SUDAN MAY BE REPRESENTED AT WORLDS FAIR

Sudan has an opportunity through the West Texas Chamber of Commerce to have direct representation at A Century of Progress with literature, a miniature exhibit, and its name on a large relief map of West Texas—all at a very nominal cost. L. E. Slate, local WTCC director, has received from Spencer A. Wells, vice-president of the regional chamber, the details of the offer to the affiliated towns, and has urged to get Sudan's subscription to the plan at once.

The West Texas Chamber of Commerce has secured space in the Texas exhibit for a West Texas display provided a sufficient number of cities cooperate in the plan which calls for the regional chamber putting up half the cost of the exhibit and literature, affiliated towns putting up the other one-half. An immediate answer is necessary if the regional chamber is to proceed with its plan.

Wells points out that towns affiliated with the regional chamber are the only towns in Texas that will be given direct representation in the Texas exhibit, and that it is available at a ridiculously low price. He is urging directors to secure immediately the necessary funds either from the local chambers of commerce, or from direct solicitation and send them in so that the West Texas exhibit may be ready to go when the Texas exhibit opens on July 25. He must hear from all towns before July 20.

For forty dollars, an affiliated town will get a fourth page write-up in the one hundred fifty thousand West Texas booklets to be distributed at the fair, and will have its name prominently shown on the thirteen foot square relief map of West Texas which will form the main part of the West Texas display. For an additional sum, the towns may have individual folders distributed at the exhibit. For a hundred dollars additional the towns may have individual miniature exhibits on display. Towns may purchase more than quarter page spaces in the West Texas folder at proportionately higher rates. All subscribing towns will receive a supply of West Texas poster stamps for their local use.

The big relief map has been constructed by students in the streets of Indianapolis. Each car was run 450 miles with each of four brands of oil, the test lasting for four days, during which time each car covered 1,800 miles.

Oil consumption was carefully checked by contest officials of the A. A. A., and it was found that the new high-mileage oil was 28.5 per cent cheaper to use, the figure being an average based on the oil's performance in all the cars used in the test.

A community Ice Cream Social will be held at the Janes Methodist Church tomorrow (Friday) night. Cones or dishes of cream will be served as you like. The proceeds will be used to help take care of the various Sunday School Classes. All are invited to attend and spend a social hour.

The Boy's Intermediate Sunday School class of the Methodist church, with invited guests from the girl's class, were delightfully entertained at the home of their teacher, Harrold Clements, Wednesday evening. There were about fifteen present to enjoy the out-door and indoor games prepared by the host and hostess. Refreshments were served and the young folks state that this was the most enjoyable affair they have attended for sometime.

LAMB COUNTY DOUBLES QUOTA OF 32,000 ON COTTON CONTRACTS

According to the latest reduction Campaign conducted during the past two weeks, Lamb county has doubled her quota of 32,000 acres and will probably lead the state in the reduction of cotton.

Those in charge of the program were confident that by the closing time last night that Lamb would be 100 per cent signed up.

Secretary Wallace in a statement last night urged the south to speed up the signing of contract offers to reduce cotton acreage after reports were received by farm administrators of a sharp let-down in responses from growers following Saturday's announcement by them that the program is an "unqualified success."

Wallace said that unless greater acreage was offered the program still might fail. The campaign to obtain agreements was to have closed Wednesday night but an extension for the remainder of the week was expected. There has come to my attention today a report that certain agencies are advising the cotton producers in the south that the acreage reduction program will be declared effective regardless of whether additional acreage is offered," Wallace said.

"The statement I made Saturday that 5,566,169 acres have been offered for reduction specifically pointed out that the goal has not yet been reached and that a task remains to be done. I further stated Saturday that, assuming the total acreage ought to be reduced 25 per cent, we are a little better than half way to the goal on the basis of incomplete field reports.

"It is not a foregone conclusion that this program will be adopted. It has been repeatedly emphasized that unless a sufficient amount of acreage is offered to reduce substantially the production of this year's crop, the program will not be adopted.

ASPHALT TOP TO BE APPLIED TO PAVING

The business men and property owners along Main Street have gotten together and subscribed enough money to pay for an Asphalt top to be put on the three blocks of paving just being completed by means of RFC funds. When a good asphalt-chatt top is put on, Sudan will have as good paving as can be made, and this will be a great improvement over former street conditions.

The above is one of the finest cooperative moves which has taken place in Sudan and those at the head of the move should be congratulated for this good work.

Lipscomb of Amarillo, Texas will do the preaching. As he cannot get here until Monday, the pastor will deliver the first two discourses.

The Subject Sunday morning, "The Need of a Revival." Sunday night, "Thou Art Weighed in the Balances and Found Wanting." We are interested in the salvation of your unsaved loved ones or friends. 200 SCHOOLS WILL LOSE AFFILIATION.

Teachers Will Have to Hold College Degrees In Order to Get New Jobs of Teaching

Dr. A. W. Evans, head of the Tech department of education attended a meeting, held in Austin last week, of the state committee which controls all of the accrediting of Texas high schools. There were 1,000 schools represented by 13 members of the committee.

Member schools voted to suspend accredited high schools which did not teach 170 full school days last year. There will be 200 schools affected by this ruling. All schools that taught at least 150 days last year will be permitted to file plans for next year with the State Superintendent of Education and make satisfactory arrangements, if possible, to get back on the accredited list. High schools of 100 or less enrollment will not be permitted to teach over 18 affiliated units of work hereafter.

The minimum salaries to be allowed accredited high school teachers was cut from $100 to $90, elementary teachers from $80 to $75.

A new regulation was passed to the effect that one year from next September, all schools of the first class must employ only teachers possessing college degrees. High school teachers will be allowed to teach only subjects which they specialized in during their college career, either major or minor work.

As long as teachers remain in their present school systems, they will not be required to possess degrees but if they transfer to another school organization, this ruling will be enforced. State Superintendent L. A. Woods, states that he will enforce the regulation that all teachers in the school which receives state aid must have two years of college training or its equivalent before state aid will be extended these schools.

ADVANCES IN OIL REFINING RESULT IN HIGHER MILEAGE.

Because the average motorist is becoming more and more concerned with motor oil performance, the refining industry has recently been turning its attention to improved refining methods designed to meet the public's demand for better lubrication from the medium-priced lubricants.

For years the main problem confronting the industry was reduction of carbon deposits, and like matters, but today the important problem is how to provide better lubrication.

Very definite and satisfactory progress has been made along this line, as shown recently in mileage tests conducted at the Indianapolis Speedway under supervision of the Contest Committee of the American Automobile Association. These tests showed that a new high-mileage oil, produced by the Gulf Refining Company, gives 28.5 per cent more miles to the quart than any of the other three popular, medium-priced oils tested against it.

The cars used in the test were low and medium-priced autos picked at random from the streets of Indianapolis. Each car was run 450 miles with each of four brands of oil, the test lasting for four days, during which time each car covered 1,800 miles.

Oil consumption was carefully checked by contest officials of the A. A. A., and it was found that the new high-mileage oil was 28.5 per cent cheaper to use, the figure being an average based on the oil's performance in all the cars used in the test.

Fields of lava, "sputter cones" volcanic craters, strange caves and natural bridges have been discovered in southeastern Idaho.

THERE'S A LOT IN LIFE THAT WE MISS.

The small-town lad who thinks that life would be just fine if he could only get to the bright lights of Broadway ought to have a little talk with Captain Amander O. Hayes, who has just retired after spending a number of years in charge of the West 47th street police station in New York City.

In that job, Captain Hayes was more or less the overseer of Broadway. The bright lights section was his bailiwick, and everything that happened in the busiest and most famous play spot in America and was his business; and when he retired he remarked that "nothing much ever happened to me."

His job, in fact, had been rather dull, and all things considered Captain Hayes was rather glad to get out of its monotonous routine.

And right there, it would seem there is an ironic little commentary on the nature of romance and adventure.

"Nothing much ever happened to me" is the complaint of every restless lad who is tied down by a prosaic job which he would like to swap for a bit of real adventure. The lad who follows a plow or drives a bakery wagon or files invoices in a freight office or hammers a typewriter nine hours a day generally has the notion that romance is something he could get hold of very nicely if he could slip into the right kind of job.

But romance and adventure are, after all, the commonest things in the world. The only trouble is that most of us fail to recognize them when we see them. Captain Hayes, supervising Broadway's bright lights for year upon year, finds his job boring and monotonous; nothing ever happened to him, or to any other cop, he says, and he's glad to be out of it.

Adventure is a thing we all long for. Recognizing it when we find it seems to be something else again.

START DRIVING NAILS AND SPREADING PAINT.

In an editorial concerning the renovizing campaign that have found a welcome in a multitude of American communities. The Saturday Evening Post Says: "When a city or town makes a united effort to improve the local employment and business situation, it also builds up its own confidence. There is less uncertainty and apathy when everybody pitches in to stimulate work of such a useful kind. It is nothing but good local business. But the greatest benefit will come when it is adopted by practically all the cities and towns in the country. The slogan of the renovize movement is a simple one, but for that very reason it is capable of having a far reaching effect. The slogan is: "If a man drives a nail or paints he helps business. There is another good slogan, too, and that one is: "Employment and investment are cheaper than charity." One of the main purposes of renovizing campaigns is to provide the unemployed with productive work distinct from work which is not necessary, and is given more or less as charity. During the past three years millions of structures, warehouses hotels, business buildings and residences have been allowed to run down. Their owners have taken the attitude that economy comes first, that they would spend as little as possible until they could see what was coming. To permit them to go on longer without repairs is the most prodigal kind of luxury. True economy is to protect the investment that they represent by making improvements and repairing now—when they can be had at rock-bottom prices. —Manufacturer Magazine.

The good rains in the different parts of our trade territory ought to make the business men get on their toes". Another good rain and cooler weather coming will insure a good crop. Get the habit of trading in Sudan, it will save you money.

At a time like this when conditions are changing for the better and most prices are rising, it is very difficult to make some folks understand that the merchants have to raise the price of goods already bought and in store. These goods may have been bought far below the prevailing price but they must be sold at the present market price. If I sell an article for the equivalent or less than that same article would cost wholesale it means that just as soon as my stock is gone I am bankrupt. It takes about one thousand dollars per month to pay overhead expenses in order to run a business. There must be a margin of profit on all the goods sold to cover the overhead expense or that business is bankrupt. When the depression came the merchants had to reduce the price on all their goods and in many instances they lost thousands of dollars. It is only fair to them to expect them to raise the price on their goods as the wholesale price advances.

I understand that a contract on highway 7, will be let July 12th.; Sudan merchants should do all in their power to get these contractors to establish their headquarters in our city. Furnish them free office space, get the city to furnish water, provide ample storage rooms for their equipment make any inducement that is possible in order to get them here. It will not only help the merchants of the city to sell groceries, gas and oil, dry goods, hardware and etc. but it will be a means to get idle men something to do to help provide for their families. If you have a house you could furnish free of rent or at a low rate) you should see Mr. Reed Markham, the secretary of the Business Men's Club, at once.

Sudan can boast of the largest crowds for her city. Many cities with twice our population do not have the patronage that we have. There is a reason. Our merchants give more for the money. Mail orders are not going out of the city so frequently since the people have learned to investigate the prices our merchants offer.

HARBINGERS OF BUSINESS

The traveling man is more than just a part of a complex sales organization. He is a harbinger of busy times, an agent of good business; when he is on the road in force it is a safe bet that real prosperity is not far off.

It is interesting, therefore, to read the remarks made at Houston, recently by L. B. Carlon, national director of the Travelers' Protective Association.

You'll soon see traveling men back on the road, the forerunners of better business and renewed commercial life," he said. "In my round I find truly a feeling of optimism. Railroad car loadings are on the increase. Rail transportation companies are installing fast freights to handle the increased tonnage quickly. Men are going back to work. Aggressiveness and enthusiasm have supplanted pessimism."
