THE AMERICAN CREED

"I believe in the United States of America and the principles of freedom, justice, equality and humanity upon which it was founded and for which American Patriots have given their lives and fortunes.
"I believe it is my duty towards my country to love it; to support its constitution; to obey its laws; and to defend it against all enemies."

Any erroneous reflection upon the character or reputation of any person, company or corporation which may appear in these columns will be gladly corrected upon its being brought to the attention of the management.

"BOOST OR MOVE."

WRONG USE OF PROSPERITY.

In a friendly discussion with a citizen of our town the other day, the writer took the position that there is very little reason for want and suffering in the Plains country today if ordinary industry is used. The gentleman asserted that he knew many farmers who would be worse off after they had marketed their crops this fall than they were before the crops were planted, for the reason that everything was mortgaged.

Now there are mortgages—and mortgages; debts—and debts. A mortgage or a debt, incurred for the purpose of paying for a home, or from the urgent need of money with which to finance a crop, is sometimes unavoidable. A debt may sometimes be unavoidably delayed in payment for similar reasons,—that it may deprive the debtor of the means of subsistence while he raises his crops.

But where this is the case in some instances, there are many instances in which, sad to say, the delay is from altogether different causes. A case in point came to this writer's notice the other day, where a debtor asked for extension of time on an obligation incurred for farm supplies on the plea that he had bought a new car and was pressed for money. He was willing his creditors should suffer if he could only pay for that car.

And therein lies the trouble with many people today. They will permit an honest debt to go to protest, if only they be permitted to burn up the roads with gas.

The ambition to own a car is a laudable one, but when its realization compels honest creditors to wait unduly for their money—why, that is something else again.

Our friend may be correct in his statement that some farmers may be worse off at the end of the season than at the beginning, but we'll bet a dime to a doughnut it won't be because they couldn't raise crops—not in Lamb county, anyway.

CONDITIONS IMPROVING.

The trend in farm lands is upward, and in a few years desirable farms will be worth a great deal more than the prices asked for them today. Senator Capper of Kansas says that in a lifetime there will never be another opportunity to buy land as cheaply as now. Many persons believe prices of good farm lands have reached bottom, and it is reported from many sections that there is an increased demand for farms. Certainly farm land can never be expected to touch a lower mark than it is today.

"Farm lands are selling more rapidly," says the president of a federal land bank, "and we have only about one-half as many foreclosures pending as we had a year ago." Land values will advance as farm profits advance. Dairy cattle are fetching the highest price since 1920. The farm outlook is brighter.

GAS THIEVES.

In the old days the captured horse thief generally had his career stopped by a prompt hanging. There was a reason. Stealing a man's horse in those days left him helpless. The horse has to a large extent disappeared. But as the motor takes its place a new crime is coming up. This is the theft of gasoline. In Baltimore the other day a motorist was sent to jail for 90 days for siphoning a supply of gasoline from another car into his own.

Motorists generally will applaud this sentence. The value of the stolen gasoline was small, but the theft left the owner helpless, with a stalled car. It would be too severe to string up the gasoline thief as they did the horse thief in the old days, but he certainly is due for a considerable term in jail.

ONE HUNDRED BILLIONS.

Today more than 100 billion dollars insurance is carried in the United States. Insurance men say this figure will be doubled in the next ten years. Life insurance policies are devised to meet business situations as well as to protect widows and children. In fact you can buy almost any kind of life insurance you desire, even to investing a total paid-up amount which will draw a monthly income. Insurance companies, both life and fire, are creating the largest pool of ready cash known in any business except that of the United States government. This cash furnishes capital for all kinds of building and business operations.

BETTER AND BETTER.

Radio has been greatly improved during the past year. It has gone a long way since the days when every enthusiastic amateur developed his own set. Local dealers are now showing the 1930 models in radios and they contain a number of new features. The new models are exquisite in appearance and extraordinary in tone. They present a great contrast to some of the earlier sets. Ease of operation has been the aim of set designers. Practically every manufacturer of radio sets has brought out a new model in which the screen grid tube is used. It is no longer necessary to "sell" the delights of radio. Prices can be found to fit any purse. Every home needs and wants a radio receiving set, and every home ought to have one. No investment can possibly bring greater return in entertainment and instruction.

KEEP IN TOUCH.

The year of 1929-30 is full of hope and promise for our schools. The enrollment is large, the various school activities are organized and the new term has started off in a most encouraging manner. Parents can do a great work for good during the coming months if they will cooperate with the schools and keep in touch with the efforts teachers are making in behalf of their children. Thus they come closer to the real problems the school officials have to face. The warmth of human sympathy of our people can do much to help make the teacher's work easier and more efficient this year. A friendly message to the teacher, who is a new-comer in our midst, will help to make Sudan seem more like home to her. A word of encouragement will make their work more pleasant and more effective during the coming school year.

PAYS GOOD DIVIDENDS.

It pays every citizen good dividends to work for his home town. It is the duty of every citizen in their community to join hands in the organization that has for its aim the advancement and betterment of that particular town. In Sudan it is the Chamber of Commerce. The natural advantages of our community need and must have the assistance of our citizens to sell these advantages to those who do not know about them. The more people and the more industries we have in this community the better it is for every one. Many a town has grown backward instead of forward because of the lack of pep on the part of the majority of its citizens.

ONLY A BAG OF TRICKS.

Many of us ever fear the worst, and when it comes to pass, which it frequently does not, we swell out our chest and say, "I told you so." The human wisdom that parades itself is hardly more than a bag of tricks.

WORTH-WHILE EDITORIALS

EXTENDING PROTECTION'S SCOPE.

(Fort Worth Star-Telegram.)

Behind the news of the Senate's action of placing a tariff ban on "expatriated" industries, which action was taken Tuesday in a vote which dissolved party lines, there is a story of a highly intelligent fight by the American Federation of Labor. President William Green of that organization has been capitalizing on the obvious justice of this extension of protection to American labor in months of sustained campaigning. His efforts brought success in such a form that it seems impossible that this new wrinkle in tariff legislation will not become a permanent feature of future policy.

It had been shown that the tariff, ours and that of other nations, had stimulated the establishment of branch factories in other countries. In some instances the entire business of American manufacturers was moved onto foreign soil. Previous tariffs have allowed products of such branches operated in other countries but owned by Americans to enter the United States free of duty. The same was true, to some extent, of goods manufactured in other countries under American patents. The Senate Tuesday in the tariff bill a provision subjecting all such products to the ordinary tariff rates.

The effect of the old tariff rule was to make American ownership of industries or American patent ownership the criterion of nationality of products. The new rule makes the labor used in manufacture the criterion. The superiority of the new rule, from the standpoint of general American interests, is evident. Under the old rule pauper labor might still be brought into competition not only with American labor but with American capital as a whole if some American capital were permitted to establish factories in foreign countries and bring the products of such factories into this country free of duty.

The new rule will not stop American industries from operating branches in other countries. This will continue for the reason that by this means tariff prohibitions of the other countries are avoided. But it will put a stop to the migration of American industry by protecting the home market not only along lines of nationality but along lines of geography as well.

PANHANDLE-PLAINS IS ATTRACTING THOUSANDS

The Panhandle-Plains publicity program is attracting thousands of new settlers to the Panhandle, states E. H. Brown, writing in the October issue of the Texas Commercial News, the article containing numerous facts and figures about the advertising activities of this section.

The article explains the work of The Panhandle Plains Inc., the Amarillo Chamber of Commerce, and the Wonder District Association, the three organizations that are devoting intensive efforts to populate the territory. A map outlining the thirty-two counties in the Panhandle Plains is shown and it is stated that in this area are more than 29,000,000 arable acres of which, at present, only 3,750,000 are under cultivation. Thus there are nearly 17,000,000 acres of excellent farm land still untouched by the plow. Accompanying the article appear illustrations showing an airplane view of Amarillo, a new grain elevator at Texhoma, a wheat harvesting scene, and a stock shipping picture.

In the article Mr. Brown points out that the Panhandle-Plains offer opportunities not only for farmers but for every type of business man. He states, "These publicity activities both by organizations and by individuals offer evidence of the remarkable future in store for the Panhandle. Opportunity exists not only for the farmer but for the business man who seeks a location in a young and swiftly growing territory. The faith of so many new farmers in making their homes in the Panhandle has stimulated merchants throughout the territory to make renewed efforts in pushing their business. New mercantile establishments are being erected, store buildings are being renovated, new residences are springing up by the thousands, and millions of dollars are being spent for municipal improvements."

"The Panhandle-Plains of Texas today offer one of the best opportunities in the state to the business man who wants to grow and to see his business grow in one of the most rapidly developing sections of Texas."—Amarillo News-Globe.

CHEVROLET SIX

—the Car of Universal Appeal!

SINCE January 1st, over a million one hundred and thirty-five thousand six-cylinder Chevrolets have been produced. Naturally, this is an outstanding industrial achievement. But it is more than that. It is a great public endorsement of Chevrolet's policy of progress: to build a quality automobile whose design incorporates every possible feature of progressive engineering... whose beauty is distinctive, smart and satisfying... whose reliability is assured by fine materials and precision manufacture... and whose price is so low as to be within reach of the great majority of the people. We want you to know that this policy has meant in the development of the Chevrolet Six—the modern car of universal appeal. We want you to know that Chevrolet has brought within the reach of everybody, everywhere, all the advantages of smooth, six-cylinder performance. Come in today!

Dimmitt.

(Castro County News.)

Work was started last week on the erection of a new concrete elevator, by Pete Whitlow, local manager of the Farmers Elevator Co. and associates. The new structure will have a capacity of 15,000 bushels of grain.

At the weekly meeting of the directors of the Chamber of Commerce of Castro county, held Wednesday night, the proposition of a night school for the farmers of the county was endorsed. This school will be taught by T. V. Weaver, teacher of vocational agriculture in Dimmitt high school.

An effort is being made by local Odd Fellows to organize a lodge in this city, and with this in view, a meeting has been called for next Thursday, October 17, to be held at 7:30 p. m., at the court house.

C. G. Jackson, who lives in the Wise community, southeast of Dimmitt about twenty miles, won first prize on his breeders' young herd, first on producers' dam, and first on producers' male in the Duroc swine class at Lubbock. He also took second to fifth awards with his exhibits at the Tri-State Exposition.

Completion of the tax rolls for this year, which are payable before January 31, next year, have been completed by Percy Estes, county tax assessor, and show a healthy increase over those of previous years.

O. Z. Hartzog, of the Caprock Construction Co., arrived in Dimmitt Wednesday night and will meet with the city council at an early date for the purpose of getting the municipal endorsement of the system of sidewalks and crossings, as outlined in a recent issue of the News.

BAILEY COUNTY RANKS THIRD AT LUBBOCK FAIR

Ambling right along close up behind Lamb county, comes our sister county of Baily, which drew third place among South Plains counties at the Panhandle South Plains Fair at Lubbock last week. Bailey's exhibit was in charge of W. M. Pool, a progressive young citizen of Bailey county whose farm is located 12 miles west of Sudan.

Mr. Pool and his father are the owners and developers of the Purdy Seed Farm, an enterprise that has gained an enviable place in the confidence of the farmers of the South Plains.

In connection with their operations in producing pure seeds, the Pools are also deeply interested in high grade poultry, and have on their premises a fine flock of the best strain of Buff Orpingtons. This family is of a type that any community would be glad to welcome.

KIWANIS NOTES

Fire Prevention—Air Sign—Dairy Judging Team—Boy Scouts—Program and Luncheon.

This past week has been Fire Prevention Week over the entire United States. This is something that we should call to the attention of everyone. How many of us notice how we handle matches and burn our waste paper? How many of us let trash collect when it would be so easy to gather it together and burn it safely? Let's all think this over and let's keep a good fire record in Sudan.

And I have heard no more in regard to an air sign. Do we want Sudan on the air map as all modern towns are, or do we want Sudan listed as just a country town? If we are to be a modern town we must keep up with progress.

Our dairy judging team is now in St. Louis. How many of you remember that the Sudan team won the state championship in judging in the state of Texas, and are now in St. Louis as representatives of Texas and Sudan? Let's give the boys our support and let them know we are betting on them to win.

Why is it Sudan has no Boy Scouts? We had a good troupe organized a few years ago. This is something the Kiwanis Club can get behind, and we should do it. What better form of organization can we have for the boys than Boy Scouts? We can't forget this part of our duty.

Johnny Robertson tells me we are going to have something special this week for a program. So let's all be out. Believe me, our programs have been scrumptious lately. So don't forget! This week at 12:15 at the M. E. Church.

CONTROLLED VOLATILITY...

What have tank cars to do with motor cars? Just this. Every day, tank cars filled with Phillips 66 are shipped North, South, East and West. The volatility of the gasoline in each of these tank cars is scientifically controlled to fit the climatic conditions of the locality in which it is sold. The result? Instant starting, quick warm-up, rapid acceleration, remarkable power and mileage—regardless of weather—at no extra cost! For best results try a full tank of Phillips 66... or 66 Ethyl.

WHEN THE THERMOMETER GOES DOWN THE VOLATILITY GOES UP

Gasoline must vaporize before it can be fired in the cylinders of your motor. Volatility refers to the ability of gasoline to vaporize. With volatility controlled, Phillips 66 vaporizes as quickly in cold as in warm weather.

A GOOD-WILL MESSAGE

Will They Lay in Cold December as They Did in May?

The Answer is "Yes. With Proper Care and Common-Sense Feeding, the Winter Months Can Be Good Egg Months." Luck is a Less Important Factor Than Many Poultry Raisers Imagine.

The famous painter, Whistler, was once asked how he mixed his paints to get such unusual effects. With more truth than manners, he retorted curtly, "With brains, sir, with brains!" The same ingredient might profitably be incorporated into the poultry feed of those who are frequently heard to complain bitterly because their hens "lie down on the job" instead of laying eggs in the nest when winter comes. Good luck has a habit of abiding with the man who studies the requirements of his flock, doing nothing without knowing definitely why he does so and what results to expect. First of all, he will learn the nature of different feeds and what they contribute to egg production or the upkeep of the fowl's own body. The flock should be approximately one-half well developed early hatched pullets, and the balance hens that have been closely culled and late molters.

A balanced ration is desirable at all times, but never more so than during the winter months. Then, natural forage foods, bugs, worms and green foods are no longer available, except in warm climates, so the lack must be made up in the mashes and scratch grains. The natural warmth of the sun is also seriously diminished and must be supplied by extra feedings of heat producing grains, especially corn. Mark this point well, that Nature must supply the necessary body warmth from within.

Green foods are very necessary because they supply those indispensable vitamins A and D. Part of the hen's vitamin A requirements may be supplied by feeding yellow corn in the scratch grains, but not enough. The necessary additional supply may be provided by means of sprouted oats, green food, or yellow carrots, if they are available, or from cod liver oil. I prefer the green stuff, however, as the hens find it much more appetizing than any substitutes I have ever tried.

Vitamin D is the mysterious agency which enables a hen to manufacture egg shell from the oyster shell provided for that purpose. This essential vitamin is stored in the bodies of hens when exposed to direct sunlight. They should be allowed to run out, therefore, whenever the weather will permit. Vitamin D is also found in green vegetable matter that has been exposed to direct sunlight, and in cod liver oil. Since the former is not always obtainable in sufficient quantities, it may be advisable to include from 1-2 to 1 per cent of cod liver oil in the winter ration.

During the summer, the grain ration may be reduced. As winter comes on, however, the proportion of grain should be gradually increased. Grains are the fat and heat producing foods, so it is natural that they should predominate during the winter. The mash which contains the protein elements such as meat scraps for making egg yolks should remain constant throughout the year.

A good winter ration is as follows, or buy ready mixed commercial scratch and mash feeds:

Scratch Feed
Yellow corn labeled or cracked100 lbs.
Oats, wheat, kaffir or milo 50 lbs.
Mash

Bran100 lbs.
Shorts100 lbs.
Yellow cornmeal100 lbs.
Heavy ground oats100 lbs.
Meat scraps100 lbs.
Salt 5 lbs.

The above ration should be supplemented by plenty of green food such as sprouted oats, green pasture, cabbage, mangel wurzel, grit, oyster shell, and clean fresh water. If green food is not available, mix 40 pounds of a good grade of alfalfa leaf meal with the above mash.

If you want a home mixed mash, be careful and buy ingredients of the very best quality only, and see that they are thoroughly mixed. If you cannot do this, you had better buy a good commercial mash and use the grains grown on the farm, or buy commercial scratch grain. Commercial ready mixed feeds are made by expert millmen and although they may cost more, they usually pay.

Milk, either sweet or sour, or fresh buttermilk is one of the best poultry foods. It will greatly aid winter production. It should be put in clean earthenware vessels set upon platforms, and protected so the fowls cannot get into it with their feet. Let them drink all of it they will if you have it. If you feed plenty of milk you may have to reduce the amount of protein in the mash, as bowel trouble is likely to occur.

Water is, of course, as necessary in winter as at any other time. It must never be forgotten that eggs are 65 per cent water and that unless hens have a plentiful supply of good, clean water at all times, they cannot be good layers. Extra precautions should be taken during freezing weather to keep the drinking fountains free from ice. Either give the fowls warm water at frequent intervals, or arrange to heat the water in some way.

Plenty of exercise is especially necessary for winter egg production. If hens cannot roam the range as they do in summer, their scratch food should be given in a way that will make them exercise to get it. Feed grains rather lightly in the morning so the fowls will be quite hungry in the evening. Then scatter their grain in good clean deep litter and they will have to exercise to get it. This method of feeding will also compel the hens to eat more mash which they do not like nearly so well as the grain. In this way they are not only induced to take sufficient exercise, but are also persuaded to partake of a more evenly balanced diet. Incidentally, hens should never be permitted to go to roost hungry. See that their crops are always well filled at night. Proper housing, culling, sanitation, protection from parasites and, above all, proper feeding, are necessary elements in successful winter egg production.

Natural Heat Some Day
 Chemists are predicting that the interior of the earth will be harnessed and converted to our homes for heating.

Thought for Today
 The benefits we receive must be rendered again line for line, deed for deed, cent for cent to somebody. Be ware of too much good staying in your hand.—Emerson.

Outs and Ins
 There's this difference: An outlaw frankly robs you of money; an in-law promises to pay it back.—Santa Barbara Daily News

Believes Stars Liquid
 Prof. J. H. Jeans, an eminent astronomer, advances the theory that the stars may be largely liquid.—Gas Logic.

Success Through Failure
 Failure to appreciate his own limitations has enabled many a man to succeed in life.

Nugget of Wisdom
 Who bravely dares must sometimes risk a fall.

Undiscriminating Law
 The law of gravity is about the only one that plays no favorites.—Newark Ledger.

At Three Boundary Lines
 Mount Ararat is in eastern Turkey, approximately at the point where the boundaries of Russia and Persia meet that of Turkey.

Humanity Steamed Up
 The invention of the steam engine is believed to have affected human life more than any other.

Then Hear Him!
 The power of speech differentiates the man from the brute—except when he quarrels with his wife.—Boston Transcript.

Sign of City Growth
 A city's growth is also measured by the number of churches that find themselves downtown.—Boston Herald

Cat's Rival
 He fired four times, each shot striking the prowler, and killing him.—Detroit Paper.

Wise Words
 He who is plentifully provided for within needs but little from without.

Reopened Envelope
 To reopen a sealed envelope, lay a wet cloth or paper over the flap and press with a warm iron.

Uncle Eben
 "We economize," said Uncle Eben "by savin' our pennies for de sake of havin' several dollars to throw away."
 —Washington Star

Sense of Humor
 "Shirts that laugh at the laundry," are advertised by a certain firm. One of ours, bought elsewhere, has such a keen sense of humor that it arrived home the other day with its sides split.

How Stormizing Pays for Itself

Stormizing differs from most motor repairs for it causes a direct saving in amount of fuel and oil required to operate the car. Stormized motors will show a saving of 15 to 50 per cent in gasoline and oil over worn motors.
