

Would Like Light on Marketing Turkeys

"HOW CAN IT WAS?"

It is to wonder: How can it be, when Lubbock wholesale poultry houses are offering only from 13 to 17 cents for turkeys...

How could it be that, just as soon as Cox began receiving turkeys in this pool, one large Lubbock concern immediately placed a sign across the street...

And another thing. We do not believe the small poultry buyer, at the cream station or independent produce house is responsible...

In one instance, occurring in Lubbock last Monday, one of these smaller buyers, when he heard of the sudden rise in price because of the activity up Shallowater way...

"Yes," he stated, "the higher price was paid for my turkeys, but they had lost a pound in weight between my place and there."

Can you wonder at the surprising number of problems confronting the farmer, when such things as this are told—The South Plains Farmer.

Just their little graft, brother. The practice is quite common. Shallowater is not by any means the only community to suffer from the "big" fellows' depredations...

The incident merely serves to shed some additional light on the motives of the organizations of "middlemen" now banding together all over the land to fight the Hoover Farm Board...

Slowly, the farmers are waking up—but oh! so slowly. Still, they are waking up. Numbers of communities are pooling their products in various lines...

LONG STAPLE COTTON CAN BE GROWN HERE

W. C. Bryan, whose farm is six miles south of Levelland, has this year demonstrated that cotton of longer staple can be successfully grown here...

This cotton has been ginned in lots at the Rosamond gin and it is said that the staple measures one and one-quarter inches...

LO, THE POOR INDIAN, IS INCOME TAX VICTIM, TOO

CHICAGO, Dec. 13.—Lo, the poor Indian, isn't as poor as may have been feared. Kenneth M. Chapman of the Rockefeller School of Research at Santa Fe, N. M., says many Indians in the once poverty stricken desert district are making incomes of $3,000 and more a year.

Chapman, speaking before the Indian trading post here, said the Indians in many cases have become independent through revival of the ancient Indian arts of basket and pottery making.

ECHOES FROM SCHOOL PLATEAU

The Office. New pupils are still coming in almost daily. Six new ones on Tuesday of this week make the maximum limit for any one day of the past few weeks.

School will be suspended for Christmas holidays at the end of the seventh period Friday of this week, December 29, opening again for work Monday, December 30. There will be no holiday observed by dismissal of school on January 1.

Messrs. Wilkins, Duckworth, Duckworth, Harvey, Terrell and West made an observation excursion over to Ralls last Saturday. They report some splendid agricultural work being done by E. E. Young and his vocational agriculture boys in that school.

It may be worthy of note in this issue to state, beginning September, 1930, every school in Texas will be required by statutory commandment to teach regular lessons in physical training. There is a growing sentiment that athletics for the strongest of the school is not all that is required.

With the prevalence of smallpox in nearly every portion of the country about us, the need of vaccination is daily growing. It is extremely probable that those children being kept out of school in preference to vaccination will remain out all year, or at least for several months when the vaccination would not keep them out more than two or three days at the maximum limit.

The faculty and pupils of this department want to thank those friends who helped us in our library drive last week. What we were able to raise, ourselves, added to your contributions has made us financially able to furnish our building with a degree of suitable library.

We were sorry to report Mrs. Mrs. McKelvey, teacher of low second, ill one day this week. She is back on the job again now, however, and apparently no worse off for her experience.

Miss Evelyn Taylor spent the past week-end in her home in Clovis, and we understand that she is going to Dallas to spend her Christmas holidays. Mr. Gee spent the week-end in Lubbock.

Many of our group of pupils had their pictures made last week by Mr. Chisholm of Littlefield. These pictures are back now and we are receiving them.

Our new indoor baseballs bought for us by the superintendent in and we can assure you use them. Mr. Herron and our other teachers are helping us get into line for this work, so that we may know how to be the best team in the county next spring.

It is causing some of us to wonder about our long wait before we come to an understanding of what kind of memorial we shall get for ourselves to set up in school, and when we expect to start it. Let us not wait until the close of school and then put here something we can never have opportunity to use. Now is the time to get busy on this work.

Several of our class have been out one or more days for vaccination. Our play had to be postponed because of this. We were sorry to delay our program, but with some of the characters out and others with arms still sore it seemed best.

Mr. Talbott and the seniors met in the office of the superintendent last Sunday afternoon to have class pictures made but decided that they were too expensive, and called off all sittings.

We expect to have our class party Thursday night of this week in the home of Mr. and Mrs. L. T. Hunt. Their daughter, Mildred, who is a member of our class will play hostess to the entire class. Miss Kirk, our sponsor, will direct our amusement for the evening. We are looking forward to seeing Santa Claus visit us on this occasion, because our class has been so good.

Sophomore News. Vaccination is about the only exciting feature of our work the past week. Some of our girls of the home economics club helped to entertain the F. F. T. boys last week-end at the high school building.

The Fort Worth Star-Telegram, editorially, takes the position that the present low price of cotton is due to the low figure at which the Federal Farm Board fixed its loan. The article contains food for thought, and we reproduce it for what it may be worth:

Industry Sound, Schwab Declares

CHICAGO, Ill., Dec. 12.—Chas. M. Schwab tapped on the chest of American industry and pronounced it sound.

Mr. Schwab declared steel's three biggest customers—the automobile, railroad and building industries—seemed to justify a healthy outlook.

"Industry generally, the machinery of production," he said, "is better equipped and more intelligently managed than at any time in the past."

"Owing to long continued good railroad service and the ability of manufacturers to get their needs promptly filled and their products promptly distributed, there are no disturbing stocks of goods or raw materials, and management in the meanwhile has become increasingly better able to adjust production to current demands."

Production of steel this year Mr. Schwab said, will probably exceed the 1928 production by 10 per cent.

Farmers' Loan Is Favored by Senate

Bill by Senator Cutting of New Mexico Would Reimburse Fruit Growers of Rio Grande Valley.

WASHINGTON.—The senate has adopted a joint resolution to authorize an appropriation of $400,000 to be loaned farmers and fruit growers of the Rio Grande Valley whose lands were flooded several months ago.

The resolution was sponsored by Senator Cutting, New Mexico, who said 8,000 persons had lost their homes in the floods in August and September and had "nothing to carry on with."

The proposal would authorize the Secretary of Agriculture to make the loans subject to such regulations as he may prescribe.

PRISON COM. RECOMMENDS CENTRAL PLANT NEAR AUSTIN

AUSTIN, Dec. 13.—The prison centralization commission late today adopted a majority report recommending location of a new, modern prison plant within 20 miles of Austin on a tract of 1,000 acres.

There were five dissenters to the majority recommendation, all legislators, as follows: Senator Nat Patton of Crockett and Representatives E. T. Murphy of Livingston, A. H. King of Trockmorton, C. K. Stevenson of Junction and Harry N. Graves of Georgetown.

Patton and Graves favor rehabilitation of the walls at Huntsville and Murphy and King want the central plant placed on the Imperial farm near Houston. Stevenson said he would keep an open mind in the matter.

Statistics are offered to show that in only one of twenty-seven states checked up has there been a decline in deaths from alcohol. To be effective, the declining should be done by individuals rather than by states.—Arkansas Gazette.

Has Farm Board Set Price of Cotton?

The Fort Worth Star-Telegram, editorially, takes the position that the present low price of cotton is due to the low figure at which the Federal Farm Board fixed its loan.

State Agricultural Commissioner Terrell, whose comments on the cotton situation usually reflect sound commonsense as well as championship of the interests of the growers, points out what is at once all the weakness and the strength of the Federal Farm Board's system of aid for cotton producers.

"It seems that the new Federal Farm Board has not advanced the price of cotton or helped the farmer in any manner," he says.

"The offer of the board to advance enough funds on cotton with other advances did not help the situation but brought the price down to the price advanced."

"The Federal Farm Board, when it announced a loan value of slightly better than 16 cents a pound for cotton, in effect fixed that amount as a 'fair price' for the market should react to the action. The cash market price has followed this figure ever since with a slight spread for futures."

"The board should fix a price, for it already has done so to all intents and purposes. The sole question now is whether the price fixed by the board is a fair one. All growers and most statisticians and economists will agree that it is not high enough. It is perfectly true, as Mr. Terrell points out, that the crop for the past three years has fallen below consumption each year. This means but one thing—that the stock of cotton held as a reserve and built up from the surplus production of preceding years is being depleted. It is necessary for the textile trade to have a reserve supply. Up to a certain point, this reserve does not operate to lower prices for the current crop. In past years the carryover has been so large that it added to the reserve far more than was needed to keep it above the danger point. This naturally sent prices down, especially as the acreage, reported from year to year by statisticians and indicated in the prospectus of short crop in the immediate future. But the carryover, instead of growing, has diminished during the last three years. Consumption is steadily increasing, and there is no indication of an immediate increase in production. The situation is a perfect one from a 'bull' viewpoint. The price of cotton ought to be going up. Mr. Terrell intimates that the price now would be higher were it not for the Farm Board's 16-plus loan figure."

Some years ago the Star-Telegram engaged in a survey of cotton production costs in an effort to determine the price at which a profit began for the areas, the figures ranging from upward of 30 cents to below 20 cents a pound. The costs were lowest in the Plains area of Texas, where some growers were producing cotton at a cost of about 14 cents. In West Texas generally the figure was below 20 cents, while in the older cotton areas, especially those east of the Mississippi, the cost in no case fell below that figure. Costs have not greatly changed since that time, except perhaps to give a lower figure for West Texas through the development of mechanical harvesting, cutting labor costs. It thus appears that only in West Texas can cotton be grown profitably at the Farm Board's fixed price.

Mr. Terrell's charge against "gamblers" in cotton futures markets somewhat with his intimation that the Farm Board has not done its duty. As a matter of fact, the cotton grower is actually selling in a market controlled by a fixed price, and that price fixed by the government. That is what the Farm Board's loan figure amounts to. Any figure the board might have set would have worked the same way. If it had set 10 cents as the maximum of advances on cotton, the market would have done its best to get down to that figure, and if 20 cents had been the figure set the price would have ranged around 20 cents. The board has the responsibility of the cotton price, and it can hardly avoid it. If cotton is intrinsically worth now 20 cents or more, as it certainly appears to be, the Farm Board has failed in its duty and its opportunity to get that price for the growers.

Ask Decision on Homestead Law in Paving Cases

AUSTIN, Texas, Dec. 11.—A case considered of importance to Texas municipalities has reached the Supreme Court and a motion to advance and for the court to hold it for personal decision has been filed. Attorneys seeking the advancement say to the court the question has not been argued to any appellate court in this state.

The issue is whether a city can foreclose a lien on homestead property to effect the payment of a paving assessment. The case is styled City of Wichita Falls for the use and benefit of L. E. Whitman & Co., vs. L. M. Williams et al. The motion asks that the court take the submission of the case either in December or January.

The Whitman company owned a paving certificate against the homestead property of Mr. Williams and when foreclosure suits was about to be made Mr. Williams enjoined it.

The Fort Worth Appellate Court held with him, following the old decision in Higgins vs. Bordages, that homestead property was exempt from such foreclosure and lien. Counsel for the city and the paving company contend the case was overruled by Section 2 of Article 8, State Constitution, as adopted in 1907.

When the latter provision of the Constitution as well as other provisions and cases were called to the attention of the Fort Worth Appellate Court, it certified four questions to the Supreme Court: First, is a special assessment for street improvements, levied under and an exercise of the taxing power; second, is a special assessment for street improvements a tax; third, is a special assessment for street improvements included within the word "taxation" as used in Section 2, Article 8, of the Constitution; and fourth, is a special assessment for street improvements included within the word "taxes" in the excepting clause "except the taxes due thereon" in Section 50 of Article 16 of the Constitution.

The Supreme Court will decide the present day powers of Texas municipalities to enforce liens against homestead property for paving in front of such property. The courts have been holding against it and a new presentation now being made in an effort to obtain a reversal.

HE LIVES AT HOME.

R. R. Marsh lives at Patonia, Polk county, Texas. He lives in the house he was born in—sleeps in the very room where he first saw the light of day. And he has never lived anywhere else. That house was built in 1929. It is still a good house. On his farm is an older good house that was built in 1848. They took time in those days and built for permanence.

Mr. Marsh lives on the farm. But don't weep for him. Save your sympathy for farmers that complain. He says in a letter to the Semi-Weekly Farm News, "Never bought any feed for my stock in my life; never went to my corn crib; but what I found corn in it; never bought a pound of bacon or a sack of meal for home use. And Mrs. Marsh, he adds, never cooked with any lard except that from hogs grown on the place."

Mr. Marsh has five boys and is proud of them. He is still partner with his wife, contented with his lot and square with the world. He keeps up with events—has been reading the Semi-Weekly Farm News for forty years—and knows what is going on. But he doesn't stress farm relief in his letter. He doesn't even mention it. Mr. Marsh doesn't need anybody to help him live at home, except the people who help to make up the home. There seems to be a suggestion for thought in this case of R. R. Marsh, Patonia, Polk county.

Wife Murderer Hangs Self in Cell

Clay Lester Found Dead in Cell at Lubbock. Used His Belt to Hang Himself.

LUBBOCK, Dec. 13.—Clay Lester, 35, convicted of murdering his estranged wife here Oct. 24, and sentenced to serve 99 years in the penitentiary, killed himself in his cell this afternoon at 1 o'clock, using his belt to choke himself to death.

He was convicted last Tuesday night in the Ninety-ninth District Court here on a charge of murder in connection with the fatal shooting of his estranged wife, Vergie, seven of the jury voting for a death sentence on the first ballot.

Testimony at the trial showed that his wife in the head two hours after she had filed charges of aggravated assault against him. Witnesses to the shooting testified Lester not only shot his wife but that he straddled her body and beat her in the head while she lay dying.

He was found by officers in his cell hanging limp from a plumb line with his belt around his neck. He had been forced to bend his knees to hold his feet off the floor in order that the weight of his body might make the belt tight. Had he have changed his mind after he started the choking he could have easily stood erect and loosened the belt.

Those who found Lester's body in the cell believed he had been dead about an hour.

Dallas Anticipates President Hoover

Frames Building Program of $35,000,000 in Advance of Presidential Move.

Harry Benge Crozier, writing in the Dallas News, says: Uninfluenced by a call to hammer and trowels by the President, a building program that will witness the expenditure of more than $35,000,000 is under way in Dallas and Dallas county.

The influence of President Hoover and the confidence inspired by his conferences with optimistic leaders in commerce and industry is yet to be felt and waivered. Building it induces must be added to the total of $35,000,000 that already has been authorized by responsible agencies.

The call that went out from Washington and the conferences that have been held there primarily have encouraged public works by states, municipalities and other political subdivisions and industrial expansion. Beyond the work now committed and outlined, the greatest avenue of hope for an increased building program in the environs of Dallas naturally lies in the field of private industries and in building for commercial uses along with increased housing facilities. That condition is true because the call has come at an hour when a heavy public building program is being carried out.

Farm Board Approves Cotton Co-op. Agency

MEMPHIS, Tenn., Dec. 11.—Approval for establishment of the largest cooperative marketing organization in the world was received today by the Federal Farm Board from 159 representatives of cotton cooperatives and leaders of the cotton business.

The agency—strictly a marketing bureau—will be organized by the government, backed by the government, and its policies dictated by the government's farm board.

Alexander Legge, chairman of the board, said the American Cotton Growers' Exchange will be reorganized and incorporated by the government for $30,000,000 which is $10,000,000 more than was granted for organization of a grain marketing agency.

Stock in the association will be sold to cotton growers and the law will restrict sale of the stock to farmers only. There are more than 2,000,000 cotton growers in America and the board hopes to organize and enlist all in the agency.

On Monday of this week, at a meeting of the City Commission, a franchise was granted the Southern Union Gas Company to lay mains throughout the city.

At the time this franchise was granted, a bond in the sum of $2,500 was posted by the company guaranteeing that their lines will be in Sudan by July 1, 1930.

This company, we understand, also has posted bond in Littlefield in the sum of $10,000, guaranteeing their lines will be in that city by July 1.

It looks now that Sudan and Littlefield will be successful in this deal, and our citizens are additionally optimistic as to the future of Sudan.

Blanton to Enter 1930 Race For Congress

Will Seek Seat Vacated in 1928 in Order to Make Race for the Senate. Opposed by R. Q. Lee.

ABILENE.—Thomas L. Blanton, former congressman from this district who voluntarily vacated his seat last year to run for the United States Senate, announced that he will seek to regain his seat in congress next year.

In announcing his candidacy, Blanton said: "I cannot turn down former constituents who call on me, particularly ex-service men who are in distress and need urgent help."

Blanton will be opposed by R. Q. Lee of Cisco, incumbent, who already has announced his candidacy. Blanton was first elected to congress in 1917 from the old sixth district, which has been made smaller by the creation of the seventeenth district in which he now resides.

THE CHRISTMAS SPIRIT IS STRONG IN SUDAN

Sudan business men and the citizens generally are alive to the significance of the Christmas holidays. One and all, they realize that Christmas means more than the mere giving of gifts and eating of a "big turkey dinner"—that it means a season of good cheer when mankind should shake the dull cares of life and rejoice in the return of this the greatest of anniversaries—the birth of Him who blesses mankind.

So, Sudan has entered wholeheartedly into the Christmas celebration. Business houses and homes are beautifully decorated, and good cheer and gladness are apparent on every hand. Our business men are even decorating the street intersections with Christmas trees, beautifully adorned and lighted up with vari-colored lights at night.

And this is as it should be—"lest we forget."

LADIES OF THE CHURCH OF CHRIST BIBLE STUDY

We had our regular Bible lesson which was a continued study on the Restoration of the Jews.

Then a very happy hour was spent in exchanging little Christmas remembrances, and finding who our Good Samaritans were.

There was also a nice box packed for the Orphan's Home. We regret very much that some of our members were unable to be with us at this meeting, but were led indeed to have with us two out-of-town members, Mrs. B. C. Trvon of Lubbock and Mrs. R. C. Trvon of Muleshoe.

We will not have another meeting until after the holidays. The class will meet with Mrs. Foster Tuesday, Jan. 3.

WAGE STABILIZATION BILL IS INTRODUCED

WASHINGTON, Dec. 13.—A resolution to aid industry and labor by "stabilizing wages" at the present time was introduced today by Representative Sabath, Illinois.

To carry out its purpose the measure would provide that no commodity be sent into interstate commerce "if such article or commodity has been manufactured, produced, mined or constructed under a wage scale which is less than that paid for the manufacture of such article or commodity during the year 1929."

"BOOST OR MOVE."

DIVERSIFIED FARMING IN LAMB COUNTY.

Elsewhere in this issue of The News is an excerpt from an article by Victor H. Shoffelmayer, agricultural editor of the Dallas News, dealing with the rapid settlement of the Plains counties. Many thousands of acres of this territory are reported as being settled in the past few months, and of this territory Lamb county furnishes a large share. Note also that much of this land is taken from the large stock ranches of the county where general farming has heretofore been almost nil. Some was in the wheat belt and will be devoted to this grain, but the larger portion has been devoted to diversified farming.

It is a fact that few other sections of the Plains country have made as rapid progress in diversified agriculture as has Lamb county. This was strikingly apparent at the South Plains Fair at Lubbock this fall, where Lamb county took second award on her county exhibit. This exhibit, gathered and arranged by County Agent D. A. Adam, was convincing evidence of the versatility and fertility of Lamb county farms. All the principal grains, legumes, fruits and vegetables were there, and in striking perfection.

While Lamb county is widely known as a cotton county, yet the majority of farmers have not been beguiled by the cotton one-crop appeal, but are, along with a plentiful cotton crop, also producing large acreages of all the feed crops and legumes adapted to the soils, and this has given impetus to live stock growing and dairying. High grade dairy cattle are fast appearing on the majority of the farms, and shipments of cream from every shipping point are growing steadily. Feeder cattle are increasing, as are hogs and sheep, and many of these are being fed out in the county.

But perhaps the most notable development has been with poultry. Flocks of hundreds of fine fowls are no uncommon sight on the farms of Lamb county, and poultry and egg shipments are steadily mounting.

All in all, Lamb county is fast assuming her rightful place as the land of promise for the farmer, and people from all points of the compass are finding this to be true, and new farms are being developed every season.

THE RAILROADS AND SAFETY.

(Part Worth Star-Telegram.)

The annual award of the Harriman medals to railroads showing the greatest progress in promoting safety once more calls attention to the splendid strides which are being made in this field. The awards for 1929, based on records of 1928, include one road which is wholly in Texas, the Texas-Mexican, which extends from Laredo to Corpus Christi, this road receiving the bronze medal. Other awards were, the gold medal to the Union Pacific, and the silver medal to the Duluth, Missaba and Northern.

These roads, of course, had outstandingly fine records for the year, but they gain distinction from the fact that there were many fine records besides theirs. An analysis of all Class I railroads made by the committee of award reveals that an encouraging improvement was made all along the line, and that a great many of the roads made really remarkable progress during the year. Thus of the 150 railroads competing in the three groups in which the awards were made, 121 were found to have operated during 1928 without a single passenger fatality, and this in spite of the fact that 140,634,000 passengers were carried and that more than 10,000,000,000 passenger miles were recorded. A shining example of what may be done in the safety field was provided by the Texas-Mexican Railway, which operated 399,000 locomotive miles and 1,240,000 passenger miles without a single reportable injury of any kind.

The railroads deserve a great deal of credit for their showing in 1928. They have attacked the accident problem boldly and vigorously, and have spared no pains to set an extremely high standard of safety. It is perfectly true that their efforts in this direction have been motivated to a large extent by self-interest, but it has been observed accurately that intelligent selfishness is the basis of the best public spirit. The reputation for safety pays excellent dividends to any road, so that the desire to eliminate accidents need not be considered purely philanthropic. But the railroads, nevertheless, must be thanked for demonstrating what safety progress may be made by a careful, organized, intelligent campaign of accident prevention.

If every industry and every individual labored as zealously in the cause of safety as do the railroads, the nation would be spared much misery and grief, as well as economic loss. It is unfortunate that the lesson which the railroads have learned so thoroughly and so well—that caution pays handsomely—has not been much more widely assimilated.

SPREADING CHRISTMAS CHEER.

Almost everybody sends and receives Christmas cards. It is as much of a habit as a custom, and having started in with a few cheery greetings in holly and red and green printing is not easy to check up or even slow down. This year probably many new names will be added to the list and it will never do any harm. Christmas greetings sent by mail are really appreciated by the majority of recipients. In many cases the pleasure is greater than had the senders bought and dispatched costly presents. Yes, the Christmas greeting card is deeply appreciated.

FARM NOTES

D. A. ADAM, County Agent

Terracing is on the boom in Lamb county, according to County Agent D. A. Adam, who is getting more requests for terracing work than he can possibly fill this year. There are approximately 2,000 farms in Lamb county, and if they all had to be terraced, allowing one farm per day, it would take more than five years to cover all of them. So in order to speed this work up, it will have to be done in groups, and training schools are to be held at which farmers will be trained in the use of the farm level and the principles of laying terraces on the farms throughout the county. During the month of January there will be held 12 terracing schools at which the following procedure will be followed: In the morning of each day, the farm level will be studied, each man will be taught how to set these up accurately; and in the afternoon, lines will be laid off and terraces built as they should be.

Following is the terracing school schedule for Lamb county:

- Monday, Jan. 6—C. D. Nelson 2 1-2 miles north of Anton.
- Tuesday, Jan. 7—C. A. Daniels North Sudan.
- Wednesday, Jan. 8—J. C. Morgan South Sudan.
- Thursday, Jan. 9—J. R. McGavock 8 miles east of Littlefield.
- Friday, Jan. 10—E. W. Palmer 6 miles south of Sudan.
- Monday, Jan. 13—J. C. Glover 3 miles east of Littlefield.
- Tuesday, Jan. 14—C. C. Preston, South Sudan.
- Wednesday, Jan. 15—B. J. McGee, 1 mile south of Amherst.
- Thursday, Jan. 16—Sadler Farm N. E. Littlefield.
- Friday, Jan. 17—J. E. Holland Fieldton.
- Wednesday, Jan. 22—A. E. Boyd West Fieldton.
- Monday, Jan. 27—Montgomery and Horton Farms, South Amherst.

Those of you who are interested in getting a terracing school on your farm after these dates have been filled, notify the county agent at once so that you can be put in line. Everyone interested in terracing is urged to attend one or more of these schools.

The Spring Lake 4-H club has been reorganized, with the assistance of the county agent, and the following officers elected: Bill Jackson, president; Leslie Hobgood, vice-president; Aubrey Morton, secretary. The first few months of the year hog feeding demonstrations are to be taken up.

During the week of January 4 J. M. Hill, supervisor for the United States Biological Survey will be in the county assisting the county agent in rat, ground squirrel and prairie dog control. Those interested, get in touch with the county agent.

2 Glasses Water, Not Too Cold, Help Constipation

One glass of water is not enough—take 2 glasses a half hour before breakfast. You get quicker and better results by adding a little simple glycerin, saline etc., (known as Adierika) to one glass.

Unlike other remedies, Adierika acts on BOTH upper and lower bowel and removes old poison, you never thought were in your system. Adierika stops GAS and sour stomach in 10 minutes! Relieves constipation in 2 hours.—H. G. Ramby, Druggist.

NEVER MIND THE EAR-MUFFS.

It was necessary for taxation purposes to decide which side of the Canadian and United States border a farm, which an old lady had just purchased, actually lay. Surveyors finally announced that the farm was just on the American side of the border. The old lady smiled with relief. "I'm so glad to know that," she said. "I've heard that winters in Canada are terribly severe."—Philadelphia Star.

SOMEBODY ALWAYS TAKING THE JOY OUT OF LIFE

The tax collector is at it again—taking all the joy out of life, not to mention the Christmas season, by sending out those horrid notices concerning our indebtedness to the government. For years we have contended that this is a most pernicious habit on the part of our officials. We are thoroughly in sympathy with the movement to make it possible to pay a part of our taxes in the summer in the hope that ultimately the date for that disagreeable duty may be officially set for July 1. It wouldn't have any ulterior effect upon our celebration of the Fourth of July at all and possibly the patriotic ardor inspired by that anniversary might make it easier. This thing of starting tax collecting operations at the same time that most everybody is just beginning to do their Christmas shopping, is extremely annoying and short sighted. It takes a week or two at least, to get over the restraining influence of those insistent missives and all the time the taxpayers are being urged on every side to "Do your Christmas shopping early." Why don't the merchants raise a holler about it and get it stopped? It would certainly be just as easy for the tax collectors to take in the money in July as in December, and how glorious it would be to go about your Christmas purchasing with that joyous abandon that takes no thought of such mundane things as taxes. Really, wouldn't it be much more sensible to place this tax-collecting business in juxtaposition to a holiday whose mainspring is patriotic fervor manifested with the greatest possible noise and oratory, rather than at a season when giving is the prevailing sentiment? By all means let's "pass a law" and eliminate this depressing affliction at the beginning of our ought-to-be-altogether season. If we can just get a part of our burden shifted to the summer time perhaps we will be able to get the whole business moved up, later, and maybe, ultimately, that would prove such a happy solution that we would be able to get rid of the collectors entirely!—South-west Plainsman.

HANDS OFF!

The Minneapolis Tribune, in the midst of its hereulean labors to convert the Republican party to the Midwest's view of what should be what in the war of farm tariff, finds time to take up the cudgels in defense of another important interest. It opposes the proposal of an Eastern reformer to discard Mother Goose and other child classics in favor of something more modern, realistic, and practical, teaching proper diet and the benefits of hygiene and exercise. Says the Tribune:
 "The Tribune, in a broad way, favors spinach for children. It leans strongly, too, toward carrots in the child's scheme of diet. And its stand on juvenile teeth-brushing would probably be considered quite unassailable by the health authorities. Still it views with something akin to dismay the activities of the Eastern reformer. We have always been secretly grateful that Lewis Carroll's Alice did not stumble on Spinachland. Life might have been more rational had she done so, but surely much less piquant."
 And the Tribune is perfectly right. One may be entitled to feel that Hans Christian Anderson possesses infinitely more charm as a weaver of childhood fancies because he did not suggest, as the Eastern crusader might have wished him to do, that it was a deficiency of vitamins that made the Ugly Duckling ugly. It may be conceded that the table eccentricities of Mr. and Mrs. Spratt were dietetically deplorable, but it would take a peculiar sort of mentality to believe that the account of a Spratt insistence on vegetable soup would have been half as fascinating. Nor will we concede that Jack the Giant Killer would have been half the hero he was had he stopped, without a carot of the fe-f-f-f-fums, to give his teeth a brushing.
 It would seem that the children are entitled to their little garden of verse and literature without forever being compelled to pick carrots from it. No one wants to believe, least of all the imaginative child, that Jack jumped over the candlestick simply in dutiful performance of setting-up exercises, nor that Diddle-Didde-

KIWANIS NOTES

Whoopee—Wow—Wham!
Such a crowd as we did have out! Now ain't you just a little ashamed of your attendance? Ain't you now, just a little bit? And on top of that, I still think we should hear more discussion in regard to sewer, paving, and just oodles and gobs of civic matters that need our attention NOW. Come on, all of you, and let's hear a little talk.

And something else: What about some new members? I see several eligible men floating around with no place to go on Tuesday.

And another thing: Have you forgotten there is a chance of sponsoring a new club? I ask you, have you?

Happy Jack says attendance should be better. We need sewer, paving, and lots of civic improvements; new members; a new club to sponsor, and LET'S GET HOT! All together, now, Tuesday at 12:15, at H.-B. building.

F. E. MILLER, Secretary.

I. O. O. F. LODGE

The members of the I. O. O. F. Lodge wish to call attention to the fact that the lodge is steadily growing. We have new work to do almost every meeting night, besides the good suppers we have enjoyed from time to time.

Two weeks ago we elected our new officers for another term. John M. Moore, who has been Noble Grand since the lodge was organized, was reelected to serve another term.

H. C. Holt was elected Secretary, and Mr. Bryan of Fairview was elected Vice Grand. In a short time we are going to have one of the best lodges in the West.

A MEMBER.

COOPER GROCERY CHANGES HANDS

Mr. C. L. Lowry of Wellington has purchased the Cooper Grocery and will move his family here. Messrs. James O. and Everett Roark are in charge of the store. In another column of this paper they tell the people of Sudan Territory of some attractive bargain prices on staple groceries for the holidays.

Another day we never thought we'd live to see, but have, is the recent days when all the bare-back riding is done in automobiles.—Leesburg (Fla.) Commercial.

Poor old Jason must think himself a rank amateur at getting the golden fleece, if he witnessed the methods of Wall Street for the past few days.—Jackson County (Sylva, N. C.) Journal.

GREETINGS

We have purchased from Mr. J. C. Cooper the grocery business heretofore known as the J. C. Cooper Grocery. It will be our pleasure to become acquainted with the citizens of Sudan Community, and we will at all times offer you price inducements to do your trading with us. You are cordially invited to come in and look over our stock and see how we can save you money on your grocery bills.
