The revolver was picked up Sunday morning by Johnny Rely, a small boy living on Hunt street. He found it between two small houses just back of the Southern Cafe, and brought it to his father, who works as a cook in the cafe, saying: "Look, daddy, I've found a play pistol."

REAL RANGERITES. There was the boomer who heeded the call of the field, when the oil rush first came. There was the speculator, always attracted by the dizzy climb in prices. There was the camp follower and his molley, easy, eager to be where the money was easily made, easily spent. And then there was the real Rangerite. He was the soul man of another community, blessed with the pioneer spirit which urged his forefather to leave a country from a wilderness. He came to make Ranger his home, to seek success here, not at the town's expense, but to the city's benefit. He came to make a place for the family he brought later. His story, as well as that of the others—the boomer, the speculator and the camp follower—is told in the Progress Edition of The Daily Times Thanksgiving Day.

CLAIMS SHE GOT MESSAGE FROM NOTED AUTHOR

(International News Service.) NEW YORK—It is reported here today that within two days after her death the spirit of Ella Wheeler Wilcox, the poet and psychic, was in direct communication with a woman friend living in Brooklyn. While this might be surprising to some, the announcement is not surprising to occultists. Mrs. Wilcox for several years had claimed to be in communication with the spirit of her husband, Robert Wilcox.

The name of the Brooklyn woman who received the communication from Mrs. Wilcox is withheld, but the circumstances of the communication are such as to convince occultists of the genuineness of the phenomenon. For purposes of publicity the Brooklyn woman signs "A Progressive Thinker" to a letter in which she details the experience.

The letter from "A Progressive Thinker" was called forth by another letter in which the writer expressed the belief that Wilcox and his wife, who had spent an almost perfect life together for thirty-two years, had been reunited in life after death. The writer of the first letter said Mrs. Wilcox "had no real ailment at the time of her death and had merely gone on in response to the summons of her husband."

The message received from Mrs. Wilcox is not made public in its entirety, but like all "first messages" it expressed happiness. Extracts from the letter written by "A Progressive Thinker" follow: "As you are aware, Mrs. Wilcox passed away at 2 o'clock Thursday morning, Oct. 30."

between 5:30 and 6 in the afternoon, she communicated with the writer through a friend who is extremely psychic—one who is refined, truly honorable and spiritual—a worthy instrument for such a personality as Mrs. Wilcox to use.

"I wish the multitudes who love her could understand how very eagerly how very wonderfully and beautifully she came to me. She came in so unexpectedly, so suddenly, when I was just about to leave my friend, and when our minds were centered on other matters entirely. There was no mistaking that great-minded, heart-hearted, great-souled personality."

"There are several reasons why Mrs. Wilcox should have come to me. "1. She was interested in my own literary work, being the first one in her professional field of letters to encourage me.

"2. She was from my native state—Wisconsin. "3. We were born under the same astrological sign. "I had been thinking of her a great deal since her death, for to me, as to so many others, it seemed like so great personal loss—such a world-map has been left by her passing. I believe, as she believed, in the continuity of life, that there is no death, that there are no dead.

"She is more alive than ever, unutterably happy in her reunion with her husband, Robert Wilcox; still glow with that great desire to help her fellow man.

"She wants the world to know how happy she is in the new life; how happy she was to be able to communicate as she did.

"She broke in right in the midst of some opinions I was expressing about one of the most serious problems confronting the United States today.

"Her work even here on this earth plane is not done—let me assure you of that. Let me assure America, and the entire world—of which she was a part—of the great universal spirit of Ella Wheeler Wilcox shall be heard from again—and yet again."

PEACE MEANS ANOTHER "WAR" IN THE CAPITAL

(International News Service.) WASHINGTON—A year of peace has brought no peace to the met in Washington who has to live and eat.

On Armistice Day, one year ago, Washington was jammed with war workers and it was difficult to find a place to sleep or eat, unless one went a bank account of considerable dimensions. After a year of peace the same conditions prevail. The war workers are gradually dwindling, but now have come the reconstruction workers in their place.

Real estate owners got the habit during the war of getting large rents and they can't seem to recover. War prices for apartments and house rent prevail, and one can get a nice little two-room apartment for $100 a month or so.

Restaurants are still crowded and prices still sell at fifty or sixty cents a portion in the best hosteleries. But there has been a crimp put in the business of the food palaces by an enterprising young man who conceived the idea of putting up lunches in pasteboard boxes for twenty cents apiece. The idea caught on and thousands of these little boxes are sold each noon hour to the government clerks and those war workers who remain in Washington.

Much of the war-time glitter of uniforms has gone, but there still remain large numbers of those who fought in the "battle of Washington." Big game gentlemen, bearded and booted, in the Government uniforms seem to like army life and the "battle of Washington," for they still clog fashionable streets in the afternoons and still take salutes from husky "buck privates" with gold chevrons running half way up their sleeves.

Washington will probably never recover from the war. Some members of Congress are trying hard to cure Washington of the war spirit, but with little success. War times in the capital meant much money to spend and it is hard to get over the habit. Senator Smoot, of Utah, occasionally leads an attack upon Washington extravagance, governmental and personal, but still the spending goes on. Theaters are jammed, new motion picture emporiums are cropping up everywhere, dinner halls are crowded, the hotel dance gardens have the "S. R. O." sign out most of the time, and all Washington is gay.

Peace has brought war to Congress. In war times there was peace, or at least more peace than Congress had seen before in all of its existence. Politics were laid aside and every effort was bent to the passage of laws for war purposes. With peace Congress returned to war—political war—and there now rages a fierce fight which furnishes excitement, for returned soldiers and those who fought their battles over typewriters in Washington.

With high prices and war-time practices still in force, not even an armistice is in sight.

Strike of Coal Miners Is Feared in Britain Now

LONDON—(By Mail.)—The British public is uneasy from apprehension that Great Britain, like the United States, may have to face a coal miners' strike at a time when coal is a vital necessity. The Miners' Federation of Great Britain, an organization of 975,000 members, obtained a pledge from the 5,250,000 whistling laborers represented at the Trade Union Congress at Glasgow in September to "take whatever action may be necessary to compel the government" to accept the miners' demands for nationalization of the industry in which they are employed. An initial attempt to win governmental approval of the project, the sending of a trades union deputation to consult with the premier, has failed. Many persons contend that the whole matter is merely being held in abeyance until the return of the British delegation from the Washington labor conference. This delegation numbers G. H. Stuart-Bunning, C. W. Bowerman and others who are reckoned among the most skillful of British labor's strategists. Meanwhile the miners' campaign of propaganda to "educate" the public in the school of industrial nationalization—an attempt to show that state control and joint operation of the coal mines would be a "paying proposition" to the state, the consumer and the miner—has been launched. Along with it, the miners are making another strong bid for popularity in a campaign against high prices. They aver that they would welcome a smashing of the "vicious circle" of high prices and high wages and thereby improve the standard of living by reducing the cost. This agitation, it is conceded, cannot but have a favorable reaction of public opinion of benefit to the miners.

FAST GRADING MARKS START OF NEW PAVING

Teams and scrapers and a grading machine that chews away the surplus dirt and loads it as it travels are at work today on Austin street from Walnut street north, the first move of the McKenzie Construction company on the major paving contract for Ranger. F. H. Harris, contractor of Ranger, who is doing the preliminary grading work, will cover all the streets that are to be paved later, and bring them to grade, so that they will be passable and will drain. In this way, delay of the work through rains is minimized. On Austin street, The General Construction company has the street nearly to the sub grade and will be ready to pour concrete soon. Sammie Oil Corporation workers are pumping out the ditches on Luak street, north of Main, so that the gas work may be completed and that street may be ready for the General company as soon as Austin, on both sides of Main street, is completed. The city grader, has put the Tiffin road in good shape, for the first time since Ranger started to grow, and now has moved out to the Sinclair Gulf Co.'s plant, to work on the east and west road, connecting the Sinclair to the Tiffin road. This will be another crossing, at the Sinclair plant, and will divert heavy travel that formerly has had to come through the city.

BENEFIT NETS SCHOOL BOYS $228.56 SUNDAY

The Opera House gave a benefit Sunday afternoon to help the high school students' fund now being raised in this city. Two hundred twenty-eight dollars and 56 cents was taken in. The Opera House donated the pictures and the electricity and use of the house and turned the show over to the students to run. A special program was run. T. J. Arbuckle of Haskell, Texas, and a former citizen of Ranger, was in town yesterday visiting friends. Mr. Arbuckle was connected with Jones, Cox & company when he lived in this city. John E. Milford of the Milford Furniture company is planning a Thanksgiving trip to El Paso. L. P. Raider of St. Louis is in this city looking after oil interests.

NORTH CENTRAL TEXAS FIELDS BUSIEST OF ALL

FORT WORTH, Nov. 24.—The North Central Texas oil fields are the busiest on the whole mid-continent district, and activity in North Texas is just about double that of its nearest competitor, the Oklahoma fields. According to comparative figures just compiled by the publicity department of the Fort Worth Chamber of Commerce there were 2,359 wells drilling in North Central Texas territory on Nov. 1. On the same date there were 923 rigs up in the field. Figures from the Oklahoma field on the same date showed 1,105 wells drilling and 513 rigs up ready for the tools. In the Kansas fields on Nov. 1 there were 359 wells drilling and only 189 rigs up. North Central Texas also leads in completions, the percentage of producing wells among the completions and the average flush production per well. The producing wells averaged 506 barrels per well.

PROGRESS EDITION.

Day will be Thanksgiving as the day on which we give thanks for the blessings of the year. It is "turkey day," there's any turkey or not. It's an old holiday. It is fitting that we should observe it in all its significance. Meditation on the past could inspire us to renewed energy and enterprise.

Daily Times will issue its great Thanksgiving Edition on that day. Ten copies of the paper will be distributed throughout the city. Not a considerable sum will be forgotten. The trade and centers of capital in the Daily Times learn of its achievements during the past year.

Every day on that day will be a day of good things. Besides the telegraph news of the day's events, the short stories, local and state news, comics and other exclusive features, the Thanksgiving number of The Times will contain many pages giving elaborate descriptions of industrial, commercial and municipal progress. It will carry these stories on the origin of the oil field, how Ranger sprang from a roadside Western town and in less than a year became the largest city in Western Texas, and now making a successful bid for greater honors. It is revealing some of the slow growing cities of the Southwest. Numerous illustrations will show what money, brains and labor can achieve in six months' time. The valuation of Ranger property will increase 100 per cent in the next four months. The increase in population will be as great. The skyline will rise magically with the numerous new and large structures now going up. The sixteen or nineteen residence societies will be covered with beautiful and magnificent mansions. The Thanksgiving number of The Times will tell you all about Ranger from the first started to move with the boom of oil until the present day. The significance of the remarkable growth will be shown in pictures, racy articles and in cold figures.

It is such a number as you have long wanted for. It will be complete as possible. It will be the best advertising medium Ranger has had in months. The name of a merchant or business man will appear in practically every city in the United States. The booster edition is calculated to impress thousands of additional people with the feasibility of coming to Ranger so that when spring comes the influx of people and new business will be treble what it was during the biggest rush of the present year. No misrepresentation will be made. Cold facts will be used. Those who wish to help their town can do no better than to have a number of copies sent to their friends elsewhere. A copy of the Thanksgiving number of The Times may be the means of bringing a friend to Ranger and share prosperity with you. It will help to put Ranger on the map. Those who wish to have copies for their personal use and for reference, should make their orders now. You will value it.

Maximilian Harden, not afraid to fight the Kaiser while the war was on, is fighting now for Germany, as every German should. Wisely he emphasizes the fact that it is not pleasant for a live man to have a dead man's body tied to his neck. And it would not be pleasant for the live, conquering part of Europe and America to have a dead and decaying Germany tied to its neck. In the Orient they sometimes tie the murderer to his victim, and it is said to be worse than hanging, for the criminal.

Harden's article, published in the Hearst newspaper yesterday, admits the fact that Germany is not worth the cost of the war.

Harmon's article, published in the Hearst newspaper yesterday, admits the fact that Germany is not worth the cost of the war.

U. S. Officers Underpaid. One Harmless Cobra. Many Nations, Many Fights. What Is Bankruptcy? By ARTHUR BRISBANE.

Monday, with news dull, is a day to remind Congress and the President that officers of the United States army and navy are shamefully underpaid.

After years of hard study and discipline at West Point or Annapolis a young man gets his officer's uniform, which he must buy, and a salary smaller than that of a head servant in a prosperous household—and the servant's livery is paid for by his employer.

A major in the regular army or an officer of corresponding rank in the navy may handle hundreds of millions for his Government; he spends more than half his life reaching his rank; he has little, if anything, to look forward to, and he is paid about as well as the assistant manager of a minor department in a first-class department store.

Widows and children of American officers are poor while the man lives, poorer still when he dies. For self-respect and the demands of his Government make it impossible for him to save. And the same self-respect and rules of the service make it impossible for him to engage, as other salaried men may do, in profitable outside ventures. He cannot even buy a residence; they cannot even buy a residence and have another's chance of making money by increased value of real estate.

All labor, from kitchen maid to coal miner, has had wages doubled or tripled within a few months. The man who serves his country in uniform has had no increase in pay for many years. He was poor, before the cost of living went up. How can he live? That is the problem.

The United States officer cannot strike, would not, if he could. He is the ultimate reliance of the nation which has just seen that at any time brute force, guided by intelligence, may be the only hope.

Regular officers of the army and navy are the main spring of national defense. Without them there would have been no army of millions raised and sent to Europe in a few months. At the most there might have been gathered a leaderless mob.

The nation's service in army and navy should be made a real career, in material reward, as well as in glory. It should give a man enough for his wife and his children after him.

Every rich man sees to the comfort and good pay of his night watchman. Uncle Sam is rich. His night and day watchmen are the army and navy and workers in both, officers that lead, and men that obey, should be not among the most poorly paid of the nation's workers, as they are now, but the most generously paid.

Secretary Daniels's request for thirty odd more millions for pay in the navy should be doubled, then granted. Exactly twice what they now get would not be decent, honest pay for the competent, highly trained officers and men of army and navy devoting their lives to their country.

"Sixty thousand Reds are listed in the United States," and everybody is excited, with good reason, doubtless. But 60,000, fortunately, is not a high percentage in 100,000,000, and the hundred million, if brave resolute and not rattled, ought to keep their Government going for a while. Except in a badly nourished baby 60,000 disease germs could live forever and do little harm. Everybody has diphtheria germs in his throat all the time, or nearly. Every nation has "reds," whatever, exactly, they may be. A healthy body, individual or national holds its germs in check.

In the East you may see the snake charmer handle his deadly cobra, hooded snake that kills. You may see the snake bite the charmer, who only smiles.

The charmer knows, although his gulls do not, that the poison sacks have been taken from the cobra's jaws.

YOUR ELECTRIC POWER AND LIGHT SERVICE. I desire to announce to the citizens of Ranger that myself and associates have purchased the electric light property, and will operate the same in the future. This city is passing out of the super-critical period into a period of great constructive enterprise. It is our purpose to furnish to our patrons the very best electric light and power service. We are now installing a new engine and generator and will furnish about 400 H. P., which will double the capacity of the station. This should enable us to give to our patrons first-class dependable electric service. We are asking the co-operation of every citizen. In doing so, we hope they will be a little patient with us until our reconstruction plans now actually under way are matured. We are using every means at our command to bring the equipment up to where there should not be any interruptions in service. J. E. LEWIS.

DOWN IN BED AND SO WEAK

Lady Suffered Terribly for Eight Weeks But Her Case Showed Wonderful Improvement After Taking Cardui.

Johnson City, Tenn.—Mrs. M. R. Scott, living near this town, states: "About three years ago I was down in bed... terrible and so weak I couldn't bear the sight of food. This condition continued for about eight weeks. I thought I was going to die, and knew I must get something to do me some good. I had heard all my life of Cardui and the good results obtained from its use. So I decided to try it."

After about a half bottle of Cardui my appetite improved, then I was less nervous. I kept it up until I had taken five bottles—and such an improvement! I gained flesh and now I am the picture of health, due, I believe, solely to the use of Cardui. I am the mother of ten children and feel well and strong."

Cardui is a mild, medicinal tonic for women. It has stood the most severe of all tests—the test of time, having been in use for over forty years. It is composed of purely vegetable ingredients, which have been found to help build up the vitality, tone up the nerves, and strengthen the womanly constitution. Try Cardui.—Advertisement.

Mrs. Todd Relates Story of Trouble

The remarkable experience of Mrs. Mollie Todd, a well known resident of Fort Worth, Texas, living at 700 North Elm street, is another striking evidence of the extraordinary merits of Orgatone Treatment. In speaking of her seven years of suffering and subsequent relief, Mrs. Todd said:

"I am proud to say that I have gained in weight and strength and feel like a new woman in four weeks taking this Orgatone.

"My trouble had been growing worse instead of better all the time," she continued. "It was almost impossible for me to do any of my house work on account of terrible rheumatic pains. I began to lose weight and could not find anything to relieve my pain or build me up."

"After I had suffered for more than seven years without getting any better, I read of some of the good work Orgatone Treatment was doing right here in Fort Worth and I started taking it. As I have said before, I gained in weight and strength and feel like a new woman and I haven't felt a sign of the old rheumatic or indigestion troubles since. I have taken only four bottles of Orgatone so far, but from the way I have improved already, I am glad to recommend it to everybody."

Orgatone is not a so-called patent or secret remedy but a new scientific treatment absolutely free of alcohol in any form and is sold exclusively under the personal direction of a special Orgatone representative.—Advertisement.

ALMA RUBENS STARS AT OPERA HOUSE IN 'A MAN'S COUNTRY'

"A Man's Country," starring Alma Rubens, is a rip-roaring drama of the West of the days of '39, when men played hard and fought harder—lived fast and died faster. It will be at the Opera House Tuesday. It was made under the direction of Henry Kolker, one of the most notable actors and directors of the legitimate stage for Robertson-Cole and is distributed by Exhibitors Mutual. It conforms faithfully to that picturesque period of the West which has furnished material for every notable writer from Bret Harte to Alfred Henry Lewis.

The character of Kate Carewe, the dance-hall wanton of Huxley's Gulch, is one which is admirably suited to the galvanic temperament and exotic beauty of Miss Rubens, and she throws herself into the character with the reckless abandon the role demands. Kate was wise in the ways of men. Young, beautiful, with an unbridled temper; sophisticated and somewhat callous, she was wifely intelligent and at heart unselfish.

MAURICE TOURNEUR STORY SHOWING AT LONE STAR

Maurice Tourneur—creator of "The Blue Bird," "Fruella," "Sporting Life," "The White Heather"—has scored again. His latest production, "The Life Line," is booked for the Lone Star theater for today and Tuesday and Wednesday. "The Life Line" is, like his past two successes, an education of a frugal, Lane melodrama, "The Roman Eye." It is on the same large spectacular scale, with a big love story running through it. We doubt if anything more thrilling has ever been filmed than the wreck of the ocean liner and the escape of the passengers by means of the life line, which forms the climax of the play. There is also a realistic theater fire.
