88TH YEAR PRICE FIVE CENTS A Small City with Big Industry - A Bright Spot for New Industry RANGER, TEXAS, THURSDAY, APRIL 18, 1957

COOKING?

By NORMAN WRIGHT

A few weeks ago a group of Ranger merchants got into a huddle with the editor of the Times and these business men had several issues of the paper spread out on a table.

They pointed out the vast amount of publicity which had been given recently by the Times to the many and varied projects which have brought comment from all over West Texas on the way Ranger is stepping out and putting herself on the map, and what the city is doing to bring people in here every week to take advantage of the many services the town and its institutions have to offer.

They pointed out their own store promotions and their own efforts to make the trading opportunities in Ranger more attractive to more people, and then these merchants suggested to the editor point blank that there were some firms which were not joining in this combined effort to promote and build the town, and wanted to know why since they considered the newspaper should present a complete picture of what was going on.

The editor had a but one answer, which was the true fact that not everybody was using the Times as an advertising medium but some firms were taking different routes.

For the sake of courtesy we will draw the curtain on the merchant's reaction to that one, and get over to our favorite subject these days which is the tax-subsidized, postal-subsidized, anti-vice and anti-social Advertising Circular which has received more condemnation up and down the streets of Ranger in the past week than anything we've run across in the past 10 years, brought on by the limelight in which it has been cast as a factor in bankrupting the postal service.

One of the most prominent men in Eastland County, who holds one of the highest elective offices in Eastland County, said over the coffee cups Thursday morning that the sight of an advertising circular in his mail box so upset his day that he wasn't fit to associate with people, because every time he saw one he knew that he had been taxed for somebody to send it to him.

Two more highly placed gentlemen in Ranger said that Congress should be forced to raise the postal rates on the things high enough to pay for their cost of delivery (Continued On Page Eight)

Pony Leaguers Meet at Rodeo Grounds Friday

All 13 and 14 year old boys who plan to play Pony League ball are asked to meet at the Rodeo Grounds at 5 p.m. Friday without fail. It is announced by David D. Pickrell.

All boys who have been given cards are asked to bring them back with them properly filled out at the Friday meeting. All boys who have not yet received cards, but who want to play ball, are also urged to attend the meeting.

"It is almost imperative that they come to this meeting," Pickrell said, "if they intend to be in the Pony League. We've got to find out where we stand, and this is the only way. We strongly urge that every one of them be here."

Sacred Easter Cantata Slated For First Baptist

The Thirty-two voice Sanctuary Choir of the First Baptist Church will present in song a Sacred Easter Cantata, "The Seven Last Words of Christ", by T. H. Dabois on Sunday night, April 21 at 8:00 o'clock.

Each one of the words of the Christ spoke from the first "Father Forgive Them, For They Know Not What They Do" to his last words, "It is Finished", contains a spiritual message to behold.

In the Cantata the writer arranged the seven last sayings of Jesus for the Solo voices. The Choir brings out the spirit of the crowd which surrounded the Saviour who was hanging on the cross.

Musical Director J. N. Sutton said the Church is fortunate in having soloists, accompanists, and a choir capable of presenting this fine music. Mrs. Felton Brasher will be at the organ and Ann Robinson and Mrs. J. N. Sutton at the piano. Soloists are: Sopranos, Mrs. Jean Eaton and Marjorie Shockey. Contralto, Sue Watson. Baritone, Dan Mitchell and J. N. Sutton.

Sutton said the Sanctuary Choir had worked hard to make this sacred Cantata live in the hearts of everyone on Easter Sunday. The length of the service will be one hour. You are invited to bring your family and friends and hear this special sermon in song.

Main Street Sees First Collision In Months Wed.

An unusual sight took place on Main Street in Ranger about 9:00 a.m. Wednesday when the first auto collision of any significance in months took place at the corner of Main and Austin.

According to Police Chief W. G. Pounds, a car driven by Truman Stewart plowed into the broadside of a car driven by Howard Sutton.

Both men were from Ranger, and Sutton was driving West on Main Street while Stewart was driving South on Austin Street.

Chief Pounds said the Stewart car failed to stop for a stop sign.

J. A. Johnson Is New Salesman At Elliott Motors

J. A. "Jake" Johnson, long-time former resident of Ranger, has returned to the city to take a position as salesman with Elliott Motor Company, Ford dealers here.

Johnson has been selling automobiles in Midland for the past several years and said he had stayed away from a good town long enough and was glad to get back "home."

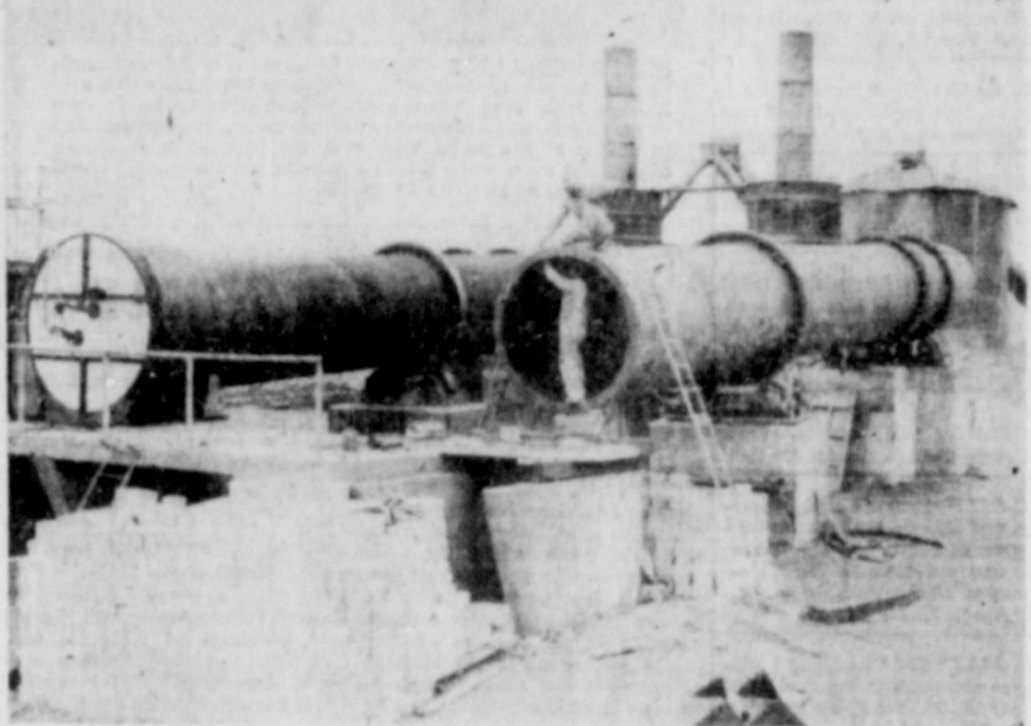

He is widely acquainted in Ranger and asks his many friends to come by Elliott Motor Company and let him show them the new 1957 Ford whether they want to buy a car or not.

Band Students Get Hard Work-Out by Abilene Master

Band Students in the Ranger schools will say they've had it by the time the day is over because Douglas Fry of Abilene Christian College has been here all day rehearsing the kids on the numbers they will play in the upcoming band contests.

The Senior High School band will play for four hours, according to Band Director Dan Whitaker, and the Junior Band will play for two hours.

Fry is here conducting a band clinic, trying to work out all the problems and "bugs" in the contest numbers.

NEW KILN GOES INTO PLACE: The new 75-ft. kiln being installed by Featherlight Corp., at the Ranger plant is shown above as welders and other workmen prepare the big oven for operation. It will be a part of a "bank" of three, and another brand new kiln is to join it soon, making a bank of four and greatly increasing the output of aggregate which has already doubled since the expansion program began in Ranger, making the local installation the biggest in the United States. Output Doubled In Ranger Plant Since Expansion

Another new 75-foot kiln, making the seventh to be installed in the Ranger plant of Featherlight Corporation, is going into place this week to further enlarge the local installation which was already the biggest Featherlight plant in the United States.

The giant, steel kiln was moved here from Strawn where it had been a part of the Featherlight plant there until its recent consolidation with the Ranger works.

Another brand new 75-foot kiln, one that has never been used, is being manufactured now and will be moved into place here in about 30 days, according to plant officials, which will give the plant two "banks" of kilns with four to a bank.

Even without the addition of the kilns now being installed, Featherlight had almost exactly doubled its production here, with the old figures being four or five carloads a day, whereas they are now eight or nine carloads a day.

The Featherlight Corporation manufactures a lightweight aggregate out of shale, a lifetime supply of which is located within a stone's throw of the Ranger plant, according to Charles Bommer, manager, and the shale is finding its way into hundreds of different kinds of construction. The possibilities for its use are almost unlimited, and it is coming in demand more and more every day throughout the entire construction industry.

The raw shale is taken from deposits near the plant and is crushed according to specifications and then spread in these giant kilns where it is cooked under 2500 degrees of heat. The finished product resembles a finely chipped coal and is very light in weight, yet it has the strength of rocks and gravel. It is widely used in the manufacture of building blocks and reinforced concrete. It is expected that its use will continue to grow in the construction of roads and bridges. It is said that even telephone and power poles can be made of the aggregate, which would make them fireproof and almost indestructible.

At the present time the plant employs 46 men, many of whom cannot move to Ranger because they can not find a place to live.

I GIVE YOU TEXAS

By BOYCE HOUSE

More of the interesting career of James McLaughlin, veteran of Ranger and earlier oil fields: One night, Mr. Mc was in Cushing, Okla., waiting for a train. He went into a cafe, ate a sandwich, then entered the back room, where a gambling hall was operated. Just to "kill time," he put up a dollar at the roulette wheel, won and kept on winning until he had run up a sizeable amount. He saw several hangers-on looking at him sidewise and he suddenly remembered that a man ran the risk of being knocked in the head for a few dollars. He cashed in, strolled to the door, looked up and down the dark street, then ran all the way to the station. A friend of his at Cushing was not so fortunate. He was held up and he had a big roll. However, he had anticipated such an event and, as he was walking along a dark street, he had his hands in his pockets, and one hand was holding the roll of bills. At the command, "Hands up!" from a man with a pistol, the victim raised his hands but dropped the money at his side. The robber did not observe this, searched him and took his change. Later, the victim returned with a flashlight and recovered his bankroll. McLaughlin was active during the rushes at Britton, Drumwright and Shamrock, Okla., El Dorado, Ark., and Wichita Falls but spent longer in Ranger than anywhere else. He knew Tex Rickard, the great boxing promoter, and Jess Willard, then world's heavyweight champion, when they were drilling for oil in Eastland County. Jake Hamoa, Ardmore railroad builder and oil man was a good friend of Mr. Mc. Conditions were difficult in Ranger, even for an oil boom: mud, shortage of materials and difficulty in getting men and teams. But he gained the reputation of getting things done. An oil man asked, "How do you do it?" He replied, "Never count the cost." It didn't pay to try to push the blue-eyed Scotch Irishman around or try to put something over on him—as one man found out. An operator, through an arrangement with a railroad employee, was taking tank cars belonging to Mr. Mc's company. He kept watch and found a string of the diverted cars and then called this operator up. The latter stalled with, "I've got 'em loaded." "Then unload," Mr. Mc said. "All right, take as long as you want—but the law says you have to pay $50 a day per car." To avoid the expense and time of unloading, the man offered to sell the oil to McLaughlin's company and to teach him a lesson, Mr. Mc drove a hard bargain, buying the crude for perhaps half the regular price. Word got around and no more of his company's tank cars were "swiped."

It's Early Spray That Catches The Cankerworm

One of the earliest of the leaf eaters is the cankerworm, which is the larva of a small moth. He is an ugly critter, about one inch long, whose looping crawl easily identifies him. The cantankerous cankerworm is among the worst of the tree strippers. Bad infestations can defoliate entire trees. Busy munchers start chewing the scenery as soon as leaves unfold. Infestations run in about seven-

The leaf-chewing progeny usually are the results of egg laying by two different insects . . . the Fall cankerworm and the Spring cankerworm, according to O. S. Singhain, field representative of the Duvy Tree Expert Co. Last Fall the adult Fall cankerworm female laid eggs on twigs after the first light frosts. This February or March, the wingless Spring cankerworm female, emerging from the ground after overwintering in the pupal stage, also laid eggs. Both the Fall and Spring offsprings hatch at the same time, and start feeding just as soon as buds unfold.

year cycles, being troublesome for about two or three years. There is no way of accurately gauging these cycles, for they may vary within a reasonable small area. If the pest was active last Spring, you can be virtually certain it will be back in force this year. Fortunately, the cankerworm will bite the dust with light doses of DDT or stomach poisons.

Because this greenery destroyer is widely distributed and has an insatiable appetite for almost any kind of leaves - elms, oaks, birch, Linden, maple, and almost any fruit tree - he should be dealt with without delay. The same spray that curbs cankerworm depredations also will do the same for the tent caterpillar, another leaf-eater.

Banded Mallard Duck Has Interesting Past

A Mallard duck killed near Eastland Jan. 15 of this year was originally banded in South Eaton, Saskatchewan, Canada.

The Mallard's long flight ended here when J. H. Pittman of Eastland killed the duck 12 miles southwest of here. Pittman noted the band and forwarded the information to the United States Department of the Interior. He received a reply this week, telling that the duck was banded August 7, 1956 in Canada by J. Bernard Gollup of the Canadian Wildlife Service.

Bird banding in North America is under the general direction of the U. S. Fish and Wildlife Service, with the cooperation of the Canadian Wildlife Service and participation by state and provincial game departments and many licensed and qualified volunteers. Reports of banding and recovery are the means by which information is obtained on migration routes, distribution to wintering and breeding grounds, mortality and other subjects of importance in regulation and management. Pittman was told by the Bird Banding office.

The report received by Pittman also showed records of extreme age among the birds. A Caspian Tern was recovered 25 years after banding, a ring-billed gull and osprey were taken after 21 years and a Mallard and a Pintail with known ages of more than 20 years were recovered. Wild birds banded in North America have been recovered as far away as Siberia, Africa, France and the mid-Pacific. One Pintail banded in Labrador, Canada on Sept. 7, 1951 was recovered Sept. 25 of the same year in Southern England.

In the past over seven million birds have been banded, and a half million are being added each year. More than 500,000 recovery and return records are now available for study. In case you should find one of the banded birds here is some information on terms used on the bands that might interest you: N—nestling banded in the nest; LOC—young bird of the year hatched in immediate vicinity; IM—young bird of year, location of hatching unknown; SUB—subadult and A—adult.

"Of course," Pittman was told in his letter, "the success of such a program depends upon people who report recovered bands. May we suggest how you can help in this and insure getting accurate facts on banded birds found or taken? Give concise statement as to date found, where and how obtained. Write down all letter and numbers just as they appear. If the bird is alive, release with band still attached. If dead or badly injured, remove the band, flatten, tape to your letter and send it in for our examination."

Don't Be Late On Matters About Social Security

Ever miss a bus or a train or a plane because you got to the station or terminal a few minutes after the time table said was departure time? That wasn't too bad in most cases, for there was another train, bus, or plane coming along not too long afterwards that you could still take.

However, R. R. Tuley, Jr., Abilene district manager for the Social Security Administration, reports that being late on some social security matters might mean missing out on thousands of dollars of protection against income loss by reason of death, disability, or old-age.

Space doesn't permit giving a detailed report on all such possibilities, but Tuley suggests our readers give the following a thorough going-over and make certain to get in touch with his office if any of the items seem to apply to them.

1. Clergymen, if ordained before 1955, must file their waiver forms with Internal Revenue before 4-15-57, in almost all cases, if they expect to ever get any social security credits.
2. Persons severely disabled for more than a year probably will never benefit from the disability provisions of the law if they delay inquiry until after June 30,

3. Certain school district employees who do not have to have state certificates to hold their present jobs cannot get social security coverage unless the school district takes affirmative action before 6-30-57.
4. Persons receiving social security benefits who were under age 72 for part of 1956 must file annual reports on 1956 earnings if such were more than $1200. Such reports filed after 4-15-57 may result in penalties.
5. Insured persons past age 65 with annual earnings of less than $2080.01 are losing money by not filing their social security claims now.

How to Protect Child's Eyesight

By the time your child is in the first grade, the chances are almost 50-50 in favor that he will need eye care. By the time he's in sixth grade, the odds are even higher: one in three.

There is no simple test which will show whether your boy or girl needs eye treatment. The usual Snellen test, in which your child is told to identify letters or symbols from a chart—shows eye problems only about half the time, according to an article in the April issue of Better Homes & Gardens magazine. The rest are discovered because a parent or teacher is watchful, and knows what to watch for.

Every child has trouble getting his eyes to move together perfectly during the first four months of life. If the eyes stay in the same crossed or walled position all the time, you should check with your doctor.

After six months of age, a tendency for the child's eyes to stray away from each other develops, even though the conditions occur only when the youngster is tired. Often this means that one eye is farsighted. The strain of keeping it in focus becomes too much for the child when he is weary, so his brain gives him a rest by using only the better eye. The signals from the other are blanketed out and it is left to wander.

One baby in every 50 has some such trouble, the article says. Most of them can be set straight with simple measures, but only if help is given early. Most tiny boys and girls who need glasses can be fitted with them by one year of age. Comfortable, unbreakable lenses let them discover the world, whole vistas at a time.

Such care wards off crossed eyes. It wards off the one-eyed, flat vision that often follows when the brain ignores for years the signals from one out-of-line eye.

Many a father has been offended when his own child didn't know him. Sometimes the trouble is just that the baby can't see very well, says the article. A normal new baby sees about as well across the room as you do across a football field.

By the age of two, he should see well enough to spot a favorite toy across the room and to guide his hand directly to a small object he wants. By the time he's four, things have to be only twice as close to him as to an adult with average vision, before he sees them well. By age six, this difference decreases.

Close vision is another thing. Most children are born farsighted and only gradually get to see up close. The power to focus is strong when you are young, though. For short periods of time, a four- or five-year-old can do amazing things with farsighted eyes, but he has to strain hard to do it.

Eyestrain in young children often affects their digestion. Too much eye use leads to loss of appetite, nausea, and vomiting in three out of five preschool cases.

When using his eyes makes a child restless and irritable or excessively tired, eyestrain may be at fault. A child very seldom complains about headache. He acts cross and goes off someplace to rest. Even if you ask, only about a third of preschoolers with eyestrain ever tell you they have pain, according to the magazine.

A child's behavior while he tries to use his eyes may give some clues to eye trouble. Notice whether he squeezes his eyes down to slits with a furrowed brow and pained grimace. Notice whether he leans toward things he is trying to see or neck. Notice whether he gets very

Eastland County Four-H Members Win Honors

Eastland County made a great showing Saturday at the District 8 4-H Elimination Contest held at Tarleton State College in Stephenville. Ribbons were won in all of the seven contests entered.

First place winners were: Rose Mary Berry and Kathleen Ziehr who entered the Electric Contest. They competed against six other county teams. These two girls belong to the Cisco Cheerful Tailors 4-H Club and they presented a demonstration on the infra-red bulb—entitled "A Bundle of Sunshine." All of the Electric team contestants received a pen and pencil set. Also winning first place ribbons were Nelda Stuart and Letha Luster, who entered the Safety Contest. Their demonstration was entitled "A Bird's Eye View of Safety." They belong to the Seranton 4-H Club. 4-H boys winning first place were Harold Reese, David Stuart, Warrnie Kandy, and Jimmy Johnson who entered the Dairy Cattle Judging Team Contest. These boys also belong to the Seranton 4-H Club. David Stuart also won first place as an individual in the Dairy Cattle Judging Contest. He was awarded a scholarship to Tarleton State College.

Winning second place were Patsy Fox and Jean Berry who entered the Dairy Foods Team Contest. Patsy belongs to the Olden 4-H Club and Jean to the Cisco Cheerful Tailors. They presented a demonstration entitled "Party Foods Made With Dairy Products." Winning third place as an individual in the Rifle Contest was John Wayne Burns of the Rising Star 4-H Club. Winning third place, and competing against six older teams were Winona Gore and Wilma Mendoza of the Ranger Junior High 4-H Club. They entered the Vegetable Team preparation contest and presented a demonstration entitled "Eat Raw Vegetables Often." Also winning third place in the Poultry Judging Contest were Ray Woodall of the Gorman 4-H Club and Burnie Milmo and Jerry Sanders of the Ranger Junior High 4-H Club.

Only 1st, 2nd, and 3rd place ribbons were awarded. Coaches for the teams were the four county Extension Agents—Mrs. D. O. Hart, Co. Home Dem. Agent, J. M. Cooper, Co. Agt., Charlene Eckert, Ass't. Co. Home Dem. Agent, and Curtis Boase, Ass't. Co. Agent.

All of the 1st place winners will attend the State 4-H Round-Up held on the A&M College campus in College Station on June 11, 12, and 13. They will then compete with 4-H contestants from all over the state. 4-H Round-Up is the high-light of the 4-H year and all 4-H members aspire to attend.

A Share-the-Fun County Elimination Contest was held last Saturday in Eastland and the winners and entrants of the Contest were: Gracie Tankersley and Ora Mae Hobbs of the Eastland 4-H Club; Jenny Parks, Blenda Smith and Nancy Carlile of the Cisco West Ward 4-H Club who won Blue ribbons.

TELEPHONE TALK
by W. H. McAnally, Manager

9,000 CALLS A MINUTE

Have you ever thought, as you picked up the phone, how many other people were doing the same thing that very minute?

Well, believe me, you're not alone—you've got lots of company. Texas people used their telephones 9,000 times a minute last year.

That's just for local calls. Long Distance lines were busy, too, as Texans called out-of-town 98 million times in 1956.

This was a record number of both local and Long Distance calls, but it looks now as though 1957 will be an even busier telephone year.

What's behind the steady increase in the number of telephone calls? For one thing, thousands of new telephones are added each year, but there's more to it than that.

Nowadays, people seem to count on their telephone to do more errands for them, to help them keep up with the faster pace of living and doing business.

Personally, I think it makes a lot of sense. You can do just about everything faster and easier with the telephone.

LOOKING AHEAD TO WEEKENDS

If you're like most people, you look ahead to weekends. That's when family and friends get together to relax and have fun.

Unfortunately, sometimes all the family can't be on hand, or perhaps you haven't heard from some old friends for too long a time.

There's no point in letting this dampen your weekend fun. Just reach for the telephone and call them Long Distance. They'll be glad you called... and so will you.

Rates are lower all day Sunday, and after 6 p.m. weekdays.

And remember to call by number—it's twice as fast.

CONVENIENCE IS HERE TO STAY

All around the house, every day, we see convenience and more convenience.

Our easy chair conveniently located next to his favorite reading table. Mother has a novel or her sewing basket near her. And the youngsters like to have a radio or record player in their room.

Maybe this is the time to take another look at your telephone service to make it more convenient for you and your family.

Why not have telephones where you want them, when you need them? We'll install additional phones wherever they serve your family best—in kitchen, bedroom, or any room in the house.

The cost is low, only $1.10 a month and a small one-time installation charge. Just call the telephone business office.

What's the Use of an Abstract

... If it doesn't cure the title? is a fair question but may be misleading. The doctor worries little about a remedy if his patient is unconcerned and puts forth no effort to help himself. Like the X-Ray and it's marvelous success in the medical field, the abstract reveals the condition of the title and places it in position to be cured or condemned. That explains why the landowners of the United States spent fifty million dollars for title information in 1955.

Bunny Cake For A Patio Party
By Jane Ashley

Outdoor dining starts in earnest with the first warm days of spring. Why not make a party of the first supper served outdoors, whether it be a family gathering in the back yard or a dress up garden party. A bunny cake with gleaming jelly bean eyes, a fondant candy carrot for nibbling and highly decorative Easter Eggs will form an unusual centerpiece. And it is all edible, can be served as dessert along with ice cream or fruit and coffee.

BUNNY CAKE
Prepare a package of cake mix or your favorite layer cake recipe. Grease and flour a bunny mold well using an unsalted fat. Fill lower half (with overlapping rim) almost full. Any remaining batter may be baked on cupcakes. Place on a cookie sheet and lock top half of mold into place. Bake in moderate oven (375°F.) for 30 to 40 minutes. Let cool 45 minutes for more in mold before removing cake. Remove very carefully and insert a long wooden skewer (a lolly pop stick) from center of head deep into body.
1. Prepare snowy white No-Cook Marshmallow frosting, reserving a small amount to tint pink. Carefully frost bunny cake rounding out details. Sprinkle with shredded coconut before frosting sets. Outline ears and whiskers with pink frosting. Make nose and eyes with jelly beans. Tie a ribbon around the bunny's neck, if desired. Make a carrot with fondant candy.

NO-COOK MARSHMALLOW FROSTING
1/2 Teaspoon Salt
2 Egg Whites
1/2 Cup Sugar
1/2 Cup Koro Syrup, Red Label
1 1/2 Teaspoons Vanilla Extract
Add salt to egg whites and beat with electric or rotary beater until mixture forms soft peaks. Gradually add sugar, about 1 tablespoon at a time, beating until smooth and glossy. Continue beating and add light corn syrup, a little at a time, beating thoroughly after each addition, until frosting peaks. Fold in vanilla extract. Makes enough to cover bunny or will frost tops and sides of two 9-inch layers.

SOIL CONSERVATION DISTRICT NEWS

OUR SOIL ★ OUR STRENGTH

A special meeting of the Upper Leon Soil Conservation District Supervisors will be held Friday, April 12, 2:00 p.m. in the Conference Room of the Texas Electric Building in Eastland. The Upper Leon Supervisors usually hold their regular monthly meeting in De Leon. This meeting is being held in Eastland to give landowners in this area a better opportunity to meet with them, get acquainted, and talk over their conservation problems. All farmers and ranchers and others interested in conservation are always cordially invited to attend the Supervisors' meetings. Upper Leon Soil Conservation District Supervisors are F. M. Spurlin, Eastland; Hermal Hickman, Rising Star; Wade George, De Leon; Henry Turney, Dublin; and W. J. Fritts, Comanche.

Along with his desire for better livestock every stockman has the desire to grow more and better stock feed on his range and pastures. Good grass grows good stock, while better grass always means better stock.

Due to the prolonged effects of drought, grass production will likely be critical both in amount and quality in the next few months. At present annual winter grasses are making excellent growth and furnishing much grazing due to a favorable winter season. Within a short time the life cycle of these winter grasses will be completed, and cattle will have to depend on perennial summer growing grasses for their grazing. Many stockmen are all ready making plans to remove their cattle from at least part of their range at this time to give their better perennial-summer grasses a chance to recover from the drought. Many pastures which have been severely abused should have a large portion of our present excellent growth of winter grass left on the land as litter. A heavy litter will help keep a large share of the good rains we hope to receive in April and May.

J. D. Herrell recently completed about a mile of terraces and a large diversion terrace on his farm north of Olden.

J. G. Harlow who lives in Dallas built about a mile and a quarter of terraces on his farm east of Chgo.

Foy Adams has completed three miles of terraces, two diversion terraces, and a nice pond on his farm near Dalhart.

E. M. Snow finished building an exceptionally nice pond last week on his farm in the Grapevine community. This pond will cover about four square acres, is 27 feet deep and is estimated to hold 20 - 25 acre feet of water. Additional drainage area was added to the pond with a large diversion terrace.

and that would cause the free-riders who are now getting by at the expense of the taxpayers to quit cramming the mails with them.
A member of the postal service who was in on the same conversation, said the advertising circular was about the hardest piece of mail there was to handle and to be perfectly fair about it, that class of mail should be charged for at about twice the rates for first class mail.
An advertising survey conducted a few months ago by the Corpus Christi Caller-Times asked the question, "What is the most undesirable type of advertising that you receive?" A little more than 99 per cent of the people said advertising circulars were the least desirable of all types of advertising sent their way, from radio and TV commercials all the way down the line.

This newspaper has no quarrel with anybody who wishes to use the advertising circular as a supplemental type of advertising to back up special sales promotions at various times of the year. It is common practice among all good businesses. But the Times, along with every other newspaper published in the world, takes issue with a firm that uses the advertising circular exclusively to take dollars out of a community and never contributes anything at all to further the progress of that community through its combined efforts to build a better place in which to live through the only means available for that purpose, the town's one medium of communication—its newspaper.
The merchants of a town depend upon its newspaper to provide the town, and may we respectfully ask if all the dozens of successful events this town has enjoyed during the past few months were promoted by the local newspaper or some advertising circular? Which? You answer the question! What did it?

This is what the merchants had in mind when they said the newspaper should reflect EVERYTHING a city had to offer, not just some of the things, since so many people read it.
We most heartily agree, but as long as the American people are going to put up with paying the bills for the delivery of advertising circulars, somebody is going to send them out, and to back with joining the efforts of everybody else to promote and build the community—that's a share George can take care of.

al People's Group includes doctors, lawyers, ministers, technicians, hospital staffs, teachers, etc. Will meet at the Community Club House at 4:30 p.m. Dr. Price Ashton and Dr. M. E. Jolly are co-chairmen of this group, and attendance chairmen are to be appointed.
Oil and Industry: Representatives to meet at 6:00 p.m. for supper at Ranger Junior College Cafeteria. David D. Pickrell is chairman, Archie Robinson, Co-Chairman and Mrs. May Carr attendance chairmen.
Services, Trades, Retail Employees: Group to meet at 7:30 at High School Auditorium. Includes retail employees, service station operators and attendants, welders, carpenters, painters, hammers, drivers, beauty personnel, truck drivers, cafe employees, employees of motels, hotels, etc. Wilson Cook is chairman, and co-chairman is to be appointed. Since this is such a huge group it is expected the dozens of attendance chairmen will be named.
The clinic is being held in Ranger at this time because of the successful cooperation the people of Ranger have shown in recent weeks in the progress the city is making. It is the wish of the Chamber of Commerce to get their opinions on all the things that need to be done now and within the future to make the town the kind of place its citizens would like to have it become.
Interest in the clinic is growing every day, and it is expected that by the time the actual date of May 2 comes around, all groups will be ready to give their full and complete cooperation to make it a success.

Ranger Lagging In Cancer Drive

So far this year Ranger is lagging in its drive for funds for the American Cancer Society. A total of $312.45 has been collected as compared to $466.60 for Eastland. Last year Ranger made the biggest contribution of any town in the county with $661.90.
Ranger got off to a late start because material for the drive was late in arriving. Kick-off day was also a cold and wet day. However, Mrs. A. N. Larson, chairman, asks all workers to complete their call, and Ranger will have a good report yet.

PLEASE PHONE 224 and give us your news items. They will be of interest to others, and we always appreciate your calling us.
