This will be done, it is stated. The pipe line companies claim they are not common carriers, according to Bullington, and will not carry oil generally from the field, nor will they have these lines connected with the various loading racks along the railroad. Their game, he continues, is to go into a field, cut up into small tracts, and propose to the owner of a small tract they will run off their oil providing he will sell way below the market. In some instances they are buying this oil in this way at a barrel, it is alleged.

RUBE GOLDBERG'S BOOBS—The Future of American Music

Husbands Are Not Scarce; Price of Marrying Too High

LONDON, Oct. 21.—"Your Love Will Cost You More," is the striking headline over a special article by "Jane Doe"—presumably a sister of John—appearing in the Daily Maail. Jane proves her case. "Take the various stages in a modern young couple's love song," she writes. Then she starts with the courting period and these things she finds: Chocolates are four shillings a pound and it's extra if the box is tied with a ribbon to match her eyes. Every time he takes her to the theater they sit upon a tax. The engagement ring costs 75 per cent more.

BELGIUM HAS RECOVERED FROM THE WAR

BRUSSELS, Oct. 20.—Belgium, whose territory was the first to feel the merciless strength of the mailed fist, is the first country to recover from the devastation that followed in the wake of the war. This is the impression I have gathered from the first part of my tour through this country. The recovery is all the more remarkable when one judges it from the French standard, because ten months after the signing of the armistice, France is like a household in the throes of removal. Hundreds of thousands of homeless French men and women are drudging the coming of winter, for they will have no roof to shelter them and very little coal—or none at all—to keep them warm.

Matters are very different here. There is practically no night life; the streets after 10:30 are deserted. There are no eccentric fashions; one sees women decently and modestly clad. Here trade is prospering; the only ones that are doing badly are the luxury trades. The theaters are almost empty, and without any blaring of trumpets or beating of drums Belgium has gone "dry."

France is without sugar or tobacco. Here there is sufficient of the first commodity to sweeten the sweetest of teeth, and enough of the second to surfeit the most devoted devotee of My Lady Nicotine. But most important of all—the people are working. When one remembers that practically the whole of Belgium was at this time last year in the hands of the foe the recovery is almost miraculous.

STOLEN BUICK AUTO CAPTURED AFTER A CHASE

A Buick car stolen from an oil company at Eastland early last night was recovered about 10:30 p. m. by two members of the Ranger police force, after an exciting chase. The officers had been warned by telephone to be on the lookout for the car. While riding up the Eastland hill, both officers on one horse, they met the car coming toward them. The officers tried to halt the machine but the occupants of the car sped up and tried to make a getaway. One of the officers dismounted and the other over took the car, on horseback, and captured the driver. The other occupant leaped to the ground and got away in the darkness. The owners of the car came from Eastland and identified it and paid a reward of $100, to the two officers. The man arrested gave the name of C. L. Sadler, and said his home was in Chicago. Police believe they have the other occupant of the car. The man they suspect was picked up in the railroad yards, with other alleged "vags." He fills the description of the car thief, police say, and he is being held for investigation. Two other cars, both from Kansas City, have been recovered by the police in the last two days. No arrests were made in connection with the cars, but officers have a good lead and hope to apprehend the thieves.

SCRIMMAGE "TOO ROUGH," SAYS FOLWELL

International News Service. PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 21.—Football, the king of college sports, has been modernized along with many other things at Franklin Field, the rendezvous of the University of Pennsylvania gridiron warriors. Bob Folwell, the Red and Blue's head coach; "Big Bill" Hollenback, advisory coach, and Lawson Robertson, the trainer, all members of the younger generation of coaches, are responsible.

In the first place there are not going to be any scrimmages—that is, none to speak of—now that the season has gotten well under way. Folwell believes it weakens the player and at the same time he declared that he has not infrequently in the past, during scrimmage matches, and the team is thus deprived of some of its star players when the big games roll around.

"I can remember when I was a player," said Folwell, "we used to scrimmage on the field every day. Once, just before we were to play the Carlisle Indians, we were forced to play until after dark. Now, I believe I was capable of standing what the average player could take in the way of pace and training and realize that I was almost worn out after white training. I was on a team that won the intercollegiate, too.

"There were Guy Haskins, J. D. Witham, John B. Taylor, N. J. Cortwell, Tom Moffett and myself. I caught on the varsity baseball team, one of the best I ever had; I won the intercollegiate wrestling title twice and yet I was not tired out. But it was at football that I know I was not worked properly.

"I am not trying to pick to pieces the old school of coaches; the system was handed down to them from their fathers, and they accepted it as perfectly correct. When at Washington and Jefferson I beat Yale three times, and it was because I tuned by men up rather than drilled them until they were tired, both mentally and physically.

"I scrimmaged my men hard after I have worked them into condition. It is the only way to pick the good men from the indifferent ones before the real games begin. I keep this up for a week and then lay off. As the season advances I scrimmage the varsity legs and legs and toward the end of the season I seldom put them through the trace. This not only saves me a team full of pep, but it also avoids the danger of losing a star player by injury just before a big game.

Hollenback, who coached Penn State, Penn State College and the University of Syracuse, did not quite agree with Folwell's theory at first but he was more or less opposed to the old two-hour-a-day line-smashing work which was one of the essentials of training when he was picked for the all-American team. But he studied Folwell's theory in practice and is now firmly convinced that the modern method is the best. Robertson, who is caring for the condition of the Red and Blue men this year, is one of the best-known track trainers in the world.

Laurence Selected. "Who'll be the next to replace me in that position?" asks an exchange. "Why don't you adopt Tenney?" "Half a league, half a league, half a league, Rochester Post-Express.

Duncan Was Busher in August; World's Series Hero in October

Young Mister Pat Duncan whose name isn't really Pat at all, helped make the world series a triumph for the state of Ohio. Duncan, a rookie, stands out as one of the heroes of the classic.

Duncan was born in Coaltown, O., twenty-six years ago and apparently announced soon after that he was a Moses, destined to help lift Cincinnati from baseball oblivion. He had played with Plum and Battle Creek, had received a tryout by the Pirates, had been farmed back to Battle Creek and had been traded to Birmingham for Pitcher Burleigh Grimes before he heard the call.

He landed with Birmingham in 1917 and proceeded to make a name for himself as a slugger and a clever outfielder. Moran realized early this season that he needed one more A1 outfielder and the best his scouts could offer was Duncan. Which proved to be about enough.

If anyone had told Pat early in August that he was destined not only to split the world's series melon but help the Reds win the world hunting, he probably would have given them the same stuff. But two months later—as the world now knows, he got his chance.

All Duncan did with his bat was to get seven base hits. Not many. All he did with those seven wallops was to drive in nine runs. He scored three himself.

That makes twelve runs—which is more than a third of the total number piled up at the expense of the Sox, hurlers and ball booters.

Out in left field, between trips to the plate, Duncan played errorless ball—the only Red regular to get by without a single boot. He accepted eleven chances, most a them though ones, and handled each one like a veteran.

Louis Baird—the front handles originally given Pat—is a husky individual. He looks like a slugger. He has the build of one and the free, easy swing of one. He is fast and conducts himself remarkably well from a technical standpoint for a youngster.

DICK KERR'S WORK IN SERIFS PLEASES TEXANS

DALLAS, Oct. 21.—They smile broadly in Texas when one speaks of the performance of "Little Dick" Kerr, the Chicago White Sox pitcher, in the recent world's series, for it wasn't long ago that "big time" scouts viewing Kerr's work in the Texas league, laughingly asked: "What can a little runt like that do in the big leagues? That kid can't stand the raff in the big time. It takes real men to get up there."

The two victories Kerr gained for the White Sox over the slugging Cincinnati Reds were just about what Texas expected, for Texas who observed his work when he was in the Texas league felt he should have been in the big league long ago.

Kerr, whose home is in Paris, Tex., was pitching on the "lots" when he got a chance with the Fort Worth Panthers in the Texas league. He single good from the start and was sold to a Southern league team and went into the American Association.

SECTION FOREMAN GAINS BY TAKING ORGATONE

Mrs. W. J. Byrd, wife of a well known section foreman, living on Rural Route 1, Box 40, Wichita Falls, Texas, came into Young's Drug Store recently to get another bottle of Orgatone. While there Mrs. Byrd said the treatment had done more for her husband than anything else he had ever taken, and that he had told her to be sure and bring more of it home from town.

"I am right well pleased with the way it has helped him," said Mrs. Byrd. "He hadn't been a perfectly well man for months until they told him about Orgatone, and he got me to get him a bottle; now he's just like a new man, he looks better and feels better than he has in a good many years."

"His stomach just seemed to go back on him," she continued, "for his food would make him sick at the stomach and he would have cramps and such terrible pains that he'd be in misery for hours. He couldn't sleep at all well, for he was nervous a good deal; and he felt worn-out and good for nothing most all the time."

"She seemed to go from bad to worse with this condition until he was unable to do his work at all until a few weeks ago when he heard so much about the good work Orgatone was doing. It helped him right from the start and put him to eating good hearty meals in a day or two. And from that day to this he's been getting better and stouter."

"He actually eats anything he wants now without having the least trouble over it, and he sleeps well and gets up feeling fresh and fine. The fact is, I don't know when he has been as lively and looked and felt as well as he does now. When I started off this morning he called after me and said: 'Don't forget to bring another bottle of Orgatone home with you tonight.'"

"He has taken a great many things in the hope of getting relief from his trouble, but nothing reached his case like Orgatone did. It helped him and it wasn't long about it, and that is why I feel like saying a good word for it every chance I get."

Orgatone is not a so-called patent or secret remedy but a new scientific treatment absolutely free from alcohol in any form, and is sold in Ranger exclusively by the Ranger Drug Company, under the personal direction of a special Orgatone representative.—Advertisement.

BRESNAHAN MAY ASSIST WITH NEW YORK YANKS.

TOLEDO, O., Oct. 21.—The story is published here that Roger Bresnahan, who is to dispose of his interest in the Toledo American association club, will be signed by the New York Yankees as assistant to manager Miller Huggins. Bresnahan was formerly a popular figure in New York when a member of the Giants, and it seems to be the thought that he will increase the following of the Yankees in New York and neutralize alleged unpopularity of Huggins. When Huggins succeeded Bresnahan as manager of the St. Louis Cardinals, there was said to be ill feeling between them, but if so it has been dissipated, for Huggins helped Bresnahan out in several ways the past season.

TEARNEY WILL HEAD WESTERN AND THREE-LEAGUES AGAIN IN 1920

OKLAHOMA CITY, Okla., Oct. 21.—Word from Western league men is that Albert R. Tearney will not resign as president of the Western, as had been reported. Differences between Tearney and some of the league managers are said to have been patched up, and the Chicago man will have unanimous support for continuation in office. Tearney also will continue as the head of the "three-league," which he intends to radically re-organize.

SYLVESTER HAS NEW AGENT WHO RETURNED FROM WAR

BELL COUNTY RAINFALL IS AWAY ABOVE NORMAL

Special to The Times. BELTON, Oct. 21.—More than fifty-two inches of rain was fallen in Belton county within the last thirteen months—since the armistice was signed. Not a month has been skipped in that time. The precipitation for 1917 was 17.35 inches and for 1918 was 28 inches. The heaviest fall this year was in June, when 6.79 inches fell.

TEMPLE OFFICERS ARE INVESTIGATING DEATH

TOM GREEN COUNTY'S CROPS MAKE BIG YIELD

Special to The Times. SAN ANGELO, Oct. 21.—The board of city development estimates that the value of the agricultural products of Tom Green county for this year will run to $6,000,000, of which amount cotton takes first rank with considerably more than $2,000,000. The maize crop also is large. The pecan harvest contributes a large figure to this sum.

PORT LAVACA SEEKS DEEP OCEAN CHANNEL

"THAT LITTLE GAME" --- The Loser Grows

All aboard for the Kellhamon railroad.

The "flying season" has found his calling at last.

Northern churches will start a crusade against the cigaret.

The pro-treaty senators made a smashing run and touchdown.

Newspaper headline says Houston got ten inches of rain in last thirty days. Nothing strange about that.

"Our patience will achieve more than our force"—Burke.

In the meantime sugar is getting scarcer and dearer.

By all means the new oil field train service should be extended to Cisco.

"Better warm yourself good," says the coal strike is set for November 1.

Deportation of violent aliens should start as soon as the Imperator makes her next eastward voyage.

Though we couldn't see the brick on Main street last week, we know they were there, because our gunboats felt them.

Negroes counted with old man Annihilation when they recently asked for the privilege of erecting a republic on the Texas border.

Scotland will vote on prohibition next year. Already the distilleries are preparing to rid themselves of their long-aged "Scotch."

Funny how the churches debate and make regulations as to marriage of divorced persons. Why don't they bow to the scriptures?

If we knew what the bolsheviks were fighting over we wouldn't mind keeping ourselves informed on their campaigns.

One of the text-books of every schoolroom should be a live newspaper. It is an education within itself.

William G. McAdoo may be a candidate for the presidency on the Democratic ticket next year. If he does, watch the land-slide.

"Pay as you leave cars" are being installed in the North. They'd be handy for the fellow that would want to ride all day for one fare.

Atticus Webb, director of the Anti-Saloon League of Texas says there are two hundred stills operating in Texas. Those who believe in upholding the laws should divulge the whereabouts of these.

People use to come to Ranger with handbags, suit cases, traveling bags and valises, now they all bring their trunks and household goods. "There's a reason!"

Mobs are cowardly. That's the reason that a few officers know how to curb them. The day of mob rule has passed into ancient history. Persons who participate in mob violence should receive the highest penalty that could be imposed.

Strikes are proving very sorry means to bring about what the strikers desire. Strikes are prehistoric means of accomplishing an object. They can't stand the gaff on an extensive scale in the United States, because it is the public that suffers most.

The Texas and Pacific has a full house here. Instead of reducing the accumulated less-than-carload freight, it's heaping up everywhere. The platforms resemble the interior because of the great amount of freight there.

Sweetwater is to have a new daily newspaper. The Reporter company is to issue the new publication. Sweetwater is a live town and needs a live representative. There is a good field there for such a sheet. Here's our hand for its success.

Everybody is small "fry" except the farmer. When the miner walks out we know we can bear the shortage. When the steel worker stops, we don't halt. But let the farmer organize and threaten to walk out. The opposition would be more pronounced than a congressional investigation.

The Times can see some West Texas landlords pinning away in jail after the department of justice gets to them. They are searching the tax assessors' rolls for valuation and then find out what rent is charged. The disparity of the two makes an effective weapon to put down the profiteering.

Amarillo and Patter counties are to spend $2,000,000 on new streets and roads. The Panhandle metropolis is in a class with Ranger. Let Texas follow in their footsteps by adopting the amendment to the state constitution making possible the issuing of $75,000,000 in bonds for a crisscrossing of the state with good highways.

The allegation is made that big oil supply companies are buying up all the available casing and piping in the Texas oil fields and will corner the market. The statement goes further, that the price of these essential oil developing materials have risen more than fifty per cent since the steel strike.

The dean of the school of Journalism at Jefferson, Missouri, says he who wants to get a good newspaper style should study the gospel of Luke. Luke, after all, had all the modern reporters skinned on condensation of matter into viable accounts of events in his day. But if we were all like Luke we'd never fill up our sheets.

NATURAL GAS SITUATION.
Just before winter sets in every year the gas distributing companies remote from the fields warn their patrons to provide themselves with stoves or other means of heating their dwellings and buildings. They claim that they cannot insure adequate supplies.

Much of this inadequacy of gas could be obviated by the cities which use it increasing the rates. People in Ranger and the oil fields are paying more for this sort of fuel than those who live in some towns and cities a hundred miles away.

There is no scarcity of gas in the Ranger fields. A sixty million cubic foot gasser came in a few days ago. To the south of Ranger there is a practically inexhaustible supply of the fuel, it is said.

99 YEW TREES GROW ABOUT OLD CHURCH, 100TH DIES
International News Service.
LONDON, Oct. 20.—In a little Gloucestershire village, Painswick, ninety-nine yew trees are growing about the ancient church. All attempts to grow the one hundredth one have failed. The additional tree always dies.

The annual custom of clipping the trees on Sunday has just been observed. The congregation forms a procession and joins in a service around the church while a secretary searched from the 100th after clipping is done.

INADEQUATELY ATTIRED, IS GIVEN 100 DAYS.
DALLAS, Oct. 21.—One hundred days on the municipal farm is the penalty for appearing on the streets of Dallas inadequately attired, in the judgment of Judge Felix D. Robertson of corporation court here.

A pretty 25-year old woman, arrested in an East Dallas street while garbed only in an unbuttoned wrap and a pair of slippers, was haled before the court.

"The high cost of living made me do it," the woman told the jury.

"I'll send you to the municipal farm where you won't have to worry about the high cost of living for 100 days," Judge Robertson ruled.

The woman appealed the case.

SCRIPTURE

Proverbs 10:1-10.

The proverbs of Solomon. A wise son maketh a glad father; but a foolish son is the heaviness of his mother. Treasures of wickedness profit nothing; but righteousness delivereth from death.

The Lord will not suffer the soul of the righteous to famish; but He will smite away the substance of the wicked. He becometh poor that dealeth with a slack hand; but the hand of the diligent maketh rich.

He that gathereth in summer is a wise son; but he that sleepeth in harvest is a son that causeth shame. Bladders are upon the head of the just; but violence covereth the mouth of the wicked.

The memory of the just is blessed; but the name of the wicked shall rot. The wise in heart will receive commandments; but a prating fool shall fall. He that walketh uprightly walketh surely; but he that perverteth his ways shall be known. He that winketh with the eye causeth sorrow; but a prating fool shall fall.

SAN ANTONIO WHISKEY IS FLOWING FREELY

SAN ANTONIO, Oct. 21.—A widespread use of intoxicating liquors in San Antonio is reported. Police arrested a great number of ex-soldiers and others Saturday, some of whom were so drunk they could not talk. Those who were communicative positively refused to divulge the source of their supply.

Police believe that booze in wholesale quantities is being manufactured here and that the bootleggers and moonshiners will soon be in the toils of the law.

'SHIVEREE' ENDS IN ARREST OF A PARTICIPANT

An old-time "shiverer" near the Prairie crossing last night resulted in the arrest of J. H. Harris for carrying a pistol. Harris made bond in the justice court this morning.

Police arrived at the scene of the disturbance, in answer to a call from the neighborhood, and found the gambler of a newly married couple were marching round and round the house, beating tin pans, shouting and otherwise making a racket.

Another case of a man practicing up for trouble was found on the east side, in a nearby settlement. A negro is alleged to have taken several shots at a big black called "Sergeant," but his intentions were not bad or his aim was, for no damage resulted to "Sergeant" except a case of shattered nerves.

HEALTH CRUSADE IN TEXAS FROM NOV. 1 TO FEB. 28

AUSTIN, Oct. 21.—The second tournament of the modern health crusade in Texas has been endorsed by Miss Annie Webb Blanton, state superintendent of public instruction, in a letter to all superintendents, school teachers officers and teachers of Texas.

Over 310,000 school children of the Lone Star state entered the first health tourney last spring, and it is expected that 500,000 will take up the fight for cleanliness and good health during the present school year.

Three national pennants and eleven state pennants were won last spring by Texas schools, when 135 counties of the state were represented. This year the Texas Public Health association will again present the banners in the tournament in which the children become pages, squires and knights in health chivalry.

2 DESDEMONA WELLS SHOWING BIG INCREASE
Special to The Times.
FORT WORTH, Oct. 21.—Three items of importance were reported from North Central Texas field Monday. In the Desdemona district two important wells were reported to have increased their flow, while another well was reported showing oil.

THE TEXAS PUBLIC HEALTH ASSOCIATION, which is directing the crusade among the children of Texas, will also have charge of the sale of 20,000,000 Red Cross Christmas seals from Dec. 1 to 10, and is thus enabled to carry the message of good health to the youth of the state.

Health work must continue among the children in order to make future generations strong and healthy, said Miss Hunter, "and the modern health crusade makes the task of keeping neat and clean one of romance and play. Instead of children crying about washing, bathing, cleaning teeth and bogging not to be sent to bed, they will perform all these tasks eagerly if they are little Modern Health Crusaders."

SAYS RELIGION BIG DRAWBACK TO THE IRISH

International News Service.
LONDON, Oct. 20.—Malatesta, the out-and-out anarchist and friend of Louis Muehl, the Red Virgin, has said his bias of outlawry removed, he can go back to Italy if officials here will clear the way.

"I do not seek to stir up trouble," leave that to governments, which are equally bad and hateful. It is no satisfaction to me to listen to the tales of Italian victory. How can bloodshed represent any resemblance to a victory?

"The workers think they are more prosperous now because they are spending money. They buy new clothes, they throw the cinema, but these things are but dust cast into their eyes by the tyrants who exploit them. It is a means to flinch from the workers the pittance which has been flung to them by the tyrants who exploit them."

"I have never troubled to go to Ireland, as I could not hope to do any good there. Ireland has only one bad thing that is religion. I saw a religious house with a party of Irish sailors and they agreed with me entirely until I denounced religion. I left them and returning shortly afterward I found them kneeling and praying to be forgiven for having listened to a heretic."

"It is the same the world over. When I was in South America lecturing in the big cities I encountered the ridiculous superstitions which hold us all in bondage everywhere. Once this nonsense is swept away we can introduce the universal brotherhood at peace with each other, free to follow the instincts of our natural inclinations and untrammelled by the burdens put upon us by those who use us for their own means."

DALLAS, Oct. 21.—Appearance often are deceptive and especially in the oil fields, where every man, re-

THE TIMES' DAILY SHORT STORY
A TEN-CENT ROMANCE

By Dora Mollan.

Horace Burdett might have had a dozen affairs of the heart—if it was not lack of time that was responsible, for Horace was crowding forty-five very closely and he had a considerable amount of leisure; nor yet that he was a misogynist, for he was far from that. It was because he was that sort of man. Horace was under the medium height; he was slender; his shoulders had early acquired a scholastic stoop; he was nearsighted and had to wear spectacles at all times, from youth he had mistakenly fostered a mystic nature that had never grown up, and he should wear an expression of ingenuous gravity like a baby who watches another baby suck a caramel and he was frightfully afraid of women.

Now Horace had his being in a large city. He gained his livelihood in an office where his services were appreciated and his hours short. He had occupied the same large alcove bedroom in a house presided over by the same landlady for many years. Thither he repaired every afternoon, with almost unflinching regularity, as soon as his business duties were over, for a freshening and a change of airment before his walk and his dinner at the same old restaurant; and he always rode home on a surface car because he liked "La" little and subway less.

He never sat while a lady stood, but he never got over the habit of blushing as he surrendered his place. Came a time when the great war took away so many of the men that the street car people put on women conductors. Horace found some difficulty in adjusting himself to this new order of things. Women should lead more sheltered lives than making change for coppers and freshes and jingling the starting bell and levering open the rear door of a pay-as-you-enter car. But with a sigh he mentally admitted that General Sherman probably was right and that it couldn't be helped.

There were a great many cars on that line, and from day to day Horace encountered a variety of conductresses. He did not greatly cotton to them. Mostly they looked as though they asked, but the shadow of an excuse to buff Horace or any other passenger of either sex in the eye.

There was one, however, whose glance he frequently caught, upon whom he permitted his thoughts to dwell more than a little. She was a serious-faced young woman with faraway eyes and probably a good figure under her shapeless uniform, coat and puttees.

No. 1414s name was Kate Dorn and that she lived at a certain address in the "hundreds"; also that she was through her work at 5:50. That evening, with his courage in his hands and a pocketful of documents, he called at the certain number in the "hundreds."

The Dorn apartment proved to be a very tiny one at the back of the house. His ring was answered by the gray-eyed young woman, who looked infinitely less impersonal and much more charming in a soft gray dress.

Horace was like a cold-water bather who dare not hesitate lest he flee altogether. He rushed into explanations. "Mrs. Dorn," he said, the moment he made sure of her identity, "I gave you a counterfeit dime yesterday. Obviously, you believed I knew it was counterfeit. My name is Horace Burdett; I am employed by the third largest house in Wall street; I have a good salary and some property; I am a member of the Masons and of the Elks. I have brought the papers to prove these statements and to assure you of my respectability. I have—really, Mrs. Dorn, I say it with the utmost respect, I assure you—I have greatly admired you and thought what a fine thing it was for a young woman to be working so heroically while her husband was fighting for his country; and I could not bear to have you think me a common cheat!"

The gray eyes had expressed first amazement and then interest, and now the young woman laughed outright. "Why," she said, "I'm dreadfully sorry I was so snippy, but they do try it so often. I ought to have known, though that you were not that kind. Anybody could see at a glance that you are—well, that you are a gentleman. But what made you think I had a husband in the war? I haven't—there or anywhere. I haven't anybody." The laughter had died away. "I just took that job because it pays better than anything I could get—and I'm crazy to save enough for a chicken farm."

Horace's heart leaped within him. Then and there he realized that he, too, was just crazy about a chicken farm. He said so.

CARL GALLIGHER IMPROVING AND NOW MAY LIVE

Carl Galligher, who was shot in the neck and body at an early hour Sunday morning, in a fight in which Capt. Shiner was killed and Alonzo Barnes seriously injured, is reported better and physicians think he has a chance for recovery. The bullet entered his neck and ranged downward. He probably will be taken to Fort Worth for an X-ray examination to locate the bullet.

Alonzo Barnes is reported better and he probably will be out of the hospital within a few days at the most. There is still some doubt in the minds of the police whether he was shot or hit in the head with a blunt instrument.

Leon Wilson, "Red" McCullough and Marjorie Grill, the owner of the house in which the fight occurred, were taken to Eastland yesterday afternoon to prevent possible mob violence, police say. There was some talk yesterday of forming a mob, but the news spread that the prisoners had been taken to Eastland and the movement died in its infancy.

Leon Wilson and Alonzo Barnes waived preliminary hearing and their bond was set at $20,000 each, to answer to a charge of murder. It is thought the men will make bond today.

"Red" McCullough and Marjorie Grill are connected as accessories, police say. Their bonds have been fixed at $5,000 each.

The tragedy resulted from a fight between Curtis Shiner, Carl Galligher and R. C. Cobb on the one side and Leon Wilson, Luke Barnes and "Red" McCullough on the other. Evidence in the hands of the police shows that McCullough had no part in the shooting of Shiner and Galligher, which they believe was done by Wilson or Barnes or both.

Wilson and "Red" McCullough recently were engaged in a shooting affair at Waco, according to police.

It has been alleged on the streets that Wilson and his associates were drunk when the shooting happened, but according to Fir Chief Ed Smith, Wilson was perfectly sober late Sunday afternoon, when he called at the old fire hall to get his new Mitchell six, which had been stored there under the care of Chief Smith, the last ten days.

NEW SERVICE ON T. & P. MAY BE EXTENDED

Installation of the two additional passenger trains between Fort Worth and Eastland Sunday has proved a great convenience to the traveling public, according to passengers and railroad men.

The new train was started Sunday morning, arriving at 11:45 for Eastland. The eastbound for Fort Worth passes through Ranger at 4:25 p. m. For what reason the train was stopped at Eastland and turned could not be explained here. A great many people, desiring to go to Cisco, German, and to other points on the "Katy" east of Stamford received no assistance from the installation of the new service.

For Fort Worth the new train has proved unusually convenient for a large number of persons daily who do not wish to remain in the city until 11:30 p. m.

Efforts are to be undertaken by the Chamber of Commerce to have the Oil Field Special which now has its western terminus at Baird, extended to Abilene. It is pointed out that traffic westward as far as Sweetwater has grown heavy as each week passed, but the Texas and Pacific has not added an additional passenger train into Abilene. The passenger service is the same as obtained during the war and for the last several years, though passenger traffic has increased 400 per cent, according to ticket agents and representatives of the Chamber of Commerce.

The Wichita Valley railroad will shortly put on two more trains between Wichita Falls and Abilene. The northbound will leave Abilene about 7 p. m. and the southbound will arrive about 6 a. m. The new traffic which these trains will build up will result in a heavier volume over the Texas and Pacific.

Monday, the Sunshine Special eastbound from Abilene was loaded to the guards. More than a score of persons occupied spaces in the vestibules. No additional coaches were put on the train at Baird, Cisco or Eastland, though the traffic at each of these points was greatly increased, so many were standing when the train left Cisco that there was hardly more standing room and when Eastland was reached the passengers essaying to ride this train were told to wait for the following accommodation, which was also well loaded. Considerable sentiment is at present crystallizing against the company because of the alleged neglect of them in satisfactory service, and the matter is shortly to be taken up before the state railroad commission, was intimated Tuesday.

DEEP TEST WELL FOR MCGREGOR IS ASSURED
WACO, Oct. 21.—A deep test well will be put down two miles south of McGregor, according to Mayor George H. Canfield. This is twenty miles west of Waco. Considerable casing has arrived and the derrick has been erected. Work of drilling will start soon.

AT THE THEATERS

MACK SENNETT'S FARCIAL SATIRE MAKES HIT AT LIBERTY

The crowds which jammed the Liberty yesterday afternoon and evening to see "Yankee Doodle in Berlin," with Mack Sennett's bathing girls, all agreed that it was "great." It is a sizzling, scintillating farce of the Kaiser and his sons.

"I will take Europe; the Crown Prince the Orient and my other boys can use America for golf links," says the Ad Highest, the Kaiser.

Never before have the pompous ambitions of the Hohenzollerns been so well described as in this five-part comedy satire.

It is a fact now well known to the diplomatic world that the Kaiser actually intended to divide up the whole world with his putty-faced sons as assistant rulers. Finland was to have one son as king; a new Balkan Empire was to be allotted with another and so on.

Mr. Sennett has come nearer sounding the key-note of this amazing egotist than all the panderous writers who have filled volumes with the glories and the misdeeds of the Hohenzollerns.

BERT LYTELL'S RISE TO FAME WAS METEORIC

Bert Lytell, star of the Metro play, "The Lion's Den," which will be seen at the Opera House Wednesday next, has risen to screen fame with a rapidity that is almost startling. Before adopting the screen he was well known on the stage, having begun his dramatic career upon graduating from Upper Canada College in Toronto.

He achieved rapid success in stock and then made a distinctive reputation for himself in many notable Broadway productions, his last before leaving the stage being "Mary's Ankle," in which he was co-starred with Irene Fenwick.

As a Metro star Mr. Lytell now devotes his time to screen drama and has appeared in such noteworthy productions as "Flackie's Redemption," "Faith," "The Spender," "Find Mans Eyes," "Hitting the High Spots," "Unexpected Places," "Boston Blackie's Little Gal," "No Man's Land" and "The Trail to Yesterday."

"Mr. Lytell is an artist by inheritance as well as by education, both his father and mother being well known in the dramatic world, while his grandfather, J. K. Mortimer, was for years one of Augustin Daly's most famous stars.

LONE STAR THEATER OPENS ON AUSTIN STREET FRIDAY

Ranger is to have another motion picture theater.
On Friday Manager H. S. Cole will open the doors of The Lone Star Theater to the public, showing Wallace Reid in "The Lottery Man."

The Lone Star is the little theater just across from the McCleskey hotel, built of brick with the unique front which has called forth much comment during the last few weeks. Mr. Cole states that it has been built with especial attention for the comfort of its patrons. The heating system is the most modern obtainable. Electric fans of the circulating and wall type will be put in as soon as they arrive. A ladies' rest room with all conveniences is a part of the theater.

The music will be one of the features. A $10,000 organ will be used, and an expert player has been secured. Manager Cole states that only the best pictures will be shown. He has obtained Paramount Service first run contracts. The shows will be continuous from 2 in the afternoon till 11 at night.
