SUDAN, LAMB COUNTY, TEXAS, SEPTEMBER 20, 1928

P. O. 13

Band Enters Upon 2nd Year

The Sudan band is entering upon its second year of work with great energy, according to Director Conrad R. Lam. Mr. Lam has accepted the position of director of the band for the next twelve months. Special attention is called to the fact that a class of beginners is being formed, and it is "now or never" for those who have always wanted to "toot a horn" to get on the bandwagon. Parents with children who should learn to play some musical instrument and all interested should confer with the director or some member of the band concerning the purchase of a horn or drum, and other matters pertaining to the band.

For the benefit of those who are not aware of the facts, it should be stated that the band meets regularly for rehearsal on Wednesday and Friday evenings at the auditorium of the High School Building. In addition to this practice, each beginner receives personal instruction from the director on his respective instrument, at some convenient time. It is evident that under these circumstances, a great many should take advantage of this excellent opportunity to obtain musical training.

Mr. Lam's plans for the future include the purchase of a uniform for each member of the band, a number of concerts in other West Texas towns, a trip to the Lubbock Fair, and the culminating event a trip to West Texas Chamber of Commerce Convention, which meets at El Paso next Spring.

Today "Thursday" the band members go to Littlefield, to play for that celebration, including the big baseball game between the Ft. Worth Cats and the Littlefield Club. "We are a live organization and are doing something all the time", stated the director. "There are no dull weeks for the band members. Why not buy a horn and get in on the fun?"

Dr. Foote reports the following births: Mr. and Mrs. Arthur McCarty, a boy, Friday Sept. 14th; Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Cooper, a boy, Sunday morning Sept 16th; Mr. and Mrs. C. M. Tidwell of Bula, a girl, Monday Sept 17th. Dr. reports mothers and babies being nicely.

THE SOUTH PLAINS FAIR

October 1st to 6th Inclusive--
Rabbit Races, Circus Acts,
Big Prize Money

Rabbit races will be staged during the entire six days of the Panhandle South Plains Fair, at Lubbock Oct 1 to 6.

The races will be one of the features of the fair to be staged instead of baseball games.

Reports of coursing meets elsewhere indicate the growing popularity of rabbit racing and the directors have decided to give it a tryout to test its popularity in this section.

The president of the fair says that baseball has been eliminated because of the large space of ground required for these races.

About $450 in added money will be offered in addition to the entries that will be awarded to the dogs that win each round.

Stakes and prizes: All Cold Blood, $50; all age regist'd, $150; Futurity age, registered, $150; a stake of $100 for Sapplings, provided sufficient number of Sapplings are entered.

Entry blanks are being mailed out by A. B. Davis, manager of the fair and all dog owners are invited to write for blanks in case they do not receive same.

Other features are: Thearle Duffield Fireworks Co. give a fire works display each night, the Bacardie Trio clowning act, Four Aerial Lorenzos feats, including 110-foot dive without a net below; Will Morris, cycling comic and other free acts, twice daily.

Lubbock good-will caravans are being staged boosting the fair.

Lubbock High school band will furnish the music. Souvenirs to the crowds and trinkets to the children of the neighboring towns will be handed out during these trips.

Sudan Elevator Re-Opened

J. N. Beasley Grain Co. of Amarillo, have leased the Sudan Elevator and have re-opened same. The elevator will be in charge of E. C. Schuman who will be its manager. Mr. and Mrs. Schuman arrived in Sudan last week and will occupy one of the new modern residences being built by the editor of this paper.

SUDAN HIGH NEWS NOTES

Public Improvements

I think that Sudan could make a good many public improvements. Among those are:

1st, I think the streets of Sudan should be made wider. The streets should be graded oftner, so they would not grow up in weeds and be smoother. Main street needs to be filled in with gravel and then paved, if the town would issue enough funds. If it is not paved the water should be drained off Main street so that the road would not wash.

The alleys of Sudan have grown up in weeds and have trash piled in them. This not only looks bad but is unhealthful the trash should be burned and all the weeds cut so the alleys would not look like snakes dens.

Sudan should have some kind of fire department because enough property has been burned at different times to have installed a good fire department. Since there are public water systems Chemicals could be used on the small buildings around Sudan. If there were a public library in this town it would help entertain the boys and girls. --Weldon Findley, English 3.

Sudan School has a great increase over last year. All the rooms at the grammar building are occupied. Several of the grades are so large that two teachers are required to instruct them.

Sudan Schools have pupils who came from far part of the United States. In high school there are sixteen new pupils. The seventh grade is the largest in high school having a total of fifty-five; four high school teachers instruct them.

There are 155 pupils in high school history and the history teacher must also instruct in athletics. There are 28 pupils in Spanish; 34 girls in foods, and 50 boys in Vocational Agriculture. --Martin Shuttlesworth, English 4.

The student body of Sudan High School has organized into its four parts. The officers elected by each are as follows:

Senior Class
President-Elwin Hamilton
Vice-President-Waldo Fisher
Secretary-Fay Guinn
Treasurer-Annie Lynch

Worms Menacing Lamb County Poultry

When the poultry flocks gets to looking dull and unthrifty and the combs and wattles become shriveled, rough and colorless, the flock is the victim of worms. Such infestation has spread to such an extent that worms are now considered one of the greatest handicaps to profitable poultry production in Texas, and D. A. Adam, county agent, has made that a major portion of his program for the coming year. "A severe infestation," he says, "may altogether stop egg production, for worms slowly poison the birds, inflame their intestines and sometimes completely clog the intestinal tract. Worms so lower the vitality of the flock as to make it easy prey of such ailments as colds, roup and chicken pox."

Round worms are much more common than tape worms, but both species are best controlled by sanitary measures such as sanitation of the soil around the poultry premises by plowing at least weekly; and by avoiding dirty, sloppy water vessels and grounds on the poultry premises. Feed troughs should be designed to keep birds from getting in with their feet and from standing where drippings fall in the feed. Since young stock is more easily and fatally affected than mature birds, brooder houses should be located on grounds separate from the rest of the flock and pullets should be wormed before placing them in the laying houses or yards.

While preventative measures are most effective, Mr. Adam finds in carrying on his program that worms can be gotten rid of by the use of "Nema" capsules very effectively and there are several other remedies that can be used to a great success. In turkeys the doses are doubled.

For other information on this matter the farmers of this county are urged to get into touch with the county agent and arrange for a demonstration at their farm to put over the most vital program.

Ft. Worth & Denver To Enter So. Plains Country

The Ft. Worth & Denver railroad has announced its intention of entering the South Plains county, says an associated press report to the august city dailies of the state.

Frances Shelton Dead.

Little Frances Shelton, the small daughter of Mr. and Mrs. F. M. Shelton, who had been ill for sometime, died Tuesday morning. Interment was made in the Sudan Cemetery Tuesday afternoon.

Mrs. Means of San Antonio, is visiting her sister, Mrs. F. P. Wilson.

Mrs. J. J. Franks spent the week-end in Muleshoe with her daughter, Mrs. J. O. Jones.

Mr. and Mrs. R. A. Thompson, and son, of Muleshoe, spent Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. Herman Lyle and family.

Jack Campbell who has had employment at Vernon, has accepted a position with the J. C. Cooper Grocery.

Thousands Invested In Zoned Warehouses By Chevrolet Motors

The parts and service division of Chevrolet Motor Co. for the point of bringing the consumer closer to the point of distribution has been since the first of the year quietly carrying on a building program amounting to hundreds of thousands of dollars.

Los Angeles, Houston, Omaha, Philadelphia and Cleveland now have warehouses. Work is to begin this fall on others in New Orleans, Fargo and Indianapolis.

J. P. Little pointed out that the 1928 building program when completed will increase the storage facilities of his division by 30 per cent, an addition of 210,000 additional feet of floor space.

"Chevrolet parts warehouses and major supply depots constitute an added service that the company offers in order that every station and repair depot will have genuine Chevrolet parts available promptly for Chevrolet owners," Mr. Little said.

Aside from the building activity the divisional program for 1928, as outlined by Mr. Little, is also concerned with Boston and Denver, cities where now existing warehouses will be vacated this fall for new quarters because present facilities have proven inadequate. Thus before the year closes the parts and service division will have new warehouses in each of ten cities.

In every instance between 5,000 and 6,000 square feet of space has been set aside in these warehouses for use of the zone sales schools. The warehouse also house the offices of the zones sales managers and their staffs. All of the new buildings have been built according to plans and specifications of Chevrolet Motor Co.

Other cities in which they are located are Baltimore, Pittsburg, Charlotte, S. C.; Jacksonville, Fla.; Des Moines, Ia.; Minneapolis, Minn.; Memphis, Tenn.; Dallas, Texas; Oklahoma City, Denver, Portland, Oregon.

Marvin Dryden, who has been visiting his parents, Mr. and Mrs. John A. Dryden, left the latter part of last week for Columbus, Ohio, where he has a position.

PRAYER BRO'T WEALTH

But The Teapot Dome Was Not Reckoned With It

(Contributed)

That was a pretty good stunt pulled off by John D. Rockefeller, jr., just after the Dohenny-Fall teapot-dome trial at Washington.

R. A. Stuart, president of the Indiana Oil Co., was requested to resign that office because of his refusal to answer certain questions when on the witness stand during that memorable trial at Washington.

Mr. Stuart's individual stock and that of the other stockholders was in excess of that owned by the Rockefeller's, and altho' the Indiana Oil Corporation is merely a subsidiary of its parent system, the Standard Oil Co., it has a right to eject or sustain its president or other officers by a majority of stock which function the same as a common vote at election.

The resignation of Mr. Stewart was thus sidestepped and he remains the president of the Indiana Oil Co.

It wouldn't do of course for wealth obtained thro' prayer to figure in such an affair as the Teapot Dome Scandal.

The Rockefellers are devout Presbyterians, and the elder, Mr. John D. Rockefeller, has been quoted as saying that all his success was attributable to devout prayer. Amen.

Heaviest-weight Six-Months Pig--Tips Scale At 310

Topping the scales at 310 pounds at six months of age, a pig belonging to Vernia Prescott of the Loraine High School 4 H club in Mitchell county, broke the county record for the heaviest weight six-months pig this year.

The county states that the pig weighed only 43 pounds at weaning time, but he gained 267 pounds in 120 days on a ration composed of skim milk, threshed maize and a sack of commercial supplement.

Mr. and Mrs. N. B. Hoover, and Mr. and Mrs. Bailey Wright, of Lubbock, spent Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. A. Massey.

CHAPTER XII—Continued

"But in removing the original bookplate in order to conceal the certificate, he thought she must have torn the former. Hence the need to make a copy, as I had seen her do. Incidentally, grandfather was much vexed that that original should have disappeared, for it was a real Colfax engraving, the only copy he had of his father the doctor's bookplate—"

"If Mr. Almy hadn't interrupted, I should have had to, I was so bursting with curiosity, and I should have not been able to compel the answer he received."

"One minute, MacIvor. How did your grandfather happen to own a Colfax bookplate?"

"Hugh Colfax made it just before his death—it was, in fact, his last work—in gratitude for the doctor's having saved the life of Colfax's son, who was a British naval officer, when he was stricken with yellow fever in South America," answered MacIvor, briefly, merely whetting my curiosity; but he had to go on with his story. "But the main thing was that the birth certificate was missing. Grandfather knew Case had it, and Case had gone abroad directly after your mother's death, Julia, and Prof. Royall Harrington, to whom your mother had referred by name— Have you ever heard of him?"

"I think I've seen his name in the paper," said Julia, reflecting. "Well, he is your father's elder brother."

"What?"

"Yes, your uncle. He had gone to Oxford the previous summer, on a year's leave from the university. Grandfather knew Case must have taken him the book, that your mother must have told Case the secret in it. He knew Harrington would try to trace you, so he sent you away and kept you away all those years."

"And took my name from me, so you might claim all the property?"

"Well, partly; not altogether."

"What other reason could there have been?"

"Your name was Harrington."

"I don't understand."

"Your father came from Elliot's Crossing, Virginia. So did the Grosvenor family. There was a feud between those families for decades—"

"No!"

"Yes; and it started so long ago that even grandfather had only a vague idea of what began it. He thought it was a political duel, around the year eighteen hundred, in which a Grosvenor was killed. Of course his father, a boy at that time, hated the very mention of the name Harrington. Grandfather was a kindhearted conservative, you know, knew the family traditions and held to them fast. So when he learned that his daughter had married a Harrington, of all people in the world—"

"Where? How?" interrupted Julia eagerly.

"I've never known," confessed MacIvor. "He never told me. Maybe he didn't know everything about it himself; it was a secret marriage, of course. But when he learned the main facts about it, I'm sure he resolved to wipe out all traces of it. That was what made him so bitterly determined to recover that bookplate. After Professor Harrington returned from abroad, grandfather made various attempts to regain that book."

"You mean, of course, to steal it?" suggested Mr. Almy. "Harrington would never have sold it."

MacIvor nodded.

"And five years ago, he nearly got it. The professor's library was robbed—"

"Yes, I know," said Mr. Almy. "A number of rare books were taken, and some of them turned up later in various of the smaller cities, though the thief was never traced. You mean to say Mr. Grosvenor investigated that?"

"He did; he hired the thief, but the thief did a remarkably thorough job. He took a lot of books besides the Clarithew and disposed of them all, himself, besides taking his wages! However, that failure started my grandfather collecting Virginiana. He knew if he was known as a collector, he would be notified of all the Virginia books that were put on the market; he could examine all libraries put up for sale, have the run of second-hand shops. But he certainly was astonished that evening when you read out the title of the very book he wanted, Julia! And there was one thing he had that would identify the book absolutely."

"Not the bookplate?" demanded Mr. Almy.

"Something besides that," answered MacIvor, and pointed to the spring lancet, which was still in Mr. Almy's hand. "He told me when I went to Richmond, to notice, in addition to the bookplate, whether there were a number of small parallel scratches here and there on and inside that book. He had made them, when a boy with that old instrument of his father's, he remembered; he had been punished for doing so. I think that was the reason he had the spring lancet with him that Monday in Darrow's—to compare the scratches that instrument would cut."

Of all the revelations of the afternoon, this was so far the most satisfactory. Hitherto there had been some as to why the spring-lancet had been taken to Darrow's. And now MacIvor was proceeding directly to the close of his story:

"It was that long strain of the pursuit of that book, and the fear that somehow the copied bookplate would be noticed, and maybe the hidden birth certificate discovered, that broke grandfather down. He was afraid his secret would be revealed; his conscience would never let him rest; his bitterness would never let him forgive your mother or you, Julia. He wouldn't have been here much longer, in any case."

"Oh, why did he treat her so?" cried Julia. "His unhappiness was a judgment on him! Why did she endure his unkindness?"

"She had never disobeyed him except by her marriage, I suppose; she was dependent on him, as her husband had died before you were born— No, I don't know how. His brother, who would doubtless have helped her, was abroad; her health was falling, you had to be thought of. And you know my mother, her sister, never came home here. Her divorce had vexed grandfather very much. So your mother was cut off from practically everybody. But she did get grandfather to promise her, when she was actually dying, that he would have you brought up and educated properly. Julia, he did better by you than by me. You see what I am today . . . his work . . . a fine specimen!"

Charles MacIvor gave a laugh so bitter that it was dreadful to hear. For the first time he aroused my sympathy. The one thing he cared for, the Grosvenor estate, for which he had agreed to a shameful silence that had defrauded his cousin for years of her birthright, was to be largely lost to him, after all; and it had taken that loss to show him his own worthlessness. Julia gazed at him sorrowfully. She could not have found in her heart a spark of her old cousinly regard for him; yet her true, womanly loyalty prompted some speech that might yet revive his manhood.

"Listen, Charles," she said gently, at last: "I'll never forget how you thought to Darrow's that night, for me I thought—mistakenly, you know—that you went on your own account, after I told you where the spring-lancet was. I shall always be grateful for that because you did it when you thought I was guilty, and you wanted to help me."

And then, where opposition and anger and severity had only aroused defiance in that cold and mercenary heart, the free forgiveness of that bitterly injured girl, who had sacrificed herself time and again for him, broke it completely. MacIvor collapsed, groaning aloud.

"Don't, Julia! don't!" he cried. "I had no idea whatever what had happened to grandfather, but I always knew you must be absolutely innocent! I only wanted to keep you from getting that bookplate; I wanted time to get it myself, so I tried to throw the guilt on you. God forgive me! I lied!"

He hid his face. Silence descended on the room. Julia sat motionless, looking at him. She was cleared, vindicated; if she had wished it, fully avenged. But all that anyone could have read on her face was compassion. Presently she rose, went to him, and laid her hand on his head.

And as Mr. Almy and I found ourselves in the hall, we met Peter Burton coming up the stairs.

He started to greet us; suddenly I saw his eyes become fixed on something behind me, his hand grasped the banister, his face blanched, the greeting died on his lips. Next instant, however, he had commanded himself. Mr. Almy signed to him, and we all went downstairs and out of the house together.

We turned uptown. Peter walked along with us in silence, which Mr. Almy presently broke.

"Lots of water has flowed under the bridge since you left on your trip, Burton. Some of the news is good, and some's very bad."

I looked at him in surprise. All the news I had heard seemed to me extremely good. My glance crossed Peter's; he was still very pale. I said:

"Mr. Almy, the fact that Miss Grosvenor is no longer under suspicion ought to counterbalance any bad news, I should think."

"What's happened?" demanded Peter, in a strangely incredulous tone, before Mr. Almy could answer.

"Well, let's have the good news first," agreed Mr. Almy. "That's quite true, Burton: Miss Grosvenor is cleared. But we can't call her that any longer! And as Miss Fuller is responsible for that fact, she can tell you all about it."

Taking this statement as an order, I then told Peter, as succinctly as possible, all about the discovery of the birth certificate. Still, as full clarity involved a recital of the strange and numerous adventures of Clarithew's "Notes" during his absence, the story took some little time. When I had finished, he turned to our companion.

"Do you know anything more than that scamp, MacIvor, told?" he demanded.

"Yes," replied Mr. Almy, as if he had received a good opening. "I know where Miss Julia Harrington's parents were married."

Peter and I registered amazement at this unexpected reply.

"I've known only since this morning," continued Mr. Almy. "It was on Almy's Island, up in Carroll Bay, where my folks have always been. I might tell you now that my special interest in this Grosvenor case dates from the minute I read the preliminary report of it, and learned that Professor Harrington was one of those in Darrow's last Monday morning. You see, though I never knew him personally, I knew who his brother was."

"You knew who Miles Harrington was?" I exclaimed.

Mr. Almy nodded.

"In the village called Carroll Bay, which is on the mainland a few miles up from our island, there's a cenotaph put up to Miles Harrington's memory I was serving in the Philippines when it was erected; but when I returned home I learned it had been put up in memory of the younger of two brothers of that name, who had been drowned saving some fishermen in a storm. They were often summer visitors at Carroll Bay; the elder was a professor in a New York college."

He went on; but I couldn't listen. Broken sentences went ringing through my ears, sentences I had forgotten entirely:

"I've had an invitation . . . my summer playground . . . Carroll Bay's the name . . . I stick to the old traditions . . . My brother was highly romantic . . . We're not all well suited to stand the blows of life . . . The icy fingers of premonition grasped me, and I heard Peter's voice saying heavily:

"Not our Professor Harrington!"

Mr. Almy nodded reluctantly.

"He's under arrest."

I stopped short in the street in horror.

"He's not the suspect you mentioned to Julia Harrington when you told her she was cleared?"

He nodded again.

"Now you see why I put it that way."

"But he's her uncle!" I gasped. "Oh, if this is your bad news, it certainly is very bad!"

"Then she does not know it yet, does she, Almy?" demanded Peter vigorously.

"Not yet. But the evidence against him is very strong. She'll have to know it soon."

"Tell me first what has happened," urged Peter. "What's this evidence? And finish about that marriage on Almy's island. . . . This is terrible!"

"To begin with the evidence," answered Mr. Almy. "All along there was a tiny gap in Harrington's alibi that didn't appear to many observers, and might have been unimportant. There were three or four minutes when he was alone in the elise, ostensibly looking at books on the table there, that were not accounted for in detail. We started to look him up, and found directly that his birthplace was Elliot's Crossing, the old Grosvenor homestead; and while the Grosvenor-Harrington feud seemed rather remote as a motive for an attack on Mr. Grosvenor, it was well remembered as very bitter down in that section. So there it was, a factor to be remembered, and there were the proud, conservative characters of those two elderly men."

"An investigator went up to the celebration at Carroll Bay, and there, talking to the older townsfolk about young Miles Harrington, stumbled on a trail which led finally to the unearthly of that secret marriage. The man who performed the ceremony was a justice of the peace in the one little town on Almy's island twenty-odd years ago. He's a miserly old character; I know well who he is. Miles Harrington was spending his vacation alone at Carroll Bay that summer, as his brother had just gone to Oxford; Mary Grosvenor was up there with a party of artists who had come to paint the coast. When they decided to get married, it was easy to sail down the bay to that remote island and bribe the old J. P. to hold his tongue. It was equally easy, a day or two ago to bribe him to loosen it."

"Then we learned that Clarithew's 'Notes' had belonged to the professor's library, and had been stolen; that it had turned up again and had been sought by many people, among whom Mr. Grosvenor was included, without doubt, for he and his granddaughter had been engaged in controversy over a book, and that book was the one she was so eager to obtain. That it was certainly of extraordinary interest seemed proved by the presence of the cleverly forged bookplate concealing the key—"

"The key!" I interrupted. "I flung it on that table in the living-room!"

"You'll have to leave it there now," said Mr. Almy; "perhaps that's the best place for it. Well, to cut a long story short, it seemed as if Professor Harrington might be among the persons interested in recovering that book, perhaps the most so, since it was his own possession. He had had opportunity to try to do so last Monday morning. Of the five persons in the shop then suspected of trying to get the book, four were gradually eliminated. Mr. Grosvenor was attacked; MacIvor obviously never got a chance at the book; Mr. Case—"

"Case?" interrupted Peter, incredulously. "You never suspected that correct person of assault and robbery?"

"Yes; he was absent from the conference Monday morning, and was seen in the shop just before the clock struck eleven. He finally admitted that he had formerly known Mr. Grosvenor, and he gave indication of a remarkable personal interest in Clarithew's 'Notes.' But now he is eliminated. The second click of the spring-lancet at ten-fifty sets the time of the attack, and Mr. Case did not leave the conference until ten-fifty-five. By the way, you haven't seen the lancet, have you, Burton? I brought it along."

"I'd like to," said Peter, receiving the little brass box from Mr. Almy's hand and looking at it with close attention. He worked the flashing knives once, then returned it, as Mr. Almy went on:

"We have to thank Mr. Case at least that Clarithew's 'Notes' didn't leave Darrow's. He could have accepted the Juddes offer tentatively in Mr. Darrow's absence, but he turned Miss Wilkes down. Of course, the fourth suspect was Miss Grosvenor, as we then called her, and the one thing that saved her was that though she remained in the shop, there was no way of connecting her with any weapon."

"None," agreed Peter. "So only Harrington remains. Why is he held?"

"He was seen behind the law-book alcove at ten-fifty o'clock last Monday; in fact, on the occasion of that second click of the spring-lancet, which was also heard by the witness"

Constipation Gone. Has Roses in Her Cheeks Now

"About seven years ago, I was dying slowly of constipation. My system was full of poison, which not only dulled my senses, but my complexion was muddy, eyes blurred, my stomach was ruined, and I was continually catching cold. I did not have any life or energy."

"After reading one of your ads, I bought several bottles of Milks Emulsion, and began improving at once. Improvement was so marked that everyone noticed it, and spoke of how it cleared my skin, made my eyes much brighter, and put roses in my cheeks. In fact, I was an entirely different person. I took altogether 15 large bottles of Milks Emulsion, and looked wonderful and felt the same way. It absolutely made me over. It adds more to your looks than anything I have ever heard of. After I had taken the first 8 bottles, people began to notice the improvement in my skin and my eyes being brighter."

"Every woman should know of it. I have never had a cold since I took Milks Emulsion, no stomach trouble or constipation. I think it is a God-send to humanity."

Life in Middle Ages Miserable for Most

The average expectation of life—today 58—was probably between 25 and 30 in the Middle Ages. We have no idea today what a vast luxury there was a bit of food, fire and drink, shelter and a bed, even such poor things as they were. The pathetic masses of humans were so indescribably miserable that we have almost no perspective on them today. Picture them, living in low thatched huts without ventilation, the earth for a floor. When this floor got too filthy a new layer of rushes was laid down on the top of the old filth, until the layers of twenty years feasted there, alive with vermin, foul with refuse. Those who could afford it wore leather clothes; the lower masses wrapped themselves with straw. For food they ate peas, black bread, fern roots and the bark of trees. Only one-half of them ever tasted fresh meat, and the other half ate meat only once a week. A hole in the roof drained off some of the smoke. The house servants—miserable creatures, earning 30 shillings a year and shoes—went about nearly naked, such garments as they had being utterly filthy, and slept on the vile rush floor at night. Men were old at forty and women even earlier.—J. George Frederick, in the New Age Illustrated.

Eat Eels for Long Life

Eat eels and live long is the slogan of those in Japan who enjoy the dish and claim that it is nourishing and healthful, although somewhat of a luxury for many poor people. During the recent "eel day" festival many instances of old persons who were fond of the elongated fish were cited. Among these is Kihachiro Okura, the ninety-year-old retired financier and business man of Tokyo, who is called an eel epicurean. Another champion of the eel is Matsusuke Ono, aged eighty-five, an actor of the Imperial theater, Tokyo.

Some people are like snails; they must be hit on the head to make them of any use.—Forbes Magazine.

CROP PRODUCTION OF U. S. GIVEN

Stands At Eight Figures With Several Commodities

The present prospects in production of corn, wheat, oats, barley and rye stands eight per cent. over that of 1927.

The government estimates as regards cotton to be 14,291,000 bales this year over 12,291,000 bales in 1927.

This prediction concerning all these commodities was made last August.

Last year's cotton crop sold for $1,254,000,000 and it is estimated that $15,000,000 bales of cotton will be needed for mill requirements in the entire world and leave the necessary margin of excess for emergencies.

More cotton than rubber is being used in tire casings.

Potato crop production is forecast for 460,000,000 bushels.

Wheat prices are slow because the U. S. and Canada are raising more wheat than they can consume.

The exportable surplus of U. S. wheat may reach 200,000,000 bushels. Of course this exportation surplus comes into competition at Liverpool with the surplus from Australia, Argentina and other wheat-raising countries, the Liverpool price being fixed by the laws of supply and demand.

The surplus crop still hangs. The tariff is 42 cents a bushel on wheat now, and while September wheat is $1.08 in Chicago it is sold in Winnipeg for $1.11. So the present tariff shuts out Canadian wheat but does not increase American prices, showing higher tariff would not relieve the situation.

One remedy for the situation is a smaller acreage of wheat and more diversification.

And we have no doubt the farmers are just about as sick of seeing the word "diversification" in print as the newspapers are in printing it, but the great producing wheat countries had to come to it at last and to a great profit. There is more of it right now in Wisconsin, Minnesota and other big wheat areas that ever existed before.

It is estimated that the farmers spend annually $6,000,000,000 for American manufactured supplies and also supplies one-eighth of the tonnage carried by all the railroads.

WHAT'S DOING IN WEST TEXAS

Stamford--The W. T. C. C. motorcade of farmers' study in agricultural methods reached Azusa, California, Sept. 3.

Lockney--A deal has been made and contract drawn for a new $5,000 hotel here, construction to start at an early date.

Stratford--This town is to have a modern steam laundry, which has been needed for some time.

Mullins--A member of the Adults Contract Children's Diseases

Adults can, and do, contract many children's diseases. And, usually, they suffer from them much more than children do. For instance, many adults contract worms, an ailment usually associated with children. Sometimes they suffer intensely and take expensive medical treatments, without realizing that worms are the cause of their troubles. Yet, the symptoms are the same as in children, loss of appetite and weight, grinding the teeth and restless sleep, itching of the nose and anus, and abdominal pains. And, the same medicine that surely and harmlessly expels round and pin worms from children will do the same for adults--White's Cream Vermifuge, which you can get at H. G. Ramby Drug Store

Texas Experiment Station has been demonstrating control measures for worms in poultry here,

Del Rio--This year's building receipts almost treble last year's, being $803,935, for eight months, which is $191,332 more than twice the total for 1927.

Bend--The cornerstone for the new school building here was laid Sept. 4.

Floydada--A 150-foot building with a twenty-five foot frontage is under construction here.

O'Donnell--Trades day was celebrated here for the first time and was featured by distribution of $100 in gold.

Roswell, N. M.--The Roswell new roof garden is situated on top of the White office building at corner of Main and Third.

Booker--Several noted speakers will be on the program at the community fair in September

Big Lake--Three new brick brick residences are being built here.

Ask the man experienced in building--and he will tell you that the best materials are always cheapest in the end. Why? Because good materials resist both age and weather. Wherein so many fail, is the reasoning that the best always costs the most. Week after week and month after month the Bigger and Better Chevrolet has swept on to greater and greater heights of popularity—until today it stands acknowledged everywhere as first choice of the nation for 1928!

Never has any Chevrolet enjoyed such overwhelming public acceptance—for never has any low-priced car provided such an outstanding combination of distinctive beauty, thrilling performance and amazing economy!

Its beautiful bodies by Fisher—long, low and racy, and finished in colors that reveal to-day's mode for smartness and individuality—are far in advance of accepted standards in the field of low-priced cars. Inside and out they prove anew that Fisher craftsmanship is a thing apart.

But Chevrolet performance is no less impressive than Chevrolet beauty and style. Never before was a low-priced car so easy to handle—for the steering mechanism is fitted with ball bearings throughout... the clutch and gear-shift lever respond to the slightest touch... and big non-locking 4-wheel brakes give a measure of braking control that is more than equal to every occasion.

Come in and see the car that has won the approval of more than three-quarters of a million buyers since January 1st. Learn for yourself why it is scoring the greatest success of this great automotive year!

WHAT DR. CALDWELL LEARNED IN 47 YEARS PRACTICE

A physician watched the results of constipation for 47 years, and believed that no matter how careful people are of their health, diet and exercise, constipation will occur from time to time. Of next importance, then, is how to treat it when it comes. Dr. Caldwell always was in favor of getting as close to nature as possible, hence his remedy for constipation, known as Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin, is a mild vegetable compound. It can not harm the system and is not habit forming. Syrup Pepsin is pleasant-tasting, and youngsters love it.

Dr. Caldwell did not approve of drastic physics and purges. He did not believe they were good for anybody's system. In a practice of 47 years he never saw any reason for their use when Syrup Pepsin will empty the bowels just as promptly.

Do not let a day go by without a bowel movement. Do not sit and hope, but go to the nearest druggist and get one of the generous bottles of Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin or write "Syrup Pepsin," Dept. BB, Monticello, Illinois, for free trial bottle.

"Gate of the Gods"
It was the idea of the Chaldean and Platonic philosophers that the "gate of the gods" was located in Capri-cornus, says Nature Magazine. Through this gate souls released by death returned to heaven, while through the "gate of men" in the constellation of Cancer, souls descended from heaven to the bodies of men. The positions of these two "gates" correspond to the positions of the two solstices, winter and summer respectively.

Catalina Island Yields Many Ancient Treasures

Avalon, Santa Catalina Island, Cal.—An attempt to follow ancient trails to the long-lost island temple of Chingehinich, the Sun God, has resulted instead in the discovery of the burial place of a small Indian princess of 3,000 years ago and evidence indicating that child sacrifices were made in wholesale fashion by tribes of the Channel Islands, off the coast of California.

Within a stone urn weighing 134 pounds and fashioned skillfully as though by modern tools was found the skeleton of an Indian girl between five and seven years. Her hands apparently had clutched the rim of an urn, whose rich ornamentation of wampum bespeaks her royal lineage.

In a circle with the urn as a center were counted by Prof. Ralph Glidden, curator of the Catalina museum of Channel Island Indians, the skeletons of 64 children buried in tiers four deep with small heads touching each other.

Beneath them was the skeleton of a seven-foot man. A spear blade still was fixed in the ribs.

The sand within the funeral urn had the appearance of ground crystal—apparently, according to the discoverer, a sacred sand used in the burial of Indian royalty—and was far different from that which had sifted over the graves of the other children.

These finds as well as a wealth of obsidian knives, spear points and arrow heads and hundreds of other articles of wampum-inlaid stone and bone have provided material over which Glidden has puzzled since he discovered them.

One thin piece of slate he believes to be a stone map, holes having been drilled to indicate trails to the four main burying grounds on Santa Catalina island.

"It is plausible," Glidden said, "that the strange child burial within the urn and those surrounding it were the result of a natural death of a little girl of high rank and the slaying of 64 attendants and playmates with her. Or they all may have been killed in some religious ceremonial rite."

"It is even possible the princess may have been given some potion and buried alive. The way the small hands clutched the outer rim of the bowl makes this a possibility."

Wampum inlaid in four broken circles on the rim of the urn with "gates" leading to the four points of the compass lead Glidden to believe the burial place may be near the site of the temple of Chingehinich.

Butter Stored for Winter

The Department of Agriculture says that for butter, to be stored for winter use, pasteurized sweet cream should be used, churned at a low temperature and the butter washed so that it will be firm and waxy. Rolls or prints of butter should be wrapped in parchment butter paper, placed in a stone crock, and covered with strong brine. Butter should be stored in as cool a place as is available and in a place free from odors likely to be absorbed by the butter.

When Food Sours

Lots of folks who think they have "indigestion" have only an acid condition which could be corrected in five or ten minutes. An effective anti-acid like Phillips Milk of Magnesia soon restores digestion to normal.

Phillips does away with all that sourness and gas right after meals. It prevents the distress so apt to occur two hours after eating. What a pleasant preparation to take! And how good it is for the system! Unlike a burning dose of soda—which is but temporary relief at best—Phillips Milk of Magnesia neutralizes many times its volume in acid. Next time a hearty meal, or too rich a diet has brought on the least discomfort, try—

PHILLIPS Milk of Magnesia

POULTRY

EARLY PULLETS NEED ATTENTION

"Don't let your early laying pullets get run down in the fall," advise poultrymen of the state college of agriculture at Ithaca. "Don't try to get more than a 50 per cent production, but keep the birds in good healthy condition and feed enough to keep them laying steadily."

"Pullets which come into production early (in August or September) have a tendency toward a production slump and a molt when the short days and cool weather hit them. It is very important to maintain their weight; and adding milk, wet mashers or providing artificial lights at the proper time will help out in the difficulty."

"Feed plenty of hard grain at night. In the morning, feed in proportion to the way in which the pullets are producing. Probably fifteen pounds for each hundred pullets is enough when they are producing 50 per cent or more and the weather is cold. One of the main points to remember is that if they eat more grain they eat less mash, and it is the mash that contains the animal protein and brings the egg yield, with a possible dangerous loss in body weight and later production."

"A pint of cod liver oil in every hundred pounds of mash helps keep the birds in good health during the winter. Good health is one of the big assets to any of the poultry flock and that is why the cod liver oil is worth its trouble and cost."

Lookout for Poultry

Worms of Many Kinds

There is no way of estimating the loss to the poultry industry caused by worms of various kinds. That there is a loss cannot be denied and several states are now spending much time in finding a solution for the worm problem.

It may be necessary to kill one of the birds to find whether worms are affecting it. Usually a bird with worms looks pale and thin, has rough feathers, wobbles or sways when it walks, drinks much, eats little and sometimes has diarrhea.

There are many remedies on the market, some to destroy long round worms, others to destroy tape worms. There are also combination remedies that are proving satisfactory. Most of these are individual treatments, but it isn't so hard to do as one might think. The worm medicine may be given at the time the hens are culled. This saves both time and money as it is not necessary to treat the ones that are to be sold. Treatment alone is not enough if the ground is full of worm eggs. Clean ground is necessary or old ground plowed and disinfected.

As a matter of fact, there is no record of a hen laying an egg a day for a full year. The standard as laid down by the poultry department of Ohio State university is 160 eggs in 365 days. The state average is about 70 eggs. Of course, some high-grade hens do better. More than one hen on the records of the Ohio Poultry Improvement association has beaten the 300-egg mark in 365 days. But they are not common hens.

Egg production for the average hen is at the lowest point in November, when five eggs for the month is the standard requirement. This standard rises month by month to 21 eggs in April, then falls again.

Flies Carry Infection

Remember that flies carry tapeworm eggs. The only place they can get the eggs is from the droppings of infested birds. It will pay to clean the dropping boards frequently this summer. Keep the houses for the young stock as clean as possible so flies will not be attracted. Do not let the young stock range after the old hens. One cannot expect much profit from pullets which go into the laying house heavily infested with worms of any kind.

Sap on Vitality

Right now is an important time in any respects with both old and young fowls. Hot, sultry summer weather is as much of a sap on the vitality of fowls as it is on the vitality of human beings and animals of all sorts. And this is right at the time when the old fowls are getting ready to molt, while the young stock must be kept growing and in perfect condition so they will be ready for the early shows or for profitable early winter laying.

Disturbing Proposition

Representative John G. Tilson, Republican, of Connecticut, commenting on Governor Smith's view that the tariff should be taken out of politics and handed strictly on a business basis, said:

"This proposal, in effect, is to repeal the present tariff law, without any indication of what will take its place, and it is quite disturbing."

Representative Tilson is chairman of the Eastern states speakers' bureau for the Hoover campaign.

History, Going Back to a Generation Ago

"Personally, Miss Armitage, I see no reason why ladies should not have equal suffrage with the men."

"Oh, Mr. Swayne!"
"Did I startle you? I beg your pardon. I am afraid I have some rather—well, radical ideas. For instance, why is a young man expected to sow his wild oats, while his sisters are models of decorum?"

"And another thing; how can you play a lively game like tennis in those long skirts? Couldn't the ladies shorten the hem to just above the ankle?"

"Mr. Swayne—I'm—I'm almost afraid of you! You seem to know so much about the world."

"Miss Armitage . . . have you ever, by any chance, wanted to smoke a cigarette, just to see what it was like?"

There is a loud shriek followed by a muffled thud as Miss Armitage collapses gracefully on the floor.—Kansas City Star.

Boxwood Shrub Sells for Neat Little Sum

More than a century and a half ago a tiny boxwood was planted on the grounds of King George's tavern near Tripoli, Pa. After having grown through all that time into a sturdy and imposing shrub, it was purchased recently by Robert P. Hutchinson, president of the Bethlehem Steel Fabricators, and removed by motor truck to his spacious estate, "Kendridge," at Macada, Pa., where it is one of countless choice specimens of trees and shrubs.

The plant stands 13 feet high and has a circumference of 96 feet. To remove it required a week's careful work. The load, including soil, when the transfer was made, was about 25 tons. It is said that the financial consideration was close to $400.

Rat Wore "Corset"

A rat was caught in a trap during a drive at Hastings, Neb. When the animal was taken from the trap it was noticed that it appeared to be wearing a sort of girdle or corset. Examination showed that while the animal was small it had crawled into a narrow bone and had been unable to shake it off. The hole in the bone was not much over an inch in diameter. As the rat grew the waist-line could not develop. It looked much like a wasp.

Poor Insurance Risk

A President's life is not a particularly good risk. The Presidents elected in 1840, 1860, 1880, 1900 and 1920 all died in office, three of them assassinated. On that theory of cycles a successful candidate in 1940 might feel a trifle nervous.—Barron's Financial Weekly.

Shocked

"What did your husband think of your new frock?"
"My dear, he clapped his hands—"
"Splendid!"
"—Over his eyes!"

According to Weight

Stout Lady (to man with rowboat)—What do you charge per hour for a boat ride?
"Ten dollars per ton, lady."

If it takes all kind of people to make a world, why pass laws to make them all alike?

China Eggs Hard to Digest

Harry Dennis, backlot poultry raiser at Cape May, N. J., missed several china eggs from the hens' nests. One evening he returned to the poultry house after dark for a last look around and discovered a six-foot black snake swallowing one of his nest eggs. Killing the snake he found all the missing eggs inside it.—Capper's Weekly.

Resourceful Youngster

Mildred Cliff, eleven, lacked the $3 to attend the Nevada Junior farm bureau camp at Washoe Valley, Nev. She arranged with Katherine Lewers, University of Nevada, art teacher, to dig angleworms for the latter's prize ducks at 5 cents a dozen. When the camp opened she had the money.

Faith is the vital artery of the soul.—Watson.

Films Made on Paper

Motion pictures on film or paper are taken with a camera recently introduced in England, says Popular Mechanics Magazine. The paper film is projected by reflected light with the aid of two special lamps attached to the outfit and is said to give sharpness and definition on the screen in no way inferior to the film. The camera can be loaded in daylight; the projector shows pictures over six feet high and the set is inexpensive.

Long Suffering

It is suggested that the farmers who have to clean up their fields after the departure of picnic parties should be called "litter-Day Saints."—Humorist.

If I must die I will encounter darkness as a bride, and hug it in mine arms.—Shakespeare.

PEXEL is the last word in jelly making

PEXEL always makes jelly jell. Absolutely colorless, tasteless, odorless. Unlike other products, Pexel is a pure fruit product—100%. Doesn't change taste or color of most delicately flavored fruit.

Pexel saves time and fuel. More than repays 30c it costs. More jelly—fruit, sugar and flavor aren't boiled off because, with Pexel, the jelly is ready for glasses as soon as it comes to full boil. It jells by the time it is cool. Get Pexel at your grocer's. Recipe booklet in each package. 30c. The Pexel Company, Chicago, Ill.

Lasting Paper Money

Paper money may not go as far today as it once did, but it will last longer, observes the Farm Journal, reporting on recent improvements by the treasury which have increased the life of the United States bank note 50 per cent. It is possible now to fold a bill 5,000 times in two directions without separating the fiber.

Russia Enrolling Women

Ten thousand Ukrainian Communist girls have joined Red Cross detachments recently, it is reported, and 200 more have finished special sanitary courses and are now "red nurses." This is in response to the government's call for "militarization" of the Soviet population in preparation for the expected attack by "capitalism."

ATWATER KENT RADIO

Of course you're going to hear Hoover and Smith

THANKS to radio, they expect to talk directly to every voter in the United States. Where is the family that can afford to be without a good radio set in this most interesting of Presidential years?

When Smith and Hoover go on the air, you can count on Atwater Kent Radio. Its reliability, its power, its range, its simplicity of operation, as well as its clear tone, have made it the leader everywhere. It comes from the largest radio factory, where workmanship is never slighted. It is not an experiment. You don't have to take it on faith. It is the fruit of twenty-six years' manufacturing experience—six years of radio.

Nearly 1,700,000 owners know that the name Atwater Kent on radio means the same thing as "sterling" on silver. Whether or not your home is equipped with electricity, there is an up-to-date Atwater Kent model to carry on the Atwater Kent tradition of giving the finest reception at the lowest price.

The Atwater Kent electric sets require no batteries. A cord from the compact, satin-finished cabinet plugs into any convenient lamp socket and the current costs only about as much as the lighting of one 40-watt lamp.

BATTERY SETS $49—$68

On the air—every Sunday night—Atwater Kent Radio Hour—listen in!

Price slightly higher West of the Rockies.

MODEL 40 ELECTRIC '77

MODEL 40 A. C. set. For 110-120 volt, 50-60 cycle alternating current. Requires six A. C. tubes and one rectifying tube, $77. Also Model 42, with automatic voltage regulator, $95, and Model 44, an extra-powerful "distance" set, $106.

The Atwater Kent battery sets have won their reputation for fine performance in 1,400,000 homes—and now both models are again improved for 1929.

From the orange orchards of Southern California to the potato fields of Maine, Atwater Kent Radio is far and away the preferred choice of rural families. The nearest Atwater Kent dealer will gladly show you why, and will advise you in your selection of the model best suited to your needs. Campaign year! You'll need good radio as you never did before!
