Drive Will Be Put On By Cotton Association

Educational Program Will Be Put On
By Cotton Association for Three Weeks in Floyd County

and Mrs. M. S. Hudson, of the Stoneback community, Hale county, were in Lockney Monday morning, conferring with H. B. Adams, as secretary of the chamber of commerce, looking toward putting on a three weeks' educational program for the farmers of Floyd county, in reference to the function of the Texas Cotton Growers Association and the Federal Farm Board Marketing plans for the cotton crop of this year.

It is the plan of the Cotton Growers' Association and Federal Farm Board to have Floyd county divided into two divisions, one at Lockney and one at Floydada, with H. B. Adams and S. W. Ross as chairmen respectively of the two districts. Then there will be a county chairman for the county at large. The purpose of these chairmen will be to call meetings for the farmers from their districts, to discuss the cotton problems, and the market problems, organize district associations, and community associations.

It is the intention of the District Association, with headquarters at Lubbock, to furnish speakers and teachers for the farmers' meetings, to enlighten them on the ways and methods proposed by the Cotton Association, under the supervision of the Federal Farm Board for the marketing of the cotton produced for this and future years. The program will strictly be along the instructive line, familiarizing the people with what the Federal Farm Board is attempting to do.

H. B. Adams has been asked to serve as chairman for this district, not as a farmer, nor an advisor to the farmers as to what they should do, but merely to act as a person to notify the farmers of the country of the meetings, to arrange for meeting places, and to assist in the organization of the farmers, if the farmers desire him to assist. It is understood that he is serving entirely as secretary of this Chamber of Commerce in this capacity and is not proposing to be authority in any matter which should be done in the matter. The program calls for the enlightening of the farmers on the purposes of the Federal Farm Board in the handling of the cotton situation, and all farmers will be asked to give the meetings a good attendance and hear the propositions that will be advanced by the speakers and organizers who will be here a little later on.

Announcements and dates of meetings will be made at the proper time, and considerable literature will be distributed among the cotton farmers of this district in due time, relative to the proposals that will be made by the Farm Board.

W. R. Sams Marries Mrs. Lula Steele
Mrs. Lula Steele of the Silvertown community, and Mr. W. R. Sams of Lockney, were married at Portales, N. M., Thursday, July 10th, by a county official at the court house in that city.

After the ceremony they spent a honeymoon of several days in that state, visiting the Carlsbad Cavern and other places. They are now at home in Lockney.

Mrs. Steele, who lived four miles west of Silvertown, is a middle-aged woman of some means, and is highly esteemed by many friends and acquaintances of that community.

W. R. (Willie) Sams is a long time resident of Lockney, and is well and favorably known to the people of this county.

BIBLE PLAY WILL BE PRESENTED TUESDAY NIGHT

The members of the Junior Epworth League Society will present a Bible play entitled, "Lydia, the First Convert of Europe," at the Methodist church in Lockney, Tuesday evening, July 29th, beginning at 8:30 o'clock, under the direction of Mrs. Bryan Wells, Superintendent of this department. The admission charge will be 10c and 15c, and the proceeds will be used for the Bible study class the coming fall.

The cast of characters will be as follows:

Paul	Milton Adams
Silas	Hollis Harris
Luke	Delbert Rose
Timothy	Holland Stewart
Lydia	Frankie Dodson
Damasis	Mertie Webb
Grandmother	Pauline Beall
Syntyche	Meda Ruth Thomas
Eudias	Vada Shaddix
Maid	Doris Fields

12 children will play the part of the worshippers.

There will be several special musical numbers presented. Everyone is urged to attend and give these young players a good hearing and help a worthy cause.

FARM BOARD MEETING AT PLAINVIEW

Plainview, July 23.—William F. Schilling of Minneapolis, Minnesota, representative of the poultry and dairy industries on The Federal Farm Board will be in Plainview Friday and Saturday, July 25th and 26th. He will make a public address at the Annual Picnic of the Hale County Dairy Association, Friday afternoon at one-thirty.

Mr. Schilling's visit will be the first ever paid to Plainview by a member of The Federal Farm Board, and his second to Texas since his appointment to the Board, he having attended a poultry meeting at San Antonio some months ago.

During the two days of his visit here, he will be escorted through the creamery plant of the Hale County Dairy Association at Plainview. He will be a guest at a dinner for visiting agricultural workers, and dairy farmers; will tour the county with a group of interested citizens; and will have other courtesies extended him by the directors of The Hale County Dairy Association, The Board of City Development, and the Chamber of Commerce and Agriculture.

Invitations are being sent out by County Agent R. M. Milhollin of Plainview to other county agents in the Panhandle-Plains to come and bring delegations with them to the picnic being staged by the Hale County Dairy Association, and to hear Schilling's address Friday afternoon. Maury Hopkins, Secretary of the Plainview Chamber of Commerce and Agriculture, is sending out similar invitations to the chambers of commerce in the same territory. Hale county is the only place that Schilling will stop on his present tour of this section, and it is planned to make it a Panhandle-Plains meeting at Plainview for all interested in the Farm Board's activities in dairying.

The picnic of The Hale County Dairy Association will be held at the grove in the municipal park. Directors of the Association state that everyone will be asked to come and bring a well filled dinner basket. Lunch for all visitors for a distance will be provided, the Hale County Dairy Association providing lunch for all who do not bring their own, and Manager C. M. Anderson, Chairman of the general arrangements is especially anxious for the Association to have a large number of out-of-county visitors.

The Program Committee, C. M. Anderson, Chairman, Mrs. Julia Kelley, R. M. Milhollin, Maury Hopkins, A. B. Tarwater, and G. W. Louthan, has announced the following complete program for the two days:

Friday July 25th, First Day
7:30 A. M.—Arrival of Mr. Schilling with reception at Denver Depot.

8 A. M.—Music, Plainview Municipal Band, City Park.

10:30 A. M.—Home Demonstration Club Program.

11:00 A. M.—Welcome to Dairymen.—A. B. Tarwater.

11:25 A. M.—Welcome on behalf of city.—Mayor J. B. Cardwell.

11:45 A. M.—Response, O. B. Martin, Director of Extension, Texas A. & M. College.

12:15 P. M.—Picnic Lunch, City Park, Hale County Dairy Association.

1:30 P. M.—The Hale County Dairy Association, Address.—Milton West.

2:00 P. M.—Address, W. F. Schilling, Dairy-poultry member, Federal Farm Board.

7:00 P. M.—Dinner, Hilton Hotel, Representatives from counties of the Panhandle-Plains of Texas and Eastern New Mexico.

Saturday, July 26th, Second Day
7:00 A. M.—Breakfast, W. F. Schilling, guest of Directors of Chamber of Commerce and Agriculture, and members of Board of City Development.

9:00 A. M.—Tour of Hale County with Mr. Schilling.

12:30 P. M.—Lunch, Directors Hale County Dairy Association and business session with Mr. Schilling.

3:00 P. M.—Special appointments with Mr. Schilling.

SCHOOL TRANSFERS SHOULD BE MADE BY AUGUST 1

School patrons of Floyd county are hereby reminded that the time limit for transfers is August 1. Those desiring to patronize any school other than your home school should file a transfer with the county superintendent. Transfer blanks have been mailed out to trustees of all districts. We are glad to receive applications for transfers, either by mail, or in person at the office.

PRICE SCOTT,
County Superintendent Floyd County

SOUTH PLAINS FILLING STATION DESTROYED BY FIRE

The City Service filling Station of South Plains, owned by Latrell Graham and Walter was destroyed by fire last Thursday night. The building and contents was a total loss, partially covered by insurance.

Mr. and Mrs. Burton Thornton and Mrs. Roscoe Snyder returned Monday from a trip to Dallas and Hillsboro. They were accompanied home by Mrs. Faye Crawford, who is visiting here with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. R. C. Bennett and other relatives.

GET THE ELECTION RETURNS AT BEACON OFFICE SATURDAY NIGHT

We have arranged our blackboard for the receiving of the election returns in tabulated form for the Floyd County vote and will post all returns as fast as they come in, on Saturday night.

The state returns will be received over our radio and announced.

We invite the people of this and surrounding communities to visit with us on this occasion, and we will try to give you the best possible service in tabulating the returns.

Candidate Rally Was Held Here Tuesday

Practically All Candidates for County and District Offices, Were Present

In response to the invitation to hold a candidate rally at Lockney on Tuesday afternoon and night, practically all the candidates for county and district offices responded, and two speakers for candidates for Governor appeared.

In the afternoon, Clo. T. J. Tilson of Plainview, started the meeting with a speech favoring the candidacy of Tom Love for Governor, and was followed by Judge Matthews of Floydada, who spoke in favor of Clint Small's candidacy for Governor. A speech by County Judge Wm. McGehee closed the afternoon session, which was attended by between two and three hundred men and women.

At night, all the candidates for the county and district offices with the exception of four, were present, and Dr. C. J. McCollum, acted as master of ceremonies, introduced them one at a time, and allowed them 5 minutes each to make their own announcement and in brief tell the people what they wanted to. Judge John W. Howard was the first candidate to be called on in the evening program, and the program was finished by Judge Wm. McGehee. The talks by the candidates lasted for about two hours, and each person presented his claim for the support of the people of this section of the county. A very good crowd was present, however, the flurry of wind and rain that came just as the crowd was gathering for the meeting, probably cut the crowd for the affair by more than half.

Saturday, July 26th, is voting day for the first primary, and this was the last opportunity to hear the candidates before the polls open, and each candidate's plea was for his supporters to go to the polls and vote on that day, to be sure that his or her preference in the different contests did not "sip the water of Salt Creek." The men and three women have been tireless in their campaign, most of them having announced early in the year, and have been on the job persistently for several months, and now at the close of the first contest, and it will be the final contest for some of them, they want their friends and supporters to do their "stuff" next Saturday and vote them into the offices for which they ask.

After the Saturday primary the ticket for the August primary will be much shorter than the one to be first voted on, as many of them will either win or lose in the first primary, therefore, having no contest in the second, but where there is a run-off, the campaigning will probably be more spirited for the next thirty days, than it has been during the past several months of campaigning, so go to the polls Saturday and register your preference for first place in this primary, and try to make your choice safe for the run-off, in case there are more than two in the first race.

HIGHWAY NINE NOW COMPLETELY PAVED

Plainview, July 23.—With completion of a small gap at the south limits of Hale Center, paving on Highway 9 in Hale county was completed last week. Carl Pleasant Inc., has already begun operations on the east lap of Highway 28, Federal Highway 70. It is believed the entire length of Highway 9 can be opened to public travel by August 1.

Hale Center is planning to be host to the set-re citizenship of the county at a celebration of the opening of the highway some time soon.

Misses Anice and Alice Stewart are visiting Mr. and Mrs. D. Mac Stewart in Canyon.

J. B. Rutledge, Roy Sander, Elvin Rainer, and Elvie Red of Floydada visited in Lockney, Sunday.

DALHART SHERIFF SUSPECT DIE IN GUN BATTLE

Sheriff and Two Others Die in Battle,
When Arrest of Man Is Attempted

Dalhart, July 19.—Orrel Dillinger died late tonight of bullet wounds received in a gun battle with officers this afternoon.

Dalhart, July 19.—In a fierce gun battle, five miles south of here this afternoon, George W. Alexander, sheriff of Dallam county and veteran peace officer of the Panhandle, lost his life and Lon Dillinger, for whom Alexander held a felony warrant, was killed. Arleta Boger-Dillinger, Lon's wife and Orrel Dillinger, Lon's brother, were wounded.

Orrel Dillinger, accused by one of the officers of firing the shot that killed Alexander, is in a dying condition, attending physicians said late tonight.

Lon Dillinger, 35, jumped a bond at Dalhart five or six months ago. He had been arrested on a liquor charge. He also was wanted in Sherman county on a liquor charge, it was said.

The sheriff's office had been searching for Dillinger and once, a short time ago, he slipped through the net by a writ of habeas corpus in southern New Mexico. Yesterday morning the sheriff's office received information that Dillinger could be found at a small farm house, five miles from here.

The "tip" had been given by a relative of the Dillingers, it was said at the sheriff's office, and before Alexander started he told his wife:

"I feel like I'm walking into a trap, but I feel going anyway."

Relatives Give Tip
Sheriff Alexander, his chief deputy, H. D. Foust and Earl Damron of Dalhart, deputy sheriff of Hartley county, set out to arrest Dillinger. The officers arrived at the farm house at 2:30 o'clock. Alexander, accompanied by Damron, went to the front door, where they were greeted by Orrel Dillinger. Foust was stationed at the back door. Lon Dillinger was "out back", his brother said. Alexander went after him.

Lon and the sheriff started to the front of the house. The two were in a heated argument, according to Orrel.

"I was on the front porch and I heard them, coming around the house," Orrel said from his bed in Loretta hospital. The patient is shot through the left side of the neck and just above the liver. His condition is critical and he talked with difficulty.

Foust, still stationed at the back door, heard a shot ring out within a few seconds after his chief and Lon Dillinger had passed around the house. The deputy sprang into action. He threw his weight against the door and entered the house. Lon was in the house, reaching into a trunk and beside the trunk stood Mrs. Dillinger, a rifle or a shot gun in her hands. Foust said. From her hospital cot Mrs. Dillinger claims she didn't have a gun.

Struggle With Gun

Foust covered Lon. At the same time the deputy said, "Make the woman put down that gun." Lon said nothing, but lunged at Foust and in the struggle the officer's gun was twisted until it pointed at him instead of his assailant. Recovering from the sudden and unexpected attack, Foust put all his strength into the conflict and gradually the gun once more pointed at Dillinger. There was a report and Dillinger dropped. A bullet had entered his body from the left side; it crashed through the heart and penetrated both lungs.

By the time Lon Dillinger dropped, death-dealing slugs were flying thick and fast, but Foust kept advancing. He saw his chief, Sheriff Alexander, sprawled in the front yard, a gaping wound in his head. The sheriff was still alive, but died within half an hour after he was wounded.

Smoke Clears Away

When the smoke of battle cleared away, Orrel, 28, had dropped from two wounds. Mrs. Dillinger was shot through the hip. There were powder burns and a bullet hole in the left sleeve of Foust's coat; he was not wounded.

Besides the Dillingers the officers found another woman and two men in the house. None of these there were wounded.

"Who shot Alexander?" Mrs. Dillinger was asked at the hospital.

"I don't know. I think Foust did. He shot everybody."

Mrs. Dillinger, 20, denied she did any shooting and denied she had a gun. She refused to make any other statement about the shooting. The woman claims she was married to Lon Dillinger June 25, last, at Clovis, N. M. She has been a resident of Dalhart for several years and for some time had been living in a tourist camp here.

Although wounded critically, Orrel Dillinger was more communicative than his sister-in-law. However, Orrel's answers to questions asked by newspaper reporters threw little light

Tree Sitter on Job in Lockney

H. B. Mann Setting On Scaffold In Shade of Tree, Expects to Break
Endurance Record

Among the hundreds of boys in towns over the nation, who have craved an appetite for setting in, or near trees, is H. B. Mann of Lockney, who has a scaffold built onto the tree on West Locust street, at the side of the Baker Hotel, where he started what he claims will be an endurance test, at tree setting. He went on the job Monday night at nine o'clock and is now starting his first week at the task.

Cortez Parsons is his campaign manager and valet, and attends to his wants and desires, and it is his intention to gain a lot of notoriety from the feat.

Mann states that he expects to secure funds from the tree setting job to help pay his way through college. He is a graduate of the Lockney High School and wants to go to college this fall.

On the shooting.

Suffering Intensely

"Yes, I heard them coming around the house. They were talking loudly."

"Well, who shot Alexander?"

"I don't know."

Orrel was suffering of intense pain. His black hair was ruffled and his swarthy face was twisted in agony. He labored to answer questions, even if the replies were avasive.

"How long had you been out there?"

"We got in Friday night."

"Where have you been?"

"We've been running around."

"Was Lon surprised to see the sheriff?"

"I don't know. I suppose he was. He cultivated corn this morning."

"Did you do any shooting?"

"No, I didn't have a gun."

Occupants Mystery

Orrel said he didn't know who was in the house besides his brother and sister-in-law. He "thought" Mrs. J. W. Gunnells, her father, and "a man he didn't know" were there during the shooting.

Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Gunnells and their three small children, D. T. Evans and Joe S. Venne, Mrs. Gunnell's father were not in the same house during the shooting, it was learned late tonight. They were in a nearby house and had no connection with the shooting, it was reported.

Deputy Sheriff Damron was with Sheriff Alexander and is positive in his statement that Orrel Dillinger shot the officer.

"I was about 10 or 15 feet from Alexander when he was shot," Damron said. "Orrel Dillinger shot Alexander and then opened fire on me. We exchanged shots and Orrel kept backing towards the front door. He dashed inside."

Sheriff Alexander was "game to the last, according to the officers. Wounded fatally, the veteran officer floundered on the ground and made several futile attempts to get into the battle.

Tonight officers were searching for a man by the name of Lewis, said to be a brother-in-law of the Dillingers and believed to have been the man who "tipped" Sheriff Alexander to Lon Dillinger's whereabouts. Lewis was seen on the streets of Dalhart this afternoon. He was carrying a rifle, his acquaintances said. Officers also learned from Orrel Dillinger that Lewis had been at the farm house, where the shooting occurred, during the forenoon.

"Sore at Me," Says

"He was 'sore at me,'" Orrel told officers. "I didn't see him at the farm house, but others told me he was there with a Winchester and had made some threats. Our trouble was about a 'no fund' check."

Excitement was at high pitch in Dalhart tonight. There was a large crowd in the business section, much interest being manifest in the highway bond election when news of the shooting came through an extra edition of the Dalhart Texan, a semi-weekly paper, which ran 3,000 copies off the press giving details of the tragedy.

Ode Dillinger, brother of Lon and Orrel, now is in jail at Dalhart on a liquor charge and Bert Dillinger, another brother, is under a sentence of 25 years for kidnapping and assault in connection with a case several years ago when a man was spirited away and left bound in a small shack near the New Mexico state line.

Sheriff Alexander was not the "hard-boiled" type of officer, but he was tireless in his efforts to enforce the law and knew no fear. He was popular with the law-abiding citizenry and expressions of deep regret over his untimely end were heard at every turn tonight.

Many here express the belief that the shooting was part of a plan to effect a jail delivery at Dalhart and were giving credit to Chief Deputy Foust for frustrating the alleged plot.

Floydada, Texas, July 17, 1930. Mr. H. B. Adams, Editor, Lockney Beacon, Lockney, Texas.

Dear Sir: I have read with no little interest your recent editorials regarding certain Floyd county officials. While I have no comment to make as to the merits of your charges, having made no investigation of the records, yet, reading between the lines, you have started a campaign for efficiency in County Government that should result in good for all parties concerned.

It has been the custom, from time immemorial, to elect to the various offices in our city, county, state, and national government, men who are popular with the people rather than men who are qualified to fill these positions. Oftentimes men are elected to the office of sheriff of a county who are not qualified to fill the place of a deputy constable. Sometimes we put men in the office of County Judge who wouldn't know a law book from a "world" almanac. Occasionally we honor men with the position of commissioners of the county who are not qualified to manage a ten acre tract of land and who have never made a success of anything more than running for office. Yet, we set such men up with authority to manage the affairs of our county with thousands upon thousands of dollars of our money at their disposal to spend as they deem proper.

This letter is not written in criticism of any of our county officials for I have not investigated the record of them collectively or individually. If I am unable to offer "constructive criticism" of our office holders, I certainly do not wish to offer "destructive criticism. I suppose our county officials have done about as well in the administration of the duties of their respective offices as have their predecessors in most instances. However, this is not specially complimentary to any office holder at the present time with a few exceptions.

I am merely writing this letter to say that, while I do not agree with you on many of your political and other views, yet I am glad to know that some one in Floyd county has the courage of his convictions and is not afraid to assert himself on any issue at any and all times. I like a man who can stand flat-footed and look the world in the face and tell where he stands on any question of public interest. Furthermore, I have no respect for a "fence riding" politician such as the woods is full of at this time both in the county and state political ring. Any man or woman running for public office of any kind who is "riding the fence" on any issue should be hopelessly defeated at the coming primary.

I've seen these "two faced" office seekers before. They are PROS in one section of the county or state and ANTIS in another. They are for certain measures in one section and against the same measure in another. They are YOUR friend on one occasion and YOUR enemy on another. They are for certain bond issues in one section of the county and state and against the same thing in another.

Until we came to our senses and change our way of voting for the man or woman who is popular, regardless of his or her ability, character, business acumen, etc., had begin to vote for men and women of ability, character, business acumen, who are wider between the eyes than a "pole cat," we ought not to expect too much from any branch of our government—county, state, or national.

In the final analysis the whole matter of government rests with the people. Ones interest or lack of interest in any campaign where the election of county, state, or national officers is concerned is reflected in the result. If we do not elect good and capable men and women to office, we, the voters, are solely to blame. With this thought in mind, every qualified voter in Floyd county should go to the polls next Saturday and vote for the man or woman who is best qualified, from the standpoint of ability, and character to fill the various offices sought after.

Again complimenting you, Mr. Adams, on your open and bold policy of editing the Lockney Beacon, and on the fact that you have the courage to stand by your convictions even though you are single handed and alone, I remain, Very truly yours, W. EDD BROWN.

THE TICKET, HOW WE WILL VOTE IT, AND WHY?

Saturday, July 26th, which is day after tomorrow, is the date of the First Democratic Primary, and every person who has paid his poll tax, who claims to be a Democrat, whether he or she voted for Smith or Hoover in the general election of 1928 or not, is entitled to a vote in this primary, if it is their desire to vote. The editor will outline the ticket he is going to vote for the State officials, and in brief, state why he prefers the men he will vote for:

U. S. Senator—Morris Sheppard. Mr. Sheppard is the present U. S. Senator, and we are supporting him because we feel that neither of his opponents are either capable or stand for the things that are good for the people of this country. Both his opponents are enemies to the 18th Amendment.

Governor—Earle B. Mayfield. We have personally known Mr. Mayfield over a period of about twenty years, or from the time he was first elected to the State Legislature from Bosque County, Texas. As Legislator, Railroad Commissioner, and U. S. Senator he has a record of serving the people well in each office he has held, standing for the things that were to the best interests of the people of the best morals, and favoring the things that we deem to tend to make Texas a better state to live in. He is the only man in the Governor's race that has a constructive platform to offer the people. All the other candidates are running on some "pet" hobby, and have offered nothing for the good of all the people of Texas.

Lieut. Governor—J. D. Parnell. Our long acquaintance with Mr. Parnell, from his boyhood, has proven him to be a man of sterling character, a man that stood for many good principles, and a man of action.

Attorney General—James V. Allred. Jimmie is one of the nicest men you ever met. Capable as an attorney, having learned his "Sheepskin" thoroughly, is a man of sterling character, a fighter for the things he believes right and just, and a man, that we believe, can be depended upon to give the very best of service in the office of Attorney General.

State Comptroller—George H. Sheppard. George Sheppard has lived in Sweetwater for many years, was raised on a farm in Nolan county, south-east of Sweetwater, has served the people of Nolan county as an official several years, and is the present Comptroller, serving out the unexpired term of S. H. Terrell by appointment. As has been said Sheppard is "As clean as a bound's tooth." He is capable, clean and honest. You will choose wisely if you vote for him.

State Treasurer—John E. Davis. Mr. Davis is a newspaper man at Mosquite, Dallas County, Texas. He has a good record as a clean, good man.

Commissioner of Agriculture—A. H. King. Mr. King lives in Throckmorton county, has a record in the legislature as the "Farmer's Friend." He is a western man, and capable of serving the agricultural interests of the state.

General Land Office—G. E. Johnson of Hale county. We understand Mr. Johnson is capable of handling the business of this office, and make him our preference on account of being a home man. However, J. H. Walker is the present incumbent, serving out the unexpired term of Mr. J. T. Robison, deceased, by appointment, and has had years of experience in the office he now holds.

Railroad Commissioner—Pat M. Neff. You all know Pat Neff, what he stands for and what can be expected of him. He has been governor of Texas, and his record is an open book to the people.

Judge, Supreme Court—C. M. Cureton. Cureton, like Mayfield, is a Bosque county product. His record of service is an open book to all who care to investigate. A good, clean, capable man, that has shown his efficiency by his past years of service.

Judge, Court of Criminal Appeals—O. S. Lattimore. His record as judge has proven his ability, and there is no better man morally than is Judge Lattimore. We say this in sincerity, as we have known Shiverous Lattimore since our cradle days, when he taught school, with his father and mother in the old Baptist church at Dublin, Tex. His life is above reproach.

Congress—Marvin Jones. Mr. Jones is the present incumbent. He has represented the district well. There is no reason for his removal from office, as he is a good clean man, with a good record.

We will not discuss the district and county officers, as we feel that the people know these men as well as we do, and will vote according to the dictates of their own minds. However, it is our intention to vote for the men, whom we feel are the most capable of administering our county affairs, and would admonish those who are undecided as to who to vote for, to investigate the records and characters of the men who want to serve them, and vote for those who they ascertain will be the best men for the good of the country.

TO SENTIMENTALISTS

To you people who are supporting Clint Small for Governor because he is a Western man: Do you know what Small stands for? Have you investigated his record as a District Judge or Senator? If you have not, then why are you supporting him? Have you found out how Senator Small stood in regard to disfranchising all Democrats that voted for Hoover? Have you found out how he stood on the Race Track gambling bill? Have you ascertained his attitude toward giving the big oil companies of West Texas the advantage over the independent oil operators? Do you know how he stands on the 18th Amendment? There are many other questions worth your consideration concerning who you vote for governor, and before you vote for any man just because he happens to live in the part of the state in which you reside, you had better find out what kind of a man he is, in both his private and public life, and whether or not he stands for the things that you believe to be right. Sentimental votes always prove to be a curse to good government. Fight for men who you know to be of good morals, and who stand for things that will tend to uplift your government, instead of causing it to diminish. Just because a man happens to live in the same part of the state you do, is no excuse for you voting to elect him to office. Ability, efficiency, and morality are the things to be considered in placing men in the responsible positions of our government. Investigate and vote accordingly.

HELPING TO BUILD TEXAS

Sabine-Neches channel, stretching from the gulf to Orange and Beaumont and serving Port Arthur, is to be widened 25 feet and deepened to 37 feet. With $2,000,000 already voted, Brownville Navigation District voted on an additional $1,500,000 for enlargement of the Brownville-Point Isabel deep water project, which includes a 25-foot channel almost to Brownsville and excavation of a turning basin at its terminus. Work on the Freeport channel is ready to start. Port activities along the Texas gulf coast are constantly increasing with better appreciation of what access to deep water means.

Things industrial indicate the continued steady growth of Texas. Nacogdoches Canning Co. has outgrown its present plant and will rebuild next year. Walnut Springs Ice Co. has abandoned steam for power and installed electric equipment thru-out. Longview with 32 manufacturing plants employing 738 persons has an annual payroll of $1,570,000. Phillips Petroleum is building a big casinghead gas plant in Ector county.

Julius H. Barnes, Chairman of President Hoover's National Business Survey Conference, characterizes public utilities as "leaders in the industrial march of 1930." Electric light and power companies are spending $865,000 this year on improvements and extensions, gas companies $400,000,000, electric railways $147,000,000.

Editor's Note—The following article was written by Miss Watson on the eve of her all Summer's Journey, which will take her through the Canadian Rockies, on to Alaska, back to our Pacific Northwest, through national parks, and other places which await the visits of those who resolve to "See America First." In her own inimitable style, she will describe her experiences in other articles soon to appear in the Beacon.

By Marion Watson
Never shall I forget the return trip from Alaska. No water journey in America can quite compare with it, either in beauty or romantic appeal.

For four days the steamer threads a long, land-locked channel, winding through mountain-hemmed, fjord-like waterways as through a fairyland, with wooded islands, tremendous peaks fascinating towns, and queer old settlements.

Perhaps the most spectacular part of the trip is the Lynn Canal, which we entered immediately after leaving Skagway. For eighty miles we steamed down this huge arm of the sea, through scenery of grandeur scarcely believable. Between towering grey walls of rock that rise in some places six thousand feet sheer from the water's edge. Down the steep sides, waterfalls leap exultantly, and great glaciers wind in shining beauty thru gorge and ravine.

Here and there, when the walls lower a bit, you can see range upon range of mountains, green on their lower slopes, mistily blue in their middle reaches, and dazzling white on their snow-crowned summits.

Nearing Juneau, we caught our first glimpse of the famous Take Glacier, an ice giant ninety miles in length, flashing like a million diamonds in the sun. As we approached it, hundreds of odd-shaped floes, turquoise, sapphire, amethyst, and indigo—floated by majestically, to melt in warmer climes. As they passed us, huge masses of ice broke off frequently, crashing into the sea with a deafening roar. Even the vibration of our ship's whistle brought down pieces hundreds of tons in weight.

Day after day we dreamed our way through this wild, primitive scenery. At times the shore came so close we could almost touch the grasses that leaned gracefully over the water's edge, or pick the glowing wild flowers that embroidered the shoreline everywhere with a fretwork of color. As we wound around picturesque headlands with fishermen's cabins almost hidden in verdant greenery. It was as though we were floating through an enchanted world.

At last, where the arch of brilliant blue sky met the water, there appeared the outlines of Vancouver Islands. Of this fair country and its fascination, I shall tell you in my next letter.

The Ladies Store

LOCKNEY, TEXAS

WITH THE CANDIDATES FOR PUBLIC OFFICES

To the Voters of Floyd County:— I could have resigned from this job. It has been impossible for me to see all of you as my time belongs to the other man. My work at the Lockney Auto Co. has kept me quite busy.

VOTE FOR J. B. ALLEN For County School Superintendent

A man with a goal to reach and a program to work out for the benefit of the boys and girls of Floyd County.

Mr. Allen is a capable, efficient teacher, with many years of experience in the Rural Schools of this county, and the work that he has done in the past in the communities in which he has taught is a proof of his ability to place the Rural Schools of the County on a higher plane than they now are.

A vote for Mr. Allen is a vote for the betterment of the children of the Rural Districts, and for the better preparation of these children for the higher educational advantages.

(This advertisement is paid for by a friend of Mr. Allen, without his knowledge or consent.)

VOTE FOR Arthur A. Tubbs

FOR TAX ASSESSOR OF FLOYD COUNTY

Who will give you honest and efficient service, and will appreciate the office.

(Political Advertisement)

Vote for George Gilpin — FOR — COUNTY SUPERINTENDENT

TO THE VOTERS OF FLOYD COUNTY:

We, the undersigned members of the Lakeview School Board, heartily endorse the candidacy of Mr. George Gilpin for County Superintendent. Mr. Gilpin having been Superintendent of the Lakeview School for the past five years.

Old Board: W. N. JONES, W. C. WRIGHT, O. M. CONWAY.
New Board: R. C. SMITH, BENTZ BREEDE, W. C. WRIGHT.

(Political Advertisement)

If Floyd county had paid me as much money as it has paid one of my opponents in the last six years, I, too, could have written you a long, long letter in fact I believe I could get out a newspaper.

I am making this race solely on my qualifications to hold this office, and my ability to give you service and courteous treatment at all times. If you see fit to elect me to this office I promise not to ask you for a deed to it later on.

A. J. WHITE,
Candidate for Tax Collector for Floyd county.

To the Voters of Floyd County:

In view of the fact that the duties of office have occupied a large per cent of my time during the past several months it has been impossible for me to see a large portion of the voters without neglecting the duties imposed on me by law and which I cannot delegate to any one else;

Therefore I am taking this opportunity to express to each of you my sincere thanks for the support you have given me in the past and trust that the service I have rendered since I have occupied the office of County Judge has met your approval and that you have not in any way had reason to regret your action in this matter.

Floyd county is now a $13,000,000.00 corporation with a growing business which I believe needs as its chief officer a man thoroughly familiar with every detail of its activities and thoroughly capable and willing to assume the responsibilities imposed by this position;

If after thoroughly considering each of the aspirants for this honor you see fit to honor me with your vote on July 26th I pledge myself to administer the affairs of Floyd county in a safe, sane and business like manner, and along the same lines I have heretofore followed.

Yours for service,
Wm. McGEHEE.

Cong. Marvin Jones

In the coming primary, the Democrats of the Eighteenth Congressional District, composed of Fifty-three Northwest counties, will no doubt show their appreciation of a conscientious, wise and capable public servant by voting for Marvin Jones for Congress.

Mr. Jones was first elected in 1917 and has served continuously since that time. By native ability and through industry and experience he has become one of the most effective and highly respected men in the House.

If the entire House of Representatives were composed of men like Marvin Jones the standing of the National Congress would be a source of general pride. Mr. Jones does not seek the limelight. He does not speak merely to get into the record, but when he does speak he has something to say, and the members of the House always listen to him.

Mr. Jones has had very little opposition, and in the few instances when it was developed his opponent has accepted defeat with little surprise, and everybody seemed to have a good time. His merit is recognized, and each added year finds Mr. Jones more strongly entrenched in the confidence and esteem of his constituents. Even those who disagree with him occasionally on national questions are proud of the manner in which he serves all of the people of the district, and of the record he has made.

The people of the Plains are always glad to support Marvin Jones.

THE HERALD—PERRYTON

Plainview, Texas,

July 19, 1930.

J. H. Walker who has been Chief Clerk in the Land Office for many years and who is the present Land Commissioner is a candidate for reelection. During the many years that he has been connected with the Land Office he has been a faithful, upright and efficient public servant, having and deserving the full confidence of the public. He has been an especial friend of West Texas and of its pioneers. We heartily recommend his candidacy to the voters of this county.

To The Citizens of Floyd County:

Kind Friends,

In as much as the duties of the Sheriff's office requires practically all of my time it will be impossible for me to make a house to house canvass of Floyd county before the July Primary election. I therefore take this method of asking you for your support.

While I have been sheriff I have done my best to enforce the laws impartially and give the county as a whole the best service possible.

It has been my wish to see and talk personally with everyone in the county but on account of the nature of the duties of the sheriff's office that is impossible. I feel that this should not be held against me.

Thanking you in advance for any support you may give me, I am,

Yours very truly,

P. G. STEGALL.

USE FORESIGHT

Give serious consideration to your eyes before eye strain—which can be easily righted—dims your vision and interferes with your health, comfort, and happiness. No matter how well you may think you can see, guard nature's most priceless gift—your eye sight—by letting us examine your eyes now and advise you of their actual condition. A precautionary visit now may save you much inconvenience and trouble later on.

now before you do anything else, read the words of Mrs. Flora Stanley, 315 North McMasters street, Amarillo, Texas, Praising Konjola, Mrs. Stanley says:
"I was in miserable health for five years, the result of stomach, kidney and lived disorders. My back ached terribly and my feet and ankles were badly swollen. Gas formed after each meal, and I endured awful pains. Dizzy spells and bilious attacks were other sources of distress. My husband insisted that I try Konjola, and now I have a good appetite, food digests as it should, dizziness and biliousness are gone and my weight is back to normal. We will always recommend Konjola after what it did for us."

Konjola does work swiftly, yet a full treatment of from six to eight bottles is advised for best results. Konjola is sold in Lockney, Texas, at the Stewart Drug Co. and by all the best druggists in all towns throughout this entire section.

G. S. MORRIS ESTATE

Z. T. RILEY, Administrator
LOCKNEY, TEXAS

Notice to the Public:

Having been appointed administrator, to close up the affairs of the late, G. S. Morris, who departed this life in February, of this year, leaving no administrator, his wife and son, as you probably know, took charge of the business, and have been running same; and as Mrs. Morris, the wife, has also died, and the son has left for parts unknown, the creditors made application for the appointment of a temporary administrator for the protection of said creditors.

In all probability the store will be sold at an early date, as it may not be profitable to have the court carry the business on any longer than necessary to get a suitable offer for the stock, therefore, I ask that you send me any claims that you may hold against this estate at once, so that if the stock is sold before permanent administration, and the debts can be paid, an effort will be made to distribute the funds and not take out permanent administration proceedings.

If you have a claim of any kind to make, please file same with me at once, and in this way assist me in settling the affairs of this estate.

Yours very truly,

Z. T. RILEY, Administrator.

THE STORY

CHAPTER I—On a pleasure trip on a liner in eastern waters, made possible by a lucky turn of fortune's wheel, the narrator, Philip Amory, impetuous but well-born young Englishman, World War veteran, now a trader at Daru, on the island of Papua, New Guinea, plunges overboard to save the life of a young musical comedy actress known as "Gin-Sling." He is hailed as a hero by his fellow passengers. Amory is chiefly conscious of the warm regard of a girl in the assemblage, whom, on the instant their eyes meet, he feels is the "only girl."

CHAPTER II—He learns she is Pia Laurier, member of a wealthy New South Wales family, and, after their introduction, tells her something of his life in Papua, including his knowledge of a wonderful gold field at Tatalia, on the island, though he does not reveal the name of the place. He is told by "Gin-Sling" (Genevieve Treacher) that Pia is engaged to Sir Richard Fanshawe, prominent in the islands. Amory leaves the ship, his holiday ends, as Fanshawe comes aboard, eager to greet Pia. Amory, however, is confident the girl is not indifferent to him.

CHAPTER III—Back at Daru Amory meets a visiting Englishman, Spicer, there on "development" business for an enterprise of which Fanshawe is the head. In an odd way Amory's mind goes back to an almost forgotten incident of years before, when, on a tour of the islands, he blunders on a leper colony. Recalling it, he realizes that a man on the verge of escape from the colony was Fanshawe—a leper, and engaged to marry Pia Laurier!

have to. Thanks, I'll do as you suggest. The sooner I can get to T. I.—

There I stopped, halting in the middle of my walk to the door. A sound had checked me.

"What was that?" I said to the R. M., in a low voice. I had thought I heard a noise, just under my feet; a sneeze—suppressed, yet audible—not coming from outside.

We stood, two figures turned to stone, and listened. I don't know what Bassett thought I had heard; maybe the beginning of a revolt among the man-eater and murderer prisoners, lightly confined in a wooden jail some few score yards away; maybe the movements of some half-crazed native, oppressed with the strange Vanian madness that has filled a few hurried graves, in Papa's West.

"There's nobody," said Bassett. "I did not answer him. I made a sudden dart for the steps, down the steps, under the house, where eight foot high piles made a little forest of darkness and secrecy, beneath the Presidency floors. There was nobody there. But in the garden, the peering water-logged moon showed me a spray or two of the bluish hedge in sudden, agitated motion.

I jumped the hedge, and came down unexpectedly on something large and dusky, that heaved beneath my feet, and threw me on, as a bucking outlaw throws his rider; I fell, recovered myself, and saw, down the croton avenue, a man running away. He was tall and thin, and he ran in a flat-footed, heavy, plunking manner that instantly suggested to me two large, flat feet I had seen earlier in the evening.

"Spicer!" I said to myself, and gave chase.

It had begun to rain again, the paths were slippery, and the crash of falling water on drenched and down-beaten leaves, made noise enough to cover any retreat. Using my torch, I caught a glimpse of the fugitive, lost him, thought I saw him again, and finally pulled up on the beach road, near the trader Maldstone's, alone.

We aren't formal, in Western Pappua. I went at once and knocked at Maldstone's door. "Who's sick?" was his first query. "Who it is?" "Amory," I answered. "Nobody sick. Is your boarder in?"

"He's not a boarder, we don't take boarders," was Maldstone's answer. "If you mean the nut who blew in today, he's in bed."

"Sure?" "Sure?" I said to myself, and gave chase.

Maldstone disappeared. "Well, now, it's a queer thing," he commented, coming back and standing, an odd, neblama'd figure, on the soaked veranda boards, which reflected his bare feet like ice. "He's not there—Eh, what are you d—ning him for? What's he done?"

"I don't know what he hasn't done," I answered, furiously, for now I was almost sure this Spicer, the creature of Fanshawe, had overheard every word I said to Bassett. "Break his neck when he comes in, or chuck him to the alligators; it's the best thing you can do with him."

"Well, now, the wife wouldn't like any rudeness," answered Maldstone placidly. "I suppose he's got a right to go in the house, or out of the house, as he likes. You go back to your store, Phil Amory; you'd ought to be in bed. Good-night."

I did not go to bed. I went back to Bassett's.

"Bassett," I said, bolting up the staircase. "That brute of a Spicer chap was underneath the house."

"You go to bed, Amory, and let other people go," he answered. "You're fanciful."

"I saw him, I tell you," was my angry response. "Running away among the mangoes. And Maldstone said he wasn't there."

"Teble him yourself tomorrow morning," counseled Bassett. "Aren't you going to let anyone on the island go to sleep? Be off, Black Sheep, or I'll arrest you."

"I can tell you this," was my parting shot, "there's no power in Papa will get me to Thursday Island now."

Nevertheless, when morning came, I began to think differently.

I went to Maldstone's as early as possible. Spicer was lounging on the veranda, in Mrs. Maldstone's special chair, with a tin of Maldstone's special cigarettes at his elbow. Maldstone's boy was busy fetching him matches, soda water, another cushion for his head, a magazine to read. Mrs. Maldstone, in the background, was flying about, busy and energetic as usual. Slim, blue-eyed, pretty in a belated schoolgirl sort of fashion, this middle-aged woman of the outback was a constant wonder to me. She had seen and done almost all that the hardest cases in West Papua had seen and done—run risks, in earlier days, that made one's heart stand still to think of; nursed many a man through accident or fever; laid out and dressed for burial some of them. She had taken in houseless strangers, until the small profits of the store were eaten into almost beyond bearing. She had lived hard, and known no luxury, for years; faced danger like a man, and done a woman's work. Withal, she was the merriest thing in Western Papua, and, but for a line or two, and a gray hair or two, you might have given her five-and-twenty years.

I jumped straight into the heart of things, which habit is one of my most incurable faults. But what life is short—I'd rather jump into now and then a hidden swamp, than spend days painfully walking round dusty roads.

"Do you mind telling me," I said, "what you were doing under the R. M.'s house last night?"

I expected a plain denial, more or less angry. But Spicer was too clever for that.

"Oh, come now," he answered with a man-of-the-world air, and something like a wink. "You can't expect me to give an account of my wanderings about this very fascinating island, after dark. No, Black Sheep, I can't let you ban-ban at me; leave that to the missionaries."

I could have knocked him off my veranda, with the utmost satisfaction; I am not sure that I shouldn't have done it, in spite of Mrs. Maldstone's presence, if something had not told me to move carefully, keep a look-out for red herrings trailed across the track.

"My name is Amory," I said. "What were you doing?"

He made as if to dig me in the ribs with a white, splayed forefinger; I think the look in his eyes made him draw it back, for he was without actually doing it, and he was in my life.

"Naughty, naughty," what he said. "Ladies present."

Mrs. Maldstone—I don't know how—managed to melt away.

"Really," I said, "I have my reasons, which I dare say—" (for I was beginning to think he hadn't heard anything) "you know nothing about. I saw you, if not under the house, certainly close to the R. M.'s in the middle of last night, and when I chased you, you ran away."

"You bet I did," said Spicer with a giggle. "Thought you were the enraged husband, for a fever."

"Bassett isn't married," I told him. "The warder is," he sniggered. "Very pretty wife, too."

Now this bewildered me, for I did know Taluna, the wife of the native warder, and I had seen her, only a week before, brought up in court by her husband, in connection with a charge of "stealing" her, which he was making against another native. Taluna was no saint, and for a Pappuan, she was unusually good looking. It was also true that the warder's house was within a stone's throw of the place where I had stumbled over Spicer.

I didn't know what to think. Maldstone came back at that moment with a tray of glasses, interrupting I fancied, deliberately—the conference. She offered us whiskey; I took two fingers of it; Spicer took some more soda water. It added to my like of him. I have always held that there's as likely as not to be some thing wrong about either a teetotaler or a non-smoker; if not wrong, half-baked. . . . Granted, that there be exceptions. Spicer I did not take to be an exception.

I knew that Bassett, who was shrewd enough, thought I had been wrong in supposing Spicer to be the one that he did not tell me—who is overwrought, excited, and who to fancy himself spied upon, may be in rather a bad way. Perhaps it was Mary Maldstone who gave the final stroke to my suspicions.

"Are you two done quarrelling?" she asked gaily, as I put away the tray I had taken from her hands. "And if you are, can I ask you, Phil, when you're going across again? I want you to do me an errand."

"Across," meant the trip of 100 miles, from this near point of Papua, to Australia.

"It depends," I answered her, "on Mr. Spicer."

"How, on me?" asked Spicer brusquely.

"I heard," I answered him evenly, "that you wanted a number of boys recruited. I have a good cutter and know the villages. I'd be glad to make you a price."

"If he heard me," my thought ran, "if he knows that I'm off as fast as I can go to put a spoke in Fanshawe's wheel, he'll try and keep me here; nothing simpler."

But Spicer, it seemed, did not want me to stay.

"There's no hurry," he said patronizingly. "Take your time. I shall stay here another three weeks." (I saw Mary Maldstone make a face of dismay, behind his back) "I'm waiting for the 'Pappuan Chief' to bring the rest of the members of the expedition along. Of course I am leader, next to Sir Richard, and I have all the organizing in my hands. If you want to run across, don't mind me. Thursday Island—Thirsty Island—every one knows it." He laughed rudely, and looked at my emptied glass.

Now, I am not a drinking man, if I do once in a way shift a glass before the sun's over the yard. I felt, once again, exceedingly inclined to pick a quarrel with the Spicer; once again, remembered that I could not afford to do so, if I wished to make sure of certain things.

"Very well," I said, watching his face. "I'll start across today—anchor at Cap, and get in early tomorrow. Mrs. Maldstone, if you've any commissions, I'll be delighted to attend to them."

"Right you are," answered my hostess cheerfully, with something of her gay schoolgirl manner coming back. "Just a sec, and I'll give you my list." She went off into the store, and Spicer, who had not altered by so much as a line the expression of his large, flat countenance, took the cigarette out of his mouth to remark—"Good trip to you." It was a dismissal, somewhat in the royal manner. I held myself in from answering him as I wished, and followed Mary Maldstone.

Hotels in Thursday Island—of which there are a surprising number—are never the same, twice visited. Proprietors, managers and managerses, vary almost as the seasons go. The Grand Cosmopolis, where I put up,

To Men and Boys

Wednesday Morning from 9 a. m. till 11 a. m. is Ladies Hour at the Swimming Pool.

They have told us they would appreciate it if you men and boys would be somewhere else at those hours. They have insisted that you not poke down here and gaze at them.

Please remember this for these two hours.

OPLE'S FORUM

Lockney Beacon, Monday, the 14, was political day in Lockney. Candidate for Governor Sterling and Candidate Cecil Storey for Attorney General swooped on Plainview.

Sterling spoke at the Granada to a large crowd of men and voters. He made a very interesting and catchy talk in explaining his way and issue plank. Many complimentary remarks were made on the streets after his speech. He made many friends.

Storey is a stalwart, portly fellow who impresses one with the fact that he is a sagacious business man who promises to carry this much quality into the executive office of Texas as he is willing.

Cecil Storey for Attorney General made a very strong appeal for support.

That for one, I was completely won over by his statements. I was made up to vote for him. Bobbitt, the present incumbent, Mr. Storey connected him up with that corrupt Mexican border election gang headed and dominated by that notorious election manipulator Archie Parr, that I cast him overboard and decided to vote for Mr. Storey. But I had hardly gotten across the street from the band stand when I met an old and honored friend who told me he lived near Mr. Storey and knew him well. That he was a sport, and in thorough accord with that race track, gambling, book making, pari-mutual association of Dallas, Arlington and other towns in Texas. That he was as wet as the Gulf of Mexico, and that he had thrown in with the Ferguson outfit, and last but not least he had favored and supported in the legislature that abominable and iniquitous Wirtz bill which gave power to less than three dozen men power to say who is a democrat and who shall vote in the primary and who shall be allowed to have his name on the democratic ballot. He, like Clint Small, was willing to confer autocratic power on thirty one men to disfranchise a large majority of their own constituency in the Panhandle of Texas. Mr. Storey, like Mr. Small endorsed, if he did not participate in the vigorous and scathing denunciation of the majority of the good men and women who refused to follow him into the camps of Governor Al Smith, the most deadly and inveterate enemy of prohibition and the 18th Amendment.

Mr. Storey, possibly, did not indulge in the vicious and opprobrious epithets poured out by some of his colleagues upon those of us who voted for President Hoover, such as renegades, deserters, traitors, religious bigots, nigger lovers, and intolerants.

Perhaps he did not, like Senator Small, declare that the blackest day in the annals of Texas history was when Texas voted for Herbert Hoover, but we never did hear of him resenting any of these unjust, untruthful, and malignant charges.

Therefore we are forced to the conclusion that he was in sympathy with them. I am utterly unable to understand how any conscientious, self-respecting man or woman who voted for Hoover can, after knowing these facts, walk up to the polls and cast a vote for either Mr. Storey or Mr. Small. As for me, my political self respect forbids me doing such a thing.

T. J. TILSON.
Plainview, Texas, 7-15-1930

It may appear to some that the effort to secure a righteous regard for a Christian sabbath is a losing fight. To some communities and, certainly with some individuals, this is true. Some people will not do right unless they are made, and such people of course have no respect for the sabbath, or any other law they choose to disregard, and some communities are dominated by that class of people, or at least are under the influence of such a class of people, and will not respect the sabbath. One wonders if ours is dominated by such a class. Well, time will tell.

The issue is squarely up to us in this community, will we submit to the continual violation of the law of the sabbath? Or will we demand its observance and see that the demands are carried out?

Some people say, well who is violating the sabbath day any way? Many do not know, I suppose, that it is a violation of the law of this state for a grocery store to sell anything but perishable stuff, such as milk, fresh meats and perishable fruits, and only certain fruits are considered perishable, and that not later than 9 o'clock a. m. The selling of common groceries is a violation of the law. Butcher shops are allowed to sell only fresh meats. Drug stores are not allowed to sell any thing but medicines under prescription, but not druggist sundries. Cold drink stands are not allowed to sell any thing but ice cream and milk, or milk drinks, and that with out syrups, pop, coke, Dr. Pepper, and all mixed drinks are not allowed to be sold. Auto service stations are allowed to sell gasoline and motor oils, but not accessories. Picture shows are not allowed to run on Sunday and charge admission. I doubt if a swimming pool could run on Sunday and charge admission if a test was made. I think it would be classed with the picture show when a charge is made.

From the above it will be seen that we folks in Lockney are not very good law abiding citizens, that is some of us. I think the individual who purchases that which cannot be lawfully sold, is as guilty as the seller, and I think the community who permits violations of the law in any way, doing nothing to prevent it by word or deed, are acquiescing in the violation, and are parties to it. God help me, I will not be a party to it, I will lift my voice and do all I can, for I know it will lead to things worse, some young life will be ruined as a result of this lawlessness, and everyone of us who do nothing to prevent the cause of such ruin, will be in some measure responsible. We better clear our skirts.

The law of the land makes only a few exceptions as to what can be sold, and those exceptions are in perishable food stuffs, and necessary medicines, and transportation fuels.

Many say, well nobody observes these Sunday laws. Well that is not true, more than half of the business houses in this town close all day Sunday and they have just as good right to open and sell in violation of the law as any of the rest. The truth is, none of them should do it.

There are about 50 laboring men in this town that are kept busy on Sunday, and for every place of business open on Sunday, there are many more than that who lounge around and for one reason and another stay in these places of business, who, if they were not open would go to church or stay home with their families.

I am sure it would upset some who use the day for profit and some who wait until Sunday to make their purchases, and the habitual coke drinker would get his whistle pretty dry, but he would be better off, and the seller would get it Monday.

You can say what you will, but all these things have their bearing on the morals of the community, and no community never profited in the long run financially, by immoral practices, to say nothing of the higher values.

I am not pleading for anything, but the best interest of our community, and I know that the continued disregard of the sabbath, will lead to disregard of other just and righteous laws, until we are a lawless people, and our children grow up to help fill our already to full prisons. Some body is to blame for this disregard of law, and innocent people will suffer as a consequence.

They say, it's demanded, I ask by who? Is it the business that must have the Sunday trade in order to live? Then it should die. If it can't survive in six honest days of each week, then let it die, change the business.

If its patrons demand it, then such patrons are not your friends. It's selfish interest, either profit or pleasure is their aim, and not your welfare. If they cared for you, and their business was worth having, they would not demand that you be a violator of the law just to serve their personal interest.

If you say, it makes a better town, then you are ignorant as to what contributes to the development of a town. It may attract a certain element, but that element that requires Sunday violation in order that they come to your town, are not desirable, and will become a liability, instead of an asset to any community. Now, a thousand times no, towns that prosper and grow, do so for more substantial reasons, and in spite of those who carry on their business illegally.

There are several ways to secure a sabbath observed town and community. The first and the best way, is for every body to have enough respect for the day not to violate it. This has been the aim and hope of all the articles I have written on this subject, to awaken conscience, and create enough respect for the day and the law of our land, that we would of our own accord regard the law and the day with enough respect and appreciation to observe it as it should be. It certainly does look like that a people, almost one hundred percent American, with the history we have back of us, and the fact of the bolshevik spirit that is spreading, which spirit has no regard for God or law, but would tear down the last vestige of religious and moral principal for which our fore fathers shed their blood and purchased for us at so great a cost, would not wantonly and persistently aid in the destruction of our sacred blood bought inheritance.

Another method would be, for the people to combine their efforts in a concerted organized way, and demand the righteous observance of the law. This has been known to bring about splendid results. This method stimulates officers to do their duty, seeing the demands of the people they are encouraged to do their duty, feeling that they would have the assurance of success.

The last course, would be through the courts, this method, of course, is dependant largely on the will of the people, and the faithfulness of the officers. It takes both to enforce the law. But such ought not to have to be done and every one hopes it will not have to be done, and it will not, unless those who are violating the law refuse to regard it as their duty as citizens to abide by the law under which we all have all the rights that are guaranteed to us by our state and nation. I feel that I have done my duty in bringing this matter to the attention of the people, so far as going in the press is concerned. It is time for others to fall in line and help in this fight. I am not saying I will not write any more. I may if occasion demands.

No one so far has tried to defend the sabbath desecration, I think for the very good reason, that it is defenseless. Neither do I want to be understood as giving up the fight for moral reform, this I never expect to do. I stand ready to join in any crusade that will help to bring about the desired results.

Let it be always kept in mind, I stand unwaveringly and eternally for the best interest of the youth of our community. The line is drawn, who will step over on the right side, the side of God and the youth of the land? On with the battle.

J. E. STEPHENS.

Mrs. Elding Entertain With Bridge Party

Mrs. C. C. Riding of Byars, Texas, was the honoree of a delightful party given by Mrs. Olan Riding at her home Wednesday from 2:30 until 6:00 o'clock. After an afternoon of bridge the guests played and sang, and dainty refreshments of chocolate ice cream and cake were served to Mesdames Robin Baker, Artie Baker, H. H. Hoblaus, W. W. Brown, Ben Whitfill, C. C. Riding, the honor guest, and Miss Mary Baker.

Bridge Club Meeting

The bridge club had their weekly meeting at the home of Mrs. John Broyles Wednesday afternoon from 4:00 until 6:00 o'clock. Beautiful bouquets of cut zinnias, marigolds, and daisies added to the charm of the occasion. A bon-bon dish was presented to Mrs. Carl McAdams as high score prize, and Mrs. E. H. Rankin received a mayonnaise bowl for low score.

A delicious refreshments course of jelly, tuna fish salad, cheese, olives, and iced tea was served to the club members, and the following guests: Mesdames Fay Guthrie, Roscoe Snyder, Ray Wall, and Ida Martin of Houston.

Mrs. W. N. Brown Entertained With Bridge Party

Mrs. W. N. Brown of Fort Worth, formerly of Lockney, was entertained with a bridge party at the home of Mrs. J. W. Dines Monday afternoon from three until six. Ice cream and wafers were served to the guests, all former acquaintances of Mrs. Brown, were: Mesdames Roy Griffith, Artie Baker, Carl McAdams, T. H. Stewart, Estes Woodburn, and E. Guthrie.

Mrs. M. M. Byars Entertains With Chicken Dinner

And industrial developments, too! The new $150,000 Swift milk and poultry plant at Taylor was opened with hundreds of visitors attending the formal ceremony. Lehrack-Ferguson's $300,000 dairy products plant at Wichita Falls was another formal opening held recently, as was the new $70,000 Spears plant at Beaumont.

Congress has provided $90,000 addition for completing the helium gas plant at Amarillo. New 24-ton ice plant of Central Power & Light at Raymondville was ready for the opening of the season.

Mount Pleasant celebrated in June opening of its new $200,000 milk plant and an echo of its establishment and the high interest in Titus county in dairying is heard in the statement that feed crop acreage in that county this year has been increased approximately 300 per cent. Miss Vivian Ellis, Smith county girl, won third place in the farm club girls' contest for the state. She showed $408.35 profit on 250 hens in one year. Other of Smith county are doing well shown by the profit of 24c per hen secured by ten women of the Home Demonstration Club.

Cameron county farmers that land planted to cow-potatoes on two fields, one of had been planted the year before and the other in cotton. The land yielded 167 bushels, the cotton land 125 bushels to the acre. Ditto A. Sanford who found that the acres previously planted in cotton brought $345 more than the acres including the cotton.

Electricity Is Becoming Fashionable...

says the editor of an important English trade journal with regard to its use in his country.

"One finds gas offices and show rooms lighted electrically in America; here it would be amazing," he writes.

Electric light and power in the home, the office, the store, the factory and on the street has become so much a part of our daily lives that we can hardly understand this point of view. We no longer think of applying the word "fashionable" to it. Electric service for both light and power is within the reach of everyone in America.

We can no more imagine a gas office and show room lighted with gas than can we imagine a great refinery lighted with oil lamps or a modern home lighted with tallow candles.
