A Summary of Lamb County's Business Affairs

By Simon D, Hay

Reporter.

The principle reason for having a state divided into counties is that of business expediency, and the efficient managing of all state affairs depends largely upon the competent management of its county sub-divisions. There are probably 10,000 people residing within the confines of Lamb county. Of this number about 3,000 are classified as qualified voters.

Lack of information is frequently the cause of error and misunderstanding, while on the other hand, knowledge always tends toward confidence and good will. And it is with the desire that the citizens of this county become better acquainted with the details of the county's business that I am setting forth the following information. Although the County Treasurer publishes a quarterly report, as required by law, like most such reports it means little to a person who is not already familar with the details business of the county. The following explation, I hope, will give a little better understanding of the County business.

To begin with our 1927 County valuation was $7,335,580.00. This is based on the following valuations: $12.00 per acre for some shallow water land in the Northwest part of the county, $10.00 for all tight land within five miles of the railroad, $8.00 for all other tight land and $4.00 for the Sand Hills.

The outstanding bonded indebtedness of the County on December 31, 1926 (the 1927 audit of the county books has not yet been made), including interest bearing scrip, was as follows:

Rad Districts No. 1 and 2	$ 95,000.00
Warrants	97,000.00
Scrip
Tetal outstanding	$195,001.88
The 1927 County Assessment Rol	l is as follows:
State Tax
State Revenue Poll Tax	1,734.50
State School Poll Tax	3,469.00
County Tax
Precinct Road Tax	10,815.5
Highway Tax	12,254.30
County Poll Tax	867.2
Grand Total	$119,920.52

Of the above amount the State receives $54,356.85. The State and County rate of taxation is $1.62 per $100.00 valuation made up as follows: State _____$ .67 County, General Fund .....$ .25

Precinct Road Fund ..... .15 Court House Warrant Fund...... ,10

State and County, Total $1.62 General Fund takes care of County expenses such as salaries, coal, lights, insurance, etc. Jury Fund is self explanatory. Road and Bridge Fund is also self explanatory; however, this Fund is practically all taken up in paying outstanding road or machinery warrants. Precinct Road Fund is the fund each Commissioner gets for road work in his Precinct. Court House Warrant Fund is the assessment to retire warrants issued to build the present Court House. Road District Bond Fund is the assessment to retire the Road District Bonds voted in 1919 and 1921, respectively. Road District 1 consists of Commissioner Precincts 3 and 4 and was created to vote a $50,000,00 bond for the County's part of State Highway 7. Road District 2 consists of the other two Commissioner Precincts, 1 and 2, and was created for the County's part of State Highway 28.

Now with these rates before us let us figure the taxes on the very best Labore of land in my Precinct, Precinct 4, which is valued at $10 per acre, or $1770 for the whole Labore. The result is

	The result is.		$1
ounty,	General Fund	$4.425
	Jury Fund	2.655
	Road and Bridge Fund
	Precinct Road Fund	2.655
	Court House Warrants Fund	1.77
	Road District Bond Fund	2.655
	Total	15.815	16

State and County, Total .... $28.67 I beg to call your attention to the fact that the Precinct Road Fund, the available road tax for actual work on our County roads, as shown above is $2.65 per Labore on the best Labore in my Precinct. This amount will not pay for the hire of a fresno team and man for one-half day's work on the road. An average lake will require about a 2000 yard fill; at 122 cents per yard our county rate, which, by the way, is low, amounts to $250.00. That is all of the Special road tax on 94 Labors valued at $10.00 per acre, or 264 of the Labors valued at $4.00 per acre. A clayed road costs anywhere from $1,500.00 to $4,000.00 per mile to build, depending on the hanl and width and thickness of the clay. The Amherst-Earth road cost a little over $3,000.00 per mile. The county has recently purchased an elevating grader which promises to greatly reduce the cost or fills and claying.

Lamb County has in the neighborhood of 1,200 miles of county roads. Our Precinct Road Fund brings in $10,815.55, if all is paid, which is never the case. The county's part of the automobile licenses, which is now one third, and what little we can transfer from the Jury Fund gives the county around eight to ten thousand dollars more, or a total of eighteen to twenty thousand dollars for the building an maintenance of our 1200 miles of roads, a little over $1.50 per mile.

All told the state of Texas receives about $125,000.00 in Taxes from Lamb County. Sooner or later this condition must be corrected, the sooner the better; either the counties should be allowed to retain a greater portion of the money now sent to the state or they should be reimbursed for the money they have spent on State roads so they can use it to build county roads. This latter idea is that of R. S. Sterling, Chairman of the State Highway Commission. This county has gone in debt over $100,000 for State Highways 7 and 28.

Now that the State receives a three cent gasoline tax which, by the way, brings it approximately $12,000,000, I feel that the County should be reimbursed for the sacrifiices it has made to the state, either paid back for its bonded indebtedness or allowed part of the gasolin tax paid out of the county to the state. One cent of the three cents per gallon now paid the state would amount to about $25,000.00 or around two and onehalf times our whole Precinct Road Fund.

If this were done, in a very few years all of our county roads could be worked without one cent extra cost to the tax payers; and consequently the county would be greatly improved.

The Colfax Bookplate

By AGNES MILLER

On a certain Monday morning Miss Constance Fuller, seller of rare books at Darrow's Book-shop, New York, notices that the first customer is a dignified old gentleman, who saunters into the alcove placarded "Medical Works," Peter Burton one of ready to write an elegant literary introduction to the catalogue. "I shall begin," I decided, "'Withthe alcove placarded "Medical Works." "Have you not done so? Why not?" "Because the copy for the trade journal advertisements doesn't go out antil Friday afternoon."

The rest was silence for about thirty seconds. Mr. Darrow was so anxious to be cross to somebody, disliking, as he did, to have murders in his shop, that it was simply cruel not to give him a chance. But I was obdurate; and when the thirty-first second had ticked off my wrist-watch, he remarked graciously:

"Suppose you remove it promptly. and include it in the rare-book catalogue. I believe-Captain Ashland is my authority; I am not his equal as judge-that that bookplate has rather more than common inter-You know what I mean? Make sure that you advertise it as an extraordinary curiosity, a faked masterpiece of supreme historic and artistic interest and value. Thank You have my entire confi dence, Miss Fuller!"

I smiled enthusiastically and made a fluttering ejaculation, for in nine years' association with Mr. Darrow I had mastered the art.

"Not a wholly bad idea, in itself," I reflected, banging up.

So first of all I sent for the book from Mr. Roberts' safe. When it arrived, I got out my apparatus for removing bookplates from old books, an operation I frequently performed, since a worthless book that had belonged to some interesting person might bear his valuable plate. This apparatus consisted of a small shining aluminum saucepan, which I filled with expensive bottled drinking water conven iently on tap near by; a hot-point device; and a beautiful new white sheet of blotting paper.

Having dropped the hot-point inte the water, I sat contemplating the worn leather cover of Clarihew's 'Notes." I somehow, at the moment. did not exactly like the idea of separating book and bookplate; they seemed to be mysteriously united to a common purpose. I could not, however, define the purpose, nor could I well suggest to Mr. Darrow to think again. I thought about Peter, whom I had not seen since Tuesday, as he was constantly out on business; I thought about Julia Grosvenor, and still rather shook my head over her Everything seemed dismat-No! Here was something entirely heartening out side the window . . . inside the shop Captain Ashland, rosy and cheery books to be advertised, and I was now | gale, shook his beautiful dripping tweed coat and hat, and made for my desk with a keen glance that took in every detail of my occupation, and a smile like sunrise.

"I say, isn't this jolly!" cried the captain. "Tea!"

"If it only were!" I groaned, ruefully regarding the steaming pot of water and the fair white blotter, which certainly created the mirage of a teatray oasis in an afternoon desert of gloom. "What I am really supposed to be doing is to be soaking off this everlasting bookplate with this hot "Orders, eh?" said the captain, affably. "Oh, you should be having tea. Why not? There's plenty more water outside.

"Yes, we have no drought-of water," I countered, realizing that any foreign visitor to these shores feels cheated if deprived of a sample of typical native humor relating to our characteristic civilization. My doublebarreled effort, which I admit would not go over big with the Theater guild delighted the simple-minded Islander

"You certainly should have tea," he observed. "You Americans take your business so seriously! Now, over in my shop we think we ought to know something about books, and all thatwe've been going along somehow since seventeen-seventy-and yet we always knock off every afternoon for tea. Don't you think you ought to have

I felt my powers of resistance gradually leaving me; the captain was extremely purposeful, despite affable mildness. I wondered dimly how the Revolution and all that had really ever held out against the British mentality.

"It never occurred to me in the light of a duty," I began, and then suddenly it did. Captain Ashland, who plainly wanted tea, with a passion incomprehensible to those reared at soda fountains, was making a visit possibly "of a certain great importance to the house," and Mr. Darrow's confidence in me would become more entire, no doubt, if I pleased his nephew. "But now you point my duty out to me," I finished, "I see it clearly. As you suggest, it is of a patriotic character Our Constitution forbids cruel and unusual punishments. You shall not go without your tea." Mentally I added, "And I shall delay removing that bookplate!"

say, am I putting you out horribly?" beamed the delighted captain. "One never drinks tea in a shop in America, does one?"

"There's precedent for it here; sixty years ago this room was a dining room." The captain looked relieved. The water's nearly boiling. Won't you sit down, like King Alfred the Great, and watch it so it doesn't burn while I get the tea things?"

The captain informed me earnestly that King Alfred watched cakes, and that water wouldn't burn; and mounted guard while I withdrew. But at the end of the aisle I was halted by Mr. Case, in the act of bounding out of his office.

"Miss Fuller! How much of that catalogue is done?" "All the notes. I'm just beginning to write it." "It must be finished by noon tomor

Ingenious Method of Ascertaining a Date

In the days when calendars were not known people had a clever way of finding the day of any fixed anniversary. The only fact you had to know was the day of the week on which New Year's came. A key sentence of 12 words was used in which one word stood for each of the 12 months. The sentence was: "At Dover dwelt George Brown, esquire, good hristopher Finch and David

Take, for example, the Fourth of July. As July is the seventh month. take the first letter of the seventh word of the key sentence; that is, g; g is also the seventh letter or the alphabet. French Census Corrected

By Presidential decree, the official population of France has been increased by 23 souls. Guide books, histories, almanacs and other informative volumes which give the population of France as 40,745,851 are in error. The figure should be 40,745,874. When the last census was taken the names of 23 inhabitants of the village of Honnecourt, near Cambrai, were carefully jotted down, and then overlooked. The fact that they had not been included in the grand total was discovered only a short time ago, whereupon the President of the republic and the minister of the interior signed a decree correcting the error.

the two rear alcoves, I perceived the sudden change of expression on his face, from worry to angry amazement; I had been too abrupt, "Of course I'll do my best," I added hastily and repentantly. And if he didn't interrupt me again, most generously!

"I'm afraid I don't break bad news well! My excuse must be that it was as much of a surprise to me as to yourself. But I didn't know about your extra work."

"I shall have to think of something exciting to say about that particularly dull book; and to get rid of a bothersome bookplate in it which is some base imitation of a Colfax, Captain Ashland says." Mr. Case nodded thoughtfully, but said nothing. "Please, why the new order for the catalogue copy to be ready-good gracious!tomorrow noon?"

"Because Mr. Gregory-the printer, you know-has just sent word that the threatened printers' strike has been called for next Thursday, unless both sides agree in the meantime. If our copy's ready tomorrow, it can be squeezed through; otherwise, we run a big risk of having no rare-book catalogue for the hollday trade."

"That would never do. But how can possibly-"

"Oh, you can't finish single-handed. The rest of the shop force is to assist you, if necessary doing overtime; and all will be suitably recompensed for a loyalty which can be counted on to support the firm's reputation even at a sacrifice of comfort!" Mr. Case looked inscrutable as he quoted from obviously Darrow sources.

"I guess we are all human beings and willing to stand by in an emergency." I observed. "Your figure of speech means. I take it, that we'll all chaperon each other and work here all night?"

"Not quite; only till ten-thirty or eleven, since there are five of us," smiled Mr. Case. "That ought to help you pretty well, oughtn't it? And you'll have all tomorrow morning for finishing touches."

Suddenly Mr. Roberts, in a state of agitation, shot through the shipping office door, and started for Mr. Case's private office. Then he saw us in the alsle and bore down.

"Has Mr. Case told you about the catalogue, Miss Fuller?" he demanded "Will you get to work on it at once! I've told Miss Wilkes to send you . stenographer for the rest of the after noon Mr. Darrow is exceedingly con cerned over this new mishap; he fears Captain Ashland will get a most un favorable impression of the business So do your best. I really didn't know what to do but to offer to make him some. Do you mind, Mr. Roberts! You know English people think the world is coming to an end if they don't have their tea; and if they do, they don't care whether it does or not."

"I believe you did right," admitted Mr. Roberts, grudgingly, while Mr Case smiled graciously, and observed that Darrow's was different, anyhow 'Tea's nonsense, of course; but it can't delay you more than a few minutes. And it's a very nasty cold, wel day."

I sped through the shipping office to the Jackson apartment beyond. Ulys ses' wife, a lively person of dusky good looks, considerably younger than her husband. Maebelle by name 'pro nounced as usual), was enchanted with the idea of a party and willingly lent me the makings for afternoon tea, of which I laid in a liberal supply, and also her silver-plated pot with the gilt wild roses. When I came back to my desk with these spoils, I was not astonished to see that Captain Ashland was being entertained by Mr. Roberts and Mr. Case And a little distance away stood Nancy, primly clasping her notebook and pencil. I perceived that in this emergency Miss Wilkes had selected her least experienced stenographer to send to me. Moored alongside Nancy was Dennis, the stockroom boy with a blissful and entirely vacuous smile on his face, and her typewriter clasped on his stomach.

"I sent Dennis ay to bring my typewriter down because Miss Wilkes said I could use yours and I knew better.' began Nancy. "Put It on the little table in the corner Dennis. Where do you want the books on the table put, Constance?"

"Well, since you consult me," I reolled, possibly with slight acidity, "I suggest that you leave them where they are, for you are to begin work on them. If you please. Miss Burton. list them as follows: Title; date of publication; name of publisher; number of pages; preface, index, notes, bibliography, if any; material of binding; folio. Here is a sample form. please follow it exactly. Make two carbons, and allow a separate sheet for each book."

"Yes, ma'am," said Nancy, and crashed into her typewriter.

SUN BATHS IN BACK YARD ARE IN ORDER

Children Playing in Sun Suits.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.) Sun baths in tife back yard are in order for this sturdy three-year-old and his sister, half his age, who is learning to manage her first kiddlecar. Both children are dressed in sun sults which permit a large amount of sunlight to reach their skin. Neck and arm-holes are cut low, and the tops are made of transparent material, The bottom part may be made of colored suiting or any printed cotton fabric, which the child may enjoy choosing for himself. The trouser legs are as plain and as short as possible. Features that make these suits comfortable and convenient are the wide shoulder straps, which do not cut or slide off, and the lapped shoulder fastening. Allowance for growth is made at the shoulder by providing a second buttonhole which will permit the garment to be dropped an

be worn to protect the soles of the

Every bright warm sunny day in summer when the thermometer reaches 80 degrees Fahrenheit or more, let the children wear sun suits while playing, in order to get the benefit of the ultra-violet rays of the sun which have been found so important to growth and physical well being. The bureau of home economics of the United States Department of Agriculture believes that sun baths should be given to all well children to keep them well and to many sick children to help make them well. It may be necessary to accustom a child gradually to playing in the direct sun, until a coat of tan has been acquired. A light-weight brimmed hat should be worn to protect the eyes. The suits worn by the children in the picture can be made from an ordinary romper inch or two. Barefoot sandals may pattern.

LET ELECTRICITY DO KITCHEN WORK

Many Conveniences. *

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.) Electricity may be supplied to farm homes either by individual plants, by community power plants, or by a company which operates the lighting or trolley system in some nearby city. Wherever it has been installed it has brought innumerable conveniences with it. No one is more ready than the busy farmer's wife to avail herself of electric aids if she can obtain them. Californians have been especially quick to see what electricity could do for the farm home in addition to lighting it and operating power farm machinery. A recent report from California received by the United States Department of Agriculture states that there is more electricity used on the farms of that state than in all others put together. In a questionnaire on household conveniences returned by 5,364 California farm housewives to the General Federation of Women's Clubs, it appeared that over 3,500 had, and used, electricity.

Pennsylvania Farm Kitchen Electrically Equipped.

The illustration shows an electrified farm kitchen in the East, in Lancaster county, Pa. The housewife here has not only an electric range, but also an electric toaster, a vacuum cleaner, a washing machine and an electric ironer. Running water is brought to the house by electric power, supplied from a co-operative electric power plant which uses an old mill pond for generating electricity.

Nuisance of Roaches.

Roaches will not frequent rooms unless they find some available food material, and if such materials can be kept from living rooms and offices or scrupulous care exercised to see that no such material is placed in drawers where it can leave an attractive odor or fragments of food, the roach nutsance can be largely restricted to places where food necessarily must be kept.

COOKING EGGS IN DIFFERENT WAYS

Installation Has Brought Never Boiled, but Hard or Soft by Easy Method.

(Prepared by the United States Department

As eggs become abundant, the housekeeper naturally discovers many unusual ways in which to cook and serve them. If she is a practiced home maker, she knows that when she increases the number of eggs eaten by the family she is adding to the total iron, calcium, phosphorus, and other valuable food elements its members are getting in their diet. Soft-cooked eggs properly prepared, are some-times called "coddled," and are al ways recommended for little children. especially when they are beginning to take solid foods.

By simply prolonging the time, eggs may be similarly "hard-cooked" for the school lunch box or spring picnic, and they will be much better than 'hard-boiled" eggs, in which the whites usually become tough and leathery if the yolks are cooked long enough to be firm. The bureau of home economics of the United States Department of Agriculture gives the following directions for cooking eggs properly in their shells:

The best method is to use a double boiler. In the top part put the eggs and a cupful of boiling water for each egg to be cooked. Cover closely, and keep warm over hot water in the lower part of the double boiler. Leave the eggs in the hot water for 6 to 8 minutes if they are to be soft-cooked, or for 30 minutes if they are to be hard-cooked. Eggs prepared in this way are then ready for use in salads. for stuffed or deviled eggs, or for sandwich mixtures,

Clam Chowder Valuable

as a Source of Iodine

When oysters "R" not in seasonfrom May to September-clams are available, and as many people think, at their best during the summer months. Both oysters and clams, iike other sea food, are valuable in the diet as sources of iodine, and recent investigations have shown that certain vitamines are contributed by both oysters and clams.

It is not necessary to go to the sea shore to enjoy clam chowder, or clams in other ways. Your local market probably carries either fresh clams, or those that have been shipped in a frozen condition, or you can buy them canned. The recipe for clam chowder is given by the bureau of home economics:

1 quart shucked clams or 2 dos. clams cup diced potatoes 1 medium-sized on ion, cut in small Few drops tabas-pleces co

14 tsp. salt 1 pint milk 2 tbs. flour

Drain the clams from the liquor and chop or grind them fine. Strain the liquor through cheese cloth or a very fine wire strainer to remove any small pieces of shell. Cook the opion in the fat until yellow, add the flour, and stir until well blended. Then add the clam liquor and the potatoes. Cook this mixture in the upper part of a double boiler, until the potatoes are tender. Then add the milk and the chopped clams, Cook for a few

German Soldiers Put Wild Boars to Rout

Detachments of the German army stationed in Thuringia were recently called into action against an annaual enemy. They were sent into the neighborhood of Eichsfeld, in the Thuringian forest, not to put down an dreds of wild boars. On the whole, the wild boar is an uncommon occurrence in German forests. Once he gets a chance to gain insurrection but to eradicate hun-

a foothold, however, he multiplies rapidly. Breeds of 24 are known. Near Eichsfeld, where the Thuringian forest is skirted by mountains along its northwest boundary, the wild boar became a veritable plague. Efforts of the farmers to rid themselves of it proved unavailing. They appealed to the district commander of the reichswehr, or federal army, who, to the joy of the troops, permitted them to break the monotony of their military life by going on a hunt for wild boars. The casualties were all on the side of the enemy.

Failed in Attempt to Reach Pole by Balloon The first attempt at Arctic exploration by air, made in 1897, ended disastrously. The Swedish balloonist, S. A. Andree, and two companions, set out for the North pole in a large free balloon. The start was made from Danes island, in the north of Spitzbergen, on July 11, 1897. Five tons of supplies were carried. In an hour the balloon was out of sight. That night, seven and a half hours later, a message buoy, found later, was dropped. This was the last trace of the expedition, although years afterward various unconfirmed rumors of finding the balloon have come out of the Arctic regions of Siberia and Canada,

Harvest for Harpist

An elderly harpist was plucking the strings of his instrument on a Philadelphia street corner when a prosperous looking business man strode by. The man paused and whispered to the musician. A pleased expression came into the harpist's face as he nodded and swung into the strains of "La Paloma." Off came the man's hat and he began to sing. Song followed song and soon a crowd had gathered to listen to the deep rich baritone. Then the man passed the hat, and with a courteous gesture handed the coins to the old man and walked on,

World Trip in Submarine

A Dutch scholar has just completed a submarine trip around the world. At some places he was able to detect with comparative ease one of the phenomena known to scientists for some time, the difference in weight of the same objects at various points on the globe. This was done with instruments so delicate that they could not function accurately on board an abovewater vessel, due to the motion. The difference in weight is helleved to be caused by variations in the density of posing the crust of

Long Auto Tow

Dr. Eugene W. Fisk of Santa Fe, N. M., claims the long-distance record for being towed. Doctor Fisk found, when he was ready to return from a trip to a far-distant farmhouse, that the generator of his car was burned out. A two-ton truck came to his rescue and towed him 77 miles from La Ventana to Albuquerque, over the most hazardous of mountain roads. The trip took five hours. The tow rope broke once and the truck went on some miles before the driver discovered he had lost his trailer.

The republicans looked about for a vice presidential candidate. They didn't go to the East. They went to the Middle West.

There is but one conclusion to draw. They thought the greatest danger lay in the Middle West; that the demand of the agricultural sections for justice to agriculture was the most important demand before the country, and that the political party of the total farm value. which expected to hold power! must meet that demand.

The democratic doctrines are sound, and they can be adjusted to meet the emergency of this day. They must be so adjusted.

In appealing for a fair deal for agriculture-in painting the agricultural picture in its true but unpleasant aspects--- The Chronicle is not, of course, saymuch of that progress is entirely industrial and commercial. The products of industry in Texas now equal in value each year the products of agriculture, the total for each being about one promised. And, politically ment industry in Texas and the South; it has a very great interest in that development, a more immediate interest perhaps than it has in farm rehabilitation. But it has an interest in the latter, also, as every far seeing man, whether he be industrialist, merchant, banker or farmer, must have.

> Justice to agriculture in Texas will mean more to Houston than any number of industries which we can hope to get in the next few years (although we are going to get the industries, too.)

Primarily, however, the interest of all the proponents of farm justice must be in the men and women and children who live on these farms. The idea that they can not participate in the good things of our advancing civilization, that they seem rather to be set on a course leading to peasantry; the idea that this could happen to native, free born American citizens, and all because their government has seen fit to load them with economic burdens while it piles high favors for others is revolt-

There must be a remedy. The democratic party must find it, and it must offer it now. - The Chronicle.
