SUDAN, LAMB COUNTY, TEXAS, THURSDAY, JULY 7, 1932

NUMBER 52

L. A. WOODS, CANDIDATE FOR STATE SUPERINTENDENT OF SCHOOLS

Mr. Woods, Waco, Texas is well educated; he has taught through the rural schools and the best high schools in Texas; he knows the needs of the schools throughout the State, and pledges, if elected to save thousands of dollars in the Department of Education and at the same time give an efficient school system. Vote for L. A. Woods for State Superintendent of schools.

HOLIDAY TOLL UPWARD OOF 80

(By The Associated Press) Accidents reported over the Independence Day week-end took a toll of upward of 80 lives throughout the United States. Swimming accidents accounted for 43 fatalities, while automobile accidents resulted in around 38 deaths. The largest number of deaths from explosives reported from any one point was Butte, Mont., where six young persons were killed in an explosion of dynamite caps.

MUCH WHEAT DESTROYED BY HAIL

Damage estimated at several thousand dollars was done to property and growing crops here over the week-end, when a series of hails struck the farming section of the entire trade territory.

Most of the damage appeared to have been done in a strip beginning north of this city and running diagonally across the county to the southeast. The strip narrowed down as it approached the southern edge of the territory, but even there, it was some six miles wide. The hail beat down growing crops and did some damage to livestock and to small buildings.—Farwell State Line Tribune.

CREDIT DUE TO DEPRESSION

A Kansas editor gives the depression credit for developing his sense of touch to a very high degree of perfection and efficiency. This editor says that the seat of his pants has become so thin that he can sit on a dime and tell which side is up, heads or tails, and if the depression lasts much longer, he will be able to tell the date on the dime. The question which will naturally arise in the minds of the readers of the above is how did the editor get the dime in the first place?—Lawrence News.

FUNDAMENTALS

An age of disillusionment may be a hard time to live through, but it can also be extremely healthful.

Right now we are on in the third year of one of the sharpest eye-openers any people ever had to face. It isn't a bit of fun and the end is not in sight; but the important thing is to nourish the skepticism and disillusionment which the depression has given us, and to see to it that we don't lay them away when good times return.

For it is becoming obvious every day that the high old times which ended with the market crash of 1920 were, above all, an era of bunk. We kidded ourselves and we permitted our leaders to kid us. If there is any single reason why we decended into the pit that was dugged for us, it is that we were all so very willing to believe a lot of things that weren't so.

All of this, somehow, is brought to mind by a graduation address made at an eastern university the other day by a prominent American statesman.

This statesman told his audience that they must cultivate the qualities of "self-reliance, common sense, industry, energy, perseverance, honesty, sobriety and education," since the nation's leaders invariably owe their rise to their possession of such traits.

Now all of that is very fine, and the least that we can say is that it ought to be true; but if you will think a minute you will see that a lot of men rose very high indeed during the boom years without developing any of those qualities very great.

A politician could rise notably without either self-reliance or common sense. A "financial wizard" could amass a fortune without industry, perseverance, honesty, sobriety or much of an education; and it seems, in fact, that energy was about the one trait that was necessary in those days.

It is vital that we recognize this fact. We let ourselves get away from the need of those fundamental virtues, and we are paying for it now—paying for it through the nose. If we would avoid a repetition of the present depression, we must tie up to them more firmly than ever before.

RETIRED MINISTER TAKES HIS OWN LIFE

Funeral services for A. J. Brown, 43, a temporarily retired Methodist Episcopal minister, who shot and killed himself at his residence garage here Thursday morning, will be conducted at Seymour, his former home, at 3 o'clock Friday afternoon. The body will be carried overland to Seymour by the Rex Funeral home.

Brooding over his financial burden, made heavier by the knowledge that his wife and four daughters were to lose the home in which they lived with him, evidently led Brown to resort to self-destruction, friends and investigators said. A note left by Brown, a graduate of Southwestern University at Georgetown, corroborated that belief. Justice of the Peace W. S. Clark returned a verdict of suicide.

CHURCH OF CHRIST REVIVAL

Evangelist W. M. Speck of Ada, Okla., will begin a meeting at the Sudan Church of Christ, July 9th, continuing until the 14th.

Brother Speck conducted a meeting for us last summer. He is a good Bible instructor if you like to hear the Bible preached in the spirit and love of Christ, you will enjoy his lessons.

W. A. Buford, who has led the singing for the past two summer meetings will lead the singing.

Everyone is invited to attend these services.

WHEN WE COME TO THINK ABOUT IT

GOT HIS BREEDS MIXED

The best story that has been told about the city of Hereford for a considerable time is related by Parker McCullough of the Gulf Service Station. It seems a tourist got the names of cattle somewhat mixed, and stopped in the middle of the street to yell toward the station and inquire, "Say, is this Shorthorn?" It took Parker a while to get straight what was the trouble, and then he was so amused he was hardly able to talk. When told the correct name of the town, the tourist blandly remarked, "Oh, yes, that's right—Hereford—that's what I meant." Hereford Brand.

MRS. SHARROCK MOVES BEAUTY SHOP

Mrs. G. D. Sharrock has moved the Grace Beauty Shop from the former location to the Higginbotham-Bartlet building formerly occupied by Dr. C. C. Starling.

Mrs. Sharrock has added some new equipment, and has had the interior of the building redecorated; the color scheme is now green, ivory and black, which makes the shop very attractive.

She will be glad to have her friends and customers visit her in her new location. Turn to her ad on another page and notice that she is offering some very reasonable prices on permanents, shampoos and finger waves.

CANNING IS AT HIGH TIDE

With gardens hitting a high stride beneath blazing June and July suns, one of the county's heaviest canning seasons is well underway.

Beans offer the most bountiful canning menu just now, but peas, greens and other early vegetables, along with some fruit that pulled through frost and sand, are also much in evidence.

Reports from all parts of the county indicate that gardens have seldom, if ever, been more luxurious. Most of them have been cultivated with the aid of practically no irrigation, since winter and spring rains have come slowly and often. July gardens are expected to furnish enough food for the summer and winter use of practically every family that has spent the necessary hours in cultivation and care.

COACHES ATTENDING SECOND TECH SCHOOL

More than three hundred athletic coaches from all parts of the United States, among them some of the most successful college and university coaches of the country, are now packing getting ready to start for Lubbock for the second Texas Tech coaching school to be held here July 11 to 22.

Football, basketball and track will be fully treated during the two week's school and a supplemental program of recreation and entertainment has been worked out.

Tuition for the school is only $25 and the leading hotels of Lubbock have quoted special rates of $30 for board and room for the two weeks.—Garret Reeves, Publicity Mgr., Lubbock Chamber of Commerce.

WHEN THE PAPER DOESN'T COME

My father says The News ain't put up just right.

He finds a lot of fault, he does, perusin' it all night.

He says there ain't a thing in it worth while.

And that it doesn't pay a kind of stuff the people need.

He tosses it aside and says it's strictly on the bum—

But you ought to hear him holler when the paper doesn't come.

He reads about the weddin' and sports like all get out;

He reads the social doin's with a most derisive shout.

He says they make the paper for the women folks alone.

He'll read about the parties and he'll fume and fret and groan;

He says of information it doesn't have a crumb—

But you ought to hear him holler when the paper doesn't come.

He's always first to grab it, and he reads it plumb clean through.

He doesn't miss an item or a want ad—this is true.

He says they don't know what we want, the dumb newspaper guys.

I'm going to take a day some time and go and put them wise;

Sometimes it seems as though they must be blind and deaf and dumb;

But you ought to hear him holler when the paper doesn't come.

Jasper—There are 1000 acres of velvet beans up to a stand better than ever before in Jasper county as a result of the work of the Jasper county seed club which specialized last season in the saving and exchange of home grown velvet bean seed, according to the report of S. W. Monroe, farm agent. The custom of permitting livestock to graze the crop down in the fall and buying new seed for planting purposes the following spring was practically broken up. Farmers who did not save their own seed were mostly able to exchange something they had for velvet bean seed with their neighbors. All merchants of the county who handled velvet bean seed, except one, purchased them from local farmers. The crop will be used in balancing dairy and livestock rations this fall.

REPORT OF THE CON-OCO TRAVEL BUREAU

Denver, Colo., June—Business may not be all that it should be, and there are no doubt a few who are still hoarding their money "in the old sock", but such conditions do not alter the fact that hundreds of thousands of American citizens are daily tuning up the old bus—or a new, shiny one—for a long vacation trek to the mountains, lake resort or sea shore.

That is the report of the Conoco Travel Bureau maintained in Denver for the purpose of extending free service to motor travelers throughout North America. Nearly 110,000 vacation trips have been planned by this organization so far this year, and that number is expected to increase considerably before the close of the summer vacation season.

Incidentally, the Conoco Travel Bureau, which is maintained by the Continental Oil Company, has already set a record for trip services, according to E. S. Karstedt, vice president.

"This fact might be attributed both to the growing popularity of this free travel service and to an improvement in general business conditions to the point where Mr. and Mrs. Average Citizen have been convinced that they can afford an annual vacation trip," said Mr. Karstedt.

"The service extended by the Conoco Travel Bureau is of wide general value, aside from the direct benefit to the motorist," Mr. Karstedt pointed out, "in that it encourages motorists to stop and shop throughout the country, and because a large staff of workers have been enlisted from the ranks of the unemployed to handle this service to travelers.

"At the headquarters of the Conoco Travel Bureau in Denver, a staff of 160 persons is maintained at this time, marking state road maps for individual vacation trips, and supplying innumerable pieces of literature devoted to scenic spots throughout the country. Of this staff, more than 100 persons have been employed during the past month, and the peak of the travel season will not be reached before July 20. This staff of workers does not include the thousands of Conoco employees who serve motorists at the more than 8,000 branches of the bureau throughout the country—wherever the Conoco red triangle is displayed.

Established in the spring of 1930, the Conoco Travel Bureau set about to provide a free travel service that would really be of aid to the motorist, not only in helping him to plan his vacation or business trip, by providing road maps and literature devoted to major scenic attractions, but also to aid him en route by supplying tourist camp and hotel information, checking parcels, and generally contributing to the convenience and comfort of his tour.

During the first year of the Conoco Travel Bureau's operation slightly more than 26,000 such trips were planned for motorists. With the view to constantly improving its service new features were added, and the service was advertised in newspapers throughout the country, with the result that more than 67,000 motorists called upon the bureau to plan motor variations during 1931.

Success of the 1931 season prompted the bureau to prepare to serve an even greater number of tourists this year. It was fortunate that plans were made in advance for the opening of the travel season saw an avalanche of requests for trip services that by June 10 had reached 73,000, and this number was increased to over 100,000 by June 20.

Anyone who travels by motor car is eligible to call upon the Conoco Travel Bureau for a free trip service, regardless of the distance traveled or the route to be covered. Trips actually planned by the bureau this year covered every state and province in North America, and ranged from 500 to 10,000 approximately 3,500 miles each, while the average is applying this average as a basis, and considering that about 110,000 trips have been planned, it is estimated that motor cars "traveling the Conoco way" will have covered 385,000,000 miles by the time these vacation trips come to an end.

The more butterfat a cow produces the less the cost of production per pound, concludes W. M. Wilterding, dairy demonstrator working with R. F. McFatrige, farm agent of Bailey County, keeping and analyzing records on his herd. Three of his cows made a profit for him in May, but the privilege of milking the other two cost him something, the accounting revealed. Figuring the feed cost, pasture was listed at 75 cents per head per month, soy bean hay at $9 per ton, and other feed at market value even where it was home grown. The best cow in the lot produced 43.5 pounds of butterfat at a cost of 6.29 cents a pound. The next best gave 36.9 pounds which cost 7.4 cents a pound to produce. The third gave 31 pounds costing 8.8 cents a lb. The two unprofitable ones gave 20 and 14 pounds respectively, the cost of which went up as the amount went down. The 20 pounds cost 14 cents to produce and the 14 pounds cost 19 cents each.

A use for old blue overalls and shirts has been found by home demonstration club women in Willacy county. Cut into narrow strips such material makes into desirable hooked rugs. Since long wear has softened the harsh color, good color blending is obtained without dyeing.

The Olympics

Competitions in the Olympic games between champion athletes of the leading nations of the world are thrilling because of the human factors involved—the urge to win for nations, state and town. There is a thrill of pride when a fellow countryman, or perhaps a native son from our state—or even a fellow townsman flashes across the line a winner in these classic games—It is youth parading its nearness to perfection in athletic form—It is the human glory in achievement—but it seldom is attained except through great struggle in long hours of discouraging work and practice.

As a matter of fact a sense of competition must enter into everything individuals or groups do, if they are to carry on to the point of achievement—With groups especially, it is in proportion that the individuals comprising the group, get into the spirit of competition, that the success of the effort is scored.

All of which brings us to the fact that the growth and development—the achievement of Sudan to make of itself an ideal community in which to live, depends entirely upon the approach each individual citizen makes to his responsibility in helping to make Sudan a winner.

There rightfully is and must be a sense of competition between towns in respective territories. There must be a struggle for the leadership. Call it town-pride or any other name—it must be there, the spirit to have our town a winner—a fine place to live and work, and enjoy life.

Can you imagine a situation where athletes of the United States would, as individuals, be rooting against their fellow-countrymen, in events in which they themselves were not competing? Neither can we—But in civic affairs, right here in Sudan this situation exists every time a citizen takes his money and goes to city shops for needed supplies or a-order houses which contribute not one penny to the development and building up of Sudan.

Every citizen in this town in fact carrying Sudan colors—and all of his fellow-townners are expecting him to do nothing less than his very best to help make Sudan a winner. If each citizen in his respective “event” will pull for his town with the same inspired enthusiasm that American athletes carry into the Olympic games at Los Angeles next month, we will one day have a town here of which to be extremely proud.

Trade at home; support home merchants; take active part in civic affairs; boost Sudan, and keep the wheels of business turning. Step into the spirit of the game,—of helping to make Sudan a better town.
