CHILD'S BODY FOUND HERE

HERE'S HOW IT IS DONE—Jess Neely, (left) Rice Athletic director and head coach, explains formations and plays that will probably be seen in Southwest Conference football this season to Kern Tips, popular football announcer. This was at a school field in Houston recently for all Southwest Conference announcers sponsored by the Humble Company.

Humble Plans Big Football Broadcast Schedule for Texans

This season Texans will be able to see and hear more Southwest Conference football than ever before. Humble has brought out a new company's football announcers. Nearly 30 play-by-play announcers and broadcast and telecast supervisors attended the school held in conjunction with the annual meeting of the Southwest Football Officials' association in Houston. As a part of the school the announcers attended sessions of the officials meeting to hear first hand about the rule changes for 1956. Heading the staff at the announcers' school were Jess Neely, Rice athletic director and head coach, and Kern Tips, popular Southwest Conference football announcer. Attending were announcers from all over Texas including such veterans as Dave Russell of Beaumont, Eddie Barker, Vee Box and Jerry Doggett of Dallas and Bob Walker of Wichita Falls. Coach Neely explained the various plays and formations that will probably show up in conference play this season. While explaining the plays he made careful diagrams to show the announcers how to accurately recognize formations. Tips, known as "Mr. Football" to hundreds of thousands of Texas followers of the game, told announcers that preparation for broadcasts is most important. "Know the teams, their records, the signals and, above, all respect the officials," he said. "And always remember that team play is what counts. Good runs are seldom made without good play by other members of a team." Included in the comprehensive

The Ranger Times will be closed Monday.

By-Passes Cause Cities to Grow

Contrary to general business opinions only a few years ago, highway by-passes (relief routes) usually help business and help raise property values, a nationwide survey has disclosed. As a result, many business men who opposed by-passes now fight to get them. The new national highway program, which calls for 42 per cent of federal aid construction in urban areas, will mean that many towns and cities from coast to coast will face the by-pass problem. Effects of by-passes on business, property values, traffic volume, pedestrian safety and parking are listed together with legal aspects, and suggestions for community organization for study and action on the by-pass problem as it affects a specific locality. A survey of nine cities by the California division of highways listing the effects of by-passes on various business routes along the by-passed routes, showed with few exceptions, that businesses showed gains, some ranging as high as 132 per cent. Other studies showed an increase in land values along by-pass routes. Business men credited gains to a decrease in traffic congestion on the by-passed routes, which made shopping easier. The table below, based on studies by the California division of highways, shows the effects of by-passes on business in nine of the state's cities. (Hyphen (-) denotes minus, all other figures denotes per cent of increase.)

Bobby Culpepper Fights Gamely; Aid Sought by Friends

By ED JOHNSON
Bobby Culpepper, 30, is an attractive young mother, with a thin and winsome smile—a smile that lights up her features and seems to fill the room with sunshine as she lies on her sick bed each day at her home, which she makes with her grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Luther Kirkpatrick, on Breckenridge highway. Bobby, some time ago, was taken ill with an intestinal obstruction. In the past 22 months she has had 11 major surgeries. That in itself would dishearten most people—but not the charming brunette that has the fighting heart of a champion. Bobby is the mother of a son, Pat Culpepper, 7, who does not know what a gamester his mother is. She has fought a silent fight with the aid of her grandparents until now she faces another major operation. This major operation is for ileostomy repair, a very delicate one, and local physicians and surgeons as well as those in Dallas have recommended the doctor who has done the most research and successfully operated most times in such instances—Dr. Ovar Swenson of Central hospital, Boston, Mass. Now, Bobby must leave Dallas by plane, with someone to accompany her, on Thursday, Sept. 6. Here is where Ranger can prove that it has a heart—Bobby and her grandparents have "scraped the bottom of the barrel," 11 major operations in 22 months and never able to work more than six weeks at a time has made terrible inroads upon finances—there just isn't any left. Bobby and her grandparents have their pride, they are not seeking charity—but her grandparents are seeking a fighting chance for the petit nurse, who once was a happy, healthy young woman. Friends have come to the rescue and in the neighborhood a collection base has been established. So far collections amount to roughly $302. But that is far short of what will be needed for the hospital, plane fare, doctor bill, and expenses for the one who must accompany her. Some $1500 is needed at the very least—and needed in a hurry, and citizens of Ranger and surrounding communities have the opportunity of doing what kind friends and neighbors are doing. Bobby must be given blood transfusions, and Rev. Ralph Perkins, pastor of the First Baptist church, has been busy rounding up blood donors for the stricken one—persons interested are asked to contact the minister if they desire to help. But blood is not all that Bobby needs and must have—that $1500 that may well mean the difference between longer suffering and future good health is needed and needed NOW! Men and women of Ranger who are desirous of helping Bobby win this fight, may contribute any sum they wish to the "Bobby Culpepper Fund." This fund will be used in waging the fight along with Bobby, who must walk the road alone in this—her twelfth major operation in a desperate battle to regain health. Sitting in her sick room, I could feel the gameness of this young mother, who, if this fight is won, will be well once again, with a beautiful smile upon her face as she gazes fondly on her young son. Once more she will feel like singing, going about her household and living a clean, useful life. Yes, Ranger has a chance to be a hero—and it is not doubted by many, or any of her friends and neighbors but that a hero Ranger will be. Donations in any amount may be mailed, handed to, or sent to Mrs. J. B. (Opal) Craig, 613 Breckenridge road, or left with Ed Johnson at the editorial desk of the Ranger Times. The "Bobby Culpepper Fund" needs $1500 before Sept. 6—will Ranger be equal to the occasion? It's up to you—to say that it is in the lap of God, would be putting it rather crudely—but it is in your laps. Where is your heart, Ranger? Bobby is fighting her fight alone—but you can help her. She needs and deserves your assistance. What can you do?

'Texas in Review' Monday Night

Houston has an excellent training program for policemen. And this week (Monday, Channel 4, 10 p. m.) The Humble company's Texas in Review will follow a future policeman through his thorough training in all phases of law enforcement. Another interesting feature will be on the launching of the 12,000-ton USS Alamo at Pascagoula, Miss. This is the first navy ship to be named for the shrine of Texas liberty. And from Fort Worth will come interesting pictures of that city's children's museum.

Police Arrest Local Youth and Speeder

City police arrested a 14-year-old youth at 5:15 a. m. Friday and jailed him for investigation of theft. The teen-ager was later released according to the police blotter after a reprimand from the chief of police. G. R. Hamm, Midland, was charged with speeding early Friday morning. He was released after posting a $10 bond.

Rain, Hail, Wind Buffet Ranger Area

Rain, accompanied by hail and high winds swept into Ranger late Thursday afternoon, bringing a measurable precipitation of .20. This marked the third day of moisture in the city. The high winds caused considerable damage to property, especially TV antennas, a number of which were completely wrecked, while others were less extensively damaged. According to reports, some of which were rather meager, the most extensive damage occurred at the home of Mrs. Verna Hartsfield, 106 Cypress street, where the antenna was severely crippled and a tree was uprooted and blown onto the home, damaging the roof. Several trees were uprooted and others damaged within the city, it was reported. A mesquite tree, some 50 years old, at the residence of F. P. Brasher, Sr. was blown down and other damage to street signs, flower beds and gardens was reported. Up to press time no broken windows had been reported.

DRUNK ARRESTED

Robert Onelli, 28, white, Fort Worth was arrested by a city patrolman at 12:50 a. m. Saturday and charged with being drunk. The man was jailed.

Shoe Box is First Casket for Infant

By ED JOHNSON
The sanitation crew of the city of Ranger started out on what was to be a routine day of pick-up Friday morning. Going down the alley way in the rear of the 100 block of Main on the west side, behind J. C. Penney company and Western Auto store the truck stopped to pick-up trash in the containers there. A shoe box, measuring about 5 1/2 inches wide, by about 14 inches long and 3 1/2 inches deep, was in one of the containers. Andy Leflore, one of the workers discovered in the box the body of an infant male, about five months premature—dead. It was wrapped in a pink satin pillow cover. The police department of the city of Ranger was called to the scene of the tragedy and conducted an on-the-spot investigation. Chief of Police W. G. Pounds turned the body over to Dr. A. W. Brazda, city health officer here who stated that the infant was a premature (about five months) male infant, in all probability white and perfectly formed. Justice of Peace Charles Bobo, conducted an investigation and ordered the body to the Killingsworth Funeral home for burial preparations. Graveside funeral services were held at 10 a. m. Saturday with Robert Craig, minister of the Eastside Church of Christ, officiating. A check of Ranger hospitals revealed no woman having been admitted that could in any way be connected with the case. Police are continuing the investigation. The shoe box, which was the first casket of the infant remains bore the following markings: 1GTZ 4500 Star Brand Scamperco, 7753 White and White Mesh Pump 260. Checking further, the police chief found that only one store in the city had ever handled Star brand shoes, that being Martin's department store, which is no longer in business. As a means of identification the cost code and identification marks are being further checked in an effort to learn by whom the shoes were purchased. Whether or not the tragedy is a result of an abortion or a miscarriage is not known, but the fact remains that the pitiful remains were unceremoniously dumped into a trash can where even a stray dog might have found it and there would have been little if any signs or remains over which to hold a funeral. Perhaps that was the wish of the person or persons who so callously discarded what might have grown into a healthy, wide-awake specimen of young manhood. The party or parties that were implicated in this affair, in the opinion of this writer, are no less than murderers—and should be treated as such. No spark of decency could be found in the soul of a human being that would not at least have buried it humanely even if in the dark of night—to hide their shame and dishonor. Now, through their lifetime they must carry with them the memory of a deed committed upon an innocent one who had no wish or control over being conceived in the first place—whose life on this earth would no doubt have been as precious to it as the life of the fiend who is so corrupted that he, or she, or both, could perpetrate so dastardly a deed. That they were guilty of no less than murder and also guilty of not preparing for a decent burial of the body should make them sleep soundly at night—beyond a doubt, but there will be a day of reckoning and that will be the Judgment. Then too, it is entirely possible that the investigations of the law enforcement department will eventually turn up the guilty party or parties. If such party or parties read this—I hope you sleep soundly tonight. The pitiful remains will remain in an unmarked grave while you proudly hold your head erect and walk the streets a respected man and woman—for three had to be one of each. The Ranger Times stands ready to put its full editorial weight behind an investigation to find the guilty parties. And if it can be proven that murder was committed—no less—does pledge to pursue and endeavor through its columns, to keep alive this investigation until a satisfactory "closed" is stamped upon the official folder. There can be no dodging of this (Continued on Page Two)

Handicapped to Receive Awards At Annual Meet

AUSTIN — Three Texas employers and a public service worker will get awards at the annual meeting of the governor's employ-the-physically-handicapped committee here Sept. 18.

But what Committee Chairman Laurence Melton of Dallas calls the "big play" will be reserved for the man or woman who is selected as the year's outstanding handicapped employee.

"The physically handicapped workers make this program, not us," states Melton. "The men and women who make good on the job we help them get are responsible for more and more job opportunities. The employer who discards unnecessary restrictions to accept people able and willing to do his particular work comes back for more employees if that work is done well."

"So the outstanding handicapped worker of the year — that is the award which counts. Not for what the employee has done for himself, but for others."

Over 2500 physically handicapped men and women have found jobs through the program in the past year, so picking a champion worker is no simple assignment.

A glance through the committee's records kept by Tom Greening of Austin, secretary, shows hundreds of deserving cases. Picked at random are the following:

Louie V. Barnett, who overcame the handicap of a traffic accident injury to compile a fine record as engineering clerk for the city of Paris;

Herman D. Lambert of Beeville, who had to change careers when he lost an arm, and who has made good as a radio dispatcher;

George W. Moore, Jr., of San Antonio, who had both legs shattered by artillery fire in 1945 but who now handles public contracts capably for a department store;

Jean Fierre Lequet of Beaumont, who suffered a brain concussion in Korea in 1952, but is rated high by a dealer in household appliances. (In his spare time he is mastering foreign languages and hopes to enter government service as an interpreter);

Horace Lemond of Harlingen, who lost his right arm in an accident but is a crack car body repairman nevertheless;

Mrs. Marilyn Green Page of Tyler, a helpless polio victim in her teens, but a competent legal secretary today.

The list goes on and on. An

Ablene man blinded suddenly. A Wacoan crippled by an accidental gun shot. A Corpus Christi juvenile worker who found a new trade when osteomyelitis meant the end of his carpentering days. A Longview oil field switcher who gave up training Tennessee Walkers because a strep infection in his left ear destroyed his sense of balance.

Out of hundreds of such Texas cases of courage and ambition will come the "champion" here Sept. 18.

Melton will call the state-wide committee to order at the Commodore Perry hotel at 9 a.m. Some 50 heads of local committees will be in attendance. The group will appraise results of the 1956 campaign and plan its 1957 activity.

Self-Feeding Brood Sows

Many farm chores have been eliminated by labor saving devices, but there are a few that are still difficult to adapt to automation. Hog farmers are confronted with one of these in the management of their sows.

Sows have been hand-fed since the beginning of hog farming. Nowadays, some hog farmers are experimenting with self-feeding their sows. Research and experience have shown that sows can be self-fed, although there are problems in doing it.

The problems in feeding brood sows by any method usually involve getting them to eat the right balance of nutrients without eating too much. It's easy to control this by hand-feeding. Self-feeding requires some changes in the feeding program.

The good hog man usually wants his sows to eat a mixture of about four parts grain and one part good supplement. Each sow gets four to six pounds of this ration daily, depending on her condition. When pasture is not available, good legume hay is offered free choice.

In self-feeding, where the feed is kept in front of the sow in a self feeder at all times, there is a problem of limiting the feed intake. This can be accomplished pretty well by mixing chopped roughage with the grain and supplement.

Research at the Ralston Purina farm in Missouri indicates that when ground shelled corn is fed, four parts of corn, one part of supplement, and three parts of ground legume hay make a good ration for self-feeding. Other adjustments are made when other grains are fed, so that the roughage factor limits consumption.

It will cost a little more to self-feed than to hand-feed. There is the added expense of chopping the roughage and mixing it in the ration. Also, sows may nose around in the feed and blow out some of the chopped roughage to get to the grain, causing wastage. But self-feeding sows can be done as a labor saving device.

Homecoming Is Planned by Mangum Baptist

The third annual homecoming of the Mangum Baptist Church will be held Sunday at Mangum.

Rev. Lee Fields will bring the 11 a.m. message and a basket lunch will be served at noon. Several speakers and quartets have been engaged for the occasion.

Mrs. J. A. May, program chairman, said "Everyone interested is cordially invited to attend."

"Scooter" Rizzato, the little shortstop of the New York Yankees baseball team, has reached the end of the line. "Little Phil" was given his unconditional release by the Yankees last Saturday. It will seem terribly empty out there without the "Scooter" on his customary spot. Rizzato was, for years, one of the mainstays of the club — which bears out the assertion: we look on baseball as a sport, the bigwigs look at it as business.

An old maid is a girl who regrets that she had so much sense when she was young.

With a mighty blast, Mickey Mantle sent homer number 46 out of the park Wednesday and tied the "Clipper" Joe DiMaggio for the third slot in all-time homer production for the Yanks for one season — Babe Ruth and Lou Gehrig being the two leaders.

Many men who propose on their knees spend the next 10 years trying to get back on their feet.

Friday night, Sept. 7, the Bulldogs travel to Merkel for the season's opener. With King Football on the throne many local fans will be making the trip to see the new 2-A team in action. However, let it be remembered that Merkel is not a 2-A team by the wildest imagination. While, the writer is not altogether an optimist, likewise he is not a pessimist, all the way. But bear in mind — (Langer may) not go through the season unscathed.

Regret isn't worth a damn. Throughout life, a man continually faces a choice of various actions. He chooses his course on the basis of expediency — what appears to be best at the time he has to decide.

How foolish he would be then, to regret his choice later if events happen to prove he has decided wrongly. He has no way of knowing what the future will bring. He can't blame himself for a wrong decision. He should mark it off as water under the bridge and go on to the next crossroads.

It's practical. It helps you over a lot of rough places. It prevents you from sighing about "what might have been" and beating your head against a wall every time you learn you've made a mistake — yes, it's practical.

One change in the rules of football this season may be well to bone-up on: don't yell "pass interference" too quickly. When a forward pass is attempted and an offensive man fails to catch it but flicks it up in the air — it is anybody's ball, until it touches the ground it is not dead, and any man, offense or defense, may catch the ball, get it any way he can, and run with it.

Tourists are people who drive.

WANT TO KILL SOMEONE? BE A TRAFFIC MISFIT

"Don't be a traffic misfit — the fellow who's out of step is out of luck!"

That warning was given to motorists recently by E. C. McFadden of Dallas, vice president of Employers Casualty company and president of the Texas Safety association, as he discussed the Share the Road program of the Texas Safety association, the Department of Public Safety and the National Safety Council. This program is being conducted in cooperation with the Slow Down and Live program of the national conference of state safety coordinators.

"Safety on the highway depends to a great extent on the smooth, even flow of traffic," McFadden said. "Whenever you interrupt this flow, you're in trouble — and so are the drivers around you. Here are a few examples of stunts that will foul up traffic in a hurry."

"Stopping suddenly can cause an aggravating pile-up of the cars behind you. Making a turn from the wrong lane is sure to jam things up in the lane you barge into. Hugging the bumper of the car ahead makes you a sitting duck for a serious accident if the fellow in front stops suddenly. "Speed is another thing that must be adjusted to the traffic flow," he said.

"If you go barreling down the road faster than the drivers around you, you're likely to

THANKS FOLKS, WE GOT ELECTED —

... and it's a nice tribute to be favored with the confidence and good-will of one's neighbors and friends. Getting elected, however, may apply to business as well as politics. I doubt if we could get very far in a political race, but when it comes to making quality abstracts a host of customers far and near have for more than 33 years favored us with a vote of confidence, and still do. And for that we are deeply grateful.

OUTBOARD MARINE ACQUIRES LEADING CANADIAN PRODUCER

As part of its diversification and expansion program Outboard Marine & Manufacturing Co., Waukegan, Ill., has acquired all the outstanding capital stock of Industrial Engineering Limited, Vancouver, B.C., Canada's leading manufacturer of chain saws for farm, lumber and pulp industries.

The announcement made by Joseph G. Rayniak, president of Outboard Marine, stated the purchase price of $4,750,000 was paid by the organization's Canadian subsidiary, Outboard Marine Corp. of Canada Ltd., Peterborough, in cash and 40,000 shares of Outboard Marine common stock.

"We have been interested in the chain saw development for some time," said Mr. Rayniak, "and acquiring Industrial Engineering gives us a sixth manufacturing and marketing organization that is also outstanding in its leadership of the field."

"While extending our marketing into the industrial fields, at the same time we add the manufacture of a product which is compatible to our other internal combustion engine products."

"Industrial Engineering has a pioneer record in the chain saw improvement for the past 20 years, is the originator of the direct drive saw," according to Mr. Rayniak, "and supplies the greatest portion of all chain saws used by farm, lumber and pulp industries in Canada."

Industrial Engineering's annual sales are expected to be about $10,000,000. Outboard Marine's sales for its fiscal year which ends September 30, will exceed $100,000,000 for the highest in its 20-year history.

Mr. Rayniak stated, "There will be no changes in management of Industrial Engineering and Mr. R. A. Pitre will continue as president."

In a statement from Vancouver, Mr. Pitre said, "This will be a great step forward for Industrial Engineering. Because, with the immense manufacturing, research and engineering resources of Outboard Marine at our disposal, Industrial Engineering will be able to continue to provide the chain saw market with a product which will have all the latest developments through the most up-to-date engineering and manufacturing techniques available."
