The Good Old Days

HOW OFTEN DO YOU HEAR SOME ONE PINING
FOR THE GOOD OLD DAYS?

But, do you really think you would like to return to the kerosene lamp, the coal stove, the old back-breaking ways of doing your house work, and the many scores of other old-time methods that modern electrical equipment has made so easy?

Household worries fade away when electricity is put to work. Sweeping, cleaning, laundering, cooking, and scores of other tasks are done easier with electric equipment.

The modern home is finding new uses for electricity each day. The modern home manager has proven to her entire satisfaction that electricity is the most effective service in her employ—and the cheapest.

LAMB COUNTY HENS MAKE $1.50 PROFIT IN FIVE MONTHS

Mr. and Mrs. L.L. Massengill of Littlefield have a flock of 86 S. C. White Leghorn hens that have made a profit of $1.50 per hen during the past five months.

Here is how it happened. Each woman doing home demonstration work is to have some productive project as gardening, poultry, or dairy work. Mrs. Massengill decided to take the poultry and keep a record of the flock according to the method suggested by Mr. E. N. Holmgren, Extension Poultry Husbandman of A. and M. College.

Mrs. Massengill started her poultry work in December with 101 hens. In January the flock was culled and State Accredited, leaving 88 hens in the flock. These hens have had a comfortable house, plenty of warm drinking water through the winter months, and a balanced ration. Their feed consisted of egg laying mash, grain of bigerita, fetarita, and yellow corn, and oyster shells. In order for the hens to get the necessary green feed ground alfalfa was fed until wheat could be grown for them.

To appreciate this gain one should know that there are more than 50,000 hens in demonstration flocks in Texas. County farm agents and home demonstration agents who are supervising this work send records to College Station each month. The averages when compiled for the state are returned to the agents in order that the county flocks may be compared with other flocks throughout the state. The records on the above 50,000 hens show that they have made a profit of $5.2 cents above their feed cost for the past five months. Mrs. Massengill has made $1.50 profit on her hens above feed cost.

Through the early hatching season eggs from the Massengill flock were sold at a local hatchery, since then the eggs are being sold at market price.

The figures from the Massengill flock also show that it costs more per dozen eggs to produce fertile eggs of a high per cent hatchability and of livability of chicks than it does to produce infertile eggs, but the difference in price of the eggs more than repay one for the small extra feed cost.

LIVING ROOM IMPROVEMENT

CLASS 1.

Mrs. J. E. Holland.

I had a fairly nice living room, but felt there was still room for improvement. I entered the living room contest for this purpose and by the help of our Home Demonstration Agent, Miss Ruby Mashburn, and a little studying I have greatly improved my living room.

First, I waxed the floors, which was quite a task. I tried several methods of applying the wax and at last found the best method was by rubbing it on and polishing it with a piece of newspaper around a brick as you would polish your shoes. Then I rearranged the furniture to better the room. I added two pieces, an old bookcase, and a stand table on which I placed the portable victrola, which was moved from the library table. I moved these from another room and refinished them with wax.

I moved two rugs from the bedroom. By this arrangement I had provided a music center, a writing center, and a conversation center.

I got some old curtains that had been discarded, washed and ironed them, with which I made draperies for the double French doors. I replaced my old thin and stringy draperies with new ones made from pretty cretonne. This cost me $4.50.

I added floor pillows, rearranged the books in the ends of the library table, and I painted the flower box and washed the dirty spots from the walls, removed the stacks of music from the piano. This all added great comfort to the living room.

Mrs. M. M. White.

I had already planned to improve my living room before I became a member of a demonstration club, so when I heard of the Living Room Contest I decided to put into practice the things that I had learned at the club meetings. I was not very enthusiastic at first however, because I felt that I was very ignorant on living room requirements. If it had not been for the faithful encouragement and enthusiasm of our demonstrator the task would never have been completed.

I planned to defray all expenses out of my own money which was obtained by selling eggs by contract to the hatchery. I had scarcely begun my plans when five of my registered cockerels contracted chicken pox and died. Then I had one hundred and twenty-five hens took chicken pox, so I thought I would quit. I almost had chicken pox myself, and oh, how I lay awake and prayed for those hens to lay, and they did, but I had to sell inferior eggs at market price from then on. I also sold some of my chickens, which helped some.

My living room was very small—entirely too small for a family of seven. The only furniture in the living room was a radio cabinet and a library table. The heater occupied the center of the room. The wood work was already stained and a small congolem rug was on the floor.

A small bed room joined this room on the west. This room was papered with blue building paper. The furniture consisted of a bed and dresser. Since the front entrance led through this room we decided that it should be a part of the living room. My husband removed the partition between these two rooms making a nice long room 9 feet by 17 feet. The room now had two small windows and three doors.

I selected wall paper with a cream colored background and a tan mangled figure and for the ceiling I selected paper of a cream background with silver splashes. Instead of using a border for this paper I used plain molding and painted it to match the background of the paper. I selected this color of paper so that it would reflect the light from the windows and make the room look larger and more cheerful. The canvas, paper, and molding were all put on by myself, my family and club members.

I had only two pieces of furniture that were suitable for a living room. These were, a radio cabinet and a library table. The other furniture was removed from the room. I moved the radio nearer the end of the room and used it for a music center. The library table was old and scarred and it had to be refinished. I got a recipe from the demonstrator to remove the varnish and it worked beautifully if she did give me the wrong one. I sanded it down and put on two coats of mahogany varnish. This table had ample space for books and writing material, but no place for magazines. Therefore, I bought a small magazine basket and painted it the color of the library table. These pieces of furniture were to be in my reading center so I placed them next to the inner wall in the largest space where the light came in to the best advantage.

I ordered a living room suite because I could get a more practical set and it was not so expensive as those at town, and, too, it fitted in with my color scheme. This set was finished in mahogany with brown imitation leather upholstery, and consisted of a davenport, rocker, and chair. The chair I placed at the end of the library table near the magazine basket to complete my reading center. The davenport was placed in the large space between the windows, with the rocker near by to complete the rest center.

Twin carbide lights were placed in the center of the room and hung from the center of the ceiling. The heater and small rug were moved out. The woodwork was restained with burnt umber and mahogany stain.

I purchased buff window shades and they proved to be very light in color, so I selected heavy draperies to help exclude some of the light. The material for the draperies is Indian head linen of rose color with unbleached domestic for lining. These I made straight and let extend to the floor. In the center I placed cream marquette that came to the bottom of the window sash. The draperies make my windows look larger and let in just the correct amount of light.

I covered my floor with a congolem rug which has a soft brown background with soft lines of tan and blue, and bouquets of rose colored flowers stenciled in black. These colors harmonize with my paper and drapery, furniture and wood work.

I decorated my walls with three hand-painted pictures. I placed one over the reading center, one over the davenport, and the other one in a blank space in the east end of the room. I also put two pillows on my davenport.

Millions Being Benefitted By It

Remarkable Gain of Weight and Better Complexion Is Striking Example of Wichita Woman's Case.

Millions of people have taken Orgatone and hardly a day passes that does not bring forth hundreds of grateful statements from all parts of the United States and Canada, each and every one telling of the remarkable merits of Orgatone. Among the vast number of interesting statements recently received is that of Mrs. H. D. Fritz, who is now residing at house number eight, in the Cameron Garden District, Wichita Falls, Texas, who in a conversation with one of the representatives, in Allison's drug store, recently, said:

"I have suffered on and off for ten years, with indigestion and stomach trouble. I had an awful time with my stomach for nearly everything I ate, gave me indigestion, my nerves were all torn to pieces and I was shaky and irritable. I was so weak and worn out, I really wasn't able to do my work. I was also bothered with rheumatism and never found anything that would bring it out of me. I got to where I didn't have any appetite, and ate very little. My complexion looked sallow and I really didn't look like myself."

"I saw so much in the papers about Orgatone, I decided to try it and have taken about three bottles. I honestly feel so much better and stronger than I did that I underestimate what work I can do, and am over-doing it. I have gained several pounds in weight, and every one is telling me how good I look. My complexion looks fine now, and I never felt better in my life. I'm not bothered with my stomach and my rheumatism has all left me, which is a blessing, for I suffered something terrible with it. I sleep fine every night, and eat anything I want. I am telling my friends about Orgatone and several of them are getting good results as I am. I am glad to see a good word for Orgatone."

Genuine Orgatone may be bought in Sudan at the H. G. Ramby Drug Store.
