STOCK MARKET REPORTS

First sale at the Ranger Livestock Auction (formerly the Ranger Livestock Commission Co.) checked in 180 head of cattle and one hog, Monday.

Most of the cattle offered Monday were stocker cows and calves, some were good fat butcher cows. The demand was good for fat butcher calves.

The market was very active in all classes.

R. D. Green, new owner, was well pleased. He is looking forward to receiving more local cattle and buyers.

FORT WORTH — Fears expressed in the trade last week that excessive runs of cattle and calves might arrive at points around the major marketing circle proved unfounded Monday. The twelve major markets showed over 14,000 fewer cattle and calves, although Fort Worth had nearly ten percent more.

Trade developed along active lines on most cattle and calves at all points, although the feeder cattle trade was inclined to shy away from heavy weight yearlings and feeder steers unless some concessions in price were accomplished. Stocker cattle and calves suitable for pasture purposes were in broad demand at all points.

At Fort Worth, the stocker trade was very active and again there were both large and small stockmen from all over the Southwest seeking replacement cattle and calves. Cattle and calves were active and fully steady with some sales on calves strong to 50 cents above the low close of last week. Fat steers and heifers were in small supply and sold at firm rates. Cows and bulls were active at strong prices throughout.

Good to choice slaughter steers and yearlings bulked at $24 to $26.50 and medium to lower grades cashed at $18 to $24. Fat cows sold mostly at $18 to $21, a few $18 to $22 in most sales, odd head outside that range.

Good to choice slaughter calves cashed at $24 to $26.75 and a few to $27. Common and medium slaughter calves drew $18 to $23 and culls sold at $16 to $18. Medium and good stocker steer calves ranged from $28 to $33 and common to medium sorts cashed at $20 to $27. Stocker heifer calves ranged downward from $30. Stocker steer yearlings of medium to good grades sold from $20 to $25 and some lightweights drew $26 to $27. A few medium to fairly good stocker cows sold from $18 to $20.

Trade on butcher hogs was 25 cents higher and packer hogs sold 25 to mostly 50 cents higher at Fort Worth Monday. Local suppliers follow the same pattern as the Monday receipts around the major marketing circle and were below expectations.

Top hogs scored $21.25 to $21.50 and medium to good kinds cashed at $20 to $21. Sows sold from $18.50 to $21, as the sausage makers scurried around after the limited supply. A few stags drew $12 to $15. A few pigs sold from $15 to $18. Odd hogs cashed in the $8 to $9 range.

Despite being in negligible supply, packer types of lambs were weak to 50 cents or more lower at Fort Worth Monday. Packers displayed little interest and feeder buyers were active at firm prices. Hence, the bulk of the offerings was sold as replacement lambs.

Stocker sheep found strong prices, quality considered. Slaughter classes of sheep and goats were also firm.

Slaughter lambs were dull and weak to 50 cents or more lower. The trade was lacking an adequate test on fat lambs, as most offerings were mixed fat and feeder lambs and the feeder prices usually outstripped packer offers except on culls.

Medium to good fat lambs drew $18 to $20 and cull to medium lambs drew $12 to $18. Stocker and feeder lambs sold from $19 to $21, a few buck lambs around $16 to $18. Slaughter ewes sold from $7 to $8. Fat goats sold at $7, with light canners at $6 and a few billies at $5. Kid goats sold at $10 to $11.

Solid mouthed stocker ewes sold at $15 to $16 per head and yearlings, two-year-old and three-year-old ewes sold from $18 to $21.

Plans for a state-wide study of the curriculum problems facing the Texas Public Schools will be formulated at 27 regional workshops which will be held in Texas during the last two weeks of September.

Robert Ashworth, Amarillo superintendent and president of the Texas Association of School Administrators, said each workshop will consider procedures for the establishment of local curriculum study groups in every Texas school district.

As co-sponsor with the Texas Education Agency of a project known as "Texas Curriculum Studies," the TASA is organizing groups of teachers and lay citizens to consider the curriculum questions and proposals which will be introduced during the 1938-39 school year by the eleven state curriculum commissions. These commissions were established by the State Board of Education earlier this year and were asked to make a detailed study of the elementary and secondary school curriculum.

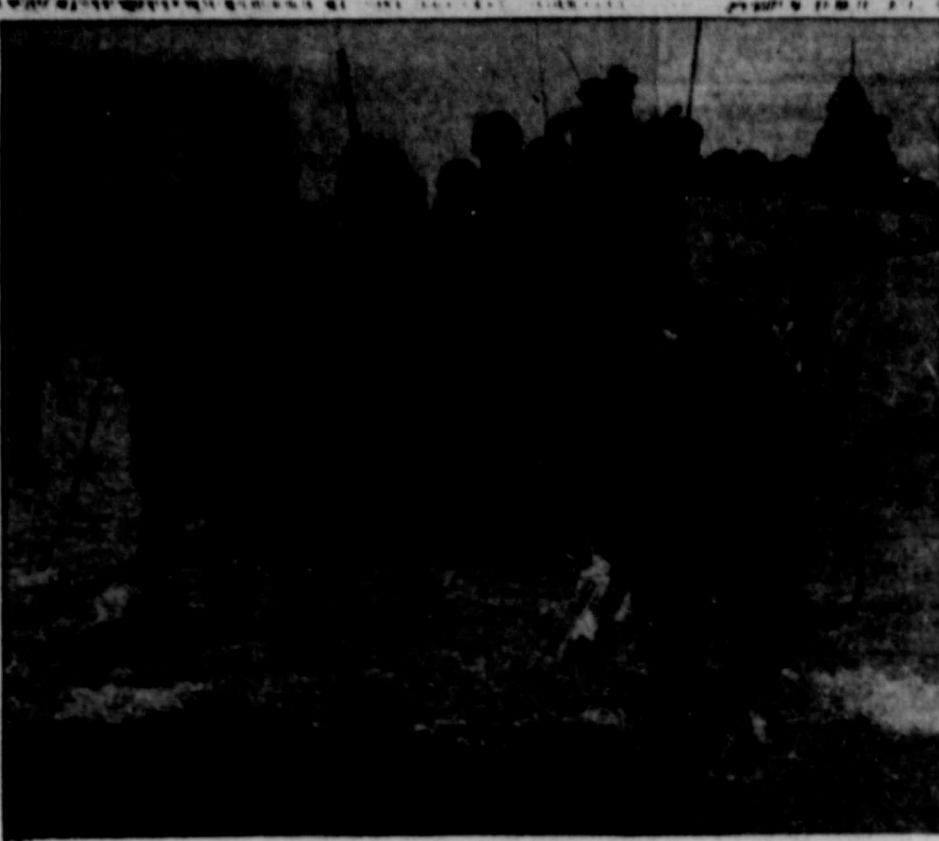

Study groups will view a series of 26 "Curriculum" telecasts which will be presented as a public service by 26 television stations beginning in October. After viewing the television programs and studying the curriculum guides which will be provided for each participant, the local groups will make specific suggestions and recommendations to the state commissions.

Superintendent Ashworth is urging all superintendents to attend the workshops which will be held in the following cities, among others:

Abilene, 10 a. m., Sept. 25
Fort Worth, 10 a. m., Sept. 24
Gatesville, 2 p. m., Sept. 22
Waco, 2:30 p. m., Sept. 22

In school districts needing teachers, the "Curriculum" television series will serve as the basis for a telecourse aimed at recruiting college graduates into the teaching profession. Last year 543 graduates enrolled in a similar 26-week telecourse and more than 400 of them qualified for a teaching permit which made it possible for them to begin teaching before completing their eligibility for a permanent certificate.

Any citizen interested in making suggestions or recommendations concerning the school curriculum is invited to contact his local superintendent or write to Lee Wilborn, Texas Education Agency, Austin, Texas. The Texas Education Agency may also be contacted by any college graduate desiring complete information on the teacher recruitment course offered by television.

Bulldogs—

On the second tally—Joe Curtis, left halfback, ran 26 yards to make the score 12-0. Hart passed to Merlin Maxey, right end, for the extra two points.

The Bulldogs "fizzled out" for the rest of the quarter.

Third Quarter
Following the Eagles' failure to pick up a first down, the Bulldogs took the ball into action and started a long drive down field.

King started it off by running 12 yards, after escaping a bunch of Diamond Hill men behind the line of scrimmage.

The Bulldogs reeked up five first downs, in their drive, and King made a 10-yard run deep into the enemy territory. Two plays later—it was King making an end run from the two-yard line to up the score to 14-6. The pass to Wolford was incomplete on the extra point try.

Again Diamond Hill failed to pick up a first down, and Ranger took the ball near the end of the quarter.

Fourth Quarter
The ball switched hands with Ranger regaining possession of the ball—after the Eagles had gained control but were forced to punt—and another drive was off!

I GIVE YOU TEXAS

By BOYCE HOUSE

On the Capitol grounds in Nashville is the grave of James K. Polk. The inscription makes no mention of the fact that, as President, he added Texas to the United States: "By his public policy he defined, established and extended the boundaries of his country. He planted the laws of the American Union on the shores of the Pacific."

As Polk's death occurred less than four years after Texas became a State, the author of the inscription—not gifted with prophecy—did not foresee that Texas would prove to be an empire in itself; first in cattle, cotton, sulphur and oil.

Polk was a "dark horse" for the Democratic presidential nomination. In fact, the telegraph had just come into use and this news was one of the first—if not the first—items ever sent over the wire; and many people thought it was a hoax.

However, Polk had been governor of Tennessee and speaker of the National House of Representatives; further more, he had, no doubt, the backing of a very influential man, Andrew Jackson, a Tennessean of course.

An elderly lawyer in Weatherford, the late Judge R. B. Howd, a good many years ago told me that his mother lived in Tennessee and, as a girl, carried a banner in a Polk parade, the words having been written in the juice of polkberries.

Polk was 54 when he died in 1849. His wife also is buried there. She was eight years younger and she lived to be 88, dying in 1891. So she outlived her husband by 42 years. To one visitor, the dates suggested a story of long and tragic loneliness.

A statue on the Capitol grounds pays tribute to Sam Davis, who was only 21 years old when he died. The carved words relate that he was a member of a Confederate company of scouts and was in uniform when he was captured. In his possession were papers describing the Union forces and fortifications. He was offered his life if he would reveal who gave him the papers. He answered, "I would die a thousand deaths before I would betray a friend." He was executed.

The monument was erected by donations from every State in the Union.

Roaming—

Have you actually read the Constitution of this country?

It's a concise document that says a lot in a few well-chosen words. Many things can be inferred from those words which were purposely not explicit on many points. And it's up to the Supreme Court to interpret this document as it sees fit.

No matter how sharply the Supreme Court of this nation may be criticized at this moment, history will see the results in a true perspective. We're too close to the trees to see the forest, and often forget it's easier to criticize a group or an individual than it is to do his or their work as well.

Without getting political, I think I can safely say that it is time for us to take pride in our Constitution, the Government and the Court Justices—all the results of democratic principals.

And right now is the time to read a copy of the Constitution to see what it really says. Everyone should have a copy somewhere in his home. It insures freedom of speech, freedom of religion and freedom of press—in the Bill of Rights—as well as life, liberty and the pursuit of happiness.

These are more than words written on a piece of paper. They have real meaning—as many people are only now finding out.

And I believe it'll be a long time before a better document is written.

Happy dove hunting!
