She is the former home economics teacher of high school and has accepted a like position for next year in the Littlefield school. She takes you for a portion of her trip this week into our romantic neighborland. She promises that next week she'll tell all about Mexico City. I give you Miss Dickinson as a vacation for readers of this column—)

In entering Mexico, as in any other nation, the first problem is to secure passports and permits for cars. The American meets less difficulties in entering Mexico than in any other countries. Tourist may secure a tourist card, valid for six months, from any Mexican Consul in the United States. We obtained them in San Antonio, but one can wait until he reaches Laredo. Visitors entering Mexico for pleasure may drive their cars under a permit which costs three pesos and is valid for ninety days. It is advisable to obtain the services of the Asociacion Mexicana Automovilistica (AMA) because they assist in all matters pertaining to entering and touring the country.

As we drove down the narrow streets of Laredo to the International Bridge, we realized that we were about to enter Mexico because of the many, many exchange shops along the street. Most of the shops were operated by Mexicans who advertised their business by having men and boys standing on the street crying "Get your money exchanged here." These shops exchanged money at about the same rate, but we were advised to exchange at the AMA. The United States dollar is worth $3.60 in Mexican money. We came out of the exchange office feeling like million-

Mexico is full of many interesting and surprising sights. Our first surprise was to be greeted at the Mexican customs by a Mexican who had blond hair, blue eyes and fair skin. At the customs the cars were examined by going over the engine and underneath with a flash light, and the luggage was carried inside for examination. The bags were opened but not examined carefully, then closed and sealed. The officials were very considerate of those showing courtesy to them. The traveler who objects to having his luggage inspected not only gets a thorough inspection but may have to collect his possessions afterwards. We were amused at the customs house when a Mexican entered and was greeted by an official with outstretched arms and kisses. Imagine two Mexican men greeting each other like that! They must have been very, very dear friends.

After leaving Laredo, the highway is one of the longest straight highways in the world. There is a stretch of forty-five miles without a bend. Ten miles from Nuevo Laredo, the second customs house is passed. If the seals on the luggage have not been broken, only the car papers are checked. Another customs house is passed about one hundred miles from Nuevo Laredo where the cars and papers are checked again. One isn't officially in Mexico until the third customs house is passed. Most of the highway from Nuevo Laredo to Monterrey is through uninteresting, flat desert lands. Mountains shortly before reaching Monterrey. The highest mountain near each village usually has a path leading to the top. We learned that these paths led to shrines or to the mountain. The shrines are sometimes only a cross but the natives go to them for worship. Evidence of these shrines may be seen more as one travels into the interior of Mexico.

Monterrey, the capitol of the State of Nuevo Leon, may be called the Pittsburg of Mexico. It has a population of 160,000 (Continued on Back Page)

Approximately 20,000 Bushels of Wheat Cut This Week

Dryland Acreage is Averaging 15 to 20 Bushels Per Acre; Irrigated Tracts Still Too Green

Moisture Content High

Ray Bowman of Irick Cut Irrigated Acreage That Yielded 28 Bushels Per Acre.

Approximately 20,000 bushels of wheat had been cut Thursday morning in the Lockney area, but most of the wheat was reported still too green to harvest. The average wheat brought to the local elevators was showing a large per cent moisture content. The dryland wheat is averaging from 15 to 20 bushels per acre and only one irrigated tract was reported cut.

Ray Bowman of Irick reported the irrigated acreage yielded 28 bushels and he stated "This is the poorest wheat of our entire tract".

Fred Hage, who began harvesting wheat Monday on a 29 acre plot, reported a yield of 20 bushels per acre and a test of sixty-three. This wheat was of the black hull variety and dryland acreage. The tract was located a mile west of Lockney.

M. S. Robertson, seven miles southwest of Lockney reported a yield of 14 bushels from dryland wheat which was assessed as a forty per cent hail damage.

J. D. Hager, who began harvesting his crop Tuesday, is averaging 22 bushels per acre from dryland wheat. His acreage is located northwest of Lockney.

Eighteen bushels per acre on dryland was reported by Raymond Ford. This average was on his acreage southeast of Lockney.

Of the total amount reported the Aiken Community and Cereal communities reported 10,000 bushels.

May Term of District Court Adjourns This Week

Civil Cases Heard This Week By Judge Alton B. Chapman.

The May term of the 110th district court will adjourn this week when evidence is heard in the civil cases of E. R. Harris vs CIT Corporation and Phillips receivership.

Court opened its fifth week with trial of civil cases when a divorce was granted J. R. de Cordova and Jewel de Cordova.

Seven cases were dismissed. They were: Rex Robinson vs Wayne Kelley; Owen McMurray vs Dora Reagan, receivership; G. Gunk vs Ed Hawkins; Dovie Underwood vs Victor Underwood; Verni Faulks vs J. B. Faulks; and Minn-Moline Power Implement Co. vs O. W. Harris.

During the trial of criminal cases held the fourth week Judge E. L. Pitts of Lubbock presided in exchange of benches with Alton B. Chapman. The case of the State or Texas vs Joe Ryals was dismissed because of lack of sufficient evidence.

In the case of L. L. Cardwell a verdict was returned of not guilty.

Receiving Treatment Commissioner Elbert Harris is in Amarillo this week receiving treatment for a growth on one of his eyes. He has been there since Wednesday, June 9. He was accompanied by Walter Childers.

Educational Survey Of Floyd County Being Made

Office Established at Floydada; Several Months Census Survey

An educational survey of Floyd County was begun Monday for the purpose of checking up on school finances, scholastics, distribution of pupils and etc.

The office for this survey, which is being conducted through the Federal government, is located in the County Superintendents office at Floydada. Mrs. Eula Parrick former librarian for the Lockney High School, has been employed to do the secretarial work, and Allen Duncan and Hillary Rafferty will do the field work.

The survey will begin with the census of scholastics and classifications according to ages. The office was established in Floydada by W. O. Willingham of Lubbock, district supervisor of the census survey.

Twenty-nine schools in the county will be included in this census.

Goes To Flint Jake Griffith and Jess Harris left last week-end for Flint, Mich. to get a new Plymouth car and truck. They plan to visit in Chicago before returning home the latter part of this week or the first of next week.

Isis Theater Suspends Bank Night

Regular Bank Night Was Not Held As Announced in The Beacon

Money On Deposit

Court Based Decision On Fact That One Had to Pay in Order To Participate

Like hundreds of other show houses in Texas, Jack Arthur, manager of the Lockney Isis Theater, has announced that bank night here will be suspended until further hearings in state courts. Bank night was not held last week as previously announced by the management.

Last Tuesday the Court of Criminal Appeals of Texas held that theater bank nights were illegal. The test case was against H. S. Cole picture show manager at Banham. The court affirmed the $100 fine assessed against Cole on conviction of violating the lottery law.

The court based its decision on the fact that one had to pay in order to participate although one could register free of charge. The appellant claimed that when a name was drawn it was announced on the inside and outside of the theater. The court could not find any record of a case where a person not buying a ticket had drawn the money.

A summary of the test case was sent to County Attorney Winfred Newsom by Senator G. H. Nelson last week. Deakins, Floydada theater manager, and Arthur talked to Attorney Newsom late Thursday afternoon, June 10, and decided to suspend bank night in both cities temporarily.

Arthur states that the $230 that was to have been given away last week, has been placed on deposit at the Lockney First National Bank awaiting further court actions.

Lone Star And Providence Communities Get Hail

Losses Range From 10 to 90 Per Cent in Community Fourteen Miles Northwest

Hale County Loser

No Rain or Hail is Received in Lockney Vicinity Nor to the Northeast, East or Southeast.

Hail damages were received in the Providence Community, fourteen miles northwest, and the Lone Star Community, eight miles north, Monday afternoon ranging from 10 per cent to 90 per cent. Heaviest losses were evident in the Providence Community.

Precipitation from a half inch to over an inch accompanied the storm that struck around 5 o'clock. Hale County received the worst part of the hail storm getting as high as 100 per cent losses on wheat and row crops. The strip began seven miles east of Plainview and swept through the city on west as far as Olton. Damages were also received south of Plainview.

In the Providence Community it is estimated that K. Sammann suffered a loss of 90 per cent on his irrigated wheat. Ben Quabe had approximately 70 per cent loss and Ben Brandis was also a big loser. All of these farmers had irrigated crops with the brightest prospect in several years. At noon Wednesday, between fifteen and twenty Providence and Vigo Park farmers had reported damages.

In the Lone Star Community losses ranged from 10 to 25 per cent. Probably the heaviest damages were received by J. B. Stevenson and Charlie Merrick and the farms surrounding them. T. J. Word reported a 25 per cent loss, and B. R. Phillips from 10 to 15. More than fifteen reports have come from that community.

A few sprinkles of rain were reported in the vicinity of Lockney but no hail. Aiken did not report any rain or hail as well as Floydada. Northeast, east and southeast of Lockney were clear of the big swath that mowed down a portion of Hale and Floyd Counties' wheat prospects.

Plainview, Host To Legion Convention June 19-20

Jim Wilson, district committee-man of the American Legion, has designated Plainview as official hosts to the annual 19th district Legion convention Saturday and Sunday, June 19-20.

Approximately seventy ex-service men of Lockney are expected to attend the convention. Commander, Geo. Newman stated here the first of the week. The Blackmore Post at Plainview are expecting around 500 to register during the two-day meeting.

Floydada Minister To Fill Pulpit

The Rev. Mr. McChesney, Floydada circuit Methodist minister, has been asked to fill the Lockney Methodist pulpit here Sunday morning at the 11 o'clock hour in the absence of the Rev. H. H. Hamilton, pastor, who is attending a pastor's school at Dallas this week.

Only a song service will be held Sunday evening.

Leave For Kansas City Herbert (Jimmy) Brown left Tuesday morning for Kansas City, Kans., where he will be employed by the Copeland Refrigeration Co. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Sid P. Brown of Lockney.

Formula Given For Grasshopper Poison

Heaviest Infestation Is Noticed In Eastern Part of Floyd County.

County Agent's office has been notified of limited supply of poison for use in mash to poison Grasshoppers. The heaviest infestations have been noticed in the East part of the county. Anyone wishing this poison may make application at the County Agent's office and when it arrives it will be proportioned accordingly.

Below is given a formula for killing the grasshopper:

Standard Formula (Covers 5 acres).

Coarse wheat bran 25 lb.

Paris Green or white arsenic 1 lb. or Sodium Arsenite 1 pint

High grade Amyl Acetate 1 oz. (or 6 lemons, grinding rinds in fine food chopper).

Cane or sorghum syrup 2 qts. (Do not use corn syrup)

Sufficient water to make moist mash.

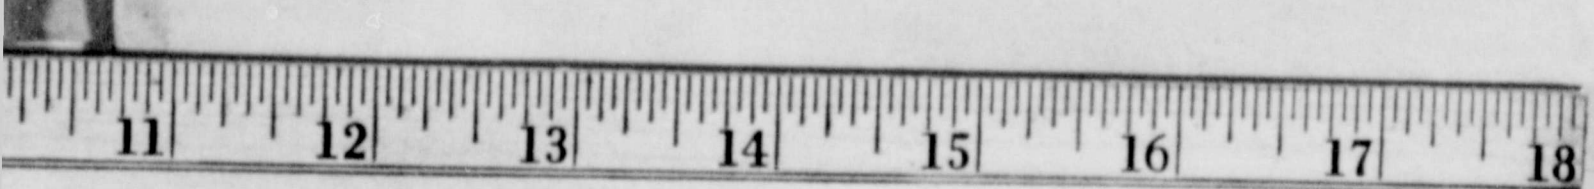

Mix bran and poison together thoroughly. Dilute Amyl Acetate or lemons and molasses in about 2 gallons of water. Pour this liquid over the mixture of poison and bran until every particle is moist. Then make further additions of water and mix thoroughly until a mash is obtained that is quite moist, yet so it will fall apart after being tightly squeezed, and so may readily be sown broadcast.

Early in the morning before 9 o'clock a. m. when temperature ranges from 60 to 90 degrees fahrenheit, sow fence rows and margin to cover infested areas.

Funeral Home Moves

The Crager Funeral Home was moved the first of the week to a house on Main Street recently purchased by Mr. and Mrs. Arch Crager. An addition has been built to the house to serve as a casket show room.

The house has been remodeled into a very modern funeral home.

BRIDE IS COMPLIMENTED WITH SHOWER FRIDAY

Mrs. Walter Taack, nee Miss Leila Dollar, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Dollar of the Irick Community, was complimented with a bridal shower Friday afternoon in the home of Mrs. Jess Cox at 3:30 o'clock. Mrs. Cox was assisted by Mrs. Dow Colson and Miss Laura Mae Terrell.

Mr. and Mrs. Taack were married the latter part of May at Clovis.

The arrival of the honoree was announced by Thelma Jo Shaw who played a portion of the wedding march on an accordion. Sally Ruth Patterson gave a reading "Away Out On It". Thelma Joe Shaw and Mary Dean Carroll sang "I Love You Truly".

Upon arrival of a telegram delivered to the bride, she was instructed to follow the dollar trail. After winding through several rooms, she encountered a tack and was thus instructed in pretty rhyme to follow the tack trail. A bundle of gifts in gold cellophane decorated with dollar marks was found at the end of the trail.

Punch was served from a table covered with a lace cloth and centered with a bowl of roses.

After wheat harvest, Mr. and Mrs. Taack will be at home in Plainview where the groom is employed in the tire department of Montgomery Ward. Mr. Taack is the son of Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Taack of Irick.

MISCELLANEOUS SHOWER IS GIVEN FOR MR. MARBLE.

A lovely miscellaneous shower was given Monday afternoon at the pretty country home of Mrs. Dow Colston for Mrs. Hugh Marble, nee Miss Ethyle Murphy of the Irick Community.

Mrs. Doyle Williams presided at the punch bowl. The dining table was laid with a lovely lace cloth and centered with a bowl of roses. Tall pink tapers in bright candelabra burned at either end of the table.

Announcement of the wedding was made by Mrs. Colston. Little Miss Delma and Mary Alice Samman were dressed in costumes and entertained with singing. Little Bobby Dale Samman and little Miss Mary Beth Bennett presented the gifts to the bride with the assistance of Delma and Mary Alice Sammann.

Guest list included Mesdames Will Crawford, I. B. Potts, E. Royal, J. E. Jackson, Geo. Graham, Bill Sammann, C. W. Murphy, Albert Faegan, J. E. Hampton, Doc. Hampton, Jack Dollar, Walter Childers, W. C. Poage, W. W. Cooper, Geo. Mathews, L. W. Gentry, Jessie Cox, L. M. Honea, R. C. Bennett, Virgil Bennett, Kate Collier, Roy Bowman, Sid Brown, J. D. Williams, Walter Shaddix, G. L. BILL BOBBITT AND MISS BURTON WED MONDAY

In a setting fragrant with flowers and lighter with tall cathedral tapers, the wedding of Miss Exie Burton and Mr. W. N. Bobbitt was solemnized in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Boss Johnson Monday evening June 7 at 7 p. m., 1937.

The solemn words of the rites were read by J. D. Rothwell, Littlefield Church of Christ minister. The beautiful background for the ceremony was formed with flowers and pot plants surrounding a large basket of red roses in front of a flower covered mantel and lighted tapers in candelabra.

Pre-nuptial music, "Ah, Sweet Mystery of Life" (Victor Herbert) was sung by Mr. W. D. Biggers, was played by Mrs. W. D. Biggers. She also played the Bridal Chorus, "Lohengrin" (Wagner). During the ceremony "Humoresque" (Dvorak) was played by Mrs. Biggers.

The matron of honor, Mrs. W. N. Townsend, sister of the bride, followed the flower girls, Misses Betty Mae Salem and Jo Nell Foster, to the wedding room. She wore a pink mousseline de soie dress and a corsage of gladiolas.

The bride was beautiful in a white mousseline de soie trimmed in lace. Her white tulle veil was held in place with a tiara of blossoms and lilies of the valley. The veil was floor length. She wore a corsage of white carnations. Her bouquet consisted of white roses and lilies of the valley.

Mr. Glyn Taylor, close friend of the groom, served as best man.

Those attending the private ring ceremony were Mr. and Mrs. Joe Foster, Mr. and Mrs. E. J. Stone and Mr. and Mrs. Joe Stone Mr. and Mrs. W. D. Biggers, Miss Zona May, Forrest Weimhold, Mrs. Rothwell, and Mr. and Mrs. Boss Johnson.

Mrs. Bobbitt is the daughter of Mrs. A. J. Burton of Carencos. She did her college work in the East Texas State Teachers College in Commerce. For the past four years she has been a teacher in the Sudan Public Schools.

Mr. Bobbitt is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Burt Bobbitt of Lockney. He received his Bachelor of Arts degree from Baylor University and has been principal of the local high school for the past three years.

How Tainted Is It?

One of the chief questions that comes up in each session of the state legislature is taxes and how to finance our government. The result is usually the taxation of legitimate business, while pleasures and luxuries that could easily stand the burden, are not taxed. At the present the Old Age Assistance Act is financed by the liquor tax. In the matter of the horse race betting, as far as the morality is concerned, there will be those who will bet and those who will not, but this one form of amusement was bringing our state a large sum in taxes. When the state legislature passed the bill cancelling such betting in our state they automatically cut from the tax rolls the large sum gained in taxes from this source. They will again place a tax burden upon legitimate business. The movie bank night tax was also bringing the state a large sum in taxes. In attending these bank nights people pay no more than ordinary admittance fee and see the same type of show as on other nights of the week. But still this participation and the taxes occurring from it were ruled out. The thing that we can't understand about all this gambling is why there is any more taint to the horse race betting money and the bank night taxes than there is in the liquor which finances the old age pension.

Maybe "Hit Don't Make No Real Difference."

And so again this little country of Finland marches forward with a payment of $163,143 to the United States on her war debt. Twelve other European debtor governments send "polite regrets" as they have been doing semi-annually since 1933 and another payment is passed due.

European debtors should have paid into the United States Treasury a total of $205,338,754.04

ELDERLY CADDY

Known only as "Jim," this eighty-two-year-old man is one of the most picturesque figures of the British golfing world. A caddy at the Sunningdale links near London, Jim is on the job rain or shine with an umbrella as standard equipment.

as interest and small payment on the principal of approximately $20,000,000,000. Twice each year the country is flooded with editorial comments on the past due payments and Time Marches On with deficiencies mounting steadily.

But we reckon "hit don't make no real difference no how" cause if they were all in good standing they might want to borrow some more. And the way it is now, we've got the ax on them. For the time being, we are not likely to be bothered with that "Brother, can you spare a dime" stuff. Moral: Nothing is ever so bad but what some good can be found!

Selected From The Exchanges

TEXAS WILL PAY

Mr. Guy Waggoner is displeased with the recently enacted anti-racing bill passed by the Legislature. It will eliminate his Arlington Downs race track. He is much displeased and announces that he will now fare forth and establish his interests in another state. But can he do that? Can he move his oil wells that have clothed him with power, and can he move to another state the rich grasslands and the sun and the rain that have made him rich? Can he move the people who have worked for him—directly or indirectly—who have bought his products and who have patronized his industries? Mr. Waggoner might have shown a more sportsmanlike spirit as shown by Mr. Edward A. Felene of Boston who said, "Why shouldn't the people take half of my money away from me, I took all of theirs away from them?" Mr. Waggoner may build a mansion in another state, but Texas will be here when he is gone.—Jimmy Rankin—Ralls Banner.

FOR A THIRD TERM?

Jim Farley, congenial postmaster general and chairman of the National Democratic party, made a sweep through the Southwest last week. Jim likes to meet the people. His publicity department sent work ahead that Jim was coming, and invited all towns to extend a welcome to the big chief. All towns were delighted to have Farley speak from the platform of his train. Farley is the potential Democratic nominee in 1940; but he dropped the word that there is a strong demand for a third term for President Roosevelt. The third term has been a jumble over which no President has been able to hop. But Roosevelt has smashed so many precedents that no one can safely predict what might happen in 1940. Great political events face the American people during the coming four years.—Canyon News.

It is barely possible that Roosevelt has visions of a third term. There is plenty of evidence that he would like to be drafted and elected. But he is doubtless too keen a politician to imagine that it could be done. It is more probable that he and Farley are inspiring the third term talk in order to bolster up his waning power over Congressmen. His court bill seems doomed to defeat and many Congressmen have recently been showing a spirit of rebellion respecting other Roosevelt proposals. When Congressmen know that a President is serving his last term, they become less subservient to his will. As long as they believe that there is a probability of his re-election, they are more timorous and tuckable. Franklin D. is a master politician. And so is Jim Farley.—E. I. Hill—Lynn County News.

There Are No 'Self Made Men'

While it doesn't come up nearly so often now as it did before the late, but not lamented depression, every once-in-while someone will point to another person and remark: "There goes a self-made-man"—or, what is worse, some egotist will so describe himself.

There are no self-made men in Lubbock—or anywhere else. People are made by people, by insistence, by circumstances and grasped opportunities.

Everything that is helpful, inspiring, entertaining does something to make a man.

Everything with which we come in contact each day does something to make us what we are. We owe a debt of gratitude to every human being, to every flower that grows, to every tree, to every rock, to every song spurred from the throat of a bird. Wherever beauty is, there is a contribution to all that we are.

We can put our fingers on no single thing and say that it made us. Surely we cannot say that we made ourselves what we are.

The greatest man is he who gives the greatest amount of credit to others for what success he has achieved.

There is no finer character in this world than the appreciative man or woman.

Keep giving credit if you would be happy and grow.

A man shrinks the moment he throws out his chest and says: "See what I have done!" He should say: "See what others have done!"

No matter how resourceful, energetic and successful we may be, we are not self-made, but other-made.—Lubbock Avalanche-Journal.

So That's Why They Cuss

What makes people cuss? Well here's a scientific explanation as given by Dr. George W. Crane, noted psychologist:

"People who have inferiority complexes and are afraid are likely to adopt profanity. Those who use profanity are often people who are afraid of themselves. They adopt loud and violent language to kid themselves into thinking they are bold, virile men. They are trying to compensate for an inferiority complex. They are like the boy who whistles on a dark night to keep up his courage. They don't feel the equals of those with whom they associate, so they try to impress their friends with their foul language. Chronic users of oaths are usually childlike or immature in their emotional development, even though they may be grown men. The strong man or well-adjusted child doesn't have to rely on such artificial means for impressing his associates."—McLean News.

Instructions On How to Kill Tree Insects

County Agent D. F. Bredthauer Gives Formula For Killing Eggs On Trees

Due to the rainy weather, infestations of trees with bagworms, aphids and caterpillars is unusually prevalent this season, according to D. F. Bredthauer, county agent.

Normally in this section these insects do not damage the trees until late in the Fall and at that time little damage can be done because of lateness. However this year several towns people have already noticed a heavy infestation which will likely prove serious. It is possible for a tree to be completely defoliated in a few days time. This hampers the growth and reduces the vitality which can result in the death of the tree.

Spraying should be done. Giving each leaf a coating of Black leaf 40 or arsenate of lead, which ever is necessary to kill the insect.

For bagworms, use arsenate of lead; aphids, use Nicotine Sulphate.

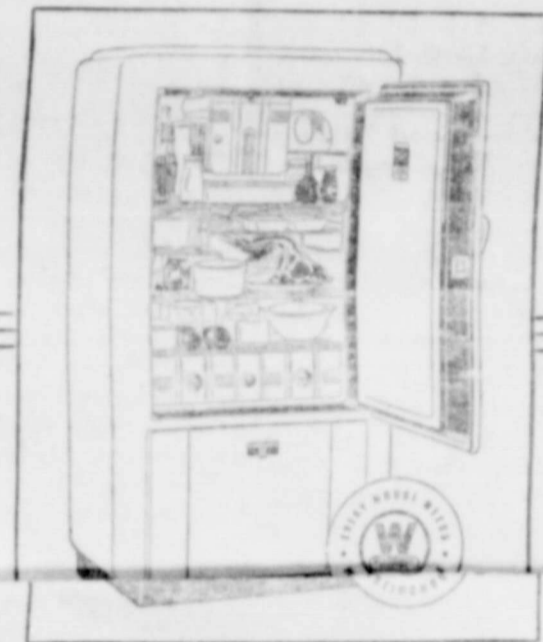

Thrip, a small winged insect less than 1/8 inch long, is reported to be prevalent on rose bushes. Control is essential at an early stage. All affected buds should be cut off and burned, and all dead leaves and rubbish kept cleaned away. Spray with Nicotine Sulphate (Black Leaf 40).

HOUSE VOTES CONTINUATION OF 3 1/2 PER CENT INTEREST

Action of the House of Representatives last week in passing a bill providing for the continuation of the 3 1/2% emergency interest rate on Federal Land Bank loans is of particular interest to West Texas farmers. The measure provides that the 3 1/2% rate shall be extended for one year, for a 4% rate for the period July 1, 1938, to June 30, 1939, and for a 4% interest rate on Land Bank Commissioner loans for a period of two years. The 3 1/2% rate has been in effect for the past two years and the act establishing the reduction expires June 30 this year, unless the measure as passed by the House is approved by the Senate and signed by the President before that date.

Congressman Mahon stated that the House passed the bill with out a dissenting vote was significant evidence of the continued friendliness of Congress toward farm legislation.

No estimate has been made as to Commissioner loans, but final approval of the 3 1/2% interest provision in the bill would save Federal Land Bank borrowers an estimated $31,700,000 in interest charges during the next year. Congressman Mahon estimated that a saving of $200,000 during the next year would be realized by Federal Land Bank borrowers of the 19th Congressional District.

and is one of the largest industrial centers of Mexico, but it is minus the bustle and smoke of the United States industrial centers. Although 452 factories are in operation, people calmly go about as though they had nothing whatever to do. It is characteristic of the Mexicans to take his time about what he does regardless of who is waiting. The immense Cuauhtemoc brewery allows visitors although most of the factories do not. This is the largest brewery on the North American continent and the second largest in the world. The storage space alone is large enough to store enough beer to supply the demand for six months. After being shown through the brewery, cards are given which permit one to go to the garden to drink beer. We imagine that some of the people were frequent sightseers through the establishment to get the free beer afterwards.

The industry of Monterrey is not so outstanding to the visitor as the romance of the city. Our first night there was spent at the Gran Hotel Anicra. This hotel is patterned after the Grand Hotel of Vienna and was the headquarters of Ponco Villa. The guides were delighted to tell about Villa even though they didn't show much respect for him. One beautiful spot in Monterrey, as in all Mexican towns, is the plaza (park to us). Numerous benches are in the plaza and people of all ages may be seen resting at any time of day. The principal night club of Monterrey is Tepicore, which has both inside and outside dance floors and a beautiful garden adjoining them. The song, "It Happened in Monterrey," was written in the Tepicore Gardens by an American who was visiting there. After visiting the place one can easily understand why it would be an inspiration for song writing.

The Governor's Palace, or state capitol, is located across the street from the plaza. This building has two patios which are typically Mexican and some elaborate, though worn, furnishings. On the ceiling of the reception room are three enormous pictures representing Spring, Summer and Fall. These pictures, which are very beautiful, were painted by a sixteen year old girl who lay on her back on a scaffold to do the work.

The Bishop's Palace built 1785, is an interesting sight in Monterrey. It is located on a hill overlooking the city by day or night. The inside wall in one place shows a number of bullet marks. Villa once inhabited the place and it is supposed that he stood his prisoners against the wall and shot them. In the rock floor is a sunken place about fifteen feet in diameter. This leads to a tunnel one and a half miles in length which connects the Palace with the cathedral in the city. It was once used by the people to go from one place to another but has been closed for a number of years.

The Nuevo Leon State Fair was being held in a new hospital building which had just been completed. The fair had the customary exhibits and carnivals of our fairs. It was raining the night we were there so we wore our cellophane rain capes. We bought tickets to ride on a whip which was getting no business. By the time we were seated the whip was filled. We went from there to another deserted whip and the crowd followed us. We were wondering why we were drawing the crowd when the curiosity of some became so strong that they began feeling the capes and asking what they were made of. The capes must have been quite a novelty in Mexico because in Mexico City cars would stop and heads would turn when we wore them on the street.

Although Monterrey is more Americanized than most Mexican cities, some typical Mexican street life may be seen. As one steps into the street he is besieged by shine boys who carry their small shine stands with them. People followed us down the street trying to sell curios which were more expensive than those found later.

A guide in Monterrey told of an interesting law. He said that Mexico had no death sentence, but used the getaway when a person proved to be an habitual criminal, they gave him the getaway or turned him loose and let a squad fire at him as he ran. He didn't explain why letting a firing squad shoot a person in the back wasn't the same as a death sentence.

There are a number of Americans in Monterrey, but all of the homes are Mexican owned. Before an American goes into business, he must post a 250 pesos bond which is a protection for his creditors if he should go broke.

A scenic spot near Monterrey is Horsetail Falls. It is a 160 foot falls which resembles a horse's tail. We had the opportunity of riding a burro while there. A young Mexican, who would pass for an American high school boy, was our guide when we visited the falls. He possessed the typical Mexican trait of being agreeable and cheerful and spoke English fluently. We noticed some long, white ropelike objects hanging on a line. Supposing it was some kind of food, we asked the guide about it. He hadn't seen it, so he replied, "It is clothes maybe."

To reach Horsetail Falls, we went through the primitive little town of Santiago where ox carts are still numerous. Santiago was mentioned in "Believe It or Not" as having the longest straight street in the world. The chief industry of the town is a textile mill where 2,000 people are employed. The houses are small with doors opening on the sidewalks. A small stream runs through all the back yards. At one place we saw a small boy washing his head in the stream. A few feet down, a woman was washing clothes, and further on, another woman was washing dishes in the same stream. We noticed many people carrying what we supposed were lanterns, but learned later that they were lunch containers. The bottom part of the container carried hot coals and the top part was composed of containers for food. Santiago gives a good picture of Mexican life at its simplest.

Jim Hill spent Sunday in Canyon visiting his family.
