New Eastern Star Officers Installed In Impressive Rites

WHAT'S... COOKING?

By NORMAN WRIGHT

Just don't sell our dog catcher short, folks. He's got a system for catching those things that's as old as mankind, and it works as sure as certain death.

The way he does, he takes a lady dog with stars in her eyes and romance written all over her, and he parks his dog wagon in the vicinity of some gentleman dog that hasn't a sign of a tag on him anywhere.

Then he ties this Jerebel to the bumper of his vehicle and hides. Pretty soon here comes Rover sniffing the air and panting like a stuck hog, also with romance as the object, when SWOOSH! Down comes the net and the poor sap finds himself betrayed by a female.

Jack Nunberry, the man who broadcasts the Suburban Editor program over WBAF Fort Worth, each Sunday morning at 10:30, is just now beginning, we think, to realize what a popular program he has.

Jack reads clippings of editorial comment, and other oddities from the weekly world, and more frequently than not some of the crud from this newspaper finds itself being aired by Mr. Nunberry on the Suburban Editor program.

In a beautiful and impressive ceremony conducted by Mrs. Kitty Hicklin, assisted by Mrs. Geneva Wallace, Mrs. Ruby Perkins and Mrs. Vera Cooper, new officers of Ranger Chapter No. 275 Order of the Eastern Star were installed Monday evening at the Masonic Hall.

Installed were Mary Jane Hale, Worthy Matron; Twyman Hale, Worthy Patron; Inez Harrell, Associate Matron; H. G. Ramsey, Associate Patron; Auda Lammons, Secretary; Anna McEver, Treasurer; Ovella Ford, Conductress; Flo Boyd, Associate Conductress; Evelyn Bagwell, Chaplain; Sarah Cantrell, Marshall; Lorene Oliver, Organist; Geneva Wallace, Adah; Winnie Pirkle, Ruth; Betti Huffman, Esther; Virginia Dennis, Martha; Ruby Springer, Electa; Emma Donley, Warder and Leoma Arterburn, Sentinel.

Floral decorations consisted of single-potted Begonias, gifts of Mrs. Winnie Cox to her officers. They were situated at each officer's station. Also a large floor basket of yellow gladioli was placed in front of the west officer station. An improvised altar with a white styrofoam cross and Bible was flanked with wrought iron candelabra entwined with palm leaves holding white tapers.

Candle lighters were Phyllis Hale and Mary Kay Rush, and Miss Hale placed the white Bible on the altar. Frank Hicklin opened the meeting directing all outgoing officers to take their stations. Mrs. Ralph Perkins presented Jesse Sutton who sang "Gloria," which was dedicated to the outgoing Worthy Matron, Mrs. Cox.

Miss Inez Harrell, conductress, stepped to the altar and opened the Bible, after which all present gave the Lord's Prayer, Pledge of Allegiance and sang the Star Spangled Banner. Mrs. Cox gave a short address of welcome to the new Worthy Matron elect, and thanked all of her officers for their faithful work during the past year.

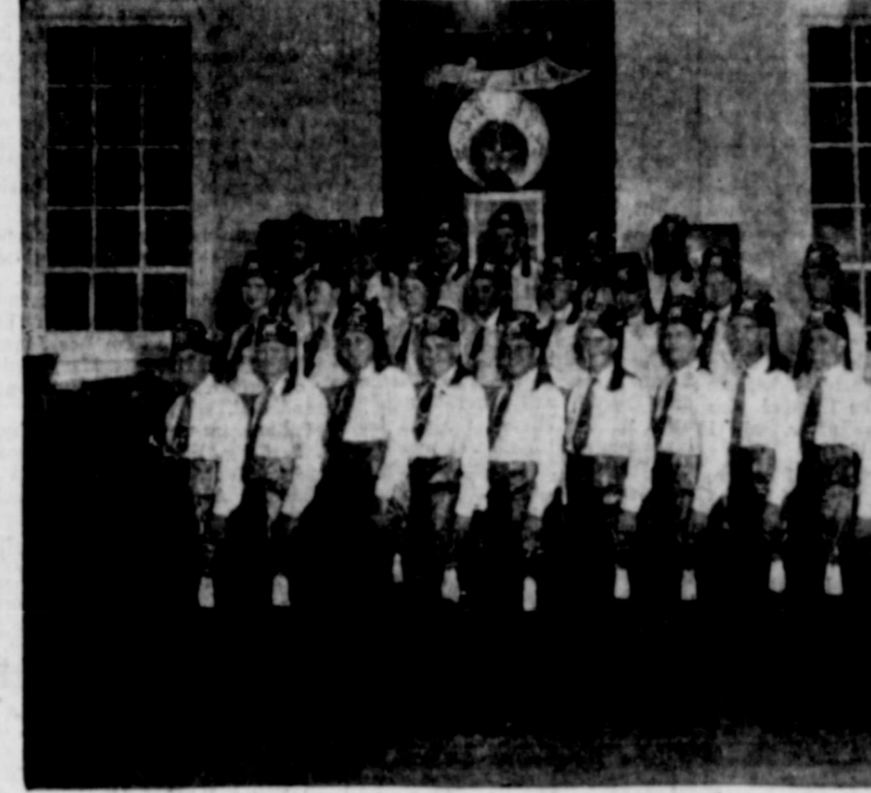

Miss Harrell presented the installing officer, Mrs. Hicklin, who, in turn, presented her assistants, Mrs. Wallace, Mrs. Perkins and Mrs. Cooper. Mrs. Wallace escorted the incoming officers to their places before the altar, after which Mrs. Perkins gave a prayer. Mrs. Hicklin then led all officers in a pledge of office and presented Mrs. Hale to the audience as the new Worthy Matron. She then installed each new officer in turn.

Following the installation, Mrs. Hale made a short address as the new Worthy Matron, and Mr. Sutton sang "The Pilgrim," which was dedicated to the new Worthy Matron and all new officers.

A granddaughter of Mrs. Cox presented her with the Past Matron's Jewels, after which the Rev. Ralph E. Perkins delivered the benediction.

Following the benediction a reception was held in the lower hall honoring the new officers.

Ranger Vacationers Can Do Tremendous Selling Job For City

By NORMAN WRIGHT
From now until the end of August Ranger citizens are going to be leaving the city in droves on their summer vacations which will take them to all parts of the United States, and never before has the opportunity been so great for each and every one of them to become enthusiastic salesmen for the city they call home.

These may not be any new beaming smokestacks in the city turning the wheels of new plants and factories, but Ranger has something worth more than a factory today and that is a new confidence and a new spirit of cooperation that has already accomplished more than anybody dreamed of a year ago.

Ranger has today reached a point where she is ready to take advantage of many things that she was in no position to consider twelve months ago, and she has an active citizenship all pulling in one direction for a change which is something that few towns in all of the world can boast of.

Ranger citizens visiting in all parts of the country should take advantage of the opportunity to say something good about Ranger to every person they meet. Regardless of who hears it or where, every little boost given the city has its weight, and enough good words being scattered far and wide would eventually fall upon the right ears in more ways than one.

What can always be used as a conversation piece in any company is Lake Leon and the fact that it is full and running over for the first time in its history, giving Ranger more water per capita than any town in Texas. Indeed there is enough water here to last ten years, the engineers say, if it never rains another drop.

No one should ever overlook the opportunity to boast that Ranger, the smallest town in the state to boast of a Junior College, has the 10th largest such school in the state, with a physical plant that is rapidly approaching a million dollars in value.

The whole world should be told that Featherlight Corporation has its largest plant in the United States in Ranger where it manufactures a building aggregate out of native shale, a lifetime's supply of which is within a stone's throw of the plant.

Outsiders should always be reminded that even though Ranger is a comparatively small West Texas town it is the headquarters for a long line of industries and readers of the Times can be reminded of some of them by simply glancing at their names over the masthead on Page One on every issue of the Times prints.

Outsiders should be informed of the fact that Ranger has existed (Continued On Page Eight)

Although the Ranger area has not been flooded this week, the five-day forecast issued Wednesday by the U. S. Weather Bureau calls for more rain all over the state for the period June 5-10.

Many sections of the state have experienced rain of flood proportions all this week but the clouds have just happened to miss Ranger. The next time they could all just as easily center here as not. About three weeks of straight sunshine are badly needed.

Vacationers Ask Times To Save Papers

It is customary for people taking their vacations to stop their newspapers for the two weeks or so that they are away from home in order to keep them from cluttering up the yard.

However, many Ranger people have come to the Times within the past week to say "We don't want to miss a single issue while we're gone," and have told us that special places makes them prepared for the carriers to put their papers.

The Times will endeavor to follow these instructions to the letter, and if there are others who wish to do the same thing we will cooperate in every way possible.

The Times now has one of the most dependable staffs of carrier boys it has ever had, and their carrier load is a heavy one, but they are doing a splendid job with it.

Please let us hear from you about your vacation arrangements.

Gulf Dealers Hold TBA Clinic Here Wednesday

All Gulf distributors and dealers from the towns of Eastland, Cisco, Breckenridge, Rising Star, Brownwood, DeLeon, Albany and other nearby towns and cities were in Ranger Wednesday looking over the new lines of accessories that will be carried by them in the coming months.

Some fifteen manufacturers displayed their products in special booths set up in the new National Guard building, and special factory representatives were here to explain their merits and uses to the Gulf dealers.

The meeting was referred to by Gulf officials as a TBA Clinic (TBA Clinic, batteries and accessories) during which many new lines were introduced and improvements pointed out in many of the older standard lines.

The new National Guard Army had the appearance of an exhibit building at the State Fair.

Noon Train Hits City Dump Truck; No One Injured

The West bound T & P passenger train that comes through Ranger about noon hit a city dump truck Wednesday at Tiffin Crossing, about 2 1/2 miles north of town, causing heavy damage to the truck but leaving the driver, Fred Wiesen, uninjured.

Wiesen said the train was on top of him before he ever saw it, and he didn't hear any kind of a whistle until the train had already hit him.

The train hit the truck on its right side at a point almost even with the front wheels, and while the front end of the truck was smashed up considerably, there was very little damage done to the cab where the driver was sitting.

All free swimming classes scheduled to have started at Municipal Pool this past Monday have been reset to begin next Monday, June 10, according to Coach Harold Barrett, instructor.

Coach Barrett said the water has simply been too cold for many of the swimmers who have early classes beginning at 7:30 a.m.

It is hoped that by next Monday everything will be favorable to carry on all classes, as scheduled, which is from 7:00-7:40; 7:40-8:20; and 8:20-9:00 on Monday, Wednesday and Friday mornings. There is also a night class from 7:00-8:00 on Tuesday and Friday nights.

Guests in the home of Mrs. Mary Crabb Sunday were her brother, Lee Hill and wife, her niece and husband, Mr. and Mrs. James Duvall and two daughters of Fort Worth, another niece, Bertha Tankersley, Mr. and Mrs. Melton Winstett and son, Travis, Mr. and Mrs. W. M. Baker of Ranger, and Mrs. E. H. Livingston and two boys of Breckenridge.

Mr. and Mrs. Homer Perry, supervisors at Teen Town, have returned from their Florida vacation, and Teen Town will open its regular summer schedule next Monday night.

During the summer, recreation nights will be Monday night for Junior High students, Tuesday night for Senior High students, and Thursday night for both. These summer hours have been established so as to give the children week-ends to give with their parents who might be planning fishing trips or picnic outings.

Mr. and Mrs. Perry said they wanted to stress the fact that next year's 7th Graders are now eligible to become members of Teen Town and they wish to have as many as possible visit them next Monday night and see what they think of the place. If any of them wish to become members, the fee for the months of June, July and August is fifty cents. This applies to all members, Junior and Senior.

The Perrys have done a lot of repainting at Teen Town, sprucing up the interior of the premises. (Continued on Page 8)

Steel's 100th Anniversary

This year the steel industry is marking its Centennial. Steel plants across the land are planning programs and ceremonies to focus attention on the 100th Birthday of our most basic industry.

Were it not for two inventive geniuses—an American and an Englishman—the "Steel Age" might not have begun a century ago.

While steel has been made in small quantities since ancient times, the inventions of William Kelly of the United States, and Sir Henry Bessemer of England, made it possible to produce large tonnages of steel speedily and economically.

It was Kelly and Bessemer, thousands of miles apart, who developed almost simultaneously the process of blowing air through molten iron to remove certain impurities. Although Bessemer was honored by having the steel-making process named after him, it is generally conceded that Kelly, a native of Pittsburgh, conceived the idea in 1817. A good researcher, Kelly was a poor businessman and neglected to patent his process.

Bessemer, who had received his English patent on the process in 1855, applied for and obtained his American patent in 1856. As soon as Kelly learned of the Bessemer patent he filed claim of priority of invention. In 1857 Kelly was granted a patent on the process after demonstrating the priority of his claim. Further evidence of the validity of Kelly's claim came when both patents ran out in 1870. Kelly's patent was extended while Bessemer's U. S. patent was denied.

The Bessemer converter was slow in being introduced, but once it was put to use its tremendous impact on steel-making was quickly evident. Where only about 3000 tons of steel was made by the Bessemer process in 1867, by 1888, the year Kelly died, production by this process was nearly 3,000,000 tons a year.

As the steel industry grew, so grew agriculture, manufacturing, transportation, construction, communications and other elements of our industrial life. It might be said that here in America the Kelly-Bessemer process became the key for opening a new and better life for all of us.

I GIVE YOU TEXAS

By BOYCE HOUSE

In the early summer of 1925, as staff writer for the Fort Worth Record, I accompanied a motorcade from Brady which was extending an invitation to the annual Sheep and Goat Raisers convention.

I was the sensation of the trip—well, not exactly me, but I caused it. Not knowing as much about weather as I do now, I took along a raincoat. It was strapped on the outside of my suitcase. There hadn't been so much as a shower in that territory for months so everyone grinned when they saw the raincoat.

There was one man on the trip who took special pleasure in kidding me about it.

The last night of the journey was spent in the picturesque town of Sonora. There were so many of us that the hotel fixed up cots on a big porch. Because we were virtually out-of-doors and because Sonora has an altitude of 2,000 feet or more, when the heat of the day died, the temperature cooled rapidly. The night became downright chilly, so I found use for that raincoat, after all, I threw it over my feet.

Next morning, when I awoke, the raincoat wasn't there. I looked over at the next cot. The occupant was sleeping soundly. Over his feet was my raincoat which he had reached over and taken while I was asleep. And the man who was "guilty" was the one who had been joshing me about the raincoat.

A man ran a hamburger stand in a Texas oil boom town. He was accommodating and good-natured and was popular with his customers. He decided he would like to get in the "oil game", so he obtained a lease and then raised money to drill from his customers, who understood that they were buying shares in the enterprise.

The well proved to be a gusher and then he said that the money had only been a loan—and he paid it back. There had been no papers drawn up and signed because they trusted him. That was his start. The ex-hamburger stand owner became a multimillionaire. He was a very successful man by the world's standards. But he knew how he had laid the foundation for his "success". I wonder if he found himself very good company when he was alone in the darkness of night?

Speed Is Root Of All Evil, Expert Says

QUEBEC CITY, Canada — The man who directs the biggest unified traffic safety program in the history of the automobile said today that speed is "the root of all evil" in traffic problems.

Paul H. Blaisdell, director of the Traffic Safety Division of the Association of Casualty and Surety Companies and executive secretary of the annual "Slow Down and Live" traffic campaign, in an address delivered at the Canadian Highway Safety Conference here, also welcomed the 10 Canadian provinces to participate in the Memorial Day through Labor Day Safety campaign.

"The 'Slow Down and Live' program," Mr. Blaisdell said, "began five years ago by the National Association of State Safety Coordinators, has produced more action and more promotion for safe streets and highways than any other official or private program in the 44 years of the organized safety movement. Now, with Canada's 10 provinces joined with the 48 United States, the District of Columbia, Alaska and the Commonwealth of Puerto Rico, 'Slow Down and Live' presents a unified traffic safety front from the Arctic Circle to the Tropic Zone.

"There is an urgent need for this campaign against speed. For a few years the United States could boast of a declining traffic fatality rate, but now even that statistical solace has been swept away by the steady increase in traffic accidents, the sharp increase in traffic injuries and the gradual upswing in the numerical total of traffic deaths. Why, with both our technical 'know-how' and our proclivity for salesmanship, have we reached a point where traffic accidents claim 40,000 lives and cost more than $6,500,000,000 every year? We are in our present situation because a people with an apparently insatiable desire to get places first and fast, look the other way when the finger points at speed as our number one highway safety problem.

"You may gather that I regard speed as the root of all evil in traffic. You are wholly correct if you include in the speed problem all of the driver practices which constitute being 'in a hurry' ... the five violations which account for the great majority of our traffic accidents: excessive speed, speed too fast for conditions, improper passing, following too closely and failing to yield the right-of-way.

"I believe, also, that differentiation between excessive speed and speed too fast for conditions is begging the issue. What difference does it make whether a speed of 30 miles-an-hour or 80 miles-an-hour contributes to an accident? Either one is excessive when this and any other factor combine to produce an accident.

"It is this same fallacious reasoning that destroyed our faith in the so-called prima facie speed limits—no greater speed than is 'reasonable and prudent.' This is a fine theory a quarter of a century ago. But safety leaders in the United States have learned that 80 million drivers have no basis of judging their own safety saturation point—that the courts have no fair measurement by which to adjudicate 'reasonable and prudent'—that police department efforts can be upset by a technicality of what constituted a 'reasonable and prudent' speed at any given moment at a specific location. Our whole concept of law is based on the premise that man has no right to destroy himself—let alone to endanger others. So when courts declared 90 miles-an-hour 'reasonable and prudent' because only one driver and one vehicle was involved, they insulted not only the law but our moral and ethical code as well.

"By any measuring stick you can apply, our states with the lower speed limits, the strongest driver license administration and the most thoroughgoing enforcement have the best traffic safety record. This has been so for the past 20 years and should be so for the next two decades. This combination of forces is available to any state and to any province of the Dominion of Canada. It requires only the agreement of responsible officials and the relentless pressure of organized public support for its accomplishment."

Turn Unpretty Hands To Asset Says Singer

Are you self-conscious about your hands because they are not pretty hands? Are you constantly trying to hide them from public view?

One of America's most famous singers, faced with the same problem suggests that instead of considering unpretty hands a liability, you convert them into an asset.

Dorothy Shay, "The Park Avenue Hillbillie," admits that her hands are too large for the rest of her body, that her fingers are crooked, and that ever since she was a tot the backs of her hands have been wrinkled.

"It used to bother me terribly," she admits, "but then I found out what to do about them. I decided to use them to my advantage."

In Miss Shay's case, "using them to advantage" consisted of putting her hands more in the spotlight during her night club and TV performances.

"Where at one time I used to hide my hands behind my back, or wear gloves, or carry a bundle of flowers—anything at all to hide them—it finally dawned on me that by so doing I was actually calling more attention to my hands. People began to notice that I was defeating my purpose by shapped, because short, square nails tend to make fingers look heavier. "In other words, instead of brooding about how unsightly my hands are, I do everything I can to make them look their best, and instead of hiding them, I bring them out into the open for all the world to see. I have discovered that people appreciate honesty: when I used to try to hide my hands, my audience resented it. Now that I do not hesitate to display them and use them, people like me a lot more."

Of course, Miss Shay is also careful to display her new-found assets to best advantage.

"I make sure they are impeccably clean, and that my nails are correctly trimmed and polished. I pumice away callouses and embry-pumice away callouses and embry-fingers gently, from the heel of the hand outwards, after each washing."

Miss Shay prefers her nails filed to medium length, and oval to

Advertising Advice

BY A BANKER

In American Bankers' Magazine

"No business man in any town should allow a newspaper published in his town to go without his name and business being mentioned somewhere in its columns. This does not mean you should have a whole, half or even a quarter page ad in each issue of the paper, but your name and business should be mentioned, even if you do not use more than a two-line space.

"A stranger picking up a newspaper should be able to tell what business is represented in a town by looking at the paper. This is the best possible town advertising. The man who does not advertise his business does an injustice to himself and the town. The man who insists on sharing the business that comes to town, but refuses to advertise his own, is not a valuable addition to any town. The life of a town depends on the live, wide-awake and liberal advertising business man."

It Wasn't Your Fault—
... that the party with whom you are dealing to buy real estate did not get an abstract but it will be your fault if you trade with him without an abstract. What about the title? One authority on titles puts it this way: "Titles were good yesterday, only fair today, but worse tomorrow." Better get an abstract when you buy real estate of any kind. It's safer, more business-like and a sure sign of good judgment.

Wash & Dry Laundromat
First It Washes - Then It Dries... AUTOMATICALLY

The test: On "live" TV, 2 cups of sand representing heavy soil are dumped on towels in three well-known center-post agitator washers and in a Revolving Agitator Laundromat. After all complete their cycles, center-post machines leave towels and washers in a sandy mess. Laundromat leaves not a grain of sand in towels or washer.

HERE'S WHY THE LAUNDROMAT IS BEST...

- Washes Cleaner! There's no old-fashioned center-post. Clothes go inside Revolving Agitator which lifts and plunges them 60 times a minute.
- Rinses Better! Revolving Agitator lifts clothes while soil and dirty water drain away from them. Center-post machines strain it all back through them.
- Cleans itself! Because of its patented design, the Laundromat cleans clothes, then cleans itself—automatically! All sand, suds, lint go down the drain.
