NUMBER 44

ECHOES FROM SCHOOL PLATEAU

This is the last report from the school for this year. Officially, the school should have been a closed issue for the year with this issue of The Sudan News, but a week of make-up work has been adjudged necessary to complete the school year. Next week will be given over after the first two days to final examinations and reports. The first two days of the week will be given to reviews. As pupils come to final examinations they will turn in their books and check their book cards. On Friday of next week reports will be given. Book cards will be given to all who deliver A. L. L. the state text books used this year. No promotions can be given to any one who has not paid up losses on text books, except those losses incurred in the burning of the building. All dues must be paid in to the school before any final report can be given out. Busses will run each day of next week in order to accommodate pupils for final examinations and for final reports.

Despite hardships, inconveniences, and distractions, school has met with a fair degree of success. The enrollment has been the largest in the history of the school. The senior class has been its largest. The number of graduates will be the largest in the school's history. The bus loads have been the largest. There have been fewer cases of tardiness and absence of bus drivers since the inauguration of a bus system. Regularity of bus system has made possible regularity of pupil attendance until at the close of the year a low cost per capita has been made possible in bus transportation. Still, a system that carries to school at public expense a total number of over 600 children will be costly in any event.

The senior class will finish its work this week. This is necessary in order to permit them to make ready for their graduation ceremonies. Their first public appearance as graduates will be next Sunday evening, May 18, at 8:30. At that hour the baccalaureate sermon will be delivered. The local ministers will have charge of this event. The sermon will be delivered in the auditorium of the public school. Graduated from high school, a group of young men and young women will make their first appearance in their gray caps and gowns, separating them from their fellow students who will come after them in future years.

On Friday, May 23, at 8:30, the school auditorium, Dean A. H. Wilcox of Montezuma College will deliver the commencement address. Dean Wilcox, for many years a public school superintendent, will bring from the mountains of the West a message of inspiration and education for our boys and girls. Be sure to attend these two public school functions at the auditorium at 8:30 on the respective evenings. These pupils will appear in such no more.

Neal Wilkins is valedictorian of her class, Irene Cooke is salutatorian. To these two young ladies go the highest honors that a senior class can confer on a member. There was less than half a point difference in the yearly averages of the two girls. Doyle Terrell ranks as first pupil among the boys in scholastic standing. To him and to Neal Wilkins go scholarships that will help to pay their initial expenses in any college of the Texas College Association. They may enter next September where they choose in those limitations and their scholarships will be recognized.

Last Thursday evening the senior class presented their final class play, Better Than Gold. This play was delivered in the auditorium, and that room was closely packed with those who came to enjoy themselves while they showed their belief in the boys and girls. Everyone went away singing praises of the actors in the play and their directors, F. B. Talbot, high school principal and sponsor of the class, had charge of the pupils in their study. Mrs. Wilkins coached the play, making her fourth play to be coached in the two years of her residence. Miss Evelyn Taylor of Clovis, teacher in the third grade of the Sudan schools system, directed the music of the play. Miss Taylor is serving her first year in the system, but it is a pleasure to her pupils to know that she has been elected and is expected to be back with the system next year.

It is with regret that reports should be made of absence from the school of three teachers this week. Mrs. R. F. Duckworth has been elected to Mexico in the illness of her grandfather. The old gentleman has been rather frail for some months, and was stricken with paralysis last Saturday. His recovery is not expected. Miss Reba Jinkins and Mrs. A. K. Boyd are out part of this week because of personal illness. We are confidently expecting the latter two teachers back any day, but Mrs. Duckworth can hardly return before the week-end.

The seniors have paid for the trophy case they are having placed in the new high school building. This case will be placed directly in front of the main entrance of the first floor, and will form a lasting memorial of the worth of the boys and girls who are placing it there, even though it may be broken up and used for themselves will ever accrue from the efforts to place it there. The sophomore class made its payment on an encyclopedia, though knowing that next year that set of books will go in the study hall of the freshman-sophomore group, and that most of them, at least, will be juniors. It is lessons in citizenship such as those displayed by these groups that make school life what it is today. The schools are no longer an individual matter for pupils. They must train, and are training boys and girls to be citizens, and to be fitted for social life.

Mr. Wilkins, together with the book committee, made choice of books to be furnished in this school for the next five years. These books are selections in Ancient History, Modern History, third and fourth years of English, and Plane and Solid Geometry. The new books will be ready for distribution next September.

The junior class did not present their class play at any other place last week, due to disagreeable weather over week-end.

The bus loads have been regular in attendance for the past week. Only one day did the total load run under 400. Monday of this week when engine trouble made the bus of Joe Essary late, several of his pupils did not appear on the road, dropping his attendance from about 50 to 37, and the total attendance for the day to 392. The heaviest load this week was May 6, when a total of 428 was reached.

Among the visitors who have given pleasure in the office during the past week was former County Superintendent H. L. Gantz. Mr. Gantz began his teaching career under the direction of Mr. Wilkins 26 years ago in Comanche county. Since that time all his educational work of the public schools has been in that county, he having completed his public school service for the present by giving eight years to the office of county superintendent. He is now field editor of Texas Farm and Ranch. While in Sudan he made a number of acquaintances who can help him to formulate correct ideas of the West Plains and its possibilities. Another very pleasant visit was paid by a former student of Mr. Wilkins. This man was T. A. Haggard, now a member of the architectural firm of Glenn and Company of Cleci and Abilene. He also began his public career under the direction of Mr. Wilkins. It was a little amusing to pupils to see how these mature men, men of affairs in our state, would come in and meet our superintendent, a man who had directed their energies a quarter of a century ago. Yet neither of these men is over two years younger than the man they came to see.

With the opening of the September term, and through the kindness of the editor of The Sudan News, this column will probably be begun again, but it will be conducted differently than from what it has been since January 24. It will be placed back on the plane it occupied for the first four months of the present year. With over 600 pupils and 21 teachers crowded into 14 rooms and a small auditorium, regular, organized effort is exceedingly difficult. At that time portions of the columns will be assigned again to different groups and divisions and these will be responsible for the direction of the paper.

Herbert C. Martin For County Attorney

TO THE CITIZENS OF LAMB COUNTY:

I am announcing for the office of County Attorney because I believe I have the native intelligence, ability, legal training and experience to efficiently and satisfactorily handle the duties of this important office; because I have chosen Lamb county as my future home, expect to remain here permanently, and have a desire to be of service to my fellow citizens.

I am a graduate of Lubbock High School. I have had three years pre-law training in the University of Texas and am a graduate of the University of Texas Law School. As a student working my way through the University, and as a young lawyer entering the practice of law in your county, I have always tried to pay for what I have received with honest service and would continue this policy as your County Attorney.

With the exception of my years in school, I have lived on the Plains fifteen years. After graduating from the University of Texas, I moved to Lamb county with my wife and young son, and I have been engaged in the practice of law in this county since that time. As I am making this race on a young lawyer's finances and may not have the privilege of seeing each citizen of this county before the twenty-sixth day of July, I ask those who know me and believe that I am the man for the place to tell their friends and neighbors about me.

Very truly yours,
HERBERT C. MARTIN.

SISTER OF SHERIFF IRVIN DIES AT CROSS PLAINS

Sheriff and Mrs. Len Irvin were called to Cross Plains because of the death of the former's sister, Mrs. Bula Gage, who passed away at that place Saturday night. The funeral was held at the Cross Plains cemetery Sunday afternoon.

Do the Agricultural Colleges Play Fair With Stockmen and Poultrymen?

The two articles running in parallel columns here- are taken from the American Poultry Journal. They constitute a thorough summing up of a controversy which has engaged the attention of poultrymen the nation over, and are right to the point on an issue that is squarely up to the people in every state in the union.

One vital question before our people is: Are the agricultural colleges and experiment stations intended to aid agriculture, or shall they remain, as heretofore, in direct competition with agriculture? These institutions are supposed to be supported by appropriations from public funds, and the results of their labors are supposed to be free to the people. But is this the case? No. When one of these institutions sells, for instance a blooded animal or fowl that the institution has, through appropriation of public funds, produced, and this at prices competing or even equal to those of private producers, then these institutions are entering into direct competition with the people whom they are supposed to benefit by their labors and experiments.

Other states are not by themselves in having this problem to face. Texas institutions have been, and still are, following this practice. It is, as we state, a practice that should be condemned, and with the help of those directly interested in production, our institutions can be persuaded to abandon such a destructive practice.

COLLEGE WORK FOR POULTRY.

The influence of the poultry departments of our agricultural colleges, and in connection with them we include state experiment stations and extension service, reaches hundreds of thousands of our citizens every year. Nearly every state now has an organized department devoted to poultry instruction and research. Such being the case, our colleges may justly be considered to be one of the most important factors in a program for improvement in this widely popular branch of the nation's livestock industry.

The functions of the college in poultry work cover three major divisions, (a) Instruction, (b) Research and (c) Extension. Instruction, as a matter of course, is the phase of the college work which ranks first. Courses from four full years down to poultry short courses of a few weeks are to be found in a majority of our state institutions of learning. Beyond a shadow of doubt these courses, generally speaking, are valuable and helpful to the students—students who will be numbered among tomorrow's poultrymen.

These courses can and will be improved steadily, based on practical results, confirmed by research. Poultry culture from the scientific point of view is comparatively new. Today the unanswered questions far outnumber those for which correct answers have been agreed upon.

The new poultry culture now at hand, having maximum productivity of quality products as its chief objective, is turning up constantly many helpful, illuminating facts which each year are added to our fund of poultry knowledge. These facts come from all branches of the industry—from breeders, equipment manufacturers, feed manufacturers, college and government experimental farms and other sources. The poultry press and numerous books and bulletins carry these facts, these discoveries to all who are interested in them. By incorporating the bulk of this knowledge in their courses the colleges are able to render a lasting and highly valuable service to the poultry industry. Poultry research work, expertly conducted by our colleges and associate experiment stations, can be of immense importance. It is quite true, to quote Professor Halpin of Wisconsin, that "there still are thousands of things we want to know." This is almost an exhaustless field for real scientists. In setting about to learn these things the work should be so organized and coordinated as to avoid excessive waste of time, talent and money in duplication of efforts. Fortunately here of late a group has been appointed to allocate this work in accordance with the best results. This group has in hand a highly important task.

In organizing the constructive work to be done about scientific breeding, let us avail ourselves of all present knowledge. For instance, it is unnecessary for our colleges to carry on for years expensive experiments in poultry standardization merely to confirm what prominent poultry breeders have already learned about scientific breeding, proved for half a century by splendid and sustained results. Rather let our colleges, as a public service, perform the many experiments that our breeders would like to try but dare not undertake because in most cases they have a living to make from poultry for themselves and their families. In this way our present knowledge and achievements can be supplemented for the benefit of all, and without loss of time.

In the field of nutrition as another example, we now have about as many "wise guesses" in the form of well-balanced rations as there are college poultry departments to recommend them—recommendations based on totally insufficient evidence and devoid of demonstrated results. Rather than to be misled by such guess-work instruction, poultrymen would better take advantage of the research work of our leading reputable manufacturers of feeds concerns with unlimited capital for investigation whose business success depends mainly on repeat orders from satisfied customers.

For real progress the work of our state and government experiment stations in behalf of poultry culture should be confined to fundamental research, properly scientific in character—the kind of investigation and demonstration work that poultrymen and poultrywomen who are engaged in poultry breeding or poultry keeping as a business enterprise, do not have the facilities for undertaking and cannot afford to investigate and determine in scientific manner.

A long list of such problems could be made up. No one else in the picture is so well situated as are poultry husbandmen to render this important duty to mankind. Their profession already is an honorable one. Let them be resolved to add further to its high standing, doing so by worthy achievement as teachers and scientists.

J. E. (Bert) Dryden Announces For County Attorney

I have been reluctant in making my announcement for the office of County Attorney for the reason that from a financial standpoint I did not think it would justify me to do so, however, there has been so many of my friends and former supporters from every section of the county, who have made special trips to see me and insisting that I shall make the race for this office, as the solicitations have been general and from most every section of the county, and from no small number of voters who have pledged me their support and influence, I have decided to submit my candidacy to the people for this important office.

Those living in Lamb county four years ago will remember that I was a candidate for this office at that time and was defeated by only a very small majority by my opponent who is now asking the voters for a "third term. It is a democratic custom to reward one who has been elected with a second term, provided he has served the people well, and bearing this in mind, I would not make the race against my opponent or his second term; there is also a democratic custom, and in some states is a law that no one shall hold office for three successive terms. I was fair with my opponent two years ago by not making the race against him for his second term and I have no doubt but what the voters will take this into consideration and be just and fair with me at this time.

To those whom it has not been my privilege to meet I will say just a word as to my qualifications: I have been in the active practice of law for the past fourteen years, the last five years of which has been in this county, and prior thereto, and for nine years I practiced in Fort Worth. I invite your inquiry as to my character and reputation from any one living in Sudan where I now live and have resided for the past five years.

There is a small remuneration in connection with this office, which is not negligible however, but the prime remuneration is the honor in receiving this office from the citizen ship of this county and having the opportunity of rendering a public service in the discharge of the duties of this office in justice to all alike. If elected to this office I shall at all times be mindful that this is my office and that I am only an employee to serve you therein, and promise that I will discharge the duties without fear or favor to any person or persons, but in justice to all I shall at all times solicit the cooperation of the good citizens in order to accomplish the purpose for which this office was created.

I shall endeavor to make a complete canvass of the county and hope to meet each and every voter before election day, however if there should be those whom I fail to see, I earnestly solicit your vote and influence and shall appreciate very much if my friends shall speak to their neighbors in behalf of my candidacy.

Yours very truly,
J. E. DRYDEN.

IT'S THE LITTLE THINGS THAT COUNT

Dr. Foote says that an embryonic electrician, a midget mechanic, a fine farmer, and a fair farmerette constitute four new comers to Sudan and vicinity, arriving just a little late for the official census closed last week. It's the little things like these that are causing the additional rooms to be built on the new school building now being erected. Their respective abodes and dates of citizenship are as follows:

To Mr. and Mrs. H. P. Estes, the electrician, a boy on May 8th.
To Mr. and Mrs. Homer Doty, the mechanic, a boy on the 11th.
To Mr. and Mrs. J. F. Crowder, 15 miles northwest, a farmer on 11th.
To Mr. and Mrs. H. L. Pickett, 5 miles northwest, the farmerette, a girl on the 10th.

"BOOST OR MOVE"

YOU CAN'T TELL

Observers of the jury system are united in agreeing that you can't tell about juries. They may and they may not. White will be black and black will be white. On innumerable occasions the attorneys, the defendants, the plaintiffs, the crowds in the courtrooms have been flabbergasted by the findings that juries have returned. A jury of men in New York did not run true to form, and found guilty of attempted extortion a clever and greedy young woman who preyed for a time upon a middle-aged millionaire. Instead of being further enriched she stands in the shadow of the penitentiary. It is encouraging to hear of such an uncommon verdict.

PASS THE WATERMELON.

And now comes along the department of agriculture and declares that the watermelon is chock full of vitamin A. That alone would have saved it. Any fruit that comes with a vitamin can get by with the dieticians. Even its best friends never gave it credit as a source of much nourishment. "Mostly sugar and water," they said. But, hold. The watermelon has vitamin B, C and G. What a fruit! A fruit with a host of friends, too. Please pass the watermelon.

ANOTHER EXTRA.

If there are to be 13 months in the new calendar, a Sudan man says he hopes they stick in the extra one during the fishing season.

THE TOLL OF THE ROAD.

A world war is on to make it safe for life on the highways. The casualty list for 1928 in the United States was 27,500 killed and almost a million injured. Statistics for 1929 are not yet available. This is too great a casualty list for careless driving. This offenses call for drastic action.

Some one suggests that the only way to drive is with the idea constantly in mind that the other fellow may be an idiot. Failure to yield the right of way is furnishing many unexpected faces in heaven.

LIVE LONGER.

Life expectancy is now 58 years. The figure 50 years ago was 43. So it will seem that if children mind their mother and husbands hold tight to the apronstrings of their wives, that longevity may increase. In the middle ages the average duration of human life was only 25 years. But America is a wonderful country and after awhile most everybody may live a century or two—if they don't go too fast.

The new planet recently discovered is four billion miles from the sun. It is proposed to call it Plute. The sunlight there is said to be about moonlight. It is too cold for any form of life.

A California dispatch says the Imperial Valley has sent out 8,697 freight cars of lettuce thus far this year. Most of it, as usual, will be left on the plate.

THE PUBLICITY HOUND.

(Sparta, Tenn., News.) Behold him who aspires to have his name in bold-face type across the front page of all weekly newspapers. Look at him as he stands innocently before an editor's desk and pleads in mournful tones for columns of free advertising and publicity. Is he not all that can be asked of any man? To hear him speak you would believe that he would strike off his right arm in order that you might prosper, that is while he begs upon bended knees for a half page of propaganda.

His purpose accomplished, and having received his free publicity from the local newspaper, he decides he is in need of advertising. Does he go to his local newspaper? He does not; their rates are too high. Why, that is robbery to spend $10 for an advertisement that goes into 2,099 homes. Instead he secures 500 printed, fancy-colored letters, from a small mail order house, costing him $3.00 and buys a number of stamped envelopes from Uncle Sam, and fools himself that he has saved himself a couple of screaming eagles. He has economized on that amount, but if he would have only spent two additional dollars he would have reached six times that number. That's economy for those who never stop to think. We are called robbers, while Uncle Sam and the mail order houses are gentlemen. The same man prices your work, writes 12 letters, spending 24 cents for postage, and losing about four hours time to obtain prices elsewhere on a commercial printing order of $5.00.

If he gets a price of $4.50, he then sends his money to Chicago or some other city to help pave that place's streets, build their schools, and afford their population with modern conveniences. Some more wise economy: after he pays 29 cents for postage, and finds an error in his work, which if committed by the local printer would be refused. Yet, newspapers are robbers. How about the space crafters?

I could scarcely go about my work and I seemed to have no energy for anything.

I finally decided to give Konjola a trial and the benefit which I received from this medicine is almost unbelievable. Konjola built up my health until I am in better condition than I have been in years. My kidneys are normal and I can sleep without interruption. My entire

A STRANGE LETTER

Mrs. J. H. Teel, living two miles south of Sudan, has handed the editor the following article which she states she has had in her possession for the past 22 years. The article seems to have been taken from the Stone County (Ark.) Record. The News editor doesn't recall ever having seen it in print, in many strange articles of a like nature have a habit of turning up and making the rounds of the press. Some may say they are all hokey, some may believe their assertions, while some may regard them as possible but not probable. However, The News gives the resurrected article for just what it may be worth and each reader can take it and judge it as he or she will.

Dear Editor:

I am to publish this letter, as the letter reads this way: "That misfortune and bad luck would follow the person having possession of it, in the event that it was not given publicly." There was likewise a promise that whoever may have a copy of this in his or her possession will prosper and be followed by good fortune.

According to the history of the letter, it was written by Christ just after His crucifixion, signed by the angel Gabriel, ninety-nine years after the Savior's birth, and presumably deposited by him under a stone at the foot of the cross. On this stone appeared the legend: "Blessed is he who shall turn me over." No one knew what the inscription meant, or seemed to have sufficient curiosity to investigate, until the stone was turned over by a little child and the letter which follows was discovered:

"Whoever works on the Sabbath day shall be cursed. I command you to go to church and keep holy the Lord's day without any manner of work.

"You shall not idle yourself in superfluities of costly apparel and vain dressing, for I have ordered it a day of rest. I will have that day kept holy, that your sins may be forgiven you.

"You will not break my commandments, but observe and keep them. They have been written by my hand and spoken from my mouth. You shall not only go to church yourselves, but also your man servant and maid servant shall observe my word and learn my commandments. You shall finish your work every Saturday at 5 o'clock in the afternoon, at which hour the Sabbath begins.

"I advise you to fast five days in the year, beginning on Good Friday, and continuing the five days following, in remembrance of the five bloody wounds I received for you and for mankind.

"You shall love one another and cause them that are not baptized to come to church and receive the holy sacrament, that is to say baptism, and then the supper of the Lord, and be made a member thereof, and in so doing I will give you long life and blessings. Your land will be replenished and bring forth abundance, and I will comfort you in the greatest temptation and surely he that doeth to the contrary shall be cursed. I will also send hardness of the heart upon them. And especially he that hath given to the poor shall find it profitable. Remember to keep the Sabbath day, for the seventh day I have taken as a resting day unto myself.

"And he that hath a copy of this letter written by my own hand and spoken by my own mouth, and keepeth it without publishing it to others, shall not prosper, but he that publisheth it to others shall be blessed by me; and if their sins be as many as stars by night and if they truly believe not this writing and my commandments, my plague will be upon you, and you will be consumed with your children, goods and cattle, and all other worldly enjoyments that I have given you. Do but once think of what I have suffered for you and it will be well for you in this world and the world which is to come.

"Whoever shall keep a copy of this letter and keep it in the house, nothing shall hurt them, neither pestilence, thunder or lightning, and if any woman be in birth and put her trust in me, she shall be delivered of her child.

"You shall hear no more news of me except through the holy Scriptures until the day of judgment. All goodness and prosperity shall be in the house where a copy of this letter shall be found. Finished. The end."

So this is a copy of the letter I have in my house. Asking the editor of the Stone County Record to publish it.

Husband and Wife Both Notice Big Change in Health

Wichita Falls Woman Gains in Strength and Husband Now Feels Fine Since Taking Orgatone. Think It is a Great Medicine.

"We think Orgatone is a great medicine, for it has helped us both, and saved us years of suffering," said Mrs. A. B. Humphrey, wife of a refinery worker living on Rural Route 1, Wichita Falls, Texas.

"For about ten years I have suffered from kidney trouble, and always felt tired and worn out, and didn't have any pep and energy. My husband suffered from a severe case of stomach and digestive troubles. We had to be very careful of what he ate, for the least thing would cause bilious and dizzy spells, and gas would form on his stomach until he would suffer for hours. His appetite was poor and he was restless at night and didn't get the proper amount of sleep.

"Orgatone was recommended to us by a friend, and we both began taking it. We began to feel better right from the start. My kidney trouble has disappeared and I'm feeling simply fine. My husband hasn't been bothered with indigestion since. He eats anything he wants now, and doesn't have those gas and bilious spells. We both have received great benefits, and I am glad to give this statement so that others may be benefited." Genuine Orgatone may be bought in Sudan at the H. G. Ramby Drug Store.

One way of cutting down the wheat acreage might be to teach the farmers golf.

Nearly Killed by Gas —Druggist Saves Her

"Gas on my stomach was so bad it nearly killed me. My druggist told me about Adlerika. The gas is gone now and I feel fine."—Mrs. A. Adamek.

Simple glycerin, buckthorn, saline, etc., as mixed in Adlerika, helps GAS on stomach in 10 minutes! Most remedies act on lower bowel only, but Adlerika acts on BOTH upper and lower bowel, removing poisonous waste you never knew was there. Relieves constipation in 2 hours. It will surprise you!—H. G. Ramby, Druggist.

BLUE BONNET CLUB.

The Blue Bonnet Club met on the evening of the 7th at the home of Mrs. Chas. M. Crawford. After the business session conducted by our president, Mrs. Meyers, there was an interesting lesson. Mrs. Chas. Crawford explained how dress forms were made, and their uses. Mrs. Edgar Logan's subject was on the importance of being well dressed. Then there was a demonstration of very practical and economical necessities of the household. This was very interesting and you members who were absent missed one of our best meetings. There were two new members, these being Mrs. G. A. Benefield and Mrs. C. H. Matthews, and two visitors. We are always glad to get new members and visitors and their club work is beneficial to all women. It is not merely a social meeting. The next meeting will be two weeks from date with Mrs. Ford, the subject being on children's clothes. Reporter.
