOMAN CANDIDATE IS OUT FOR DRYS

States Enforcement Plank Is Principle One In Platform

Fort Worth, April 20.—Mrs. Edith E. Williams, Democratic candidate for governor, in an address here today at a meeting of Tarrant county members of the Women's Christian Temperance Union, declared that enforcement of prohibition laws constitutes a major plank in her platform.

"We have prohibition. It is here to stay, and no coercion on the part of the liquor interests will take it from us, but to be successful it must be enforced by both the state and federal governments," Mrs. Williams said.

Mrs. Williams also discussed the stand of Gov. Moody, who is running for re-election on instructions to delegates, with reference to "dry" candidates, saying:

"In his Jackson Day dinner address, Gov. Moody stated that he thought the Democrats of Texas should not be board against any man in particular, but should be solid in their vote for a man who might be able to carry the party to victory. I want to see the party win—but I do not want the party to win by compromising itself and the people by being compelled to support a candidate that no self-respecting man or woman would want to see as president of the United States.

"I agree with Mr. Moody that we should stand solidly for one man, but I differ with him as to the time this man should be chosen. I believe we should select the man at the precinct conventions, and our delegates should go instructed to vote, not only for the candidate we select, but to stand firmly against any candidate who is so notoriously wet as some of those who presume to come to Texas and tell us how and when to make our choice, and the way we should vote."

Surprise Party for Roy Dyer

Twenty-five school mates and friends were invited to partake of a weenie and marshmallow roast Tuesday afternoon at the home of Mr. and Mrs. E. E. Dyer, as a surprise party for their little son, Roy. The children spent the afternoon in playing games, and enjoyed the afternoon immensely.

Snappy Comeback

A chorus girl, deliciously pretty, but decidedly lowbrow, somehow found herself at a very select party given by a famous society woman.

The girl, lonely and uncomfortable as a fish out of water, was leaning against the wall, framed against the dark oak, when the hostess took pity on her.

"My dear," she said kindly, "you look just like an old Rembrandt." "Well," retorted the damsel, sharply, "you don't look too darned snappy yourself."—Tit-Bits.
