DAILY ASSOCIATED PRESS REPORTS—AFTERNOON AND SUNDAY MORNING

RANGER, TEXAS, SUNDAY MORNING, OCTOBER 19, 1919.

No. 141

T-P'S NO. 15 ON NORWOOD A PRODUCER

Texas Pacific Coal & Oil company's G. E. Norwood tract has another producing well, No. 15, not yet a completion, but making a good flow of oil ten feet into the sand. Top of the black lime was 3,423, top of the pay 3,432 feet and the well is drilling ahead. The oil, as yet, is being run into tanks receiving production of other wells, so not accurate gauge has been made. Scout reports place the well as high as 800 barrels. Office reports have it 366 barrels.

This is the third producer on the tract in ten days, No. 13 being a 1,250 barrel completion, No. 14 a lime well, making 100 barrels and regarded as a temporary completion because of heavy gas pressure. No. 15 is drilling ahead, as the sand is twenty to thirty feet thick on the tract. No. 15 is on offset to Humble Oil and Refining company's Fargason No. 4, which is about ready to pay off.

Fargason No. 4, is at the northwest corner of that tract, and is at 3,450 feet, waiting for a jolt to loosen up the pay dirt. It will be shot early next week.

Prairie Oil & Gas company turned in two wells on the E. Royer lease at the close of the week. They are No. 9, with pay from 3,433 to 3,460 feet and making 130 barrels and No. 11, with pay from 3,430 to 3,470, making about 450 barrels.

E. Brewer No. 2, and William Meyers No. 3, of the T-P are little wells, which will be put on the pump. The first was an oil well, shot from 3,276 feet and jarred into production again. The Meyers well was drilled to 3,390.

No. 9 of the Butler tract of the T-P will be producing soon. It is in the black lime at 3,415 feet and may expect the pay from 3,527 to 3,535 feet. B. L. Danley No. 3, of the Sinclair is regarded as a completion, though still in the lime, at 3,370 feet. It is about a 750 barrel well.

IRELAND AGAIN FIGURES IN THE TREATY DEBATE

WASHINGTON, Oct. 18.—Twenty debate in the senate drifted back to the Irish question today, Senator Walsh (Democrat), Montana, starting a sharp discussion of the subject by calling up his resolution to declare that the United States should bring the question of Irish freedom before the League of Nations as soon as it becomes a member.

WILSON HAS A GOOD DAY AND DRS. HOPEFUL

WASHINGTON, Oct. 18.—President Wilson rested comfortably today and his physicians were increasingly hopeful that the prostatic complaint which has retarded his recovery would not necessitate an operation. Aside from the prostatic complication the president's nervous condition was not expected by his physicians to permit his return to his desk at an early date and the rest treatment prescribed will be continued.

MAN IN UNIFORM TO BE PUNISHED IF JOINS RIOT

WASHINGTON, Oct. 18.—Any person participating in a mob riot or other public disturbance while clothed in an army or navy uniform will be subject to criminal prosecution under a resolution introduced today by Senator New (Republican), Indiana.

RETURN OF RYS. IS ADVANCED ANOTHER STEP

By Associated Press

WASHINGTON, Oct. 18.—Permanent railroad legislation was advanced a step today, the senate interstate commerce committee completing work on its bill providing for return of the railroads to private ownership and operation under strict government supervision and with drastic provisions against strikes and lockouts.

The bill is to be reported out early next week and placed in position for senate debate immediately after disposal of the treaty, with leaders planning its passage next month.

Key provisions of the bill provide a fine of $500 or six months' imprisonment, or both, for railroad employees or officials or others convicted of participating in or aiding strikes or lockouts.

In its principal features the final committee bill is similar to the original committee draft. It provides for return of the roads within thirty days after enactment, to private operation and control under regulation of the interstate commerce commission and a new federal transportation board.

Creation of not less than fifty-one or more than twenty-five competitive regional railroad systems by the transportation board is proposed and the interstate commerce commission is authorized to fix rates which—

ILL. SENATOR'S ELECTION TO BE INVESTIGATED

By Associated Press

WASHINGTON, Oct. 18.—The Department of Justice announced tonight that after "careful investigation" it had decided to bring before a federal grand jury in Grand Rapids, fraud charges arising out of the nomination and election of Truman H. Newberry as United States senator for Michigan. The action is based, the announcement states, on complaints filed with the department "and also public charges of fraud and corruption" made by the lieutenant governor of Michigan and others. Henry Ford of Detroit, defeated candidate, filed a petition with the Senate at the last session contesting Senator Newberry's right to his seat in that body. A resolution proposing a Senate investigation was introduced by Senator Pomorene (Democrat), Ohio and referred to the committee on privileges and elections but no action was taken.

NO OFFICIAL REPORT ON FALL OF PETROGRAD

PARIS, Sunday, Oct. 19.—No official confirmation has been received here of the report that Petrograd has fallen, apart from a private message to a Stockholm newspaper, reporting from "an authoritative source" that cavalry of the northwestern Russian army have entered Petrograd.

MERCIER GAVE ALL HIS MONEY TO HELP POOR

NEW YORK, Oct. 18.—A new light was thrown today upon the memorable sacrifices which Cardinal Mercier has made for his fellow countrymen, with the announcement of the formation of a non-sectarian committee of fifty prominent citizens of New York, whose purpose it is to raise a testimonial fund as a practical expression of their regard for the heroic prelate.

WHEN KING AND QUEEN OF BELGIUM VISITED MORMON CITY

King and queen passing through Main street in Salt Lake City and entering Mormon tabernacle

NO RELIEF FROM SUGAR FAMINE IS LOOKED FOR

By Associated Press

WASHINGTON, Oct. 18.—No relief from the present sugar situation is in sight and the probabilities are that conditions will be some worse, the senate agricultural committee was told today by Dr. Alonzo Taylor of the department of agriculture.

MARTIAL LAW OFF AT CORPUS CHRISTI TODAY

CORPUS CHRISTI, Oct. 18.—Corpus Christi passes from martial law at noon tomorrow for the first time since the storm of September 14, when W. B. Cope, adjutant general of Texas, released control of the district to the civil authorities.

PUBLIC POLICY PLAN IS TABOO IN ILLINOIS

SPRINGFIELD, Oct. 18.—The Illinois supreme court declined today to perpetuate an injunction to prevent a vote November 4 on "public policy" intended to convey to constitutional convention delegates the popular will, the initiative and referendum "get-away and public ownership of public ownership of public utilities. Secretary of State Emerson proceeded at once to certify the question to county clerks.

BARGAINING AGREEMENT IS REACHED

By Associated Press

WASHINGTON, Oct. 18.—A tentative agreement on collective bargaining was reached by the general committee of the national industrial conference tonight after an all-day session. Committee members will consult with their respective groups tomorrow and final action on framing a report to the conference will be taken by the general committee tomorrow night.

Activities of Ex- Newspaper Man to Be Probed Soon

WASHINGTON, Oct. 18.—Investigation by the senate judiciary committee of the activities of Robert A. Minor, a former newspaper correspondent who was arrested at Coblenz on charges of distributing Bolshevik propaganda among American troops, was authorized today by the senate.

DEMobilizing FRENCH ARMY IS COMPLETED

PARIS, Oct. 18.—The demobilization of the French army, it is announced, is virtually completed, 101,000 officers and 4,522,000 men having been mustered out.

LONDON DOUBTS KRONSTADT HAS BEEN CAPTURED

By Associated Press

LONDON, Oct. 18.—The report of the surrender of the fortress of Kronstadt is regarded in private military and naval circles here as merely "indefinite anticipation." The admiralty informed the Associated Press this morning that absolutely no report had been received there regarding an allied bombardment of Kronstadt. Since a British admiral commands the allied operations there it was pointed out it would be obvious that official notification of such an event would have been forwarded to London.

CLAIM CAPTURE OF KIEV, BY ASSOCIATED PRESS

LONDON, Oct. 18.—A Bolshevik communique claims the capture of Fastov, a railway junction forty miles southwest of Kiev on the road to Odessa.

Attempt to Bribe Jailor to Free Man at Memphis

MEMPHIS, Oct. 18.—Extra precautions to guard against possible attempts to liberate Allen McNamara, recently convicted on a charge of criminal assault and held in the county jail here pending disposition of a motion for a new trial, were taken today with an announcement by Sheriff O. H. Perry that an unidentified man had offered one of the jailers $1,500 to allow McNamara to escape.

Shallow Pay In Stephens Looking Good

By Associated Press

Cody No. 6 of the Sinclair Gulf Oil company is furnishing an interesting angle on development of the south Caddo field. It found a fifty foot sand at 2,390 feet with strong showing and was given a jolt of nitro Saturday evening. The regular pay in that territory runs around 3,400 feet and no shallow producer has been developed in that section.

SAYS FLETCHER KEPT GUNS FROM GOING TO MEX.

By Associated Press

WASHINGTON, Oct. 18.—Henry T. Fletcher, American ambassador to Mexico, "flatly refused to recommend or sanction the shipment of any munitions or rifles to Carranza," according to a letter from R. B. Sutton of the American Gun Company, read today to the senate committee investigating relations between the United States and Mexico.

MAN SENTENCED WHO SOUGHT WILSON'S LIFE

By Associated Press

LEAVENWORTH, Kans., Oct. 18.—P. E. Pierre, a member of the Industrial Workers of the World, was found guilty by a jury in the federal court here of plotting to assassinate President Wilson. He was sentenced to serve 3 1/2 years in the penitentiary and upon his giving notice of appeal bond was fixed at $7,000. The verdict was reached in 20 minutes.

NO HOPE YET TO AVERT BIG COAL STRIKE

By Associated Press

WASHINGTON, Oct. 18.—There seems little hope tonight of averting the strike of half a million bituminous coal miners called for Nov. 1.

GERMAN TROOPS WILL EVACUATE ALL OF BALTIC

By Associated Press

PARIS, Oct. 18.—General Maigrin, the French member of the inter-allied commission to ascertain the evacuation of the Baltic states, by the troops of General von der Goltz will leave Paris immediately for the Baltic, it was declared today by the Supreme Council. Brig. Gen. Sherwood A. Cheney, U. S. A., and representatives of the other great powers will follow in a few days.

PERSONNEL OF BRITISH NAVY TO BE REDUCED

By Associated Press

PORTSMOUTH, Eng., Oct. 18.—The personnel of the British navy will be reduced to 50,000 men when the United States ratifies the peace treaty, it was stated by the Evening News today on what it declared was authoritative information. The number of British navy personnel the figures of 100,000 in the same year.

WEST TEXAS SECRETARIES MEET IN "CITY OF HOUR"

Special to The Times.

DALLAS, Oct. 18.—Secretaries of chambers of commerce in West Texas held a banquet tonight in the grill room of the Southland hotel, at which Chester T. Crowell, publicity manager of the West Texas Chamber of Commerce acted as toastmaster.

Interesting talks were made by several of the secretaries. A large number of West Texas people attended the fair today.

All the men reported rapid progress being made in all portions of the west, with new people coming in, oil development under way, and the harvesting of the greatest crops ever raised in that section.

Inclement Weather Hinders Great Building Program Here, But Good Weather Will See Quick Resumption

All nature conspired against building progress in Ranger last week. The showers fell into downpours, the downpours into mire, and the mire into "tick-ups."

Yet despite these erratic curves and whims of Dame Nature, citizens ready to get into winter quarters took out residence permits amounting in the aggregate to more than $25,000 which was only $10,000 less than the total for the preceding week. No permits for large business houses were issued.

Much is Sight. Permits which must be taken out shortly is one for the Gholson hotel on the south side of Main street, between Rusk and Austin, to be situated on the spot where a deep basement was scooped out for the Spillman building. This permit will be for $250,000—the largest single permit to be issued this year. Another is for the Methodist Episcopal church, south, on the Ralls lots, near the Ranger high school, to cost approximately $125,000. Contract on this building has not been let, but if construction is assured because the funds have been raised and it is only a question of passing upon the bids which were advertised for some time ago.

A number of other structures for the business section are still in the chrysalis stage. It was said. Good Indication. Contributing more to the visible evidences of the city's progress from a substantial standpoint are the large number of residences which are under course of erection or which have been planned and will materialize within the next thirty days. The erection of new residential additions, the stimulation of sale of lots in the well established divisions, and the general demand for choice lots upon which to build beautiful dwellings for workmen and others moving here—these are bringing about a wonderful transformation of the vacant spaces in the city and announcing materially that Ranger has named for that state where uncertainty exists to its growth and permanency was pronounced, and is becoming one of the choicest residence towns to be found in all West Texas.

Want to Move Here. The city secretary's office is a beehive of activity in the issuing of building permits. Particularly can this be said of those who are asking permission for the installation of gas, water and sewers. That the people are going into winter quarters with a will is manifested. The Chamber of Commerce, the office of which is in conjunction with that of the city secretary, is visited by a number of persons daily, securing permits for shipment of household effects from other towns, plainly showing that the building up of the population is going forward with good strides and encouraging the officials and others to re-new efforts to furnish them all the information possible and grant their desires insofar as they have been able to create themselves with dwellings into which to move their goods upon their arrival, so as to obviate the necessity for the Texas & Pacific railroad to store them.

Paving Progress. Some progress was made in paving of Main street during the week. Practically all the concrete for the block between Austin and Rusk, on Main, has been poured, and about half of the "mash" has been spread on the block between Marston and Austin. No brick has yet been laid on these two blocks, but considerable work has arrived and has been assembled at the south end of the Rusk street intersection. With fair weather bricklaying should proceed this week. Some little excavation between Austin and Marston street is yet to be done.

Big Bank Building. Some brick laying was done during the week on the Citizens State bank's six-story building at Main and Austin. The installation of the "keystones" in the facade was practically finished late Saturday, following a day of clear, cool weather. The brickwork on the rear of this structure has been taken up near to the second floor. Material is arriving and being brought to the scene.

New Hotel. During the present week the preliminary plans for the construction of the Gholson hotel, to cost $250,000, probably will be undertaken. The basement of the old Spillman building which was planned originally to occupy this spot, will be utilized insofar as the plans for the new hotel require. This structure is to be five stories and basement and will be the largest and most modern hotel structure in all West Texas.

Austin Street Buildings. The buildings just across from the McCleskey hotel on Austin street are nearing completion. They are imposing structures which show a heavy expenditure for construction. They are in the rear of the Guaranty State and Gholson hotel buildings. They should be thrown open for occupancy within the next week or two, it was said.

Excavation has proceeded upon the new "L" building, with fronts on Main and Marston streets. Much earth was moved and a residence to the west had to be moved.

Marston Nearly Finished. The brickwork of the Marston building, at Main and Marston, has been finished several days, but a great deal of interior finishing is yet to be done, including the installation of many windows, doors and floor in this structure already have been leased. The large three-story structure just to the east also is being rapidly rounded into completion. Just to the east of it another large structure is to be erected, the foundations for which are being laid.

The Laundry. In the rear of these structures considerable repair work and improvement is being done. The laundry building also has been almost finished. A number of small buildings in that area will proceed with the spring weather, including the large fish market structure, on which work has been proceeding for the last three weeks.

First National. The First National bank building at Main and Rusk streets is showing up well and should be ready for the bank officials records, fixtures and other things to be moved in within the near future. This is one of the prettiest structures being erected in the oil belt. It shows a cost of around $75,000. The bank transacts its business at present in a brick building at the rear of the new structure.

Hodges-Terrell. Good weather should find concrete pouring going on this week at the Hodges & Terrell building on the north side of Main between Austin and Rusk. The large columns and girder forms have been set up and concrete mixing and pouring is ready. This is to be a building modern in every respect, three stories in height and have dimensions 89 by 129.

Progress was delayed on the structure, across from the passenger station. The foundations are practically completed. Too many residences are being built in the city to admit of an exhaustive description of them without using undue space. However, hardly a section of the town has been neglected by the eye of the home builder. Hundreds of residences are beginning to show above the ground. The demand for carpenters still remains great.

Building Permits. Building permits issued during the week—a very inclement week—are: Evans & Boone, one-story frame, Tiffin road, $300.

Mrs. M. Blanc, one-story frame, Mosinee street, $100.

John H. Shur (Tom McNelly contractor) dwelling in Riddle addition, $1,500.

Quile & Andrews, four-room frame Highland addition, $4,000.

Mickley & Pearson, one-story four-room house, Pershing street, $1,000.

Brown, Welding company addition to shop on Pine street, $1,600.

A. E. Erwin, two-story box, Black road, $800.

P. P. Palmer, shack, Rusk and Cypress, $250.

R. E. Horwitz, addition to house, Stevens avenue, $1,600.

W. C. Stevens, one-story frame, Stevens avenue, $1,600.

W. C. Stevens, one-story frame, three rooms, Stevens avenue, $1,000.

Wideawake cafe, by W. D. Moseley, glass front, $200.

W. D. Moseley, two-story building North Marston, $4,000.

G. C. Calhoun, residence, Page addition, $500.

George E. Sorey, box house, Ranger Heights, $100.

F. T. Busell, five rooms and bath, Gholson addition, $3,000.

A. Daveport, one-story frame, Rusk and Cypress, $1,200.

W. S. Diltz, four-room frame, Young addition, $1,000.

C. C. Bishop, four-room bungalow, Walnut street, $800.

R. M. Todd, shed, Marston street, $200.

R. M. Todd, building, Marston street, $300.

W. F. Ellis, dwelling, Stevens street, $200.

W. G. Gambell, one-story frame, Lackland addition, $200.

BEAUMONT MILL WORKERS WALK OUT ON STRIKE

Special to The Times.

BEAUMONT, Oct. 18.—One hundred mill workers quit their jobs Friday when their demands for an increase of one dollar an hour were refused. The mills had been taking no orders for lumber in several weeks. Merchants in the city are in favor of the open shop. This sentiment has caused some ill feeling.

AIN'T IT FUNNY? The people of the oil fields resent the assertion of certain elevated railroad officials that the Eastland county oil fields are to be of such brief duration as not to warrant extraordinary extension of railway service.

The "emergency" tale does not sit well on the minds of persons who know the Ranger field. If the oil companies and the people create the business the railroad companies should make it possible to care for it.

The Houston and Kell interests are investing hundreds of thousands of dollars through a country which can never expect to be a great agricultural section, if they can afford to face the situation with such a confident mind, what about the lines under the United States Railway Administration?

BLAME THE REPUBLICANS. The fondest hopes of the "guzzlers" that there will be an "open season" between the termination of wartime prohibition and the starting of that awful "desertlike drought" on January 16, 1920, have been cast to the destructive winds of uncertainty.

Some of the Anti-Leaguers who are Anti-prohibitionists have not yet blamed the Republican senators for causing the present "drought." If they'd quit quibbling and pass the covenant and ratify the peace treaty with Germany and Austria, old "hoose" would be permitted to come in for the "season" and them in thralldom.

ENMITY HIDES IS. U. E. The rancor against Wilson by a few flinty heads in the senate manifests itself unobscuredly at times, so as to explicitly reveal to the constituents that it is not the League of Nations which inspires their ire so frequently and continuously, but Wilson the greatest president the nation has ever had.

ASSIMILATE HIM. Startling revelation is made in the number of illiterates employed in the large iron and steel factories of the North. In some instances less than twenty-five per cent speak English sufficiently to make known their wants.

WHY NOT HERE? In England a campaign for the League of Nations has been inaugurated with the most successful results. In the finale it appears that America will have to institute a similar campaign to let those bone-headed sinners in Washington know that the people, and not they, rule.

WHY THIS STILLNESS? Neither Democrats nor Republicans have yet cleaned their Augean stables and groomed the racers for the fall tross straggler. There is an awful suspense. The ball before the storm der is most ominous.

PREVENT FIRES. The State Fire Insurance Commission urges every town to eliminate fire hazards, especially at a time when elevator shafts and buildings are being modernized.

which cannot be moved because of the freight congestion. The Times has observed in many West Texas towns this year a reckless disregard for safety of property from fire. The spring and summer rains have produced rank crops of inflammable weeds, which negligent and irate city folk failed to cut when green. These offer the best possible chance for serious fires.

POSTAL IMPROVEMENT. The postal service can be largely improved in Ranger by every person who is a patron of the office having his mail sent to his street address or place of abode. Just at present there is a very great rush at the two general delivery windows.

THE COAL STRIKE. With one of the most gigantic strikes in history in the making, ready to culminate November 1, the coal and fuel situation appears acute. Forty-thousand members of the miners have been certified to walk out on that date.

THE NEW WELLS. The Ranger field showed the greatest increase in new production last week. In the face of spitting rains, untravelable roads and general cessation of development, its wells came in startlingly successfully.

NEW PRINTING PROCESS. The Literary Digest appeared last week with eighty pages, all of the reading matter in which was transposed from the original typewritten manuscript, to zinc etching and published. The Los Angeles Times did the same stunt.

"BOB" MAY COME. "Bob" Jones, the noted Methodist evangelist, is expected to come to Ranger sometime this winter to tell us folks the error of our way in an old-time revival meeting.

Judging from the several truckloads of baggage which arrive here on every train, it seems as if all of Texas and the world, as far that matter, is coming to stay-a while with us.

Vote for Road Amendment. Every voter in Eastland county should give close study to the proposed amendment to the state constitution which will permit the issuing of $75,000,000 worth of bonds for good road construction.

Simply because there is no governor to elect or a president to put in office is no reason why voters should be forgetful of their duty when election day comes.

Our definition of a ten-karat fool is the fellow who is picking from a heap of apples gets the biggest and prettiest and finding it rotten in the core wants to exchange for another.

Vote for Road Amendment. Every voter in Eastland county should give close study to the proposed amendment to the state constitution which will permit the issuing of $75,000,000 worth of bonds for good road construction.

Simply because there is no governor to elect or a president to put in office is no reason why voters should be forgetful of their duty when election day comes.

Our definition of a ten-karat fool is the fellow who is picking from a heap of apples gets the biggest and prettiest and finding it rotten in the core wants to exchange for another.

Here and There in Sinclair's Million-Dollar "Camp"

Photographs by Hippodrome Studio.

Upper center—The officers' quarters, for visiting officers of the Sinclair company and other officials who are guests to the company while inspecting the Ranger fields.

Upper right—Residence, office and laboratory of Dr. G. S. Gilpin, Sinclair physician.

Lower right—Main offices.

By Larry Smith.

There are incorporated towns in the United States—cities even—that are more modest in their equipment, in size and in utilities, than the Sinclair Oil colony a mile and a quarter east of Ranger. There are few cities, of any size, that can compare with the Sinclair colony in beauty of arrangement and completeness of detail. It is called a "camp." Eastern men of wealth make the same error in naming the places in the Adirondacks where they spend parts of the summer.

"How much is Sinclair Oil investing here?" I asked R. W. Hanna, superintendent of the "camp."

"It won't cost over a million," was his reply. Considering the limited funds, the company has done very well.

Complete from spring water system, electric lighting, steam and gas heating and sewage disposal systems to utilitarian macadam roads of the high-type and club rooms that can compare with the Knickerbocker in New York or the C. A. C. in Chicago, it is a credit to the designing ability of H. S. Mayer, building construction superintendent, and to Mr. Hanna, who has completed the work that Mr. Mayer started.

From the side of the "camp" toward the Texas & Pacific tracks, an electric sign, twice as tall as the tallest Rangerite and several times as long will announce to those who pass on the Oil Special, when it runs, that this is the Ranger headquarters of "Sinclair Oils."

That it will be the center of operations for the North Central Texas fields seems probable. Already it is the home of 392 men and without crowding, the fifteen acre, wire enclosed area, could take care of three times that number, or a little city of a thousand Sinclair employes and Sinclair employees.

The color scheme throughout, in the exterior finish, is ivory and deep green. The green trim is carried to the asbestos shingles of the roofs and gives a pleasing uniform touch of color. The "camp" is relieved from any monotony by the variations in design to conform the different uses of buildings.

The main offices, ten in number, are housed in a long building facing the east. In front of which runs the broad main road, which, the day of our visit, was still in the crushed rock stage of construction. The rock came from the Sinclair's own crusher. Over it went a black coating of asphalt and crude oil and the finish of finely powdered rock, after steam rolling makes as smooth and inviting a roadway as any boulevard.

At the north end of the main offices is the officers' club, a building which will be used exclusively for visiting officers and guests of the company. It is to be finished with six sleeping rooms, besides bathrooms, the living quarters of the housekeeper, dining rooms and kitchens, and a long sleeping porch into which all of the bed rooms open. It is of modest country club size and nothing will be lacking to make the visiting high-class, comfortable during their stay here. In fact, if the moguls of Sinclair Oils confine their visit to the Sinclair camp, they will carry back to the east and north a series of denials of the rough life of the oil fields.

The dormitory brings to mind at once the pretentious summer hotel, though in better taste than those edifices for the painless removal of surplus coin. It is a two story structure, to house thirty-eight men in commodious sleeping rooms. The similarity to the summer hotel ends with the exterior appearance.

For on the inside, it is a comfortable building, honey and inviting and provided with every convenience that the unmarried employes of Sinclair Oils could wish. The heating devices are ingenious, on the gas steam radiation plan. To all appearances, the radiators are no different from those in any steam heated building, but each radiator has its own self-contained boiler, regulated by an automatic valve, which turns down the heat when the temperature of the room reaches a certain point. One room may be heated singly, as each radiator is separately operated.

The Sinclair bachelors have bath-rooms of the cleanest type. The kitchen has built in tubs for water heaters and washbasins. And in the center of all is a thirty foot square, where piano and victrolas will keep the evenings from being too quiet.

The dormitory, or bachelors hotel, is the only living quarters on "South" street, as the rule on which the camp is laid out, puts all the living quarters north of the Main street and all the industrial operations, warehouses, pipe racks and the like, south of Main.

It is north of Main that the married employes enjoy the domestic refinements of pretty little four and five room homes, each as cozy and inviting as its neighbor and each the despair of the Rangerite who sees them and then searches for their equivalent, for sale or rent, in the city.

Every home has the same utilities as the dormitory—electric lights, sewer connections, gas-steam heating and dual water system. There are seventeen such homes.

That drinking water system, in itself, is worth more than a word. For drinking purposes, the water from Haganam springs on the Haganam property north of Sinclairola, is pumped to a tank on top the wood and grass covered hill which is a fitting background for the "camp." From the tank, it flows by gravity to all the homes and living quarters.

The Sinclair well system, for water for other domestic uses, is supplemented by the city water system, supplied through meters.

Dr. G. S. Gilpin, Sinclair physician, has a beautiful home, which in addition to living quarters for himself and family, houses his laboratory. Next door, a replica of the smaller homes is fitted as an emergency hospital, where injuries and minor illness are given prompt and expert attention. A nurse and orderly are under the doctor's orders. Serious cases are taken to the Ranger general hospital for surgical treatment.

In the mess hall, which later will be housed in a building next to the dormitory, 500 meals are served daily. Not a man on the reservation takes their meals there; though those who do maintain that the general dining room serves food that will compare with the best of the "home-cooked" variety that is served in any of the thirty-two families of the camp.

The garage building, ample in size in charge of R. M. Rider, will be followed by two others, each 96 by 50 feet and a paint shop, 150 by 50 and an auto repair shop 108 by 50 feet.

Officers of the company who make their headquarters in this camp are: John L. Wheatley, production superintendent; H. H. Hutchinson, assistant superintendent of production; H. L. Hensel, chief clerk; N. A. Spencer, superintendent of material and supplies, one of the first men on the ground; Stephen T. Hicks, engineer of street, sewer and water system; W. E. Morrison, superintendent of the Sinclair pipe lines.

"Sinclair Oils," the name that will blaze out in electric letters for the tourist and oil men to see in passing, is a name that appears in thirty states in this country and in France and England where products of the Sinclair company are retailed.

Nowhere does it grace in better establishment.

RAILROAD COMMISSION'S ENGINEER WILL REPORT

Special to The Times.

AUSTIN, Oct. 18.—Parker, chief engineer for the state railway commission, has returned from an extended inspection trip over the Cotton Belt route and his findings will be made public in a short time. Some time ago the president of this line alleged that the government had allowed the system to deteriorate to such an extent that traffic over it was unsafe.

LOCAL LAWYER ROBBED; LOSES VALUABLES

R. C. McCoy an attorney of this city last night reported the loss of a steamer trunk containing two suits of clothes, ten or fifteen shirts, $20 worth of linen and $75 worth of silverware, also a suitcase with contents valued at $90.

The suitcases and trunk were stolen last night in Young addition.

SENATOR DAVIS ELKINS WEARS VICTORY MEDAL

WASHINGTON, Oct. 18.—While Davis Elkins, Senator from West Virginia, is listed as a "freshman Senator" in the present Congress, it is his second trip to the Senate. After the death of his father, the late Stephen Elkins, in 1910, Davis Elkins was sent to the Senate by the appointment of Governor Elkins. He is now in the Senate by the vote of the people of West Virginia.

Senator Elkins is one of the few Senators who can wear a victory medal and some gold chevrons. He is the only member of the Senate who served in France during the war with Germany. He was adjutant of the Tenth Infantry Brigade of the Seventh Division. Senator Elkins had previous war experience, however, for he left Harvard to enlist as private at the outbreak of the Spanish-American War and won a pair of bars before the struggle was over.

Senator Elkins is probably the best example of the maxim, "Silence is golden," that there is in the Senate. He has yet to make his maiden speech and he doesn't spend very many words in debate. In fact, he is so silent that it would be easy to forget that he is a member of the Senate if he were not so regular in his attendance.

War left its traces on the countenance of Senator Elkins, but the traces are those of a man in the best of health. The Senator from West Virginia is as "hard as nails" and being of an athletic disposition he is pretty apt to remain so, because he spends every spare moment on the golf links or tennis courts.

By profession Senator Elkins is a banker. He is president of a bank in Martinsburg, W. Va., and is also president of a large bank in the District of Columbia.

There is a good deal of money in Senator Elkins, and the older members of the Senate are watching him with interest for they believe that so soon as his "Senate fight" comes off that he will receive a most successful result.

He was born in Washington, D. C., January 24, 1875.

BRAZIL'S TRADE IS VERY ENCOURAGING

RIO DE JANEIRO, Oct. 17.—The foreign trade of Brazil during the first half of 1919 is regarded as very encouraging. An increased exportation of some of Brazil's staple commodities, such as coffee, rubber, cacao, chilled beef, hides, oil-bearing fruits, etc., as well as the high prices which these articles have commanded, leaves a very respectable trade balance. That Brazil has rapidly forced ahead commercially during the years of the war is generally conceded. The country's agricultural possibilities are as yet practically unexploited and the war acted as a stimulus toward ascertaining the wide range of its productivity.

Brazil has been able to export to Europe's foodstuffs which a few years ago she was not able to supply to herself. In the same way animal husbandry is making strides which point to making meat products one of the country's chief exports. While Brazil has always been a cattle-producing country, it is only during the last three or four years that it has been looked upon as a world supplier, and even more recently several large modern packing houses have been constructed or projected. These are financed principally by American packing interests.

In the vast year the federal government, through the agricultural department, has devoted considerable attention to the importation and purchase of animals of pure blood. It is proposed to carry on an extensive educational campaign among the livestock breeders of Brazil to improve the standard of cattle. For this purpose the government intends to make liberal money appropriations.

David Harrell, commissioner of the United States department of agriculture, accompanied by an assistant, has arrived in Brazil to make an investigation of the cattle industry and give information to Brazilian cattle-raisers regarding the importation of North American cattle.

BIG SPRING SCHOOLS HAVE BIG ATTENDANCE

Special to The Times.

BIG SPRING, Oct. 18.—Attendance at the high school here is five percent above that of last year and double that of five years ago, according to Principal Brashier. A large number of families residing in the rural sections moved to Big Spring to school their children.

SAN ANTONIO SUGAR SUPPLY VERY LOW

Special to The Times.

SAN ANTONIO, Oct. 17.—Although promised 4,000 bags of sugar early next week, San Antonio is facing a very serious famine, according to Principal Brashier. A large number of families residing in the rural sections moved to Big Spring to school their children.

It was news in Washington, D. C., January 24, 1875.

WEST TEXAS WILL AID ROOSEVELT MEMORIAL

Special to The Times.

SAN ANTONIO, Oct. 18.—West Texas is liberally rallying to the support of the Roosevelt memorial campaign, which will be started throughout the state during the week from October 20 to 27. According to field workers everybody seems to be glad to aid in this campaign to raise a fund to build a monument to the hero and to establish memorials.

TRAFFIC ON "SAUSAGE" LINE TO CORPUS RESUMED

Special to The Times.

SAN ANTONIO, Oct. 18.—Traffic again is moving on the San Antonio, Pecos & Gulf railroad, following a day of suspension of trains due to washouts forty miles south. Corpus Christi was again isolated, but now is reconnected with San Antonio by rail. R. C. Tarbutton, local representative of the S. A., U. & G. railway says work trains have practically completed repairs on his line.

STATE GETS CO-OPERATION IN ROAD CONSTRUCTION

AUSTIN, Oct. 17.—The state highway department is preparing a statement showing specific instances where shortage of cars at plants is interfering with the uniform building of roads. It is known that the government is much in favor of good roads work and has pledged the utmost co-operation will be given to transportation features, even to the extent of assuming care to plants which have suffered from shortage.

METHODIST CONFERENCE OPENS NOVEMBER 4th

TERRELL, Oct. 17.—The annual conference of the North Texas district of the Methodist church, South, will be held here, beginning November 5. Bishop W. N. Ainsworth of Austin will preside. The opening sermon will be delivered by Rev. C. B. Fisher on the evening of November 4.

MADE NEW NOSES, LIPS AND CHINS FOR WOUNDED

International News Service.

BOSTON, Oct. 18.—After spending many months making new faces, noses, lips, eyebrows and chins for the wounded in France, Major W. F. Von Zelinski, of Chicago, attached to the Medical Corps, Eighth Field Artillery, Seventh Division, arrived at army headquarters here seeking his discharge from service.

"If people could only see what injuries are inflicted upon the human face and how many soldiers had to have their faces built over again they would never allow war to take place," said the Major.

"My duty has been to make new faces. If any work has brought the horrors of war before me, this has certainly done it."

Discussing the French surgeons, Dr. von Zelinski said: "The French surgeons are simple in their work. They want few assistants and are eager to do everything themselves."

RENT PROFFITEERING IS CAUSE OF NEW SUITS

Special to The Times.

DALLAS, Oct. 17.—The first suit for profiteering against a landlord has been filed in the city court. It will determine the strength and power of the city ordinance to regulate rentals here. The petitioner alleges that his rent has been raised from $20 to $30 a month, which is extortionate.

NEW MEXICO EXPECTS TO BE BIG OIL PRODUCER

Special to The Times.

ROSWELL, Oct. 17.—That New Mexico will become the scene of two or more famous oil fields in the near future is the opinion expressed among visiting oil men, many of whom are backing up their confidence by investing heavily here. The state has already realized $125,000 from sale of oil land leases.

INFLUENZA IS MAKING LITTLE HEADWAY AS YET

Special to The Times.

AUSTIN, Oct. 18.—The state health department is receiving a number of reports of Spanish influenza making its appearance in various parts of the state, but so far the reports do not indicate that it has reached an epidemic state. No serious cases have been reported.

"Ballads of a Doughboy" Were Written by Ranger Oil Operator

Night on the St. Mihiel salient. Spatter of rain, the vivid horror of barrage ahead, around the crash and flash of "arrives." The hour not long before the start of the drive.

A rain-coated officer turns to an orderly: "Is there a dug-out around here?" "Yes, sir," and the two make their way to the half-enclosure, away from the din and horror.

Spated upon the fragment of a box one of the pair pulls an envelope from his pocket, searches his blouse for the stub of a pencil, and: "It's not the mud, nor the sickening thud Of the duds that whistle and whizz;

"When a Jerry's up, you douse your butt. And curse the air for its eyes. You know full well he'll drop his hell If he spots your light from the skies.

"When you're shot, clean shot, and the 'doc' tells you, 'Looks as if you're going west.' It's not the care that he gives you there That makes you feel the best.

"They may talk of tanks, tell of countless ranks Of motor planes and mules; Of the doughboy's grit and the things that fit With the rest of war's damned tools;

"I don't mind the digging of trenches, I don't mind the sleep in the rain; Gas holds no fear, whether mustard or tear— I laugh at the burns and the pain.

"I don't mind the figures who creep, I don't mind the machine-gun emplacements, If I could but see where the cooties don't know The place where I'll lay down to sleep.

"I don't mind the hardback for my back, I don't mind the canned beef or ham The 'coffee' at noon is forgotten quite soon— Likewise the canned carrots and jam.

"I don't mind the green cheese for supper, I don't mind the sugarless tea; Everything would be right if the cooties at night Would bite something else besides me.

"I don't mind the zeppelins bombing, I don't mind trench mortars or tanks; For the sound of a Hun hand-axe, I don't mind the shrapnel or whizz-bangs, I don't mind the rumors they hatch— All would be well if I could but tell Where the cooties will next make me scratch.

Or a charge over ditches and banks. I don't mind the shrapnel or whizz-bangs, I don't mind the rumors they hatch— All would be well if I could but tell Where the cooties will next make me scratch.

"I don't mind the twenty-mile marches, I don't mind the pack on my back— The little tin hat or the rusty old gal— The Chauchat or grenades in the sack, I don't mind the pills of the doctor— I don't mind the details at night; But I'd give a whole lot to pick out Where next Mr. Cootie will bite."

Not all are in this lighter vein; some are more serious efforts, and these, too, went right to the hearts of the doughboys. There's a little one with good feeling:

"Do you remember the days of yore, mother, We spent in the long ago— How you sung me to sleep, mother, Oft in the twilight's glow? How I rested my head on your breast in peace At the close of each happy day; When I was weary from romping about With my toys and boys at play?

"But that was long ago, mother— To me it is yesterday. Through the cannon's roar I have seen you, mother, Kneeling to God to pray For the life of the soldier son you gave. When you heard his country's call; I can hear you now, as your prayer goes on— 'Dear God, I gave my all.'"

"There's peace again on earth, mother, And happy children play, Just as I did when a boy, mother, And you watched me from day to day. God answered the prayers of your mother-heart, And now that the war is through, May I come back the man you wished me to be, Worthy of such as you."

Lieutenant Brooks found expression in verse after he got into khaki. The officer of the "Ballads of a Doughboy" reads: "Mid days of training at Camp Dix of uneasy and anxious moments aboard a troop ship, in the danger zone; mid weeks on intensive training in France; during the advance and battle of St. Mihiel, and afterwards, while holding the front line for three nerve-racking weeks; in shell holes, trench and German dug-outs; after the fall and capture of Pre; the signing of the armistice; the five months of waiting in Bussy le Grand, Core d'Or, before embarkation, these poems have been written. In years to come they may recall the days spent in France in which the names America and Hungary were blended with Victory and Peace."

The ballads may later be placed on sale for the benefit of the American Legion, Ranger chapter, at the Ranger library.

They will appear daily in The Times, through the courtesy of the author.

ADMINISTRATION WILL GET CARS FOR SUGAR CANE CROP Special to The Times. AUSTIN, Oct. 17.—Assurance has been given that the state railway commission by Regional Railway Director B. F. Bush that the railway administration will furnish the Sugarland railway with 125 cars between November 1 and 10 to handle the sugar cane crop to the Sugarland mills.

Misunderstand Was Beer Bottle

He rushed into the office of Dr. Carl Wilson, bleeding profusely. From his appearance, his injuries were serious, if not fatal. The patient who was on the operating table was recognized and the young man was prepared for an anesthetic, if major surgery was necessary.

Tramps de Luxe Will Voyage From Ranger to New York City Through Uncharted Air Spaces

LIEUT. BOB KENNEDY.

Since the first time you ran away from home, resolved to find what lay beyond the smoky rim of the horizon that looked so alluring and promised such adventure, how many times have you wished to be foot-loose, with the good grey road unwinding before you—king of the highway—with your wide domain stretching away as far as you could see, in either side?

When you came to college days, did the tattle of a long string of empties send the thrill of the wanderer through you and did you aspire to wear the emblem of "Quo Vadis," the little gold tin can that signified you had traveled thousands of miles without adding to the wealth of any railroad?

And since, have you ever thought what happiness must be the lot of the born vagabond? Of course you have. Who hasn't?

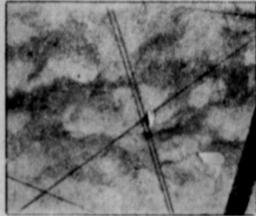

Few of us put our pleasant, pipe-smoke theories to the test, none of us, surely, in the superlative manner planned by Bill Hahnel and Bob Kennedy.

"Tramps de luxe" they might well be styled and travels, through the cloud paths, could be called regal vagabonding.

THEIR CRAFT.

THEIR HIGHWAY.

the rolling sea, the silver billows of the clouds, smiling in the morning sun; instead of a rattling box-car and cinders, the airplane cockpit, snug behind the windshield, and on either side the rush of untainted breeze.

Both Bill and Bob are former army airplane pilots. With their own ship, a Canadian Curtiss, they have been making passenger and photographic flights, and operating the Ranger-Desdemona air service, from the Comet field at the east end of Hunt street.

Born-Storming By Air.

Now they plan an air barn-storming trip, to New York City, by way of Tulsa, and Topeka and Kansas City and Chicago and Detroit. Out of the way, you say? Well, what good vagabond ever followed a straight path and reached his destination according to a hard and fast schedule? They hope to be in New York City by December 1, or 15th, or by Christmas. Anyway, they may see the New Year down there.

W. N. White, their associate, will travel ahead in the prosaic manner favored by seapalmsmen and touring senators—that is, by train.

Bill and Bob will go, leisurely, as air travel goes, swinging away when the spirit moves and landing when the fields look inviting, or when the motor stutters, as motors sometimes do.

Here and there, enroute, they will halt, to make passenger carrying trips, if the Oklahomans or Kansans, or Missourians, or Illinoisites, want air trips; or if the Kansans and others wish to look over the plane, or sit in the seat where one of Canada's leading aces got his first air training, they may do so—for a modest sum. One must eat. And the same is doubly true of two.

So they'll make their care-free, air-free way, to Dallas, and Springfield and Elmira and South Bend and Toledo and Buffalo, not in the order named, but as they come to them. And to any other city that is pleasing to the eye from the air.

When they reach New York, they will spend some time there and then on to California, where Bob Kennedy already has a name as air dare-devil through his exploit of changing from one airplane to another and surviving the crash that followed the ship's "locking horns." Their stay in New York will be measured, probably, by the length of their purse.

And California, Mebbe. The trip to Pomona, California, where Bill and Bob will start a school for flyers, or fly for the movies, as they have done before or something may be made by train.

The air vagabonds de luxe will leave Ranger this week.

INFORMAL PHOTOGRAPH SHOWS QUEEN WEARING TROUSERS AT NIAGARA FALLS

King and Queen of Belgium on their way to Cave of the Winds, Niagara Falls.

VIOLATIONS OF FEDERAL LAWS ARE CHARGED

United States Commissioner W. D. Girard of Abilene was in Ranger yesterday to look after some federal cases worked out by local police.

He investigated evidence against Dick Turner and Dolly Turner of Ranger and they waived preliminary hearing and made bonds in the sum of $1,000 each to answer to a charge of alleged violation of the war-time prohibition act. This transaction was arranged at police headquarters.

Charge have been filed against Frank Watkins for alleged violation of the war-time prohibition act. Joseph O. Costetter is being held as a witness in this case.

Charges also were filed against R. W. Dew for alleged violation of the narcotics act, and against Cora Peterson and W. E. Barnes for alleged violation of the Mann act.

United States Deputy Marshal Crawford is expected to arrive in Ranger this afternoon to take charge of the federal prisoners and take them to Abilene.

W. E. Barnes and Cora Peterson claim to be from California. They were arrested two days ago by local police officers in a room in a cheap hotel, police say. They admitted they were not married, but said it was their intention to marry as soon as they saved enough money to buy a home.

Tool Dresser Held; Robbery Charged

"Red" Stokes, claiming to be a tool dresser, was arrested Saturday night by local police and is being held for alleged robbery.

Stokes took a young woman out of town, it is said, under the pretense of taking her to a relative's house and at a point two miles out the Caddo road he is alleged to have robbed her and drove off in the car and left her. The girl lost about $70 in money, the police declare.

Fifty Mexicans Taken in Raid

The police raided a Mexican restaurant and hotel located east of the railroad track Saturday night. About fifty Mexicans were searched for firearms and an automatic pistol was found on one. He was carried to headquarters and held in jail.

Although there was a large crowd in town the night was reasonably quiet.

VULCANIZING'S CURE FOR TIRE TROUBLE

The following program for the benefit of motorists who experience tube troubles, has been prepared by L. A. Berger or Berger & Hicks, at 206 Pine street:

"When a tube is punctured or blows out, the sane thing for the motorist to do is to have it vulcanized. After the tube has been repaired and tested, before remounting, both it and the casing should be well cleaned. This is done by sprinkling tire talc in the casing. Only a small quantity should be used, as too much is apt to form lumps injurious to the tube."

"One of the commonest troubles with tubes is pinching."

"If the motorist does not understand the theory of tire-mounting he is likely to pinch the tube accidentally in applying the tire iron. If there are inserted folded, twisted or wrinkled, the result is a tube pinched."

"In mounting a tube, inflate it just enough to be round, and insert in the case."

"Spare tubes should be folded evenly and placed in a cloth or bag made for that purpose. Left loose in a tool box or under the seat, they are subject to cuts from tools, chafing by vibration, or softening of the rubber from oil spots."

J. T. Riddell, manager of the Best Tires, left for Fort Worth last night to meet his family. Upon his return to Ranger on Monday he will bring his family with him and either build or rent a home.

MORGAN & ROBINSON INSTALL GAS STATION

Morgan & Robinson expect to have their gasoline and oil service station in front of their accessory shop on Pine street, in full operation next Monday. Only the highest grades of gasoline will be sold and the new station will handle the famous Vedol line of lubricants, exclusively.

This final link in the chain of service rendered the motorist makes the operations of this firm complete, as under one management there is conducted an accessory house, an up-to-date repair shop and gasoline and oil station.

NOTICE

To the Patrons of the County Clerk's Office:

The commissioners' court in regular session this week entered on the minutes of the court an order prohibiting the county clerk from charging the instruments filed for record on and after November 1st, 1919, a fee of ten cents.

The officers of the office are kindly asked to mind the advance. In case the instrument is mailed to us, and the fee is not enclosed, a card should be sent to the sender advising that the fee is not enclosed. As soon as the fee is received, the instrument will be filed for record.

Everything would be filed for record as soon as the fee is received. As soon as the fee is received, the instrument will be filed for record.

I don't mind the aeroplane but I don't mind trench mortars or tanks.

PURPLE AND WHITE NEGLIGEE IS MADE ON GRECIAN LINES

How perfectly stunning this filmy negligee would look on a beautiful brunette type with a cream and velvet bedroom for a background! The undergarment is fashioned on classical lines in purple with white georgette trimming. A design is stenciled in purple on the white. The cape, which falls in voluminous folds over the dainty slip, is of plain purple georgette with a white collar in stole effect.

R. L. Marshall Visits Ranger

The Central Motor company, distributor for the United States tire in Ranger, has as a guest R. L. Marshall of the solid tire department of the United States Tire & Rubber company. Mr. Marshall comes from the Dallas branch of the company and is greatly interested in this visit into the "land of liquid gold." He will be in the city the greater part of this week and will be pleased to talk with interested parties as to the merits of the tire he represents.

Special Exam for Teachers to Be Held at Eastland

The Times has received a communication from Miss Ulala Howard, county superintendent of schools, in which notification is given that a special examination for teachers' certificates will be held at the high school building in Eastland the first Friday and Saturday in November.

The Times is requested to publish the notice, owing to the extreme need of teachers. Those desiring further information regarding the examination should write to Miss Howard at Eastland.

Alliance Holds Open Air Service

An open air service was held Saturday night on Main street by the Christian and Missionary Alliance. The Rev. Edwards preached a stirring sermon, and the Rev. Moore furnished some excellent music. The object and aims of the alliance were set forth by the Rev. Edwards. He stated that his organization had nothing fanatical about it, but was interested in the spread of the gospel and the upbuilding of humanity. He also stated that they were not running in opposition to the Salvation Army but worked in harmony with that organization.

Rev. Edwards assured the audience that he and his helpers are in Ranger to stay. His remarks were heard by a large crowd. The service was held on Main street.

JEWELRY DISPLAY ATTRACTS WIDE ATTENTION IN CITY

The diamond and jewelry display of Ranger's new jewelry store, at the corner of Main and Austin streets, is attracting wide attention in the city. The store is owned and operated by Bernstein and Weinberg.

The stock is large and varied and there is everything in the jewelry line for everyone.

C. G. McKim Joins Ranger Garage Co.'s Sales Organization

In the person of C. Gordon McKim the Ranger Garage company has added to its staff of salesmen a man who is well versed in automobiles and trucks, with a record of six years in the manufacturing end of the game behind him and as many more in the selling end.

Mr. McKim started his automobile experience with six years of hard work in the employ of the Fiero Machinery & Foundry company of Cleveland, Ohio. The sales end of the business, however, had the strongest appeal to Mr. McKim, and his first opportunity to demonstrate his ability to "put them" over came when he obtained a position with the wholesale distributor for the Studebaker line in Cincinnati.

From this position Mr. McKim went with the Mason-Towne company of Cincinnati, distributors for the Dodge Bros. cars, and his last connection before coming to Ranger was with the White motor truck distributor at Hamilton, Ohio.

Mr. McKim will have charge of sales of the Selden truck, which is being handled exclusively by the Ranger Garage company. He sees bright prospects here and is filled with enthusiasm over the possibilities of the Selden line in the oil fields. Ten thousand dollars has been invested in Selden parts by the local distributors and they promise to give a new and unknown meaning to the word "service." Two carloads of trucks have just reached Ranger and immediate delivery can be given.

Improved Roads Talk Gives Way To Construction

Let products flow smoothly from 'land to men' summarizes the United States department of Labor's point of view in offering a solution of the high cost of living problem.

The farm community, the department's report says, "should be linked with the city market. Railway, waterway and motor truck service should be effectively co-ordinated.

Upon reading the report the question which naturally arises is, are the farming communities awakening to the need of doing their share in creating the channels by which their products may flow smoothly from 'land to men'.

An array of facts and figures is brought forth by E. Farr, director of the Firestone ship-by-truck bureau at Akron, Ohio, to support his affirmative answer.

"Motor trucks on improved highways," says Mr. Farr, "offer the farmers of the nation their best opportunity of starting products on a smooth-flowing movement from 'land to men' and today the United States is carrying on the biggest highway improvement campaign in its history and in the history of the world.

At the same time the factories are turning out an increasingly large number of motor trucks, many of which will go to farmers or into the service of farmers. It would appear, then, that the farmer is awakening fully to his opportunities in this respect.

He is simplifying his end of the distributive system by making it possible to send his products to market, thereby lessening the number of agencies through which these products will pass, with the consequent narrowing of the circle of those who might be tempted to add to the price which will be paid by the consumer.

Figures recently announced by the International Shipping Digest show that during the current twelve months $375,000,000 will be expended upon road improvements and maintenance of roads in the United States.

It is significant that the states which will spend most for better highways, those upon which manufacturers depend to buy the most motor trucks, are states in which farming is the most predominant among the occupations.

It is estimated that Kansas, which will spend $8,000,000 on bettering its roads, will buy 20,000 motor trucks in the same period. Minnesota has a road-building program calling for the expenditure of $11,127,986.

As an illustration of what the farmer in this great state thinks of the motor truck might be cited a statement recently issued by the Northwestern National bank in Minneapolis in which it is said that trucks in large numbers, intended for immediate use in marketing grain, are being sold to this large-buying class (the farmers), and elevator scales in many places are being revamped to accommodate the growing fleet of farmers' trucks. "Iowa, potential buyer of many motor trucks, will spend $20,498,534 on better highways.

"Thus it goes. In the farming communities the coming of the motor truck has made the era of good roads talk give way to the era of good roads construction. The farmer is doing his full share, to the best of his ability, in linking his community to the city market."

GOES UP ON HIGH There was a pretty custom among some of the ancients when a prominent citizen died, to send his valet along with him on the road to Paradise!

And it oftentimes was necessary to resort to extreme methods to insure this company for the departed. But in the territory of the China-American Trading company, Ford dealers in Tien Tsin, China, they have discovered a much better aid to the deceased over the rough places on the trip to the promised land.

It is a custom of the Chinese to burn various kinds of effigies at the funeral ceremonies of the rich, the more wealthy the departed the more elaborate are the figures burned over his grave. These effigies represent every manner of thing, such as human figures, horses, sedan chairs, tables loaded with money, etc.

The figures usually conform to some of these stereotyped fashions, but at the funeral of a Mr. Li, who died a short time ago in Tien Tsin, and who was very wealthy, the bereaved family outdid themselves and made an imitation of the deceased gentleman's Ford car to be burned at his grave.

This Ford effigy was made entirely of strong Chinese paper stretched on bamboo and reed frames. The car was complete in every detail, the pedals accurately placed, and all was made of paper and bamboo. The interior of the car also was accurate in detail, being carefully upholstered in paper. The effigy of the driver was a work of art. The car was carried about three miles through crowded streets to the graveside, where a match was applied and it was consumed within a few minutes.

U. S. Tires Gain Favor

The advent of cord construction in automobile tires has made possible the manufacture of tires which give astounding mileages, yet there are many automobile owners who have found so great a degree of satisfaction in some favorite brand of fabric tire, that they are loath to change to the new type.

The United States Tire Company reports sales of its fabric brands that show these tires are continually gaining favor among motorists who want good tires at a moderate initial cost.

President J. Newton Gunn of the United States Tire company has received this letter from a New Haven merchant, telling why he remains firm in his allegiance to the "Chain" tread: "I think 20,240 miles up to date is a remarkable record for three out of a set of five of your 35x4 1/2 'Chain' tread tires. They are still in my seven-passenger car in serviceable condition, and the car is used every day.

"The full set of five tires was put on my new car the first week in March, 1915. The first of the set went out of commission April 2, 1918, after running 16,103 miles. The second blew out beyond repair the month following, but the remaining three have been running ever since. I have had few punctures or blow-outs owing to the elasticity and durability of the tires."

SHIP-BY-TRUCK TO THE RESCUE

By persistent day and night driving, aids of the manager of the Famous Flayers and Lasky branch exchange at Los Angeles covered the states of New Mexico, Arizona and Southern California by motor truck during the recent tie-up caused by the railroad strike on the Pacific coast. Exhibitors were protected and many thousand dollars' worth of films were saved by the fleet of trucks, a large number of which traveled daily in mountainous and desert country.

This is only one of many instances of ship-by-truck efficiency saving the day for business during the strike. Typical of others was the experience of the Los Angeles Creamery company, which was able to take care of a $500 cream contract in Northern California by dispatching trucks on daily trips.

Hints to Motorists

When a car is newly painted care should be taken to remove any mud or other foreign matter as quickly as possible. If the mud is allowed to stay on new paint overnight it will be difficult to remove the mud stains. If these stains penetrate the varnish it will be necessary to retouch such places. After the varnish has become thoroughly set there is not so much danger.

Sedans Were Used In Louis XIV's Time

Carriages second only to clothing have borne man's yearning for style. The tappings of Zenobia's camels, the ruby-ax howdahs of Shah Jahan's elephants, the gilded carriages of French aristocracy, or British coaches ancestral to the enclosed automobiles of today, prove how eagerly mankind has striven for distinction in transportation.

Your coupe and sedan, in name at least, come from the luxury-loving court of Louis XIV. Other models reflect the influence of the early English and colonial coach builders and so it is that the fancy of London gentlemen in the mid-Victorian era and the fads of a bygone age of romance in France, dictate today how society shall ride.

Good taste, the mode, whatever it is—style design, the appearance of extreme care, beauty where it can be had with utility, glint of enamel and flash of plate—have been the ambition of coach builders. Artisans of rare skill they were to command the patronage of the great. Examples of how coach builders evolved into automobile construction, how style changed with the change in motive power, yet maintained its old elegance, is to be seen in Delaunay's first closed car saloon which opens Monday night.

FOOTBALL PAGEANT INCLUDES ALL STYLES OF PLAY.

BRUNSWICK, N. J., Oct. 18.—A football pageant which will include all styles of play since 1869, when the first game was staged between Princeton and Rutgers, will be played on Princeton stadium between the same two colleges Thanksgiving day. Following the unique match, "Big Bill" Edwards, chairman of the Princeton committee in charge of the pageant, plans to call a 10-minute game, in which no score will be kept, between the 1919 teams of the two universities.

Auto Thefts Are to Be Discussed

At Automobile Show To Be Held In New York.

Ways and means of reducing automobile thefts will be the subject of a conference of American motor car manufacturers during the New York automobile show, according to George M. Dickson, president of the National Motor Car and Vehicle Corporation of Indianapolis.

The meeting will be held to consider a plan submitted by George Oliver, chief clerk of the magistrate's court of the City of New York, for the cooperation of automobile manufacturers with police departments and detective bureaus throughout the country for the checking of automobile thefts.

Galveston Very Anxious to Get Amendment Over

GALVESTON, Oct. 18.—Commercial interests of Galveston and city officials are making an energetic state-wide campaign in support of a constitutional amendment to be voted on November 4 under which $5,000,000 public improvement bonds would be issued to raise the grade level in the city.

The city cannot, under the present limit of taxation, issue the full $5,000,000 bonds. If the amendment is adopted $4,000,000 of the bonds will be issued by the city and the remaining $1,000,000 by Galveston county.

Slang Now Part of English Speech

International News Service.—NEW YORK, Oct. 18.—Slang—the indispensable by-product of Americanized English, "as she is spake"—has officially become a part and parcel of our language.

The latest recognized dictionaries to come from the print shop give definitions for most of the more popular slang words just as though they had been handed down from the days of Shakespeare.

They are not listed in a separate section, entitled "Definition of Slang Words," as some dictionaries have done in the past, but the coined words that so ably help an American to express his real feelings are included in the "official standard dictionary of the English Language."

So hereafter, if some one calls you a fathead or a boob or most any other name as common to the "language of the street" don't assume a superior air, put on a vacant look and austere remark.

30,000 Horses Replaced by Cars

Passenger cars or trucks are manufactured in the United States.

The total number of cars registered in all the states during 1919 will probably be close to 6,500,000.

If every passenger car now in use in the United States traveled only 3,000 miles a year, a low average, and carried three passengers each mile covered, the total passenger mileage would be approximately 45,000,000,000.

The manufacturers of cars, trucks and parts now employ more than 1,000,000 men and women.

The wholesale value of approximately 20,000,000 tires to be manufactured this year will probably exceed $600,000,000.

The amount of capital invested in the manufacture of complete passenger cars or trucks now exceeds $1,500,000,000.

More than 40 per cent of cars in operation today are owned and used by farmers.

The passenger cars and commercial vehicles in use in the cities and in the country district have displaced 20,000,000 horses—a saving in grain and time which is incalculable.

sale of army machines will be held at the municipal pier October 8. Only condemned machines are in this lot.

"The selling of this equipment," part of an announcement from the corps said, "is expected to put at rest finally the many-lived report of the sale of cars and trucks at ridiculously low prices.

The police cut short his career, but not before the news of the wonderful generosity of the government had been well started on its journey through the country, since when no amount of denial, official or unofficial, has been able to check its progress.

Since the armistice, also, sales of vehicles by the corps have been reported from time to time in various parts of the country.

Investigation has shown these reports to be without foundation in fact, but they have helped to spread the news, which has caused the corps' headquarters at Washington and six general depots to be deluged with requests for cars and trucks at reduced prices.

Auction sales, similar to the one to be held in Chicago, are scheduled for several army camps in different parts of the country.

HUN OFFICIAL FEARS REVOLT THIS WINTER

By a Staff Correspondent International News Service.

BERLIN, Oct. 18.—An hour's conversation with Gustave Noske, minister of defense, will convince even the most skeptical that the German government's fear of sanguinary uprisings during the coming winter is very real and well founded. Herr Noske received your correspondent today and did not hesitate to say that the radical groups of Germany are well supplied with arms and ammunition and are recruiting a following from returning veterans taken prisoners by the allied armies during the war. He frankly admitted that riots, if they do occur, probably would go beyond his control, though he would not actually anticipate a definite attempt to overthrow the present government.

Herr Noske sees a menace to Germany in the small army of the country known as the "red army" of the Versailles treaty. It is too weak, he declared, to cope with serious internal disorders.

"On September 1," he asserted, "I had 400,000 men. Today I have only 250,000, and this number must be reduced to 200,000 within two months after the entente nations have ratified the peace treaty. By April 1, 1920 we may have an army of only 100,000 men.

"The coal situation will be the biggest factor in starting trouble. The populations of the big cities will freeze. Fewer trains will be running that means a curtailment of the food supply. Factories will have to close, throwing hundreds of thousands out of employment. At this moment there are 140,000 unemployed in Berlin. To those made breadless through industrial stagnation must be added the 200,000 soldiers I am to discharge and 800,000 returning prisoners of war.

"We are glad to receive our prisoners, but we can do practically nothing for them. As far as possible we supply them with good clothing, but our supply of suits isn't big enough to go around. Food conditions have improved, but much is lacking. Food, good clothes, decent shoes and work would make them content, but few of these things can be provided.

"The returning prisoners are, of course, a welcome object for propaganda by the radicals. Finding unheated rooms, scant food rations and no work does not make them happy. There will be strikes and riots without end. Under such conditions I see little hope of paying any war indemnity or reconstructing France. General orderliness is the first prerequisite for complying with the peace terms. It is disappointing that America, which decided the outcome of the war, now that it is all over gives so little attention to this situation.

"I have reason to believe that the search for arms among the disturbing elements is anything but effective. Large quantities of arms were stolen during the revolution and are hidden. Additional supplies of arms have been carried into hiding by demobilized soldiers. The rioters probably will be as well armed as the troops."

Upon being asked if there was any danger of a well organized counter-revolution, Herr Noske replied:

"We must not forget that the period of transition has brought distress to many persons. The revolution was not altogether unmixt felicity. I do not, however, consider the monarchist movement dangerous to the republic. Alone, the monarchists are too weak to overthrow the government. The talk about a monarchist counter-revolutionary movement in the army is nonsense. Officers and men alike are loyal to the republic. Any combination between the reactionaries and the radicals is out of the question. Even the Communists and Independent Socialists are too far apart to join in a common anti-government conspiracy. How badly they hit was amply proved in Munich.

"What I expect during the winter is attacks upon the wealthy bourgeoisie rather than an attack upon the government. If we can prevent the country until next spring I don't consider any radical monarchist coup possible."

Herr Noske declared that the military divisions of individual states are completely satisfied to be merged into the federal army. The Bavarian soldiers, particularly the anti-militarist of the aid rendered them by North German troops during the soviet terror, cheerfully took the federal oath of allegiance.

The one unit that worries the minister of defense, more than any other, according to his own admission, is the army in Courland and Poland, the so-called "Iron division."

"The Iron division," he declared, "is a formation," declared Herr Noske, "it is composed mostly of young men who have enlisted since the armistice and who lack the discipline of the older trained German soldiers. The Courland situation is one of the most difficult problems. Economic considerations are decisive factor in the attitude of our troops there. They don't want to return to Germany to freeze and starve. If I sent another army to Courland to compel the points to return, terrible confusion would be the result."

When asked what measure he proposed to take to insure the extradition of German officers wanted for trial by the entente who might decline to surrender voluntarily, Herr Noske replied:

"I think you put this question in the wrong place. That is a matter for the police; but the entente, in my opinion, could give you the best answer. One must hope that this particular clause of the peace terms may never be enforced."

Jap Women Want 13-Virtue Hubby

TOKIO, Oct. 18.—The magazine Choukoku Goharu (virtuous woman) invited its Japanese women readers to send in their opinions on what constitutes an ideal husband. Here are the thirteen virtues they demanded of a Jap hubby:

- 1. He should not be greedy.
- 2. He should not spend too much time gambling.
- 3. He should have a manly appearance.
- 4. He should not be too familiar with other women.
- 5. He should express himself clearly.
- 6. He should make prompt decisions.
- 7. He should have high ideals.
- 8. He should never show himself in the kitchen.
- 9. He should never criticize the culture of the towns of his wife or any other woman.
- 10. He should not leave his wife by telling her he is out to sea.
- 11. He should not drink too much.
- 12. He should not be too jealous.
- 13. He should not be too vain.

The Japanese males, who sent in some suggestions of what constitutes an ideal wife. They paraphrased the last of the thirteen points and all agreed that "she should not be too jealous."

SMITHS' LINEUP IN DALLAS WOULD BE MORE THAN MILL

DALLAS, Oct. 18.—If all the Smiths in Dallas were to pass in review in single file the line would extend nearly one and one-half miles, according to data contained in the 1919 city directory, just off the press.

There are nearly twice as many Smiths as Browns in Dallas, according to the city directory. The Browns, their nearest competitors, follow in the order named. The names of 1,240 Smiths and 700 Browns are listed in the order named. The number of Smiths in Dallas is 2,480, according to the city directory. The population of Dallas is 167,884. A more interesting comparison is with the city's first directory, published in 1877. It contained a population of 15,630 and contained 1,447 pages.

Several completions in Stephens county are reported, one well being reported as dry and abandoned.

The Gulf Production company's K. Stoker, on section 23, insane asylum land, was abandoned at 3608 feet. A slight showing of oil was encountered at 3565 feet.

The Gulf Fincher No. 7, section 3352, T. E. & L. survey, after a shot of 120 quarts at 3292-3372, came in with a production of 1200 barrels. Well No. 5 of the same company and location came in natural thirty barrels at 3190-3232.

The Texas company's G. W. Parks, No. A15, under temporary completion at 1917-1987 feet, is making 100 barrels natural. This well is situated on section 3351, T. E. & L. survey.

The Texas company's J. C. Curry, No. 1, section 2301, T. E. & L. survey, came in with 700 barrels natural at 3158-3226.

The Texas company's Sandridge No. 7, section 47, T. & P. block 5, was shot with 180 quarts at 3209-3305 and is making 200 barrels.

The Texas company's J. W. Womack No. 1, section 21, insane asylum land, is making 100 barrels natural at 3048-3108.

The Sensation of Tiredom

Never before has a single tire combined all the supremacies of the many. Yet that is what men find in The Brunswick.

All the known standards are included. All the famous tire features—all their advantages. For there are no secrets in tire building. It is a matter of the principles of the maker—his ideals.

In The Brunswick ideal you will find care and skill paramount. And the ambition to give the most for the money.

New Fishing Laws in Effect in Texas

By Associated Press. AUSTIN, Oct. 18.—The 1919 state legislature made a number of changes in the laws regulating the taking of fish and oysters from Texas waters. A digest of a statement issued by the fish, game and oyster commission shows the following salient features: Any person engaged in buying or selling fish, oysters, shrimps, turtles or other water product must pay a license fee of $10 and a tax of $1 per 1,000 pounds of fish and one cent a barrel of oysters. Only citizens of the United States may obtain this license. The new law bases the size of fish to be sold upon length instead of weight, the following standards being set: Red fish, over 27 or under 12 inches. Red fish, it is said, do not begin breeding until they reach near the maximum set. Trout, minimum, 12 inches; sheepshead, minimum, 9 inches; flounder, 12 inches; pompano, 9; Spanish mackerel, 14 inches. Seines 1,500 feet long and with mesh not less than one and one-half inches for the base and not less than one inch for fifty feet on each side of the base may be used; but net or seine of wire metal are prohibited. Fresh water fishing is restricted to the use of a hook and line, trot line or set or dragnet with meshes not less than three inches. A 20-foot minnow seine is allowed. The law creating a closed season for bass and crappie was repealed, but the use of artificial bait, seines or nets is prohibited during what was the closed season. The mini-

Gen. A. H. Torcon of the Armenian army has outlined a plan to the senate foreign relations committee for organizing an Armenian army all over the world. He would recruit a division of Armenians in the U. S., a brigade in Canada, three regiments in Europe—mainly from the Balkans, and others from Syria and Egypt, to a total of 83,494. With this force, he declares, his country could be guarded from the Turks and Tartars without the aid of other countries.

Movie Notes Mack Sennett, Comedy King, a Psychologist

The recent sale of Booth Tarkington's "Penrod" stories to Marshall Neilan presents perhaps the most interesting phase of this author's connection with photoplay.

Not that his first is now listed; far from it. Sometime since "Cameo Kirby" was done. It was Dustin Farnum's first film and it was made for Famous Players years ago. There were others, too, but "Penrod" is the most recent of the Tarkington stories to be filmed, and one of more than average appeal.

The Penrod stories have for several years appeared in various national magazines, including Metropolitan, American, Everybody's and others and have become one of the foremost series of popular literature.

Considerable rivalry has been evident among motion picture producers for the screen rights to these famous stories. It was apparent that the motion picture possibilities of these human stories were exceptional. Mr. Neilan is therefore particularly gratified in being able to present on the screen the various characters and situations which have become so popular with the American public.

Simultaneously with the Penrod announcement Mr. Grainger said that Wesley Barry, the freckle-faced youngster who has become one of the most popular child actors in the country and who recently was signed on a long-term contract by Mr. Neilan, will play the part of Penrod.

There is undoubtedly no better actor in the business who is better suited to the part.

Ever since Goldwyn offered Will Rogers in "Laughing Bill Hyde" the public has been eagerly waiting for another Rogers picture. They have had a long wait, but they soon will be rewarded with the second Will Rogers picture, which is now being produced under the direction of Clarence C. Badger. The name of the new picture is "Almost a Husband," and, of course, it is full of Rogers' cowboy comedy.

A number of well-known screen personalities have been engaged, chief of whom is Irene Rich, who makes her first appearance with Goldwyn as leading woman in "Almost a Husband." Others of importance are Rowland Lee, Wade Boteler, Marguerite Livingston, Milton Brown, Victor Potel, William Courtwright, Sidney De Grey and Lillian Langdon, with Lydia Yamans Titus in an especially telling role.

Here are some of Will's latest quips which the "Follies" audiences are missing:

"Prohibition?"

"No, brother; a prohibitionist has no regular business of his own; if he did he would have no time to be one."

"Streets that used to be lighted at night and crowded are now used for robbing purposes only."

"If you drop into a cafe now they will wake up the night watchman and ask something for you."

"Some men will have to practice

Mack Sennett, whose latest comedy production, "Yankee Doodle in Berlin," together with his famous "bathing beauties," will show at the Liberty this week, is a psychologist working practically. "Yankee Doodle in Berlin" proves it and he shows it in his attitude towards his production.

The conclusions at which Sennett has arrived may be stated in terms of the simplest diction.

A picture such as "Yankee Doodle in Berlin" would not have been possible, he asserts. The reason?

"The kaiser was no laughing matter," says Sennett, "and though we all hoped he would turn out to be the big bluff snake of us thought him to be and all of us hoped him to be, the menace of his brutality and his diabolical army was too frightening to suggest a satirical treatment of the subject.

"The world has seen how hollow the kaiser was in his sincerities. He makes a proper subject for ridicule. But when his ferocious armies, with bayonets and officers in their immediate rear were plunging toward Paris there was nothing funny about the maniac who, still further to the rear, ordered everybody forward except his sequestered sons.

"But the mask has been torn from the face of this hyena and his fantastical conceit now can be given a farcical treatment at which we can laugh heartily if the losses of the war are not suggested in the production.

"Audiences may laugh at a picture, yet disapprove of it. Laughter, unless there is a thought behind it, is hollow and means nothing. Therefore I try to put behind my comedy some undercurrent of idea that will hold laughter in restraint and give point to the humor. I can't always do this with equal success—I suppose nobody can, but it is what I aim to do."

The scenes are laid in England and Venice. Mr. Fitzmaurice was able to obtain such realistic settings because of his intimate knowledge of the countries, being born in Europe, educated there and traveling extensively before coming to this country. He broke into the motion picture business less than seven years ago by writing scenarios and since has forced his way ahead until he is one of the industry's leading directors.

One scene in particular, a canal scene in Venice, is most elaborate and artistic. The entire set was erected in the New York studio of the Famous Players-Lasky corporation and is the most elaborate set that has been done in the studio. A tank, holding water deep enough to float a gondola, stretched the whole length of the studio, and the details, from the moss along the water to the haze over the water, were all present.

The scenario, by Ouida Bergere, is from the play by Arthur Jones. Ouida Bergere is in social life Mrs. George Fitzmaurice. Elsie Ferguson, Mr. and Mrs. Fitzmaurice and William P. Carlton, Miss Ferguson's leading man, all enjoy working together, which is possibly one of the reasons their pictures are of such high standard. Production plans made for the Paramount Magazine by Nathan Friend, head of the educational and industrial department of the Famous Players-Lasky corporation, contemplate one of the most varied and interesting short subjects to be put on the market. Fifty-two numbers of the Paramount Magazine will be issued.

The Paramount Magazine comprises a series of the best epigrams appearing in the Smart Set Magazine, the best of the epigrams written by Helen Rowland in the New York Evening World and syndicated to more than 300 newspapers throughout the country, animated technical drawings of popular scientific subjects appearing in Popular Mechanics, and animated cartoons. Each issue of the magazine runs one full reel.

To Extend Work of the Rockefeller Foundation Soon

SHANGHAI, Sept. 5.—(by mail)—Following an investigation of the activities of the Rockefeller Foundation in China and the Philippines that was conducted through the summer months by Dr. George E. Vincent, president of the Foundation, it is understood that extensions of the educational work in the Far East, particularly in China, will be authorized at the annual meeting of the Rockefeller Foundation in New York in December.

building. The Rockefeller Foundation is expected to decide at its December meeting when work will be started on the Shanghai institution.

Pending the completion of the new schools, in addition to its other activities the China Medical Board has been granting fellowships and scholarships of medical missionaries for study in the United States and has been aiding native physicians, nurses and students to pursue courses in American schools. The expenditure of the Rockefeller Foundation in China in 1918 exceeded $2,000,000.

In the 300 odd islands of the Sulu Archipelago that are out of touch with the rest of the world a remarkable work has been done by the Rockefeller Foundation. The remote villages along the shores of Mindanao had been inaccessible to medical men until the Foundation placed in service the ship Busuanga. She is of 300 tons burden and is fitted with a modern operating room, a ten-bed hospital ward and a pharmacy. This floating dispensary touches regularly at points on the coasts of Mindanao and the islands Sulu Archipelago. The vessel works in cooperation with base hospitals that have been established at Jolo and Zamboanga. By the terms of an agreement the Rockefeller Foundation is to maintain the Busuanga in service for five years after which control of the vessel is to be taken over by the Philippine authorities.

Wonderful Gift.

PIANO STRIKERS MAY GET LONG "VACATION"

International News Service. NEW YORK, Oct. 18.—Piano manufacturers in this city are considering giving their factories forced "vacations" in order to bring their striking employes to terms. The manufacturers have announced that if at the end of this month former employes do not return to work the factories will be closed for a month. The strikers demand recognition of their newly-formed union, a 44-hour week and a minimum wage of $42 a week for piece workers.

CAMPION IN QUEENSLAND FOR IRELAND'S FREEDOM

International News Service. BRISBANE, Oct. 18.—At a largely attended public meeting recently held in Brisbane, resolutions were passed pledging the meeting to do all in its power to support the Irish determination for self-government. It was further resolved to establish a fund to assist the movement, and to forward a copy of the resolution to the Irish-Australian and American press, also to Presidents Wilson and De Valera.

OIL FIELD WORKERS ARE WELL ORGANIZED

Special to The Times. FORT WORTH, Oct. 17.—J. A. Wilson, general organizer for the International Association of Oil Field, Gas Well and Refinery Workers of America, declares that 98 per cent of the oil workers of the Louisiana and Southeast Texas fields have been organized.

MINERAL WELLS PEOPLE TO WORK WEST ROADS

Special to The Times. MINERAL WELLS, Oct. 17.—More than 700 citizens of Mineral Wells and adjoining towns have signed a list pledging themselves to work the road from this city to the Stephens county line, October 23. More than 100 trucks have been pledged for the work and the large oil companies operating in this field also have signified their intention to participate in the road improvement work.

DECLARES 200 ILLEGAL TILLS OPERATING IN THIS STATE

Special to The Times. DALLAS, Oct. 17.—Rev. Atticus Webb, superintendent of the Anti-Saloon League of Texas is authoritative in the assertion that more than 200 illicit stills are operating in various parts of Texas. He says the price of "white" friends are paying for quaffs of the liquor is remarkably high. He has authorized the sending of two well known speakers over the state to tell the people of the need of encouraging the movement for its support and for world-wide prohibition.

All He Asked.

They were standing outside the front door, having a final chat after his evening call. He was leaning against the door post, talking in low, dulcet tones. She was listening and gazing rapturously into his eyes. Suddenly she turned around. The door had opened, and there, just inside, stood her father, clad in a dressing gown.

"My dear father," she asked, "what is the matter?"

Her father ignored the question. "John," he said, addressing the young man, "you know I've never complained about your staying late, and I'm not going to complain now; but for goodness sake stop loitering against the bell-push. Other people want some sleep, even if you don't." London Tit-Bits.

AUSTIN, Oct. 17.—Of the sixty-nine convicts for whom recommendations were made to the governor by the prison commission for freedom the state executive Monday granted fifty-one pardons. Twenty-one were tuberculars, who will be taken care of by relatives who interceded for their release. The others are known as "friendless."

HICKMAN REALTY COMPANY HONEST RELIABLE COURTEOUS

As stated yesterday, our business is: Locating and selling of Business Opportunities in Ranger. Exchanging Royalties in or near proven territory for good agricultural lands. Buying and selling Oil Leases, especially in extensions and is unproven but promising fields. So far our principal work has been on Business Opportunities, of say, $1,000 up, in our been the listing of wonderful opportunities for money-making investments, figures in our offices city—growing returns almost beyond belief, but actual facts, as can be shown by figures in our offices. We have some valuable royalties listed and are getting in touch with outside interests to secure the farm lands. If you are interested in an exchange of this kind, see or write us. We are just beginning to get in line for the handling of Oil Leases, as above indicated, and will be pleased to see you in our office, or hear from you by mail, if interested. We are asked repeatedly if we will handle residence property. Agents experienced in conditions here say we will not have time—taking on too much. Wish we could—as for example, this: One of Ranger's best and most reliable business men has given us the opportunity to sell his home. One of the most modern and up-to-date in our city, that combines three qualities not always found: Close in; price not inflated, and very reasonable terms. We have agreed to handle this for him and if interested in such an unexcelled opportunity to get a good home, see us at our offices, which are Suite No. 5, Orendorf Building, upstairs Corner of Pine and Main streets. OUR OFFICERS

GROVER HARTT, the President and General Manager, is general manager, vice president and trustee of the Mary Elizabeth Oil Co.

J. R. Nichols, the Vice President and Treasurer, is president of the Mary Elizabeth Oil Co., and the City Attorney of Ranger, Texas.

EARL ADAMS JR., the Secretary, was formerly District Attorney for the Third District, and one of the most highly respected members of the East Texas bar.

OUR AIM

The officers of this company have two very definite aims: (1) To give a "square deal" to both the stockholders and the public, and (2) to establish a Large, Successful and Permanent Oil Company to engage in all phases of the oil business.

OUR HOLDINGS

Lease No. 1.—In the very heart of the Desdemona Field, we have two acres on which to drill our first well. There is large production on every side; for instance, the Duke Dome and the Ranger-Rock Island are both reported as 4,000-barrel wells. We can hardly fail to get oil in our very first well.

Lease No. 2.—On the northeast side of the field we have a five-acre tract that has production on three sides of it.

Lease No. 3.—Recent excitement in Desdemona has been somewhat in the west and northwest. There we also have five acres. The Lewis well, recently of so much interest and excitement, has carried production beyond this tract.

Lease No. 4.—Then, in the Southwest part on of the wonderful field of Desdemona we have two and one-half acres near the Eppies, which has been producing for some time. But the Magnolia Oil Co. has just brought in its Carruth well, almost adjacent to this tract. This makes it a lease of unmeasured possibilities.

Lease No. 5.—In Young County we have 21 acres. This county has large development going on, and it lies largely in the Pennsylvania formation. It is also almost on a straight line between Burk Burnett and Ranger.

Lease No. 6.—No one doubts any longer that Hardeman County will be a great oil field. Every oil report gives something new and of interest there. Our lease there covers 20 acres.

Lease No. 7.—The same may be said of Wilbarger county. Several wells there have a showing of oil, proving beyond all doubt that there is some oil in that section. We have 30 acres of it.

Lease No. 8.—The Geologists are expecting a great oil field now, more than anywhere else, in the Panhandle. One of the places there of greatest excitement and actual development at present is in Potter County, where gas wells have been discovered sufficiently large to supply Amarillo and other cities.

It is generally understood, where there is gas, oil is near, in fact, the Haggood well in the northern part of Potter county, is now standing 200 feet in oil and will undoubtedly be a producer before this article is read by the public.

VALUE OF INVESTMENT

"One Good Investment Is Worth a Lifetime of Labor." The above quotation is accredited to one of the greatest financiers this country has ever known. Why spend the better part of your life in hard labor when the opportunity of winning independence lies before you?

PLAN OF MANAGEMENT

Our general plan of management will be about as follows:

- 1. To drill well No. 1 as soon as possible.
2. To be economical.
3. To drill out our leases if oil is found in paying quantities.
4. If oil is not found then it will be our plan to drill somewhere else in proven territory.
5. To do all of our early operations only in proven territory.
6. And since this company is being organized for a definite purpose of making a large and successful oil company, it will be our purpose to construct refiners, pipe lines, etc., ultimately, when the company will justify such undertakings.
7. Drilling will start just as soon as enough stock has been sold to guarantee the completion of the first well. Action will be had from the very start. Only $300,000 of stock will be sold at par value. Treasury stock will not draw dividends.

We have some acreage in this county, which will be in the very heart of the oil field if oil is discovered. Furthermore, just over the line, in Moore County, we also have a large block of acreage, which is well located with reference to the Haggood well, and which alone would make the company immensely rich if it proves to be a gusher.

Lease No. 9.—All the world knows about the great fields of Humble, Beaumont, Sour Lake and Goose Creek. In order that our Company might enjoy the benefit of the fabulous wealth gushing from the bosom of the earth there, we secured 320 acres in Liberty County near the immortal Goose Creek Gushers. Recently six great gushers were drilled in that county.

Lease No. 10.—In Nolan County, there are sixteen wells. One is now down 2,700 feet, with a showing of oil. Two others have drilled more than 1,200 feet deep. In that county, also, we have a well located block of acreage that will yield great wealth for the Company, if these other wells prove to be gushers.

Lease No. 11.—Runnels County has some shallow production already and many deep tests are being made, and there we also have acreage.

Other Leases.—In fact, we have more than 4,000 Acres in the following counties, in addition to four well located blocks in the proven field of Desdemona as shown by map: Baylor, Brazoria, Carson, Childress, Coke, Dallas, Eastland, Hamilton, Hardeman, Hartley, Haskell, Houston, Hudspeeth, Hutchinson, Jones, King, Knox, Lampasas, Liberty, Mills, McCulloch, Moore, Nolan, Panola, Parker, Peecos, Potter, Reagan, Runnels, Rusk, Shelby, Tom Green, Wilbarger.

WHY A MILLION-DOLLAR CAPITAL? SOME people ask why the capitalization is so large. The answer is clear to those of experience. First, it reduces the risk to a minimum, by making it possible to drill more than one well. A small company risks everything in one well. If it is dry the company is hopelessly lost. But with a large capitalization, many wells can be drilled. Failure at any one place means little. And, so far as the dividends are concerned, they will be just as large, for if a small company can drill one well, the large company can drill many wells. So, in all, the large capital simply reduces the company to a more solid business basis.

Never before in the history of an oil field did a company have a better chance for an oil well on the first effort. Look at the map and you will see that our first drilling site is absolutely surrounded by production. No one could guarantee an oil well. That element of risk is all that makes it possible for anyone to buy stock in the company.

OUR CHANCE Those who take a chance in these oil fields almost always succeed. It was not the case formerly, and that very fact is keeping many people from participating in the enormous profits of the oil business today. This business has been reduced to a solid business basis. Honest management, abundant energy and good judgment are the three essential qualities. As to whether the officers of this company have these qualities, you are respectfully referred to the stockholders of the Mary Elizabeth Oil Co.

T-P'S NO. 15 ON NORWOOD A PRODUCER

Texas Pacific Coal & Oil company's G. E. Norwood tract has another producing well, No. 15, not yet a completion, but making a good flow of oil ten feet into the sand. Top of the black line was 3,423, top of the pay 3,433 feet and the well is drilling ahead. The oil, as yet, is being run into tanks receiving production of other wells, so no accurate gauge has been made. Recent reports place the well as high as 800 barrels. Office reports have it 500 barrels. This is the third producer on the tract in ten days, No. 13 being a 1,250 barrel completion, No. 14 a lime well, making 400 barrels and regarded as a temporary completion because of heavy gas pressure. No. 15 is drilling ahead, as the sand is twenty to thirty feet thick on the tract. No. 15 is on offset to Humble Oil and Refining company's Fargason No. 4, which is about ready to pay off. Fargason No. 4, is at the northwest corner of that tract, is at 3,433 feet, waiting for a jolt to loosen up the pay dirt. It will be shot early next week. Prairie Oil & Gas company turned in two wells on the E. Koper lease at the close of the week. They are No. 9, with pay from 3,433 to 3,560 feet and making 130 barrels and No. 11, with pay from 3,430 to 3,470, making about 450 barrels. F. Brewer No. 2, and William Meyers No. 3, of the T-P are little wells, which will be put on the pump. The first was a oil well, shot from 3,276 feet and jarred in production again. The Meyers well was drilled to 3,390. No. 9, of the Butler tract of the T-P will be producing soon. It is in the black line at 3,415 feet and may expect the pay from 3,527 to 3,535 feet. H. Banley No. 3, of the Sinclair is regarded as a completion, though still in the line, at 3,370 feet. It is about a 750 barrel well.

RETURN OF RYS. IS ADVANCED ANOTHER STEP

WASHINGTON, Oct. 18.—Permanent railroad legislation was advanced a step today, the senate interstate commerce committee completing work on its bill providing for return of the railroads to private ownership and operation under strict government supervision and with drastic provisions against strikes and lockouts. The bill is to be reported out early next week and placed in position for debate immediately after disposal of the treaty with leaders planning its passage next month. Anti-strike provisions of the bill provide a fine of $500 or six months' imprisonment, or both, for railroad employees or officials or others convicted of participation in or aiding strikes or lockouts. In its principal features the final committee bill is similar to the original Commerce draft. It provides for return of the roads, within thirty days after enactment, to private ownership and control under regulation of the interstate commerce commission and a new federal transportation board. Creation of not less than fifteen or more than twenty-five competitive regional railroad systems by the transportation board is proposed and the interstate commerce commission is authorized to fix rates which will make certain a return of at least 5% per cent on the actual value of the railroad in the regional system plus one-half of 1 per cent for improvement. Expenses above 5 per cent to be divided between the carriers and the board.

IRELAND AGAIN FIGURES IN THE TREATY DEBATE

WASHINGTON, Oct. 18.—Treaty debate in the senate drifted back to the Irish question today, Senator Walsh (Democrat, Montana), starting a sharp discussion of the subject by calling up his resolution to declare that the United States should bring the question of Irish freedom before the League of Nations as soon as it becomes a member. Senator Walsh declared the United States would be responding to the overwhelming sentiment of the American people if it declared in the league for Irish independence. Senator Furness (Republican, Pennsylvania), asked whether the United States could not do more for Ireland if it had six votes, as has the British empire, in the league assembly, and Senator Walsh replied in the negative, declaring if action were taken the decision must be unanimous.

ILL. SENATOR'S ELECTION TO BE INVESTIGATED

WASHINGTON, Oct. 18.—The Department of Justice announced tonight that after "careful investigation it had decided to bring before a federal grand jury in Grand Rapids, fraud charges arising out of the nomination and election of Truman H. Newberry as United States senator for Michigan. The action is based, the announcement states, on complaints filed with the department "and also public charges of fraud and corruption" made by the lieutenant governor of Michigan and others. Henry Ford of Detroit, defeated candidate, filed a petition with the Senate at the last session contesting Senator Newberry's right to his seat in that body. A resolution proposing a Senate investigation was introduced by Senator Pomerehne, (Democrat, Ohio) and referred to the committee on privileges and elections, but no action was taken. Senator Pomerehne reintroduced his resolution when the present special session convened but action was deferred. Attorneys for Mr. Ford have been in conference recently with Chairman Rillingham, (Republican, Vermont) of the committee on privileges and elections and it is understood the Pomerehne resolution is to be taken up for action very soon.

NO RELIEF FROM SUGAR FAMINE IS LOOKED FOR

WASHINGTON, Oct. 18.—No relief from the present sugar situation is in sight and the probabilities are that conditions will be worse, says the senate agricultural committee today. Dr. Abner Taylor of the department of agriculture. Consumption has increased about 13 per cent compared with last year. Dr. Taylor said, due largely to increased manufacture of candy and soft drinks, to satisfy a demand for sugar from prohibition. Other causes given by the witness were a rebound from wartime restrictions and extravagance due to present prosperity.

BARGAINING AGREEMENT IS REACHED

WASHINGTON, Oct. 18.—A tentative agreement on collective bargaining was reached by the general committee of the national industrial conference tonight after an all-day session. Committee members will consult with their respective groups tomorrow and final action on framing a report to the conference will be taken by the general committee tomorrow night. The committee agreement was reached by taking the declaration of the public and labor groups as a basis and adding to a sentence recognizing the right of wage earners to organize "in trade and labor unions" the words, "shop and other industrial associations."

LONDON DOUBTS KRONSTADT HAS BEEN CAPTURED

LONDON, Oct. 18.—The report of the surrender of the fortress of Kronstadt is regarded in private military and naval circles here as merely "intelligent anticipation." The admiralty informed the Associated Press this morning that absolutely no report had been received there regarding an allied bombardment of Kronstadt. Since a British admiral commands the allied operations there it was pointed out it would be obvious that official notification of such an event would have been forwarded to London. The view of military experts in London is that in the event of the fall of Petrograd the Bolsheviks in Kronstadt would be virtually cut off and compelled to surrender.

WILSON HAS A GOOD DAY AND DRS. HOPEFUL

WASHINGTON, Oct. 18.—President Wilson rested comfortably today and his physicians were increasingly hopeful that the prostate complication which has retarded his recovery would not necessitate an operation. Aside from the prostate complication the president's nervous condition was not expected by his physicians to permit his return to his desk at an early date and the rest treatment prescribed will be continued.

NO OFFICIAL REPORT ON FALL OF PETROGRAD

PARIS, Sunday, Oct. 19.—No official confirmation has been received here of the report that Petrograd has fallen, apart from a private message to a Stockholm newspaper, reporting from "an authoritative source" that cavalry of the northwestern Russian army have captured Petrograd.

MARTIAL LAW OFF AT CORPUS CHRISTI TODAY

CORPUS CHRISTI, Oct. 18.—Corpus Christi passes from martial law at noon tomorrow for the first time since the storm of September 14, when W. D. Cope, adjutant general of Texas, released control of the district to the civil authorities. Reports will remain under martial law at the request of its mayor. "Corpus Christi is one of the most healthful cities in Texas today," said Dr. W. D. Goddard, state health officer, in leaving for Austin tonight. "There has been absolutely no contagious disease as a result of the storm."

ACTIVITIES OF EX-NEWSPAPER MAN TO BE PROBED SOON

WASHINGTON, Oct. 18.—Investigation by the senate judiciary committee of the activities of Robert A. Minor, a former newspaper correspondent who was arrested at Coblenz on charges of distributing Bolshevik propaganda among American troops, was authorized today by the senate. Adoption of a resolution by Senator King of Utah, Democrat, followed failure of the war department to reply to two resolutions by the senator asking for information regarding Minor.

CLAIM CAPTURE OF KIEV

LONDON, Oct. 18.—A Bolshevik communiqué claims the capture of Kiev, a railway junction forty miles southwest of Kiev on the road to Odessa. An earlier Bolshevik announcement reported that Kiev itself was captured by a surprise attack. General Denikin has not reported the loss of this town, one of the most important in Southern Russia.

Shallow Pay In Stephens Looking Good

Caddy No. 6 of the Sinclair Gulf Oil company is furnishing an interesting angle on development of the south Cardin field. It found a fifty foot sand at 2,300 feet with strong showing and was given a jolt of nitro Saturday evening. The regular pay in that territory runs around 3,400 feet and no shallow producer has been developed in that section. The Mrs. B. F. Coady tract, 640 acres, lies two miles southwest of Caddo and about a mile northwest of the orphan asylum lands. It adjoins the famous W. F. Carey No. 1 of the Mid Kansas Oil and Gas company, which was the first walking well to attract attention of Stephens county. No. 6 Coady was shut from 2,261 to 2,291 with 120 quarts of dark Saturday and cleaned itself. The bailer was not run Saturday night, but it is thought that developments Sunday will prove it a good well.

NO HOPE YET TO AVERT BIG COAL STRIKE

WASHINGTON, Oct. 18.—There seems little hope tonight of averting the strike of half a million bituminous coal miners called for Nov. 1. After a series of conferences with labor leaders here and telephone talks with others in the central coal territory, John L. Lewis, president of the United Mine Workers, announced that the miners would go out unless all demands, including the five-day week, were granted. The operators, standing by their decision not to consider any proposal locking to a shorter week schedule and refusing to open negotiations unless the strike order was withdrawn, charged that the miners were trying to freeze the country into submission by insisting upon acceptance of "impossible demands."

SAYS FLETCHER KEPT GUNS FROM GOING TO MEX.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 18.—Henry T. Fletcher, American ambassador to Mexico, "flatly refused to recommend or sanction the shipment of any munitions or rifles to Carranza," according to a letter from H. E. Sutton of the American Gun Company, sent today to the senate committee investigating relations between the United States and Mexico. Sutton wrote about a conference he had and a senator, and a representative had on October 9 with Secretary Lansing and Ambassador Fletcher regarding the shipment of 800 guns from New York to Carranza, a license for which had been issued by the War Trade Board. After deciding that he had assured the government officials that Carranza had arranged to receive the guns of the license and that there was no danger of their falling into hands of bandits, Sutton wrote: "I was most shyly supported by the gentlemen accompanying me, and where Lansing might have permitted the shipment of 800 guns Mr. Fletcher effectively stopped the shipment of this small lot by ridiculing the ability of Carranza forces to protect the shipment and stated that the guns were most apt to be used against Americans rather than safeguarding American lives in Mexico. Mr. Fletcher's talk certainly killed the chance of an immediate shipment." H. T. Oliver, president of the Olive American Trading Company, at Eagle Pass, Tex., also told the committee Mr. Fletcher had blocked shipment of guns and munitions to Mexico at other times.

GERMAN TROOPS WILL EVACUATE ALL OF BALTIC

PARIS, Oct. 18.—General Mangin, the French member of the inter-Allied commission to superintend the evacuation of the Baltic states, by the troops of General von der Goltz will leave Paris immediately for the Baltic, it was declared today by the Supreme Council. Brig. Gen. Sherwood A. Cheney, U. S. A., and representatives of the other great powers will follow in a few days. There is great uneasiness in Paris over the Baltic situation, the continuing menace of German troops and the increasing possibility that Petrograd may soon change hands and thus put all northern Russia into the same uncontrolled state which prevails in the Baltic provinces. This is feared, would afford a wonderful opportunity for a commander of the type of General von der Goltz, who has demonstrated unusual strength as a leader of guerrilla warfare such as that now common in northern Russia, and who has surrounded himself with a large army of fearless adventurers of a similar character, to show greater power of organization in soviet Russia than in the Russian leaders who are now pressing on toward Petrograd and Moscow, and might turn the overthrow of Bolshevik into a decided German victory.

MAN SENTENCED WHO SOUGHT WILSON'S LIFE

LEAVENWORTH, Kans., Oct. 18.—P. E. Pierre, a member of the Industrial Workers of the World, was found guilty by a jury in the federal court. He was sentenced to serve 3 1/2 years in the penitentiary and upon his giving notice of appeal a bond was fixed at $25,000. The verdict was reached in 30 minutes.

PERSONNEL OF BRITISH NAVY TO BE REDUCED

PORTSMOUTH, Eng., Oct. 18.—The personnel of the British navy will be reduced to 50,000 men when the United States ratifies the peace treaty it was stated by the Evening News today on what it declared to be authoritative information. The number of marines, it is declared, will be cut to 10,000. The pre-war strength of the British navy personnel as shown by the figures of 1914 was 114,236 officers and men. The number of marines in the same year was 18,042.

Attempt to Bribe Jailer to Free Man at Memphis

MEMPHIS, Oct. 18.—Extra precautions to guard against possible attempts to liberate Allen McNamara, recently convicted on a charge of criminal assault and held in the county jail here pending disposition of a motion for a new trial, were taken today with an announcement by Sheriff O. H. Perry that an unidentified man had offered one of the jailers $1,500 to allow McNamara to escape.

HENDERSON, Oct. 17.—Harris, editor of the Rusk News and mayor of Henderson, has been appointed receiver of the Henderson Railway by District Judge C. H. Field. Mr. Harris has control of the line.

DEMobilizing FRENCH ARMY IS COMPLETED

PARIS, Oct. 18.—The demobilization of the French army, it is announced, is virtually completed, 101,000 officers and 4,222,000 men having been mustered out.

TRANS-ANDINE RAILROAD OPEN; WAS SNOWBOUND

BUENOS AIRES, Oct. 18.—The Trans-Andine railroad announced today that the route was open for traffic after six months' interruption on account of the heavy snows in the Andes, during which time few trains had been run. The first through train across the continent will leave here Sunday.

Boll Weevil Has Been Found in N. Carolina, Report

RALEIGH, Oct. 18.—The boll weevil has made its appearance in North Carolina, it was announced at the state department of agriculture here today. It was found at Taber, Anderson county, which lies few miles from Columbus county. This was said to be the farthest north the weevil has been discovered.

MAN IN UNIFORM TO BE PUNISHED IF JOINS RIOT

WASHINGTON, Oct. 18.—Any person participating in a riot or other public disturbance while clothed in an army or navy uniform will be subject to criminal prosecution under a resolution introduced today by Senator New (Republican, Indiana).

MERCIER GAVE ALL HIS MONEY TO HELP POOR

NEW YORK, Oct. 18.—A new light was thrown today upon the memorable sacrifices which Cardinal Mercier has made for his fellow countrymen, with the announcement of the formation of a non-sectarian committee of fifty prominent citizens of New York, whose purpose it is to raise a testimonial fund as a practical expression of their regard for the heroic prelate. The announcement of the formation of the committee has revealed the fact that Cardinal Mercier had given away in the name of charity practically his entire resources.

PUBLIC POLICY PLAN IS TABOO IN ILLINOIS

SPRINGFIELD, Oct. 18.—The Illinois supreme court declined today to perpetuate an injunction to prevent a vote November 4 on "public policy" introduced by the request of its mayor. The initiative and referendum "get-away and public ownership of public ownership of public utilities. Secretary of State Emerson proceeded at once to certify the question to county clerks.

CUBA REFUSES TO TAKE PART IN LABOR MEET

HAVANA, Oct. 18.—A meeting attended by thirty labor union delegates here today voted to refuse to send a representative to the Washington labor conference. It was satisfied that a manifesto explaining the reasons for the refusal would shortly be issued in the Spanish and English languages.

Daily Paper to Be Published at Sweetwater Soon

Special to The Times.
SWEETWATER, Oct. 18.—Arrangements have been made for a daily paper at Sweetwater, the publication of which will begin within about ten days. It will be edited by local men and published by The Reporter Publishing company. The business men are greatly interested in having a first class daily newspaper at this place and are interesting a number of outside newspaper men in the project.

WOMEN TO TAKE HAND IN CRUSHING PROFITEER

LONDON, Oct. 18.—Women are to have an important part in enforcing the anti-profiteering act, under investigation for its enforcement issued by Sir Auckland Geddes, local authorities in England, Scotland and Wales are instructed to appoint local committees. Two members of which must be women, to investigate all complaints arising from the sale at retail of the articles to which the anti-profiteering act may be applied, from time to time, by the board of trade.

Complaints must be heard in public except in particular cases, and books or documents must be treated as confidential if the owner so desires.

The committee may either dismiss the complaint, or if satisfied the profit is unjust may require the seller to repay the amount paid in excess. The committee also may issue the arrangement of the profiteer in court, where he will be liable upon conviction to a fine of not more than $1,000 or imprisonment not exceeding three months, or both.

COTTON SELLS FOR 35 CENTS A POUND AT STAMFORD

Special to The Times.
STAMFORD, Oct. 18.—Cotton was sold for 35 cents a pound here Wednesday. This is the highest price ever paid for cotton here. Farmers are selling as fast as the cotton is picked. Picking is again in progress after a short delay on account of yesterday's rain.

Little difficulty is experienced in securing cotton pickers. Applications from all parts of the states of Oklahoma and New Mexico are constantly coming to the Chamber of Commerce regarding cotton picking here.

STORING OF WET HAY CAUSING SOME FIRES.

Special to The Times.
AUSTIN, Oct. 18.—Storing wet hay and feedstuffs in barns is causing a number of fires according to fire commissioners. The latest case of spontaneous combustion caused comes from Hondo, Medina where farmers have been in the habit of storing wet feedstuffs in bays.

SCRIPTURE

Genesis 1:1-7.
In the beginning God created the heaven and the earth.
And the earth was without form, and void; and darkness was upon the face of the deep. And the Spirit of God moved upon the face of the waters.
And God said, Let there be light; and there was light.
And God saw the light that it was good; and God divided the light from the darkness.
And God called the light Day, and the darkness he called Night. And the evening and the morning were the first day.
And God said, Let there be a firmament in the midst of the waters, and let it divide the waters from the waters.
And God made the firmament, and divided the waters which were under the firmament from the waters which were above the firmament; and it was so.

Franklin Jumps From War to Peace

International News Service.
NEW YORK, Oct. 18.—Lewis B. Franklin has stepped into a grim war to sweet peace in one stroke, and this may be accepted literally, for a man who a few months ago was a power in putting across America's five mighty Liberty Loans, has now undertaken the task of organizing and managing the nation-wide Every Member Campaign for the Protestant Episcopal Church. And the same spirit that prompted him to donate his time to his country has caused Mr. Franklin to take up the cudgels in the interests of practical religion.

Lewis B. Franklin comes to the church campaign direct from Wall Street. Secretary of the Treasury McAdoo went to "the Street" to get Franklin when the nation entered the war. There, where a "wag" has said the prevailing odor is that of burning money, his birthplace, after receiving a New York education, he began his career in 1885 in the banking house of Sweeney, Track & Co., with which he served a novitiate of twelve years, resigning in 1897 to accept the position of manager of the bond department of the Guaranty Trust Company, of which two years later, he was made vice-president, in charge of its investment department. When the Investment Bankers' Association was organized in 1912, Mr. Franklin was made a member of its first board of governors and successively served as vice-president and president. Then the war came and the summons to serve in Washington.

What Franklin accomplished as director of the war loan organization is part of the nation's glorious history and need not be repeated here. He remained in the Government service until the Victory loan went over the top with flying colors.

Invited, Mr. Franklin made an exhaustive study of the plan and purpose of that Every Member Campaign, and as a result he went to the campaign headquarters, took off his coat and said:

"I want to help. Put me to work."
And as it has come to pass that this Wall Street financier, his great task for the Government discharged, has returned to the realm of peace, he has entered the fight destined as a business man, and as such has announced that he will push the record to success with the same vigor he would display in forcing his company to the front line trenches of the financial struggle.

DISAPPEARANCE OF GENERAL JADWIN IS CAUSING CONCERN

General Edgar Jadwin.

The disappearance of General Jadwin is causing considerable anxiety in Washington and army circles. After the Morganthau commission, of which he was a member, had finished its work he was instructed by the American peace delegates to proceed to Kiev to report conditions in the Ukraine. Lieut. H. A. Rowe of the British military control office at Warsaw accompanied him. Neither has been heard from since. It is reported that he was captured and shot. General Jadwin was construction engineer of the Panama canal under General Goethals and during the war was in command of the service of supplies for the U. S. army.

RUSS REDS IN TROUBLE ON THREE WIDELY SEPARATED FRONTS

1—Admiral Kolchak's offensive on the Siberian front, begun on September 1, has not only stayed the advance of the Bolsheviks, but has rallied them back in places. Fifteen thousand prisoners, 100 machine guns, and twenty-one cannon have been taken. The battle line touches the Tobol river fifteen miles south of Yaluterevsk and eastward to about seventy miles of Ishim, back to the Tobol river, crosses the Trans-Siberian railway at Makhli, and then bears away to the southeast. An advance of over seventy miles on the whole front has been made since September 1. On that date the battle line was at the Ishim river.

Rail Experts Argue Problem

International News Service.
INDIANAPOLIS, Oct. 19.—The Plumb plan for nationalization of the railroads, projects for the return of America's rail carriers to private ownership, and the critical situation presented to telegraph and telephone companies as a result of the so-called Burlington rates, are among some of the most important problems which will be threshed out by the National Association of Railways and Utilities Commissioners, which is in session here in its thirty-first annual convention.

merce, have been urgently requested to attend and it is expected one or both of these experts will address the convention.

Many subjects of vital importance to the public utilities of America, it will be discussed in addition to those enumerated above. Public utilities have been wrong in any respect, and it was pointed out that virtually every branch of industry has been permitted to increase the price of their products to meet advanced wages and cost of raw materials. This condition has been denied the public utilities and many of these are on the verge of bankruptcy as a result of the increased cost of raw materials. The National Association of Railways and Public Utility Commissioners comprises all railroad and utility companies in the United States, Hawaii and the Philippine Islands, and this is the first time in years a convention has been held outside ness and safety operation will be discussed from many angles and it is likely a committee will be appointed to draft such legislation and present it to the several states assemblies and congress. In addition to these, a mass of technical problems must be threshed out and it is likely the convention will extend into extra sessions.

John W. McArdle of the Indiana public service commission welcomed the delegates to this city in a short address, and Gov. James P. Goodrich and Mayor Charles W. Jewett greeted them in the name of the state and the city, respectively. Among the other prominent men who will have spoken to the convention or will deliver addresses are Clyde B. Atchison, chairman of the interstate commerce commission, and Max Thelan, director of service for the federal railway administration. The delegates will be entertained at a banquet by the Indianapolis Chamber of Commerce.

The association's officers are: Charles E. Elmquist, Minnesota, president; Charles M. Gonder, Georgia, first vice president; Joseph B. East of Washington, Massachusetts, second vice president; James B. Walker, New York, secretary; L. S. Boyd, Washington, D. C., assistant secretary. E. L. Lewis and Paul V. Haynes of the Indiana commission are members of important committees of the national organization.

PLEADINGS FOR "BIG DICK" AND "PHOEBE" BEING COPIES

International News Service.
KANSAS CITY, Oct. 18.—When the pleadings of crap shooters can be heard for two blocks it's time for the police to step in. This, at least, is the way Kansas City patrolmen looked at it early the other morning when they heard calls for "little Joe" and "Phoebie" coming from the upper floors of No. 901 East Eighteenth street. The patrolmen did "step in" and as a result forty-one nerves, including many women, appeared in South Municipal Court the next morning. The pleadings for "Little Joe" and "Phoebie" were released by Judge Fleming, but James Evans, the game keeper, drew a fine of $100.

OSAGE INDIANS DREW OVER $10,000,000 ROYALTIES.

International News Service.
PONCA CITY, Okla., Oct. 18.—The Osage Indians have received their fifth annuity payment this year and it is understood two more will be forthcoming prior to January 1, 1920. Thus far in 1919 each of 2,300 Osage on the citizenship roll has received a total of $3,300, a grand total of approximately $7,600,000. In 1918 the Osages drew over $10,000,000 in royalties.

STRAWN GETS READY FOR NEW SEWER SYSTEM

Special to The Times.
STRAWN, Oct. 17.—Earl T. Noland has been appointed city engineer for this city to prepare plans and specifications for the proposed sewer system to be installed with money voted in a recent bond issue. Considerable sidewalk construction is going on and preparations are being made to pave a number of streets. Construction is being held because they are filled with the warm air from the lungs of the person who blows them. They are therefore lighter in comparison with the colder air that surrounds them.

AIN'T IT FUNNY?

The people of the oil fields resent the assertion of certain elevated railroad officials that the Eastland county oil fields are to be of such brief duration as not to warrant extraordinary extension of railway service.

The "emergency" tale does not sit well on the minds of persons who know the Ranger field. If the oil companies and the people create the business the railroad companies should make it possible to care for it.

The Harmon and Kell interests are investing hundreds of thousands of dollars in the country which can never expect to be a great agricultural section.

BLAME THE REPUBLICANS. The fondest hopes of the "guzzlers" that there will be an "open season" between the termination of wartime prohibition and the starting of that awful "desertlike drought" on January 16, 1920, have been cast to the destructive winds of uncertainty.

Some of the Anti-Prohibitionists have not yet blamed the Republican senators for causing the present "drought." If they'd quit quibbling and pass the covenant and ratify the peace treaty with Germany and Austria, old "booze" would be permitted to come in for the "season" to bind them in thrall.

ENMITY REDES ISSUE. The rancor against Wilson by a few flinty heads in the senate manifests itself unconsciously at times so as to explicitly reveal to the constituents that it is not the League of Nations which inspires their ire so frequently and continuously, but Wilson the greatest president the nation has ever had.

ASSIMILATE HIM. Startling revelation is made in the number of illiterates employed in the large iron and steel factories of the North. In some instances less than twenty-five per cent speak English sufficiently to make known their wants.

WHY NOT HERE? In England a campaign for the League of Nations has been inaugurated with the most successful results. In the finale it appears that America will have to institute a similar campaign to let those bemo-headed senators in Washington know that the people, and not they, rule.

WHY THIS STILLNESS? Neither Democrats nor Republicans have yet cleaned their August stables and groomed the racers for the fall pennant of 1920. There is an awful suspense. The hull before the storm is most ominous.

PREVENT FIRES. State Fire Insurance Commission is every town to eliminate fire insurance specially at a time when the loss of property and buildings is a product of the oil which cannot be moved because of the freight congestion. The Times has observed in many West Texas towns this year a reckless disregard for safety of property from fire. The spring and summer rains have produced rank crops of inflammable weeds which negligent and ignorant city folk failed to cut when green. These offer the best possible chance for serious fires. In Ranger there are five examples, the citizens should remove at once. With our fire record this year—excepting the two-block catastrophe this spring—has been phenomenal in its minimum of loss, we cannot tell when a great conflagration may overtake us. It is not because we have been careful that we have escaped some of the conflagrations that other towns have fallen heir to, but because no flames have started. We have an excellent fire department, an experienced fire chief and a corps of splendid fighters, but their labors can be reduced by removing all five hazards. A cure of prevention is worth a pound of cure.

POSTAL IMPROVEMENT. The postal service can be largely improved in Ranger by every person who is a patron of the office having his mail sent to his street address or place of abode. Just at present there is a very great rush at the two general delivery windows. Many persons must stand from fifteen to thirty minutes waiting to get at the window to inquire. The general delivery should be reserved for transients and those residing in oil camps where deliveries are not made. People in the city have the delivery service and they should use it. It is due to those who live outside the limit to have more expeditious service. Get your mail delivered.

THE NEW WELLS. The Ranger field showed the greatest increase in new production last week. In the face of spitting rains, untravelable roads and general cessation of development, its wells came in startlingly successively. They were of the old-time variety. They serve to prove that the territory about this city has just been scratched for oil and that the biggest development is yet in the future.

THE COAL STRIKE. With one of the most gigantic strikes in history in the making, ready to culminate November 1, the coal and fuel situation appears acute. Forty thousand counties of the miners have been notified to walk out on that date. In the meantime efforts at arbitration are being made, but to what avail it does not yet appear.

NEW PRINTING PROCESS. The Literary Digest appeared last week with eighty pages, all of the reading matter in which was transposed from the original typewritten manuscript, to zinc etching and published. The Los Angeles Times did the same stunt. The new method was resorted to get out the publications because of strikes of typesetters.

"BOB" MAY COME. "Bob" Jones, the noted Methodist evangelist, is expected to come to Ranger sometime this winter to tell us folks the error of our way in an old-time revival meeting. "Bob" has a remarkable record for successful evangelistic labor. If "Bob" comes, we promise to hear him.

Port Worth is erecting a "skyline" all its own. With the skyscrapers now being put up, the Pather City will outstrip everything else in the South for tall buildings. Chanting the congressional bene of retention has been chanted so much in Washington all the meat has been torn off.

Some men claim their stomachs are hurting when it's their consciences. One by one the "Lodgers" are leaving Hotel Covenant Opposition.

Here and There in Sinclair's Million-Dollar "Camp"

Photographs by Hippodrome Studio. Upper left—Dormitory for unmarried men of the Sinclair camp, complete with forty rooms, bath, dining room, kitchen and canteen. Upper center—The officers' quarters, for visiting officers of the Sinclair company and other officials who accompany the company while inspecting the Ranger fields. Lower right—Main offices.

By Larry Smits. There are incorporated towns in the United States—cities even—that are more modest in their equipment, in size and in utilities, than the Sinclair Oil colony a mile and a quarter east of Ranger. There are few cities, of any size, that can compare with the Sinclair colony in beauty of arrangement and completeness of detail. It is called a "camp." Eastern men of wealth make the same error in naming the places in the Adirondacks where they spend part of the summer. "How much is Sinclair Oil investing here?" I asked R. W. Hanna, superintendent of the "camp."

"It won't cost over a million," was his reply. Considering the limited funds, the company has done very well. Complete from spring water system, electric lighting, steam and gas heating and sewage disposal systems to bitulithic macadam roads of the highest type and club rooms that can compare with the Knickerbocker in New York or the A. C. in Chicago, it is a credit to the designing ability of H. C. Mayer, building construction superintendent, and to Mr. Hanna, who has completed the work that Mr. Mayer started.

From the side of the "camp" toward the Texas & Pacific tracks, an electric sign, twice as tall as the tallest Rangerite and several times as long will announce to those who pass on the Oil Special, when it runs, that this is the Ranger headquarters of "Sinclair Oils."

That will be the center of operations for the North Central Texas fields seems probable. Already it is the home of 392 men and without crowding, the fifteen acre, wire enclosed area, could take care of three times that number, or a little city of a thousand. Sinclair employes and Sinclair employees.

The color scheme throughout, in the exterior finish, is ivory and deep green. The green trim is carried to the asbestos shingles of the roofs and gives a pleasing uniform touch of color. The "camp" is relieved of any monotony by the variations in design to conform the different uses of buildings.

The main offices, ten in number, are housed in a long building facing the east, in front of which runs the broad main road, which, the day of our visit, was still in the crushed rock stage of construction. The rock came from the Sinclair's own crusher. Over it went a black coating of asphalt and crude oil and the finish, of finely powdered rock, after steam rolling makes a smooth and inviting roadway as a boulevard.

At the north end of the main offices is the officers' club, a building which will be used exclusively for visiting officers and guests of the company. It is to be furnished with six sleeping rooms, besides bathrooms, a living room, a dining room, a kitchen, a long sleeping porch into which 1 of the bed rooms open. It is of oldest country club size and nothing will be lacking to make the visiting higher-ups comfortable during their stay in Ranger. In fact, if the moguls of Sinclair Oils confine their visit to the Sinclair camp, they will carry back to the east and north a series of denials of the rough life of the oil fields.

The dormitory brings to mind at once the pretentious summer hotel, though in better taste than those edifices for the painless removal of surplus coin. It is a two-story structure, to house thirty-eight men, in commodious sleeping rooms. The similarity to the summer hotel ends with the exterior appearance. On the inside, it is a comfortable building, honey and inviting and provided with every convenience that the unmarried employe of Sinclair Oils could wish. The heating devices are ingenious, on the gas steam radiation plan. To all appearances, room radiators are very different from those in any steam heated building, but each radiator has its own self-contained boiler, regulated by an automatic valve, which turns down the gas when the temperature of the room reaches a certain point. One room may be heated singly, as each radiator is separately operated.

The Sinclair bachelors have bath-rooms of the sort that remove all doubt as to cleanliness being the lesser of two evils. The kitchen has built-in sink, refrigerator, and electric stove. And in the center of all is a club room thirty feet square, where piano and violas will keep the evenings from being too quiet. The dormitory, or bachelors hotel, is the only living quarters on "South" street, as the rule on which the camp is laid out, puts all the living quarters north of the Main street and all the industrial operations, warehouses, pipe racks and the like, south of Main.

It is north of Main that the married employes enjoy the domestic refinements of pretty little four and five room homes, each as cozy and inviting as its neighbor and each the despair of the Rangerite who sees them and then searches for their equivalent, for sale or rent, in the city. Every home has the same utilities as the dormitory—electric lights, sewer connections, gas-steam heating and dual water system. There are seventeen such homes.

That drinking water system, in itself, is worth more than a word. For drinking purposes, the water from Haganam springs on the Haganam property north of Sinclair, is pumped to a tank on top the wood and grass covered hill which is a fitting background for the "camp." From the tank, it flows by gravity to all the homes and living quarters.

The Sinclair well system, for water for other domestic uses, is supplemented by the city water system, supplied through meters. Dr. G. S. Gilpin, Sinclair physician, has a beautiful home, which in addition to living quarters for himself and family, houses his laboratory. Next door, a replica of the smaller homes is fitted as an emergency hospital, where injuries and minor illness are given instant and expert attention. A nurse and orderly are under the doctor's orders. Serious cases are taken to the Ranger general hospital for medical treatment.

In the mess hall, which later will be housed in a building next the dormitory, 500 meals are served daily. Not all of the men on the reservation take their meals there, though those who do maintain that the general dining room serves food that will compare with the best of the "home-cooked" variety that is served in any of the thirty-two families of the camp. The garage building, ample in size, in charge of R. M. Rider, will be followed by two others, each 96 by 50 feet and a paint shop, 150 by 50 and an auto repair shop 108 by 50 feet.

Officers of the company who make their headquarters in this camp are: John L. Wheatley, production superintendent; H. H. Hutchinson, assistant superintendent of production; H. L. Hensel, chief clerk; N. A. Spencer, superintendent of material and supplies, one of the first men on the ground; Stephen L. Hicks, engineer of streets, sewer and water system; W. E. Morrison, superintendent of the Sinclair pipe lines.

"Sinclair Oils," the name that will bring the tourist and oil men to see in passing, is a name that appears in thirty states in this country and in France and England where products of the Sinclair company are retailed. Nowhere does it grace in better establishment.

LOCAL LAWYER ROBBED; LOSES VALUABLES

R. C. McCoy an attorney of this city last night reported the loss of a steamer trunk containing two suits of clothes, ten or fifteen shirts, $20 worth of linen and $75 worth of silverware, also a suitcase with contents valued at $90.

The suitcases and trunk were stolen last night in Young addition.

SENATOR DAVIS ELKINS WEARS VICTORY MEDAL

WASHINGTON, Oct. 18.—While Davis Elkins, Senator from West Virginia, is listed as a "freshman Senator" in the present Congress, it is his second trip to the Senate. After the death of his father, the late Stephen Elkins, in 1910, Davis Elkins was sent to the Senate by the appointment of Governor Elkins. He is now in the Senate by the vote of the people of West Virginia.

Senator Elkins is one of the few Senators who can wear a victory medal and some gold chevrons. He is the only member of the Senate who served in France during the war with Germany. He was adjutant of the Thirtieth Infantry Brigade of the Seventh Division. Senator Elkins had previous war experience, however, for he left Harvard to enlist as private at the outbreak of the Spanish-American War and won a pair of bars before the struggle was over.

Senator Elkins is probably the best example of the maxim, "Silence is golden," that there is in the Senate. He has yet to make his maiden speech and he doesn't spend very many words in debate. In fact, he is so silent that it would be easy to forget that he is a member of the Senate if he were not so regular in his attendance.

War left its traces on the countenance of Senator Elkins, but the traces are those of a man in the heat of health. The Senator from West Virginia is as "hard as nails" and being of an athletic disposition he is correct and to remain so, because he spends every spare moment on the golf links or tennis courts.

By profession Senator Elkins is a banker. He is president of a bank in Morgantown, W. Va., and is vice-president of a large bank in the District of Columbia.

There is a good deal of error in Senator Elkins' name. The name of the Senator who watches him with interest for the hollow that is said to be his "Senatorial" voice all that he heard was a rather powerful fighter. He was born in Washington, D. C., January 24, 1874.

BRAZIL'S TRADE IS VERY ENCOURAGING

RIO DE JANEIRO, Oct. 17.—The foreign trade of Brazil during the first half of 1919 is regarded as very encouraging. An increased exportation of some of Brazil's staple commodities, such as coffee, rubber, sugar, chilled beef, hides, oil-bearing fruits, etc., as well as the high prices which these articles have commanded, leaves a very respectable trade balance. That Brazil has rapidly forged ahead commercially during the years of the war is generally conceded. The country's agricultural possibilities are as yet practically unexploited and the war acted as a stimulus toward ascertaining the wide range of its productivity.

Brazil has been able to export to Europe foodstuffs which a few years ago she was not able to supply to herself. In the same way animal husbandry is making strides which point to making meat products one of the country's chief exports. While Brazil has always been a cattle-producing country, it is only during the last three or four years that it has been looked upon as a world supplier, and even more recently several large modern packing houses have been constructed or projected. These are financed principally by American packing interests.

In the past year the federal government through the agricultural department, has devoted considerable attention to the importation and purchase of animals of pure blood. It is proposed to carry on an extensive educational campaign among the livestock breeders of Brazil to improve the standard of cattle. For this purpose the government intends to make liberal money appropriations.

David Raprell, commissioner of the United States department of agriculture, accompanied by an assistant, has arrived in Brazil to make an investigation of the cattle industry and give information to Brazilian cattle raisers regarding the importation of North American cattle.

WEST TEXAS WILL AID ROOSEVELT MEMORIAL

Special to The Times. SAN ANTONIO, Oct. 18.—West Texas is liberally rallying to the support of the Roosevelt memorial campaign, which will be started throughout the state during the week from October 20 to 27. According to field workers everybody seems to be glad to aid in this campaign to raise a fund to build a monument to the hero and to establish memorials.

TRAFFIC ON "SAUSAGE" LINE TO CORPUS RESUMED

Special to The Times. SAN ANTONIO, Oct. 18.—Traffic again is moving on the San Antonio, Valde & Gulf railroad, following a day of suspension of trains due to washouts forty miles south. Corpus Christi was again isolated, but now is reconnected with San Antonio by rail. R. C. Tarbutton, local representative of the S. A. U. & G. railway says work trains have practically completed repairs on his line.

STATE GETS CO-OPERATION IN ROAD CONSTRUCTION

AUSTIN, Oct. 17.—The state highway department is preparing a statement showing specific instances where shortage of cars at plants is interfering with the uniform building of roads. It is known that the government is much in favor of good roads work and has pledged the utmost co-operation will be given to transportation features, even to the extent of assigning cars to plants which have suffered from shortage.

METHODIST CONFERENCE OPENS NOVEMBER 4th

TERREL, Oct. 17.—The annual conference of the North Texas district of the Methodist church, South, will be held here beginning November 4. Bishop W. N. Ainsworth of Austin will preside. The opening sermon will be delivered by Rev. C. R. Flader on the evening of November 4.

NEW MEXICO EXPECTS TO BE BIG OIL PRODUCER

Special to The Times. ROSWELL, Oct. 17.—That New Mexico will become the scene of two or more famous oil fields in the near future is the opinion expressed among visiting oil men, many of whom are backing up their confidence by investing heavily here. The state has already realized $125,000 from sale of oil land leases.

INFLUENZA IS MAKING LITTLE HEADWAY AS YET

Special to The Times. AUSTIN, Oct. 18.—The state health department is receiving a number of reports of Spanish influenza making its appearance in various parts of the state, but so far the reports do not indicate that it has reached an epidemic state. No serious cases have been reported.

"Ballads of a Doughboy" Were Written by Ranger Oil Operator

Night on the St. Mihiel salient. Spatter of rain, the vivid horror of barrage ahead, around the crash and flash of "arrives." The hour—not long before the start of the drive.

A rain-coated officer turns to an orderly: "Is there a dug-out around here?" "Yes, sir," and the two make their way to the half-occlusion, away from the din and horror.

It was one of the "Ballads of a Doughboy," written by Lieut. Leon D. Brooks of the 312th infantry, A. E. F. Before the war Mr. Brooks was an oil operator in the Oklahoma field, through his home just prior to enlistment was in New York. He is now an operator in the Ranger field.

"When a Jerry's up, you douse your butt, And curse the air for its eyes. You know full well he'll drop his hell

"When you're the host at some listening post Through the star-shelled, murky night— It's not the fear of the Boche so near

"They may talk of tanks, tell of countless ranks Of motor planes and miles: Of the doughboy's grit and the things that fit

"I don't mind the digging of trenches, I don't mind the sleep in the rain; Gas holds no fear, whether mustard or tear—

"I don't mind the figures who don't know The place where I'll lay down to sleep.

"I don't mind the airplane bombing, I don't mind trench mortars or tanks. I'm not afraid of a Hun hand-grenade.

Or a charge over ditches and I don't mind the shrapnel or whizz-bangs, I don't mind the rumors they hatch— All would be well if I could but tell Where the cooties will next make me scratch.

"I don't mind the twenty-mile marches, I don't mind the pack on my back— The little tin hat or the rusty old gal.

Not all are in this lighter vein; some are more serious efforts, and these, too, went right to the hearts of the doughboys. There's a little one with good feeling:

"Do you remember the days of yore, mother, We spent in the long ago— How you sung me to sleep, mother, Oft in the twilight's glow?

"Dear God, I gave my all. I can hear you now, as your prayer goes on— 'Dear God, I gave my all.'

"There's peace again on earth, mother, And happy children play, Just as I did when a boy, mother, And you watched me from day to day.

"The ballads may later be placed on sale for the benefit of the American Legion, Ranger chapter, at the Ranger library.

Special to The Times.—Assurance has been given that the state railway commission by Regional Railway Director B. F. Bush that the railway administration will furnish the Sugarland railway with 125 cars between November 1 and 10 to handle the sugar cane crop to the Sugarland mills.

International News Service. LONDON, Oct. 18.—The classics of British golfdom, Vardon, Braid and Taylor, all failed to qualify for the final stages of the Walton Heath tournament.

SOONERS WIN BY 12-7 SCORE FROM TEXAS U.

By Associated Press
DALLAS, Oct. 18.—Forcing the University of Texas into a defensive fight almost at the start, the University of Oklahoma football eleven triumphed over the Longhorns, 12 to 7, in a southwestern conference game here today.
Marked principally by open-style play, much punting, several serious fumbles and considerable ineffective forward-passing, the contest produced little sensational individual work.

How World's Series Money Was Divided

The players of the Cincinnati team, by capturing the series, received $117,157.65 which divided into 22 1/2 shares netted each player $5,207.1.
The White Sox drew down $78,104.70 and each of the 24 players received $3,254.36.
The national commission obtained $72,241.40, or one-tenth of the total receipts of $722,414, taken in exclusive of war tax on all eight games. The total (for eight games) follows:
Attendance, 2,069,928.
Receipts (exclusive of war tax), $722,414.
Players' shares, $260,349.70.
Club's shares, $589,822.90.
Total for Cincinnati National, $117,157.65.
Each player (22 1/2 shares), $5,207.1.
Total for Chicago Americans, $78,104.70.
Each player (22 1/2 shares), $3,254.36.
Second teams of leagues: (New York Nationals and Cleve. Americans) each $19,526.21.
Third teams of leagues: (Chicago Nationals and New York Americans) each $18,017.45.
While there are 24 players on the Reds' team, there were allotted only a half share by virtue of the entire team thereby cutting the total shares to 22 1/2.

MCCLESKEY CAFE TO HAVE FRENCH PASTRY KITCHEN

At the Hastings of the McCleskey cafe, has imported a pastry cook, H. A. Turner, from New York city, and will make that department an important addition to his kitchen. He plans to spend $500 in the installation of a pastry oven and tables, making that end of it separate from the regular kitchen. In addition to placing the delicacies on his menus, he will offer them for sale.

Misunderstand—Was Beer Bottle

He rushed into the office of Dr. Carl Wilson, bleeding profusely. From his appearance, his injuries were serious, if not fatal. The patient who was on the operating table was removed and the young man was prepared for an anesthetic, if major surgery was necessary. His injury was found to be a notch about an inch long in his scalp, from some instrument which had severed a blood vessel and made his appearance much more serious than his condition was serious.
"How did you get it?" asked the doctor, as the instruments of surgery were laid out.
"In a fight," replied the patient.
"Did he hit you with a real beer bottle?" queried the physician.
The patient sighed. "No," he replied, "with a beer bottle."

LIEUT. BOB KENNEDY.

By Larry Smith.
Since the first time you ran away from home, resolved to find what lay beyond the smooth rim of the horizon that looked so alluring and promised such adventure, how many times have you wished to be foot-loose, with the good grey road unwinding before you—king of the highway—with your wide domain stretching away as far as you could see, on either side?
When you came to college days, did the rattle of a long string of emblems send the thrill of the wanderer through you and did you aspire to wear the emblem of "Quo Vadis," the little gold tin can that signified you had traveled thousands of miles without adding to the wealth of your wallet?
And since, have you ever thought that happiness must be the lot of the born vagabond? Of course you have. Who hasn't?

THEIR CRAFT.

THEIR HIGHWAY.

In the rolling sea, the silver billows of the clouds, cascading in the morning sun; that ad of a rattling box-car and cinders, the airplane cockpit, snug behind the windshield, and on either side the rush of uncharted breeze.

LIEUT. BILL HAHNEL.

Both Bill and Bob are former army airplane pilots. With their own ship, a Canadian Curtiss, they have been making passenger and photographic flights, and operating the Ranger-Desdemona air service, from the Comet field at the east end of Hunt street.
Born-Storming By Air.
Now they plan an air barn-storming trip, to New York City, by way of Tulsa, and Copeka and Kansas City and Chicago and Detroit. Out of the way, you say? Well, what good vagabond ever followed a straight path and reached his destination according to a hard and fast schedule? They hope to be in New York City by December 1, or 15th, or by Christmas. Anyway, they may see the New Year down there.
W. N. White, their associate, will travel ahead in the same manner favored by sea-salesmen and touring artists.

Bill and Bob will follow, leisurely, as air traffic is going away when the ship is in the air, and when the fields look inviting, or when the motor stutters, as motors sometimes do.
Here and there, enroute, they will halt, to make passenger carrying limitless reaches of the sky; instead of trips, if the Oklahomans or Kansans.

INFORMAL PHOTOGRAPH SHOWS QUEEN WEARING TROUSERS AT NIAGARA FALLS

King and Queen of Belgium on their way to Cave of the Winds, Niagara Falls.

VIOLATIONS OF FEDERAL LAWS ARE CHARGED

United States Commissioner W. D. Girard of Abilene was in Ranger yesterday to look after some federal cases worked out by local police. He investigated evidence against Dick Turner and Dolly Turner of Ranger and they waived preliminary hearing and made bonds in the sum of $1,000 each to answer to a charge of alleged violation of the war-time prohibition act. This transaction was arranged at Ranger by local attorneys. Charges have been filed against Frank Walker for alleged violation of the war-time prohibition act. Joseph O. Costello is being held as a witness in this case.

Charges also were filed against R. W. Gray for alleged violation of the prohibition act, and against Cora Peterson and W. E. Barnes for alleged violation of the same act.

United States Deputy Marshal Crawford is expected to arrive in Ranger this afternoon to take charge of the federal prisoners and take them to Abilene.

W. E. Barnes and Cora Peterson claim to be from California. They were arrested two days ago by local police officers in a room in a cheap hotel, police say. They admitted they were not married, but said it was their intention to marry as soon as they saved enough money to buy a home.

Tool Dresser Held; Robbery Charged

Edith Stokes, claiming to be a tool dresser, was arrested Saturday night by local police and is being held for alleged robbery.

Stokes took a young woman out of town, it is said, under the pretense of taking her to a relative's home and at a point two miles out the Cadde road he is alleged to have robbed her and drove off in the car and left her. The girl lost about $70 in money, the police declare.

Fifty Mexicans Taken in Raid

The police raided a Mexican restaurant and hotel located east of the railroad track Saturday night. About fifty Mexicans were searched for firearms and an automatic pistol was found on one. He was carried to headquarters and is in jail.

Although there was a large crowd in town the night was reasonably quiet.

VULCANIZING IS CURE FOR TIRE TROUBLE

The following program for the benefit of motorists who experience tube troubles, has been prepared by L. A. Berger, of Berger & Hicks, at 2nd 1/2 street.

"When a tube is punctured or blown out, the same thing for the motorist to do is to have it vulcanized."

"After the tube has been repaired and tested, before remounting, both it and the casing should be well cleaned. This is done by sprinkling tire talc in the casing. Only a small quantity should be used, as too much is apt to form lumps injurious to the tube."

"One of the commonest troubles with tubes is pinching."

"If the motorist does not understand the theory of tire-mounting he is likely to pinch the tube accidentally in applying the tire rims. If these are inserted, folded, twisted or wrinkled, the result is a tube pinched."

"In mounting a tube, it flat is not enough to be round, and inset in the case."

"Spare tubes should be folded up in a neat, compact way, and made for that purpose. Left loose in a tool box or under the seat, they are subject to cuts from tools, chafing by vibration, or softening of the rubber from oil spots."

J. T. Buddell, manager of the Best Tire Store, left for Fort Worth last night to meet his family. Upon his return to Ranger on Monday he will bring his family with him and either build or rent a home.

C. G. McKim Joins Ranger Garage Co.'s Sales Organization

In the person of C. Gordon McKim the Ranger Garage company has added to its staff of salesmen a man who is well versed in automobiles and trucks, with a record of six years in the manufacturing end of the game behind him and as many more in the selling end.

Mr. McKim started his automobile experience with six years of hard work in the employ of the T. C. Machinery & Foundry company of Cleveland, Ohio. The sales end of the business, however, had the strongest appeal to Mr. McKim, and his first opportunity to demonstrate his ability to "put them" over came when he obtained a position with the wholesale distributor for the State-taker line in Cincinnati.

From this position Mr. McKim went with the Mason-Towne company of Cincinnati, distributors for the Dodge Bros. cars, and his last connection before coming to Ranger was with the White motor truck company of Hamilton, Ohio.

Mr. McKim will have charge of sales of the Selden truck, which is being handled exclusively by the Ranger Garage company. He will bring with him a large stock of light weight cars and is filled with enthusiasm over the possibilities of the Selden line in the oil fields. Ten thousand dollars has been invested in Selden units by the local distributors and they promise to give a new and unknown meaning to the word "service." Two carloads of trucks have been shipped to Ranger and immediate delivery can be given.

AUTOMOTIVE DEPARTMENT

Improved Roads Talk Gives Way To Construction

Let products flow smoothly from "land to men" summarizes the United States department of labor's point of view in offering a solution of the high cost of living problem.

The farm community, the department's report says, "should be linked with the city market. Railway, waterway and motor truck service should be effectively co-ordinated.

Upon reading the report the question which naturally arises is, are the farming communities awakening to the need of doing their share in creating the channels by which their products may flow smoothly from "land to men."

An array of facts and figures is brought forth by E. Farr, director of the Firestone ship-by-truck bureau at Akron, Ohio, to support his affirmative answer. The bureau, which has sixty-three branches in the United States keeps in touch, through these branches and its special investigators, with all matters affecting the motor truck and its uses.

"Motor trucks on improved highways," says Mr. Farr, "offer the farmers of the nation their best opportunity of starting products on a smooth-flowing movement from 'land to men' and today the United States is carrying on the biggest highway improvement campaign in its history and in the history of the world.

At the same time the factories are turning out an increasingly large number of motor trucks, most of which will go to farmers or into the service of farmers. It would appear, then, that the farmer is awakening fully to his opportunities in this respect. He is simplifying his end of the distributive system by making it possible to meet his products to market, thereby lessening the number of agencies through which these products will pass, with the consequent narrowing of the circle of those who might be tempted to add to the price which will be paid by the consumer.

Figures recently announced by the International Shipping Digest show that during the current twelve months $375,000,000 will be expended upon road improvements and maintenance of roads in the United States. Reliable sources estimate that in the same period the country will manufacture 180,000 motor trucks.

It is significant that the states which will spend most freely for better highways, those upon which manufacturers depend to buy the motor trucks, are states in which farming is the most predominant among the occupations. It is estimated that Kansas, which will spend $60,000,000 on bettering its roads, will buy 20,000 motor trucks in the same period. Minnesota has a road-building program estimated for the expenditure of $11,127,986. As an illustration of what the farmer in this great state thinks of the motor truck might be cited a statement recently issued by the Northwestern National bank in Minneapolis in which it is said that "trucks in large numbers, intended for immediate use in marketing grain, are being sold to this large-buying class (the farmers), and elevator scales in many places are being revamped to accommodate the growing fleet of farmers' trucks. Iowa, potential buyer of many motor trucks, will spend $20,498,534 on better highways.

Thus it goes. In the farming communities the coming of the motor truck has made the era of good roads talk give way to the era of good roads construction. The farmer is doing his full share, to the best of his ability, in linking his community to the city market.

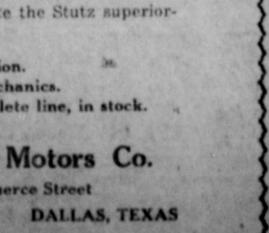

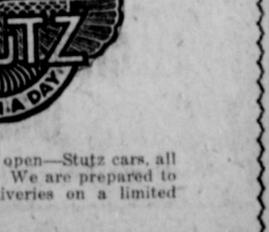

GOES UP ON HIGH. There was a pretty custom among some of the ancients when a prominent citizen died, to send his valet along with him on the road to Paradise and it oftentimes was necessary to resort to extreme methods to insure this company for the departed.

But in the territory of the China-American Trading company, Ford dealers in Tien Tsin, China, they have discovered a much better aid to the deceased over the rough places on the trip to the promised land.

It is a custom of the Chinese to burn various kinds of effigies at the funeral ceremonies of the rich, the more wealthy the departed the more elaborate are the figures burned over his grave. These effigies represent every manner of thing, such as human figures, horses, sedan chairs, tables loaded with money, etc. The figures usually conform to some of these stereotyped fashions, but at the funeral of a Mr. Li, who died a short time ago in Tien Tsin, and who was very wealthy, the bereaved family outdid themselves and made an imitation of the deceased gentleman's Ford car to be burned at his grave.

This Ford effigy was made entirely of strong Chinese paper stretched on bamboo and reed frames. The car was complete in every detail, the pedals accurately placed, and all made of paper and bamboo. The interior of the car also was accurate in detail, being carefully upholstered in paper. The effigy of the driver was a work of art. The car was carried about three miles through crowded streets to the graveside, where a match was applied and it was consumed within a few minutes.

U. S. Tires Gain Favor

The advent of cord construction in automobile tires has made possible the manufacture of tires which give astounding mileage, yet there are many automobile owners who have found so great a degree of satisfaction in some favorite brand of fabric tire, that they are loath to change to the new type.

The United States Tire Company reports sales of its fabric brands that show these tires are continually gaining favor among motorists who want good tires at a moderate initial cost.

President J. Newton Gunn of the United States Tire company has received this letter from a New Haven merchant, telling why he remains firm in his allegiance to the "Chain" tread: "I think 20,540 miles up to date is a remarkable record for three out of a set of five of your 35x4 1/2 'Chain' tread tires. They are still in my seven-passenger car in serviceable condition, and the car is used every day.

The full set of five tires was put on my new car the first week in March, 1918. The first of the set went out of commission April 2, 1918, after running 16,101 miles. The second blew out beyond repair the month following, but the remaining three have been running ever since. I have had few punctures or blow-outs, owing to the elasticity and durability of the tires."

SHIP-BY-TRUCK TO THE RESCUE

By persistent day and night driving, aids of the manager of the Famous Players and Lasky branch exchange at Los Angeles covered the states of New Mexico, Arizona and Southern California by motor-truck during the recent tie-up caused by the railroad strike on the Pacific coast. Exhibitors were protected and many thousand dollars' worth of films were saved by the fleet of trucks, a large number of which traveled daily in mountainous and desert country.

This is only one of many instances of ship-by-truck efficiency saving the day for business during the strike. Typical of others was the experience of the Los Angeles Creamery company which was able to take care of a $500 cream contract in Northern California by dispatching trucks on daily trips.

Hints to Motorists

When a car is newly painted care should be taken to remove any mud or other foreign matter as quickly as possible. If the mud is allowed to stay on new paint over night it will be difficult to remove the mud stains. If these stains penetrate the varnish it will be necessary to retouch such places. After the varnish has become thoroughly set there is not so much danger.

Sedans Were Used In Louis XIV's Time

Carriages second only to clothing have borne man's yearning for style. The trappings of Zenobia's camels, the ruby-set bowdials of Shaha Jehan's elephants, the gilded carriages of French aristocracy, or British coaches ancestral to the enclosed automobiles of today, prove how eagerly mankind has striven for distinction in transportation.

Your coupe and sedan, in name at least, came from the luxury-loving court of Louis XIV. Other models reflect the influence of the early English and colonial coach builders and so it is that the fancies of London gentlemen in the mid-Victorian era and the fads of a bygone age of romance in France, dictate today how society shall ride.

Good taste, the mode, whatever it is—rule design, the appearance of extreme care, beauty where it can be had with utility, glint of enamel and flash of chrome—have been the ambition of coach builders. Artisans of rare skill they were to command the patronage of the great. Examples of how coach building evolved into automobile construction, how styles changed with the change in motive power, yet maintained its old elegance, is to be seen in Detroit's first closed car salon which opens Monday night.

BRUNSWICK, N. J., Oct. 18.—A football pageant which will include all styles of play since 1869, when the first game was staged between Princeton and Rutgers, will be played on Princeton stadium between the same two colleges Thanksgiving day. Following the unique match, "Big Bill" Edwards, chairman of the Princeton committee in charge of the pageant, plans to call a 10-minute game, in which no score will be kept, between the 1919 teams of the two universities.

Auto Thefts Are to Be Discussed

At Automobile Show To Be Held in New York.

Ways and means of reducing automobile thefts will be the subject of a conference of American motor car manufacturers during the New York automobile show, according to George M. Dickson, president of the National Motor Car and Vehicle Corporation of Indianapolis.

The meeting will be held to consider a plan submitted by George Oliver, chief clerk of the magistrate's court of the City of New York, for the cooperation of automobile manufacturers with police departments and detective bureaus throughout the country for the checking of automobile thefts.

The Oliver plan, in its original form, provides for the placing on a contract agency, either under government or private control, of all information with regard to the licensing of automobiles, their description, owners, etc., reports of police departments, citizens and insurance companies concerning the theft of automobiles. The central bureau would report to all police departments, licensing agencies and insurance companies the names so received.

In this way, it is hoped that it will be impossible to steal an automobile in one state and license it in another, and that it will be possible upon application for a license for a stolen car immediately to bring the thief to account by denial of the application and action by the police.

Under existing conditions, many states have inadequate laws and few, if any, cooperate with each other. Some states with lax systems can easily, though not intentionally, become "fences" for stolen cars.

Dickson and other national officials regard the idea underlying the Oliver plan with unqualified approval, although they believe it may have to be materially simplified to make it practical in operation. It is believed that a conference of automobile manufacturers during the New York show will illuminate the problem from every angle, and point the way to a workable system that will make stolen cars practically certain of detection, and so reduce automobile thefts to a minimum.

Galveston Very Anxious to Get Amendment Over

GALVESTON, Oct. 18.—Commercial interests of Galveston and city and county officials are making an energetic statewide campaign in support of a constitutional amendment to be voted on November 4 under which $5,000,000 public improvement bonds would be issued to raise the grade level in the city. The plan is to lift the buildings of their foundations and hydraulically pump mud and sand from the gulf of Mexico under them until the entire business section of the city would be established three to five feet above its present level. This would insure better drainage, it is pointed out, and would avert possibility of damage by flood water from the bay. Expense of raising the buildings would be borne by property owners.

The city cannot, under the present limit of taxation, issue the full $5,000,000 bonds. If the amendment is adopted, $4,000,000 of the bonds will be needed by the city and the remaining $1,000,000 by Galveston county.

After the 1900 flood the grade on the gulf front, or south side of the island, was raised, the work continuing over a period of seven years and entailing an expenditure of $4,500,000, $2,500,000 of which the property owners paid. The fill was made chiefly back of the seawall which was constructed after the 1900 storm. This seawall, which successfully withstood the battering of the waves during the tropical hurricane of 1915 and 1916 protects the south side of the city but the business section on the north side of the island is not protected against flood when high winds and tide-force water from the gulf into the bay.

While the grade-raising project will call for a total expenditure probably in excess of $10,000,000 it is pointed out increased valuation of property following the improvement virtually will offset the cost.

BOLSHEVIKI COMMIT MANY ATROCITIES

WARSAW, Sept. 10.—(by mail)—The Polish government is compiling the story of the atrocities committed under the Bolshevik reign in the city of Minsk, now occupied by the Poles. The latest, brought by an American Red Cross worker who has just returned from a relief assignment in that newly occupied city, concerns the murder of a woman hospital assistant who was rash enough to express the hope that conditions would improve when the town fell to the Poles.

The director of the hospital in question, smarting under an ill-deserved rebuke administered to him by a staff official of the Red regime, warned the ladies that the arrival of the Poles would bring a change for the better. This he was deported to Smolensk. The woman assistant, who ventured a little further in expressing her opinion was shot into a grave on the dawn before the taking of the city by the Polish army.

When visited by workers of the American Red Cross Commission to Poland, the hospitals and orphanages of the city were found in such pressing need of food that many of them had been obliged to close. One home for war orphans had been without as much as a crust of bread for more than a week. Many other had suffered similar privations. According to reports on investigations, only outside aid can rescue these people from the chains of terror and suffering in which they are enmeshed.

In case of a fire, a fire engine is not to be used to get hose by making a run to its general level and then installing a block. If this block is used in place one can manage to drive home if reasonable care is used.

Slang Now Part of English Speech

International News Service.

NEW YORK, Oct. 18.—Slang—the indispensable by-product of Americanized English, "as this is spoke"—has officially become a part and parcel of our language.

The latest recognized dictionaries to come from the print shop give definitions for most of the more popular slang words just as though they had been handed down from the days of Shakespeare.

They are not listed in a separate section entitled "Definitions of Slang Words," as some dictionaries have done in the past, but the coined words that so ably help an American to express his real feelings are included in the "official standard dictionary of the English Language." And it might be interesting to note that the dictionaries are slanted "1918 Edition."

So hereafter, if some one calls you a fatted calf or a boob or most any other name so common to the "language of the street" don't assume a superior air, put on a vacant look and austere remark.

"Really, I don't understand you. Is that word a part of the language?" It would be a sure sign of ignorance. If you don't know what the word means, look it up in the dictionary. You'll find it there. And Americanized, slangy of the words coined by the Tommies and Poles in the trenches have been seized and Americanized.

For instance, a blimp is actually a blimp. It has been adopted, according to the dictionary, as the official title for "an observation balloon." In the case, if nurse had little Charles point to the sky and cry excitedly: "Look at 't' blimp," she would have echoed severely "balloon." Such an echo now would be a display of ignorance.

To quote the dictionary: "Blimp (blimp), n., an observation balloon." And here is a list of a few more: "Barleycorn, John, 'em, n., a humorous name for whiskey. (Beer of low voltage and other modernized kicks are not mentioned.)

"Cootie (koo-tee), n., the trench house. (Formerly English slang.)

"Whizz-bang (whiz-bang), n., any medium-sized, big explosive German shell. Larger shells are crumps; smaller, pip-squeaks.

"Gin-mill (gin-mill), n., a barroom." "Gipno (jipo), n., soup, bacon grease."

AIRCRAFT BROKERS START BUSINESS AT HOUSLON

International News Service.

LONDON, Oct. 18.—The development of flying has been responsible for several new occupations, but perhaps the strangest of all is that of aircraft brokers.

A firm of aircraft brokers has started business at Houslow Aerodrome in the English town of the London-Paris daily air service, and not only for the regular machines of the airline service, but on "charter planes" that drop from the sky at Houslow for their daily bread.

The pilot hands over his craft to the brokers, who attend to the payment of the necessary customs fees, look after his bill of health, customs and other declarations and fulfill all the usual Government regulations—no flight back in England.

30,000 Horses Replaced by Cars

International News Service.

Passenger cars or trucks are manufactured in the United States at a rate of 30,000 a day. The total number of cars registered in all the states during 1918 was probably close to 6,500,000.

Every passenger car now in use in the United States traveled only 5,000 miles a year, a low average, and carried three passengers each mile covered, the total passenger mileage would be approximately 45,000,000,000.

The manufacturers of cars, trucks and parts now employ more than 1,000,000 men and women.

The wholesale value of approximately 20,000,000 tires to be manufactured this year will probably exceed $600,000,000.

The amount of capital invested in the manufacture of complete passenger cars or trucks now exceeds $1,500,000,000. More than 40 per cent of cars in operation today are owned and used by farmers.

The passenger cars and commercial vehicles in use in the cities and in the country district have displaced 30,000,000 horses—a saving in grain and time which is incalculable.

Army authorities have definitely "put the skids" under the rump of that new and unused motor vehicles purchased by the government were to be offered to the public at ridiculously low prices.

The government is to sell only the unserviceable machines. The machines which are in good order will be sold by the motor transport corps to other government departments. The first Chicago public auction sale of army machines will be held at the municipal pier October 8. Only condemned machines are in this lot.

"The selling of this equipment," part of an announcement from the corps said, "is expected to put at rest finally the many-lived report of the sale of cars and trucks at ridiculously low prices. The report had its origin in the operation of a self-styled officer who took orders for vehicles with deposits, from trusting citizens desirous of getting something for almost nothing."

The police cut short his career, but not before the news of the wonderful generosity of the government had been well started on its journey through the country, since when no amount of denial, official or unofficial, has been able to check its progress.

"Since the armistice, also, sales of vehicles by the corps have been reported from time to time in various parts of the country. Investigation has shown these reports to be without foundation in fact, but they have helped to spread the news, which has caused the corps' headquarters at Washington and six general depots to be deluged with requests for cars and trucks at reduced prices."

Auction sales, similar to the one to be held in Chicago, are scheduled for several army camps in different parts of the country.

HUN OFFICIAL FEARS REVOLT THIS WINTER

By a Staff Correspondent International News Service.

BITLICH, Oct. 18.—An hour's conversation with Gustave Noske, minister of defense, will convince even the most skeptical that the German government's fear of sanguinary uprisings during the coming winter is very real and well founded. Herr Noske received your correspondent today and did not hesitate to say that the radical groups of Germany are well supplied with arms and ammunition and are recruiting a big following from returned veterans taken prisoners by the allied armies during the war. He frankly admitted that riots, if they do occur, probably would go beyond his control, though he would not actually anticipate a definite attempt to overthrow the present government.

Herr Noske sees a menace to Germany in the small army the country "blowed by the terms of the Versailles treaty. It is too weak, he declared, to cope with serious internal disorders. "On September 1," he asserted, "I had 400,000 men. Today I have only 250,000, and this number must be reduced to 200,000 within two months after the entente nations have ratified the peace treaty. By April 1, 1920, we may have an army of only 100,000 men.

"The coal situation will be the biggest factor in starting trouble. The populations of the big cities will freeze. Fewer trains will be running that means a curtailment of the food supply. Factories will have to close, throwing hundreds of thousands out of employment. At this moment there are 140,000 unemployed in Berlin. To those made homeless through industrial stagnation must be added the 200,000 soldiers I am to discharge and 800,000 returning prisoners of war.

"We are glad to receive our prisoners, but we can do practically nothing for them. As far as possible we supply them with good clothing, but our supply of suits isn't big enough to go around. Food conditions have improved, but much is lacking. Food, good clothes, decent shoes and work would make them content, but few of these things can be provided.

"The returning prisoners are, of course, a welcome object for propaganda by the radicals. Finding unheated rooms, scant food rations and no work does not make them happy. "There will be strikes and riots without end. Under such conditions I see little hope of paying any war indemnity or reconstructing France. General orderliness is the first prerequisite for complying with the peace terms. It is disappointing that America, which decided the outcome of the war, now that it is all over gives so little attention to this situation.

"I have reason to believe that the search for arms among the disturbing elements is anything but effective. Large quantities of arms were stolen during the revolution and are hidden. Additional supplies of arms have been carried into hiding by demobilized soldiers. The rioters probably will be as well armed as the troops.

"Upon being asked if there was any danger of a well organized counter-revolution, Herr Noske replied:

"We must not forget that the period of transition has brought distress to many persons. The revolution was not altogether unmixer felicity. I do not, however, consider the monarchist movement dangerous to the republic. Alone, the monarchists are too weak to overthrow the government. The talk about a monarchist counter-revolutionary movement in the army is nonsense. Officers and men alike are loyal to the republic. Any combination between the reactionaries and the radicals is out of the question. Even the Communists and Independent Socialists are too far apart to join in a common anti-government conspiracy. How badly they hitch was amply proved in Munich.

"What I expect during the winter is attacks upon the wealthy bourgeoisie rather than an attack upon the government. If we can preserve the country until next spring, I don't consider any radical monarchist coup possible.

Herr Noske declared that the military divisions of individual states are completely satisfied to be merged into the federal army. The bavarian soldiers, particularly the added, miffed of the aid rendered them by North German troops during the soviet terror, cheerfully took the federal oath of allegiance.

"The one unit that worries the minister of defense more than any other, according to his own admission, is the army in Courland and Estland, the so-called 'Iron Division.'

"The Iron Division is a very special formation," declared Herr Noske. "It is composed mostly of young men who have enlisted since the revolution and who lack the discipline of the older trained German soldiers. The Courland situation is one of the most difficult problems. Economic considerations are a decisive factor in the attitude of our troops there. They don't want to return to Germany to freeze and starve. If I sent another army to Courland to compel the rebels to return, terrible confusion would be the result."

When asked what measure he proposed to take to insure the extradition of German officers wanted for trial by the entente who might desire to surrender voluntarily, Herr Noske replied:

"I think you put this question in the wrong place. That is a matter for the police; but the entente in my opinion, could give you the best answer. The most hope that this particular clause of the peace terms may never be enforced."

Jap Women Want 13-Virtue Hubby

TOKIO, Oct. 18.—The magazine Chukouko Gohano (virtuous woman) invited its Japanese women readers to send in their opinions on what constitutes an ideal husband. Here are the fourteen virtues they demanded of a Jap hubby: He should not be greedy. He should not spend too much time "pimping." He should have a manly appearance. He should not be too familiar with other women. He should express himself clearly. He should make prompt decisions. He should have high ideals. He should never show himself in the kitchen. He should never criticize the coffee or the gowns of his wife or any other woman. He should not bore his wife by telling her all his past loves. He should not drink too much. He should not be a dud. He should not be too jealous. The yposium aroused the humor of the Japanese males, who sent in some suggestions of what constitutes an ideal wife. They paraphrased the last of the thirteen points and all agreed that "she should not be too jealous."

Completions in Stephens County

Several completions in Stephens county are reported, one well being reported as dry and abandoned. The Gulf Production company's K. Stoker, on section 23, insane asylum land, was abandoned at 360 feet. A slight showing of oil was encountered at 2585 feet. The Gulf Fincher No. 7, section 3382, T. E. & L. survey, after a shot of 120 quarts at 3292-3372, came in with a production of 1200 barrels. Well No. 5 of the same company and location came in natural thirty barrels at 3190-3232. The Texas company's G. W. Parks, No. A15, under temporary completion at 1517-1937 feet, is making 100 barrels natural. This well is situated on section 3351, T. E. & L. survey. The Texas company's J. C. Correll, No. 1, section 3391, T. E. & L. survey, came in with 700 barrels natural at 3158-3226. The Texas company's Sandridge No. 7, section 47, T. & P., block 5, was shot with 150 quarts at 3209-3306 and is making 200 barrels. The Gulf J. M. Ward, section 1236, T. E. & L. survey, was completed at 106-3179 feet, and is flowing by heads at the rate of 600 barrels. The Gulf J. E. Langford, section 14, T. & P., block 6, after a shot of 350 quarts, came in with 520 barrels at a depth of 3326-3400. The Texas company's J. W. Womack No. 1, section 21, insane asylum land, is making 100 barrels natural at 3048-3108.

HIT THAT LINE.

FOOTBALL IS BACK on a peace basis. This is the one sure way of rati-fying the actuality of Peace.

A year ago the Yanks were holding the line on every battlefield in Europe; today they are backing it in every gridiron in America.

Flying bullets Over There were soft compared to flying tackles Over Here. When Turk was knocked cold they went on playing, without a substitute. Next Ferdinand called for the water bucket and was tucked away in a blanket. No substitutes.

In despair, Lady and Hindy, touted vets of the back-field, tried to make their yards through Chateau Thierry and were held for down. They lost the ball and the roughhouse was finally halted on their five-yard line with the Yanks in possession of the Pig-skin.

A Football War would have been raging yet. What are a couple of broken necks if dear old Alma Mater triumphs? What if the entire squad is knocked for a touch-down providing a bunch of Scrubs are waiting on the side-lines?

RESOURCE IS THE ULTIMATE FACTOR IN ANY COMPETITIVE SITUATION—WAR, FOOTBALL OR SELLING AUTOMOBILES.

You've got to do a lot of mental dodging to wiggle through a scattered field of Opposition. When you hit the old dotted-line give them everything you've got! If they stop you on one end, try it around the other. If you find you cannot make the Distance yourself, pass it to the Other-fellow.

Team-work is the one great item. With the right kind of Interference (assistance) from the Service man, the Parts man and the Used Car man, you should go over the Dotted-line on every scrimmage.

Carry the game into the Other-fellows' territory. Take the Ball on the Kickoff in the A. M. and keep going till the whistle blows. Hit hard and tackle clean. When you stop Competition, get him above the knees. Put him out of the kicking, but don't try to put him out of business.

Every star team has its Boob and every Boob team has its Star. Many a bolden warrior has strutted into the Yale bowl only to be "left in the soup." It is not where you play but how you play that wins a Letter on the Victory of Experience.

Little old Laclede, Missouri, produced John J. Pershing, and has it on the U. S. A. No matter how small your sphere, you can produce John J. Perseverance and have it on the World!

BEAUTY HINTS
Ted Harbly wires frantically that Portland has a Contest candidate who will show Mr. Ziegfeld something new in class. If Oregon Peaches are like its Apples, Flo has a brand new thrill on the way.

R. R. Howard, Cameron, West Virginia, wants to know if photographs will be returned. (This costume is going to be good.)

Just why Langdon Smith has not yet sent in a study in sepia is one of the mysteries of the contest. Accent on the miss.

Los Angeles is also figuring on surprise stuff. An argument is on between Harold L. Arnold and O. K. Parker as to which studio will furnish the contenders.

Here's a young man with old ideas. Frank Allen's going to try but is afraid he can't pick a winner.

Charles Fax can beat that altho he is not so Frank about it.

methods in obtaining light and power due to certain local conditions, this committee will be able to rectify such troubles and recommend equally efficient but less expensive systems.

Lee H. Newbert of San Francisco has accepted the chairmanship of the committee on co-operation in industry and M. S. Sloan of Brooklyn heads the committee on electrical resources of the nation, an analytical and reference body.

"We propose taking the public and the state regulatory authorities into our confidence and demonstrating that we are sincere in our plans to obtain for the consumer the maximum of electric light and power at the lowest possible rate consistent with good service. It is because of the fact that the industry is divided into so many companies with so many differing conditions that I believe the idea of co-operation and publicity will work for increased efficiency and economy."

"I do not mean by this that inefficiency or waste is general in the electric industry. There are isolated instances where plants are being run economically. But the industry is changing and what might be good practice today may be obsolete five years hence. It will simply be our purpose to keep pace with the development of the business and help every one to benefit by improved methods as they arise."

Other prominent men in the electric industry who are interested in the project and who compose the public policy committee of the national association are: John A. Britton, San Francisco; Nicholas C. Brady, Henry L. Doherty, John W. Lieb, James E. Murray, S. Z. Mitchell, M. R. Bump and Frank W. Smith of New York; H. G. Bradley of Boston; Joseph B. McCall and Walter H. Johnson of Philadelphia; H. A. Wagner of Baltimore and Martin J. Insull of Chicago.

The origin of the adoption of the thistle as the national flower of Scotland is unknown, although many stories have been told. The favorite legend tells how the Danes were "receiving" silently one night toward the Scottish camp (although the Danes looked upon a midnight attack as unbecomingly), when suddenly one of the soldiers stepped upon a thistle with his bare feet, causing him to cry aloud with pain. The Scotch were aroused and, falling upon the attacking Danes, defeated them with terrible slaughter. Ever since the Scotch have taken this thistle as their emblem. According to British and Foreign Heraldry, the thistle first appears as the national emblem on the Great Seal of James II. There is an altar painting at Holywell outside that dates from 1485 and contains portraits of James II and his queen, Margaret of Denmark, in which the thistle appears in the background. The first authentic mention of the thistle as the national flower is in Denmark's "The Thistle and the Rose" which was written in 1581 on the occasion of the marriage of James IV to Margaret Tudor of England.

Water power development is an other important subject that will be considered. Franklin T. Griffith of Portland, Ore., is the chairman of the committee having it in charge. The subject is of great interest to the general consuming public, large and small, and our resources will deal with the manner in which water power may be utilized to meet the needed development for the support of new manufacturing enterprises and also for fuel conservation.

S. M. Kennedy of Los Angeles heads the committee on service which will deal with matters pertaining to service efficiency. If a city or concern, for instance, is using what has been proved to be uneconomical

Complaints made by T. C. Jennings, state labor commissioner, against chairmen of three state insane asylum boards, in which those officials are charged with violating the law which prohibits the employment of women for more than 24 hours a week has brought about a unique legal situation.

Under the law, the attorney general is the legal adviser and counsel for state officials. In this instance there is a state official at each end of the contention, and it appears that the attorney general will have to render himself an opinion as to how he shall act.

The initial hearing of the Industrial Welfare Commission in its investigation to determine what shall constitute a minimum wage for women and minors employed by mercantile establishments, factories, laundries and telephone companies, will be held at Houston, October 22 to 25.

Hearings, it is stated, will be held later in all sections of the state in order that all persons interested may be heard and that conditions prevalent in all sections may be ascertained. Before a decision is rendered by the commission, a state-wide hearing will be held in Austin in which all interested parties may participate. The commission is composed of T. C. Jennings, labor commissioner; J. H. Fowler, employers' member of the Industrial Accident Board; and Miss Annie Webb Blanton, superintendent of public instruction.

An order for 25,000,000 bushels of oats from France has been secured by the Texas department of markets and warehouses. Most of the consignment is being shipped from Texas; but Arkansas and Kansas took part of the order.

Texas fire insurance companies this year will collect approximately $1,000,000 in premiums from Texas oil companies, according to a rough estimate by the Texas Fire Insurance commissioner.

With the rate averaging about $1 on the $100, this gives an assumed risk of $100,000,000. It is considered that not more than one-fourth of oil values in the state are insured.

Railroad grade crossing accidents during August, according to reports made to the railroad commission, were the most serious of the year. In fifty accidents which occurred during the month, eleven persons were killed and twenty-eight were injured.

Trains hitting automobiles accounted for seven of the deaths and nineteen of the injured. Four of those killed were pedestrians, and three of the injured walked on tracks. Three were injured while in street cars, and three were injured in wagons.

One of the most striking contributions of the United States to the war was the enormous quantity of smokeless powder high explosives produced, says the Scientific American. From April 1, 1917, to November 11, 1918, this country produced 632,000,000 pounds of smokeless powder, which was almost exactly equal to the combined output of France and Great Britain.

The Roman soldiers, who built such wonderful roads and carried a weight of armor and luggage that would crush the average farm hand, lived on coarse brown bread and sour wine. They were temperate in diet and regular and constant in exercise. The Spanish peasant works every day and dances half the night, yet eats only black bread, onion and water-melon.

BRITON SAYS U. S. FAR AHEAD OF ENGLAND NOW

(International News Service.)

ROCHDALE, England, Oct. 18.—When Mr. Samuel Turner told me today that he was "staggered" by the result of his visit to the United States I was impressed by his use of the word, because he is a typical cool, long-headed, far-sighted Lancashire man who has built up the great asbestos manufacturing concern of Turner Bros., Ltd.

"I went to the United States," he told me, "to find out what were the prospects of this country and its world trade in competition with the United States under after-the-war conditions. I spent two months in the East and Middle West investigating industrial conditions, and I was staggered by the result. I found that in hardly any industry are we able to compete with the United States."

"I found coal of 14,000 British thermal units—a very high quality, better than our average industrial coal—sold throughout the East at a price not exceeding $1.92 to $2.40 per ton, pit-mouth price. I found that pig iron could be produced at $26 a ton, against our $32, and steel rails at $60 a ton, against $82, which will be the price here when the new cost of coal is added."

"Looking into the question of factory construction, I found that it is now considerably cheaper in the United States, particularly so if the well known American standardized system is adopted."

"Wages in the United States are from 25 to 50 per cent higher, the rate varying with the locality. One of the largest manufacturing concerns in Cincinnati pays unskilled labor 40 cents per hour and skilled labor, such as carpenters, 75 cents per hour."

"If a man wishes to put up a new factory in the United States he can place a contract, subject to penalty if the time is exceeded, for construction during the spring and summer, in four months. Here a similar building would take a year."

"I found evidence on every hand that the United States is fully aware of these advantages. Nationalization is out of the question there. No one wants it or asks for it."

"As to finance, the position of American firms is better than ever. No firm which came within my notice was an exception to the rule. They have practically unlimited funds in their own treasuries. For two years before they came into the war they sold their output at auction to the warring nations, making profits beyond dreams. And now they are using these funds for purposes of national aggression."

"On the top of these advantages you have the fact that the exchange is all in their favor. When the United States is buying from us she gets $43.20 worth of goods for $38.88; when we buy from her we pay $47.52 for $43.20 worth."

"Her industrial position is far better than ours. While certain measures condition is nothing approaching ours. Labor in America is not political. While it fights determinedly and ruthlessly for its own hand, there is no underlying principle at the root seeking to upset existing social conditions."

Mr. Turner, a quiet, earnest, thoughtful man, who is a master of detail in his own large mills and has organized a world-wide trade in its products, gave me these facts with the air of a man who is revolving them all the time in his mind.

"For us there is only one hope," he said, "to bend our backs to the task of raising production per man to the United States level. High wages and short hours can be permanently maintained only with large production. The root cause of the Americans' growing prosperity is that labor there accepts the necessary discipline and control from the directing ability of men placed over them and makes no attempt to restrict output."

Mr. Jacob de Julin, chairman of the Finnish commercial mission to Great Britain, France, Italy and the United States, told a Daily Mail representative that American financial houses are eager to develop their export trade. "Several of the banks," he said, "have decided to send their representatives at once to Finland to investigate conditions and to open offices there."

WILL ATTEMPT TO WIN INCE PRIZE OF $50,000

LOS ANGELES, Oct. 18.—Flying a Sopwith airplane, Capt. Eric Donaldson of the British Royal Flying Corps will attempt to win the $50,000 prize offered by Thomas H. Ince, movie picture producer and sportsman, for the first successful airplane flight across the Pacific ocean, within the next few days. Captain Donaldson, the first bona fide entrant in the contest, made a visit here recently and disclosed his plans.

Captain Donaldson now is on the way to England from his home in Australia, where he has been on furlough. He expects to be discharged within the next sixty days and will bring with him from England the Sopwith machine he will use. He has been flying for the British army the past four years and is regarded as one of the country's best aviators. The Sopwith machine he plans to use will be an exact duplicate of the machine in which Harry Hawker made his flight across the Atlantic.

A navigator will accompany Captain Donaldson and his machine will be equipped with a powerful wireless set, he says. He plans to make the journey from Venice, Cal., to a point in Australia in five jumps, stopping at Honolulu, Fanning Islands, Phoenix Islands and Fiji Islands. He says that at Honolulu his regular landing gear will be supplanted by pontoons which will enable him to land on the water.

Although twelve days are allowed in which to complete the trip in accordance with the rules of the Pacific Aero club, which is sponsoring the contest, Captain Donaldson plans to use only ten. He plans to leave Venice, Cal., about 4 o'clock in the afternoon and hopes to arrive at Honolulu by noon the next day.

TRAVELS 1,000 MILES WITH SIX CHILDREN FOR 50 CENTS

LOS ANGELES, Oct. 18.—The high cost of living—including the high cost of travel—means nothing to Mrs. Adah Bradley, who has just returned home with her six children after traveling from Silver Lake, Ore., a distance of 1,500 miles, at a total financial expenditure of 50 cents.

Mrs. Bradley lived eighteen years in Eastern Oregon, raised nine there as a Baptist missionary and remained to marry her husband and become the mother of six. More than a year ago she and her husband left home and she had not seen him since. He left behind her an elderly man and a two-wheeled carriage minus a top, but equipped with loose spokes in the wheels.

Finally in despair at her situation, Mrs. Bradley put her six children, a female dog and all the family clothing into the carriage, hitched the old horse and started for Los Angeles. She had just 50 cents in cash, but much courage. The day of her departure was May 15, 1919. They made the trip in a little less than four months. They stopped at friendly farm houses and when they reached an orchard where the crop was being harvested she went to work. Her eldest child, twelve years old, helped her. Rosmer, eleven, the only boy, did the same. Rose, nine, did what she could along the same line; Mary, seven, took care of Iris, four, and Grace, two, the baby.

"We had to suffer hardships, of course," Mrs. Bradley said, "but we found the hearts of all the people we met were big. Now that it is over I think it was a wonderful experience. What we want now is a place to start life again."

TEMPLE, Oct. 17.—Drawmen at Temple, mostly negroes, have advised the public that because of soaring prices of everything they will be compelled to increase the charge for draying 25 per cent.

LAD, 14, AND OLD MAN, 71, ATTEND HARVARD NOW

(International News Service.)

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., Oct. 18.—Youth and old age are regular "buddies" at Harvard university. Fourteen-year-old Jacob Shankman, a "late little" chap in "knickers" often is seen hustling along to class beside Col. George E. Lyon, Jr., tall, gray-haired, seventy-one years young, and a college boy; and often these two intellectual marvels talk things over in the colonel's rooms, which were used by Washington in the revolutionary war days.

They have a good deal in common, these two extremes of Harvard's student body. Literature, history, current events and the whole range of intellectual topics deeply interest them both. It gives them a wide field for discussion.

However, the remarkable part of it all is that the colonel is the one who thinks and dreams and displays the spirit of youth. The boy carries with him an academic air. Colonel Lyon is full of pep and ringer. The "Crimson infant," as Shankman is called, always appears to be in deep thought. "I'm on Easy street and have come back from Nebraska to play again at being a student at my old college," exclaims the colonel. If Shankman engages in sports he has not revealed the fact. "Every morning I go through a set of exercises of from 600 to 1,000 movements, and in the afternoon I take a swim in the gym tank and some more exercise," exclaims the colonel. The infant prodigy lives quietly at home.

Colonel Lyon has a big study aflame with college banners and "prep" school flags—also a fine life-size statue of Venus de Milo. The studious lad is the center of attraction going and coming across the college yard; but it is his age and size that attract. The colonel is a rare enterpriser. His rooms are visited nightly by students who have grown to love and respect their colleague of twenty-one summers for his good fellowship, his sound views on life and his remarkable talents.

The boy swears to be a great doctor; but, mind you, before that, co-swiner of the Harvard crew. The 71-year-old student wants to be the greatest expert on literature and the finest orator. His coming back to college is more of a "rest" for him than anything else. In his own words: "When a youth, come to college. When you have grown to man's estate, come to college; and when the family Bible tells you that you are three score years and ten, even then come to college. In other words, have a hobby—if it's nothing more than raising pigs. Have a great absorbing interest in life besides the business of making money or eating and drinking and resting. Just be carried away with it and you'll never grow stale and old. I tell you, men grow old because of what is called rest. Now, rest should be simply a change of employment—a change of mental employment and systematic physical exercise."

What of their lives—these two marvels? Young Shankman was born in Chelsea, Mass. He is the son of Isaac Shankman, one of the leading Jewish communal workers of Boston. At grammar school in Chelsea the boy averaged 96 and 97 per cent in all his studies, leading his sections. When at Chelsea high school the teachers were amazed with his work and he was one of two pupils on the honor roll, the other being a girl. In his first year in the high school he took bookkeeping in addition to his regular college preparatory course. Although starting late in the summer at Huntington school he completed the summer school work in a month. In addition to his academic studies at Harvard young Shankman is attending the Hebrew Rabbinical college in Boston. The lad speaks five languages—Hebrew, Yiddish, French, German and Latin. Young Shankman is a close rival of the famous Harvard prodigies of the past. He is one of the youngest to enter the college and he had always been an honor student.

Colonel Lyon is traveler, minister, cowboy, Indian fighter, stage manager, banker, politician, editor, author, singer and teacher. He was born at Ogdensburg, N. Y. He is the oldest living graduate of Phillips Exeter academy, Exeter, N. H. He was a classmate of President A. Lawrence Lowell in the seventies. Colonel Lyon studied at Harvard law school. Later he was a stage manager of an operatic production in New York. He then went west and therein lies his great desire to be an expert in public speaking.

STEPHENVILLE CONTRACTS FOR IMPOSING THEATER

STEPHENVILLE, Oct. 17.—Construction work will be started at once on a new playhouse for this city to cost $40,000. Cox & Donnell were awarded the contract. The structure will be 50x100 feet, well ventilated and otherwise modernly built. It will have a seating capacity of 100.

TEXAS AND PACIFIC SHOP WORKERS GET INCREASES

MARSHALL, Oct. 17.—Six hundred local shopmen employed by the Texas and Pacific railway company will receive a substantial increase in salary October 20, retroactive to May 1 of this year, it was announced here today. The increase follows a conference between representatives of the shopmen and the railroad administration.

JAIL DELIVERY AT ABILENE. ABILENE, Oct. 17.—Miss Lily Ayres, office assistant to Sheriff John Bond, looked up from her desk Wednesday afternoon as a man entered the office.

"I am a federal prisoner," said the man. "I came over to tell you the jail is open."

Sheriff Bond being out of town for a short time, Judge E. M. Overshiner and Treasurer Austin Pitts went to the jail to investigate. It developed that a "trustee" had obtained the keys of the cells by a ruse and had opened all the cells. Two other prisoners walked off with him, the other three refusing to leave. The trustee was a crippled boy sixteen years old, held in connection with a burglary charge. One of the other prisoners who escaped was charged with burglary and the other with theft. None of the escaped prisoners had been retaken.

FREIGHT CONGESTION NOW UNDER STATE ADVISEMENT.

AUSTIN, Oct. 17.—The railway commission has taken under advisement the charges made by West Texas interests as to congestion, "tipping" and other alleged mispractices. The feature of the Tuesday session was the filing of a statement relative to conditions prevailing on the Missouri, Kansas and Texas lines about Wichita Falls and including the Texas Central. C. N. Whitehead, federal manager in charge of this road, declared that abnormal traffic caused the present congestion, but that the worst of it had been passed.

BAD WEATHER DELAYS WORK IN THE COUNTY

By Lester A. Wilke.
EASTLAND, Oct. 18.—With cloudy weather all day Monday and Tuesday and another heavy rain falling Wednesday night, all work in the Eastland field has been delayed and will be delayed for another week. More rain has fallen in the county during the past few weeks than has fallen here for the past four years, not including of course the past rainy season, according to the old timers.

Some attribute this heavy rain fall to the terrific amount of gas which has been escaping in the field during the past week, while others claim that it is the following of the old adage of "when it rains, it pours," meaning of course that now since oil has been found here and it is no trouble for a tired oil farmer to sell his royalty for enough money to last him for the remainder of his life, good rains come and make the heaviest crops ever known before.

Drilling has been going right on during the past week regardless of the amount of rain which has been falling, but it will have to discontinue in a short time unless the good rains come and make the heaviest crops ever known before.

This will not be necessary long, however, on account of the road roads, which are to be built in the county, following the voting of $4,000,000 to build the roads in this county. Construction on these roads will begin at once, according to an announcement made by the county commissioners, following a tour of the Texas counties where good roads have been built. They are now making a careful study of the reports of these counties and will then extend the money of Eastland county so that it will give the county the most good.

Events have been taking place in this county this week, however, outside of the oil development. Charters have been granted for more schools in the county. Both are in the school between Ranger and Eastland. One is the Guaranty State Bank of Eastland with N. E. Harris as president and A. Nix, cashier. The other is the First State Bank with G. W. Dawson as president and W. F. Babin as cashier. Both banks have a capitalization of $25,000 each.

A contract has also been let for the construction of a new $100,000 city hall for Eastland and workmen are now busy building a new standpipe and other work of the city water supply.

A paving contract for certain paving in the city has also been let and work will begin at once. The paving plan for the city at present amounts to about $600,000.

Nothing very unusual in the way of oil development in this field has taken place during the past week although there are several wells which have come in and others which are to an interesting depth.

Among the wells which came in was the C. E. Terrell, No. 1, T. F. well, north of Eastland. This well is said to be making about 1200 barrels from the top of the pay.

Ribclair Golf B. L. Dancy, No. 2, is now making about fifty barrels from the top of the lime at 3370 feet. No. 3, 5, 1100 feet is standing full of oil and flowing by itself.

On the W. T. Boyd tract the Texas Oil & Gas is now drilling a series of wells. No. 5, is flowing about 80 barrels an hour from the top of the lime. This is a tract of 259 acres. On the northwest corner of the York survey and will be drilled full of holes by the Texas Oil & Gas, just as fast as the wells can be put down. The J. C. Littleton adjoining tract to the Pleasant Grove tract, No. 1, is making about 50 barrels an hour from the top of the lime.

Coming nearer to Eastland and in the Pleasant Grove district the Royal Duke now has a well 2222 feet with good showings and another rig up, on its 8 1/2 acre "L" shaped tract on the Hanks place. Royal Duke also has production in the Deadmans field.

Offsetting the Royal Duke on the West part of the Hanks tract the Pacific Oil & Gas has drilled in and on the lease the Empire Oil & Gas is rigging up No. 2, on the Peoples tract.

On the south of the Hanks tract it is said to have a good well on the P. F. Barber tract. This well is now making about 1200 barrels.

South of the Barber tract on the J. A. Nivers tract the Kentucky River Oil Co. is drilling at 2600 feet. The Texas Venture Oil Co., on this tract is making about 50 barrels a day from the top of the sand at 2225 feet. States also has a rig up on this tract.

Magnolia, Oscar Harr's No. 2, is producing; W. A. CHAMP'S BROTHER WINS ALL-AROUND NATIONAL TITLE

Harrison Thomson, right, and his brother Fred.

Harrison Thomson of Princeton University recently captured the national all-around championship at Reading Field, Jersey City. His victory is doubly interesting because he is the brother of Fred C. Thomson, who won the all-around title three times.

Several days on account of the drilling contract, which called for 3500 feet. This well has been making a good show and when properly proven, will open up miles of new territory.

Adjoining in on the Dulin tract the Eastland International Co. has made a new location.

The Eastland International has another location on section 36 between the Thomas, Kral and Ray wells.

S. F. Baker's well on the Watson tract is now 425 feet and waiting for 15-inch casing.

Among the wells which came in was the C. E. Terrell, No. 1, T. F. well, north of Eastland. This well is said to be making about 1200 barrels from the top of the pay.

Ribclair Golf B. L. Dancy, No. 2, is now making about fifty barrels from the top of the lime at 3370 feet. No. 3, 5, 1100 feet is standing full of oil and flowing by itself.

On the W. T. Boyd tract the Texas Oil & Gas is now drilling a series of wells. No. 5, is flowing about 80 barrels an hour from the top of the lime. This is a tract of 259 acres. On the northwest corner of the York survey and will be drilled full of holes by the Texas Oil & Gas, just as fast as the wells can be put down. The J. C. Littleton adjoining tract to the Pleasant Grove tract, No. 1, is making about 50 barrels an hour from the top of the lime.

Coming nearer to Eastland and in the Pleasant Grove district the Royal Duke now has a well 2222 feet with good showings and another rig up, on its 8 1/2 acre "L" shaped tract on the Hanks place. Royal Duke also has production in the Deadmans field.

Offsetting the Royal Duke on the West part of the Hanks tract the Pacific Oil & Gas has drilled in and on the lease the Empire Oil & Gas is rigging up No. 2, on the Peoples tract.

On the south of the Hanks tract it is said to have a good well on the P. F. Barber tract. This well is now making about 1200 barrels.

South of the Barber tract on the J. A. Nivers tract the Kentucky River Oil Co. is drilling at 2600 feet. The Texas Venture Oil Co., on this tract is making about 50 barrels a day from the top of the sand at 2225 feet. States also has a rig up on this tract.

Man With Cere Cutter, Wild Horses and Bolsheviks, Who Controls the U.S. Navy? The Income of a Billion.

BY ARTHUR BRISBANE

Not long ago the world went over the picture of the man with the shoe; several poets wrote about it. You remember the good man, prematurely aged, bending over in his wooden shoes.

Times changes. Now the world admires the man with the corn cutter. On the currier's farm near Marana, Ariz., men have struck for $9 a day and lodging. They were paid $8 a day and lodging.

For excitement go out to Skull Valley where the local authorities invite you to shoot wild horses, dangerous and troublesome; dangerous because savage, and troublesome because they entice tame horses to run wild.

The 15,000 wild horses in the valley remind you of Bolshevik and other earnest radicals. The best way to kill the wild horses is to wait until two loads of wheat and barley begin fighting. They pay attention to nothing but their right, and you can shoot them at your ease.

So it is, as the intelligent capitalist will tell you, with bands of wild radicals when they meet.

Poor old Uncle Sam without even waiting for the Peace League to be put over on him, seems to have lost control of his own navy. Mr. Daniels informed that United States marines are withdrawn from a Dalmatian port, to which they had been sent to help Dalmatians put out Italians, says he knows nothing about it. He does not know who ordered the withdrawal.

The movements of our marines were based on orders issued in Paris. If fighting men and ships of the United States are to be controlled from Paris without the knowledge of the secretary of the navy before the Peace League goes over, what would be done with the Peace League in full swing? Ask yourself that.

According to the bureau of taxation "million dollar incomes are becoming fewer in the United States." Those words "million incomes" are interesting in a simple republic. Perhaps they become fewer because income taxation becomes taller, and more of the million dollar incomes find some way to hide under the bed.

We have reached in our simple democracy the million dollar income excites no surprise. What is more interesting, we shall have before long the billion dollar income. If the Rockefeller family should choose to live for the next twenty years on the modest sum of one million dollars, not including and paying the rest, at the end of twenty years they would have an income of one billion at least, probably more. That shows how self-control, saving and arithmetic combined work wonders. When the billion income arrives, it will seem quite natural.

Young Mr. Rockefeller has postponed slightly the arrival of the billion dollar income by giving seventy-five thousand dollars to the philanthropic Jewish building fund, fifty thousand for his father, twenty-five thousand for himself. He gives the money because he admires the business ability shown in the management of Jewish charities. It is a fact that in philanthropy the Jew displays economies in giving away money as great as the economies of the Standard Oil in accumulating money, which is saying a good deal. Mr. Rockefeller's gift is a tribute from one good business man to a group of other good business men.

The law of supply and demand, like a cat, seems hard to kill; even war does not destroy it. There are a few thousand foreign buyers at the Leipzig fair, ready to buy German goods to be sold in other countries, including countries recently at war with Germany. Business is not sentimental. If you have goods to sell at the right price, you find a buyer, war or no war.

What particular little ganglion of grain of cells in the human brain inclines industry to make violent radicals "kiss the flag?"

Every few days you read, "Reds expelled from town" and kiss the flag then driven out of town.

You are supposed to respect your flag as you respect your mother. If a ruffian insulted your mother you would not exactly compel him to kneel down and kiss her; that would be only another insult. The fact is that human beings possessing power enjoy the sensation of making other human beings do something that he does not want to do.

ROOSEVELT IN RACE WITH MERE TAILOR'S SON

(International News Service.) NEW YORK, Oct. 18.—Philosophers have said with the greatest levity, but not infrequently, it turns out that war's aftermath, peace, is in truth, the greatest leveller, and political events in the second Assembly district of New York have brought to pass a situation which more or less illustrates that fact. It was some time in the late ex-President Theodore Roosevelt, "Teddy," the 100 per cent American, controlled the district's political destinies. To the people of Oyster Bay, of which "Teddy" was almost a god, his word was the law. Then the grim reaper swept him away. But it is now another "Teddy" Roosevelt, growing up among the folks of rural Oyster Bay, Lieutenant Colonel Theodore Roosevelt, son of the late president, who is being established.

THE SHOES THAT PRUNELLA LA BUTTERCUP WORE WERE THE SMALLEST AND TIGHTEST THEY HAD IN THE STORE.

SAID THE BOYS, "THERE'S A GIRLIE WHO'S SURELY WORTH WHILE, SHE CANNOT BE BEATEN FOR LOOKS AND FOR STYLE."

NOW, WHEN MANDY MEGINN PUT HER FEET ON THE FLOOR, THEY LOOKED LIKE TWO GUNBOATS JUST BACK FROM THE WAR.

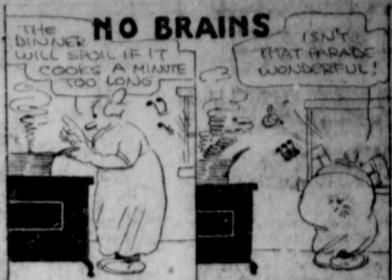

PASSERSBY SAID, "MY GOODNESS, JUST LOOK AT THOSE FEET, THEY'RE BLOCKING THE TRAFFIC AND SPOILING THE STREET."

NOW, PRUNELLA HER HUSBAND WITH AGONY FILLS, HE ALWAYS GOES BROKE ON CHIROPODISTS' BILLS.

WHILE IN MANDY'S YOUNG LIFE SWEETEST LOVE EVER DAWNED, FOR SHE NEVER IS BOTHERED WITH BUNIONS OR CORNS!

to follow in the well-marked footprints of his honored father. Starting from the bottom of the ladder, he is a candidate for the state assembly on the Republican ticket. And opposing him, who as a lieutenant colonel was second in command of an entire regiment, is a former buck private, Elias Raff, the son of a tailor.

Thus the man who led thousands into battle and the man who a few months ago accepted as an inviolate law every command of the other, have been placed on the same plane, though one is rich and the other is a struggling lawyer, democratic America has secured both equal rights in the race for public office.

Elias Raff came into the race almost unknown, untried. When the Republican dominated Lieutenant Colonel Roosevelt the people spoke of his election as a foregone conclusion. In fact, some of the leading Democrats of Oyster Bay thought it would be wise to endorse him and assure his election. But the leaders of North Hempstead, a township the size of Oyster Bay, objected and Raff was nominated by the Democrats.

The nomination aroused little enthusiasm even in Raff's own party; it was done as a matter of form. Then Raff mounted the platform for his first speech. "My hat is in the ring, and it is not my father's hat, either," he said. The Democrats realized they had picked a "live wire." It looked like Mr. Roosevelt's "walkover" would wind up in an exciting "horse race," and according to all reports from the district the buck private's chances are improving daily.

The following events in the lives of the two men may show the contrast between them: Theodore Roosevelt—son of an ex-President of the United States. Graduate of Boy's Academy, Albany; Groton school and Harvard university; played on the Harvard varsity football team; married Miss Eleanor Butler Alexander, daughter of wealthy and prominent parents; represented Hartford Carpet Co. in San Francisco; later became a bond salesman; commissioned lieutenant in First Officers' Training camp at Plattsburg and captain in the second camp promoted to major at outbreak of war; took battalion of Twenty-sixth Infantry to France, was wounded, awarded the Croix de Guerre, made lieutenant colonel, returning home, decided to enter politics.

Elias Raff—son of a tailor. Graduate of Seaside grammar and high schools; sold papers to help support family while studying; president of his class at both schools; worked his way through Syracuse university by washing dishes, tending furnaces and mending clothes; member of debating club, chairman of the university and coach of the basketball team; member of Senior Council, Athletic Governing Board and Justintians (honorary law society); now member Phi Kappa Phi and Zeta Beta Tau; applied for place in officers' training school upon graduation, rejected on account of size; drafted, went to France as a private and returned home as a private after serving through many major engagements; now associated in practice of law with Arthur Knox.

SHIPPING SEALS BY AUTO FROM AUSTIN. Special to The Times. AUSTIN, Oct. 17.—Shipment of seals and receipt forms for motor vehicles will be made from Austin at the end of the week, it was announced here today. To encourage "ship by truck" seals and other supplies for San Marcos, New Braunfels and San Antonio will be made by auto, as well as by rail to Dallas and other places shortly. More than 400,000 automobile seals are to be shipped from Austin this week. It is the plan of the state highway commission to ship to each county a sufficient number of seals to fill the demands for the entire year.

LAKEDONNA COPIOUS RAINFALL WEDNESDAY. Special to The Times. LAREDO, Oct. 17.—Laredo was visited by one of the most severe rainstorms in its history yesterday morning. For a time citizens were under apprehension of another tropical storm bearing down upon this section. Dario Deana was badly burned by lightning and his wife was slightly burned, when their home was struck.

COLLECT FREIGHT BILLS BY UNITED STATES MAIL. Special to The Times. DALLAS, Oct. 17.—Hereafter freight bills will be collected through the mail, according to the freight bureau of the Dallas Chamber of Commerce. Previously merchants and others due railroads charges for freight were negligent in receiving and liquidating their debts when solicitors from the freight offices came to collect.

"WORTH A WHOLE LOT TO FEEL LIKE I DO," HE SAYS

"It's worth a whole lot to feel like I do now, since Orogatone treatment has taken away the trouble that bothered me so much for the last four years," said J. C. Mueller, of 212 West Twenty-Ninth Street, Tulsa, Oklahoma a few days ago. "Whenever a man suffers as long as I did, he gets to the place where he feels like there is nothing that will do him any good," he continued, "and that's just the way I had begun to feel. Long ago I got so discouraged of trying remedy after remedy and treatment after treatment which only gave me a little temporary relief. My food did not digest properly and would cause pains from the gas which would form on my stomach continually. Every night I would lie awake for hours at a time unable to close my eyes from this very same trouble. "I'd been well enough satisfied just to have my suffering relieved, but that's not all Orogatone did for me—I have gained in weight and strength—since I started taking it, I can eat as hearty a meal as if I had never had stomach trouble at all, and my strength has come back so I can do as much work in a day as I ever could in my life. I just feel like a new man all over, and would be glad to tell anybody who wants to know, if they will write to me, just what the wonderful treatment—Orogatone—did for me." Orogatone is not a so-called patent or secret remedy, but a new, scientific treatment absolutely free from alcohol in any form and is sold in Ranger exclusively by the Ranger Drug Company, under the personal supervision of a senior Orogatone representative.—Advertisement.

IRON PRISONERS HELP TO CLEAR BATTLEFIELDS

DISMISSED. Berlin, Oct. 22.—(Special) Over the low-lying country between Spire and Ulm, some of the fiercest fighting of the war took place. Iron prisoners under guard of British and American soldiers as well as civilians who have been taking into the general line of clearing up the battlefields are now being sent to the front for labor. They are stacking the shells, removing loose cases and repairing the road. There is a military efficiency about their work and the pleasure they are taking in their grateful for all the governments concerned.

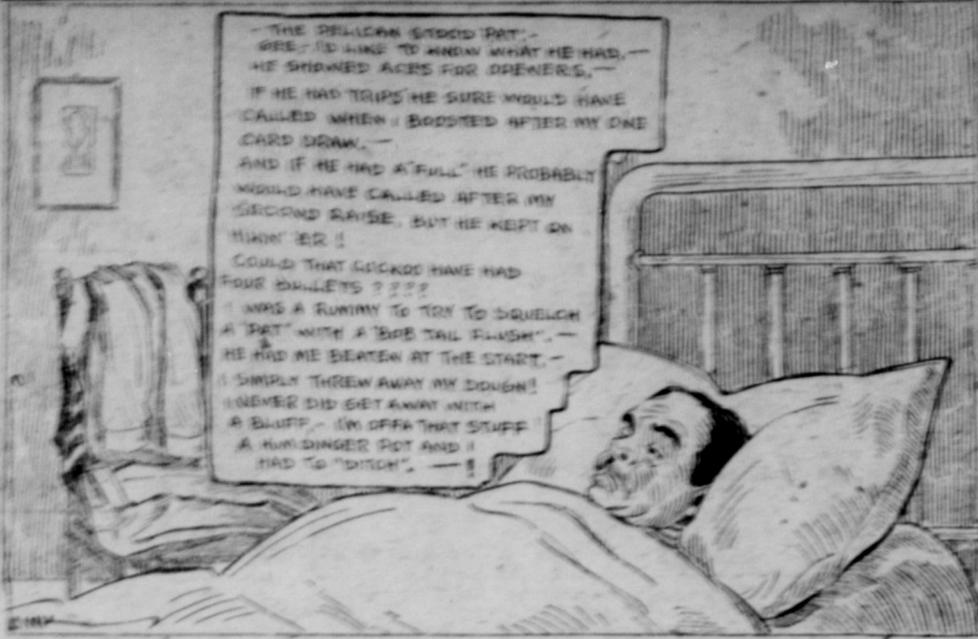

The men still see the signs of war in the German shell pits, now partially filled with earth. Now they are stacking and repairing the shells of the unexploded munitions which were left behind. Some of these are almost buried in the mud, others being protruded on the edge of deep, shallow trenches, while still others stand high in the forest where they were abandoned by one of the armies as it advanced. Many of them are large and contain a large quantity of powder, and their firing would be most effective.

While the shells have disappeared, caused by the big guns into mud or dirt, without any warning remaining to mark their location. This is true of Paderborn, whose former situation would not have been suspected had not a British soldier who had the information that there is a battery of iron shells in the main street of this town.

Many iron shells still remain in the forest, and today as a party was passing within a few miles of Dismis, they were started by the explosion of one of these shells.

Reconstruction is going forward. The work is being done by the British who have returned to the site of the battle. A small party of British soldiers is now working on the site of the battle, that it they play when there was no work for them. They are now being used to clear the area.

LEAD STRIKERS IN TWO CENTERS OF STEEL INDUSTRY

David Williams, above, and W. H. Young.

To keep the steel strikers well organized and informed during the nation-wide strike, officials divided the steel sections of the country into districts and placed nationally known leaders in charge of each district. These men report to and receive instructions from the national committee. David Williams is head of the district around Buffalo. W. H. Young is head of the Pueblo, Colo., district.

BIG LEADERS OF CAPITAL AND CAPITAL SNAPPED TOGETHER

Group shows, left to right: Franklin K. Lane, secretary of interior and chairman of round table; Judge E. H. Gary, executive head of U. S. Steel Corporation; President Samuel Gompers and Secretary Frank Morrison of American Federation of Labor; and John D. Rockefeller, Jr. Below: Rockefeller and Morrison having informal chat.

The pictures above are two of the most remarkable ones of the present-day happenings. They show the great men guiding capital and labor, meeting on common ground and conferring man to man in an effort to bring order out of the present industrial chaos. Gary as head of the U. S. Steel Corporation—at which the nationwide steel strike is aimed—and John D. Rockefeller, Jr., are the two largest employers of men in the country. Gompers and Morrison represent the greatest body of organized workers in the country.

The American Federation of Labor, Franklin K. Lane, secretary of the interior, chairman of the industrial round table, now in session in Washington, represents the government.

CARDINAL MERCIER HAS QUIET CHAT WITH CARDINAL O'CONNELL OF BOSTON DIOCESE

This intimate picture of Cardinal Mercier and Cardinal O'Connell was snapped while the two dignitaries were chatting in a secluded spot on the grounds of Cardinal O'Connell's residence in Boston during the Belgian primate's visit in that city.

SAYS AMERICAN SOLDIERS WILL SEEK FARM HOMES IN CANADA

It's a Dairy Country

They fatten the Bank Account

PRINCE ALBERT, SASK.—Will soldiers who served in the American army during the war go to Canada in any great numbers in search of farm homes? E. E. Thompson of Alberta, himself an American who has grown rich as a farmer in Canada says they will. "The American soldiers only recently have got back from the war," said Mr. Thompson. "Home looks good to them now and they will take it easy for a while. But a big per cent of these boys, after their first out-of-door life in the army, will want to go on the land eventually. They would stay in the United States if they could buy farms there. But there is mighty little cheap farm land left in the United States. Canada, on the other hand, has millions of acres of rich land that even a poor man can buy. The lure of the 'last West' is going to prove hard for these American veterans to resist and I look for the big hike across the border to begin next spring. "Land in Canada is selling at pre-war prices. I recently bought this-teen quarter-sections along the Canadian National Railway at $29 an acre. It is as good wheat and mixed farming land as any in the Dominion and the Canadian National Railway brings it in convenient reach of city markets. It produces, under any kind of farming methods, from twenty to thirty bushels of wheat to the acre. Good farmers get from forty to sixty. "A farm of 160 acres at $20 an acre costs $3,200. One hundred acres in wheat at thirty bushels to the acre, would mean a $,000-bushel crop. At $2 a bushel, this would bring $6,000 or nearly twice the cost of the farm. The crop from 100 acres of wheat would bring $3,000. It's no trick at all with western Canada to pay for a farm with a single crop of wheat. It's done every year."

NEW YORK SKYSCRAPERS ASTONISH PRINCE

Crown Prince Leopold of Belgium gazing at Woolworth building. Miss Hylan, New York mayor's daughter, is beside him in machine.

Crown Prince Leopold, eldest son of King Albert and Queen Elizabeth of Belgium, visiting the U. S. with his parents, is enjoying himself as would any youth of eighteen, on his first trip to a foreign land. The giant skyscrapers startled the prince as he passed by them on his first trip through the heart of New York. The picture shows him "taking in" one of them.

PRESIDENT'S SECRETARY IS NOT AN ADVOCATE OF RACE SUICIDE

FOX CLAIMS SHE'S FIRST "CAMERAMAID"

HEADS EMPLOYERS AT BIG LABOR MEET

Harry A. Wheeler. Harry A. Wheeler, Chicago banker, has been elected chairman of the group by employers who are attending the industrial conference at Washington. He is a strong believer in the doctrine that through a better understanding labor differences are cleared away.

BRITISH FANS OF THE RING ARE KEPT GUESSING

International News Service.
LONDON, Oct. 17.—Sport writers, boxers, trainers, promoters and top-hatted followers of the gentlemanly art of self-defense are groping about here and there for some guide line by which they can decide the comparative merits of:

1. Joe Beckett;
2. Jack Dempsey.

In England, since boxing is a "hired shirt" function, and a real "West End" game, these inquiries take on almost the rank of a high society auction; but, though the supposed best boxing of a nation have given the question weighty thought, no one seems able to lay hands upon any means of comparison.

No one apparently is going to have secret and profitable advance dope on who is the real world's champion before that perhaps distant date when the victor in a match between two of the allied trio climbs through the ropes to meet the third and settle the question once for all.

American near-experts who happen to have seen Dempsey in action—such as in his last fight—called into the sporting pages and evoked at length as to the might of the conqueror of Jess Willard.

But beyond the seemingly unanimous opinion that none of the three stands up high to the old-timers, such as Bob Fitzsimmons, Corbett and Jeffries, the argument isn't advanced materially by the quoting of American experts and fight fans.

"Corbett is a first of the new British champion," was a chant of vice which arose in some circles in London when the Beckett-Carpenter match was announced; but more expert British sport followers promptly came to the front with explanations of the reasons behind Carpenter's postponement.

His investments in coal regions occupied by the Germans were practically wiped out, they explain. He has been out of the fighting game five years. With his savings wiped out he has more reason than ever not to face a match which might destroy his own country until he is again fit. And after a five-year lay-off it stands to reason he is not in condition as yet to tackle a man who is generally touted as a real champion.

Such is the fair British sportsman's defense of the French champion. They are inclined to leave the Beckett-Carpenter proposition on something of a fifty-fifty basis.

The general judgment here regarding Beckett-Dempsey possibilities is somewhat warped by the fact that the American boxes the British public has opportunities to see just now are Eddie Moran and Erad Fulton.

To give some sort of line on the situation it has been suggested that Fulton be matched with Bombardier Wells. After such a match, perhaps one or the other might have proved his right to meet Beckett. At any event, such matches would at least give the artist something to build dope with.

Appeals for Aid for Belgian Labor Party by Funds

International News Service.
LONDON, Oct. 18.—Arthur Henderson, secretary of the British labor party, who has just gained a seat in parliament over the Lloyd George candidate, is passing the hat for funds to help the Belgian labor party win the next election. The electoral campaign is just about to start in Belgium, Henderson says in his appeal.

"All the problems of reconstruction and restoration of the economic and social life of the Belgian people are involved," reads his circular. "One of the foremost issues will be universal suffrage, which will be strenuously resisted by the hour-

FIRST OF WESTERN FLYERS REACH COAST IN SEA TO SEA RACE

The first of the western flyers to arrive at Mincola flying field, near New York, in the great sea to sea aerial derby were Major C. Spatz and Lieutenant Kiel. Spatz won by about five minutes, to the great joy of members of his family, who were in the field to greet him.

Lieut. Belvin W. Maynard, the "flying parson," was the first of the west-bound flyers to reach the Pacific coast. He made the sea to sea journey in approximately twenty-five hours, starting time beating Spatz and Kiel by two hours.

JACK, NOW AGED TELLS OF DAYS OF BIG BATTLES

He came into view from the stone wall which separated the cornfield and the pasture, his eyes almost closed, fleshy protuberance standing out prominently on his sunburned neck and face.

"Where have you been and what have you been doing?" queried his sister as he approached her. "Have you been fighting?"

"Yes; been fighting, but 'twas bumblebees—and eating their honey," replied Jack, without thought of the pain to his face.

"But it was a jolly, good time we boys had," he added.

"Fighting bumblebees is a man's job," said Jack, as he started to explain his afternoon's expedition against the buzzing, stinging, enragued flyers from the stone wall.

"Please tell us how you fight them," said his sister, as a number of the household gathered to see what was the matter with Jack.

"Well, I'll do it," said Jack, as he began to launch enthusiastically and restlessly into the story of the robbing of the wild bees.

"These summer days on the farm without anything to do gets on a kid's nerve. Me and some of my friends decided to have a big lark all to ourselves. A few weeks ago Henry, my playfellow, ran into a cavity of these stinging insects and was laughingly chased a half mile to a creek, where, after stinging him three times, some of these carriers winged back to their lair.

"Henry suggested that we get even. He said that back in South Texas his uncle showed him how to fight bumblebees. They had lots of fun when they got a number of boys to help them. So we decided to 'capture the bumblebees' nest and rob it of its honey, while, though wild, is not so bad tasting.

"First we got our arms. We didn't use broomwood paddles, either. We tried that once and was stung all over. These paddles merely brush the bees away and after they get over the stinging they come again. With us it was a reckless battle to the death. We made paddles of thin wood with a few holes in the blade so quick striking would not be difficult.

"Then one of us went up to the nest in the stone wall and waved the paddle defiantly. A bee sitting on a leaf at the aperture nodded significantly two or three times, hummed an unknown bee language, darted after the lad, accompanied by a fearless detachment from the nest. We struck right and left as they came, and every time a paddle struck the throbbing body of doughty fighters there was a snappy report and a bumblebee dropped, crushed and maimed, to the earth.

"But it is not always so easy to engage them. Sometimes more than we could battle at one time came flying out. We had to take the consequences, which meant that the little 'men' would find a vulnerable spot on one's neck or face and soon some of us would be screaming with pain. The first part of the battle is not so severe," said Jack. "The big 'men' of the colony are first sent out. They are ferocious and great gladiators, but they are large and hence easily made a target for our paddles; but after they have been swept away by our paddles the Queens of freedom send out her little 'Japs' of the colony," against which it is almost impossible to fight, especially when more than two or three dart at us at once. They are about half as large as the big ones. They can sting horribly, too. They dart with the precision and speed of a bullet, and have a sting probably more unbearable than that of a bullet.

"Some boys are unfair with the bumblebees," said Jack, as he shrugged his shoulders and appeared a fighter to his auditors. "They get dark-colored snuff bottles, fill them with water. These they bury half-way in the ground near the nest. Bees coming out seeing the mouth of the bottle think they are human eyes," and going into them as if drawn.

"When do you know the bees are whipped?" asked his sister.

"That's easy," said Jack. "When they stop coming out in such droves we know they are nearly done for. Of course, some of those which have been away from the nest gathering honey come browsing in and want to give fight, but they are so encumbered with their cargo of honey they can't put up much of a fight.

"When we think the bees are about all whipped we dig into the nest and unearth from among the leaves, sticks and paper and cotton, great masses of bee-bread and honey. The honey has a splendid—though wild—taste. Sometimes some of the honey is a little poisonous, but not often; at least, not poisonous to cause death to the eater."

Jack told of an engagement with bees in which he and a number of other boys in swimming in a South Texas creek took part. The bees had their home almost at the edge of the creek, in a cavity of driftwood that had been thrown up years before by an unprecedented rise on the stream. The boys discovered it one day when they were in swimming. Two or three of the lads were severely stung. They decided they would fight it out. To manifest their bravery they stripped their clothing from their bodies, armed themselves with thin wooden paddles, "waved" the bees out of their covert, and made a leap for deep water. If the bees became too numerous for one man to fight, a dip of water soon announced that he sorely pressed lad was under water. He would later reappear at quite a distance, outside of the danger zone.

Jack says the lads who fight bumblebees with fire are cowards. Setting fire to their nests and robbing the wings of the honey-carriers is scoffed at.

"One time," said Jack, "I was chewing a cud of Lucy Hinton tobacco which I had stolen from my uncle, who didn't believe in boys learning the bad habit, and went to fight out a nest of bees in a stone wall down in Hays county.

"The colony was much more powerful than I had been led to believe them to be. I had waved my paddle a number of times ineffectually and began to think that this was a demoralizing colony, but bless your hearts, a few more waving brought almost the whole colony at once. I

..... JACK, NOW—TWO raw instead of one or two bees about fifty—they looked like a thousand to me—coming directly toward me. I forgot having a chew of Lucy Hinton in my mouth and in my eagerness to sigh and run into a friendly cornfield I swallowed the whole thing. I was a sick kid; believe me."

Bumblebee fighting affords more entertainment for the country lads of South Texas than any other diversion. It makes strong, vigorous lads; it gives them courage and initiative; it gives them exercise that stores up a hardy constitution against the days their lives are to be immured behind office desks.

Jack made a live boy. He points to the day he experienced such lavishness of thrills that come only once in the lifetime of a man.

WOULD ORGANIZE ARMENIAN ARMY ALL OVER WORLD

Gen. A. H. Torcon.

Gen. A. H. Torcon of the Armenian army has outlined a plan to the senate foreign relations committee for organizing an Armenian army all over the world. He would recruit a division of Armenians in the U. S., a brigade in Canada, three regiments in Europe—mainly from the Balkans, and others from Syria and Egypt, to a total of $3,404. With this force, he declares, his country could be guarded from the Turks and Tartars without the aid of other countries.

New Fishing Laws in Effect in Texas

AUSTIN, Oct. 18.—The 1919 state legislature made a number of changes in the laws regulating the taking of fish and oysters from Texas waters. A digest of a statement issued by the fish, game and oyster commission shows the following salient features: Any person engaged in buying or selling fish, oysters, shrimp, turtles or other water product must pay a license fee of $10 and a tax of $1 per 1,000 pounds of fish and one cent a barrel of oysters. Only citizens of the United States may obtain this license. The new law bases the size of fish to be sold upon length instead of weight, the following standards being set: Red fish, over 27 or under 12 inches. Red fish, it is said, do not begin breeding until they reach near the maximum set. Trout, minimum 12 inches; sheepshead, minimum 9 inches; flounder, 12 inches; pompano, 9; Spanish mackerel, 14 inches. Seines 1500 feet long and with mesh not less than one and one-half inches for the baes and not less than one inch for fifty feet on each side of the baes may be used; but nets or seine of wire metal are prohibited. Fish water fishing is restricted to the use of a hook and line, trot line or set or dragnet with meshes not less than three inches. A 20-foot minnow seine is allowed. The law creating a closed season for baes and crannies was repealed, but the use of artificial bait, seines or nets is prohibited during what was the closed season. The mini-

To Extend Work of the Rockefeller Foundation Soon

SHANGHAI, Sept. 5.—(By mail)—Following an investigation of the activities of the Rockefeller Foundation in China and the Philippines that was conducted through the summer months by Dr. George E. Vincent, president of the Foundation, it is understood that the expenditure of the Rockefeller Foundation in China will be authorized at the annual meeting of the Rockefeller Foundation in New York in December.

building. The Rockefeller Foundation is expected to decide at its December meeting when work will be started on the Shanghai institution. Pending the completion of the new building, in addition to its other activities the China Medical Board has been granting fellowships and scholarships of medical students for study in the United States and has been aiding native physicians, nurses and students to pursue courses in American schools. The expenditure of the Rockefeller Foundation in China at 1913 amounted to $2,000,000.

PIANO STRIKERS MAY GET LONG "VACATION" International News Service. NEW YORK, Oct. 18.—Piano manufacturers in this city are considering giving their factories furloughs "vacations" in order to bring their striking employees to terms. The manufacturers have announced that if at the end of this month former employees do not return to work the factories will be closed for a month. The strikers demand recognition of their newly-formed union, a 44-hour week and a minimum wage of $42 a week for piece workers.

CAMPAINS IN QUEENSLAND FOR IRELAND'S FREEDOM International News Service. BRISBANE, Oct. 18.—At a largely attended public meeting recently held in Brisbane, resolutions were passed pledging the meeting to do all in its power to support the Irish determination for self-government. It was further resolved to establish a fund to assist the movement, and to forward a copy of the resolution to the Irish-American and American press, also to Presidents Wilson and De Valera.

OIL FIELD WORKERS ARE WELL ORGANIZED Special to The Times. FORT WORTH, Oct. 17.—J. A. Wilson, general organizer for the International Association of Oil Field, Gas Well and Refinery Workers of America, declares that 98 per cent of the oil workers of the Louisiana and Southeast Texas fields have been organized.

MINERAL WELLS PEOPLE TO WORK WEST ROADS Special to The Times. MINERAL WELLS, Oct. 17.—More than 100 citizens of Mineral Wells and adjoining towns have signed a list pledging themselves to work the road from this city to the Stephens county line, October 25. More than 100 trucks have been pledged for the work and the large "I" companies operating in the field also have signified their intention to participate in the road improvement work.

DECLARER OF ILIIT TILLS OPERATING IN THIS STATE Special to The Times. DALLAS, Oct. 17.—Rev. Alticus Welch, superintendent of the Anti-Saloon League of Texas, is authority for the assertion that more than 200 illicit stills are operating in various parts of Texas. He says the "prohibitory" funds are paying for quaffs of the liquor is remarkably high. He has authorized the sending of two well known speakers over the state to tell the people of the need of encouraging the movement for its support and for world-wide prohibition.

All He Asked. They were standing outside the front door, having a final chat after his evening call. He was leaning against the door post, talking in low, dulcet tones. She was listening and gazing rapturously into his eyes. Suddenly she turned around. The door had opened, and there, just inside, stood her father, clad in a dressing gown.

"My dear father," she asked, "what is the matter?" Her father ignored the question. "John," he said, addressing the young man, "you know I've never complained about your staying late, and I'm not going to complain now; but for goodness sake stop leaning against the bell-pull. Other people must come sleep, even if you don't." London Times.

AUSTIN, Oct. 17.—Of the nine convicts for whose pardons petitions were made to the governor the state executive Monday granted fifty-one pardons. Twenty-two of these were for tuberculosis, who will be taken care of by relatives who intercede for their release. The others are at "friends."

HICKMAN HONEST REALTY RELIABLE COMPANY COURTEOUS P. O. Box 746, Ranger, Texas Reference: First National Bank "Get Rich in Ranger" As stated yesterday, our business is: Locating and selling of Business Opportunities in Ranger. Exchanging Royalties in or near proven territory for good agricultural lands. Buying and selling Oil Leases, especially in extensions and in unproved but promising fields. So far our principal work has been on Business Opportunities in Ranger and the result has been the listing of wonderful opportunities for money-making investments, of say, $1,000 up, in our city—growing returns almost beyond belief, but actual facts, as can be shown by figures in our office to anyone interested. The matter of exchanging Royalties for farm lands is now receiving our attention. We have some valuable royalties listed and are getting in touch with outside interests to secure the farm lands. If you are interested in an exchange of this kind, see or write us. We are just beginning to get in line for the handling of Oil Leases, as above indicated, and will be pleased to see you in our office, or hear from you by mail, if interested. We are asked repeatedly if we will handle residence property. Agents experienced in conditions here say we will not have time—taking on too much. With we could—as for example, this: One of Ranger's best and most reliable business men has given us the opportunity to sell his (and) one of the most modern and up-to-date in our city, that combines three qualities not always found in one place. Grover Hartt, President J. R. Nichols, Vice President and Treasurer Earl Adams Jr., Secretary AMERICAN OIL & REFINING ASSOCIATION OF RANGER, TEXAS Fully Paid and Non-Assessable

OUR OFFICERS GROVER HARTT, the President and General Manager, is general manager, vice president and trustee of the Mary Elizabeth Oil Co. J. R. Nichols, the Vice President and Treasurer of this company is president of the Mary Elizabeth Oil Co., and the City Attorney of Ranger, Texas. EARL ADAMS JR., the Secretary, was formerly District Attorney for the Third District, and one of the most highly respected members of the East Texas bar.

OUR AIM The officers of this company have two very definite aims: (1) To give a "square deal" to both the stockholders and the public, and (2) to establish a Large, Successful and Permanent Oil Company to engage in all phases of the oil business.

OUR HOLDINGS Lease No. 1— In the very heart of the Desdemona Field, we have two acres on which to drill our first well. There is large production on every side; for instance, the Duke Dome and the Ranger-Rock Island are both reported as 4,000-barrel wells. We can hardly fail to get oil in our very first well.

Lease No. 2— On the northeast side of the field we have a five-acre tract that has production on three sides of it.

Lease No. 3— Recent excitement in Desdemona has been somewhat in the west and northwest. There are also five acres. The Lewis well, recently of so much interest and excitement, has carried production beyond this tract.

Lease No. 4— This, in the southwest part of the wonderful field of Desdemona we have two and one-half acres near the Eppler, which has been producing for some time. But the Magnolia Oil Co. has just bought in its Carruth well, almost adjacent to this tract. This makes it a lease of unmeasured possibilities.

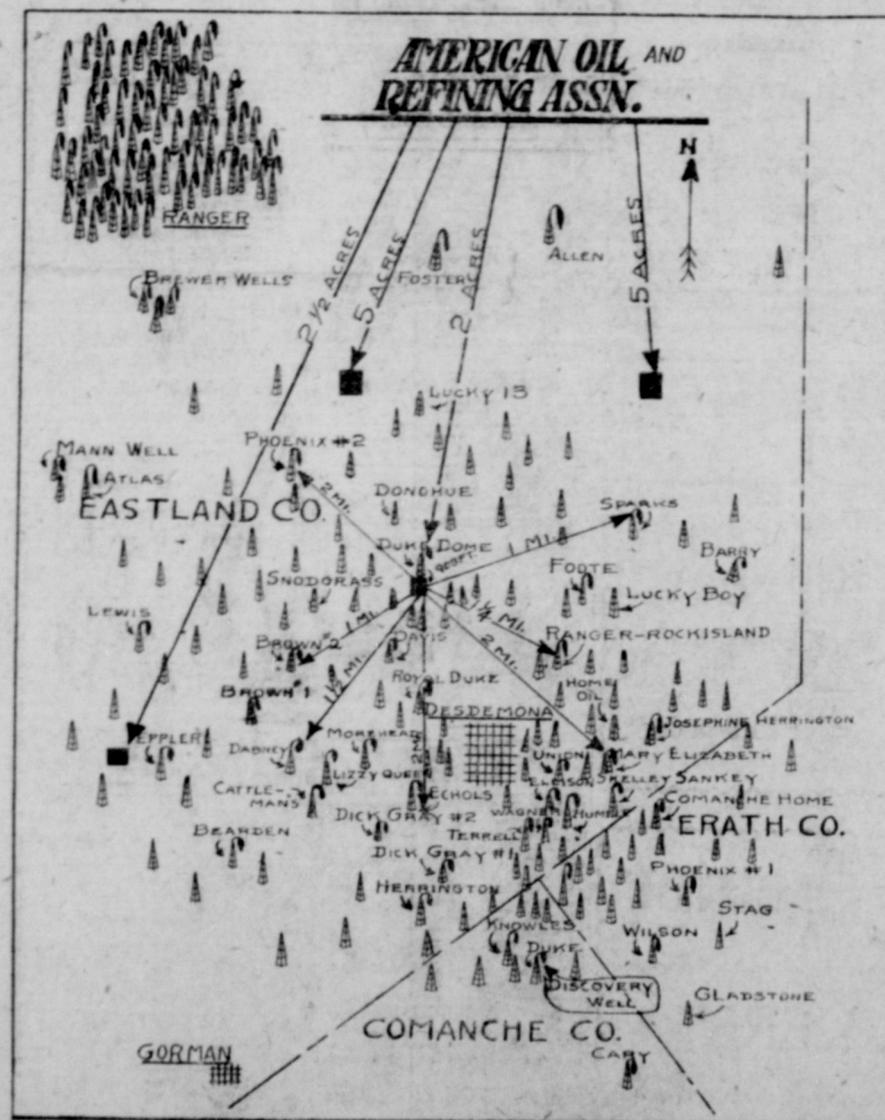

Lease No. 5— In Young County we have 21 acres. The county has large development going on, and it lies largely in the Pennsylvania formation. It is also almost on a straight line between Burkhardt and Ranger.

Lease No. 6— No one doubts any longer that Harrison County will be a great oil field. Every oil report gives something new and of interest there. Our lease there covers 20 acres.

Lease No. 7— The same may be said of Wilbarger county. Several wells there have a showing of oil, proving beyond all doubt that there is some oil in that section. We have 30 acres of it.

Lease No. 8— The geologists are expecting a great oil field now, more than anywhere else, in the Lyndonville. One of the places there of greatest excitement and actual development at present is in Potter County, where gas wells have been discovered sufficiently large to supply Amarillo and other cities.

It is generally understood, where there is gas, oil is near, in fact, the Haggood well in the northern part of Potter county, is now gushing 200 feet in oil and will undoubtedly be a producer before this article is read by the public.

We have some acreage in this county, which will be in the very heart of the oil field if oil is discovered. Furthermore, just over the line, in Moore County, we also have a large block of acreage, which is well located with reference to the Haggood well, and which alone would make the company immensely rich if it proves to be a gusher.

Lease No. 9— All the world knows about the great fields of Humble, Beaumont, Sour Lake and Goose Creek. In order that our Company might enjoy the benefit of the fabulous wealth gushing from the bosom of the earth there, we secured 320 acres in Liberty County near the immortal Goose Creek Gushers. Recently six great gushers were drilled in that county.

Lease No. 10— In Nolan County, there are sixteen wells. One is now down 2,700 feet, with a showing of oil. Two others have drilled more than 1,200 feet deep. In that county, also, we have a well located block of acreage that will yield great wealth for the Company, if these other wells prove to be gushers.

Lease No. 11— Runnels County has some shallow production already and many deep tests are being made, and there we also have acreage.

Other Leases— In fact, we have more than 4,000 Acres in the following counties, in addition to four well located blocks in the proven field of Desdemona as shown by map: Baylor, Brazoria, Carson, Childress, Coke, Dallam, Eastland, Hamilton, Hardeman, Hartley, Haskell, Houston, Hudspeth, Hutchinson, Jones, King, Knox, Lampasas, Liberty, Mills, McCulloch, Moore, Nolan, Panola, Parker, Pecos, Patten, Reagan, Runnels, Rusk, Shelby, Tom Green, Wilbarger.

WHY A MILLION-DOLLAR CAPITAL? SOME people ask why the capitalization is so large. The answer is clear to those of experience. First, it reduces the risk to a minimum, by making it possible to drill more than one well. A small company risks everything in one well. If it is dry the company is hopelessly lost. But with a large capitalization, many wells can be drilled. Failure at any one place means little. And, so far as the dividends are concerned, they will be just as large, for if a small company can drill one well, the large company can drill many wells. So, all in all, the large capital simply reduces the company to a more solid business basis.

Never before in the history of an oil field did a company have a better chance for an oil well on the first effort. Look at the map and you will see that our first drilling site is absolutely surrounded by production. No one could guarantee an oil well. It would be foolish to do so in a thing. That element of risk is all that makes it possible for anyone to buy stock in the company.

OUR CHANCE Those who take a chance in these oil fields almost always succeed. It was not the case formerly, and that very fact is keeping many people from participating in the enormous profits of the oil business today. This business has been reduced to a solid business. Sound management, abundant energy and good judgment are the three essential qualities. As to whether the officers of this company have these qualities, you are respectfully referred to the stockholders of the Mary Elizabeth Oil Co.

VALUE OF INVESTMENT "One Good Investment is Worth a Lifetime of Labor."

$100 invested in Union Oil	$150,000.00
$100 invested in Home Oil	50,000.00
$100 invested in New York Oil	40,000.00
$100 invested in the Dugman Oil	40,000.00
$100 invested in the Alameda Oil	30,000.00

And in the Hog Creek Oil Company of Desdemona, where we are going to drill our first well, each $100 invested yielded 20,000.00.

Really, you expect to make a fortune. Most people do. But they hesitate. Procrastination steals away the opportunity, and in after years, when comfort is so much desired and needed, with sadness and regret they say, "It might have been." The oil game is a fast one. Quick decisions and immediate action are essential. The one word on the Clock of Eternity is NOW.

Don't let opportunity pass you by. Only $300,000 worth of stock will be sold at par. Act today.

PLAN OF MANAGEMENT Our general plan of management will be about as follows:

- To drill well No. 1 as soon as possible.
- To be economical.
- To drill our other leases if oil is found in paying quantities.
- If oil is not found then it will be our plan to drill somewhere else in proven territory.
- To do all of our early operations only in proven territory.
- And since this company is being organized for a definite purpose of making a large and successful oil company, it will be our purpose to construct refineries, pipe lines, etc., ultimately, when the company will justify such undertakings.
- Drilling will start just as soon as enough stock has been sold to guarantee the completion of the first well. Action will be had from the very start. Only $300,000 of stock will be sold at par value. Treasury stock will not draw dividends.

BRITON SAYS U. S. FAR AHEAD OF ENGLAND NOW

(International News Service.)

ROCHDALE, England, Oct. 18.—When Mr. Samuel Turner told me today that he was "staggered" by the result of his visit to the United States I was impressed by his use of the word, because he is a typical cool, long-headed, far-sighted Lancashire man who has built up the great asbestos manufacturing concern of Turner Bros., Ltd.

"I went to the United States," he told me, "to find out what were the prospects of this country and its world trade in competition with the United States under after-the-war conditions. I spent two months in the East and Middle West investigating industrial conditions, and I was staggered by the result. I found that in hardly any industry are we able to compete with the United States."

"I found coal of 14,000 British thermal units—a very high quality, better than our average industrial coal—sold throughout the East at a price not exceeding $1.92 to $2.10 per ton, pit-mouth price. I found that pig iron could be produced at $26 a ton, against our $39, and steel rails at $60 a ton, against $82, which will be the price here when the new cost of coal is added.

"Looking into the question of factory construction, I found that it is now considerably cheaper in the United States, particularly so if the well known American standardized system is adopted.

"Wages in the United States are from 25 to 50 per cent higher, the rate varying with the locality. One of the largest manufacturing concerns in Cincinnati pays unskilled labor 40 cents per hour and skilled labor, such as carpenters, 75 cents per hour.

"If a man wishes to put up a new factory in the United States he can place a contract, subject to penalty if the time is exceeded, for construction during the spring and summer, in four months. Here a similar building would take a year.

"I found evidence on every hand that the United States is fully aware of these advantages. Nationalization is out of the question there. No one wants it or asks for it.

"As to finance, the position of American firms is better than ever. No firm which came within my notice was an exception to the rule. They have practically unlimited funds in their own treasuries. For two years before they came into the war they sold their output at auction to the warring nations, making profits beyond dreams. And now they are using these funds for purposes of national aggression.

"On the top of these advantages you have the fact that the exchange is all in their favor. When the United States is buying from us she gets $43.20 worth of goods for $38.88; when we buy from her we pay $47.52 for $43.20 worth.

"Her industrial position is far better than ours. While certain meager conditions is nothing approaching ours. Labor in America is not political. While it fights determinedly and ruthlessly for its own hand, there is no underlying principle at the root seeking to upset existing social conditions."

Mr. Turner, a quiet, earnest, thoughtful man, who is a master of details in his own large mills and has organized a world-wide trade in its products, gave me these facts with the air of a man who is revolving them all the time in his mind.

"For us there is only one hope," he said, "to bend our backs to the task of raising production per man to the United States level. High wages and short hours can be permanently maintained only with large production. The root cause of the Americans' growing prosperity is that labor there accepts the necessary discipline and control from the directing ability of men placed over them and makes no attempt to restrict output."

(International News Service.)

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., Oct. 18.—Youth and old are regular "buddies" at Harvard university. Fourteen-year-old Jacob Shankman, a spry little chap in "knickerbockers" often seen hustling along to class beside Col. George E. Lyon, Jr., tall, gray-haired, seventy-one years young, and a college boy; and often these two intellectual marvels talk things over in the colonel's rooms, which were used by Washington in the revolutionary war days.

They have a good deal in common, these two extremes of Harvard's student body. Literature, history, current events and the whole range of intellectual topics deeply interest them both. It gives them a wide field for discussion.

However, the remarkable part of it all is that the colonel is the one who thinks and dreams and displays the spirit of youth. The boy carries with him an academic air. Colonel Lyon is full of pep and ginger. The "Colonian infant," as Shankman is called, always appears to be in deep thought. "I'm on Easy street and have come back from Nebraska to play again at being a student at my old college," exclaims the colonel. If Shankman engages in sports he has not revealed the fact. "Every morning I go through a set of exercises of from 600 to 1,000 movements, and in the afternoon I take a swim in the gym tank and some more exercise," exclaims the colonel. The infant prodigy lives quietly at home. Colonel Lyon has a big study aflame with college banners and "prep" school flags—also a fine life-size statue of Venus de Milo. The studious lad is the center of attraction going and coming across the college yard; but it is his age and size that attract. The colonel is a rare entertainer. His rooms are visited nightly by students who have grown to love and respect their college mate of seventy-one summers for his good-fellowship, his sound views on life and his remarkable talents.

The boy aspires to be a great doctor; but, mind you, before that, colonel of the Harvard crew. The 71-year-old student wants to be the greatest expert on literature and the finest orator. His coming back to college is more of a "rest" for him than anything else. In his own words: "When a youth, come to college. When you have grown up, come to college; and when the family Bible tells you that you are three score years and ten, even then come to college. In other words, have a hobby—if it's nothing more than raising pigs. Have a great aboriginal interest in life be-

WILL ATTEMPT TO WIN PRIZE OF $50,000

(Associated Press.)

LOS ANGELES, Oct. 18.—Flying a Sopwith airplane, Capt. Eric Donaldson of the British Royal Flying Corps will attempt to win the $50,000 prize offered by Thomas H. Ince, movie picture producer and sportsman, for the first successful airplane flight across the Pacific ocean, within the next few days. Captain Donaldson, the first bona fide entrant in the contest, made a visit here recently and disclosed his plans.

Captain Donaldson now is on the way to England from his home in Australia, where he has been on a furlough. He expects to be discharged within the next sixty days and will bring with him from England the Sopwith machine he will use. He has been flying for the British since the past four years and is regarded as one of the country's best aviators. The Sopwith machine he plans to use will be an exact duplicate of the machine in which Harry Hawker made his flight across the Atlantic.

A navigator will accompany Captain Donaldson and his machine will be equipped with a powerful wireless set, he says. He plans to make a journey from Venice, Cal., to a point in Australia in five jumps, stopping at Honolulu, Fanning Islands, Phoenix Islands and Fiji Islands. He says that Honolulu his regular landing spot will be supplanted by pontoons which will enable him to land on the water.

Although twelve days are allowed in which to complete the trip in accordance with the rules of the Pacific Aero club, which is sponsoring the contest, Captain Donaldson plans to use only ten. He plans to leave Venice, Cal., about 4 o'clock in the afternoon and hopes to arrive at Honolulu by noon the next day.

TRAVELS 1500 MILES WITH SIX CHILDREN FOR 50 CENTS

(Associated Press.)

LOS ANGELES, Oct. 18.—The high cost of living—including the high cost of traveling—means nothing to Mrs. Adah Bradley, who has just arrived here with six children, after traveling from Silver Lake, Ore., a distance of 1,500 miles, at a total financial expenditure of 50 cents.

Mrs. Bradley lived eighteen years in Eastern Oregon, having been there as regular for a long time, and she had just 50 cents to make a rather and become the mother of six. More than a year ago she said her husband left home and she had not seen him since. He left behind her an empty home and a two-year-old, crippled child minus a toe, but equipped with loose spokes in the wheels.

Finally in despair at her situation, Mrs. Bradley put her six children, a two-year-old and all the family clothes into the car, hitched the old horse to it and started for Los Angeles. She had just 50 cents in cash, but much courage. The date of her departure was May 15, 1919. They made the trip in a little less than four months. They stopped at friendly farm houses and when they reached an orchard where the crop was being harvested she went to work. Her oldest child, twelve years old, helped her. Homer, eleven, the only boy, did the same. Rose, nine, did what she could along the same line; Mary, seven, took care of Iris, four, and Grace, two, the baby.

"We had to suffer hardships, of course," Mrs. Bradley said, "but we found the hearts of all the people we met were big. Now that it is over I think it was a wonderful experience. What we want now is a place to start life again."

STEPHENVILLE CONTRACTS FOR IMPOSING THEATER

(Associated Press.)

STEPHENVILLE, Oct. 17.—Construction work will be started at once on a new playhouse for this city to cost $40,000. Cox & Donnell were awarded the contract. The structure will be 50x100 feet, well ventilated and otherwise modernly built. It will have a seating capacity of 100.

TEXAS AND PACIFIC SHOP WORKERS GET INCREASE

MARSHALL, Oct. 17.—Six hundred local shopmen employed by the Texas and Pacific railway company will receive a substantial increase in salary October 20, retroactive to May 1 of this year, it was announced here today. The increase follows a conference between representatives of the shopmen and the railroad administration.

JAIL DELIVERY AT ABILENE

ABILENE, Oct. 17.—Miss Lily Ayres, office assistant to Sheriff John Bond, looked up from her desk Wednesday afternoon as a man entered the office.

"I am a federal prisoner," said the man. "I came over to tell you the jail is open."

Sheriff Bond being out of town for a short time, Judge E. M. Overstiner and Treasurer Austin Fitts went to the jail to investigate. It developed that a "trustee" had obtained the keys of the cells by a ruse and had opened all the cells. Two other prisoners walked off with him, the other three refusing to leave. The trustee was a crippled boy sixteen years old, held in connection with a burglary charge. One of the other prisoners who escaped was charged with theft. None of the escaped prisoners had been retaken.

FREIGHT CONGESTION NOW UNDER STATE ADVISEMENT

AUSTIN, Oct. 17.—The railway commission has taken under advisement the charges made by West Texas interests as to congestion, "tipping" and other alleged mispractices. The feature of the Tuesday session was the filing of a statement relative to conditions prevailing on the Missouri, Kansas and Texas lines about Wichita Falls and including the Texas Central. C. H. Whitehead, federal manager in charge of this road, declared that abnormal traffic caused the present congestion, but that the worst of it had been passed.

BAD WEATHER DELAYS WORK IN THE COUNTY

By Leroy A. Wilks.
EASTLAND, Oct. 18.—With cloudy weather all day Monday and Tuesday and another heavy rain falling Wednesday night, all work in the Eastland field has been delayed and will be delayed for another week. More rain has fallen in this county during the past week than has fallen here for the past four years, not including of course the past rainy season, according to the old timers.

Some attribute this heavy rain fall to the terrific amount of gas which has been escaping in the field during the past week while others claim that it is the following of the old adage of "when it rains, it pours," meaning of course that now since oil has been found here and it is no trouble for a tired out farmer to sell his royalty for enough money to last him for the remainder of his life, good rains come and make the heaviest crops ever known before.

Drilling has been going right on during the past week regardless of the amount of rain which has been falling, but it will have to discontinue in a short time unless the rains get in a condition to haul materials over them in a quantity, according to the operators. It is not impossible to drill during the heaviest of rains but during the long seasons of rain such as is falling in this section now, it is almost impossible for the heavy trucks and wagons loaded with oil field supplies to go over the road. The only way they can do it is to haul a light load.

This will not be necessary long however, on account of the good roads which are to be built in the county, following the voting of $4,500,000 to build permanent roads in this county. Construction on these roads will begin at once, according to an announcement made by the county commissioners, following a tour of the Texas counties where good roads have been built. They are now making a careful study of the reports of these counties and will then extend the money of Eastland county so that it will give the county the most good.

Events have been taking place in this county this week, however, outside of the oil development. Charters have been granted to two more state banks to operate in the county. Both are in Olden, between Ranger and Eastland. One is the Guaranty State Bank of Olden with N. B. Harris as president and A. Nix, cashier. The other is the First State Bank with G. W. Dawson as president and W. F. Babin as cashier. Both banks have a capitalization of $25,000 each.

A contract has also been let for the construction of a new $100,000 city hall for Eastland and workmen are now busy building a new standpipe and other work of the city water supply.

A paving contract for certain paving in the city has also been let and work will begin at once. The paving plan for the city at present amounts to about $600,000.

Nothing very unusual in the way of oil development in this field has taken place during the past week although there are several wells which have come in and others which are to an interesting depth.

Among the wells which came in was the C. E. Terrell No. 1, T. F. well north of Eastland. This well is said to be making about 1200 barrels from the top of the pay.

Sinclair Gulf B. L. Danley No. 2 is now making about fifty barrels from the top of the lime at 2370 feet. No. 2, at 4130 feet is standing full of oil and flowing by heads.

On the W. T. Boyd tract the Texas Co. is now drilling a score of wells. No. 5, is flowing about 80 barrels an hour from the top of the lime. This is a tract of 219 acres. On the northwest corner of the York survey are to be drilled, full of holes by the Texas Co., just as fast as the wells can be put down. The J. C. Littleton adjoining tract to the Pleasant Grove tract, No. 5, is making about 90 barrels an hour from the top of the lime.

Coming nearer to Eastland and in the Pleasant Grove district the Royal Duke now has a well 2222 feet with good showings and another rig up on its 8 1/2 acre "L" shaped tract on the Hanks place. Royal Duke also has production in the Desdemona field.

Offsetting the Royal Duke on the West part of the Hanks tract the Prairie Oil & Gas has drilled in and on the lease the Empire Oil & Gas is rigging up No. 2, on the Peoples tract. To the south of the Hanks tract States has a good well on the P. P. Barber tract. This well is now making about 1200 barrels.

South of the Barber tract on the J. B. Nivers tract the Kentucky River Oil Co. is drilling at 2600 feet. The Texas Ventura Oil Co. on this tract is making about 50 barrels a day from the top of the sand at 3327 feet. States also has a rig up on this tract.

To the South of Olden the Empire International Oil Co. is clearing off 12 acre tract on the Joe Norton place to build a rig.

Development is also moving south of Eastland with a rig started on the Joe Burkett farm on the Leon river, two miles south of here. Rigs are also starting between here and Desdemona. The Ranger-Eastland Oil Co. has just completed a rig on the townsite of Desdemona and is working on two more rigs between Eastland and Desdemona.

Tools are being moved in for drilling in the Okosh-Ranger well on the Carwell tract two miles north of Eastland and drilling probably will be started soon. This well will make an extension of considerable distance from the present well. The Empire International Oil Co. is now standing more than 3000 feet in oil and will be brought in within a few days. No. 2, rig has been built in the northwest corner of the tract. Drilling on the Kincaid No. 1, Ardmore-Pruden, has been suspended for

S. Harrison Thomson of Princeton University recently captured the national all-around championship at Archery Field, Jersey City. His victory is doubly interesting because he is the brother of Fred C. Thomson, who won the all-around title three times.

Several days on account of the drilling contract, which called for 3500 feet. This well has been making a good show and which properly proven, will open up piles of new territory.

Adjoining in on the Dulin tract the Eastland Pool Production Co. has made a new location.

The Eastland International has another location on section 36 between the Tracy, Egan and Ray wells.

S. F. Balestino's wildcat well on the Watson tract is now 425 feet and waiting for 15-inch casing.

May Explore Earth's Interior

(Special Correspondent International News Service.)
BOURNEMOUTH, England, Oct. 18.—Jules Verne imagined and described a journey to the center of the earth, and H. G. Wells dipped lightly into the interior of the moon. It has been left for the president of the British association to propose in the cool and calculating manner of a scientific engineer a real expedition of discovery into the depths of the earth's crust. Anyone except Charles Parsons, who proposes to dig down for twelve miles or more into the world, would perhaps be received with a smile of incredulity. He has already achieved the next to impossible in his marvelous turbine engine, with its millions of blades and what he says matters.

Sr Charles has not merely proposed that such a great dig should be undertaken, but he has drawn up a plan for the work. He does not pin himself to any definite area for operations. Volcanic rocks, he thinks, would be the most promising for a beginning, but they are scarce in this country.

There is, in addition to the prospect of tapping some natural source of earth power, as, for instance, high pressure steam, the possibility of coming on new stores of metal such as platinum. One of the questions to be faced is whether at a great depth the earth would crush into the shaft, because it is a real mine shaft and not merely a narrow tube bore that he proposes.

Sr Charles tells me that realistic experiments made on granite blocks by Prof. Frank Adams of McGill university, Montreal, show that below a depth of thirty miles the granite would begin to soften. Up to that depth boring in granite would probably be practicable. He would be satisfied with a twelve-mile shaft.

The earth's deepest shaft at present is in South Africa, and is a little more than a mile deep. The great dig presents no difficulties which cannot be overcome by the ordinary methods of mining engineers. The first point would be to choose a district free from water-bearing strata to avoid pumping. The shaft would be of the shaft usual in coal mines. It would be sunk in sections, each about half a mile deep, and each section would have its machinery worked by electricity for dealing with that particular section.

One of the main problems to be dealt with is that of air pressure. At twelve miles, the air pressure would be intolerable, but Sr Charles would cut off the air pressure by means of air locks placed at every second or third mile in the shaft. Even at two or three miles the atmospheric pressure would be about double that of the surface. In each division of two or three miles the air pressure would be normal immediately below the air lock, while at the bottom of each division it would be equal to two atmospheres.

Air would be passed through the air locks by means of pumps coupled to air engines worked by electric motors. By means of these air locks the miners would be able to breathe with comparative comfort, however deep the shaft might go.

With Corn Cutter. Horses and Bolsheviks. Controls the U. S. Navy? Income of a Billion.

ARTHUR BRISBANE

Not long ago the world went over and over the picture of the man with the shoes, several poets wrote about it. You remember the poet, prematurely aged, bending over in his wooden shoes.

Times change. Now the world admires the man with the corn cutter. The cartoonists have drawn the man with the corn cutter, and the poets have written about him, and the poets have written about him, and the poets have written about him.

For excitement go out to Skull Valley where the local authorities invite you to shoot wild horses, dangerous and it is a most dangerous because of the wild horses to run wild.

The 15,000 wild horses in the valley remind you of Bolsheviks and the wild horses is to wait until two bands meet and leaders begin fighting. They pay attention to nothing but their right, and you can shoot them at your ease.

So it is, as the intelligent capitalist will tell you, with bands of wild Indians when they meet.

Poor old Uncle Sam without even waiting for the Peace League to be put over on him seems to have lost control of his own navy. Mr. Daniels informed that United States marines are withdrawn from a Dalmatian port, to which they had been sent to help Dalmatians put out Italians, says he knows nothing about it. He does not know who ordered the withdrawal.

The movements of our marines were based on orders issued in Paris. If fighting men and ships of the United States are to be controlled by rates without the knowledge of the secretary of the navy before the Peace League goes over, what would be done with the Peace League in full swing? Ask yourself that.

According to the bureau of taxation "million dollar incomes are becoming fewer in the United States." Those words "million dollar incomes" are interesting in a simple republic. Perhaps they become fewer because income taxation becomes taller, and more of the million dollar incomes find some way to hide under the bed.

We have reached in our simple democracy the million dollar income. It is the five or ten million dollar income excites no surprise. What is more interesting, we shall have before long the billion dollar income. If the Rockefeller family should choose to live for the next twenty years on the modest sum of one million dollars, investing and reinvesting the rest, at the end of twenty years they would have an income of one billion at least, probably more. That shows how self-control, saving and arithmetic combine to work wonders. When the billion income arrives, it will seem quite natural.

Young Mr. Rockefeller has postponed slightly the arrival of the billion dollar income by giving seventy-five thousand dollars to the philanthropic Jewish building fund, fifty thousand for his father, twenty-five thousand for himself. He gives the money because he admires the business ability shown in the management of Jewish charities. It is a fact that in philanthropy the Jew displays economies in saving money as great as the economies of the Standard Oil in accumulating money, which is saying a good deal. Mr. Rockefeller's gift is a tribute from one good business man to a group of other good business men.

The law of supply and demand, like a cat, seems hard to kill; even war does not destroy it. There are seven thousand foreign buyers at the Leipzig fair, ready to buy German goods to be sold in other countries, including countries recently at war with Germany. Business is not sentimental. If you have goods to sell at the right price, you find a buyer, war or no war.

What particular little ganglion group of cells in the human brain is it that makes us make a "kiss the flag" gesture? "Blessed few days you lived. Blessings crumbled to know and kiss the flag, then driven out of town."

You are supposed to respect your flag as you respect your mother. If a ruffian insults your mother you would not exactly compel him to kneel down and kiss her; that would be only another insult. The fact is that human beings possessing power enjoy the sensation of making other human beings do something that they do not want to do.

ROOSEVELT IN RACE WITH MERE TAILOR'S SON

(International News Service) NEW YORK, Oct. 18.—Philosophers have said war is "the greatest leveler," but not infrequently it turns out that war's aftermath, peace, is in truth the greatest leveler, and political events in the Second Assembly district of New York have brought to pass a situation which more or less proves that fact. In years gone by the late President Theodore Roosevelt, "Teddy," the 100 per cent American, controlled the district's political destinies. To the people of Oyster Bay, of which "Teddy" was almost a god, his word was their law. Then the grim reaper swept him away. The law there is another "Teddy" Roosevelt growing up among the folks of Oyster Bay, Lieutenant Colonel Theodore Roosevelt, son of the great Teddy, and he has exhibited...

DALLAS COUNTY VALUATION 10,000,000 HIGHER THIS YEAR

Special to The Times. DALLAS, Oct. 17.—The total taxable valuation of Dallas county, according to figures just compiled by the county tax assessor, is $167,652,940 for 1919, which is an increase over the year 1918 of $10,104,880. Bank and railroad property has been assessed at $9,316,960 and $7,216,000, respectively.

LAREDO HAS COPIOUS RAINFALL WEDNESDAY

Special to The Times. LAREDO, Oct. 17.—Laredo was visited by one of the most severe rainstorms in its history yesterday morning. For a time citizens were under apprehension of another tropical storm bearing down upon this section. Dario Deana was badly burned by lightning and his wife was slightly burned, when their home was struck.

COLLECT FREIGHT BILLS BY UNITED STATES MAIL

Special to The Times. DALLAS, Oct. 17.—Hereafter freight bills will be collected through the mail, according to the freight bureau of the Dallas Chamber of Commerce. Previously merchants and others due railroads charges for freight were negligent in receiving and liquidating their debts when solicitors from the freight offices came to collect.

SHIPPING SEALS BY AUTO FROM AUSTIN

Special to The Times. AUSTIN, Oct. 17.—Shipment of seals and receipt forms for motor vehicles will be made from Austin at the end of the week, it was announced here today. To encourage "ship by truck" seals and other supplies for San Marcos, New Braunfels and San Antonio will be made by auto, as well as those to Dallas and other places shortly.

More than 400,000 automobile seals are to be shipped from Austin this week.

It is the plan of the state highway commission to ship to each county a sufficient number of seals to fill the demands for the entire week. It is the plan of the state highway commission to ship to each county a sufficient number of seals to fill the demands for the entire week.

LACK OF LABOR PUTS ON COTTON EMBARGO

Special to The Times. TEXARKANA, Oct. 17.—The Texarkana Cotton company has promulgated an embargo order on receipts into this city temporarily, until the present accumulation can be disposed of. After being raised, the embargo likely will be revoked if another congestion occurs. The cause is lack of labor to handle the work of the compress here.

MAGNOLIA COMPANY TO ERECT LARGE BUILDING

Special to The Times. DALLAS, Oct. 17.—Wrecking at Commerce and Akard streets to prepare the foundation for the Magnolia Petroleum company building, to cost around $1,000,000, will start November 1, according to announcement made yesterday by officials of the company.

Special to The Times. WACO, Oct. 17.—Governor Hobby will usher in the 1919 cotton pal-ee exposition in this city on the night of October 25. Arrangements have been perfected for an address by Ole Hansen, former "fearless" mayor of Seattle, to be delivered in the palace coliseum.

FORMER SAN MARCOS PUBLISHER IS DEAD

Special to The Times. EL PASO, Oct. 17.—E. E. Blakenhip, former newspaper publisher of San Marcos, died in this city Tuesday. He also formerly was connected with Clarendon college at Clarendon.

"WORTH A WHOLE LOT TO FEEL LIKE I DO," HE SAYS

"It's worth a whole lot to feel like I do now, since Orgatone Treatment has taken away the trouble that bothered me so much for the last four years," said J. C. Stueber, of 212 West Twenty-Ninth Street, Tulsa, Oklahoma, a few days ago. "Whenever a man suffers as long as I did, he gets to the place where he feels like there is nothing that will do him any good," he continued, "and that's just the way I had begun to feel. Long ago I got so discouraged of trying remedy after remedy and treatment after treatment which only gave me a little temporary relief. My food did not digest properly and would cause pains from the gas which would form on my stomach continually. Every night I would be awake for hours at a time unable to close my eyes from this very same trouble. "I'd been very enough satisfied just to have my suffering relieved, but that's not all Orgatone did for me—I have gained in weight and strength since I started taking it. I can eat as hearty a meal as if I had never had stomach trouble at all, and my strength has come back so I can do as much work in a day as I ever could in my life. I just feel like a new man all over, and would be glad to tell anybody who wants to know, if they will write to me, just what the wonderful treatment—Orgatone—did for me." Orgatone is not a so-called patent or secret remedy, but a new, scientific treatment absolutely free from alcohol in any form, and is sold in Ranger exclusively by the Ranger Drug Company, under the personal supervision of a special Orgatone representative.—Advertisement.

HUN PRISONERS HELP TO CLEAR BATTLEFIELDS

DIXMUDE, Belgium, Oct. 18.—Scattered over the low-lying country between Ypres and Dixmuide, scenes of many a battle, are thousands of German prisoners under guard of British and Belgian soldiers as well as civilians who have been called into the gigantic task of clearing up the battlefields and once more making it fit for habitation. They are stacking shells, recovering brass cases and burying the dead. There is a military efficiency about their work and the progress they are making is most gratifying for all the governments concerned.

One may still see the ruins of many British and Belgian tanks caught in the German shell fire, now twisted and broken wrecks. Some they have rusted and neglected, mere shells of the once-powerful machines which went into action. Some of them are almost buried in the mud, others hang precariously on the edge of a lapidated trench, while still others stand high in the fields where they were abandoned by such of their crews as survived. Many of them are torn and riddled as though their heavily armored sides were little more than paper.

Perhaps the most impressive feature of this dead and blackened landscape are the trees. Great and stark, stripped of every limb and branch, they stand out against the skyline, so many lifeless sticks.

Whole villages have disappeared, rounded by the big guns into mud or dust, without one vestige remaining to mark their location. This is true of Poelcappelle, whose former existence would not have been suspected had not a Belgian major volunteered the information that here his battalion had once held its main street for three days.

Many live shells still remain in the fields, and today as a party was passing within a few miles of Dixmuide they were startled by the explosion of one of these "duds."

Reconstruction is going forward. Near the shack reared by one thrifty Belgian who has returned to the site of his former home is a disabled tank, a shell having ripped through its side and exploded in the interior. From one side of the tank to that of the other stretches a clothes line and on given days the family washing hangs out to dry.

Children of that family play in the broken tank, enacting, as they have often heard related, the grim story of the battle; that is, they play as if they were not at all aware of the fact that the tank is a relic of the war.

RETURNED SOLDIERS BUILD OWN CITY

CAMP MERVILLE, B. C., Oct. 18.—Two hundred and fifty returned soldiers are building a city "all their own" in a settlement a short distance from Courtenay, in the Comox valley. A dozen permanent homes have been completed. There are about fifty temporary houses and a number of camps and cabins. The settlement includes approximately fifty women and one hundred children. The colony is said to be the first of its kind in Canada. Every male member served with the colors. Most of the men were wounded. All received land grants from the federal government.

According to present plans the community will be operated on a co-operative basis.

"Everybody does his or her bit" is the slogan, according to M. H. H. Nelson, chairman of the provincial land settlement board, who recently made an official inspection of the colony.

"The undertaking is the first attempt at co-operative settlement in Canada," said Mr. Nelson. "A few acres have been cleared on each farm and next spring it will be possible to get quite an acreage into crop."

THIS YOUTH IN AIRPLANE WINS OUT OVER STORM

TERLING, Kan., Oct. 18.—A 300-mile race in an airplane with the big hurricane which recently swept inland at Corpus Christi was a thrilling experience of a Kansas youth, Ernest Allison, an army aviator at Camp McAllen, near the Mexican border, according to a letter received by Allison here.

Allison says he had gone to San Antonio to get a new airplane. Shortly after he started on the return flight he observed the approach of the storm. He put on full speed ahead, covering the 100 miles in two hours, he said, reaching camp just ahead of the storm. He afterward learned that the wind was blowing 100 miles an hour, officially estimated. He succeeded in getting the new plane into a hangar, but the wind fairly devastated the camp. Allison's letter said, blowing down all the tents and doing much damage to the hangars and some of the planes.

John Timps' Excursion Into the Land of Supernatural for a Pair of Shoes

By Paul C. Yates.

When Tim Beady opened the door to his shack, he found Hard Luck John Timps bending over what appeared to be a pile of sheets on the floor. "Hello, Beady," cried Timps. "I've just finished a great outfit that would suit you in a moment of a moment. I made it out of two of our sheets. 'The dickens you did!' exclaimed Beady. 'Maybe you mean my sheets.' 'They ain't but much,' Timps assured him. 'I cut to cut one of them up considerable to make a hood and I hung some pieces of trace chains on to furnish a rattle.' He held the outfit up for Beady's inspection and indicated a number of strips of chain tied to the sheets with baling wire. 'Where did you get them chains?' asked Beady suspiciously.

"I cut them off your extra set of harness," confessed Timps. "I broke some pretty big gaps in our axe—that is, in your axe—tryin' to cut the chain and I finally had to borrow a coal chisel."

"That rig-up of yours has cost me about twenty dollars," said Beady. "What do you see to do with it?" "I aim to skeer a feller out of his boots," declared Timps. "I'm gettin' desperate over the shoe situation, and I have figured out a way to rob a gent accordin' to law. I spent all the mornin' lookin' for a man that had a pair of good high-top boots that would fit me just right, and I finally found him. You never would guess who he is—that red-headed young slicker that I had the fight with down at the cabaret. I made friends with him and asked him to come up here tonight and go swimmin' with me in my tank. Of course, the tank ain't mine, but I 'low I can swipe the use of it long enough to answer the purpose."

"What has all that got to do with those barbed wire sheets and protruded chains of mine, not to speak of a broken axe?" demanded Mr. Beady.

"Well, you'd have to help me work it out," explained Timps. "You take this here outfit, one hide in the bushes lead by the tank and I'll hunt the red-headed guy and bring him up to me."

SHE CLASHES WITH EDITOR AT POLICE BUREAU HEARING

Mrs. Mina C. Van Winkle, of Newark, N. J., is chief of the woman's bureau of the Washington police department, a bureau which has been under fire at a congressional committee hearing for the last few days. Mrs. Van Winkle testified that Edward B. McLean, editor and owner of the Washington Post, threatened to have the bureau abolished. Mr. McLean denied making any such statements but declared that the bureau is a "dangerous toy for women to play with."

GLACIER DIVERTED BY MEANS OF A TUNNEL

By Associated Press.

JUNEAU, Alaska, Oct. 17.—Diverting the entire stream of a glacier by means of a tunnel and locating the glacier as a gold placer claim, is the latest word in Alaska gold mining. Mendenhall glacier thus has sprang into fame. The locator is C. H. Boyles.

Recently Boyles got his idea for the novel venture in considering the possibilities of a pool forty feet deep in the solid rock in the bed of the river and about one-hundred feet from the point where the river comes out of the face of the glacier. Eight feet of the pool is water and thirty-two feet soft sand. Panning have shown considerable gold and black sand in the vicinity. Hence Boyles took as his theory that much of the gold washed out of the entire valley above the pool had found lodgment in the thirty-two feet of sand of the pool.

LEAD STRIKERS IN TWO CENTERS OF STEEL INDUSTRY

David Williams, above, and W. H. Young. To keep the steel strikers well organized and informed during the nation-wide strike, officials divided the steel sections of the country into districts and placed nationally known leaders in charge of each district. These men report to and receive instructions from the national committee. David Williams is head of the district around Buffalo. W. H. Young is head of the Pueblo, Colo. district.

BIG LEADERS OF CAPITAL AND CAPITAL SNAPPED TOGETHER

Group shows, left to right: Franklin K. Lane, secretary of interior and chairman of round table; Judge E. H. Gary, executive head of U. S. Steel Corporation; President Samuel Gompers and Secretary Frank Morrison of American Federation of Labor, and John D. Rockefeller, Jr. Below: Rockefeller and Morrison having informal chat.

The pictures above are two of the most remarkable ones of the present-day happenings. They show the great men guiding capital and labor, meeting on common ground and conferring man to man in an effort to bring order out of the present industrial chaos. Gary as head of the U. S. Steel Corporation—at which the nation-wide steel strike is aimed—and John D. Rockefeller, Jr., are the two largest employers of men in the country. Gompers and Morrison represent the greatest body of organized workers in the country.

SAYS AMERICAN SOLDIERS WILL SEEK FARM HOMES IN CANADA

They fatten the Bank Account

PRINCE ALBERT, SASK.—Will soldiers who served in the American army during the war go to Canada in any great numbers in search of farm homes? E. E. Thompson of Alberta, himself an American who has grown rich as a farmer in Canada says they will. "The American soldiers only recently have got back from the war," said Mr. Thompson. "If one looks to them now and they will take it easy for a while. But a big percent of these boys, after their free-out-of-door life in the army, will want to go on the land eventually. They would stay in the United States if they could buy farms there. But there is mighty little cheap farm land left in the United States. Canada on the other hand, has millions of acres of rich land that even a poor man can buy. The lure of the 'last West' is going to prove hard for these American veterans to resist and I look for the big hike across the border to begin next spring. "Land in Canada is selling at pre-war prices. I recently bought thirty-

teen quarter-sections along the Canadian National Railway at $20 an acre. It is as good wheat and mixed farming land as any in the Dominion and the Canadian National Railway brings it in convenient reach of city markets. It produces, under any kind of farming methods, from twenty to thirty bushels of wheat to the acre. Good farmers get from forty to sixty. "A farm of 150 acres at $20 an acre costs $3,000. One hundred acres in wheat at thirty bushels to the acre would mean a 3,000-bushel crop. At $2 a bushel, this would bring $6,000 or nearly twice the cost of the farm. Then the crop from 100 acres would bring $3,000. It's no trick at all in western Canada to pay for a farm with a single crop of wheat. It's done every year."

FOX CLAIMS SHE'S FIRST 'CAMERAMAID'

HEADS EMPLOYERS AT BIG LABOR MEET

International News Service.
LONDON, Oct. 18.—Sport writers, boxers, trainers, promoters and top-hatted followers of the gentlemanly art of self-defense are groping about here and there for some guide line by which they can decide the comparative merits of:

1. Joe Beckett.
2. Georges Carpentier.
3. Jack Dempsey.

In England, since boxing is a "hated shirt" function, and a real "West End" game, these inquiries take an almost the rank of a high society question; but, though the supposed best brains of a nation have given the question weighty thought, no one seems able to lay hands upon any means of comparison.

No one, apparently, is going to have secret and profitable advance dope on who is the real world's champion before that perhaps distant date when the visitor in a match between two of the allied trio climbs through the ropes to meet the third and settle the question once for all.

American near-experts who happen to have seen Dempsey in action—his eyes in his big fight—were called onto the sporting pages and quoted at length as to the might of the conqueror of Jess Willard.

But beyond the seemingly unanimous opinion that none of the three stands as high, to the old-timers, such as Bob Fitzsimmons, Corbett and J-fries, the argument isn't advanced materially by the counting of American experts and fight fans.

"Carpentier is afraid of the new British champion," was a chant of those which were in some circles in London when the Beckett-Carpentier match was postponed; but faster and more expert British sport followers promptly came to the front with explanations of the reasons behind Carpentier's postponement.

The investments in coal regions occupied by the Germans were practically wiped out, they explain. He has been out of the fighting game five years. With his savings wiped out he has more reason than ever not to face a match which might destroy his earning power as a champion in his own country until he is again fit. And after a five-year lay-off it stands to reason he is not in condition as yet to tackle a man who is generally touted as a real champion.

Such is the logic of the sportsman's defense of the French champion. They are inclined to leave the Beckett-Carpentier proposition on something of a fifty-fifty basis.

The general judgment here regarding Beckett-Dempsey possibilities is somewhat swayed by the fact that the American boxers the British public has opportunity to see last were Eddie McGeorty and Fred Fulton.

To give some sort of line on the situation it has been suggested that Fulton be matched with Bombardier Wells. After such a match, perhaps one or the other might have moved his right to meet Beckett. At any event, such matches would at least give the dope artists something to build dope with.

Appeals for Aid for Belgian Labor Party by Funds

International News Service.
LONDON, Oct. 18.—Arthur Henderson, secretary of the British labor party, who has just gained a seat in parliament over the Lloyd George candidate, is passing the hat for funds to help the Belgian labor party win the next election. The electoral campaign is just about to start in Belgium, Henderson says in his appeal.

"All the problems of reconstruction and restoration of the economic and social life of the Belgian people are involved," reads his circular. "One of the foremost issues will be universal suffrage, which will be strenuously resisted by the bour-

JACK, NOW AGED TELLS OF DAYS OF BIG BATTLES

He came into view from the stone wall which separated the cornfield and the pasture, his eyes almost closed, fleshy protuberance standing out prominently on his sunburned neck and face.

"Where have you been and what have you been doing?" queried his sister as he approached her. "Have you been fighting?"

"Yes; been fighting, but 'twas bumblebees—and eating their honey," replied Jack, without thought of the pain to his face.

"But it was a lolly, good time we boys had," he added.

"Fighting bumblebees is a man's job," said Jack, as he started to explain his afternoon's expedition against the buzzing stirrers, queried flyers from the stone wall.

"Please tell us how you fight them," said his sister as a number of the household gathered to see what was the matter with Jack.

"Well, I'll do it," said Jack, as he began to launch enthusiastically and restlessly into the story of the robbery of the wild bees.

"These summer days on the farm without anything to do gets on a kid's nerve. Me and some of my friends decided to have a 'bee' jerk all to ourselves. A few weeks ago Henry, my playfellow, ran into a 'swit' of these stinging insects and was laughingly chased a half mile into a creek, where, after stinging him three times, some of these nainers wired back to their lair.

"How awfully that we set, even Henry, my playfellow, ran into a 'swit' of these stinging insects and was laughingly chased a half mile into a creek, where, after stinging him three times, some of these nainers wired back to their lair.

"He said that back in South Texas his uncle showed him how to fight bumblebees. They had lots of fun when they got a number of boys to help them. So we decided to capture the bumblebees' nest and rob it of its honey, while, though wild, is not so bad tasting.

"First we got our arms. We didn't use broomwood paddles, either. I tried that once and was stung all over. These paddles merely brush the bees away and after they get the stinging they come again. With us it was a reckless battle to the death. We made paddles of thin wood with a few holes in the blade so quick striking would not be difficult.

"Then one of us went up to the nest in the stone wall and waved the paddle defiantly. 'A bee sitting on a leaf at the aperture nodded significantly two or three times, hummed an unknown-see language, darted after the lad, accompanied by a fearless detachment from the nest. We struck right and left as they came, and every time a paddle struck the moving body of doughty fighters there was a snappy report and a bumblebee dropped, crushed and maimed, to the earth.

"But it is not always so easy to engage them. Sometimes more than we could battle at one time came flying out. We had to take the consequences, which meant that the little 'men' would find a vulnerable spot on one's neck or face and soon some of us would be screaming with pain.

"The first part of the battle is not so severe," said Jack. "The big 'men' of the colony are first sent out. They are ferocious and great gladiators, but they are large and hence easily made a target for our paddles; but after they have been swept away by our paddles the Queen of Beedom sends out her little 'Japs of the colony,' against which it is almost impossible to fight, especially when more than two or three dart at us at once. They are about half as large as the big ones. They can sting horribly, too. They dart with the precision and speed of a bullet, and have a sting probably more unbearable than that of a bullet.

"Some boys are unfair with the bumblebees," said Jack, as he shrugged his shoulders and appeared a fighter to his auditors. "They get dark-colored snuff bottles, filling them with water. These they bury half-way in the ground, especially near the nest. Bees coming out seeing the mouth of the bottle think they are human eyes, and going into them are 'drowned.'

"When do you know the bees are whipped?" asked his sister.

"That's easy," said Jack. "When they stop coming out in such droves we know they are nearly done for. Of course, some of those which have been away from the nest gathering honey come browsing in and want to 'give fight,' but they are so encumbered with their cargo of honey they can't 'put up much of a fight.'"

"When we think the bees are about all whipped we dig into the nest and unearth from among the leaves, sticks and paper and cotton, great masses of bee-bread and honey. The honey has a splendid—though wild—taste. Sometimes some of the honey is a little poisonous, but not often; at least, not poisonous to cause death to the eater."

Jack told of an engagement with bees in which he and a number of other boys in swimming in a South Texas creek took part. The bees had their home almost at the edge of the creek, in a cavity of driftwood that had been thrown up years before by an unprecedented rise on the stream. The boys discovered it one day when they were in swimming. Two or three of the lads were severely stung. They decided they would fight it out. To manifest their bravery they stripped their clothing from their bodies, armed themselves with thin wooden paddles, "swaved" the bees out of their covert, and made a leap for deep water. If the bees became too numerous for one man to fight, rines of water soon announced that the sorely pressed lad was under way. He would later reappear at some distance, outside of the danger zone.

Jack says the lads saw that bumblebees with fire are coming. Setting fire to their nests and catching the wings of the honey-crafters is so-called at.

"One time," said Jack, "I was chewing a cud of Lucy Hinton tobacco which I had stolen from my uncle, who didn't believe in boys learning the bad habit, and went to fight out a nest of bees in a stone wall down in Hays county.

"The colony was much more powerful than I had been led to believe them to be. I had waded my paddle a number of times ineffectually and began to think that this was a deterring colony, but bless your hearts, a few more waving brought almost the whole colony at once. I saw instead of one or two bees about fifty—they looked like a thousand to me—coming directly toward me. I forgot having a chew of Lucy Hinton in my mouth and in my eagerness to sish and run into a friendly cornfield I swallowed the whole thing. I was a sick kid; believe me."

Bumblebee fighting affords more entertainment for the country lads of South Texas than any other diversion. It makes strong, vigorous lads; it gives them courage and initiative; it gives them exercise that stores up a hardy constitution against the days their lives are to be impaired behind office desks.

Jack made a live boy. He points to the day he experienced such lavishness of thrills that come only once in the lifetime of a man.

BELGIAN ROYALTY AT MASS CONDUCTED BY CARDINAL MERCIER

King Albert, Queen Elizabeth and Prince Leopold attending mass at which Cardinal Mercier officiated. High mass to give thanks for Belgium's deliverance was held recently in the cathedral at Boston. The services were historic because of the fact that Cardinal Mercier, Belgian primate, officiated, and King Albert, Queen Elizabeth and Crown Prince Leopold of Belgium attended. In the picture, taken during the services, the royal family is sitting at the extreme right. The cardinal is on the throne.

South Bank of Rio Grande Is Now A Glittering Oasis for Foreigners

By a Staff Correspondent International News Service. MONTERREY, Mexico, Oct. 19.—When statewide prohibition was put into effect in the state of Texas in 1918 thousands of saloons closed their doors and many drunkards planned to "go to sea to become used to water," and when at the same time the United States government put into effect regulations to control vice conditions, raising the southeast of gamblers and prostitutes, so far as was possible—especially in those places where American soldiers were being mobilized and trained in military camps—the border towns of Mexico at once saw the opportunity that was presented to reap a harvest of saloons, the opening of gambling dens and the offering of protection to those unfortunate women who might care to cross the boundary line to continue the pursuits they had followed in Texas.

When the prohibition measures of Texas were tested in the courts of the state and declared to be constitutional, the Mexican towns of Juarez, Piedras Negras, Nuevo Laredo and Matamoros, each vied with the other in providing places where American men and women—rather, those men who were addicted to drinking and gambling, and women who pursued immoral pursuits—would find a haven of safety. The result was that in Nuevo Laredo and Matamoros hundreds of saloons were opened, gambling dens where roulette, monte, poker and other games, wheels of fortune and craps, were opened, while the places mentioned soon were full of Mexican and American prostitutes. Nuevo Laredo and Matamoros had become not only a second Monte Carlo for gambling, but soon there were many places where hundreds of Mexican women and American drunkards held forth in their orgies.

Recently a representative of the International News Service, while en route to Monterrey, stopped over Sunday in Laredo and decided to make an investigation of conditions in Nuevo Laredo. Going over to the Mexican city opposite Laredo it was found that several scores of saloons were filled with men, of whom 90 per cent were Americans, and most of these already had had a number of rounds of drinks and still were indulging. Calling for a bottle of beer of an American brand, we were handed a bottle with a Budweiser label on it, but the contents was beer made in Monterrey, and the price for a pint bottle was 35 cents American money. Whiskey sells all the way from 25 cents to 50 cents a drink. The saloonkeeper in this particular bar said that the Sunday before he had taken in more than $200 from the sale of beer and whiskey alone, and that most of the patrons were Americans. The other saloons in the town had done an equally big business so it is evident that several thousand American dollars are spent each Sunday in the Mexican border town of Nuevo Laredo alone.

Adjoining most of the saloons in Nuevo Laredo and Matamoros are fine rooms where there are craps tables, monte tables, poker tables and roulette wheels, and these are always liberally patronized. The fascinating game of roulette invariably gets it full quota of victims, for the "boosters" who are always hanging about soon inveigle one into the game if he does not voluntarily try his luck. A stranger at the roulette table generally wins the first time he puts his money on a number, a column or a color. Then he is invited to have a bottle of beer or a drink of whiskey, and later encouraged to try his luck again; and so it keeps on in this way in the gaming room. A few weeks ago a wealthy oil operator from Tampico, while under the influence of liquor in a Nuevo Laredo gambling hall, "bucked" a crap game and lost $10,000. This is only one instance in which Americans have lost heavily in "craps" on the Mexican side of the Rio Grande.

The Mexican officials afford protection to the saloons and gambling dens of their cities and, in fact, encourage them. It is said that when the mayor of Nuevo Laredo opposed gambling in saloons of Nuevo Laredo, about two months ago, contrary to the approval of Governor O'Quinn, of the state of Tamaulipas, who, it is reported, had an interest in the concessions, the mayor was removed from office and was succeeded by a mayor pro tem, who permitted gamb-which are reaping big money off Americans, both at the bar and the gambling tables, give magnificent sums for their privileges.

Few Americans attempt to smuggle a bottle back with them, for they realize that the American customs guards are always on the lookout and search all persons who cross from the Mexican to the American side of the Rio Grande—except those who smuggle themselves the river by swimming on in a skiff under the cover of darkness. An American official said Mexican officials have been caught in the act of aiding Mexican smugglers in their work along the Rio Grande.

INTERURBAN ROAD TO SAN ANTONIO IS PROPOSED

Special to The Times. WACO, Oct. 17.—Negotiations are under way for the purchase by the Central Texas Traction company of the Southwestern Traction company's system between Temple and Belton, according to O. A. Ryffe, president and general manager of the former company. He said surveys are to be made for extension of the lines from Belton to Georgetown, Austin and on to San Antonio, giving a continuous electric line from San Antonio to the Oklahoma state line.

THE BUSINESS MAN'S DEPARTMENT STORE

A Wonderful Collection OF FURS

- Coats
- Wraps
- Muffs
- Scarfs
- Stoles

TO BE careful and sure is the definite aim of this store in bringing to its patrons authentic modes and reliable qualities. For many years we have been recognized as "headquarters" for the finest Furs, and this season is no exception, as our collection invites closest inspection, both as to quality and price.

Our Furs are marked to sell at prices as low as is consistent with the high quality offered—the best value for the least money.

Our stocks were contracted for during January and February, when pelts were 20 to 40 per cent lower than present prices, and each piece is sold on a profit based upon the original cost.

COATS—Hudson Seal is probably the most popular of all Furs for Coats, and our values are unmatchable. We have every length Coat—28, 32, 40 and 45 inches—as well as Wraps, 45, 48 and 50 inches in length—all wonderful garments.

Some are made entirely of Hudson Seal, others with collars and cuffs of Beaver, Skunk and Natural Squirrel—a wonderful showing.

CAPES AND COATEES—Made of Japanese Mink, Kolinsky, Natural Mink, Natural Squirrel, Scotch Mole and Hudson Seal—from $200 to $1,250, with quality in every piece.

STOLES—Scotch Mole Stoles, Capes and small Neckpieces—small pieces as low as $50; other Moles from $75 up as high as $350.

Black Lynx Stoles range from $125 to $350 each.
