New British Drive Is Still Rolling

Mines Still Deadlocked

Worley's Strike Speech In House Is Fully Quoted

While the fourth annual CIO convention in Detroit today reaffirmed its belief in principles of mediation, the captive and commercial coal miners strike was spreading and John L. Lewis, president of the UMW-CIO, stood on his curt turnaround of President Roosevelt's two latest offers.

The CIO delegates pledged full support to the defense effort and Roosevelt's foreign policy, but at the same time its executive council stood adamant on its endorsement of Lewis's demands for a shop in the captive coal pits. Lewis has called a strike of 100 captive miners to support his demands; and commercial miners are walking out in sympathy.

Estimates were that 157,000 commercial and captive miners are on strike, and this figure did not count the West Virginia and Kentucky pits that are shut down while the miners celebrate Thanksgiving.

Major steel companies own the captive mines and use their output to make steel instead of placing it on the open market. At least 10 blast furnaces, busy on demand, are turning out steel.

Roosevelt Urging Full Support For Red Cross

President Roosevelt says that every person who supported the Red Cross two years ago is needed today.

The annual Red Cross roll call is in full swing. It opened Armistice Day, will close on the traditional Thanksgiving—November 28.

"Because of its long experience in community service through its 3700 local chapters, the gigantic task faced by civilian defense coordinators can be more easily achieved."

"The organization's long established work in disaster relief, emergency first aid and other essential fields has played a large part in strengthening our home defenses."

Finally, said the President, voluntary enlistment in the Red Cross—through membership or participation in work—"will prove that we have the heart as well as the sinews to keep ourselves strong and free."

Legion-Auxiliary Meeting Tonight

Business concerning the joint convention of the 18th American Legion district and the Panhandle-Plains association last weekend in Dalhart will be given attention at a Roy Rhoades post and auxiliary meeting tonight at the Legion hall. Commander J. E. Rainey announced today. The business session will begin at 7:30.

Haliburton Painting Arranged
WINDSOR, N. S. (UP)—Sir Wyly Grier has been commissioned by the Nova Scotia government to do a full length, life-size, painting of Thomas Chandler Haliburton, who wrote his famous 19th century Sam Slick stories here. The Haliburton estate is being rehabilitated.

SPOKANE, Wash. (UP)—The Spokane County Pioneer Society has erected a 15-foot granite monument at the spot where Antone Plante, a French-Canadian scout, established the first ferry across the Spokane river in 1851.

U. S.-Japan war or peace talks got down to brass tacks today; British are smashing ahead in Libya after an initial gain of 50 miles; and Reds are stemming a reinforced German offensive from the Baltic to the Crimea.

Tokyo's special envoy, Suburo Kurusu, and Ambassador Nomura, started conversations with Secretary of State Hull immediately after noon today. They had all three talked informally last night in an uptown hotel, but that chat had been the first since the preliminary discussions earlier in the week.

Presumably the envoys had been conveying U. S. sentiments to their government and getting instructions. Renewal of the talks today indicated that instructions have been received and that the conversations probably have reached a significant stage.

Britain last night revealed that a highly mobile army of 750,000 men had struck into Libya at dawn Tuesday and by that night had advanced about 50 miles.

Johnston, Garner Lions Speakers

Drs. E. U. Johnston and F. E. Garner told of their recent trip to Houston to attend the National Dentist's Association meeting at the Lions Club Tuesday. Jack McMeen played two accord'on solo numbers with Mrs. Lillian Fountain at the piano. The program was arranged by A. W. Salyars and presented by Ed Bishop in Salyars absence.

George White was introduced as a cub member of the club and E. T. Hale, chairman of the convention committee, called attention of the members to the zone meeting to be held at Dumas Friday night. A large crowd of local Lions are expected to attend the convention.

Grand Jury Not To Meet Until Monday, Dec. 1

The Dallam county grand jury, originally called to reconvene next Monday, November 24, will not reconvene till Monday, December 1. Foreman R. S. Chatelain announced this morning.

250 Guymon Football Backers Will Follow Team To Dalhart

Guymon is sending its uniformed band and pep squad, aggregating 88 members, plus a motorcade of fans for a grand total of at least 250 to the Dalhart-Guymon football battle in Rita Blanca stadium here tomorrow at 2:30.

That was the announcement of M. C. Hamilton, Guymon superintendent, when he talked long distance with Principal Homer Jackson of Dalhart high school this morning.

Business men, Hamilton said, have already arranged to use their cars to take the band and pep squad to Dalhart, plus any fans who can make the trip. "And it looks like," Hamilton said, "that a bunch of fans will be on hand."

The Guymon Tigers are unbeaten this season and have only one 6-6 tie with the Liberal, Kan., Redskins to mar their record. They romped unceremoniously over the Canadian, Texas, gladiators, who had been undefeated up to that time. Since then they have lustily trounced Boise City and the Amarillo Yannigans.

Jackson said the Guymon fans would be given the east side of Rita Blanca stadium, across from the press box. Local fans will be asked to sit on the west side.

Eugene Worley, congressman of the 18th Texas district of Shamrock, Tuesday in the House in Washington introduced a bill similar to the one already introduced in the upper chamber by Senator Tom Connally of Texas, and designed to take U. S. war production off of strike-shattered crutches and place it on fast-rolling wheels, lubricated with the oil of national unity.

Worley's complete speech on that occasion is given below, and includes terms of his proposed bill. At the time he introduced his bill Worley made it clear that in the interests of getting quick legislation he would be glad to go along with other measures designed to serve the same purpose as his.

Worley's speech:
Mr. Speaker: It is becoming more apparent day by day that we cannot possibly hope to be successful in our aid to other democracies until we have put our own house in order. Day after day we continue to lag behind in our defense efforts and one man, head of a powerful labor group, has seen fit to help throttle our efforts by calling one strike after another.

Regardless of who might be at fault, whether industry or labor, the concern of the great rank and file of the American people overshadow both interests.

It is as important that the government prevent the destruction of labor through the over-zealous activities of some of its leaders as it is for the government to prevent the destruction of capital by its own hand. Both are essential, and harmony between the two must come about whether it be by mutual agreement or by the more stringent and drastic method of law. An immediate truce between the two forces must be made.

Whatever might be the intentions of Mr. Lewis, be they good or bad, he is guilty at this moment of an unfortunate bit of timing with the result that he is neither serving the workers who follow him nor the country to whom he owes allegiance.

I am convinced that he does not represent the great rank and file of patriotic American labor, and because I believe immediate action must be taken I have today introduced a companion bill to the one presented by the distinguished senior Senator from Texas, Honorable Tom Connally. This bill should be immediately and fairly heard so that our defense production will not continue to limp along on a crutch but will become a smooth flowing unit of vitally necessary material, upon which the success of our entire foreign policy depends.

Many blame the Administration for failing to take a more positive attitude in this crisis. Personally, I concede and respect whatever reasons the Administration might have in following any of its policies.

The fact remains, however, that it is still the function of the Congress to initiate and enact all necessary laws for the general welfare of the American people and I believe the duty to take immediate and positive action rests squarely within the constitutional provinces of the Congress. This I believe to be the solemn duty of the Congress if we are to place our own house in order and if our foreign policy is to succeed.

Briefly the bill which I have today introduced amends the Draft Act and adds the following provisions:

1. To give the President power to take over the operation of any defense industry where a stoppage of production is impeding national defense. This provision merely clarifies existing law as to the power of the President to take over industrial plants so that it plainly includes authority to take over mines.

2. To "freeze" the terms and conditions of labor in a plant or mine taken over by the government, wages excepted. This is aimed at ending jurisdictional disputes for the duration of the emergency and to remove other causes of industrial stoppages.

3. To establish a special wage board to adjust wage disputes and fix compensation when a majority of employees or their authorized representatives so petition the board.

These proposals might not be perfect in all respects, but certainly it is an honest and sincere effort to bring about an immediate cessation of civil warfare in our own yard.

When Is Thanksgiving?

The President of the United States has proclaimed today, Thursday, November 20, as Thanksgiving Day.

The Governor of Texas has proclaimed next Thursday, November 27, as Texas' Thanksgiving Day.

The governors of other states have disagreed on the exact day the people of their respective states should observe Thanksgiving.

The ministers of the entire country remind us that each day we live should be a day of thanksgiving.

Regardless of the day we observe, the important thing is that here, in this grand and glorious country of ours, we still may pause in the daily routine of our business and give thanks to Him who had permitted us to enjoy the blessings of mankind.

All is not well in the land that the Pilgrim Fathers founded in their search for a place of freedom. We are torn with strife of a war-crazy world and many difficulties of our own people. The blood of thousands of human beings is being spilled in a useless war. There is the grim realization that our own flesh and blood may be involved in the great conflict now going on in Europe.

Yet on this Thanksgiving Day, whether it be this week or next, there is much to be thankful for. Especially is this true in our democratic nation, where man still believes in the rights of others.

We can be thankful that those boys whom we have already given to the service of our country are still on native soil; that those in charge of our national affairs are men of honesty and sincerity; that this nation, "conceived in liberty and dedicated to the proposition that all men are created equal," is a living, breathing emblem of freedom and democracy, and that the stars and stripes still wave where freemen live. Future generations may look back and wonder why we did not give thanks more often.

As far as we are personally concerned we are thankful, not just today or next Thursday, for the privilege of having been permitted to operate a business firm so long in such a fine community; for the friends who have made this business possible; and for the pleasure that has been ours in serving you.

And we join all of you in thanking an all-wise Providence for the blessings that have come to us as a nation.

IN AND ABOUT TOWN

Miss Marjorie Hathaway, with the Consumers Fuel Association in Amarillo, is here for the day with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Hathaway.

Mary Ellen Causey, student at Colorado Woman's College, Denver, and her roommate, Martha Dumas of Tempe, Ariz., arrived last night to spend the Thanksgiving season with the former's parents, Mr. and Mrs. A. E. Causey. George Causey, who attends Amarillo College, is also here visiting homefolk.

Mr. and Mrs. Manley Asher and son of St. John, Kans., will arrive tomorrow to visit the Dan Allender family. Ellen Jo Allender, West Texas State College student, came in yesterday to spend the remainder of the week with her parents.

Mrs. Chas. Woods, Mrs. W. L. Wanser and Mrs. Karl Pieratt were in Tucumcari Tuesday and Wednesday for a visit with Mrs. Victor Stewart.

Malcolm Day left Dalhart a few days ago for Los Angeles where he will work.

Denver Streamline Train In Collision

The Denver's southbound streamliner—the Texas Zephyr—that came through Dalhart at 10 last night collided early this morning with a truck on the outskirts of Dallas. The engineer and truck driver were killed. The fireman was burned, cut and bruised. Five persons were injured, some seriously. All passengers were shaken.

The trailer-type truck was piled high with steel beams. Rails were ripped up for 40 feet by force of the impact. The Zephyr slid off the rails and into a water-filled ditch. Three cars were jerked crosswise of the road. The other five cars were wholly or partially derailed.

act of March 3, 1879.

PUBLISHED EVERY FRIDAY

WASHINGTON.—Though he has stayed out of the limelight, few men have played a more important role in the recent war effort than Major-General James Burns, the man Roosevelt is picking as our new ambassador to Russia.

For about a year Gen. Burns has been attached to the White House to expedite Lend-Lease goods to Britain and Russia. He has done a hard-driving, efficient job.

More recently, when he accompanied Averell Harriman to Russia, Gen. Burns was the one man in the mission who got out of Moscow and had a look-see at the long Russian front extending south to the Caucasus.

One story he brought back from that trip was how the Russians had picked up an entire airdrome from in front of the Nazi attack, transported it well behind the lines, and set it up with underground machine shops and hangars in 30 days.

The man who really discovered Burns was Louis Johnson, ex-assistant Secretary of War. Burns was a low-ranking colonel buried in the War Department when Johnson recognized his ability and put him in charge of industrial mobilization.

As Johnson was about to retire as Assistant Secretary, Gen. Marshall asked if he had any final requests to make.

"There is just one thing you can do for me," Johnson replied, "Promote Colonel Burns to the rank of major-general."

Burns got the promotion, and also was assigned to the White House, where he has been almost ever since.

NOTE.—National Defense would be far better off today if the War Department had followed the industrial mobilization plan worked out by Burns and Louis Johnson.

CONGRESSIONAL LUBRICANTS
Capitol newsmen were joshing Representative Henry Steagall of Alabama, chairman of the House Banking Committee, about a published report that a bottle had been passed around while the committee was holding its final closed-door meeting on the mutilated price-control bill.

Steagall raised his right hand and said solemnly:

"Boys, I can't remember when I took my last drink—it's been so long ago."

At this point Price Administrator Leon Henderson walked up.

"How about you, Leon?" asked Steagall.

Henderson, who has little time for the flowing bowl during his 16-hour working day, also raised his right hand.

"I can't remember either," he grinned, "but for a different reason. I am too busy."

THE ARK ROYAL

The British had good reason for carefully holding back some of the story regarding the sinking of the Ark Royal. All of the facts still are not out, and will not be for some time. But the best inside information is that the sinking was a far greater event than appeared on the surface, because it marked the beginning of a wholesale Nazi submarine campaign in the Mediterranean.

Not published was the fact that the British had six destroyers guarding the Ark Royal at the time it was hit.

Airplane carriers of this kind are not heavily armored, are extremely vulnerable, and are so hard to replace that they are carefully guarded day and night.

Therefore, the Nazi submarine which sent the giant carrier to her grave probably was one of a nest of subs which lay in wait with engines muffled.

With France fully in the Nazi embrace, this kind of warfare is what the British will have to face in the Mediterranean. Counting Italian submarines, and the undersea craft which the French fleet will doubtless add to Germany's, Hitler will have a total of about 200 subs in the Mediterranean.

Almost equally important, he will certainly have the advantage of French naval bases, which with the Italian, Spanish, and African bases he already commands, will provide a total of 35 Axis submarine bases sprinkled strategically

All Red Cross Captains Urged To Start Work

The Dallam county Red Cross drive is making splendid progress, but a few captains still are not working.

District court jury service and other factors have interfered, said Guy Fox, roll call chairman, but some of the captains have not even called for their supplies.

He is asking that they do so at once, if at all possible, because the campaign is to close a week from today. If they can't serve, he asks that they tell him so new captains can be named.

Jo Beth Storey, who underwent an appendectomy at the hospital several days ago will be removed to her home this afternoon.

around the Mediterranean.

In contrast, the British will have only Gibraltar, Malta, Cyprus, and a few ports in Egypt, Palestine and Syria.

HITLER CARVES TURKEY

The reported new French hook-up with Hitler comes at an especially bad time for the British—which undoubtedly is why the Nazis put the screws on Vichy so vigorously. Under these circumstances the Nazi squeeze on Turkey can be expected to tighten almost momentarily.

In fact, the more the Nazi drive in Russia bogs down with weather, the more likely is Hitler to take the easier, warmer, short cut through Turkey toward the oil fields of the Caucasus—and also toward the British oil fields in Mosul and the Euphrates Valley.

For months the Nazis have been bringing small boats down to the Aegean via the Balkan railroads and the Danube, and are reported almost ready for landing party attacks on coastal points in the Middle East.

Preparing to meet this, Gen. Wavell has been sending a constant stream of reinforcements from India, most of them to Iran, Iraq, and Palestine. The British say they are in fairly good shape—though still woefully weak in tanks.

Faced with this crisis, the Turks, as usual, continue to be the enigma of Europe. Diplomatic betting is they will bow to Hitler.

NEUTRALITY STATESMEN

Personal grudges and partisan politics played a big role in the merrie go roundie ie ie thurs close House vote on the neutrality revision bill, but there also were some sterling examples of courage.

Isolationist pressure groups stopped at nothing in their last-minute efforts to defeat the bill—including even threats of physical violence. One congressman who can vouch for this is able young John Dingell of Michigan, 2 member of the top-ranking Ways and Means Committee, who received a hand-printed postcard from an anonymous sender, reading:

"McKinley was shot in 1901. The same retribution will come to you and to the present White House occupant if both of you continue the course you have taken on foreign policy. Let this be a warning to you."

Dingell turned the threat over to the FBI, but didn't waver on the roll call. He and Representative John Lesinski were the only Michigan members who voted "aye."

Later, Dingell told an isolationist colleague: "I would have voted for that bill today if I knew it meant my defeat for re-election tomorrow."

NOTE.—Other House members who underwent terrific isolationist pressure, but stood their ground, were Representative John Cochran of Missouri, James Barnes of Illinois, Joseph Casey of Massachusetts, Bertrand Gearhart and Jerry Voorhies of California, Jack Houston of Kansas, and William Schulte of Indiana.

"I always do this as soon as I get back from my vacation. I can tell just what George did while I was gone!"

Since I did not avail myself of the opportunity of becoming a member of John McCarty's Last Man's club, I think I'll not pass up another good bet, but will apply to Lawrence Ashby at once for stock and membership in his Fish, Frog and Muskrat association. If the organization will make me a vice president I'll agree to give them the proper amount of publicity.

I suggest you read O. K. Curry's letter in tomorrow's (Fri.) Texan, may I suggest that you do so. The city park has long been an eyesore to the community and the city officials have wrestled with the problem for years. What is wrong with reducing it to the size that we can take care of properly, selling the rest of it for residence property, and at least making it more attractive? No one is critical of the city administration who knows the financial condition of our city affairs. Yet, civic pride should force us to do something about that park.

Which reminds me that Jimmie Caserta, of the Soil Conservation Service, was in our office yesterday and said that some hunters had cut government fences around the Rita Blanca lake property and violated the law by hunting on the property. A watchman has been employed to see that this does not occur again, and it does he has his instructions to take the offenders in charge without delay. Offenders will have to face the Federal judge at Amarillo and the fine can be as much as $500.

Personally I believe that before our people ever realize that the lake property belongs to the Government and is not to be tampered with, someone is going to have to face a Federal judge and pay a heavy fine. I told Jimmie that and he said he hoped it wouldn't have to go that far, but that might be necessary. In fact I think they are about ready to crack down without sympathy on the offenders if they are apprehended.

If you hunters want some fun and want to do something at the same time, why not go in the Andy James community hunt coyotes? Mrs. H. D. B. and some of the other ladies live out in that territory, several days ago that the were eating the chickens and have to watch our children, close." They said the would come pretty close to houses even in the daytime.

New names for the "dust bowl" are coming in all directions. Yesterday's brought entries from Oklahoma City, Lubbock, Amarillo, and Rock, Texas. Several local were received also, John M. enthusiastically suggested a but it so happens that the suggestion had already been received in writing from at least other persons, one of them a woman.

Someone should stick a BoB Jones to bring him out. That baby will soon be a wean and both mother and daughter coming out of it in fine shape they say the father is still in coma. Sure, and I'll bet there never a baby born with a welcome waiting for it.

Defense Bonds No. 1 Investment---Babson

(By ROGER BABSON)

NEW YORK, Nov. 20.—While listening to many recent conservatives, I have come to believe that too many individuals are today decidedly talking out of order. There is a good deal of "gossip" going the rounds about unemployment, defense bonds, inflation, further devaluation of the dollar, the plight of the small business man, the size and servicing of the national debt, etc., which has no factual basis. Unconsciously, a good deal of harm may be done if such talk continues and particularly so if it is further falsely embellished in the retelling. I, therefore, should like to clear up a few misunderstandings about at least one of these matters.

Defense Bonds

I have heard the fear expressed that Washington might in some way freeze the resale of these bonds or freeze their ultimate payment in advance of their respective due dates. This argument is usually prefaced by the statement that the very fact of these bonds being now non-negotiable and of no value as collateral for bank loans is the handwriting on the wall. Hence, an inkling as what purchasers may ultimately expect. This is all nonsense.

The act creating these bonds certainly provided the public with a safe investment medium. The Defense Bonds were made non-negotiable because our Government wanted U. S. investors to own at least one security which they could not hock. It is essential that in order to forestall the evil effects of inflation that these bonds not be used as "currency." I may add that it is a very sound way. Otherwise, the printing of bonds may be like printing paper money.

Liberty Bonds vs. Defense Bonds
The Liberty Bonds which financed our preparation and conduct of World War I differed from the current Defense Bonds in one major respect, namely they were negotiable. Furthermore, people were urged to borrow to buy Liberty Bonds. This was a mistake which the present Administration does not want to see made again. It also wants the buyers to be sure to have some cash which may greatly be needed after the war is over.

The only proper way to pay for any investment is by cash, I have always emphasized the evils of buying upon margin or with borrowed money. If individuals borrow to buy Defense Bonds, or if they could borrow on them, just so much more money or credit would be available for luxury and other consumer goods. The demand for such goods has already been speeded up by larger payrolls and higher wages. In view of rising living costs, it would be far better to now store up a portion of these wages and salaries in Defense Bonds.

Morgenthau Is O.K.

I should hate to have Secretary Morgenthau's job. His is the difficult task of continually raising new money for defense needs and of taking care of maturing issues of bonds and notes. He has no control over the vast sums voted for defense and ordinary fiscal purposes. Furthermore, he has no voice as to how this money shall be spent. The Congress and the President simply dump into his lap the problem of raising the cash.

How to raise this money is Mr. Morgenthau's nightmare. Necessarily, he must experiment to gauge the public responsiveness to his ideas. Hence, we had the first drastic proposal for excess profits taxes, later adopted in a modified way. Then came the idea to limit corporation profits to 6 per cent. This fell by the wayside. Following was the plan for tax anticipatory notes, which was enacted. Then came a proposition to pay two years' taxes in one. The latest scheme is a check-off system on salaries and wages. This would be O. K. if—like the excess tax on profits—it applies only to wage increases since Jan. 1, 1941. To tax, by the same rate, those who have had to pay increases would be very unjust.

What About Defense Bonds?

The fairest means of financing defense expenditures, next to an equitable system of taxation, is through the sale, by the Treasury Department, of Defense Bonds. Here is a medium through which everyone, in comfortable or modest circumstances, can directly contribute their services in these critical times. In buying these bonds, we are protecting all that our American way of living stands for. So far, Mr. Morgenthau has been able to dispose of the Defense Bonds without resorting to the high-pressure sales methods used at the time of World War I. It is hoped to raise $2,500,000,000 annually through the sale of Defense Bonds and Stamps compared with about $13,000,000,000 from taxes. Tax money, when paid, is gone forever. Money paid for Defense Savings Bonds and Stamps will certainly be returned with accumulated interest.

Sales have not been all they should be in recent months. I certainly hope they may increase. Bonds are sold in three series and are subject to Federal taxation. Series E replace the old "baby bonds." A $100 face value Series E bond costs $75 and matures in 10 years, yielding 2.90 per cent to maturity. These are designed for the small investor. A $100 face value Series F bond costs $74 and matures in 12 years, yielding 2.53 per cent to maturity. These are for large investors, trustees associations, and pension funds. Series G bonds are sold at par, mature in 12 years, with interest of 2½ per cent paid by treasury check. Redemption values decrease gradually during the first 4-5 years held and then gradually rise to par except in case of death, when they can be collected in full.

Postal Savings Stamps may be bought by anyone for 10, 25, and 50 cents, or for $1 and $5 and later exchanged for bonds. They are fine for children. After watching securities for over 40 years, I have finally found an issue I can wholeheartedly recommend! By buying these bonds you safeguard principal and get a better-than-savings-bank-interest return. In addition, you emphasize your faith in our American System of Government. It's still the best on earth!

Grid Tilt Tomorrow

The Dalhart Wolves tomorrow afternoon at 2:30 in Rita Blanca stadium wind up their football schedule by meeting the unbeaten and once-tied Guymon, Okla., Tigers.

The Redskins of Liberal, Kan.—a much larger town and school—tied the Sooners 6-6, the only game the Tigers have failed to win.

The Sooners are admittedly tough. Canadian, Texas, was undefeated until it met the Tigers and took a 13-20 walloping. The Tigers then romped over the Boise City Wildcats 27-6, and wound up last weekend by soundly thrashing the Amarillo Yannigans.

But Dalhart, since it completely revamped its line-up, adding weight and power to the line, is also tough.

The new line-up got its first tryout against Canyon and clicked for a victory, one of the very few the Wolves had taken up to that time. The next weekend it underwent an acid test against the rampant Frions club, but nosed out a one-touchdown win.

Last week it rolled high, wide and handsome against Dumas.

The new line-up not only has power, but it has dash and color and speed and pulled fans out of their seats many a time in the last two games.

"Tomorrow," the Wolves say, "we're going to cut the bacon from the other side of Guymon's hog."

DHS Grid Queen Ceremony To Be Held Tomorrow Night

Specialty dances, chorus numbers, instrumental and vocal music are among program numbers for the coronation of the Dalhart Wolves' football queen tomorrow night at 8:00 in the high school auditorium.

Her Majesty—Miss Corinne Carroll, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jerry Carroll—was elected recently by school-wide popular ballot.

Her coronation is expected to be one of the most colorful and entertaining programs of the year. An admission of 15 cents will be charged.

Miss Katherine Coons of Dalhart and Amarillo will present her pupils in a dance revue.

The high school girls' chorus will sing; Meredith Ashby and C. W. Boone will offer instrumental numbers.

Grid Guessing Contest Runs Through Dec. 6

Two more weeks of The Texan's football guessing contest!

Due to an error in one week's listing the contest will carry over this year through the week of December 6 and not close, as it usually does on Thanksgiving.

Last week was the seventh week that entries have been counted. The week the error was made was not counted in the contest, no prizes of any kind being awarded. This week's contest is the eighth, and next week, which will include the Thanksgiving games, will be the ninth week of the contest. It was originally scheduled for 10 weeks, and will therefore continue through the week of December 6.

Havana Musical To Prevue Saturday

"Weekend in Havana" has virtually all the thrills, excitement and romance of an actual visit to the pleasure city of the Caribbean. It's in the new technicolor and it's one of the season's finest entertainments.

Superb performances by Alice Faye, Carmen Miranda, John Payne and Cesar Romero against a background of magnificent Havana scenes—outdoors and in night clubs —combine to make this one of the top musicals of all time.

The clever story has Miss Faye, a salesgirl on a vacation cruise to Havana. Her ship is grounded on a reef, but she insists on her vacation and wants the romance and luxury she has dreamed of for years.

Romance arrives in the person of John Payne. They sing under semi-tropical skies.

La Miranda and Romero are paired. She dances to five new hit tunes by Mack Gordon and Harry Warren.

Excellent support is given by a cast that includes Cobina Wright, Jr., George Barbier, Sheldon Leonard, Leonid Kinskey, Chris-Pin Martin and Billy Gilbert.

Dr. L. D. Porter To Optometric Meeting

Dr. and Mrs. L. D. Porter were in Amarillo over the weekend for the regular monthly meeting of the Panhandle Optometric association.

These meetings, Dr. Porter said, are a part of the National Optometric association extension program, and among other things discusses the latest developments and techniques in the profession.

Metz Suggests Annual Banquet For 'Last Men'

S. O. Metz, stock-farmer of the Coldwater community, suggests that the Last Man's club have an annual meeting in Dalhart and invite the public.

The club was founded in the spring of 1935 by John McCarty, then editor of The Dalhart Texan and now editor of The Amarillo News.

The dust storm era was at its worst and some folks were doubting that the country would ever recover.

Qualifications for club membership were an unwavering faith in the country and a pledge to be the last man to leave the plains. Membership closed forever early that summer, and since then seven of the original 98 members have died.

The first reunion of the club was held Tuesday night in Dalhart. Members and their wives were all guests of McCarty, who has served through the years as president. He and Mrs. McCarty Tuesday night conducted a beautiful and impressive memorial service for the seven who have ridden down the silvery slope into the Eternal West.

Metz and his wife attended the reunion. "It was great," Metz said. "We had a wonderful time, and I will do anything that I can to help with an annual reunion if the other members would like to have one."

PUPPET LOVE by Cornelius Vanderbilt Jr.

SYNOPSIS

Surfeited with society and all it represents, Christopher Allen Bishop, scion of an aristocratic family, gives up his $25-a-week position in Wall Street and leaves home. In a roadster, won in a radio contest, he tours the country. After picking up Joe Kane, a former C. C. C. worker, and dropping him at the latter's home-town, Christopher goes off to meet his fate in the person of a lovely girl named Nicola (Nicky) Rogers, who operates a marionette show in her shabby trailer home. After seeing the puppet show which depicts a poor girl rejecting a wealthy suitor, and learning that Nicky shares his views of the social whirl, Christopher asks her to dinner. But Nicky has an engagement in another town, so she invites Christopher to follow her in his car to a nearby tourist camp and dine with her in the trailer. Over the best beef-stew he ever tasted, Christopher learns that Nicky's name is Nicola Rogers. She relates how, after her parents' death, she became social secretary to the Baddington Grants, social climbers. (Their daughter, Eunice had chased Christopher all last season.) But Society was too much for Nicky so she decided to follow in her parents' footsteps and take to the road with the puppets. Christopher starts to tell her about himself. He fears all will be over between them when she learns his identity. He gets as far as "My name is Christopher Allen—" when a rap on the door interrupts him.

CHAPTER EIGHT

Nicky sprang up, slipping past Chris to the door. In passing her hand dropped lightly on his shoulder, but not so lightly that he wasn't conscious of each small finger.

"Christopher Allen," she repeated, over her shoulder as she unlatched the door. "That's a nice name, but Christopher is too long for a trailer to carry. Do you mind if I call you Chris?"

A surge of pure joy, such as is aroused only by rare achievements, swept over Christopher Allen Bishop. Never, never in his life, had he had a nickname! Even as a child he'd never even been given a pet name except by his Aunt Ethel, who, out of misguided affection, called him Christopher Robin.

Nicky, completely unaware of what she had done, opened the screen door and with hearty welcomes admitted a small white-haired woman and an apple-cheeked old man.

"Why, Mrs. Curtis! Mr. Curtis! I thought you were way up in Vermont by this time. This is Chris Allen, of New York."

Out of his rapture, Chris sprang in belated courtesy to his feet, the top of his head rapping sharply on the low ceiling.

"Oh, dear me," murmured Mrs. Curtis, "what a big fellow!"

"Longish," Nicky admitted. "Sit down, Chris, and tuck your feet under so the folks can get in. I see where there will have to be a whole new book of trailer courtesy. Should a gentleman remain seated to allow two ladies to get in a trailer, or should he crawl out of the window—if any? Sit right here, Mr. Curtis. Now tell me, where have you folks been?"

But the old couple's attention was completely diverted from their own travels. The journeys were an old story to them. Chris was new.

"What kind of a trailer do you have?" Mr. Curtis asked him.

His shaggy white eyebrows rose when Chris explained that he merely had a car, no eating or sleeping accommodations included. A pair of attorneys for the defense couldn't have asked so many and such personal questions in so short a time. Where was he born? When? Where did he go to school? What was his business? What was he selling? Just travelling? Well...

Mrs. Curtis sent Mr. Curtis, at that point, such a look of condemnation that Chris felt he should plead guilty to something. But he had no chance for defense as the old couple turned their attention to Nicky and the inquisition dropped abruptly.

Nicky through all this had been sitting cross-legged in the corner of her bed, a quizzical grin in her eyes—no help at all.

"We had planned to drive right straight north," Mrs. Curtis began explaining to Nicky, as though she had just asked the question, "but I says to Ed the strawberries are so fine here in Pennsylvania, let's just stop till I get some preserves put up. That apple butter I gave you, I made in Oregon last fall and it's the best batch I ever turned out."

"I beg your pardon," Chris interrupted, his curiosity overcoming his fear of another cross-examination, "but do I understand you carry those things along—homemade preserves?"

"Oh, yes," Mrs. Curtis smiled at her husband, "Ed won't eat store-bought preserves, and I say, with the country going right past your front door, it would be a sin of waste not to—"

"But you know where we have been since we saw you?" Mr. Curtis addressed Nicky. "Out to Bedford Springs. 'Tain't very far from here. And old Mrs. Sloane and her daughter used to go there every year. It's a right nice place."

"Just for the record, Chris," Nicky smiled at him, "I've met the Curtises several times during the past two months."

"We first met in Utica," contributed Mrs. Curtis.

"Where Mrs. Albright's sister lived," added Mr. Curtis. "She has a new little house. I like the towns with street numbers. It's easier to find places."

"Mr. Curtis was a postman for years," Nicky contributed. "When he got his pension he decided to see all these places where the letters came from."

"That was the way of it," the old man admitted. "All my life I looked at postmarks from all over the country, all over the world in fact. I figured I'd walked fifty thousand miles, easy that, and I'd never been out of Evanston. So when I got my pension, and the kids were all married and away, Ma and I bought the trailer and started out."

"Have you seen many of them—the post marks? I mean the places?" Chris asked.

"I sure have, and you ought to see the courtesy postmarks some of the postmasters gave me."

"Show them to him, Pa," urged Mrs. Curtis, with a nod toward the door, that was more command than suggestion.

"Well," the old man seemed shy. "Maybe he wouldn't want to be bothered."

"But I would," Chris insisted honestly.

"All right, then, come ahead!"

With a backward wave to Nicky, Chris followed Ed Curtis into the night. The grove was brightly lighted as Main Street on Saturday night, and just as lively. Several young couples were dancing near the camp loud speaker. Two tables of bridge were in progress in the restaurant pavilion. A hum of friendly chatter followed them as they passed other parked trailers on the far end of the grove.

"There she is," Mr. Curtis pointed with pride.

"She" was one of the new streamlined trailers. Chris ducked from experience as he entered this new bouncing bungalow, but it wasn't necessary. The ceiling gave him several inches. "She" boasted metal walls, air conditioning, indirect lighting, electric refrigeration, and a plug for a telephone.

"We had one of the home-made kind first," Mr. Curtis admitted, as he displayed the gadgets, "but I says to Ma, I'm going to sell that little strip of farm land. A trailer like this ought to be good for eight years anyway, and we ain't good for much more than that, so we might as well be comfortable."

"It surely does look comfortable," Chris admitted, admiringly, though in his heart he had a deep loyalty for the personality of the tar baby, Nemesis.

"And these are the postmarks," Tenderly Mr. Curtis displayed his treasures. "I never thought I'd get to see these places, but in three years we've been in most of them. And to Canada, too. If we could get a boat to take us cheap enough, I don't know but we mightn't go to Europe next, especially England after the war. I've seen a lot of postmarks from there."

"Now, if you're going motoring in England..." Chris was right at home. For an hour he talked maps, and inns and highways, and byways through the Empire. There was a new shine in the old man's eyes and a deeper glow in his russet apple cheeks.

"The more you talk about it, the more set I get on going," he signed. "I guess I seemed kind o' mean when we first met up this evening, but Ma and I are right keen on Nicky, and all sorts of fellows are travelling these days."

"She's a wonderful girl and it really isn't right for her to be travelling alone."

"That's what I say. A girl like that needs a man to look after her, especially when she has such a time gettin' along."

"With the car?" Chris asked.

"With the money," Pa dropped his voice confidentially. "Life ain't all beer and skittles. She works today and maybe it's two weeks before she has another job. And she has to go where there is a job. Ma and I have crossed her path several times to the month, with her travelin' from one end of the state and back again. She's in a tight place, not that she'd admit it, but we know."

He nodded his head sagely and began filling a small briar pipe.

McMurry Chanters To Return Saturday

The McMurry College Chanters, who appeared in concert at the Dalhart high school auditorium yesterday morning, will return to Dalhart for two programs this weekend.

The 31-member choral club will sing Saturday night and Sunday morning at the Central Methodist church. The programs are free to the public, leaders have announced.

Soloists in the organization which is conducting a 1350-mile concert tour are Nelda Walker, Howard Coy, Bill Adams, Hazel Grubbs, Maribelle Roberts. The program includes secular and sacred music.

Gypsy Ted Sullivan Wylie directs the group; Louise Spiegelmire is pianist.

Dalhart Lions To Attend Zone Meet

Sammet Hale, chairman of the zone meeting committee, urges every member of the Dalhart Lions club to attend the Zone 2, District 2-T Lions club meeting in Dalhart tomorrow night.

Dumas always supports anything that is good for Dalhart," Hale reminded the club members. "So we should have a big delegation there for the zone meeting tomorrow night."

Hale pointed out that the Dalhart club had organized the Dumas program at the banquet, and should, therefore, help the younger club as much as possible.

Principal speaker at the banquet will be Wes Izzard, Amarillo News-Globe staff writer and radio news reporter.

Dalhart will be in charge of a program at the banquet.

Jim Jeanette Karnes, soloist; Jack McMeen, accordionist, will be presented.

Clubs at Canyon and Amarillo will also have brief parts on the banquet program.

Lions club executive meeting will be held at the high school at 8 o'clock. Officers of all clubs within the zone are expected to attend.

Food Men Receive Bonus

Employees of the Ideal Food Store in Dalhart attended the sales conference in Liberal, Kans., last Sunday and were included in the distribution of the $14,000 in bonuses.

A bonus was announced by the Ideal Brothers, operators of the Ideal Bakery and the Blake Brothers Packing plant, at a meeting held at the Liberal store.

Blakemore, president of the store, presided at the sales conference and devoted his talk to organization and merchandising, directed to the employees of the 22 stores located in Kansas, Oklahoma and Texas.

Dalhart Ideal employees attending the meeting were Manager Harold Blakemore, Butcher Dale Dickerson, Grocery Clerks Kenneth Firestone and Leonard Runkel.

Elevator Is Opened

Transit Grain Commission Fort Worth this week opened the North Plains Elevator at Comanche east of Dalhart, in the care of Joe Huff of that company.

Fort Worth firm also opened the North Plains Elevator at Comanche and the Tri-State Grain & Elevator Co. of Clayton, Okla.

Nelson, who went to Texline, Okla., with the Ruhmann Grain Co., now discontinued there, is general overseer of the Perico elevator.

Paul Jones, the first great American Naval history, with his early experience as an ensign and as a midshipman in the British

MINES STILL—

fense orders, are expected to have to shut down today for lack of coal.

Reports from five counties in the Pittsburgh, Pa., area indicated an additional 8200 commercial and 330 captive miners had walked out. The commercial strike will soon hamper the defense effort, if it has not already done so.

There was bloodshed again today when a negro miner fired into 100 mine pickets, wounding one. Other miners, not in sympathy with the walkout, began firing from slack piles on either side of the pickets. Several were hurt.

Roosevelt yesterday asked both the CIO and major steel companies to agree to maintain the status quo till the emergency is past; or that both agree in advance to abide by decision of a mediation board.

Lewis personally rejected both plans, though admitting that a decision would have to come from the UMW policy-making committee which meets Saturday. Lewis declared UMW miners had instructed their representatives to get a union shop in the captive pits; and that Roosevelt's statements have been so prejudicial that probably no unbiased arbiters could now be found.

The CIO convention in Detroit apparently was headed into a reelection of Philip Murray as president. It backed Murray in his support of Administration foreign policy and denounced "business as usual" employers.

In reaffirming faith in mediation machinery, it didn't mention the Defense Mediation Board, from which Murray and Thomas Kennedy, UMW treasurer, resigned after it rejected Lewis's union shop demands for the captive mines.

NEW BRITISH—

successor to the equally brilliant General Sir Archibald Wavell now in command in the Middle East, is in charge.

The surprise offensive that apparently caught the Axis on its heels was spearheaded by U. S. tanks and planes and greatly aided by shattering bombardments by British naval units in the Mediterranean.

Axis columns of men and material, speeding toward this new 140-mile front, were under almost incessant attack by the RAF and big naval guns. Nazis are expected to throw planes into the conflict from bases in Crete, Greece and Yugoslavia.

British presumably are still smashing at Axis bastions, but they are saying nothing except that the offensive is proceeding according to plan. There has been no indication of the probable Axis strength in Libya, but it is known to be in command of Germany's finest tank ace.

Thus the British have finally opened a second front that undoubtedly will relieve German pressure on the Reds.

The new British offensive, which had been rolling for hours before the world knew about it, completely overshadowed other war developments. Meager data indicated, however, that the revitalized Nazi offensive in the East is being successfully handled by the Soviets.

The U. S. today announced supplies to West Africa have been choked off because Vichy under Nazi pressure, has removed General Maxime Weygand as pro-consul. This move, the U. S. said, gives the Germans control of that area in a manner not stipulated by the German-French armistice. Weygand's removal also will result, the U. S. warned, in a complete review of U. S.-Vichy relations.

Most significant development in the Western hemisphere is signing of a series of U. S.-Mexico agreements. They cover settlement of the oil property expropriations; settlement of general and agrarian claims by U. S. citizens; a reciprocal trade agreement; U. S. loan to stabilize the peso and finance Mexico's highway program; and an agreement to buy newly mined Mexican silver.

Library Tag Day To Be Saturday

The Annual Library Tag Day, to raise money to buy the latest books for the Dallam county library, will be held Saturday, the library board announced today. The tag day, originally scheduled for November 8, was postponed because of Poppy Day.

Mrs. Earl McLroy, librarian, will be in charge of the tag sales. The Sub-Deb club will assist in selling. The new books will be placed on a 7-day shelf, with a 5c fine for each day overdue to help insure rapid circulation.

The most recently purchased books on the shelves are "Berlin Diary," by William L. Shirer; "Dr. Kildare Takes Charge," by Max Brand; "The Venables," by Kathleen Norris; "Tomorrow Will Come," by E. M. Almedingen; "Hernan Cortes," by Salvador de Madariago; "The Long Winter Ends," by Newton G. Thomas; "Stars in Your Eyes," by Emily Loring. "The Sun Is My Undoing," by Marguerite Steen, has been ordered, and will probably be on the shelves early next week, Mrs. McLroy said.

54 Segment Called 'Death's Highway'

"Death's Highway." That's the name Tyrone, Okla., citizens have given to the 15-mile stretch of unpaved U. S. Highway 54 from the Kansas line, near Liberal through Tyrone to Hooker.

Money lost in wrecked autos, hospital, doctor and funeral bills the past few years would have easily paved the short segment, chamber of commerce officials declared. And, of course, this estimate does not count the invaluable and irreparable loss of life.

This segment has been in preparation for surfacing more than a year, yet it's still so dusty in dry weather that drivers can't see. In wet weather it's virtually impassable. When cars can travel it they cut deep ruts. Graders rake them full of loose dirt. Car wheels drop unexpectedly into them, wrench the auto out of control—and sudden death or screaming injury.

These conditions are largely responsible for the highway death toll being higher in Texas county than any other in Oklahoma, declares President Ralph Winstead of the C. of C.

He has appointed J. J. Bollinger, Griffin Hamilton and R. T. Lindsey to confer with highway commissioners and other state officials.

4 A.M. MASS HELD FOR DUCK SHOOTERS

ROCKPORT (U.P.)—If you want to shoot ducks, down in this hunting paradise, you won't find religion standing in your way.

The Rev. J. H. Kelly, pastor of the Sacred Heart church, has announced that a special mass will be held at 4 o'clock each Sunday morning during the duck season.

Father Kelly received permission from the bishop for the special service.

Boys Ranch Will Entertain Dumas

Coach Clarence Perry, Jr. and his Boys Ranch gridsters will entertain the Dumas junior high Imps on the traditional Thanksgiving—Nov. 27—at 2:30., it was announced today.

There will be no admission, said A. G. Weeks Ranch superintendent.

Boys Ranch a few weeks ago rolled over the Imps 30 to 0.

Mrs. Gardie Bryant of near Hartley was shopping and visiting in Dalhart Wednesday.

Dr. Hammer, Red Cross Chairman, Aided By Hoyt's

Indigestion, Pains In Shoulder And Gas Pressure Around My Heart Relieved By Hoyt's Compound, Says Amarillo Man.

Dr. F. W. Hammer, Ph.D., L.L.D., of 2106 Omg St., Amarillo, says: "I had a terrible case

DR. F. W. HAMMER of indigestion. After each meal I had a sour taste in my mouth, pains in my shoulder, gas pressure around my heart. It felt as though there was a big, solid lump in my stomach, my breath was bad. I was constipated, and because of kidney distress, my sleep was broken each night. I had spent large sums for relief, had bought almost every kind of medicine.

"Hoyt's Compound made me feel like a new man. There's no more indigestion, sour taste, bad breath or constipation. The pains in my shoulder and around my heart are gone. Hoyt's has also relieved Mrs. Hammer of sour stomach. You can be safe in giving it a trial, it is honest medicine."

Hoyt's Compound is recommended and sold by the Wolf Drug Store and by all leading druggists in this area.
