Bank Statements Show Conditions Good

Nearly Million Dollars on Deposit and Wheat Harvest Just Begun Here

The call on the banks for June 29th found the two banks of Lockney in a very healthy condition, as compared with former statements during the past year. The wheat harvest was just beginning at the time the call was made, yet the two banks had $813,157.64 on deposit. The loans were also low for the harvest season, as generally at the beginning of the harvest, the loans to the farmers to take care of the cost of planting and harvesting is very high, but this year the loans are lower than they were in the fall, which goes to show the farmers as a whole are in far better shape before the harvest money is in than they have been in years. The total loans of the two banks of this city were only $361,643.23.

Both banks have doubled their deposits since their October, 1928, statements, and the amount of money deposited in the four banks of the county has shown a decided increase, there being more than two million dollars on deposit at the time of the call in the county.

The following is a resume of the banks of the county:

DEPOSITS
First National, Lockney	$560,360.76
Security State, Lockney	352,796.88
First National, Floydada	543,627.30
Floyd Co. Natl., Floydada	653,001.63
LOANS
First National, Lockney	$214,817.68
Security State, Lockney	146,827.55
First National, Floydada	449,000.00
Floyd Co. Natl., Floydada	472,364.92
CASH AND EXCHANGE
First National, Lockney	$344,428.86
Security State, Lockney	222,119.33
First National, Floydada	174,897.22
Floyd Co. Natl., Floydada	219,403.71

The gain of the financial institutions for the statement of October 3rd, 1928, is very flattering, and shows that the county's population is in far better shape than they have been for several years.

JOHN STEPHENS DIES IN DENVER, COLORADO

John Stephens, son of J. E. Stephens, was born in Floydada, Texas, March 3rd, 1910, and died in Denver, Colo., June 27th, 1929, age 19 years, 2 months, and 24 days. He was the victim of the dreaded white plague for about 14 months.

He was placed to rest in the Canadian cemetery, beside his mother, who had preceded him some 8 years.

Of the immediate family, those surviving him, a father, two sisters, Mrs. Mabel Waldman and Mrs. E. F. Zimmerman, of Amarillo, and H. E. Stephens, of Lordsburg, N. M., his stepmother, Mrs. J. E. Stephens, and two step brothers, Phil and D. Trammell, quite a company of other relatives, and many friends and school mates at Canadian and Quitaque, Texas, who mourn his going.

His funeral was held at Canadian, Sunday, June 30, by Rev. M. M. Beavers, Presiding Elder of the Plainview District, assisted by Rev. A. B. Davidson, pastor of the Methodist church, at Canadian.

He suffered so much the last few days, but at the end peace and rest was his, and in a strange faraway land, he peacefully went to sleep. He was a dear, good boy, and deeply appreciated all of the continuous kindnesses shown him in Lockney, by every one. The young people were so thoughtful and constantly some one was bringing him delicacies to eat. He often spoke of how good every one was to him. He is gone and our hearts are so sad, and we miss him so much, but he is at rest, and we thank God for that home where the inhabitants are at rest, no lingering wasting disease, and no sad farewells.

Rest dear boy, we will see you again. Wait for us, we are coming.

Your father and relatives,
J. E. STEPHENS AND FAMILY.

GOVERNMENT ENDS FISCAL YEAR WITH LARGE SURPLUS

Startling Increase in Income Tax Receipts Causes Expected Deficit To Become $299,000.00 Ahead

Washington, June 29.—The government which started the 1929 fiscal year last July 1 with an indicated deficit of $94,000,000 in its business operations, closed the year tonight with a surplus of nearly $200,000,000 due to a startling increase in income tax receipts.

Income tax payments for the fiscal year up to the close of business on June 27, latest treasury figures available, had totaled $2,327,760,722, or $153,808,166 more than was collected in the entire 1928 fiscal year and a $158,522,567 increase over the same period of last year.

The exact figure on the government's financial transactions and the amount of the surplus for the fiscal year will not be known until tomorrow night when the treasury will issue the totals for the 12 month period, but the prediction of Secretary Mellon of the figures of June 27 indicate that a government surplus of $160,000,000 or $70,000,000 will be exceeded.

At the business meeting of the government last July Calvin Coolidge as president warned the department heads that the estimates at that time on government receipts for the year indicated a deficit of $194,000,000 and asked their co-operation in practicing the strictest economy.

RAILROADS VOLUNTARIL REDUCE RATES TO AID FARMERS

With wheat farmers confronted by a serious situation incident to the big carry-over and with the 1929 crop coming on, the railroads have come to their aid.

The Interstate Commerce Commission has at various times rejected petitions for a reduced rate on wheat for export and the rates, consequently were justifiable. But the Kansas City Southern—followed by a number of other roads—asked the Commission for permission to reduce the rate to the Gulf ports and Eastern railroads have agreed to do the same thing for Eastern ports.

"When the railroads will go to such lengths to do what the farmers and the government want," remarks the Chicago Journal of Commerce, "the farmers and the government ought to be willing to give the railroads more consideration than they have yet received."

Golf Tournament Will Be Held in Lockney

Elimination Will Be Held Sunday. Main Contests Monday and Tuesday, July 8 and 9

A Golf Tournament will be held on the golf course recently constructed, north of the city by Dr. H. H. Ball, Sunday, Monday, and Tuesday, of next week, July 7, 8, and 9, and a large crowd of golf players from nearby cities are scheduled to take part in the affair.

Thirteen loving cups have been offered by members of the chamber of commerce and merchants of the town for the winners in many of the contests that are scheduled for the two last days. On Sunday, July 7th, an elimination contest will be held on the golf course, to weed out the number of entrants. Those winning the first day will go to the finals, which will be held Monday and Tuesday, July 8th and 9th, and the winners in the different groups on these days will be the recipients of the cups that are offered by Lockney business men.

This will be the first Annual Invitation Golf Tournament at the Lockney Country Club, and sportsmen from Amarillo, Plainview, Floydada, Kress, Crosbyton have signified an intention to enter the competition, according to Dr. H. H. Ball, chairman of the Tournament committee, and many of the players and fans from the surrounding towns are expected to be present during the three days of the tournament.

GAS TAX BILL PASSES AFTER WARRANTS ARE SIGNED FOR ARREST OF THOSE LEAVING

Austin, June 30.—The Senate tonight passed on final reading the 4 cent gasoline tax and 50 per cent automobile registration fee reduction bill.

The action came after several hours deadlock in which nine Senators left the chamber and were sought on warrants signed by Lieut. Gov. Barry Miller.

Four of the missing Senators opposed the bill, and one who had been excused earlier in the day came to the state house to participate in the final vote.

Senator Walter Woodul, Houston was taken off a Houston-bound train just before it left the Austin station. Senators T. J. Holbrook, Galveston; Gus Russek, Schulenburg; Eugene Miller, Weatherford; and J. W. Stevenson, Victoria, walked back into the senate chamber of their own accord. Holbrook said he had gone out to get something to eat.

The vote was 20 to 2 with Miller and Holbrook voting "no."

The measure was finally passed at 12:20 a. m. today. It was the first time the legislature has met on Sunday since 1907.

Lee Bean Died Saturday of Heart Failure

Prominent Farmer Succumbs to Attack at His Home Saturday Night

Mr. Lee Bean, age 67 years, 8 months, and 9 days, died at his home, just south of the city limits of Lockney, Saturday night, from an attack of heart failure, his death coming about very suddenly. He had suffered from heart attacks on several occasions in the past.

Mr. Bean was born in Postok, Alabama, on Oct. 20th, 1861, and moved to Texas with his parents at the age of nine years, settling at Greenville, Texas, he moved to Lockney with his family in 1917, and has been a resident of this community since that time.

City is Building New Auditorium

Old College Building Being Converted Into Auditorium and Club Rooms

Work has begun on the re-construction of the building on the old Lockney College grounds, recently purchased by the City of Lockney, and the old building will be re-constructed into a building 95x90 feet, and converted into a city auditorium and club rooms.

Mr. E. Guthrie has resigned as a member of the city council, and will have charge of the work in remodeling the building at the college grounds. The building when completed will be one story in height and will be finished along the Old Spanish type and will have adequate room for a large auditorium, that will be ample to take care of the needs of Lockney along this line. There will also be several club rooms in the building, and it is hoped that a public library will be installed in the building at a later date.

An election has been ordered, to be held on July 15th, to elect a successor to Mr. E. Guthrie, who has resigned off the city council, and in all probability there will be several names on the ticket.

The remodeling of this building into an auditorium will fill a long felt want in the town for a place to hold public meetings, as heretofore, the people have had to rely on the churches and school for a place to hold all public meetings. It is also the purpose of the city to improve the property around the building and convert it into a city park and fair ground, which is a needed improvement in the town.

A large force of men are now at work on the building, tearing down the second story and getting it in shape to be converted into a one story building.

Mr. and Mrs. Osborn of Sentinel, Okla., were in Lockney Monday meeting old friends. Mrs. Osborn is the daughter of Dr. and Mrs. W. H. Freeman, of Dougherty, who formerly lived in Lockney.

Merchants Back Towns Welfare

Co-operation of Business Men Contributes to the Upbuilding of Our Community

The ambition of every merchant in Lockney is to make this town the best along the line.

This may be a selfish object on his part, but the fact remains that he can prosper only if the city thrives, for it is obvious that little money will be passed over his counter by people who have money to spend.

No Lockney merchant however, depends on mere wishing to bring prosperity to his town and to make it grow. When he argues for better schools and improved streets, it is not in the expectation that his share is to be mere words while other property owners foot the tax bills.

Every merchant in this town backs up his confidence in this town, in its prosperity and the prosperity of those in it and in its future as a rising member of this splendid commonwealth, by his hard-earned dollars. Before he can obtain a cent of profit, he must offer a big stock of the goods the public want, attractively displayed in a conveniently arranged store of adequate size, with all necessary equipment for handling his goods, and with well paid courteous sales people whose purpose is to render service to the trade. Not until this investment has been made and his business is set in all its completeness before the people of the town can he hope to get back even so much as one cent of profit.

Once they locate, they become fixtures and nothing short of a considerable term of years suffices to win for them even a fair return for their money. To leave before their business, and the business of the town are squarely on their feet, would be poor business policy; to leave after prosperity had come would be folly.

Does not such a citizen deserve your co-operation?

No group of citizens are greater boosters for the schools than the merchants. It means greater opportunities for the generation that comes after them. They reap little direct benefit, and they bear the greatest share of the tax burdens, because of the larger valuation of their property. Every family benefits, its boys and girls being helped on the road to better citizenship. In the same way do the business men contribute to libraries, churches, and other agencies, as well as take a leading part in patriotic celebrations and community activities, lecture courses, concerts for the public and similar movements.

This is the man on whose progressive leadership the future of the community depends. To trade with Lockney merchants means dollars to you.

FOOT ROT FOUND IN PLAINS WHEAT

In a very few fields in the Plainview country foot rot in wheat has been observed this season. It has been studied here by representatives of Texas Tech College.

After his visit at Canyon the Randall County agent, W. H. Upchurch, made the following observation on the disease:

"This disease is more or less common over the Panhandle but seems to be a bit worse this year than ever before. We also have another disease (Scab or root rot) that is somewhat common but has caused little damage compared to the foot rot. The fungus that caused the foot rot is found on a number of grasses and for that reason is often found in wheat seeded on new land. However, it is more often found where wheat follows wheat for several years. Wheat affected with foot rot is generally yellow or off color in the early spring.

"The principle characteristic to be depended upon to identify foot rot is the color of the dry rot caused by the fungus in the lower joint of the straw. One may find by pulling the stool apart that the lower joint of most of the stalks in the bunch are more or less blackened, especially on the inside of the straw.

"The best control measures for the foot rot is a simple rotation of crops. That is, change the crop to something besides wheat. Since this disease has a number of host plants it is advisable to practice a clean cultivation for one year following a bad infestation.

This would be necessary regardless of the crop grown on the land, especially where 'winter grass' happened to be the host plant for the foot rot fungus. "Another thing that needs to be studied in regard to this fungus is the fact that the blowing of soils seems to carry the fungus. In some fields the diseased areas are almost identical with the spots that drifted during the high winds in March. This is more often the case where some host plant such as winter grass or wild barley grows along the south or west side of the field where the blowing started."—Plainview Herald

They were very much pleased with the plains, this being their first trip up here.

Mr. and Mrs. E. M. Randolph and children of Abilene, Texas, are in Lockney visiting the W. L. Whitt and Randolph families. They are on their way to El Paso, Old Mexico, and California, and other Western states. Mrs. Randolph was a teacher in the Lockney schools for a number of years, and is a sister of Mrs. W. L. Whitt. Mr. Randolph is a son of H. C. Randolph, who lives east of Lockney.

Dr. D. D. Bradberry and family and sister, Mrs. Ola Bradberry, of Fairbanks, Indiana, have been here the past week, looking after some property they own two miles south of Aiken. Dr. Bradberry states that he has owned this property for the past seventeen years, but this is the first time he has seen same, and that he is agreeably surprised at the place and this entire section of the country, and that he has found the property worth a great deal more money than he anticipated that it was worth.

W. C. (Clyde) Reeves of San Bernardino, Calif., came in Saturday. He was accompanied by his wife and daughter, and they are on a visit to his mother and brothers. Mr. Reeves at one time was one of Lockney's most prominent business men. Before they return home they will visit in Lometa, Texas. While at Lometa they will attend a reunion of Mrs. Reeves' relatives. Clyde is now a traveling salesman, and this is the first time he has been here on a visit to his old home since moving to California.

Letter from Ed Holmes

I want to tell the world that there are WHITE men still living and some of them live around Lockney.

First I wish to thank C. A. Benton, Arch Dobbins, and Mr. Wardlaw. They stayed with me from the time I got my leg broke in Quitaque until I came out from under the influence of ether in the Smith & Smith sanitarium in Floydada, where the broken bones were set. I couldn't possibly have had better treatment from anyone. They missed one of the best ball games of the season in order to care for me too. The Willys-Knight of Luther Harris certainly furnished a smooth, fast ride from Quitaque to Floydada.

On June 27th, I received a letter from Lockney signed by the ball club, the citizens of Lockney, the Rotary Club, and others. In it was enclosed Club, and others. In it was enclosed This money was donated by the business men of Lockney, members of the ball club, and others to pay the bills of the broken leg. I wish to say that this more than paid the actual bills of having it set, the x-ray pictures of it. Getting your leg broken and having to miss wheat harvest to lay in the bed this awful hot weather doesn't seem half so bad when you know you have friends such as these that have taken care of me and paid the bills.

I wish to say that my leg is doing fine and giving me very little trouble. I got an awful nice clean break in the first place. Both bones were snapped into about two inches above the ankle. No joint was affected at all. With the good treatment that I am getting from everyone, I believe that in about four more weeks I will be in as good shape as ever.

I hope I may be able in the future to return some of this good treatment.

Your friend,
ED HOLMES.

KNOW TEXAS

Texas is the leading Jersey cattle state in the Union. Ohio used to be. Texas leads the United States in oil refining.

Texas manufactured products in 1928 were valued at $1,200,000,000 having practically doubled in volume (not value) since 1920.

Exports through Texas harbors in 1928 were valued at $797,140,493—second only to those of New York.

LAND WHERE WOMEN ARE BOSSES FOUND BY EXPLORER

After five years of adventure and harzard in Central Asia, Nichols Roerich, artist, scientist, and philosopher, returns to the United States with 250 new canvasses, two completed books and an understanding of the amazing life and culture of perhaps the most mysterious and little known country in the world.

One of the greatest figures in contemporary art, Roerich already has 3000 paintings to his credit, and is represented in nearly all the famed museums of the world. Next fall, the new skyscraper museum, named for him, which now is being completed in New York City, will house his new Asiatic canvasses, as well as many of his older ones.

"An amazing, mysterious people, these Tibetans," he said. "They have been studying evolution for centuries. Before America was discovered they were building skyscrapers in Lhasa—the Potola is 17 stories high, and very similar in architectural construction to what now is going up in this country."

Found Hoover Deified

"What surprised me most was that in the remote mountain regions they know about President Hoover and have deified him. I found an old picture of him enshrined in a home, and the people worshiped it. They have confused his name with 'Koovera', which is the name of their god of happiness."

In these scattered mountains, suspended like wasp nests on the side of barren rocks, he found a people not unlike the American Indians in physical appearance, who never had seen an airplane or a tractor or a radio, but who knew all about them, were interested in electricity, and are searching for a new type of power not yet identified, which they believe is shortly to be discovered.

"The Tibetan does not travel," Professor Roerich went on, "but" in some mysterious ways, the world comes to him. He says everything is written in his sacred books. He is surprised at nothing. He seems to receive physically what the westerner must obtain through mental and physical struggle. How?—the artist dismissed it with a gesture and a shrug of his shoulders. He, too, learned not to question, but to accept.

Oriental Traits Are His

There is an oriental calm and quietness about the artist which made him less conspicuously a stranger in the east than a typical go-getting American might be. Roerich is a Russian by birth and an American by adoption. Then, too, his son, who is an expert orientalist and speaks Tibetan and Chinese, accompanied him. The barrier of language once removed, it was easier to get into the life of the people themselves. Naturally, they dislike and distrust strangers, and make traveling as difficult for them as possible.

Even with the most favorable conditions, the trip was beset with dangers and great discomfort. For more than a year, no word was heard from the expedition, and it was feared it was lost. During this time, they were detained for six months in a summer tent in one of the loftiest and coldest plateaus of Northern Tibet, at an altitude of 15,000 feet.

Of the original caravan of 100 camels, 90 were lost, and five of the 20 people in the party died from exposure.

"We never knew when we went to bed at night," he recalled, "whether we could survive the intense cold or not. We had little food and doled it out with the strictest economy. The natives would give us nothing, but occasionally we were lucky enough to steal away at night and buy a sheep or some such animal."

"They refused to allow us to get into communication with the outside world. Finally, we were allowed to go on, just as mysteriously as we had been stopped. We never knew why in either case."

Mrs. Roerich suffered such hardship at this time that she was not able to return, but remained in India.

Their route wound intricately in and out of about 35 mountain passes ranging from 14,000 to 21,000 feet in altitude. The party set out from Sikhim, in India, crossed over the Soja Pass to Little Tibet where it went over the great Karakorum, passes into Chinese Turkestan, and from there through the Cobi desert into Tibet.

It was in this section that they found the women of Lhasa, who not only achieved political and social equality with men, but went one better and secured supremacy. There women have more than one husband, instead of the men collecting harems.

"Polyandry, however, is like every other social custom—easily understood when you live in the country," the professor explained. "There is an over-population of men there, and most of them are traders, camel drivers or men who are away from home for long periods. A woman has half a dozen husbands, but have them all distributed on jobs in different parts of the country. In fact, there rarely is more than one around the house at a time. But it is the women who give the men their assignments, and who completely control the country."

"No Servant Problem!" In all parts of the east, it surprised Roerich to find that people abandoned fertile farms to live in poverty in larger cities. In certain parts of Turkestan, for instance, many are so poverty-stricken that richer folks never hire servants—that would be foolish extravagance. For 25 or 30 roupees, about $12, one can buy a slave that will last for a life time, with fair treatment. Children sell for about $1.25.

Professor Roerich first came to this country in 1920, having achieved fame in Europe, to conduct an exhibition of his paintings. When he completed his tour it was decided to found the Roerich Museum and form a permanent home for his collection. It is the only one in the world to be named for a living artist.

4th OF JULY

We as Americans people are able to give a reason for our acts and deeds, then you ask why we hold July 4th so sacred.
First. Because God has asked us always to give thanks for what has been done for us, and July 4th is a day that brought to us Liberty and Justice as we so much desired, therefore, our heart is made glad when the sparkling rays of the sun peeps over the hilltop to remind us of our blood-bought liberty.

Shall we stop at this one forever and forget all others. Ah, no. Let us rejoice in sweet remembrance of all other Liberty Rights and Privileges. Therefore, we want to express our heart felt thanks to our customers for their kind remembrance of us during the year than now lives on the White Wings of Sacred Memory.

We can be found at our some old stand doing our best to let our joys and pleasures mingle together that when another 4th shall peep into our lives, we can say as did Peter, "It is good for us to be here." We shall endeavor at all times to keep a first class line of meats and groceries to sustain life until another year calls us together.

153,741 Immigrants TO BE ADMITTED UNDER NEW PROVISION

Washington, June 30.—The contribution each individual nation has made to the population of the United States tonight at midnight becomes the yardstick by which future immigration will be regulated instead of a quota allowance based upon the 1920 census.

The new national origins basis, adopted by Congress in 1924 but postponed by each succeeding Congress until the Senate refused to do so at the recent special session, brings into effect not only a sharp curtailment in immigration but changes drastically the quotas allowed the various nations.

Under the present law the total immigration permitted annually is approximately 154,907, while the "national origins plan" will admit about 153,741.

"The annual quota of any nationality," the law reads, "shall be a number which bears the same ratio to 150,000 as the number of inhabitants in continental United States in 1920 having that national origin bears to the number of inhabitants in continental United States in 1920, but the minimum quota of any nationality shall be 100."

This provision of the immigration law was opposed by President Hoover, who recommended to Congress that it be repealed. The Senate voted down the proposal during the extra session and no action was taken by the House since its immigration committee was not organized. President Hoover then issued a proclamation making the provision effective July 1. The opposition to the national origins have expected to be renewed at the regular session beginning in December.

Great Britain and Northern Ireland, which have been permitted 34,087 immigrants annually, will be allowed 62,721 under the new plan, while Germany, which has been allowed a quota of 51,227, can now send only 25,741 into the United States.

The Irish Free State has been permitted 28,567 each year and now will be limited to 17,855.

Other countries the immigrants of which will be decreased include Armenia, Australia, Czechoslovakia, Denmark, France, Norway, Portugal, Rumania, Sweden, and Switzerland.

Nations whose quotas will be increased include Austria, Belgium, Hungary, Italy, Netherlands, Poland, Spain, and Turkey.

A Modern Mother Resents Her Mother-in-Law's Expert Advice on Child-Training—Straight Talk to The Woman Who Wrecked Her Friend's Home for Fun

Dear Miss Dix—I have a rather disobedient son of five years and my mother-in-law told me that I was too slack in disciplining him, which I resented as being none of her business. She is old-fashioned and believes in enforcing obedience, while I am a modern mother and believe that I will eventually persuade by son to obey me. I admit that my mother-in-law has successfully reared a fine family of eight sons and six daughters, besides three children of a near relative. Her sons are all outstanding in their professions, one is a judge and another high in the foreign service of our government and they all give their mother credit for their success. My husband is very fond of his mother, but she has ceased to visit us and I am troubled because I do not want to cause the first rift in the family. But do you not think I did right to resent her advice?—Troubled Mother.

Answer—No, I think you did a very wrong and foolish thing, and that instead of being offended at your mother-in-law's advice you should have been grateful for it and profited by it. Any woman who has brought up seventeen children to be fine men and women has certainly qualified as an expert in child-training, and you should consider it a privilege to sit at her feet and gather up her words as pearls of wisdom.

According to the old adage the proof of the pudding is in the eating and you may be very certain that the success of your mother-in-law's method proves it to be the right one. Analyze her technique and you will see that it consists in tenderness combined with firmness, in kindness backed up by authority. She laid down certain laws for the guidance of her children and she forced them to respect them and that is why they love and honor her and why they are strong characters instead of wild men and women who are playthings of their own passions.

The trouble with you, dear lady, and with so many other mothers who do not enforce any discipline on their children, is that you run to extremes. You do not draw any line between authority over a child and grinding tyranny. You do not differentiate between switching a naughty child and beating it to death with a club. You make no distinction between making a child behave and crushing out its individuality.

In that way you justify in your weak-kneed attitude in letting your children do as they please and being a law unto themselves, in spite of the fact that many a time you have seen a fretting, whimpering, miserable child turned into a beaming pacific by being turned across some humane person's lap and given a spank that regenerated it morally and certainly didn't injure it physically. Also you are bound to admit that the happiest and most contented children you know are those that are the most firmly controlled by their parents.

The truth is that children who are law-breakers are no more happy than adult criminals. You would never go to jails to find serene-minded men and women at peace with themselves and the world. Nor will you find joyous, contented children who defy their parents' authority and do the things they are forbidden to do.

Don't Forget the Cool Bubbling Fountain

When you teach your child to obey you, you are not only teaching him to look up to you and respect you, you are laying the foundation stone of good citizenship in his soul because you are teaching him to obey the law. Probably every one of the young criminals who fill our courts had mothers who never enforced any discipline on them and never taught them to obey.

And what's the big idea in persuading a child to obey you instead of making him do it? What sort of an army would a general have if he persuaded his soldiers to obey him when he issued a command and if he let them argue with him and march on the enemy if they decided they would like to do it? I have heard other mothers declare that they never said "must" to a child. Yet life is one long "must" for everyone of us. Duty doesn't come wreathed with roses. Hardships are not gilded. Work isn't a pastime.

As long as we live we must do things we don't want to do, we must make sacrifices that it galls us to make, we must bow our heads to the rod and the sooner we learn this the earlier we learn to control ourselves and to do our duty because it is our duty the better it is for us.

You say you resented your mother-in-law's advice about how you were rearing your child because it was none of her affair, but it was. The child is her son's son, bone of her bone and flesh of her flesh, heart of her heart, as dear to her as her own child and nothing else in the world is more important to her than how it turns out. It bears her name that it will carry on to honor or to shame and she had a right to utter a word of warning when she saw you making a fatal mistake in it's rearing.

Therefore, if you will take my advice you will ask your mother-in-law's pardon and follow her suggestions about disciplining that self-willed little boy to the end that he may grow up into being the kind of man his father and his uncles are. Grandma's recipe for bringing up gentlemen instead of hoodlums evidently works.—Dorothy Dix.

Dear Miss Dix—I had a woman friend, one of the finest and truest that ever lived. She loved me dearly and proved it by many acts of kindness. I am a widow with no home ties and her house was always open to me and I spent much time there. Now my friend had a husband about whom she was crazy and who was really very fond of her, but just for fun and the sport of the thing I took him away from her, although I didn't care a thing about him. I broke up their home and broke the woman's heart and now my friends are cutting me because of it. I think now I did wrong because I am in love with a man who is twelve years younger than I am and I wouldn't want anybody to take him away from me, but don't you think my friends are taking this too seriously and do you think I forfeited this woman's friendship forever? I want her back because she was always my shelter in time of storm.—Mrs. X.

I have never heard of a more dastardly act than yours, Mrs. X. Murder is a lesser crime than breaking a woman's heart and wrecking her home and it is almost inconceivable that any woman could be so cruel as to find pleasure in torturing a sister woman.

It would have been some palliation of your offense if you had fallen in love with the woman's husband and were the victim of a passion you could not control, but you leave yourself without excuse for your treachery when you say you didn't care for the man and were only amusing yourself by playing your arts and wiles upon him to win him away from his wife.

Here was a happy and peaceful home with a husband and wife in it who loved each other and they opened their doors and took you in and made you welcome at their fireside. And you repay their kindness by jollying and flattering the husband and vamping him and then when you have disillusioned him about his wife, coolly huck him over.

You tear the very soul out of the woman, who has been goodness itself to you, with jealousy and leave her without husband or home. What a pity you live so late in the world's history. You would have made such a dandy little torturer in the Inquisition because you have no pity nor compassion in you.

I think your friends are perfectly right in cutting you. You are too dangerous to have around. A venomous snake would be a safer guest.

Wickedness is not always punished in this world, but inasmuch as you are going to marry a man twelve years younger than yourself you are pretty sure to get yours and suffer pang for pang for what you have made another woman endure in seeing a younger and prettier woman take her husband from her.—Dorothy Dix.

Dear Miss Dix—Is it a sign that your husband doesn't love you when he fails to kiss you when he leaves for work in the morning? My friends say it is, for my husband says that he loves me and it is just because he has so many worries on his mind that he forgets these little things.—D. D.

Booster.

Answer—Certainly it is no sign your husband doesn't love you because he doesn't give you a peck on the cheek every time he starts out to work. There is nothing that has less significance to it than the "habit kiss" that a husband and wife exchange when they are both thinking about something else and planning the day's work. I would rather have one kiss that my husband gave me because he felt like it and wanted to kiss me than a million duty kisses.—Dorothy Dix.

SHE DISCOVERED HE WAS MARRIED

Woman Palm Reader and Husband With "Wonderful Business Opportunity" Work Together

Brownwood, July 3.—Ben Pittman faced 10 years in the penitentiary today because a Brownwood woman discovered he was a married man.

Not that the plaintiff cared that he was married, but she did object to the fact that his wife was her fortune teller. The combination, she declared, cost her a cool $900.

Several months ago the plaintiff, who takes in washing, had her palm read. She was told that a man would come into her life who had a wonderful business proposition. It would make her a fortune, declared the palmist.

Sure enough, it wasn't three days until the man, just as described, appeared at the woman's door with a bundle of linen to be washed. He admitted he had a great business proposition, but needed capital. He left with $130 in his bill fold. He returned for more, from time to time, until the total reached $900.

Then the victim smelled a rat. In fact, she smelled an entire rattery. Word reached her that the nice young man was married whereas he had represented himself as single. A little investigation revealed that his wife was none other than the palm reader.

A jury decided Pittman was guilty of swindling.

Spearman dealers recently received 15 Chevrolet trucks to supply the demand of farmers who desire to haul their wheat crop to town. A sufficient number of railroad cars to carry the grain to the markets has been assured.

Del Rio water works system is being installed. The bottom of both of the 1,000,000 gallon tanks have been laid and the forms are being placed for the pouring of concrete on one of them. Each tank will be 28 feet high, and 80 feet wide. Walls are 10 inches thick and well reinforced with steel.
